In the field of civic endeavor it is the same thing. We are prone to expect too much of the members of our Council, Board of Education, Public Utilities Commission, Library Board, Board of Health and other civic organizations. Our interest in them is only aroused when we receive our tax bills and assessment slips or are asked to attend a nomination meeting which might perchance develop fireworks. We scan the newspaper headings, perhaps, to see what our civic bodies are doing and go away and forget, and as a result our citizenship is that much poorer. We are not sufficiently loyal to those whom we elect to represent us.

In our service clubs, or fraternal organizations, and in many other local fields, we very often do not render the service we should, and, as a result, much work remains undone or is only half done. If we regard these as our lesser loyalties then we are making a mistake. All this is possible if citizenship and community welfare can never be attained if we are neglectful of those things that are most vital to city and community.

NOTHING IS LOST.

CHICAGO meat packers used to boast that they used every part of the pig except the squeal. In modern English bacon factories they use everything—because there is no squeal, the pig being electrocuted and killed painlessly.

All the eatable parts of the pig that do not become bacon go into sausages, meat pies, brawn, bath chaps, faggots, Chitterlings, polonies, trotters and other tasty morsels and the more English bacon that is eaten, the more we get of these foods, for they are not imported with foreign bacon.

The bacon factory distils benzine from the residue, makes gelatine, bone meal, and dried blood. Even the bristles are used, and there are miraculous machines that sort them by quarter-inch sizes and with all the roots one way. They are made into brushes and upholstery.

To The Editor

PASTEURIZATION OF MILK

Editor Examiner,

Sir: An item of February 1st in our local newspaper, more or less insinuates that pasteurization of milk is for the interests of the city people, who elect the mayor and city council, regardless of farmers' interests, because they pay practically no taxes to the city. It refers to the votes and taxes of our large dairies, even to the wages paid. Many of our raw milk vendors are city residents with their own raw milk dairies supplied with milk procured from inspected country herds just as pasteurised plants are supplied.

If it were such a case of votes and taxes, are not these raw milk dairy owners, their assistants and families paying their just share of taxes? But our mayor, city council and health officer are supposed to be considering the milk problem not from a point of votes and taxes but from a health point.

Should our health officer not be interested also in ruralites, since they must consult city doctors and go to city hospitals when afflicted with disease or sickness? Was it not at Stoney Lake (rural territory) that Dr. Fraser quoted to have diagnosed scarlet fever and septic sore throat caused from an untested herd?

The so called "Interested" states that seventy per cent. of the city people consume pasteurized milk. Suppose we do overlook these probably incorrect figures, well, the other thirty per cent. certainly prefer raw milk in spite of opposition from pasteurized literature published so often in the paper, from the fact the pasteurized and raw milk are placed at the same price. If seventy per cent. of a group failed in a test should the other thirty per cent. be forced to fail in spite of effort?

With reference to your contrast—the old buggy riding and the present automobile riding with the raw milk and the pasteurized milk, we agree that many people prefer automobile riding, but has anyone proven that the new advanced method is more healthy than the old method, and health is supposed to be the problem on hand.

In concluding, "Interested" says, "Let's be fair to one of Canada's foremost industries, the dairy industry." I conclude with asking: Is it fair to the large dairy industry of Canada or for the general health of the community that pasteurization of milk is supposed to be made compulsory? My interpretation of this letter is that pasteurization is to be considered from three points—Taxes, votes and the interests of the large dairy. Does any one of these three promote better health conditions to the public.

ARE THE young people of the present generation going soft physically? Directors of dancing in Hollywood say that they are, and they blame it all on the family car. Recently a director was forced to examine one thousand young girls, in order to select one hundred capable of standing the strain of a dancing act. He says that most young people have "automobile legs," with muscles so soft that they cannot endure even moderate exercise.

(Manchester Sunday Guardian)

SOMEBODY said that it was impossible for a girl to live in London on 30s a week. Somebody replied that thousands of typists and shopgirls were doing it. A woman's magazine trying to discover how the feat was done has found a girl who pays 12s 6d for her bedroom which she lets during the day for 7s 6d. She spends her evenings at the public library, acquiring knowledge that may enable her to earn more money.

Sizeable Gains Are Registered By Mines

TORONTO, Feb. 5 (C.P.).— The mining market registered some sizeable gains in the oils and a few of the golds and base metals to-day but the general tone was a bit ragged and at the close losses outnumbered gains. Paymaster came out in heavy blocks on a drop to 98 cents, but it firmed up a little from that level. The big golds were quiet and price changes were narrow. Dome lost a fraction to 49. In the oils Calgary-Edmonton was the feature on an advance of 45 cents to 4.40 in heavy trading.

Trading Slows Up On Industrial Market

TORONTO, Feb. 5.—(CP)—Prices tapered off this afternoon in the industrial section of the Toronto Exchange and trading slowed up under the show of weakness. Metals, oils, liquors and foods were off while utilities and steels maintained a show of strength. Half-point declines were registered for C.P.R., Consolidated Smelters, Walkers common, International Petroleum and smaller losses were showing at the close for Distillers-Seagrams and Brazilian.

LOCAL COUPLE ARE FIFTY YEARS WED

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Illingworth Celebrate Their Golden Wedding

"One Sunday morning on my way to the Salvation Army Temple in Leeds, England, I dropped into the home of a friend for a few minutes' visit. A girl I had not met before was there and passed me a cup of tea. I married her."

Proudly, Harry, Illingworth of 195 Rubidge street, tells this story, for the wedding was the beginning of fifty years of happy married life. And to-day is the fiftieth anniversary of the wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Illingworth are celebrating quietly at their home.

Mrs. Illingworth was formerly Sarah Ann Scarth and the year of their marriage in Leeds was the year of Queen Victoria's great jubilee. Mr. Illingworth is 70 years of age and his wife is 78 years and both are in fine health.

They spent the early years of their marriage in the Old Country and came to Peterborough in 1920. For a number of years Mr. Illingworth was employed with the Canadian General Electric here.

Both are ardent workers in the Salvation Army and Mr. Illingworth is particularly proud of his record service as an Army collector. In England he was distinguished with an Army award for his service in this regard in 1907 and has also been honored here.

The long-married couple have two daughters Mrs. Cecil Fowler of this city and Mrs. Harriet Clarkson of Leeds, six grandsons and one great-granddaughter.

CANADA BELIEVED KNOCKING AT ERA

anything modern and the architects were not designing it. To-day in the show are a number of exhibits in the modern manner, breaking completely with the traditions of the other great eras of architecture.

Canada has been slow to waken to the new era in architecture which already is well advanced in Europe and many parts of the United States. This has been due partly to the depression which left building in a comatose condition.

But the revolution has taken seed in Canada, Mr. Lyle said. The younger people, particularly are interested in flat-roofed homes which allow for sun-bathing, complete simplicity of form, elimination of meaningless ornament, use of clearer, brighter colors in decoration of rooms, larger window areas, terraces, air conditioning and indirect lighting. They are simply an expression of an impulse toward a freer, more straight-forward life, with all the stuffy conventionalities and formalities eliminated. Also many new fabrics and building materials have been introduced which suggest new designs and forms.

DECLINES GENERAL DURING PAST WEEK IN ALL LIVESTOCK

Losses Ranged From 25 Cents On Cattle To 50 Cents On Hogs And Calves

BUFFALO PRICES LOWER

TORONTO, Feb. 5 (CP)—Heavier runs on all market classes, except hogs, forced general declines on the Toronto Livestock Market this week, the Dominion Livestock Branch reported. Losses ranged from 25 cent on most grades of cattle to 50 cents on calves, hogs, lambs and sheep.

The cattle run was too heavy for requirements and export shipments totalled only a few cars of choice weighty steers and some bulls. Buffalo reported 400 Canadian cattle selling 25 to 50 cents lower on Monday.

Prices opened steady on a draggy cattle market with some 1,400 head unsold at Monday's close. There were still 500 cattle left on Thursday after prices on all steers and heifers had dropped 25 cents with spots still lower.

Weighty steers of medium to good quality sold at $5.25 to $6.50 with choice heavies at $6.75 to $7.25. The opening top of steers was $7.40 for a load weighing 1,350 pounds. Butcher steers closed at $4.50 to $5.75 with some reaching $6. Top heifers were $5.50.

Butcher Cows Steady

Butcher cows held steady at $2.75 to $4 according to quality. Canners and cutters were unchanged at $1.75 to $2.50. Good heavy bulls sold for export at $4.50 but closed with none above $4. Bologna bulls ended the period at $3.25 to $3.75.

Fed calves made an opening top of $8 but eased to $7.50 with mediums downward to $5.50. A few lots of medium to good stockers sold at $4 to $5 cwt. Untested milkers and springers were steady at $65 tops with tested springers as high as $75 each.

Calves slipped down from early steady prices as the export market worked lower. Opening tops were $11 and closing tops mostly $10 though a few brought $10.50. Common light calves traded from $5 to $8 cwt.

Hogs moved lower Monday, selling at $8.10 to $8.25 off trucks for bacons and at $7.75 f.o.b. The market firmed to a general price of $8.25 off trucks and held to the close. Some long hauls and better dressing hogs sold at a premium.

Sheep and lamb supplies included 1,350 from the west. Later sales on both grades were 50 cents down. Good western lambs sold at $9.50 to $9.85 Monday with a top load of $10. Sales for the balance of the week ranged from $9.25 to $9.75 with some culls at $7 to $8. Common to medium Ontario-fed lambs sold from $7 to $9. MILL AT NORHAM IS RUNNING AGAIN

Damage To Dam By Flood Waters Has Been Repaired

(Examiner Correspondence.)

NORHAM, Feb. 5. — Carman Knox has his grist mill in operation again, having been out of business since the mill dam broke through, under pressure of the flood waters about three weeks ago. It was an unlucky break for Mr. Knox, who just purchased the mill property about a year and a half ago, and was closed down for a long time last year while he made extensive repairs to the cement dam and the mill. The damage was done this time when the creek was swollen by rains during the night, and flood waters released at Dawson's Dam above, came down in a raging torrent, tearing out about thirty feet of the dirt bank at the west side of the main dam. The break has been replaced by a substantial cement wall reinforced by clay on both sides. While at work on the repair job, Israel Smith was accidentally injured when the clay bank in which they were digging caved in and he received a severe scalp wound which required medical attention. The clay had been previously loosened by light charges of stumping powder. C. O. Dudley had the contract for the repair job.

THEFT FIGURES INCREASE.

ST. JOHN, N.B. (C.P.). — Value of stolen property in St. John last year was $68,739.14, a large increase over the $41,974.18 in 1935. But thieves fared poorly because the value of property recovered by police last year was $66,157.61, mostly representing automobiles.

Shoes Show Contrast in Trim

By LISBETH

SPRING'S IN THE AIR, and there is a wealth of new footwear in the shops for your consideration.

Here are a few samples of what you will be wearing when there is no more danger of ice and snow, rain and sleet—at least of sleet. They are what is being worn down in the sunny south and the equally sunny southwest, now.

At the top is the Buccaneer in sueded leather, with square toe and heel that makes it so ideal for sportswear. Note the discreet pinking at the throat, and the unusual angle at which the strap is worn.

Interest at Back

Very important at the resorts beforementioned is the sugar white sandal shown below at left. It is shown in patent discreetly stitched with red, yellow and blue stitching. Minus back and toe, it's the new airified version for next summer.

There seems to be an increasing demand for linen accessories, and for linen shoes among them. Natural and near-natural shades are growing nearly as popular as white. There are fine pepper and salt or brown and white mixtures in tweed-like linen; a soft gray and warm, deep yellow darkened by traces of brown are other interesting shades in these weaves which are being ordered by shoe manufacturers.

Trinity Band Hosts to Knox

Junior Missionary Workers Entertain Friends Of Sister Church

A well-attended meeting of the Olive Mission Band of Trinity United Church was held in Reid Street Hall on Wednesday afternoon, when the members had as their guests members of the Mission Band of Knox Church, under the leadership of Miss Inez Barrer.

Helen Thompson, the newly-elected president, was in the chair. A trip around the world was taken by means of lantern slides depicting children of many lands. A letter from Miss Marion Coon, thanking the members for Christmas cards they had collected for her to take to China, was read by Eleanor Gray. Jeanette MacMorran read the One Hundredth Psalm and Betty Dorsett led in the Mission Band prayer.

An interesting story, "Temperance Bess and Robber Alcohol," was read by Isabel Taylor. A vocal quartette by four members of Knox Mission Band, Velma Stuart, Merla Sproule, Joan Alexander and Norma Gardiner, with accompaniment by Gertrude Lancashire, was very much enjoyed. Miss Barrer read a story entitled "The Golden Gloves." The meeting closed with the singing of "When Mothers of Salem."

Just Between Us Women

A Daily Chat With Examiner Neighbors, Conducted by Roberta

LET us distrust all ideas and all systems which discourage us too much. They must be wrong in some essential point. Let us distrust our own thought when it is too pessimistic. Storms at sea are on the surface the great deeps are undisturbed . . . And many a young person over whom the doctors have shaken their heads, has lived to be over three score years and ten.

—R. W. Wright.

Dear Friends:

Do you ever think how your pessimism can hold you back? You may have had severe disappointments, and so you let yourself think there is no good thing in the world. Or you may have read the works of someone which tends to take all humanity and lumps them under the label of insincere, or swindler, or cheat, liar, and double-crosser.

But we are not all like that. It is just like thinking that because we have winter now, we shall never feel the heat of summer, nor see the leaves budding out in spring.

And what does the darned thing do to you? It gives you the feeling of "what's the use?" it stops you when you are taking long strides, and makes you take little uncertain ones. It causes you to slow down in the work you love, or do shoddy stuff, it closes your eyes to all the beauty lying around you.

Now, looking at the other side of the picture, optimism, we see that we are like a child learning to walk, when we come up against the realities of life. The child gets many a bump before it gets its balance, but that does not deter it from keeping on trying.

It wobbles a little, it cannot walk far, it cannot run at all, yet it seems to me that the first bump we get from life, the first few wobbling steps in the right direction makes us feel that we shall never be able to master this business of living at all, and so we sit down in the ruin of all our hopes, and let old Mr. Pessimism have his way with us.

For all we are adults, we let a little child have more courage and perseverance than we have. The child never thinks of failure. It wants to walk because it thinks it would be much better than sitting still. It wants to see all there is to see in the small world around it, but we with the big world to do things in, hesitate, and procrastinate.

Instead of thinking of all the advantages we have, we think more of the disadvantages, we think the other fellow is better equipped than we are, and all the while life is slipping onward to the grave, and how very little we accomplish because of pessimism.

R. W. Wright goes on to say: "The pessimist's conclusions assume too much. He believes there is no sun behind the clouds, that the hurricane will never blow over. He sends out no dove from the ark because he has no faith that the waters will ever abate from the earth. God has never yet run out of rainbows."

And in my own life I can truly say that if you really keep trying, you cannot help but succeed. Don't think that I have never been pessimistic, that I have never thought there was no good thing in the world, but it is too uncomfortable to stay like that, so I get a different view-point as soon as I can struggle up to the surface again.

I have come up gasping like a swimmer who has stayed too long under water and realizes it is time he hit for the shore. And the curious thing is, when you clear your eyes of the waters of despair, you see many more opportunities.

Don't you like the concluding sentence of that quotation? "God has never yet run out of rainbows." But if you keep your eyes down you cannot see them. So, come on. Don't let a little child beat you. Tell old pessimism to go about his business, and reach out for what you want most in life. Troubles may come, but they cannot stay at flood tide all the time, so try moving to higher ground.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

Life and Work Homer Watson

One Of The Dominion's Great Artists Was Practically Self-Taught

Homer Watson, who was one of the greatest of native-born Canadian painters, and who died last May at his home place in Doon, at ripe old age of eighty-one, was practically self-taught. The art of other great painters may have influenced his work to some extent, but it was his own persistence in his chosen avocation, right from the age of five, when he first commenced to draw, that led him finally to a self-mastery of the art of painting.

So Ross Hamilton of Toronto assured his listeners at the Y.W.C.A. on Thursday evening, at a meeting held under auspices of the Lyceum Club and Women's Art Association, in the green room, where a liberal display of the Watson paintings has been on view all this week.

The exhibit is for commercial purposes and the pictures are for sale. As explained by Mr. Hamilton, Prime Minister Mackenzie King has promised Governmental support in turning the old Watson studio at Doon into a public art gallery, to serve as a memorial to Homer Watson, if the committee which is interesting itself in the project can raise enough money for the purpose. At present, there is only one claim on the late Mr. Watson's estate, and that is by his aged sister, Miss Phoebe Watson.

Doon, as described by Mr. Hamilton, is "a straggling little hamlet on the banks of the Grand River, in Waterloo County." Here, in 1855, Homer Watson was born and his passionate love for the Doon country led him to immortalise it in his paintings, many of which have for subjects the old mills, the old places, the old trees, of his birthplace.

Unconsciously, Homer Watson's work resembled for many years the work of John Constable, and, perhaps unconsciously also, it drew some of its softer phases from the Barbizon School of artists that flourished in the Forest of Fontainebleu, with Jean Francois Millet as the head. In the third and last period of Mr. Watson's work, Mr. Hamilton remarked on traces of a modern influence. It is in these samples of his art that heavy palette-knife modes of applying paint are noticeable, with less meticulous attention to detail than is apparent in his earlier work.

The Cow's Tail

Watson's first commission was from the village storekeeper at Doon, who offered him the sum of fifteen dollars and a box of coveted colors, in return for a portrait of his wife. Mr. Watson, it is said, cut off the cow's tail for use as a brush, and applied house paint to the canvas, which satisfied his patron.

In 1880, the Marquis of Lorne and his wife, the Princess Louise, came to Canada to assume vice-regal duties at Ottawa. The latter, besides being interested in art, was also a sculptress, and soon the Royal Canadian Academy of Art was founded, at which a first prize of $500 was bestowed on Mr. Watson for a picture of his grandfather's mill. Later, further honors were accorded him, when Queen Victoria purchased two of his paintings and Oscar Wilde invited him to come to London, where he met many of the notables of the day.

In 1904, the Chicago World's Fair awarded him a gold medal, asking him at the same time for $50 to cover the cost of the gold. This he refused, so they sent the medal anyway. And the Louisiana Purchase Exposition followed with a bronze medal award for his pictures.

In 1907, Homer Watson became the first president of the Canadian Art Club, when a group of painters seceded from the Academy. This position he held, with one year's exception, during the lifetime of the club.

Mr. Watson, although regarding the Group of Seven as the reverse of sound painters, with no agreement with their technique nor outlook, still admitted them to the Academy under his presidency, thinking that they might better themselves under such auspices.

In 1930, at an advanced age, he held an important place in the Jubilee Exhibition of sixty important canvases held at Toronto.

Mr. Hamilton went on to point out how the art of Homer Watson adheres to the three basic principles which make a picture great: the idea; the composition; the technique. He mentioned also that a biography of Mr. Watson is now being prepared by Miss Muriel Miller, who is taking her Doctor of Philosophy degree at the University of Toronto, and whose work will be off the press in September.

A pleasing tribute written about the late Mr. Watson referred to his gentleness and distinction, his keen direct gaze, his humour and kindliness, and ended with: "He is as sturdy as one of his great oaks and as whimsical as the little breeze which stirs its foliage."

"THE ACCUSING FINGER"

Jimmy Ellis is on his way to the electric chair. He was drunk and he killed a man, so they sentenced him to die. And Jimmy goes wild and climbs to the iron rafters, there to gibber down on the men below. . . . And, watching him from behind bars, with a death sentence hanging over his head, is the prosecuting attorney who helped to send him there. . .

For, by a strange twist of Fate, the man whose skill had sent so many criminals along a one-way road, "Hot Spot" Goodwin, as they called him, went the same road himself, down the path to the stone building where men die for their crimes.

That's the theme of the "accusing finger" that points directly to Goodwin when his estranged wife lies dying at his feet. It has been arranged very cleverly and plausibly, this tale, and it provides some intensely dramatic episodes in its filming.

This yarn's flair for bringing back to the screen former favorites who were claimed by obscurity in the past decade, gives Harry Carey one of the roles in this picture, in which he plays the part of the Senator who works so hard to put through a bill against capital punishment. The story is interesting and holding, from start to finish.

The short reels provide plenty of entertainment in the way of dancing and singing, by a group of college girls training for an amateur production, and rehearsing under the eye of lady scouts from Hollywood.—C.L.M.

Mendelssohn Choir Founder Is Honored

TORONTO Feb. 5—To perpetuate the memory of the late Dr. Augustus Stephen Vogt, Director of the Toronto Conservatory of Music and founder of the Toronto Mendelssohn Choir, which is coming to Peterborough next month, a new organization has just been formed to encourage creative musical art in Canada, and assisting in the publication and performance of works by Canadian composers.

Under the name of the Vogt Society, it was announced last night, the new organization also intends to offer a yearly scholarship in his memory at the Toronto Conservatory of Music.

The movement, originally started by a group of former students of the Residence of the Conservatory, has been expanded to include all Canadian men and women, who have, as pupils, as members of his choir, or by general musical interest, profited by the genius of the late Dr. Vogt.

PACIFIC DOCKMEN END 98-DAY STRIKE

40,000 Men Start Back To 239 Ships—Walkout Cost $686,000,000

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 15.—(AP).—The 98 day Pacific Coast strike of seamen and Longshoremen that cost an estimated $686000,000 and paralyzed United States' sea-borne commerce d isolved to-da yinto a rush back to work by the 40,000 strikers who tied up 239 ships.

Disputes involving waterfront workers remained unsettled at two ports, but signing of new contracts last night by ship owners and the seven striking unions closed the labor dispute.

Ship owners vied with each other to get the first vessels underway. Longshoremen and seamen besieged hiring headquarters for a[illegible] jobs. Merchants com[illegible]plained of delay in obtaining strike-[illegible] or booking space for [illegible]e line invoked a [illegible]le" to accommodate [illegible] passenger accommoda[illegible].

The strikers themselves ended the walkout by an overwhelming vote and except in one instance, accepted negotiated agreements. These generally provide higher wages; Union control of hiring Longshoremen and unlicensed seamen; the eight-hour day or less, and adjusted working conditions. Licensed officers and engineers got wage increases and Union recogition.

LOST HIS LOAD OF WOOD

Farmer Dumps Part of Load on Tracks—Train Hits It.

MORRISBURG, Ont., Feb. 5 (CP)—It may take James Robinson some time to gather all the wood he lost yesterday, but he probably won't lose any more the same way.

Robinson's sleigh became stuck yesterday on the main line of the Canadian National Railways. He unloaded it rapidly, leaving about a cord of wood on the track, and drove it to safety.

But along came a Toronto-bound express and away went Robinson's load of wood before he got a chance to move it off the track.

DURHAM COUNTY SHORT COURSE WELL ATTENDED

More Than 150 Attend The Closing Banquet In Millbrook

TROPHIES ARE EXHIBITED

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Feb. 5.—The spacious rooms of the Sunday School hall of St. Andrew's United Church was the scene of an interesting meeting Friday evening when members of the short course accompanied by parents, friends and other guests numbering more than one hundred and fifty partook of a bounteous supper, the closing event of the twenty-sixth annual short course in Agriculture and the fourteenth annual in Home Economics conducted by the Durham County Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture under the supervision of E. A. Summers, B.S.A., Agricultural Representative, Bowmanville assisted by H. Sirett, B.S.A. Brighton, Miss M. E. Clarke, Port Nelson, Miss L. M. Ross, Toronto.

Mr. Summers was the efficient toastmaster and also led in the community singing assisted by Miss Mary Burnham, piano accompanist, Miss Ruth Thorndyke, guest soloist rendered "Rainbow on the River" accompanied at the piano by W. Edworthy.

The toast to the King was proposed by Mr. Summers and Gordon Fallis proposed the toast to "Our Country" which was responded to by W. J. Bragg, M.P.P., Bowmanville, W. T. Rickard, M.P., Newcastle, Reeve W. Arthur Wood, Cavan, Reeve P. Stinson, Millbrook and Deputy Reeve T. Garnet Shields, Cavan gave response to the toast to "Our Guests" voiced by Miss Anna Rowland.

Miss Ethel Belch returned the compliment in a toast to the Agricultural Class which was responded to by Stanford Brown, Joe Armstrong and Allan Dawson.

A toast to the ladies was voiced by Eric Fallis and responded to by Mrs. Garnet Shields.

Other speakers during the evening included the instructresses Misses L. M. Ross and M. E. Clarke, Mrs. P. I. Bentley, president of the W.A., A. H. Martin, B.S.A., Agricultural Representative, Brighton and, Lloyd Metcalfe, Bowmanville, who gave a brief synopsis of the achievements of former members of short courses who in this way became interested in the study of various sections of the agricultural developments and have since brought honors to their counties in the winning of numerous awards. He also displayed cups or silver trophies namely, The Provincial Trophy donated for the judging of seeds at Guelph Winter Fair. Later the same team Carl Nicholls, Port Hope and Max Walker, Canton achieved the Dominion championship at the Royal Winter Fair, Toronto. Messrs. Walker and Nicholls who were among the guests acknowledged the rounds of applause as also did Lloyd Metcalfe and Wes. Werry, Bowmanville, winners of the judging of dairy cattle at Guelph and again at Toronto. Also present were Messrs. Fred Martin and Stewart Hogarth, Hampton, winners in the grain judging championship at Guelph. This trophy having now been won by Durham county for the past two years, the speaker challenged the present class to win again in 1937 and make the cup a permanent possession of Durham county.

LAPOINTE OPPOSED SAYS QUEBEC WILL SUPPORT DEFENCE

to it that we shall be able to defend the women and children of our country should these madmen, in a moment of insane impulse, try to attack us.

"The duties of a public man are difficult and they must be discharged. If I believe that there is some possibility of danger, and everybody says there is, I will accept my responsibility.

"I will not trust to the impassioned speeches of my friend (Mr. Woodsworth) nor to the misrepresentations of any section of the press whether in my own province or elsewhere. I do my duty as my conscience bids me. I do my duty because I should not want to be accused at any time of not having done something to prevent the death of any Canadian woman or child. That is the position I take and by it I stand and I shall not [illegible]."

Today was the last Thursday of the session to be devoted to private members resolutions and Mr. Woodsworth's proposition brought forth a variety of opinions on war and peace from members. The proposition Canadians should not be permitted to make profits from war met with some support but there was little endoresation for the clause that Canada should remain always neutral. The third clause that Canada should take steps to remove the causes of war was regarded by some a pious expression but Mr. Lapointe said it represented the view of the government.

Leslie Mutch (Lib. Winnipeg South) was in favor of taking the profits out of war but regarded permanent neutrality as impossible.

Wants Real Army.

C. E. Johnston (S.C., Bow River) believed Canada should have the best army, the best navy, and the best air force in the world in order to ward off attacks, but was opposed to participation in wars aboroad. By a proper use of the national credit Canada could build up an adequate defence force and provide employment at the same time.

J. A. Marshall (S.C.-Camrose) wondered what Canada would do if some day Japan and United States decided to "snoot it out in the Pacific" and one or the other decides to establish a base of operations in Canada. It was a problem that had to be faced. He would support that part of the resolution designed to "smash munitions rings" and to eliminate war profiteers.

Mr. Lapointe said the resolution was important and while it was impossible for him to support it he believed it had served a useful purpose in bringing to the forefront one of the most serious problems facing the world. A new war might bring about a cataclysm that would end civilization.

It was all very well to talk of neutrality, Mr. Lapointe said, but the nations of the world had been bound so closely together by science that the fate of one was associated with the fate of the other.

"I hate war with every fibre in my being," Mr. Lapointe declared. "I would do anything to prevent war, but it takes two to make peace. Even as a war would be general, peace must be general."

Wants Canada Prepared

L. P. A. Robichaud (Lib. Kent) said he would vote against the resolution because he felt it would defeat its own purpose. He was opposed to Canada taking part in any future war but felt if the House passed the resolution the public would be lulled into a sense of security and would not be prepared for a crisis. It would be taken for granted Canada would always be neutral and the people interested in keeping Canada out of war would not be sufficiently alert to do so.

The Woodsworth motion was "either futile or abominable," said Hon. Fernand Rinfret, Secretary of State. He was opposed to it because of its "utter futility under the appearance of great importance." It was impossible to bind even the next session of parliament to neutrality by passing a resolution let alone bind future parliaments.

It would require extraordinary circumstances to convince him that Canada should take part in a European war, said Mr. Rinfret, but a declaration of neutrality by one country was of no use unless other countries took the same attitude.

If some European or Asiatic power sent an expeditionary force to Canada it would not suffice for Mr. Woodsworth "to stand on the wharf at Halifax or Vancouver and wave his resolution." If airplanes were flying over Canadian territory Canada might declare its neutrality but when the aviators started to shoot Canada would cease to be neutral.

By adopting the resolution Canada would be saying to Great Britain and the other nations of the empire, no matter what their sufferings might be, no matter if they were faced with annihilation and destruction Canada would not lift a hand to help them.

Too Good A Britisher

"I am too good a British to hold language like that in this House," declared Mr. Rinfret.

There appeared to be a motive behind the resolution, he said, though he would not attribute one to Mr. Woodsworth. It was calculated to enable certain people to appeal to a class of people they could not possibly reach otherwise. It might enable Socialists to win the support of people who had no use for Socialism but entertained anti-war views. In this sense the resolution was "abominable."

Mr. Woodsworth, closing the debate, objected to Mr. Rinfret's terming the discussion "academic." If the prospect of war was so remote, why was the government proposing such an increase in defence expenditures?

Mr. Lapointe's speech, he claimed, was not so much a discussion of the resolution as it was a support of the government's defence estimates.

He denied Mr. Lapointe's suggestion that he had ambitions to lead the French Canadians. But if Mr. Lapointe continued in his present strain, he would not long be their leader.

"In the last war, I was one of those who opposed conscription," he declared. "Sir Wilfrid Laurier opposed conscription. That alone, I think, gives me the right to appeal to French Canadians. If the leaders of this House prefer to go back on the position of Sir Wilfrid—."

"No, no." Several members shouted.

"If we have war, conscription is inevitable."

"No, no," they shouted again.

"I had hoped that French Canadians consistent with their opposition to conscription, would oppose an increase in armaments, just as I was trying to do for the west," Mr. Woodsworth said.

He accused the Minister of Justice of using such phrases "as had been used in 1914 to whip up public opinion to war fever."

He warned that the Government's plans would not only cause heavy increase in taxation but provided "absolutely no hope of security."

Certain people in Canada had made criminal profits out of the last war and had never been dealt with, said Mr. Woodsworth. It was time to take steps to make that impossible and so contribute to prevention of war.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King had said munitions manufacturers would not produce for charity and yet he opposed the nationalization of the industry Mr. Woodsworth said.

"Let there be no mistake about it," he said, "armaments mean war."

FIND SUSPECT STRANGLED.

AUBURN, Wash., Feb. 5 (AP).—John F. Johnson, 40, held since Friday for investigation in connection with the Charles Matteon kidnap-slaying, was found strangled to death in his city jail cell to-day.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery was recommended and before long my appetite came back, my system was in good order and I felt well and strong again." Druggists everywhere.

RETIRED FIREMAN GOING TO COLLEGE

Freshman At Fordham Takes Course To Keep Young At Sixty

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (C.P.). — A retired member of the New York Fire Department has completed his first year of studies at Fordham College. The student is 54-year-old Charles Tuttle, who in the six years since he left the department has steadily devoted himself to the pursuit of learning.

Enthusiastic over his academic progress, Tuttle now contemplates advanced studies in social service at Fordham with a view to aiding the misguided children of the city in later years.

"When people get into their late 50s and 60s and have an income and lots of time on their hands, they lose all perspective of what life has to offer," he said. "It is accepted that you are 'getting old' at 60 and should take it easy. The result is mental staleness. Associating yourself with youth is the greatest cure-all I know of. My wife says I look 15 years younger since I've been going to school."

Child Fatally Scalded

KITCHENER — Lodie, two-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Zobira, Kitchener, is dead from scalds suffered while she was being bathed by her mother. The scalding occurred when the four-year-old son tipped over a pitcher of hot water standing beside the bathing basin.

Butt Caused Traffic Jam

TORONTO — A cigarette butt caused a traffic jam in Toronto today. The butt was dropped through the flooring of a downtown small building and the alarm brought out all downtown fire apparatus. Persons on their way to business deserted blocked street cars and walked. Property damage was about $15.

EMPLOYABLE MEN UNDER 40 YEARS MUST FIND WORK

April 1 Is Set As Deadline By The Peterborough Relief Committee

SKILLED MEN SCARCE

Employable men under forty years of age who are receiving relief are to be notified that they must endeavor to obtain work by April 1, and after that date the assistance they receive from the city will be reconsidered.

In the employable category at present there are 189 married men and 12 single men, Alderman Dutton reported to the Relief Committee on Thursday night.

"I have in mind our experience last October when we called in men who had been getting relief for long periods, some of them for two hundred weeks, and strongly urged them to make a special effort to help themselves," Ald. Dutton recalled. "Some of those men did succeed in finding employment. I believe that men are coming into the city from the country and elsewhere, looking for jobs. I had three of them call this week, and my advice to them was to get back as quickly as they could. But these men are likely to pick up the available work while our employable men on relief are sitting at home. We think they are penalizing themselves by not making a greater effort to shift for themselves, especially when the spring season opens. They get out of work and on relief and things go on like a stream with scarcely a ripple on it. And other citizens who have to adjust themselves to the vagaries of employment have to help keep them. Some of the men who are in the employable class develop a feeling from disappointments that there is no work for them, but in the meantime others who keep looking for jobs are gradually finding them.

Skilled Men Scarce.

If they are skilled men, any of them, they should not have any difficulty in finding work, because the factories want skilled men and can't get them. We don't want to be harsh with the men on relief. It is our hope that they will determine to shift about for themselves. With two months ahead of them they will have ample time to look about."

The notices to the 181 men will be sent out at once in accordance with the unanimous decision of the committee. The members present were Alderman Dutton presiding, Aldermen Juby, Hamilton, McIntyre, Glover, Wilson, Sloan, and Mayor Macdonald.

The analysis of employable and unemployable persons on relief at the end of January as reported by Alderman Dutton enumerated 542 who are listed as able to work and 122 who are unemployables. These people are divided into three groups, heads of families 349, single men and women 65, and dependent men and women 128; with 92 heads of families unemployable, and 16 single men and 14 single women. MEETS MISTRESS DAILY.

Moose, the big shaggy Newfoundland dog owned by Gus White, has developed a new routine and is as regular as clockwork.

Employees at the office of the Canadian General Electric Company were surprised three weeks ago when they noticed the big dog arrive twice daily, shortly before 12 and again before 4.30, and rests outside the office door.

He had learned where Jean White, his owner's daughter, was employed, and trotted down each day to accompany her home.

JUDGE DISMISSES POLLOCK ACTION

Case Arose Out Of An Automobile Accident In Trent River

Judge Sheldon Smoke, in lengthy reasons for judgment on Thursday dismissed an action brought by Mrs. H. H. Pollock of Trent River against John C. Bateson of Peterborough. The action was tried on January 25 last at a special sittings of the County Court. The case arose out of injuries alleged to have been received by the plaintiff, who is an elderly woman, while walking on the Provincial Highway running through Trent River, early in the evening of December 7, 1935, when she was struck by a motor car owned and driven by the defendant. The evidence showed that it had been raining and that the Highway was icy at the time. The plaintiff sued for $500 and the action was dismissed with costs. Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., acted for the plaintiff and A. L. Elliott for the defendant.

FINES AND COSTS.

During the year 1936 police court fines and costs collected amounted to $2,260.20. During the same period the local department made 11 arrests for outside police departments, and served over 225 summonses and subpoenas to witnesses.

THE PENNY BANK.

Latest figures in connection with the Penny Bank show that thirty-four per cent of the pupils in the Norwood Public School make regular deposits and that at the end of 1936 they had a total of $395.24 on deposit.

JANUARY RELIEF LOWER.

Cost of relief per person in the city for January was $6.51 as compared with $7.50 for the corresponding month in 1936. A. G. Metheral, relief officer, said the decline was largely due to the milder weather.

AT THE EMPRESS.

Among those registered at the Empress Hotel are M. Gilbert and F. Graham of Montreal, the latter being connected with the Brinton Company and A. A. Belanger of Ottawa.

CAR BLOCKS RELIEF.

No relief will be granted a man who divorced his wife and remarried a woman who is earning $5.00 a week and drives a car, the relief committee decided last night. The mention of the car closed the channel of relief.

FOR WOMEN ONLY.

Quite a sprinkling of fur coats in the crowd of women that reached from the Capitol to the Customs House, four abreast, for this afternoon's Kirma program. It was then only 2 o'clock, with half an hour to go before the first picture started.

SETTLEMENT MADE.

It was announced this (Friday) morning that T. N. Phelan, K.C., and the Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., as counsel for the parties concerned, reached a settlement and that documents were executed to-day by which Miss Kathleen Corley, plaintiff, receives compensation in her claim for damages against The Robert Simpson Company. Terms of settlement were not disclosed.

TO VISIT CITY.

Early in April, it is announced members of the local Salvation Army Corps are to welcome two distinguished visitors here in the persons of General Edward Higgins (retired) and Mrs. Higgins. General Higgins is succeeded in the command of the Salvation Army throughout the world by General Evangeline Booth. It will be the first visit to Peterborough of the former commander and his wife, and plans are to be made for a fitting reception.

EXECUTIVE TO MEET.

An executive meeting of Peterborough Fish and Game Association is to be held at Empress Hotel on Saturday evening for the purpose of arranging for a deputation to the annual meeting of the Ontario Anglers' Federation in Toronto on Thursday next. It is learned also that plans in connection with the essay contest among school children of the city and district sponsored by the Association, are to be discussed.

SCHOOL TAX DIVERSION.

Hepburn Government school assessment amendment will divert approximately $7,000 of taxes to Separate Schools of the city, according to preliminary intimations at the City Hall on Thursday night. Assessment for Public School purposes is $360,000 less than for last year, when the Public School rate was 8.20 mills. Members of the Council wondered whether the Board of Education had reckoned this change in their estimates.

RESIGNS HIS POST.

The many friends here of Francis Sutton, Mus. Bac. who formerly was organist of the Murray St. Baptist church here will be interested in learning that he has resigned his post as organist and choirmaster of Trinity United Church in Bowmanville and will be organist of the Bardale United Church in Toronto. He will continue to carry on his duties as supervisor of music in the Bowmanville High and Public Schools.

POLICEMEN ARE ILL.

Influenza is interfering with the duties of police officers this week. Chief of Police Samuel Newnhall, Constable Gordon Puffer and Constable Joe Wheeler of the city force and Provincial Constable David Silvester are all confined to their beds with the malady, while V. J. McElderry, K.C., County Crown Attorney, was unable to attend the sittings of the Supreme Court because of illness.

GARDENING SCHEME.

An A. B. Cunningham plan to use the property adjoining the sewage disposal plant for a modified gardening scheme to give employment to men on relief who are past sixty may be applied to some other location, but for this year W. Bromwell remains caretaker. As a consideration for the use of the property Mr. Bromwell gave 933 quarts of milk to St. Vincent's Orphanage and 1,296 quarts for relief purposes. Pasteurized milk is used at the Children's Shelter.

TO URGE HATCHERY.

On Monday next a local deputation will journey up to Queen's Park to interview heads of the Ontario Game and Fisheries Department to urge upon them the need of establishing fish hatcheries in this district. The deputation will be representative of the city and county. It is probable that the Peterborough Fish and Game Association will be represented by E. A. Outram, secretary, and that the City Council will be represented by Alderman James Dutton, G. N. Gordon, K.C., R. M. Glover, and James Juby.

NOT UP TO ALDERMEN.

"I don't think that laymen of the City Council should have to decide what treatment a child needs. It seems to me to be a matter that requires the decision of a doctor," said Mayor Macdonald as the Relief Committee on Thursday night considered a letter from Alderman Gordon regarding a child suffering with curvature of the spine. The committee's action on Mayor Macdonald's motion, seconded by Alderman Glover was that Alderman Gordon be notified that the family physician, if he deems it necessary, have the girl sent to the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto, as other doctors do.

FROST DAMAGES CITRUS INDUSTRY

Prices Increased In Peterboro Since The First Of The Year

"The market is very unsettled. It is not definitely known yet what damage has been wrought in the citrus fruit industry of California," declared a prominent local wholesaler here in commenting on the havoc caused by severe weather conditions there. It is the opinion of the trade that prices will rise further in response to California weather conditions and will likely go into effect almost immediately.

Oranges which showed a slight price rise at the first of the year, have jumped from $3.50 to $6.50 and $7 a case. An additional price leap is predicted on future purchases. Wholesale prices for a case of California lemons has been $7 to $7.50 since the first of the year. Grapefruit is quoted at $4 to $4.25 a case locally, while Mexican tomatoes are $3.50 to $4.

The Rambling REPORTERS

JUMPING DANDRUFF.

"Mother, did you ever hear tell of jumping dandruff?" asked the little daughter of a prominent local family on returning from school the other day.

"Don't be silly, child," replied the mother.

"Well, I've got some," said the child.

And a hasty inspection of her hair revealed she did have some. A very short clip and coal oil treatments were required before the jumping dandruff was stilled. —C.P.K.

CITY OWNS MARKET SQUARE

Several recent conversations regarding the ownership of the market property expressed an opinion that vaguely credited some share to the county. Reference to E. A. Peck for information brought the suggestion that an old patent was on file in the city hall vault, and City Clerk Armstrong showed it to the Examiner today.

By this patent dated May 18, 1850, the thirteenth year of the reign of Queen Victoria, the entire block bounded by George, Simcoe, Water and Charlotte streets was given to the Crown "to the town corporation of the town of Peterborough and their successors in office forever."—T.

DOUBTING THOMASES

Two young men in the north end of the city must come from the orgininal family of the Missouri Doubting Thomas. Thursday morning they arose at 4 a.m. and went downtown to look into the show window of a certain furniture store on Charlotte street. They had read that the young lady who had been entranced by the mistic Kirma was to be left sleeping in a bed in the show window throughout the night.

Peering in through the plate-glass, their suspicions vanished. There was the girl, still entranced and still in the bed. Knocking and rattling the window glass, they failed to waken her, so returned to their homes.—C.P.K.

AWAY FOR THE WINTER

Buttercup is spending the winter at her former home in the country. This may not arouse much excitement in the average breast, but it means a lot to Buttercup. She is a very cute little striped kitten that took the place of a hardy, old black and white cat that used to do battle with dogs and mice in and around the vicinity of the old Examiner building on George street. She was presented to the Edwards' Butcher Shop by a kind-hearted lady from the country (and any lady must be kind-hearted who will name a striped tiger pussy Buttercup). But the donor was not satisfied with living conditions for her erstwhile pet, during the winter season. She had plenty of meat, it is true, and the odd saucer of milk. But she had to battle along with lonely weekends when the shop was closed and she was immured in basement fastnesses. So Buttercup went back home for the winter and now enjoys a friendly fireside and a warm bed and plenty of petting, until summer time rolls around once more.—C.L.M.

ACTION IS DISMISSED

Judge Smoke Dismisses Action Against Humane Society Inspector.

Ruling that the burden of proof was on the plaintiff, His Honor Judge Sheldon L. Smoke this (Friday) morning dismissed an action in First Division Court without calling upon the defence.

Plaintiff was J. Deremeau, 76-year-old resident of Douro township who sought to claim fifty dollars damages from Thomas Johnston, V.S., inspector for the local branch of the Royal Humaine Society.

The claim was in respect to four fox terriers, four bulldogs and two Scotch collies which the aged plaintiff valued at five dollars each, and which he alleged had been destroyed in April 1934 by the defendant without permission.

THAWING OUT PIPES.

Fire Chief George Gimblett today repeated warnings against the use of torches or open flames of any kind in thawing out frozen pipes as the result of the blaze in a Downie Street tenement last evening. Use of torches is highly dangerous and unnecessary, he stated. Rags soaked in hot water will thaw pipes effectively and with no danger, he said. He warned also against the practice of using gasoline for cleaning purposes in homes, referring to a blaze which might have resulted seriously at the home of Dr. S. Y. Wasn on Margaret Avenue. Friction set afire gasoline which was being applied to the floor, and only the quick action of tenants in smothering the blaze saved the house.

And Were the Camermen Green

Arriving in Washington, D.C., from the west coast, Jean Harlow is "officially" welcomed to the capital by Senator Robert Reynolds of North Carolina who plays the role of a dashing gentleman of the south with a kiss, smack on the lips. The blonde screen star apparently enjoyed her welcome—and the camera laddies turned green with envy when they were ruled off the welcoming committee.

TENEMENT HOUSE DAMAGED BY FIRE

Torch Being Used To Thaw Out Frozen Pipe Set Fire To Partition

Five hundred dollars damage was caused by a fire which broke out in a Downie street tenement early Thursday evening. Attempts by residents at 413 Downie street, one of the homes in the tenement, to thaw out frozen pipes with a flaming paper torch caused the blaze.

The fire started inside a partition and raced up to the tenement attic. Before firemen checked it, it spread to the next-door residence, No. 415, which is unoccupied. Difficulty was experienced by firemen in getting into the attic as the only access was through a hole measuring less than three feet square but danger to the rest of the tenement was eliminated after a fifteen-minute fight.

One water line and a chemical line were brought into play. No. 413 is occupied down-stairs by Mrs. James Brennan and by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hillier up-stairs.

A DAY OF what is known to astrologers as "mixed influences" is forecast from the lunar aspects. While employment, general business conditions, new projects and finance are under a fairly propitious sway, yet there may be some stubborn obstacles, delays or impediments to contend with. Also there are signs of treachery, duplicity and subtle undercurrents to be disposed of. Make changes carefully and safeguard the domestic circle from anxieties or grief.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year of some contradictions or conflicts. While business, employment, new undertakings and money may progress and prosper, yet there are signs of adverse conditions.

FUEL DEALERS ASK TO HANDLE RELIEF WOOD

Suggest That Relief Wood Be placed On Voucher System

PRICES ARE QUOTED

A deputation of retail fuel dealers requested the relief committee of the Council Thursday night to transfer to them the relief wood business on the voucher system instead of contracting for annual supplies to be delivered from a municipal piling yard. They quoted a price of $7 a cord for No. 2 hardwood, the same quality the city has been purchasing.

The members of the deputation, accompanied by Alex. L. Elliott, were: J. E. Gregson, H. T. Rehill, J. C. Thompson, Tom Pratt, William Tinker, H. R. Scott, W. E. Taylor, F. J. Overend, and Reg. H. Turner.

"We have not come here in a critical frame of mind," Mr. Scott said. "When, as ratepayers, we speak of the administration of relief in Peterborough, we are proud to point out that it has been very capably managed and without any evidence of the graft that has been reported in some other places. We are suggesting that the council adopt the open voucher system which would enable the recipients of relief to shop around among the dealers for the best quality they could get at the agreed price. That offers an element of competition, because we are all looking for business. You would not be obligated for any fixed quantity, if you have a carry-over from this winter. We suggest that the conditions proposed a year ago when we appeared before you that not more than 10 per cent. of the wood had to be cut, and also that it be delivered at the nearest point to a shed door or basement window."

Mr. Scott said that he and the Peterborough Lumber Company would have 3,000 cords of summer wood which they would sell to the city at $5 a cord, delivered in half cord lots at $2.50 the load. This wood consisted of slabs, edgings and so on.

Details of Price

"You bought your last wood from us at $5.40 a cord," Mr. Scott said, referring to the order his company had received last year. "Add 33 cents for interest, because we have to pay 6 per cent., and 50 cents for delivery, and that comes to $6.73 a cord, leaving a margin of 27 cents for overhead expenses and profit to make the price of $7. I think you will agree that is a small enough margin."

Mr. Scott said his company last year had paid workmen's compensation on $25,000, indicating the wage bill.

Mr. Gregson said the dealers would supply wood of a quality equal to that purchased last year, and would assume the entire cost of delivery, after the city's present supply runs out. The hardwood at $7 a cord would be delivered in half cord lots. "We feel that as fuel dealers we should not be discriminated against. The council doesn't go into the grocery business or the boot business for its relief needs."

From Licensed Dealers

The business should be distributed between the licensed dealers who paid business tax in 1935 and 1936, Mr. Gregson said. "We say that, because we don't think the orders should be given to outside truckers."

Mr. Overend briefly pointed out that the Scott and Peterborough lumber companies employed fifty men in the cutting of slabs, and this business had been handled to the local yards for the last three years. "We think the city should buy 'manufactured in Peterborough' wood."

With the open voucher system, Mr. Turner said, people on relief could place their orders where they liked, thereby eliminating any doubt about quality because the dealers individually would have to bid with quality for the relief business.

Meat Dealers, Too

A letter from a group of meat dealers asked for a larger share of the relief meat business. A. G. Metheral, relief officer, explained that most persons on relief placed their meat orders through their grocers. If the grocer did not sell meat, he bought it from some shop.

"We used to issue separate meat vouchers," Ald. Dutton said, "but gradually the people got away from that as a matter of convenience to themselves, I suppose."

Members of the committee expressed a wish to assist the meat merchants, if it were possible; but the only method that seemed practical was for Mr. Metheral to suggest that meat orders be placed with men who were solely in that business. It was decided to leave the problem to Mr. Metheral to handle in the best way he could devise.

OUTBOARD CREW LOST IN LAKEFIELD

Peterborough Outfit Beaten 8 To 4 By Lakefield Intermediates

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 5. — Lakefield hockey fans were treated to a fast game on Thursday night, when the Intermediate team gave the Peterborough Outboard Marines an 8 to 4 trimming in an exhibition game here. The play was fast with hard checking and the teams seemed well matched as the 4-4 score at the end of the second period indicates. But a superiority in speed and stickhandling on the part of the Lakefield squad made itself manifest in the last period when the Lakefield lads tallied 4 goals, while their opponents failed to score. Blewett, Sabatino, Chittick, and Lennox were outstanding for the winners.

Jewell started the tallying for Lakefield when he made a goal unassisted early in the first period. Hill evened the score for the Marines. Then Lennox scored and Hill tied the count a second time. The first period ended with the Outboard Marines one point up, with White responsible for the third counter.

Early in the second period Whit. tallied again for the visitors, giving them a two-point lead, but Chittick came to the rescue when he scored for the homesters, and Lennox kept up the good work when he put in a counter assisted by Sabatino.

In the final period, the homesters started in with a strong offensive, and in a few minutes had tallied two goals, the first by Blewett, the second by George Charlton. Later Chittick scored twice to bring the final count to 8-4.

A free-for-all in the third disturbed the peace when a couple of chaps rolled around on the ice for a minute or so, but they were separated and peace restored with no damage done.

The line-up:

Outboard Marines — Goal, J. Currie; defence, S. Wood, A.White; centre, McIntosh; wings, Hill, T. Corsey; alternates, W. Corsey, W. Dennison.

Lakefield Intermediates — Goal, T Junkin; defence, L. Sabatino, W. Morin; centre, Chittick; wings, Jewell, Blewett; alternates, L. Charlton, G. Charlton, Heeth, Lennox.

Park St. Bantams hung up a surprise 4-0 win over Mark St. in a good Church Puck Loop tilt at All Saints' rink last night. It was a well-deserved nod for the winners, and Mark St. are now left in an uncertain position, having to win Monday from All Saints' to enter playdowns. The losers had a good share of play but lacked a scoring punch, the high-scoring defence pair being silenced completely. Park St. scored all goals on combination, Campbell and J. Ainslie getting one each and Reader two on passes from Martin. R. Ainslie went good to earn a shutout. Agnew featured for the losers with aggressive play. The teams:

Referee—D. Charlton.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

(C.J.P.)

PUCK FANS will be wending their ways to the rubber orchard on Brock St. tonight to see the O.H.A. junior "B" struggle between ye Belleville Redboys and our Colts. While both teams have earned a playoff berth—they could hardly miss with only Tweed left in the group—this game here and one more in Quinteville are important inasmuch as the squad finishing first has choice of places for first game playoffs. But the main thing is that it should be a nice battle. The teams are well-matched, though many claim the bigger Belleville boys are better if given fast ice. Personally, we think just the opposite. At any rate there is little difference and that should assure a dandy scrap.

* * * * * *

AFTER SOME years of snubbing from superior Belleville sports squads, local teams have in recent years been trouncing the haughty Quinte crews regularly—in fact, to a fare-thee-well in baseball and hockey. It would be too bad if this Belleville junior gang upset the dope, and they're liable to do just that. No doubt if Skipper Thomas had had his way, the Belleville boys would have been listed as a Junior "C" team, but that's out. Trenton Fliers told us here last game: "Why, when Belleville intermediates are at full strength, they are as strong as any "A" club in the group. Look at the games they gave us!" Be that as it may, the juniors from that town are tough onions—yeah, strong Spanish onions.

* * * * * *

THE PETES play the Fliers in Belleville tonight and need a win very badly, indeed. The full team will be on deck and they may cop the duke but it'll be close either way. Personally, we feel the only difference in the teams is their condition and length of time playing this year. The Fliers are in pro form, physically that is, and have been playing for months. The Petes are just beginning to hit true form. We know two local guys who have pooled $50 and bet it on the Petes tonight, and at even odds.

* * * * * *

THREE GIRLS' basketball games will be held tonight in the Y.W.C.A. gym. First one is at 7.45 between Westclox Juniors and the "Y" Quakers; followed at 8.15 by C.G.E. Seniors and Marconi Radio; and at 9.00 by St. John's Juniors and C.G.E. Should be plenty of cage action, and fans are invited to drop around and see these tilts. Westclox Seniors are on top now while C.G.E. and Marconi are tied right behind 'em; in the junior section, C.G.E. leads, with Westclox next and then St. John's and "Y" Quakers in a tie.

* * * * * *

IN JUNIOR City Hockey League games at the Brock last night, Canucks took a classy 3-2 win over St. Peter's while All Saints jogged through Monarchs for a 9-0 verdict. First game was good but the other was pretty one-sided. The kids are learning a lot of hockey in this loop and work like levee guards at high tide. We liked the way they go in for clean, stiff bodychecking on defence. The McDougall-Williams-Mortimer front line of All Saints has an interesting slant, the trio coming from families not unknown to local athletics. The first is a brother of Shrimp McDougall; the second is a son of Mickey Williams, former O.H.A.-er; and Mortimer is of a family long mixed up in softball, basketball and hockey. Next games will likely be next Wednesday.

* * * * * *

LIKE THE aroma arising from an overlooked garbage can, the odor of our O.H.A. intermediate grouping does not improve as time goes on. The screwy setup and schedule had an unpleasant fragrance from the start and now another nasty angle appears. Belleville Redmen refused to play their scheduled game in Trenton a couple of nights ago and Trenton is howling harshly. Secretary Hewitt of the O.H.A. has said he received no protest or explanation from either club but expected to shortly and would then make a decision. The whole thing smells to us like a dead cat on a hot day—and we don't care who knows it!

* * * * * *

TRENTON IS quite peeved at Belleville's refusal to live up to the schedule and threatens dire things. Manager Thomas of the Redmen explains his stand on two points. First, that the two clubs agreed there was no necessity for playing the remaining games as they'd only be financial flops; and secondly, that Trenton were automatically out of the O.H.A. when they got a guarantee of $15 to come to Peterborough for that last game here, and then used ineligible players. Thomas said he was told by local officials that they had to guarantee Trenton that money before the team would come here to fulfil its scheduled game. Manager Cain of Trenton says he told Peterborough he was unable to ice a team here but was advised by local officials to bring anyone as long as there was a game. And there's the layout.

* * * * * *

VOLLEYBALL PLAYOFFS for the Ivan Lillico Trophy will be held tomorrow afternoon in the Y.M.C.A. It's a round-robin affair with the first four teams playing two games each. But there are two tied for fourth, Beavers and Bears, so they'll meet at 2.00 o'clock with a time limit of 2.30 and the one leading on total points then to advance. Each team won 15 games. Others in the playoffs are Pumas with 22 wins, Tigers with 18 and Gorillas with 17. Matchings will be drawn for. In case of a tie at the end of play—around 5.30 o'clock—the crew with the biggest margin of clear points (not total points, necessarily) will be declared champion. Should be some fine play shown in these games.

* * * * * *

GRAB-BAG: Canucks of the Junior City Puck Loop will play the Campbellford juvenile O.H.A. team at 7.45 in Campbellford Monday eve . . . Church Cage Locp tilts Sat'day night in the "Y": St. Paul's Bantams vs. St. John's at six, and St. Paul's Juveniles vs. St. Andrew's at seven . . . . And these Senior City Loop cage contests there that e'en: Dominion Life vs. St. Paul's at eight, and P.C.I. vs. Neill's at nine . . . Calladine will go to Belleville tonight and will play if his shoulder seems okay . . . . School Hockey Circuit tussles tomorrow a.m. at All Saints' rink: Queen Mary vs. Prince of Wales at 9.00, King Edward vs. Queen Alex at 10.00, and King George vs. Central at 11.00 . . . Monarchs Blanked By All Saints' 9-0

Canucks	3	2	0	1
St. Peter's	3	1	1	1
All Saints'	3	1	1	1
Monarchs	3	0	2	1

All Saints' climbed into a second place tie at the Brock last night by blanking Monarchs 9-0 before a small crowd. The winners proved too strong for Monarchs, flashing a lot of speed some fine combination and tight checking. Play was rough in spots, while the checking and slashing made it resemble shinny at times. The winners scored two in the first, four in the second and three in the third.

Rowbotham and Watson tallied for All Saints' in the initial canto, while keeping Monarchs off the score sheet. In a big second frame, Williams, Mortimer, Clarke and Rowbotham tallied. Vitarelli collided with a goal post and had to leave the game during this chapter. Williams, McDougall and Rowbotham counted in the windup number. All the players on the winning side showed up well, while the losers kept trying to the end but had no luck tallying. The teams:

All Saints—Goal, Jay; defence, Quirt and Legon; centre, McDougall; wings, Mortimer and Williams; alternates, Watson, Rowbotham, Clarke and Condon.

Monarchs— Goal, Driscoll; defence, Vitarelli and Jordan; centre, Conroy; wings, Dorris and Langton; alternates, McInnis, Boyle, Brault, Berwick and Todd Referee—Ernie Wolff.

St. John's Juveniles Defeat Knox Crew 9-0

Though shorthanded, St. John's Juveniles were much too speedy for the young Knox crew and copped a soft 9-0 Church Hockey League win at All Saints' rink last night. L. Clark accounted for five of the Anglicans' goals with R. Clark and Lomax splitting the others. Smythe was best for the losers. This win leaves St. John's in a good playoff condition as by beating Murray St. or having All Saints' beat Mark St., they will get a playoff berth. The teams:

St. John's: Goal, Elliott; defence, L. Clark, Forsythe; centre, R. Clark; wings, Lomax, Smith; no alternates.

Referee—C. Frost.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

Beginning this column to-day we wish to draw the attention of the curlers at Lindsay, Lakefield, Norwood, Hastings, Campbellford, Millbrook and also our local curlers to the big open bonspiel on Tuesday, February 9 at 9 a.m. It is for the Canada Packers Trophy and is wide open to everybody. We will have more about this competition to-morrow.

This boy Thompson of Agincourt proved a stumbling block to both of our Tankard rinks in Toronto yesterday. First he took on Cruthers and laid him away and then to show he was playing no favorites, he pushed Best over and he entered the semi-finals this morning.

A great big four on the seventh end just about cooked Best's chances and then another three did settle it, and our chances for the Tankard went 'Bye-bye blackbird.'

We were thinking of going and asking Kirma when he thought we would win the Tankard, but on second thought we doubt very much if he could help us any.

In our schedule games Tommy Donaldson not only leads his group but he is high over all with five straight wins. Wallace Harvey is second with four wins and no losses—it will be a great fight when these two teams meet.

Our bonspiel Saturday will be played at the same time, and now for our them song 'Be On Time.'

Canucks Take Tilt From St. Peter's

Canucks defeated St. Peter's, 3 to 2 last night at the Brock St. rink to take first place in the Junior City League standing. A small crowd of fans saw the Saints lose their first game of the season to a scrappy south-end gang. It was a smart fixture with both sides showing plenty of speed and nice hockey, with play clean most of the way. The count was 1-1 in the first frame and 2-1 for the winning side going into the final heat. Connelly notched the first counter to put the Canucks one up early in the game. Just before the first period finished, Craig tied it up on a nice combination with O'Leary and Hoy. The only goal in the middle chukker came on Fleming's long drive from the right boards, the puck skidding by Shaughnessy. Play was hot and even for a time in the third and then the Saints pressed to finally even it at 2-all, Hoy scoring on Craig's pass. Canucks battled back and won out late in the period when Leith shoved in Townsley's short pass at close range. All the players on both teams worked hard, with Canucks having more polish in close. The teams:

Canucks—Goal, McKinnon; defence, Csumrik and Whaley; centre, Gilbert; wings, Fleming and Connelly; alternates, Collins, Leith, Ridley and Townsley.

St. Peter's—Goal, Shaughnessy; defence, Kelly and Prete; centre, O'Leary; wings, Craig and Hoy; alternates, Thornton, Creighton, Sullivan, Heath and Curtin.

Murray St. Seniors Clinch Playoff Spot

Murray St. Seniors clinched a Church Hockey League playoff berth at All Saints' rink last night by beating George St., 7-1, in a closer game than the score indicates. Minus their regular goalie, George St. used a rookie netter who let in five markers before Rennie took over in the second period and allowed two more. He had little to do in the third as the losers had most of the play. Whatman got three and Palmer and Johnston two each for the winners. Parnall scored for the Uniteds in the middle heat. Edwards and Watkins were prominent.

All Saints' Get 6-3 Win From Trinity

All Saints' took a 6-3 win from Trinity Juveniles in their Church League hockey game last night at All Saints' rink. The winners were good measure for the verdict, having a better-balanced crew and with their ace forward, Wade, tallying five markers. Buchanan got the other goal for the Anglicans. Deering scored twice for Trinity and R. Horton once. J. Horton showed a lot of speed but had trouble untracking himself. McBain and Patterson were effective.

—STRAIGHT DOWNHILL RUNNING. PART 3

Three main factors enter into the determination of which position—erect, half or low crouch, should be used: (1) skill of the skier, (2) snow conditions, (3) surface contour.

The skilful skier uses the erect position (see illustration below) whenever possible as it is the least tiring. However, it is also the least stable and for this reason the novice will use it less than the skilful artist, but one should not forget that it is the most desirable position

Half running position, top

Low crouch running position except under certain conditions.

Snow conditions may be constant throughout the run in which case, except possibly for wet, sticky snow, the erect position can be maintained. Alternate areas of dry and wet snow will cause sudden changes in speed and to maintain stability the half crouch or if necessary the low crouch should be assumed. Alternate shallow and deep snow will have the same effect and require the same precautions. Breakable crust may have to be run in a crouch position. On an icy or rough surface the feet may be separated somewhat as well as assuming the crouch. Knees should always be trust forward, heels kept flat on the skis and the skis held close together, except as mentioned above. The low crouch is the most tiring position and need only be taken by the novice when absolutely necessary for stability. It should however, be practised until one is proficient.

The lunging position may be used in fairly deep snow instead of the crouch.

The proper execution of the snowplow and stem turns requires the half-crouch or low-crouch positions.

RAY BEST LOSES TO AGINCOURT 16-9 IN FINALS

Thomson Rink Earlier Defeats W. M. Cruthers Of Peterborg' 15-7 In Semi Round

FOUR TROPHIES AT STAKE

Sixteen Rinks From All Parts Of Ontario Still Going Strong

TORONTO, Feb. 5 (C.P.). — Sixteen rinks launched play at the Granite Club here to-day for four prized trophies of Ontario curling circles. Four rinks were entered in each event, the feature contests provided by the Ontario Tankard competition.

Other events are the Burden Trophy, the Governor-General's Trophy, and the Globe and Mail Trophy. Curlers from Eastern and Western parts of the province competed.

An Agincourt rink, skipped by D. C. Thomson, started play in the Tankard contest against A. E. Dunker's Kitchener quartette. The other game brought together Dr. J. A. Wright's London curlers and a Barrie rink.

Barrie's representatives tangled with George Hanson's Kingston rink in the Burden Trophy, while the Toronto Curling Club four and Barrie curlers made up the other half of this event.

A Toronto rink and a Parry Sound squad squared off to start the Governor-General's play in which Pertus and Forest had entries. Two rinks from Toronto and one from Brampton and London made up the contingents fighting it out for the Mail and Empire Trophy.

Play started at nine o'clock with the winners going into the finals at two o'clock this afternoon.

Eastern representatives in the Tankard struggle were decided yesterday with Thomson's Agincourt curlers coming out on top, Thomson defeated Ray Best's Peterborough rink in the final 16-9, after downing Morris Booth's Cobourg entry 15-4, and then overcoming W. M. Cruthers, Peterborough, 15-7, in the semi-finals.

After being knocked out of the Tankard play by Cruthers' men, George Hanson led his Kingston curlers to the top in the Burden Trophy. He defeated W. J. Drysdale, another Kingston skip, 13-6 in the finals following a 13-6 win in the semi-finals over Morris Booth's Cobourg rink.

PIRATES DEFEAT L.O.L. SQUAD 12-3 IN BANCROFT TILT

Winners Grab Five Goals In Each Of Second And Third Periods

MANY REGULARS ILL

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BANCROFT, Feb. 5. — Pirates swept through to a decisive 12-3 victory in a fast league game with L.O.L. on Wednesday evening. The score was tied 2-2 at the end of the first period, but in the second Pirates gained a 5-goal lead. The third was a repetition of the second, the Pirates netting five goals to the L.O.L.'s one.

Both teams were short-handed, some of the players being absent due to sickness. This gave the younger players, Roy Conlin, Ernest Young, Jim Munro a chance to illustrate their ability on the ice, with Jim Munro giving an outstanding performance, it being his first appearance on the Pirate line-up.

Both goalies made many spectacular saves, the Pirate goalie showing exceptional ability. Although it was his first experience in the net, Crosby, the L.O.L. goalie, stopped many fast shots.

The line-up:

PATRICK LEDGER RECORD OF AGES

Ranger Chief Can't Be Fooled By Player Whose Memory Slips Around 30 Mark

DETROIT, Feb. 5.—(CP).— Lester Patrick, boss of New York Rangers of the National Hockey League, won't be fooled by players whose memory with regard to their age begins to fall around the 30 year mark. Lester has a file system.

"About 16 years ago I figured the only time a hockey player would be sure to tell his right age would be before he was 20," the Ranger coach said pushing his spectacles up on his forehead. "At that age you can't bribe a lad to say he is younger than he is.

"So I got a file system and began keeping records. Every time a player passes through my hands amateur or professional, I have him fill in a questionnaire."

Lester says that in the last 15 years most of the present major league players have passed through his hands.

"Either they'd want to play on one of my amateur clubs, or for the Rangers, or for a Ranger farm team," he said. "The players told me their right ages and they're in my files."

The system is invaluable to a manager, the silver-haired coach, whose team played here last night, believes.

"Supposing I want to buy a player from a rival club," he explained. "Hockey records show he's 30. But I remember him as an amateur, look up my records and find his age should really be 32. This takes three years of playing ability off his value to me.

"It's a very, very valuable file" he said with emphasis, bringing his glasses back to their proper resting place.

Hiawatha Gets Nod Over Gore's Landing

GORE'S LANDING, Feb. 5.—Hiawatha squeezed out a 1-0 win over Gore's Landing in a hardfought Rice Lake fixture played recently at the Landing. A large crowd saw the squads battle it out on even terms most of the way. The first two frames were scoreless and the third was well advanced before Billie Woods notched the lone counter of the contest. The Landing lads tried hard to sew it up but Goalie Bill Howard wasn't letting any by him. Competition in this four-team loop is stiff as they fight it out for the cup, won by Hiawatha last year. Next game between these two teams is at Hiawatha at 2.00 p.m. Friday.

Victory Places Toronto Within Three Points Of Maroons In Second Place

Rangers And Red Wings Go To a 2-2 Tie—Lynn Patrick Starts It

The task of making the final third of this season's National Hockey League race exciting enough to keep the stadia comfortably packed has been tossed in the laps of the boys fighting it out for the runner-up positions.

Montreal Canadiens and Detroit Red Wings have indicated clearly they will finish on top and New York Americans and Chicago Black Hawks have given as definite signs they will still be bedded down in the cellar when playoff time rolls around.

So fan interest switches to the fight between Montreal Maroons and Toronto Maple Leafs for second spot in the Canadian division and the scrap between New York Rangers and Boston Bruins for the same spot in the American section.

They are making the fight as the teams finish two thirds of the schedule and it really will be a fight this year. In other seasons there have been suggestions that some teams picked their spots—that they finished second or third as they pleased to pick the opponents they wished.

All that is changed now. Before the season opened the league adopted a playoff arrangement which makes it more profitable to finish second and the chances of any team pointing for third is ruled out on a dollars and cents basis. Any teams that can make it will be up there.

MORE MORE 9

The second spot in both divisions was more open today because of the results of three games last night. Toronto moved within three points of Maroons by edging out a 2-1 win over Americans in New York. And Boston came within a game and a half of Rangers by defeating Canadiens 6-2, while Rangers and Detroit were playing a 2-2 tie.

Of course, there is still a possibility Maroons or Leafs might catch Canadiens, and a better one that Bruins or Rangers might overtake Red Wings. But the odds are against it. Almost as much so as they are against Americans or Hawks getting playoff berths.

Americans outplayed Leafs in New York last night by a slight margin, but the best they could do in the way of scoring was Tony Hemmerling's goal in the first period. Leafs matched it with Sylvanus Apps' counter in that same session and Happy Day won the game in the third with his first goal of the season.

Canadiens seemed rooted to the ice in their clash with Bruins at Montreal. They lacked their usual speed and their passing attacks weren't clicking as they usually do.

The Bruin line of Bill Cowley, Ray Getliffe and Charlie Sands stood out. Getliffe had two goals, Sands one and Cowley assisted in three. Dit Clapper scored twice and Bill Hollet tallied the other Bruin counter. Paul Haynes and Aurel Joliat scored the Habitant goals in the third.

Babe Pratt's second period goal gave Rangers their tie with Red Wings. Lynn Patrick had started the scoring in the first but Wings went ahead on counters by Larry Aurie and Mud Bruneteau and the Pratt effort came as a life-saver.

Play was fast for the rest of the game, but neither team was able to count in 39 minutes. Twice in the third Wings fought off defeat when they were shorthanded, and Rangers were in danger for the last two minutes of overtime when Ching Johnson was serving a penalty.

Belleville And Colts Clash Here Tonight

Peterborough Colts swing into action here tonight when they meet the Belleville crew in an O.H.A. junior "B" fixture at 8.30 in the Brock St. rink. It is the final home scheduled game for the locals, but they have one more away and then the group playoffs. Belleville and the young Petes have split even in two games so far this winter, each winning by a single goal. Tonight's contest between the well-matched squads on a fast sheet of ice should be a swell scrap and deserves a big crowd of hometown rooters.

The local lineup is uncertain yet, but all the players are available and the strongest squad will be iced. The husky Quinte crew is also at full strength and fresh from a 10-0 victory over Tweed. They are confident they can lick the Colts on fast ice, but the homesters also feel that good ice will be to the Colts' advantage. Some smart passing, fast and continuous action, and some rugged checking—by the big Belleville defence especially — may be expected in this junior joust.

Hockey's Big Seven

(By The Canadian Press)

Sylvanus Apps, the National Hockey League's outstanding rookie, moved into the Big Seven last night while Detroit's Larry Aurie, potting one goal, increased his scoring leadership to two points over Harvey Jackson of Toronto. Aurie, with 33 points, held a seven-point margin over Toronto's Apps and Aurel Joliat of Canadiens, tied for last place. The leaders:

	G.	A.	Pts.
Aurie, Detroit	21	12	33
H. Jackson, Toronto	16	15	31
Barry, Detroit	9	22	31
Schriner, Amerks.	13	17	30

17-YEAR-OLD SON OF BRONCO BUSTER BEST JOCKEY OF '37

Basil James Chases 243 Winners Across The Line During Year

"WORKS" AT HIS TRADE

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 5—(A.P.).—Basil James, 17-year-old son of a rodeo bronco-buster and trained to ride on the rough and tumble "bush" tracks of the West, was the United States outstanding jockey in 1936.

A skinny little fellow with a timid smile and eyes as cold and grey as a man of 40, James had a leg-up on 243 winners last year.

James works at the jockey trade. He reaches the track around 10 o'clock in the morning, gallops a mount or so, and retires to the jockey room. It is locked at noon. After the day's racing, he reats.

Mention the criticism, and there was plenty, of the way he rode many a winner to victory, and James' eyes grow a little chillier.

"I've had a few disqualifications," he explained. "So have others. You gotta take the bitter with the sweet."

Track observers have said James' riding at times is perfection in artistry, as witness the day last Spring at Tanforan when he rode Indian Broom, owned by Major A. C. Taylor of Vancouver, to a new world's record of 1.47.3 for a mile and an eighth, breaking Discovery's time of 1:48.1.

At other times, so the critics say, James' work in the saddle is more like a country fair. He had hardly ridden his first horse at Santa Anita this year before the stewards slapped a $100 fine on him for cutting across the field at the start. He was disqualified five times at Bay Meadows, and fined up in the hundreds.

"Let 'em say all they want. It doesn't bother me," James exclaimed. "We all get a little rough now and then."

Four Winners in a Row

Asked what his greatest thrill on the track was, he replied promptly: "I rode four winners in a row at Washington Park last summer. That was it. I did it again a day or so later.

James will ride Indian Broom in the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap, February 27. Under contract to E. H. Cross' Tranquality Farms of Chicago, he will take the Vancouver candidate of Major Taylor to the post with "a good chance of winning."

James was practically reared in the saddle. Born in Loveland, Colo., he was taken to live in Sunnyside, Wash., soon after. At three, he was touring the rodeos with his father.

At 13, he galloped his first racehorse, and at 15, at John Day, Ore., he rode in his first race and piloted an old-timer named Kernville to victory.

A little more than a year later, he won the jockey championship of the United States.

BRADDOCK-LOUIS CONTRACTS READY

Illinois Athletic Official States They Will Be Signed Monday

CHICAGO, Feb. 5 (AP). — A world's heavyweight championship match between Titleholder James J. Braddock and Challenger Joe Louis, with its prospects of a $1,000,000 gate, went into the sign stage today.

Contracts for the 15-round bout, to be held June 15, will be signed next Monday afternoon by Louis and Braddock, said Joseph Triner, chairman of the Illinois Athletic Commission. The big problem now to be solved is the location of the battle scene—huge Soldier Field on the Lake Michigan shore or the White Sox ball park.

The bout, to be promoted jointly by the Illinois Sporting Club and Mike Jacobs, who holds exclusive rights to Louis' services, originally was set for Soldier Field, scene of the $2,500,000 Dempsey-Tunney battle. But Lou Comiskey, White Sox president, gained consideration through an attractive offer.

SOUTHERN ONTARIO HIGHWAY BUILDING VASTLY IMPROVED

New Toronto-Fort Erie Road On Best Safety Lines--Drought Being Fought In West

SURVEYING IN QUEBEC

OTTAWA, Feb. 5—(C.P.)—Survey work carried on in connection with the Federal Government's reclamation and rehabilitation program in Western Canada drought areas, with road building in Southern Ontario and general survey work in Quebec were laid before the Canadian Institute of Survey to-day when three papers were presented.

Dr. E. S. Archibald, Director of Experimental Farms, dealt with the drought work; W. J. Fulton, Chief Surveyer of the Ontario Department of Highways, told of road work in his province, while the Quebec Surveying paper was presented by J. A. Cote, Director of Surveys of Quebec.

Dr. Archibald forecast that under the reclamation and rehabilitation program drought areas would again produce wheat, flax and other grains. He told of the different surveys, meteorological surveys and others necessary in connection with this work.

The new highway under construction between Toronto and Fort Erie, Ont., gave a fair idea of how Ontario was trying to reduce traffic congestion and accidents, said Mr. Fulton. The road was located so that it would by-pass all towns and cities on the route, on the theory that drivers in through traffic desire to keep moving.

30-Foot Boulevard in Centre

Among the safety features embodied in this new type of highway, Mr. Fulton continued, were elimination of headlight glare and accidents caused by passing, as the opposing lines of traffic will be separated by a 30-foot boulevard.

A safe area will be provided at all level cross-overs, traffic will be separated at important highway intersections by circle intersections, pedestrian under-passes will be built opposite schools and bus stops will be provided. Another innovation in highway work in Ontario was acquisition of areas having scenic or recreational value as parks.

When the Department of Highways was organized in 1915, it began to designate portions of the 53,000 miles of roads then existing, as provincial highways and these portions have now grown into the 3,800 miles comprising the 1King's Highway system, he said.

Although great strides have been made in pavement design, construction methods and safety devices, only recently has anything been done in the way of re-locating any of the highways, Mr. Fulton said. "The rapidly changing demands of the automobile have raised road-building to the status of a technical science."

SUNK SUBMARINE IN LONE ATTACK

War Episode In Goodwin Sands Recalled By Death Of Officer

LONDON, Feb. 5—(C.P.)—The death of Capt. Evelyn Leonard Boothby recalls the exploit of sinking a German submarine for which he was awarded the D.S.O. Capt. Boothby, who had been suffering from neurasthenia, was found dead in his room, with a tube leading from a gas fire to the bed.

Capt. Boothby during the war was attached to the Dover patrol. He was in charge of a flotilla of armed drifters which patrolled the channel from Dover seeking enemy submarines.

Learning that German submarines had been sighted off Goodwin Sands, he turned over the flotilla to his second-in-command one dark night and took his drifter without lights toward the Goodwins. There the drifter lay for some time. Then a muffled voice was heard, giving orders in German.

Capt. Boothby snapped out: "Turn starboard; full steam ahead." A submarine which was only a few yards away, was rammed amidships by the drifter and sunk.

HELD FOR RELIEF FRAUD

TORONTO, Feb. 5—(C.P.)—Convicted of receiving more than $1,500 of relief by false pretences from York Township while her husband worked and received wages totalling more than $2,922, Mrs. Ethel Woods to-day was remanded in custody by Magistrate William Keith until Friday for sentence.

Because her husband, Percy Woods, had not signed the relief affidavits along with his wife, he was remanded until Friday for judgment on the same charge. Bail was set at $1,000.

ANOTHER WEATHER STORY.

MALIGNANT COVE, N.S.—(CP)—Angus MacNeil, Antigonish County farmer, has the latest in mild-winter stories. His sheep refused to be driven back to hay-feeding in the barn after he had turned them loose in a pasture unusually thickly covered with snow at this time of year.

The Day That I Forget

By MARIE BLIZARD

READ THIS FIRST:

Janet MacLeod has just married Joel Paynter, second-rate actor, whom she met a few weeks previously at a cocktail party. Because Joel asked Janet to stop work, she has had to economize. Martha Colby, her best friend visits Janet in their one-room apartment.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 3

"WELL," Martha said at last "now that you've taken the wind out of my sails, all I can say is that you've got both feet on the ground and if you wanted to marry a second-rate actor, that's your business."

"Martha! Joel isn't second rate! I know he isn't a star but if he had been probably I would never have met him. Joel has greatness in him and he has ambition. Oh, you don't know him as I do. And all the trouble he has had."

"Supposing you tell me," Martha settled back resignedly. "He seems to be your favorite subject. Go on."

Janet needed no urging. "His father ran away and left his mother and Joel when he was only three years old, Joel I mean. And when he was only a little boy he had to get out and work. Imagine at 12! That's why he has such funny ideas about not letting me work. He thinks a man should take care of his wife."

Martha looked around the shabby room which no amount of Janet's theater." Once Janet would have clever arrangement of colors could disguise. She said nothing.

"He always wanted to be in the said "on the stage" but she was learning Joel's patter. "Instead he had to work in stores and then as an insurance agent. Then, his mother got married again and went to Nevada and he was free. At first he was a chorus boy and hated it. Then he got into a stock company. For two seasons he had walk-on parts and now he has a minor lead. Some manager will discover him, I know. I want him to study voice. He has a pleasant voice but untrained. I thought. . . ."

"Wait a minute," the older woman said. "Janet, don't try to manage him. Or if you do don't let him know it. Take an old maid's advice and keep your iron hand in a velvet ostrich-feather glove."

"But I'm not managing him; I'm just helping him. It's the only job I've got now," Janet said rather pathetically.

"Helping is managing no matter how else you put it. But there, I didn't mean to disturb you, child. Tell me what you've been doing all hostess. It won't take we a minute this time."

"Teat, Martha? I'm a dreadful to get it ready. We usually have it at this time."

But now he is with Helen Grafton, she thought.

"No tea, thank you. I will have an apple."

Janet polished one of the apples in the decorative basket on the dresser and gave it to Martha.

Biting into her own, Janet curled up on a corner of the lounge and looked incredibly childish. "I'll tell you about our honeymoon," she said.

"My stars! I thought you couldn't have one."

"We certainly could! New York is a beautiful place to have a honeymoon, Martha. I recommend it if you ever make up your mind to marry Mr. Weatherby."

"Now, don't rush me. I'm one to move slowly, as your father would say. Rufus has been asking me for 20 years and there's no rush. What about this honeymoon?"

"We travelled." Janet said, and made a great show of searching her memory. "We travelled by motor, by carriage and boat. First-class, too. Oh, my yes! We embarked for Staten island on the ferry boat one warmish afternoon and took sandwiches. We fell in love with the new moon but we couldn't stay to enjoy it because Joel had to get back to the theater. But we caught up with that moon by taking a carriage, a very beautiful, smelly Victoria, at Fifty-ninth street and for two whole hours we rode through Central Park at midnight. Joel bought me some white flowers to wear in my hair and, for a little while after he told me I was the prettiest girl he knew, I believed it!"

Martha sighed wistfully. She thought that charm made up for a lot of other things in a man.

"We dined at the Ritz one night," Janet continued boastfully and thought what fun it was to talk to someone who knew her. "Another night we went to the Turkish Room and danced until 3 o'clock. We saw two matinees on days when Joel had no matinee and we. . . we went to the Aquarium and the Art Exhibit in the Village and we held hands all the time."

"It sounds delightful. Don't tell me the honeymoon is over!"

"Of course, it isn't. It isn't ever going to be! But we can't afford things like that any more. Joel is only getting $75 a week and we really did spend an awful lot. Poor darling, he has never saved a penny. Money melts somehow when you go out after the theater. You know, movies and midnight supper and we often decide to go somewhere to have a nightcap and hear some music."

"Young lady, you'd better save or go back to work. What would you do if Joel's show closed?"

"We'll meet our trouble when we come to it. We started saving two weeks ago. Oh, how I wish I had saved when I had my job instead of buying furniture. But we'll be all right. I'm a careful manager and the management thinks the show will go until summer anyway."

All the things Martha had read with it. And if that's not enough, came back to her. Cooking an egg over a gas-ring. Trunks held by formidable landladies. Riding in day coaches on drafty trains all night. Managers who disappeared with the money before the actors were paid.

"Well, for goodness sake, I almost forgot!" She reached for her spacious purse. "I came to bring you a wedding present. I wanted to buy you something," she fished in the depths and thought of the dinner set she had ordered, "but I had no idea of what you'd want so I think you'd better get something for yourself. I meant to do this before I left home, but you know my pens never write. Got a fountain pen, Janet?"

Janet brought her a pen. Martha wrote quickly and signed her name with a flourish. Then she blotted the check and folded it.

"You just get anything you want this said in a final note, knowing all there's more where it came from."

"A hundred dollars! Oh Martha, we can't accept that. There isn't anything we want that costs as much as that."

"Then keep it until there is or buy yourself some pretty clothes," Martha said in a final not, knowing all the time that the check would go into the little bank book Janet had shown her when she opened the desk for the pen.

Janet peered at her suspiciously. "Martha Colby, are you giving me this because you think we need it?" she demanded.

"And why should I think you'll need it?" Martha replied calmly. "Didn't you just tell me that your husband has a good job and bright prospects? Now, you just forget it and buy something pretty for yourself and a necktie for Joel. By the way, where is he? I'd like to see him before I go."

"He's. . . . why. . . . he had to see someone, for dinner tonight. He's trying to make some contacts. That's the way you get jobs in the theater," she explained. "Oh, Martha, please don't go. Please have dinner with me. The days are so long. . . I mean now I have so much time. . and . ." she floundered helplessly and wished that she could, have recalled her words.

Aloud she said, "Well, now that's what I wanted to do but I was afraid to ask. What say we go to some real bang-up expensive place to give me a thrill? It's my party and we'll go and see a show. I haven't done that in years. Pshaw, if you aren't here when Joel gets home after the theater, he can wait a few minutes. I'll have to get the 11.30."

Joel was there when Janet came home. He got up out of the big chair. Janet saw three things at once—his newspaper was still folded, unread; the tray beside the chair was littered with smoked cigarets; Joel's face was dark and all the light had gone out of it.

"I wasn't with Grafton," he said after he had kissed her. "I just didn't want to come home. The notice was on the board this afternoon. We close Saturday."

Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND MRS. FLUFF

"There's the place, Uncle Wiggily! There's the place!" chattered Billie Bushytail, all excited like and anxious.

"What place?" asked Mr. Longears. "Please don't tell me Billie, you see a place where the Bad Chaps are hiding. Don't do that!"

"Oh, no, certainly not," answered Billie. "But look, Uncle Wiggily! Do you see those trees?" Billie pointed to a little clump or grove of them at the bottom of the hill.

"Yes, I see them," said Mr. Longears. "What about them?"

"That's where my brother Johnnie has his secret," went on the boy squirrel. "For the last five or six mornings, when we were coming to school, he always goes over in those trees to look at it—I mean to look at his secret. It's hidden there."

"What sort of a secret do you think it is, Billie?"

Treasure, Maybe?

"I'm sure I don't know," was the answer. "But it might not be good for Johnnie to have such a secret. That's why I asked you to help me find out about it. Do you think maybe some day Johnnie was a pirate squirrel, Uncle Wiggily, and that he has buried treasure in those trees?"

"Nonsense!" laughed the rabbit gentleman. "Johnnie was never a pirate. They aren't fashionable any more. I think Johnnie is just playing a sort of game and really hasn't any secret at all."

"Oh, yes he has," said Billie. "But hush! Here he comes now. We can hide behind this bush and watch what he does. His secret is in those trees, I'm sure."

Uncle Wiggily and Billie hid themselves behind a bush. They watched Johnnie come scampering over the snow toward the clump of trees. Then, looking carefully around to make sure no one saw him, and not knowing he was being spied on, Johnnie went in among the trees.

There wasn't so much snow on the ground there. In places the ground was bare and covered with dried grass, leaves and brown needles from pine trees. As Billie and Uncle Wiggily watched Johnnie scampered to one of the bare places and began sniffing.

"His secret is there," whispered Billie.

"Yes, it must be," agreed Uncle Wiggily.

"It's beneath the grass, leaves and ground," went on Billie. "We must watch to see what he digs up. If it's buried treasure—"

Bell Rings

Just then two things happened. Johnnie began digging in the ground which wasn't frozen very hard because it was covered with a warm blanket of leaves, grass and pine needles. The other thing that happened was the school bell began to ring. It was nearly 9 o'clock and the Lady Mouse School Teacher in the Hollow Tree School had told the rat gentleman janitor to ring the bell.

"Oh, my goodness! I must run along!" said Billie.

"Yes, don't be late," said Mr. Longears.

Away scampered Billie. Johnnie, also hearing the bell, stopped his digging before he had uncovered the secret and ran to school.

Uncle Wiggily hopped over to the clump of trees. He was wondering whether he had better do some digging himself to find out about Johnnie's secret when, all of a sudden, along came Mrs. Fluff, a very old squirrel lady. She was using a crooked stick for a cane and when she saw Uncle Wiggily she called:

"Where can I find one?" Oh, where can I find one?"

Mr. Longears was much surprised. And if the breakfast orange will stop pretending to be a snowball so it can go out and play with the icicles I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily at the party.

JOEY ONLY THREE, YEARS TOO SMART

Teacher Refuses To Promote Him To Second Grade Despite First-Class Honors

NEW YORK, Feb. 5—(CP)—little discouraged because he was not promoted to second grade this year, three-year-old Joey Ford brushed up his scholastics today and prepared to confound Columbia University's learned doctors.

Joey, who at the age of two showed a great capacity for learning and carrots, sailed through first grade in Los Angeles professional school with ease and charged back this year to tackle addition, subtraction and the multiple difficulties of the second grade.

But there he ran into grief. Because of his extreme youth teachers thought it best not to promote him despite his first grade honors.

That's why Joey is here—to get a special intelligence test at Columbia. Doctors think he's about four years ahead of himself. When reporters visited him yesterday, Joey read a hilarious tale of a rabbit, detailing the difficulties of a bunny who was caught stealing jam.

"You see," he told them, "the naughty bunny was in a jam."

And when the newspapermen told him puns were obnoxious things, Joey countered with, "don't be so impatience."

BIBLE BEST SELLER

But Nobody Reads It Bishop Of Huron Protests.

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Feb. 5 (CP)—While the Bible is the best selling book as far as Canada is concerned it is "the book that nobody reads," Rt. Rev. Charles Seager, Bishop of Huron, declared last night at the annual meeting of the Woodstock branch of the Upper Canada Bible Society.

"And in this respect," he added, "I have sometimes even suspected the clergy."

He continued: "It is not a reading generation we are living in. The masses read nothing but their daily paper and not all of that. The average intelligence of the public is 14 years and they demand the superficial interesting features only without learning the stories behind the news."

A STORE BURNS

Volunteer Brigade Fails to Save Manotick Building

MANOTICK, Ont., Feb. 5—(CP)—Fire believed to have been caused by overheated stovepipes to-day destroyed a general store owned by Geo. McLean, causing damage estimated at $30,000. A volunteer fire brigade was formed, but despite their efforts the building was gutted. Heat from the burning one-storey brick building was so intense it broke windows of buildings across the street.

Manotick is about 20 miles south of Ottawa.

HERO DOG IS DEAD

Hit-Run Driver's Victim — Once Saved Town From Fire.

PINOLE, Calif., Feb. 5—A.P.)—Prince, Carnegie gold medal dog who barked a town awake and saved it from a disastrous fire, is dead, a victim of a hit-run driver. Prince was 15 years old and blind.

In 1931 Prince found the Pinole opera house in flames. His insistent barking awoke the town which fire officials said would have been destroyed had the dog not sounded the alarm.

BUILDING PERMITS HIGHER.

YARMOUTH, N.S. (C.P.)—Building permits in Yarmouth during 1935 totalled $125,250, according to reports released by Building Inspector D. S. Wickwire. The total, exclusive of permits for a new $100,000 school, were $2,000 higher than the figures for 1935.

Now She Sleeps Like a Top

Tonic Way Re-makes Tired, Depressed Sufferers.

Why envy people who can relax like a baby and sink quickly into deep restful slumber every night? You can do it, too, instead of tossing and turning, vainly wooing sleep while each tick of the clock seems like a minute, and minutes drag as slowly as hours. PHOSFERINE, the great British tonic, will help you.

"When I feel washed out," writes Mr. L. Nordman, Dunston-on-Tyne, England, "all I have to do to feel fine again is to take two tablets of PHOSFERINE. A friend of mine, who seldom sleeps well, finds that by taking one tablet she sleeps like a top."

PHOSFERINE'S great success is due to the fact that it nourishes starved nerves. And when your nerves are in sound, normal condition, you drop off to sleep as nature intended you to. What's more, you wake with a feeling of renewed vigor each morning. Start taking PHOSFERINE to-day. Getting Stung By Bee Isn't So Bad Stings Said Good For Rheumatism

SAINT JOHN, N.B. Feb. 5—(CP)—W. E. Darling is telling the story of an elderly man who asked to see the former's bees.

With a rheumatic dog-trot the visitor made for the hives. He hauled up his trouser legs and grabbed a bee. Then he pressed it, stinger first, against one of his legs.

"Ouch!" he exclaimed. "Ah! That was a corker!"

He picked up another bee, and another repeating the act until his legs had been stung about eight times. Then, with evident satisfaction, he started on his arms.

"Ouch! Ah! That was a great one. . . . Ouch! Ah! . . ."

"It's for my rheumatics," he explained to the surprised Darling. "Ain't nothing like bee stings to cure the rheumatics."

His family had a tendency for rheumatism and, because he was the only one who had handled bees, he was the only one to escape being crippled by the affliction, he said, adding:

"But my joints have been getting creaky of late, because I ain't handled any bees for a long time. So I thought I'd come over with you and got a good dose of them that would fix me up."

Belief that bee stings are good for rheumatism is said to have existed for many years. In some large cities the selling of live bees for this purpose is known to have attained considerable proportions.

GAS FIRMS BOW TO PRICE ORDERS IN MARITIMES

New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island Follow Nova Scotia's Lead

INCREASE ABANDONED

Seven Companies Involved Plan Appeal From Ruling

HALIFAX, Feb. 6.—(CP)—The week-old increase of ½ per cent per gallon in the price of gasoline has been cancelled in the Maritime Provinces.

New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island wholesale dealers yesterday followed the lead of Nova Scotia's seven leading oil companies which made the reduction a few hours before the time the public utilities board said licenses would be cancelled if such action was not forthcoming.

One by one the Nova Scotia companies adhered to the demand by the board that the ½-cent increase made last week-end be cancelled immediately. And then New Brunswick companies took a similar step, followed by Prince Edward Is. though companies in those two provinces were not involved in the Nova Scotia dispute.

Officials of the Provincial Government declined to interfere with the ruling by the board which controls such licenses, and last of the Nova Scotia companies capitulated a few hours before last night's deadline.

The companies, which claimed they did not require permission from the board to increase prices, were reported planning an appeal from the ruling.

GROOM VANISHES SPOILS WEDDING

Fiancee Suspects Foul Play As Stranger Had Been Following Him

WINDSOR, Ont, Feb. 6.—(CP).—Because Ruby Nicholson of Windsor last saw her 31-year-old fiance, William Albert Karn, one week ago, no wedding bells will ring for the couple to-day.

The groom, a garage mechanic, complained of sickness while at work last Saturday, collected his pay and vanished. Nineteen-year old Ruby blames foul play for the disappearance and has enlisted police aid in the search.

Karn told Ruby that four nights last week as he walked back to his hotel room from visiting her he had been followed by a "tall man." He was "pretty sure the tall man meant him no good."

Ruby met Karn December 26, beginning of a short hectic courtship. Thereafter Bill called upon Ruby every night. He also telephoned her twice a day.

Ruby lives at a bath house here where she is a domestic. Her mother resides at Leamington, 33 miles south-east of here.

Reds Start Greatest Purge Since Trotzky Fell

Outstanding Citizens Jailed By Hundreds On Conspiracy Counts

Mass Meetings In Many Areas Indicate Third Great Trial Looming

GREAT NAMES INVOLVED

Leaders Determine 'Trotzkyist' Wrecking Conspiracy Must End

MOSCOW, Feb. 6.— (AP)—The greatest party purge since 1927 — when the names of Leon Trotzky and hundreds of his followers were scratched off the Communist roster —now is in full swing, reports from throughout Russia indicated today.

Hundreds of influential citizens already have been arrested and charged with participating in the so-called "Trotskyist wrecking conspiracy," these advices showed.

Soviet industrial workers have demanded quick prosecution and the death sentence for Alexander Georgivich Belaborodoff, alleged Trotzkyist sabotage agent and one of the former Urals Soviet officials held responsible for the summary execution of Czar Nicholas and his family in 1918.

Belaborodoff, former president of the Orenburg Soviet, and dozens of other alleged Trotzkyist leaders were arrested several weeks ago at Rostoff-on-the-Don.

Workers in the Rosa Luxemburg tobacco factory charged the prisoners participated in systematic sabotage of a great agricultural machinery plant and railways and coal mines in the Black Sea region.

20,000 Out of Jobs.

The machinery plant, which produces most of the combination harvester-reapers used in the Soviet collective farm program has encountered production difficulties for more than a month, throwing more than 20,000 workers temporarily out of employment.

By repeated resolutions— which usually are considered seriously by the Moscow government—the workers demanded official action to halt the alleged sabotage.

"We demand mercilessly that justice be applied to the terrorists," said one resolution directed to the Kremlin. Another group asked "the most severe punishment."

The Rostoff Communist party committee dismissed its Secretary General E. I. Livshitz, whose provincial authority corresponds to the national power of Joseph Salin, party secretary-general.

Third Trial In View

Mass meetings in many sections indicated a third great trial may be expected soon. It will involve men who once stood as high or higher in the party and government than those who have already been executed by firing squads, following conviction in the last few months.

Among the expected new defendants are Nikolai Bukharin, former editor of the government newspaper Izvestia, and Alexix Rykoff, who succeeded Nikolai Lenin as Russian premier during the latter's long illness prior to his death.

Bukharin has been called — by Communist party leaders — "The head of the so-called right centre which plotted with other Trotzkyist groups for the restoration of capitalism."

Students' Hijacking Gag Gets Nipped

The plan failed. Ballots in the current issue were cancelled.

REV. McCORMACK MINISTER OF KNOX PASSES SUDDENLY

Succumbs To Influenza After Only One Week's Illness

CAME HERE IN JULY

Succumbing to influenza after an illness of little more than a week, Rev. Samuel Garfield McCormack, pastor of Knox United Church, died at the Knox manse on King Street last evening. He was 52 years of age.

Still in the first year of his pastorate in this city, Mr. McCormack had engaged himself in a wide circle of activity and was well known throughout the city. He was born at Lynn, near Brockville, and gained his elementary education in the Brockville Public and High Schools. In 1912, he was awarded a Master of Arts degree on graduation from Queen's University.

He taught school for several years in Brockville and Listowel before entering the Presbyterian ministry. He was then given a charge at Whitby and a term in the pulpit of the Presbyterian Church at Newcastle followed. When church union was effected in 1925, he was serving at Madoc.

From Madoc he was called to the United Church at Thornton, near Barrie, and from there came to Knox United Church in Peterborough, succeeding Rev. William McDonald on July 1 last year.

He took an immediate interest in community ministerial affairs here and won himself the high regard of the members of his pastorate and his fellow ministers in the city. Particularly interested in religious educational work, he was to have taught a class at the religious training school at the Y.W.C.A. next month.

Rev. Mr. McCormack is survived by his wife, formerly Lila McLaren, and one sister, Mrs. Kate Mott of Lynn.

A private funeral service at the home is to be followed by a public service in Knox United Church at three o'clock Sunday afternoon, fellow ministers of the city officiating. The remains will be forwarded Monday morning to Mitchell, Ont., where interment will be made Monday afternoon.

Plan To Visit Duke of Windsor

PRINCESS MARY

EARL OF HAREWOOD

Princess Mary and her husband Earl of Harewood left today to pay a visit to the Duke of Windsor at his retreat near Vienna. A person in close touch with the royal family is quoted by Associated Press as saying the visit is to help untangle the Duke's financial affairs.

Plenty of Severe Colds But No Influenza Here

No Cases of Influenza Reported To M.O.H. In Past Five Weeks

MONTH FOR COLDS

Dr. G. Murray Fraser, medical officer of health, is authority for the statement that there is no epidemic of influenza in the city. Although influenza and pneumonia are both reportable diseases, he asserted no cases of this type have come to his notice in a period of five weeks.

The M.O.H. admitted "There are a lot of colds of a severe type involving the upper respiratory system, including the nose, throat and ears and some cases of grippe. But," he stressed, "that is not 'flu. Influenza is something much more severe with lung involvement."

He declared that some medical men and most laymen classify every case of common cold or grippe as influenza, and pointed out there is a marked difference between the type of cold and grippe prevailing in the city, and the influenza that swept the community in epidemic form in 1918.

While he did not believe that alternate spells of mild and not so mild weather or the large amount of dampness experienced this winter has a very great bearing on the epidemic of colds, the M.O.H. expressed the opinion it was due to a particularly virulent type of infection which is common at this period of the year. He classified the months of February and March as being the normal period when pneumonia takes its largest toll, because of the fact that the resistance of the body is particularly low at this period of the year.

Dr. Fraser's statement relative to the absence of influenza was based on a check which he made of the two local hospitals and some medical practitioners. He reported there were five suspected cases of pneumonia at Nicholls Hospital this morning, but received a denial to rumors that the space of the hospital is so taxed that beds have been placed in corridors.

BLASTED BRIDGES HAMPER REBELS

Troops Defending Malaga Retreat Slowly Leaving Country Flooded Behind

LISBON, Portugal, Feb. 6 (AP).—General Gonzalo Queipo de Llano, commander of the Spanish insurgent army in the south, announced today he had launched a renewed violent attack on the Malaga front.

Queipo de Llano, in a broadcast over the Fascist-controlled radio station at Seville, Spain, said four motorized columns had captured three villages to the north and north-east of the strongly-held Socialist shipping centre.

The westernmost column on the northern front of the Malaga sector was aimed at Antequera, 25 miles almost due north of the beleaguered Provincial capital. The other three pressed against Archidona, Loja and Alhama, almost equally distant to the north-east from the Mediterranean port.

The advance, the General said, had been hampered by Government demolition squadrons which blew up bridges and dikes and flooded the surrounding territory, drenched for more than a week previously by heavy rains.

The insurgent station at Valladolid reported the insurgent navy, massed in the Mediterranean to support the land drive, had torpedoed and sunk a Soviet steamer loaded with munitions which was steaming toward Catalonia.

The Government's Canadian general, Emil Kleber, former commander of the International Brigade at Madrid, has arrived at Malaga, the Valladolid broadcaster said, to organize the Socialist defences.

CONVICT SLAIN IN 5-MILE CHASE

Two Companions Are Grabbed When Bandit Car Ends In Collision

ONE ESCAPES AFOOT

DETROIT, Ont., Feb. 6.—(CP)—Shot to death by police last night in a spectacular five-mile running gun battle, body of a man identified as Joseph Miller, 36-year-old Detroit former convict, lay in city morgue today while police held two companions on charges of armed robbery.

The chase followed the holdup of an alleged handbook and ended when an automobile carrying the bandits collided with another car and overturned. One bandit escaped on foot, police said.

The two men arrested are Charles Sanders, 34, Chicago, and Hyman Nasker, 24, Detroit. Both men had guns, police said, and approximately $160 was found on them when arrested.

Miller, twice convicted of breaking and entering charges and once on a narcotic charge, had been shot in the back, the wound causing instant death.

Police found eight bullet shells on the floor of the bandit car, indicating at least that many shots had been fired at the pursuing machine. About 30 shots were fired at the bandit car.

LOST STUDENT FEARED VICTIM OF FOUL PLAY

FATHER SINCE DIED

Case Believed To Have Hastened Death—Mother Gravely Ill

WIARTON, Ont., Feb. 6 (CP)—Search spread throughout Ontario today for 28-year-old Jack Daykin, missing from his home in this Georgian Bay town since Jan. 14. He was a theological student at McMaster University in Hamilton where police started the hunt.

Relatives fear he has met with foul play. He was last seen at a bank in Hamilton. He had withdrawn some money and it is feared someone saw him with it and he became a victim of foul play.

The father, Walter Daykin, Hydro superintendent at Wiarton, died Jan. 25 from pleurisy. The mother is now ill. It is believed the shock of the son's disappearance hastened the father's death.

Silence was maintained until yesterday concerning the missing youth. When police could gain no trace of him it was decided to make his disappearance public in the hope it might lead to his return.

Daykin went back to McMaster after his Christmas vacation at home. At the time of his disappearance he had been dismissed from study so he could prepare for examinations. He went to Mr. and Mrs. Daniel McIntyre's home in the Delta district, Hamilton, at noon of Jan. 14.

He told Mr. and Mrs. McIntyre he had a week's vacation and after dinner went to a bank where he withdrew the money. Since then he has not been seen.

Mrs. Daniel McIntyre, at whose home Daykin had lived, was unable to give any information today as to his possible fate. He had spoken to her about finding a boarding house, and when he disappeared she thought he had gone to another place and would return later for his belongings. Mr. and Mrs. McIntyre were childhood friends of the theologian.

BERNIE SWINGS FLOORS OFFICER

Old Maestro Resents Wise-Cracks

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 6 (AP)—Ben Bernie, the old maistro, joined the ranks of battling band leaders last night by knocking out an asserted annoyer in the midst of a dance program at the Cocoanut Grove.

It was a one-punch bout, witnesses said, with the victim requiring 20 minutes to be revived.

Bernie said he was leading his "Lads" in a musical number when a man in the throng of dancers neared the band stand and ribbed him about the cigar in his mouth.

A few moments later, he asserted, the dancing annoyer aproached again, this time calling him harsher names. Gay diners-out in the movie colony night spot saw Bernie step down from the stand and uncork a left hook to the chin. The man fell.

The band leader's knuckles were skinned and two fingers sprained. His opponent identified himself as a naval officer on leave, and departed after expressing his apologies, attendants reported.

King George, Mother Both Reported Hoping To Buy Sandringham

Offering $500,000, With Windsor Asking $750,000 For The Estate

LEGACY FROM FATHER

Princess Royal And Earl Harewood Expected To Stay Week In Austria

LONDON, Feb. 6—(C.P.-Havas)—The Princess Royal and the Earl of Harewood left Victoria Station to-da for Austria, where they will visit the Duke of Windsor. They are expected to spend about a week in Austria.

The Associated Press reported "a person close to the royal family" as saying the Princess Royal's purpose in visiting the Duke of Windsor is to help untangle the Duke's financial affairs.

Whether the former King Edward will receive a government allowance, or an allowance from his family, the amount, and a proposal for the sale of Sandringham were suggested as reasons for the visit.

King George V. left Sandringham to his "eldest son," not to "the King," an informant said. It was reported the present King and Queen Mary want to buy it, and that the Duke of Windsor is asking $750,000, while King George and the Queen Mother offered $500,000.

While Edward was King he altered the administration of Sandringham, but with the advent of George VI it is being restored to its former state. It is said to be a bargain even at $750,000, about half the original cost to Edward VII.

Creates Sensation

Appearing before King George at Buckingham Palace Joachim von Ribbentrop, German ambassador to Great Britain, created a sensation when instead of giving the customary bow he reportedly gave the Nazi salute.

BENNETT OBJECTS TO CHANGING C.N.R. LONG-TERM DEBT

Claims Howe's Bill Does "Violence To Sound Principles Of Finance"

AIR OUTLAYS BROUGHT UP

OTTAWA, Feb. 6.—(CP)— With some $3,000,000,000 from the public treasuries invested in all forms of transportation, the $1,500,000,000 invested in the Canadian National Railways should not be singled out for special treatment or regarded as a cause of special concern, Transport Minister Howe told the House of Commons yesterday.

On motion of Mr. Howe his bill to revise the capital structure of the government-owned railway was given second reading and referred to the committee on railways and shipping. There was no opposition. Mr. Howe bulked together the amounts expended from time to time by the government on other railways, waterways and shipping, highways, and aviation, to give the entire picture of public investment in transportation.

The bill did "violence to sound principles of finance," Conservative Leader Bennett told the House. He had no objection to writing off the book values attached to the capital stock of the Canadian National Railways and the Canadian Northern Railway but he did object to any change in the long-term debt of the railways.

Mr. Howe said the actual government investment in the Canadian National was not important except that the system was competing with a privately-owned railway which stood on its own feet. In fairness to the competitor a record should be kept of the money invested in the national system.

Record Needed For Comparison.

In Mr. Bennett's view the keeping of such a record was necessary to test the value of the nationalization plan as compared with others, to establish the relationship between freight rates and capital structure and to keep employees of the rail-

Slump Cost World Much As Great War

Geneva, Feb. 6 (AP)

PROF. Vladimir Woytinsky, a European economist, has put a price tag on the world depression of from 1930 to 1934. The professor, in a report published by the International Labor Office, figured the loss to the world economic system at from 149,000 to 176,000 million "1928 dollars" or 100,000 to 120,000 million "1913 dollars." This "fateful figure, equal to the total cost of the Great War," and all "outward signs of the great depression may be attributed to the fact that the wheels of the gigantic machinery of capitalist industry were turning more slowly or had ceased to turn altogether," said the report.

Love Flies Out The Window While Radiator Romeo Dozes

MARRIAGE THE STAKE

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo., Feb. 6—(AP)—While Harold Hulen, the radiator Romeo, dozed outside a closed bedroom door, his love flew out the window — and boarded an airliner for New York early today.

Miss Florence Hurlbut, 20-year-old brunette, slipped out of a bedroom window at the home of T. E. Crawford, where she had taken temporary refuge, and fled without awakening her "sit-down" lover. She drove to Kansas City where she boarded the plane.

Hulen started his strike chained to a radiator in Miss Hurlbut's apartment, announcing he would not move until she made up her mind about a marriage proposal. But when the girl moved to the home of Crawford, who is Hulen's uncle, the striker moved also, chaining himself to a radiator outside the guest bed-room.

To follow Miss Hurlbut's next move, however, won't be so easy—as Hulen will find when he awakens.

The safe has been lifted regularly for some years in the spring, and nothing of value is now left in it. A crowbar and two hammers left on the scene may help in tracing the culprits.

GAS FIRMS BOW TO PRICE ORDERS IN MARITIMES

INCREASE ABANDONED

Seven Companies Involved Plan Appeal From Ruling

HALIFAX, Feb. 6.—(CP)—The week-old increase of ½ per cent per gallon in the price of gasoline has been cancelled in the Maritime Provinces.

New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island wholesale dealers yesterday followed the lead of Nova Scotia's seven leading oil companies which made the reduction a few hours before the time the public utilities board said licenses would be cancelled if such action was not forthcoming.

One by one the Nova Scotia companies adhered to the demand by the board that the ¼-cent increase made last week-end be cancelled immediately. And then New Brunswick companies took a similar step, followed by Prince Edward Is. though companies in those two provinces were not involved in the Nova Scotia dispute.

Officials of the Provincial Government declined to interfere with the ruling by the board which controls such licenses, and last of the Nova Scotia companies capitulated a few hours before last night's deadline.

The companies, which claimed they did not require permission from the board to increase prices, were reported planning an appeal from the ruling.

GROOM VANISHES SPOILS WEDDING

Fiancee Suspects Foul Play As Stranger Had Been Following Him

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 6.—(CP)—Because Ruby Nicholson of Windsor last saw her 31-year-old fiance, William Albert Karn, one week ago, no wedding bells will ring for the couple to-day.

The groom, a garage mechanic, complained of sickness while at work last Saturday, collected his pay and vanished. Nineteen-year old Ruby blames foul play for the disappearance and has enlisted police aid in the search.

Karn told Ruby that four nights last week as he walked back to his hotel room from visiting her he had been followed by a "tall man." He was "pretty sure the tall man meant him no good."

Ruby met Karn December 26, beginning of a short hectic courtship. Thereafter Bill called upon Ruby every night. He also telephoned her twice a day.

Ruby lives at a bath house here where she is a domestic. Her mother resides at Leamington, 33 miles south-east of here.

REV. McCORMACK MINISTER OF KNOX PASSES SUDDENLY

Succumbs To Influenza After Only One Week's Illness

CAME HERE IN JULY

Succumbing to influenza after an illness of little more than a week, Rev. Samuel Garfield McCormack, pastor of Knox United Church, died at the Knox manse on King Street last evening. He was 52 years of age.

Still in the first year of his pastorate in this city, Mr. McCormack had engaged himself in a wide circle of activity and was well known throughout the city. He was born at Lynn, near Brockville, and gained his elementary education in the Brockville Public and High Schools. In 1912, he was awarded a Master of Arts degree on graduation from Queen's University.

He taught school for several years in Brockville and Listowel before entering the Presbyterian ministry. He was then given a charge at Whitby and a term in the pulpit of the Presbyterian Church at Newcastle followed. When church union was effected in 1925, he was serving at Madoc.

From Madoc he was called to the United Church at Thornton, near Barrie, and from there came to Knox United Church in Peterborough, succeeding Rev. William McDonald on July 1 last year.

He took an immediate interest in community ministerial affairs here and won himself the high regard of the members of his pastorate and his fellow ministers in the city. Particularly interested in religious educational work, he was to have taught a class at the religious training school at the Y.W.C.A. next month.

Rev. Mr. McCormack is survived by his wife, formerly Lila McLaren, and one sister, Mrs. Kate Mott of Lynn.

A private funeral service at the home is to be followed by a public service in Knox United Church at three o'clock Sunday afternoon, fellow ministers of the city officiating. The remains will be forwarded Monday morning to Mitchell, Ont., where interment will be made Monday afternoon.

Mass Meetings In Many Areas Indicate Third Great Trial Looming

GREAT NAMES INVOLVED

Leaders Determine 'Trotzkyist' Wrecking Conspiracy Must End

MOSCOW, Feb. 6.— (AP)—The greatest party purge since 1927 — when the names of Leon Trotzky and hundreds of his followers were scratched off the Communist roster —now is in full swing, reports from throughout Russia indicated today.

Hundreds of influential citizens already have been arrested and charged with participating in the so-called "Trotzkyist wrecking conspiracy," these advices showed.

Soviet industrial workers have demanded quick prosecution and the death sentence for Alexander Georgivich Belaborodoff, alleged Trotzkyist sabotage agent and one of the former Urals Soviet officials held responsible for the summary execution of Czar Nicholas and his family in 1918.

Belaborodoff, former president of the Orenburg Soviet, and dozens of other alleged Trotzykist leaders were arrested several weeks ago at Rostoff-on-the-Don.

Workers in the Rosa Luxemburg tobacco factory charged the prisoners participated in systematic sabotage of a great agricultural machinery plant and railways and coal mines in the Black Sea region.

20,000 Out of Jobs.

The machinery plant, which produces most of the combination harvester-reapers used in the Soviet collective farm program has encountered production difficulties for more than a month, throwing more than 20,000 workers temporarily out of employment.

By repeated resolutions— which usually are considered seriously by the Moscow government—the workers demanded official action to halt the alleged sabotage.

"We demand mercilessly that justice be applied to the terrorists," said one resolution directed to the Kremlin. Another group asked "the most severe punishment."

The Rostoff Communist party committee dismissed its Secretary General E. I. Livshitz, whose provincial authority corresponds to the national power of Joseph Salin, party secretary-general.

Third Trial In View

Mass meetings in many sections indicated a third great trial may be expected soon. It will involve men who once stood as high or higher in the party and government than those who have already been executed by firing squads, following conviction in the last few months.

Among the expected new defendants are Nikolai Bukharin, former editor of the government newspaper Investia, and Alexix Rykoff, who succeeded Nikolai Lenin as Russian premier during the latter's long illness prior to his death.

Bukharin has been called — by Communist party leaders — "The head of the so-called right centre which plotted with other Trotzkyist groups for the restoration of capitalism."

Plenty of Severe Colds But No Influenza Here

No Cases of Influenza Reported To M.O.H. In Past Five Weeks

MONTH FOR COLDS

Dr. G. Murray Fraser, medical officer of health, is authority for the statement that there is no epidemic of influenza in the city. Although influenza and pneumonia are both reportable diseases, he asserted no cases of this type have come to his notice in a period of five weeks.

The M.O.H. admitted "There are a lot of colds of a severe type involving the upper respiratory system, including the nose, throat and ears and some cases of grippe. But," he stressed, "that is not flu. Influenza is something much more severe with lung involvement."

He declared that some medical men and most laymen classify every case of common cold or grippe as influenza, and pointed out there is a marked difference between the type of cold and grippe prevailing in the city, and the influenza that swept the community in epidemic form in 1918.

While he did not believe that alternate spells of mild and not so mild weather or the large amount of dampness experienced this winter has a very great bearing on the epidemic of colds, the M.O.H. expressed the opinion it was due to a particularly virulent type of infection which is common at this period of the year. He classified the months of February and March as being the normal period when pneumonia takes its largest toll, because of the fact that the resistance of the body is particularly low at this period of the year.

Dr. Fraser's statement relative to the absence of influenza was based on a check which he made of the two local hospitals and some medical practitioners. He reported there were five suspected cases of pneumonia at Nicholls Hospital this morning, but received a denial to rumors that the space of the hospital is so taxed that beds have been placed in corridors.

BLASTED BRIDGES HAMPER REBELS

LISBON, Portugal, Feb. 6 (AP).—General Gonzalo Queipo de Llano, commander of the Spanish insurgent army in the south, announced today he had launched a renewed violent attack on the Malaga front.

Queipo de Llano, in a broadcast over the Fascist-controlled radio station at Seville, Spain, said four motorized columns had captured three villages to the north and northeast of the strongly-held Socialist shipping centre.

The westernmost column on the northern front of the Malaga sector was aimed at Antequera, 25 miles almost due north of the beleaguered Provincial capital. The other three pressed against Archidona, Loja and Alhama, almost equally distant to the north-east from the Mediterranean port.

The advance, the General said, had been hampered by Government demolition squadrons which blew up bridges and dikes and flooded the surrounding territory, drenched for more than a week previously by heavy rains.

The insurgent station at Valladolid reported the insurgent navy, massed in the Mediterranean to support the land drive, had torpedoed and sunk a Soviet steamer loaded with munitions which was steaming toward Catalonia.

The Government's Canadian general, Emil Kleber, former commander of the International Brigade at Madrid, has arrived at Malaga, the Valladolid broadcaster said, to organize the Socialist defences.

LOST STUDENT FEARED VICTIM OF FOUL PLAY

Wiarton Man 28, Last Seen Drawing Money From Hamilton Bank Jan. 14

FATHER SINCE DIED

Case Believed To Have Hastened Death—Mother Gravely Ill

WIARTON, Ont., Feb 6 (CP)—Search spread throughout Ontario today for 28-year-old Jack Daykin, missing from his home in this Georgian Bay town since Jan. 14. He was a theological student at McMaster University in Hamilton where police started the hunt.

Relatives fear he has met with foul play. He was last seen at a bank in Hamilton. He had withdrawn some money and it is feared someone saw him with it and he became a victim of foul play.

The father, Walter Daykin, Hydro superintendent at Wiarton, died Jan. 25 from pleurisy. The mother is now ill. It is believed the shock of the son's disappearance hastened the father's death.

Silence was maintained until yesterday concerning the missing youth. When police could gain no trace of him it was decided to make his disappearance public in the hope it might lead to his return.

Daykin went back to McMaster after his Christmas vacation at home. At the time of his disappearance he had been dismissed from study so he could prepare for examinations. He went to Mr. and Mrs. Daniel McIntyre's home in the Delta district, Hamilton, at noon of Jan. 14.

He told Mr. and Mrs. McIntyre he had a week's vacation and after dinner went to a bank where he withdrew the money. Since then he has not been seen.

Mrs. Daniel McIntyre, at whose home Daykin had lived, was unable to give any information today as to his possible fate. He had spoken to her about finding a boarding house, and when he disappeared she thought he had gone to another place and would return later for his belongings. Mr. and Mrs. McIntyre were childhood friends of the theologian.

BERNIE SWINGS FLOORS OFFICER

Old Maestro Resents Wise-Cracks

It was a one-punch bout, witnesses said, with the victim requiring 20 minutes to be revived.

Bernie said he was leading his "Lads" in a musical number when a man in the throng of dancers neared the band stand and ribbed him about the cigar in his mouth.

A few moments later, he asserted, the dancing annoyer approached again, this time calling him harsher names. Gay diners-out in the movie colony night spot saw Bernie step down from the stand and uncork a left hook to the chin. The man fell.

The band leader's knuckles were skinned and two fingers sprained. His opponent identified himself as a naval officer on leave, and departed after expressing his apologies, attendants reported.

LEGACY FROM FATHER

Princess Royal And Earl Harewood Expected To Stay Week In Austria

LONDON, Feb. 6—(C.P.-Havas)—The Princess Royal and the Earl of Harewood left Victoria Station to-day for Austria, where they will visit the Duke of Windsor. They are expected to spend about a week in Austria.

The Associated Press reported "a person close to the royal family" as saying the Princess Royal's purpose in visiting the Duke of Windsor is to help untangle the Duke's financial affairs.

Whether the former King Edward will receive a government allowance, or an allowance from his family, the amount, and a proposal for the sale of Sandringham were suggested as reasons for the visit.

King George V. left Sandringham to his "eldest son," not to "the King," an informant said. It was reported the present King and Queen Mary want to buy it, and that the Duke of Windsor is asking $750,000, while King George and the Queen Mother offered $500,000.

While Edward was King he altered the administration of Sandringham, but with the advent of George VI it is being restored to its former state. It is said to be a bargain even at $750,000, about half the original cost to Edward VII.

BENNETT OBJECTS TO CHANGING C.N.R. LONG-TERM DEBT

Claims Howe's Bill Does "Violence To Sound Principles Of Finance"

AIR OUTLAYS BROUGHT UP

OTTAWA, Feb. 6.—(CP)— With some $3,000,000,000 from the public treasuries invested in all forms of transportation, the $1,500,000,000 invested in the Canadian National Railways should not be singled out for special treatment or regarded as a cause of special concern, Transport Minister Howe told the House of Commons yesterday.

On motion of Mr. Howe his bill to revise the capital structure of the government-owned railway was given second reading and referred to the committee on railways and shipping. There was no opposition. Mr. Howe bulked together the amounts expended from time to time by the government on other railways, waterways and shipping, highways, and aviation, to give the entire picture of public investment in transportation.

The bill did "violence to sound principles of finance," Conservative Leader Bennett told the House. He had no objection to writing off the book values attached to the capital stock of the Canadian National Railways and the Canadian Northern Railway but he did object to any change in the long-term debt of the railways.

Mr. Howe said the actual government investment in the Canadian National was not important except that the system was competing with a privately-owned railway which stood on its own feet. In fairness to the competitor a record should be kept of the money invested in the national system.

Record Needed For Comparison.

In Mr. Bennett's view the keeping of such a record was necessary to test the value of the nationalization plan as compared with others, to establish the relationship between freight rates and capital structure and to keep employees of the rail-

Slump Cost World Much As Great War

Geneva, Feb. 6 (AP)

PROF. Vladimir Woytinsky, a European economist, has put a price tag on the world depression of from 1930 to 1934. The professor, in a report published by the International Labor Office, figured the loss to the world economic system at from 149,000 to 176,000 million "1928 dollars" or 100,000 to 125,000 million "1913 dollars." This "fateful figure, equal to the total cost of the Great War," and all "outward signs of the great depression may be attributed to the fact that the wheels of the gigantic machinery of capitalist industry were turning more slowly or had ceased to turn altogether," said the report.

MARRIAGE THE STAKE

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo., Feb. 6—(AP)—While Harold Hulen, the radiator Romeo, dozed outside a closed bedroom door, his love flew out the window — and boarded an airliner for New York early today.

Miss Florence Hurlbut, 20-year-old brunette, slipped out of a bedroom window at the home of T. E. Crawford, where she had taken temporary refuge, and fled without awakening her "sit-down" lover. She drove to Kansas City where she boarded the plane.

Hulen started his strike chained to a radiator in Miss Hurlbut's apartment, announcing he would not move until she made up her mind about a marriage proposal. But when the girl moved to the home of Crawford, who is Hulen's uncle, the striker moved also, chaining himself to a radiator outside the guest bed-room.

To follow Miss Hurlbut's next move, however, won't be so easy—as Hulen will find when he awakens.

Brantford Safe Robbed Each Spring Yields Nothing In Latest Raid.

BRANTFORD, Ont., Feb. 6 (CP).—Spring is in the offing. The "regular" spring opening of the safe of the Brantford Collegiate Institute took place during the night. A window on the ground floor was forced, then the pins lifted off the safe hinges, but the thieves got little for their pains. The safe has been lifted regularly for some years in the spring, and nothing of value is now left in it. A crowbar and two hammers left on the scene may help in tracing the culprits.

Hoare States Britain Leaving Extent of Aid In Hands Each Member

Imposing Rigid Plan Would Be Mistake Lord Of Admiralty Believes

A HEAVY BURDEN

Open Discussion Of Vital Question Set For Imperial Parley

BRADFORD, England, Feb. 6.—(CP)—Interest in the forthcoming imperial conference centred today on the part the Dominions will play in the costly problem of defending the Empire.

Sir Samuel Hoare, first lord of the admiralty, declared the Dominions would be given an opportunity to decide at the conference, to follow the coronation, to what extent they "are prepared to cooperate."

"The chief burden of defence — a very heavy burden—falls at present in the shoulders of Great Britain," Sir Samuel maintained last night in a speech to the Bradford chamber of commerce. "But, anxious as we are to lighten it, we should make a great mistake if we tried to impose some rigid plan on other members of the Empire.

"We must tell them the position. We will have an opportunity at the Imperial Conference, and we will leave it to them to decide how far they are prepared or able to cooperate with us."

RETRIEVES GLASS OF OLD CATHEDRAL

Fragment Of Salisbury Cathedral Glass Is Located On Alberta Ranch

SALISBURY, Eng., Feb. 6—(C.P.)—A fragment of window glass, taken as a souvenir 60 years ago, has been sent by Joseph Smith, a rancher, who lives near Innisfail, Alberta, to Dr. Stanley Baker, who, 10 years ago, began a search for the lost 13th century glass of Salisbury Cathedral.

This is one of many bits sent to Dr. Baker from all over the world. The glass is believed to have been taken out of the Cathedral windows during a so-called restoration in the latter part of the 18th century and kept in a glaziers workshop until about 1875, when it was dumped in the town ditch. Much of it has been recovered by Dr. Baker, a vicar choral of Salisbury Cathedral, who patiently works in his house in the Close restoring it.

Two small but beautiful panels were sent from across the Atlantic by Dr. Roderick Terry of Newport, R.I., but for the most part Dr. Baker has had to piece small fragments together. He looks to the time when his labors will be rewarded by the replacement of plain glass in the Cathedral by the original panels.

Saskatchewan Farmer Writes To Express Thanks For Help Received

(Examiner Correspondence.)

DOURO, Feb. 6.—Of interest to those who contributed to the carload of vegetables, etc., which was shipped to the drought-stricken West, from this locality, will be a letter received by Mr. James Sweeney of Douro. Mr. Sweeney had placed a letter in a bag of potatoes and recently received the following letter:

Simmie, Sask.,
Jan. 9, 1937.

Dear Mr. Sweeney:

We are late in answering your letter, expressing our feeling of thankfulness for the potatoes, which you had sent to us. They were received in good condition.

We are a family of seven, living on a farm in the drought area of Saskatchewan. We, ourselves, rent the farm to our neighbors. We have farmed for twenty years, and during the past eight years have had poor crops, the best of these being harvested in 1932, when we received nineteen bushels to the acre. In 1936 we did not get our seed back. We are living on relief and have done so for six years. Hoping good times are near.

Yours sincerely,
Mrs. Peter Johnson..

JURY FINDS INDIAN WOMAN SHOT MAN IN SELF-DEFENCE

Must Stand Trial For Murder—Killed Her Husband's Brother

BREAKING INTO CABIN

CHAPLEAU, Ont., Feb. 6—(C.P.)—Accused of shooting a young prospector who attempted to break into her cabin home, Mrs. Agnes Saylors will stand trial for murder. She was committed for trial by Magistrate Willard Cooper after a coroner's jury found she shot in self defence.

Willie Saylors, 26-year-old prospector and brother of Henry Sayers, the woman's husband, was the shooting victim. It is charged the 32-year-old Indian woman shot the young prospector with a rifle as he attempted to enter her home as she was alone with her four-year-old daughter.

The shooting occurred January 29 on the Cree Indian Reserve, near here. The inquest, under Coroner J. J. Sheahan, was held yesterday after which Mrs. Saylors appeared before the magistrate. Her husband, charged with complicity, was acquitted by the magistrate.

Fired Warning Shots

Testimony revealed the Indian woman fired three times to warn Saylors when he came to the cabin while Mrs. Saylors' husband was in Chapleau. When he crashed through the door the fatal shot was fired.

Dr. R. J. Ball, in his testimony before the inquest, said when he went to the cabin to examine the body he found it lying at the opening which had been made in the door. Mrs. George Fortunate and Evelyn Gategee testified they saw Mrs. Saylors when she came to Chapleau to tell her husband of the shooting.

The two women testified Mrs. Saylors told them her story of the slain man's visit to her home. Robert Mercer, Provincial Police Constable P. Poland, Chief Constable P. Dorry and Henry Saylors also gave evidence.

C.N.R. Revision Given Second Reading—Post Office Shows $3,000,000 Surplus

LARGEST IN HISTORY

OTTAWA, Feb. 6.—(CP).—Commendation came from many quarters of the House of Commons last night to Postmaster General Elliott for the business-like manner in which he conducted his department and the fact that he has placed it on a paying basis. There was also some criticism.

This was in marked contrast to past records. Post office estimates have customarily been most productive of acrimonious debate. But the spirit of harmony that has featured the present session continued throughout the day. Two important government measures were advanced.

Finance Minister Dunning's bill to sanction the home improvement loan scheme was considered in committee of the whole and all but two sections adopted with minor amendments.

Transport Minister Howe obtained second reading of his bill to revise the capital structure of the Canadian National Railways and it will be considered in detail before the committee on railways and shipping.

Mr Elliott was able to announce that operations of the post office department for the current fiscal year would reveal the largest surplus in its history, more than $3,000,000. He was commended by Conservative Leader Bennett, who expressed belief the department should be operated like any other business concern.

This figure Mr. Elliott said, did not include the service the department provided members of Parliament and other departments of government by carrying mail free of charge. The value of this service was estimated at $1,100,763. In addition it cost $80,000 to operate the postal savings bank and any profit from the bank went direct to the consolidated revenue fund.

Urge Clear Arrangement.

Gordon Isnor (Lib. Halifax), A. A. Heaps (C.C.F.-Winnipeg North) and R. J. Deachman (Lib. Huron North) urged a better arrangement of post office department accounts so that the real surplus or deficit could be shown. They suggested the cost of buildings, now paid by the Public Works Department and of steamship subsidies in so far as they paid for the carriage of mail should be charged to the post office department while services performed by the post office for other departments should be charged back.

Mr. Elliott said he knew something of the public works department, having one time headed it, and he knew that in the matter of

"I guess it's in their blood," their father, an old parachute jumper, commented. "We'll probably get an 8-foot balloon and let them do the triple drop."

Clerk Proposes Bolting Plates On Loosely When Girl Asks Number She Can Vibrate To.

SANTA ANA, Calif., Feb. 6 (CP) — The Orange County automobile license clerk, accustomed to being asked for tags corresponding to such things as telephone or house numbers, encountered a new request.

"I only vibrate to certain numbers," said a feminine applicant. "My business has been bad and I think if I can get a vibrating number it will help."

The clerk was unable to oblige but he had a happy suggestion.

"If you'll just bolt that plate on your car a little bit loose, the numbers will vibrate plenty."

UP FOR BIGAMY CASE OF CHINESE PUZZLES COURT

Charged With Marrying Toronto Girl He Claims His First Marriage Illegal

CHILD BRIDE TAKEN AWAY

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 6.—(CP).—A secret marriage to a Chinese child bride who had been whisked away a few weeks later by disapproving parents was told in police court yesterday by Counsel James Clark in extenuation of bigamy committed by 23 year old Ralph Lee, son of a Chinese laundryman, when he went through a form of marriage here with Hazel Nicholson, 20 year old Toronto white girl, January 26.

Lee was remanded in custody until February 13 so further investigation of the case may be made He was arrested last week after admitting the previous marriage and the court has now to decide what sentence should be imposed.

Counsel Clarke maintained that while the Chinese might be legally guilty of bigamy, his first marriage in 1933 was invalid by Chinese law and custom because the bride was but 17 and had not obtained her parent's consent.

First Marriage Secret.

"The marriage was in secret," Mr. Clark said. "When the parents found out they took the girl with them to Vancouver. That was three weeks after the marriage and Lee has never seen the girl since."

Magistrate David Brodie expressed the opinion steps should have been taken to have the marriage annuled. Mr. Clark agreed but pointed out because this legal step had been overlooked, Lee was now charged with bigamy.

Mr. Clark said he had known the Chinese all his life and had also known his father in Ingersoll. He recalled teaching the young Chinese to read and sending him to Sunday school.

Lee and the Toronto girl were married in a Baptist church here. The girl was arrested the following day on a warrant issued by her parents charging her with being incorrigible. Lee was arrested January 29.

SOME EXEMPTIONS

Windsor To Allow Certain Small Grocers, Butchers To Stay Open Evenings.

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 6 (CP) — City council, at a special meeting last night, directed City Solicitor Bruce Macdonald to draft necessary amendments to make exempt from the city's early-closing by-law, grocers, butchers and other lines of business where possible, in whose behalf representations for such exemption had been submitted.

Majority of council members felt that forced closing at seven p.m. week nights and 10 p.m. Saturday rendered a hardship to small independent stores which previously had transacted the bulk of their business during evening hours.

Friday night, word was received from Millbrook that Mr. Carveth himself died yesterday after a few days' illness from pneumonia: his unexpected passing following so closely upon the death of his wife being a shock to the community.

RIBBENTROP WILL ASK GERMANY'S COLONIES RETURN

Hopes To Persuade Britain To Give Up Tanganyika And Cameroons

LIBERALS OPPOSED

LONDON, Feb. 6—(CP Cable)—Joachim Von Ribbentrop, the German ambassador, it was learned today, will shortly submit to the British government a request for the return to Germany of her pre-war colonies. He probably will see Viscount Halifax, to be acting foreign secretary during Anthony Eden's absence at Monte Carlo this coming week.

Ribbentrop's aim is to obtain British recognition in principle of the justice of Germany's claim. The colonies held under British mandate, of which Germany is most anxious to secure the return, are understood to be Tanganyika and Cameroons.

Tanganyika, formerly German East Africa, exports sisal, cotton, coffee, ground nuts, beeswax, diamonds and gold. Cameroons, administered as part of Nigeria, exports cocoa, palm oil and kernels, rubber and bananas. It is largely on account of the vegetable oils that Germany wants Cameroons back. They are regarded as a valuable substitute for animals fats, of which Germany is short.

Both Tanganyika and Cameroons are held by Britain under "B" mandates which provide that the mandatory power guarantee freedom of conscience and religion subject only to the maintenance of public order and morals, prohibit slave, arms and liquor traffic and prevent the establishment of fortifications, military and naval bases, and the military training of natives for other than police purposes and defence of the territory. The mandatory power also undertakes to secure equal opportunities of trade and commerce for the other members of the league.

Sir Archibald Sinclair, Liberal leader in the House of Commons, speaking at the National Liberal club today, was emphatic that no territory should be handed over to Germany "merely as a bribe to keep her quiet in Western Europe."

NUTS IN MICHIGAN

Islington Man Claims Any Kind Can Be Grown There.

DETROIT, Feb. 6.—(CP).—Michigan can grow any type of nut that is produced anywhere in the United States, Europe or Asia, according to George Hebden Corran of Islington, Ont., Toronto suburb, here with 300 varieties to be shown Detroit Boy Scouts.

Corsan, 77, has 20 acres of nuts on his Islington farm and more than 300 varieties. They range from English walnuts to paper shell pecans and from chestnuts to a hybrid of pecan and old-fashioned hickory nut.

"Nuts always bring good prices," Corsan said. Years ago Corsan was swimming instructor at University of Toronto.

NATIONS AFRAID ATTACK GERMANY

So Goebbels Boasts — Says Nazi Only Real Foe Of Communism

BERLIN, Feb. 6 (C.P.-Havas). — Belief Germany is so strong that "no one dares to attack us," is held by Propaganda Minister Goebbels.

Issued last night, the text of his address at Hamburg the previous night showed Goebbels had guaranteed "in the most formal manner" that a serious conflict would not be the outcome of "hostilities" between Germany and other countries.

The reason he felt so positive was "not because we are giving in to all our enemies ask of us, but because no one dares attack us."

Goebbels devoted most of his address to an attack on international Bolshevism against which, he said, Germany "looms to-day as the only foe...which is taken seriously. In four years the Reich has become a great power."

Answering Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden's hope that Europe would not be divided into two camps, Goebbels said:

"The fact is that along Europe's frontiers there exists a people with 180,000,000 inhabitants whose chiefs are resolved to drag other peoples into the whirlpool of anarchy." Two formations founded on such different conceptions of the world could not exist together, he said. Intellectual conflict or conflict by force was inevitable.

The minister said France was going along the same road that Germany had found itself on until "two cried 'halt.'" He cited Spain as a "classic example" of Bolshevism's threat and referred to Czechoslovakia as "practically....an aircraft carrier for Moscow."

Germany's faith in bilateral treaties was reaffirmed by the speaker who said that "we have succeeded in uprooting Bolshevist or half-Bolshevist infection in one or another of Europe's states, little by little and through laborious effort."

THIS TIME HE SKATED

George Douglas Makes Another Water Trip to Lakefield
(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 6. — George Douglas who shortly more than a week ago paddled from his home about four miles north of here, to the village in record time, because of large quantities of water which were flooding the lake and river, reported that he was able to skate to Lakefield one day this week. Although the lake is not frozen across in all places, there is enough ice on either side of the water to make skating safe.

A woman at Geelong, Australia, bought an old desk for $37 and found a packet of uncut diamonds valued at $15,000.

Do This For a Cold

1. Take 2 "ASPIRIN" tablets and drink a full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours.

2. If throat is sore, crush and stir 3 "ASPIRIN" tablets in ½ glass of water. Gargle twice.

The Modern-Day Way to Ease Cold and Sore Throat Quickly

The modern way to curb a cold is: Two "Aspirin" tablets the moment you feel a cold coming on. Repeat, if needed, according to directions in box.

At the same time, if you have a sore throat, crush and dissolve three "Aspirin" tablets in one-third glass of water. And gargle with this mixture twice.

The "Aspirin" you take internally will act to combat fever, cold pains and the cold itself. The gargle will provide almost instant relief from rawness and pain, acting like a local anesthetic on the irritated throat membrane.

Try this way. Your doctor will endorse it. It is quick, effective and ends the taking of strong medicines for a cold.

● "Aspirin" tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trade-mark of the Bayer Company, Limited, of Windsor, Ontario. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every tablet.

Jesus the Light of the World

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Feb. 7 is the seventh, eighth and ninth chapters of John, especially John 8:12, 31, 32; 9:1-11, the Golden Text being John 8:12, "I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in the darkness, but shall have the light of life.")

TO A WORLD in hunger Christ came saying, "I am the bread of life"; in its darkness of spiritual world"; to one to whom the door of spiritual fellowship has been closed by unwarranted excommunication, "I am the door"; to people at the mercy of false shepherds, "I am the good shepherd"; to friends bereaved by death, "I am the resurrection and the life"; to disciples troubled about the hereafter, "I am the way, the truth and the life"; to followers doubtful of their fruitfulness, "I am the vine, ye are the branches." Whatever our need, Jesus is its abundant supply.

They were celebrating the Feast of Tabernacles. Its was an annual pageant dramatizing the history of their ancestors' wandering in the wilderness. So for a week the people lived in tents and booths of branches as their fathers had for 40 years. In the wilderness wanderings God gave their fathers water from a rock smitten by Moses' rod. Here Jesus claimed that rock represented Him, saying, "If any man thirst, let him come unto Me and drink. He that believeth on Me, as the scripture hath said, from within him shall flow rivers of living water." God had guided their fathers through their wilderness wanderings by a pillar of fire which was their light by night. This, too, as well as the smitten rock, was a type and foreshadowing of Christ: "Again therefore Jesus spake unto them saying, I am the light of the world: he that followeth Me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life."

How much the world of darkness needed Jesus as its Light! Those close to Him in His own family were in darkness regarding Him and His mission to the world: "For even His brethren did not believe on Him." Even greater was the willful blindness of the spiritual leaders who were even then six months before the crucifixion seeking to kill Jesus. The people suspected it saying "Can it be that the rulers indeed know that this is the Christ?" That they did actually know, and therefore were willfully rejecting the light is evident from Christ's severe condemnation. "Ye both know Me, and know whence I am: and I am not came of Myself, but He that sent me is true, whom ye know not." The reason they were rejecting Him was because they were deliberately planning to extinguish the light of truth. So Jesus said to those who were still open-minded, "If ye abide in My word then are ye truly My disciples; and ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." The willful blindness of His murderous opponents He explained, saying "Ye are of your father the devil:...for this cause ye hear not, because ye are not of God."

Healing the Blind

As proof of His right to claim to be the light of the world, Jesus thereupon healed a man born blind, saying, "When I am in the world I am the light of the world." But despite this amazing proof and the man's testimony, "One thing I know, that whereas I was blind, now I see," they excommunicated the man. Thus they brought on themselves Christ's judgment, "Your sin remaineth."

The Golden Text

John 8: 12—"I am the light of the world; he that followeth me shall not walk in the darkness, but shall have the light of life."

WATER! WATER!!

Three-fourths of the known globe weighted with the precious fluid; a fluid bequeathed to us in streams, in streamlets, in rivers and lakes, in oceans and in seas.

Water, which quenches thirst in man, beast, bird, everything; the divine elixir of life.

Water, refreshing, heavenly, spring water for the dusty foot-sore traveller, as he trudges wearily along the country lane; water, which he gulps down with frantic glee, as it flows gushingly to the roadside from the lone mountain top.

Water, priceless cordial to the parched wayfarer of the sandy desert. See how eagerly he quaffs the flowing goblet of crystal water: water of more intrinsic value than sparkling diamonds or glittering gold.

Water used by the gentle nurse to bathe the fevered temple of the patient hovering between life and death; a balm of divinity applied to assuage the material and spiritual anguish of those weary souls who lie imprisoned upon their couches of pain.

Rain, the rich wine of heaven, the purified gift of God to the thirsty institutions of Mother Earth, the rain which tumbles and rolls earthwards from the overflowing tanks of the distant heavens. The rain, which, is lapped lovingly, as it descends from its heavenly reservoirs, by the scorched flowers and plants of the garden and the wayside and by the proud old trees and tender saplings of the mighty forest.

The rain, the God-given rain, the rain that is cheerfully kissed by the choking earth, after its long journey from the distant cloud-vaults of the Hidden Palace of God.

Ah! the lovely splendour of the silent waters of the placid lakes. Lakes, surrounded by bewitching scenes of pastoral beauty; lakes upon whose verdant banks and herb-strewn plains the newly-born lamb gambols in the innocence and exuberance of unbridled joy.

The waterfalls! The waterfalls, which, at wintertide, foam angrily, as their furious waters leap wildly and roar loudly, whilst tumbling madly and violently over the giddy heights which separate them from the gentler waters below. But, watch the same waterfalls in the glorious noontide of a summer day. How inspiring to gaze upon them, as they playfully trip over the same course, amidst divine scenes of sylvan beauty, chanting messages of of music, messages which we do not yet understand, messages breathing poems of joy and of love, messages symbolical of the cascades which had given them birth.

And, now, come in spirit and watch the water trickling down the sides of the mighty mountain, water breathlessly hurrying towards the sleepy valley below there to form the genesis, it may be, of a tiny brook, the alpha of a noble river.

The waters of the rivers! Rivers which wend their joyful way through peaceful scenes of rural beauty, past the smoke-begrimed towns of Man, scampering zig-zag over dislodged rocks and strange, loose pebbles, hurrying here, sauntering there, moaning today, singing tomorrow; rivers, waterways, upon which perhaps will float the giant ships of Man; ships coursing their way towards the sea, the mysterious and the eternal sea.

And the sea! The wonderful sea! the sea, the rivers, the strange, sea that has ever baffled humanity; the sea the rivers, the strange, mystic waters of a never-ending eternity.

CATHEDRAL MUSINGS

IN the rush and stress of modern life it is of vital importance to our mental and spiritual well-being that from time to time we step aside, as it were, from the world and restore ourselves in meditation. If we would know ourselves, if we desire even the most transitory impression of the radiant, deathless being, the true Self who is the "body-dweller" we must learn to meditate. We must learn to lay aside the temporary impressions of the outer self, the self of this world, and as Jacob Boehme and others have pointed out, we must cease from all our outer thinking and willing and rest in That which is within us. We must, as Jesus said, commune with the Father in secret; in the sanctuary of our hearts. It is not in the outer tempest and turmoil of this world that we can hear the voice of God, but in the still small voice He ever speaks within us, if we will but listen. "Be still and know I am the Lord." Cease for the time from all our striving, all our worrying and rest in Him. The mystics of all ages have recorded the truth and value of such attunement and meditative contemplation. It should be a daily practice. But to be of value the meditation should be complete. It is of very little use to have part of the mind on one thing and another part flitting here and there on a hundred trivialities. The mind must be disciplined and trained to keep to one thing and not wander from it. As an example take love, examine it in all its aspects, rejecting the lower and dwelling on the higher, see how human love is but a faint reflection of the Divine Love, until finally we come to the love of God for man, then let the mind dwell on that. Contemplate the Divine Love from all sides, not in active furious thinking for this will defeat one's object, but in abstractive contem-

FAITHFUL HONOR DWIGHT MOODY

Pilgrims From Canada, U.S., Over World Journey to Chicago For 100th Anniversary

CHICAGO, Feb. 6 (A.P.)—Thousands of the faithful gathered yesterday to honor the memory of Dwight L. Moody, the evangelist, who carried the gospel to 100,000,000 persons.

From cities scattered through Canada and the United States and from 15 foreign countries they came to participate in ceremonies commemorating the 100th anniversary of his birth.

Similar, but smaller, groups will observe the centennial throughout the world tonight, paying tribute to the short, stout, dark and bearded man who forsook the business of selling shoes for his chosen work of saving souls.

Moody was born February 5, 1837, in East Northfield, Mass. At 17, he left home, learned the shoe business in Boston and migrated to Chicago. He opened a Bible class. The first members were urchins he corralled on the streets and tipplers he coaxed from saloons. His public and his reputation grew. He moved to larger quarters.

Eventually he set off on a preaching trail that was to take him almost 1,000,000 miles through America and the British Isles. In 1889 he established the Moody Bible Institute here. Moody died in his native East Northfield in 1899.

TRUTH AND JUSTICE ARE STILL WAITING

Statues For Memorial Of Edward The Peacemaker Have Been Stored 13 Years

By Margaret Bruce
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

By MARGARET BRUCE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

OTTAWA, Feb. 6.—(CP)—Truth and Justice rest here in an old building next door to a once roaring hotel—waiting for Edward the Peacemaker. They have waited 13 years and may wait in vain.

Truth and Justice, 10 feet tall, were brought here in 1924 from the Toronto studio of Walter S. Allward, creator of the Canadian Memorial at Vimy Ridge, to form part of a great monument to Edward VII the "Peacemaker."

A quarter century ago Allward won a competition that gained him a commission to create a bronze and granite memorial, commemorating the late King Edward. His design was selected from 49 entries because a jury decided it conveyed more than the others a sense of peace, security and power.

Before Allward could start work the Great War broke out. Allward waited till 1922, then went to Europe to begin work.

A new difficulty arose. Prices of bronze and granite had skyrocketed and cost of the materials for the monuument reached a figure far higher than the $35,000 earmarked for the work.

In 1924, however, Allward completed the bronze figures of Truth and Justice and shipped them to Ottawa. They were placed in storage next door to the old Vendome hotel that once echoed to the shouts of Ottawa Valley farmers. The rest of the memorial has not been finished and the cost of the two figures stands at $6,000.

For Parliament Hill

The monument, 54 feet long, 30 deep and 19 high, was to have stood on Parliament Hill, but its proposed site is now occupied by a statue of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, unveiled in 1937 by the Duke of Windsor when he was Prince of Wales.

Sketches of the memorial show a great wall of granite with a gentle approach of steps. Just below the top of the wall reclines a bronze figure of Peace. Some distance away lies a half-buried cannon overgrown with olive branches. Below and to the right stands the figure of the King, thoughtful strong, dignified.

"Through peace and justice he strove that war "might cease and peace descend over all the earth."

5 YEARS FOR STABBING WIFE.

TORONTO, Feb. 6—(C.P.).—Five years in penitentiary was the sentence given today by Mr. Justice G. F. McFarland in Assize Court today to Joseph Savink, 46, Austrian convicted of manslaughter in the stabbing last summer of his wife. The original charge of murder was reduced to manslaughter by the jury which last week returned a conviction on the lesser count and a strong recommendation for mercy.

National Message

S Paul declares the true position for the watchmen to take in regard to the matter when he says: "Yea, though we have known Christ after the flesh, yet now henceforth know we Him no more."

It is essential that we know Him as the right hand of God's power from before the foundation of the world.

Jesus is King of kings and Lord of lords: "In Him dwelleth all the fulness of the Godhead bodily." Such is His power that in swearing that His people shall be delivered from all oppression in the Kingdom the Father swears by Him, as by His own right hand. He is an infinitely potent Christ. That His enemies will know when they try conclusion with Him, as they will be so doing in the near future.

Said a Jew to a friend of mine: "If Jesus Christ returned to earth again and put Himself in the power of the Jewish people we should crucify Him again." Whether that Jew rightly estimated the attitude of His people, I do not know. I do know that multitudes of them would repudiate the saying. But be that as it may, there will be no further crucifixion of Jesus, neither in fact nor in symbol. In that He died, He died unto sin once; and death hath no more dominion over Him. On the contrary, He hath dominion over death. When the forces of evil make war with the Lamb, as they will do when He comes, the Lamb shall overcome them; for He is the King of Kings and Lord of lords and they that are with Him are called, and chosen, and faithful.

In Him is vested all power and might and dominion. Before Him all the forces of evil must fall. He is the executive of the Father. He is the right hand of God.

He will see that the people are protected in the enjoyment of that which they have produced. This is part of the administration of the King of kings and Lord of lords.

NAMES SIX TESTS OF ANY RELIGION

English Professor Places High Value In Its Part In Social Life

LONDON, Feb. 6 (CP)—Six tests which might be applied to any religion were mentioned by Dr. A. E. Garvie, Emeritus Principal of New College, Hampstead, opening a discussion on the philosophy of education.

They were: Utilitarian value, or what it could do to promote human value; was it ugly or beautiful in its expression? what of the part it played in social activities; its moral values and standards; its power of enabling as well as enjoining; and its ability in the end to lift man above and beyond the limitations of time and space.

Dr. Garvie announced that the Church of England and schools throughout the country would celebrate June 19, 1938, the quarter-centenary of the Privy Council's Order in 1538 to provide a printed copy of the Bible for every parish church. Early in 1938 a series of lessons on the Bible would be started in all the schools, and a committee under Dr. Scott Lidgett was now planning a syllabus.

NORHAM

AUXILIARY SHOWS BALANCE OF $191

Norham Church Organization Had Excellent Year—Presentation Decided Upon

NORHAM, Feb. 6.—The January meeting of the Norham Women's Association was held at the home of Mrs. George Palmateer on Friday afternoon with a good attendance. The president, Mrs. Stanley Brenton, was in charge. After the devotional exercises the roll call was answered by a good suggestion for this year's meetings.

The financial report for 1936 was read by the secretary, showing a bank balance of $191 at the beginning of the New Year. Business matters were discussed and it was decided that the Women's Association donate $17 to the Sunday School and $35 to the church treasury to balance the 1936 budget.

The society decided to make a gift of a new church Hymnary and a sum of money to Miss Emma West, the young lady who played the church organ the greater part of the year, when the regular organist, Mrs. Harry Wilson, was ill. The president announced that material had been purchased for new quilts and work would be started at the February meeting. The W.A. have arranged to have a social evening in the church hall on the evening of February 19th and the following committee of ladies was appointed to arrange the program and menu: Mrs. Percy Windover, Mrs. Lorne Evans, Mrs. Emma Cole and Mrs. Martin Peterson.

Mrs. Cole gave a reading to close the meeting and a contest was won by Mrs. C. H. Curtis and Mrs. Lorne Evans, after which a dainty lunch was served. The February meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. E. Cole.

Dealing With War Policies

The House of Commons did not show much sympathy with a resolution introduced by J. S. Woodsworth, C.C.F. leader, that Canada should adopt a policy of neutrality in case of war, no matter who the contending parties might be. It did not get very far when it turned to debate the resolution of T. C. Douglas, Social Creditor member of Weyburn, asking conscription of all resources in case of war.

Mr. Woodsworth's resolution was so worded that it could not be supported. If it were found that some foreign power decided to launch an attack on Canada we could not remain neutral even if the parliament of the country had passed the Woodsworth resolution to that effect. Every last man in the country would be out reaching for a weapon of some sort and there would be no neutrality in us.

The Douglas resolution has an idea which is not so easily placed to one side. That is the conscription of resources in case of war. In the last stages of the world war we had conscription of man power, but that was all. And it never seemed right. There could be no justice in a regulation which sent men to the front at a small wage where life itself was at stake, and having people at home doing business at greater profit than they had ever made before. That profit motive in war should be stated correctly, because it covers a wide range. It refers not only to manufacture or corporations, but it must include the high prices paid for produce and food stuffs and all else. We believe there was an injustice done during the world war, and the men who went away to fight our battles were called upon to carry the heavy and the hard end of the load. Nor was the treatment many of them received after returning at all in keeping with the solemn pledges made to them when they departed. Parliament should deal fairly with a resolution which has to do with our conduct and financial policy during the time of war.

It Can Be Explained

Five small boys stood in line before Judge Burbidge in Juvenile Court at Hamilton. There were certain legal formalities which had to be observed in presenting the long list of charges against them. It took almost half an hour to attend to that, and in the end the boys pleaded guilty to all of them.

And the list contained 21 items, mostly burglary, wanton damage and purse snatching. The boys were 11 and 12 years old, and they will be kept at the detention rooms of the Children's Shelter for a week while an intelligence quotient examination is applied to them. Evidently the Judge is anxious to know what is dominating the minds of these lads, and a standard intelligence test properly applied can furnish a good deal of needy information.

These boys are about the age when the average child is in the junior fourth book in public school, or perhaps not that far advanced. Actually they are little fellows who in normal conditions would be off to bed quite early at night, and they might need a little looking over after they prepared themselves for school in the morning. And yet they are in court already, five of them, admitting guilt to a list of 21 criminal charges.

This case may be unusual, but only because of the number involved and the formidable length of the charges to which they admitted guilt. Otherwise there is nothing unusual about boys of tender years being in court.

These lads are not yet at the stage where they have left their homes. They are actually passing through the time of life when home should bulk large in their existence and their ideas, and we suspect the homes are not giving them that to which they are entitled. And the same thing can be said of many another home even if the boys never get into court.

It is not so many years ago since the Bible was much read in the homes of this country, and there were devout parents who saw to it that family prayer was offered. Parents were not content with the feeling that the children would hear something out of the Bible when they went to church or when they attended Sunday School. The parents seemed to feel their own responsibility and they did what they could to measure up to it. There are a good many homes today, and these homes are from the ranks of church-goers and non-church-goers where the Bible is never read; there are many more where a prayer is never said from one year's end to the other. The result is that the children pass through the years when they are receptive to teaching, to influence and to atmosphere, and the home has given them nothing at all in the way of spiritual strength and little of moral fortitude. The children have been denied something which they should have received.

When we seek to find out why it is that children today are making a beaten path to the Juvenile court we can look for the most part at the breaking down of the homes, at the closed Bibles which people do not read and the unsaid prayers.

How Much Tariff

J. C. McRuer, counsel for the Textile Commission, has come to the conclusion that tariffs in this country should be reduced to the point where they would permit of reasonable returns on money actually invested in the business. He does not believe profits should be so great that it is possible to put excess profit back into the business instead of calling for additional new capital.

His contention in a way brings back the old question of "How much tariff?" And that is a question which has never yet been satisfactorily answered.

It is quite possible that we have not yet arrived at the proper method of dealing with this old question. If a tariff is granted for the stated purpose of making it possible for an industry to operate in this country, then that is the basis from which to start. It is openly known that such an industry cannot compete with the lower-paid mills in some foreign countries. It is equally openly stated that the desire is to protect the people working in the factories in this country so they may have a decent standard of wages and living conditions.

Having that in mind it does not seem to make much difference just where the tariff figure is placed—provided (1) that the wages of workers are protected, (2) the investment in the property is able to earn a reasonable return, and (3) that the consumers in this country are not exploited.

If tariffs were made on the understanding that they were bargains or understandings between the government, acting for the people, and the manufacturer, then it would follow that it would be the duty of the government to see to it that the bargain were carried into effect. It would not be difficult to find if the workers were receiving fair wages and if the consumers were being asked to pay only fair prices. If there was not conformity with those two conditions then the government would be only doing its duty if it notified the manufacturer he had broken his contract; he was not doing what he had agreed to do and in consequence would have to face competition from the outside. The amount of tariff protection is not actually important. It could safely be placed at a high figure. The real point is the making of a bargain and having it clearly understood that its various clauses must be recognized and given effect.

Will Try Printer's Ink

Percy Heffer, honorary treasurer of the Liberal party in Britain, announces that $250,000 per year will be spent in newspaper advertising on behalf of Liberalism. He is certain the downfall of the Liberal party and the lack of Liberal doctrine in public life has brought about a great deal of present international trouble.

The remedy is in advertising. He admits there were scoffers when it was announced an effort would be made to secure $250,000 a year for advertising in the newspapers. The intention is to advertise the Liberal party and Liberal views just the same as a merchant would advertise the goods which he offers for sale. Within a short time after he sent out his first circulars Mr. Heffer had returns which amounted to an annual income of £16,000 and he is confident he will secure the full amount suggested, £50,000.

Liberalism as such has not fared well in Britain within recent years. The Labor party swept up too much of it by reason of the greater aggressiveness of its leaders. Not since May of 1916 when the Coalition government was formed has Liberalism in Britain been a political power. Now its restoration is to be attempted by spending a quarter of a million dollars a year in advertising its articles of faith.

But Several Tariffs

There may be one King and one Crown for the British Empire, but there are several tariffs. There is to be a coronation within coming months and manufacturers of souvenirs in Britain have been turning out goods in anticipation of selling them. Manufacturers in the Dominion have been doing the same thing.

Ottawa has ruled that coronation souvenirs coming to Canada from Britain shall, for purposes of duty, have a fixed value of 100 per cent. over the invoice price, so the manufacturers of such articles in Canada can have the market to themselves.

The coronation may be in London and so will all the parades and all the actual happenings, but if we are going to wear buttons or badges or gather together trinkets and souvenirs to hand down to the grandchildren then we shall have our own little celebration under the shadow of the Canadian Tariff wall. One King, One Crown, but several tariffs.

His Tactics Are Poor

Harold Hulen, 30 years of age, asked Miss Florence Huribut, (and she is 20) to marry him. That was a year ago. Since then he has repeated the question, but has not received a definite answer. So Harold called at her apartment in Excelsior Springs, O., and with a pair of handcuffs chained himself to the radiator in the parlor, and says he will stay there until he gets his answer.

At last reports Florence has replied she will give no answer until the man removes himself from the premises. From later reports we learn that Harold has asked the girl twice each week for a year and has never yet received an answer in the affirmative. Nor has he been told to clear out.

So that means the poor chump has asked Florence over 100 times to marry him, and he has not landed her yet. So he goes and ties himself to a radiator in her parlor. And that's no good.

We wonder if he has ever threatened to blow the top of his head off with a shotgun, or to go and jump from a high cliff. This business of getting tied and locked to a rad is poor, weak and futile. We are sure Florence would have been more impressed if he had kicked in the front door and carried her away in his strong arms—that is if they are strong.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Hollywood has a job for a trained rat, it is announced and now all the enterprising rodents in the country will start writing in for a screen test.

Seattle street cars are to be provided with hostesses to help entertain the passengers. Hitherto the only amusement has been listening to the conductor calling out the names of the streets.

Traffic regulations for skiers have been issued at Innsbruck, Austria which will be a surprise to those who have always thought that the skis made their own rules, especially on a slippery hill.

The British government is launching a campaign to encourage physical training. The idea is to sell the thought that the daily dozen is better than a dozen daily—in the pub.

Liverpool is searching for a man qualified to drive the Lord Mayor's four-in-hand coach. There is one profession at least that does not seem to be overcrowded at the moment.

Hon. Peter Heenan predicts the production of newsprint in Ontario this year will be increased by at least 100,000 tons. That should be enough to take care of a few "extras."

Britain is building the world's fastest bombing plane. John Bull may have been a little late in starting in the armament race, but he is rapidly catching up to the head of the parade.

The question is being asked as to who owns Hydro. At all events from now on it will be impossible to have the matter referred to the courts for settlement. Mr. Roebuck's drastic legislation stops all that.

When the pictures of baseball players lolling around the Florida sands start crowding the bathing girls out of the newspaper pages, then, no matter what the groundhog does, you can be sure that spring is about to arrive.

Port Arthur minister complains that the big nickel is the bane of the clergymen's existence. That seems an unjust thing to say of a bit of currency that goes to church more often than any other coin.

Doug Brennan, former professional hockey player, has been elected to the Havelock Hydro Commission, his fellow citizens probably feeling that a man who had been a bright light in hockey would be at home in such a position.

A New York story tells about a "sad-faced" woman holding up a Chinese restaurant and getting away with $50. By the time she departed the sadness had probably been transferred to a few Oriental visages.

Toronto paper speaks of the dancing of a Japanese as a triumph of "virility, versatility and eclecticism" and we imagine his friends back home will have a hard time translating that phrase into Japanese.

LETTERS

(By A. R. K.)

¶ I heard from Uncle Steve today, and read each word he had to say, he never has the blues; for Steve tells where he's been and when, tells all about the other men, and sends a lot of news.

¶ And Aunt Lucile has written too, on Christmas paper done in blue, and I read all she said; she told of people that I knew, how sickness dealt with quite a few, and one or two were dead.

¶ And Cousin Jonas wrote to say, he'd have to start in buying hay, his loft was empty now; he'd made no money on his hogs, broke even taking out some logs, and he had sold a cow.

¶ My brother Jake far off from here, he writes to me just once a year, he's going to move this spring; he hasn't worked two years or so, that's why he'll pick up soon and go, if he finds anything.

¶ My Cousin Joe he ran for reeve, a thing that's hard to quite believe, he's such a modest guy; and Joe sent clippings from the press, and it was easy like to guess, he stood up pretty high.

¶ I like these letters as they come, I read them through, yes every one, they fill me with delight; but I know now I face a chore, and I won't ever get no more—unless I start to write.

EXPENSIVE SURPLUS.

(Chatham News)

A YOUNG MAN in a western Ontario town was convicted of stealing a sum of money. A subsequent statement from him declares that he used the money to play slot machines, and that he received a number of slugs which he cashed in with a couple of business establishments. The businessmen and the slot machine operators will appear in court.

These slot machines were licensed by the municipalities. A short time ago the Town Fathers were boasting that they had a surplus—such surplus being made possible largely by the license money received from slot machines.

It is a splendid thing for any town to have a municipal surplus in these days; but when young men are stealing money to play the slot machines which render the revenue to the municipality, it looks to us as if the surplus were too dearly earned.

We believe that it is a good thing to license slot machines—when the license fee is so high that the owners find it unprofitable to operate them.

NO DETOURS

Mr. DEPUTY SPEAKER: Order. I would point out to the hon. member for Halifax (Mr. Finn) that he should confine his remarks to the resolution before the house.

THE FIRST TIME

Mr. R. E. FINN (Halifax): Mr. Speaker, I regret exceedingly I was not in the house when my colleague from Halifax (Mr. Isnor) addressed the house.

An hon. MEMBER: Louder.

Mr. FINN: This is the first time I have ever been asked to talk louder.

FEW CANADIAN SEAMEN

Mr. WOODSWORTH: If Canadian seamen are not available, according to the Canadian Pacific, might they not find some British seamen whom we could bring over as immigrants?

Mr. CAHAN: There are British seamen employed now. There is no doubt that they are British.

Mr. ROGERS: I believe as a matter of fact that the Atlantic services of the Canadian Pacific are now staffed almost exclusively in that way.

Mr. WOODSWORTH: I mean for the Pacific services.

Mr. CAHAN: The seamen employed on the oriental service to Hong Kong and Manila are British subjects.

Mr. ROGERS: These seamen are British subjects; that has been put forward as part of the contention of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company.

I should say one further word in regard to the suggestion made by the hon. member for New Westminster (Mr. Reid) and supported by the hon. member for Halifax (Mr. Isnor). It does seem unsatisfactory that this country, with a Pacific and an Atlantic coast line, should have done so little to develop employment in shipping services. I agree entirely that an effort in that direction is overdue. I have never been able to understand clearly why shipping companies operating Canadian services do not seem able to take on Canadians as apprentices. There was a time in Nova Scotia when Joseph Howe made the prediction that this little province one day would maintain half a million men upon the sea. Even in that day it seemed perhaps an extravagant prediction, but that was in the days of sailing vessels, and the sails of Nova Scotian vessels could be found in the far harbours of the world. To-day that prediction seems fantastic. I have not the figures before me, but I doubt very much whether more than a very few thousand inhabitants of Nova Scotia follow permanently the calling of the sea.

NOT INCAPABLE

Mr. CAHAN: If the hon. member will allow me, I have looked into the matter and I am assured by the department that the Empress of Japan, on which I journeyed, is registered in England, and the same is true of the Empress of Canada. The other two ships are registered in Canada.

Mr. REID: Be that as it may, the fact is that they are receiving large sums from the treasury of Canada; they operate as British ships, and we as Canadians are British subjects. I was also interested in his statement that he was of opinion that Canadians would not fulful properly the duties which the Chinamen are now performing on these vessels in the far east.

Mr CAHAN: I did not suggest that.

Mr REID: Well, I took the words down as the hon. member was speaking.

Mr CAHAN: I did not suggest that they were incapable of doing their duties I sugrested that under the conditions they would not be willing to be employed to do them.

WRONG DEPARTMENT

Mr. ELLIOTT (Middlesex): There is no objection to applauding.

Mr. LAPOINTE (Quebec East): We applauded a good speech.

Mr. MacNICOL: The Minister of Justice (Mr. Lapointe) cannot get away with that. When the vote was called quite a number of hon. members left the chamber, and those who came in for the vote like good children stepped up to the front and did as they were told. They voted against that which had been applauded by hon. members who were in their seats. I hope there will be a little more stamina in their backbones today. Although at the moment I am not stating whether or not I should support the resolution, may I say it is of such tremendous importance that I do not believe we should be hasty in coming to a decision. I notice the Postmaster General is looking at me earnestly.

Mr. ELLIOTT (Middlesex): I am not applauding.

Mr. MacNICOL: Upon looking at the minister's estimates I notice a subsidy of $600,000, which must have been endorsed by the government, to be given to the Canadian Pacific Railway Company to carry mail to the orient.

Mr. ELLIOTT (Middlesex): In what department?

Mr. MacNICOL: Under the Postmaster General, at page 38 of the estimates.

Mr. ELLIOTT (Middlesex): Look again.

Mr. MacNICOL: The minister should have the information without asking me for it. I refer to page 38 of the estimates, under the heading "Mail Subsidies and Steamship Subventions." However, this is a small item so far as the Post Office Department is concerned, and probably the minister has forgotten it.

Mr. ELLIOTT (Middlesex): It is under the Department of Trade and Commerce.

Still Some Modest Men.

(From the Baltimore Sun.)

IN A world full of dictators and diplomats and people ever ready to propose, to preach and to point with pride, one ought to be very grateful to that minority of men who forbear to add their wisdom and their claims to the general clamor. Yesterday's news offered two brilliant examples of this virtue, rare now to the vanishing point. They were provided by two men of very different talents and attainments.

One was Walter Damrosch, who had reached the eve of his 75th birthday—an achievement which generally is regarded by men of much smaller and less substantial eminence than Mr. Damrosch as justification for advising the world at large about things in general. But Mr. Damrosch was asked, had he any message which he wanted to give? His reply was: "I'm not the kind who likes to preach to other people. Between you and me there's too much of that."

On the same day the steamship Aquitania reached New York after fighting its way through a hurricane that smashed glass windbreakers, caused minor injuries to a score of persons and delayed arrival of the liner for 36 hours. Its passengers were naturally enthusiastic in their praises of the commander's great skill. But, when told of their compliments, he said: "Do you think they know whether we did a good job or not?" As for the trip: "That was as bad as I ever experienced, but I won't say it was the worst, because I don't know what the worst is. The seas, for the most part, were all very bad, but there were no 40-foot seas. That's bunk. They were as bad as I ever saw them. . . The ship did all right and here we are."

It is too bad there are not more men like Mr. Damrosch who resolutely decline to formulate their opinions into messages, and more "leaders" like the Aquitania's captain who are more interested in sober estimates of fact than in the emotional effects and exploitation of lively experiences and dangers. Of course, it might result in the world's being a little more "unthrilling" than it is at present but, like the ship, we should probably "do all right" and, who knows, perhaps a little better than it seems we are doing.

THE PENNIES COUNT.

(Ottawa Journal)

HETTY GREEN, who lived in cheap lodgings and cooked her own meals when she had a fortune of fifty or one hundred millions, would have rejoiced at the proof from Washington of the money to be made through a multitude of tiny savings.

In the sale of stamped envelopes and newspaper wrappers in quantities of less than 500 the United States Post Office charges a full cent whenever a fraction of a cent appears in the amount due. For the fiscal year 1936 these fractions of cents piled up to the imposing total of $158,871.39, as a result of 15,887,128 separate transactions.

Hetty would have thought highly of the Post Office for this evidence of economy. She saved used envelopes for her correspondence. She paid for nothing she could get free. Worth many millions, she registered under false names at free clinics to get medical advice without cost. And once—says her biographer—her son, then in Texas, received a telegram. "I know it's from Ma," he remarked to a friend before he opened the envelope, "because it came collect."

Hetty was consistent in her passionate devotion to money. The United States Government, on the other hand, while it saves fractions of pennies in its Post Office spends with a fine lavishness elsewhere—and Hetty wouldn't have liked that.

NOT MANY CAUGHT.

(Galt Reporter)

AFTER centuries of experimenting in search for means of protecting itself against crime, organized society has only one chance in six of ridding itself of a killer. That is the condition in the United States as estimated by Captain Don Wilkie, criminologist and former federal agent. As a result of this unequal contest between the forces of law and order and the criminal elements, there are about 110,000 uncaught murderers in the country, Wilkie estimates.

Those are startling figures, but it is a form of mathematics that deserves developing. If such facts are repeated frequently enough and are verified by adequate authorities, public opinion will demand a solution that will give decency and sanity better odds.

Among the factors that will be taken into account are judges who have to play politics to hold their jobs; shyster lawyers and their connivance with criminals; foolish survivals in law and in court procedure that protect the criminal rather than society, and faulty correlation among the law enforcement bodies of the various governmental units.

GETTING NOWHERE.

(Calgary Albertan, Social Credit)

FOR whatsoever reason the C.C.F. has been singularly unsuccessful in the few years of its existence. In the Federal Parliament it is a minority drawn from the whole Dominion numerically and in influence inferior to the Social Credit group drawn entirely from one province. For all practical purposes, nationally and provincially, it has been defeated wherever it has hoisted its colours. Not even the most glowing promises of a new order under C.C.F. auspices have appealed to the electors here, there or anywhere.

AN ANSWER FROM COE HILL

There was a man by name of Hicks,
Who loved to throw those slanderous bricks;
The Good Book says, "Do not condemn,
And judge not ye your fellow men."

His latest victim was Coe Hill,
And East Hastings also got a thrill,
Our reputation he did tell,
And we're too ignorant for ——

We all are in a sorry plight,
And trust his prayers may set us right;
Dr. Welsh who won the election,
Will surely work for our redemption.

The tactics used in the late election,
Were much the same as in other sections;
If mud throwing and banter were in the game,
Why were the people the ones to blame?

We are not lauding the Woodcock affair,
It was only a prank intended to scare,
But does it rank in the very same line,
With the city morning's sheet of crime.

Mr. Hicks would think it unfair,
To judge his city by that one affair
Which aroused the world to feelings keen,
The terrible murder in the ravine.

The rhymes of these lines, no poet, he,
But just a native, proud to be;
So when you read don't criticise,
But just set down and sympathize.

RECITAL IS GIVEN BY 4 GRADUATES

Delightful Program Presented In Auditorium At Mount St. Joseph

The auditorium at Mount St. Joseph was the centre of a happy gathering on Friday evening. The occasion was a Musical Recital given by four young ladies who in June 1936 obtained their Associateship in the Toronto Conservatory of Music: Miss Marion Best, Miss Alma Duffy, Miss Josephine Lynch and Mrs. Ross Williamson, all of whom are pupils of St. Mary's Convent, Peterborough. Invited friends filled the auditorium, a fact which is a fitting tribute to the popular esteem in which they are held.

The artistic program of the evening received hearty applause from an appreciative audience and reflected the talent and musical ability of those taking part. Besides the four graduates whose renditions formed a large part of the evening's program, Miss Catherine Corkery, violinist, accompanied by her sister Miss Margaret Corkery, and Miss Helen Ross, soloist, accompanied by Miss Marion Best, contributed to the entertainment. Mrs. Agnes Logan Green in her usual accomplished manner, accompanied Mrs. Ross Williamson. The program consisted of the following numbers:—

Solos: "Gondoliera" (Liszt) and "Valse in E. Minor" (Chopin), played by Miss Marion Best; "Soleress de Vienne" (Liszt-Schubert) and "Mazurka" (Debussy), played by Miss Alma Duffy; "Oh! Had I Jubal's Lyre" (Handel) and "Orpheus with His Lute" (Sullivan), sung by Mrs. Ross Williamson.

Piano duets: "Concerto Allegro Fantasia" (Hiller), played by Miss Josephine Lynch and Miss Marion Best; "Concerto in G Minor" (Mendelssohn), played by Miss Marion Best and Miss Alma Duffy; "Concerto in A Minor" (Grieg), played by Miss Marion Best and Miss Josephine Lynch.

Miss Catherine Corkery's violin selections were a Sonata by Mozart and a Concerto by Seitz. Miss Helen Ross recited "Bless This House", by Brahe.

Gold Medals Presented

At the close of the program gold medals, donated by four prominent personages, were presented to the graduates. The donors were His Excellency, The Most Reverend Denis O'Connor, D.D., LL.D., Bishop of Peterborough; Reverend P. J. Kelly, rector of St. Peter's Cathedral; Hon. Senator Frank O'Connor; and J. J. Duffus, Member of the Dominion Parliament.

The stage, beautifully decorated for the occasion, was a veritable garden of flowers and ferns, and formed a picturesque and harmonious setting for the graduates as they stood in the foreground, robed in graduation gowns, and carrying bouquets of roses, to await the distribution of medals. Reverend Father Kelly acted as chairman for this part of the program and announced the order of distribution, while Miss Marion Downer served the medals to His Excellency the Bishop to present.

The gold medal donated by His Excellency, the Most Reverend Bishop O'Connor was awarded to Miss Marion Best.

The gold medal donated by Reverend P. J. Kelly, was awarded to Mrs. Ross Williamson.

The gold medal donated by Senator Frank O'Connor was awarded to Miss Alma Duffy.

The gold medal donated by J. J. Duffus, M.P., was awarded to Miss Josephine Lynch.

Besides the dignitaries already mentioned, there were present Reverend J. B. Ferguson, P. P. Warkworth, and Reverend C. J. Carroll of St. Peter's Cathedral parish.

Numerous flowers, the gifts of friends, were presented to the graduates by little flower girls: Miss Joan Wade, Miss Rosanne Monahan and Miss Dorothy Doran.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 6. — Reports of approaching famine in parts of Europe, and a growing awareness among importers of rapidly diminishing world wheat supplies, resulted in sharp boosts in future prices on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday.

At the close of an erratic session values were 2¾ to 2 cents higher. May at $1.26⅝, July $1.22, and October $1.11½. A late rush to buy by European importers boosted the day's export sales of Canadian wheat to 700,000 bushels.

Trade reports of near famine in Poland and Germany, some Argentine wheat en route to the United Kingdom being diverted to Spain and British millers becoming uneasy over a probable wheat shortage, formed the background to the advance.

Crops in Poland reportedly are severely damaged by lack of a protective snow covering, with the recently imposed ban on grain exports being continued indefinitely.

Cash grains were inactive. Coarse grains prices moved up with wheat, rye in the van with a two-cent advance.

Passengers and mail on the aeroplane would transfer at Alexandria to a land machine to complete the flight to the Cape.

INCREASED FLOW FROM MISSISSIPPI KEEPS FLOOD UP

Ohio Levels Drop Fast But Lower Areas Fear Storm May Spread Havoc

FIRES IN LOUISVILLE

MEMPHIS Tenn., Feb. 6.—(AP).—Increased flow from the Mississippi above Cairo Ill., retarded recession of flood crests to-day and kept alive a threat to the valley's river defences.

The peak of the burden poured into the Mississippi from the Ohio valle, was miles below Cairo today but the waters' retreat was so slow United States' army engineers said levees as far south as Helena, Ark., would be vulnerable for many days.

Confidence persisted the crests now brimming to dike tops ultimately would pass into the Gulf of Mexico without further major damage but the flood fighters admitted a severe storm any time in the next few days could precipitate a crisis.

A rising wind gave emphasis to this fear to-day by lashing choppy waves against levees in several exposed places in the Cairo-Memphis sector but splash boards sheathed the dikes at the chief danger points and no material damage was done.

400 Known Dead.

Meanwhile additional fatalities pushed to 400 the deaths charged to the floods while swift recession of the Ohio cut into the total of 1,000000 refugees by sending thousands back to sodden homes.

Louisville's joy at reclaiming more and more territory from the retreating Ohio was shaken by explosions and fire which wrecked two buildings. Firemen fighting through smoking debris recovered one body and feared four more had died. Fourteen were hurt in the blasts blamed to a flood-induced gas leak.

Recovery of another body in Missouri's new Madrid-Birds Point floodway raised to 24 the known dead in a barge capsizing there and seven remained missing.

Four in Arkansas and two in Memphis succumbed in refugee camps.

More than 30,000 scattered residents of Paducah, Ky., took heart as the Ohio fell fast and the heads of families were allowed to return to the still submerged city.

POLICE SEEKING HIT-RUN TRUCKER

Forces Heavy Transport Into Ditch And Injures Driver

HAMILTON, Ont., Feb. 6—(CP).—Police sought to-day a truck driver who forced a huge transport into a ditch at Duff's Corners, Number Two Highway, and then proceeded on his way.

The accident occurred when Jack Good, driving a transport toward Sarna, saw headlights approaching on his side of the road. Good winked his lights and got out upon the shoulder but the oncoming vehicle encroached still further.

Whe Good saw a crash was inevitable, he turned the tractor into the ditch. It crashed against a culvert and at the same moment the oncoming vehicle struck the side of the cab and bounced off the trailer. The trailer hurtled into the air with 16 tons of freight and was shattered.

The vehicle which caused the accident was a heavy red truck. The driver merely slowed and then sped away. Good suffered a cut knee and a bad shaking up while his transport was damaged.

New Ticker Service Has Been Installed

The first Trans-Lux ticker service to be installed in this city was put into service in the board room of Leeming & Leeming, stock brokers, on Friday afternoon. A minute by minute presentation on a translucent screen of all Toronto mining and industrial sales a few seconds after they are recorded on the Exchange floors, is afforded by the modern equipment.

A standard Canadian National stock ticker is used for printing the quotations as they come in by wire from the Toronto floors, but a special semi-transparent tape displaces the standard yellow tape. The tape passes directly from the ticker to a projector which throws an enlarged representation of the moving tape and its quotations on the translucent screen.

It is estimated that, on an average, not more than 15 seconds elapses between the execution of a sale on the Exchange floors and its presentation on the screen in this city.

Bill Being Drafted At Ottawa To Bar Canadians From Spain.

OTTAWA, Feb. 6 (C.P.) — A bill providing penalties for Canadians seeking to join military or naval forces in Spain is being drafted, Justice Department officials said to-day, and may be ready for introduction in Parliament next week.

The Foreign Enlistment Act, which prohibits enlistment by British subjects in a war between nations with whom Great Britain is at peace, has been held by legal experts to be inapplicable to the civil conflict in Spain as far as Canada is concerned.

WORKER SURVIVES AFTER 8 DAYS LOST IN VIRGINIA MINE

Rescue Crew Finds Him Huddled Behind Barrier Two Miles From Entrance

WATER BLOCKS PASSAGES

FLEMINGTON, W.Va., Feb. 6 (A.P.). — Robert Johnson, lost for eight days in debris-filled passageways of an abandoned mine, was carried to safety to-day, alive, well, and puffing happily on a cigarette.

"I'd given up all hope," said the 36-year-old rural mail carrier to rescue workers who found him nearly two miles from the mine entrance early to-day.

Johnson, who carted coal from the mine in his spare time for sale to neighbors, was found huddled behind a heap of jagged chunks of slate.

Three of the scores of volunteers who had searched the mine day and night since Johnson disappeared on January 27, heard his feeble cries for help while exploring a narrow tunnel.

His first words were to assure himself he hadn't merely imagined a light had cut through the dark.

Light Saves Him.

C. P. Pride, assistant safety director for the State Department of Mines, quoted him:

"I told myself, 'Bob, please don't lose that light.'"

He didn't.

As the rescue party came closer he called to Mike Stanko, Jr., Edward Whitehair, and William Westfall, all his friends and neighbors:

"Take your time, I'll guide you by your light."

They cautiously approached the heap of slate, reached through a hole, and gripped Johnson's hand—assurance he was safe.

Then word went to the surface! Sped through this little community of about 400 population in northeastern West Virginia.

Pride and eight others gathered stretchers and blankets.

They hurried into the mine, waded and swam through a deep pool of water covering nearly an acre where originally many believed Johnson drowned while trying to open clogged drains.

Quaint Table At Association Tea.

The table was placed in the library Somerville and Mrs. C. H. Saunders, hostesses of the afternoon.

The large service tray was also of interesting type. The tray itself was made by the late F. H. Dobbin and was lined with glass-covered cream velvet painted long ago, also by Mrs. Somerville's mother, with a central bowl filled with fruit and wreathed by colored flowers, in a fashion belonging to a quaint and older age.

Description of Russian Soviet And Its Recent Improvements

Boris Berlin Of Toronto Is Guest Speaker To Art Association

GRAPHIC PICTURE

A glowing picture of life in the Soviet Union of Russia was painted in words by Boris Berlin of Toronto at the Friday afternoon meeting of the Lyceum Club and Women's Art Association, held in the green room of the Young Women's Christian Association, and marked by a large attendance.

Mr. Berlin, who makes periodical trips back to the country of his birth and has spent many years in Switzerland, is an instructor in piano at the Toronto Conservatory of Music. His graphic address was illustrated by many slides from pictures taken by himself during a recent visit to Russia, and was entitled "Changes in the Lives of the People of the Soviet Union."

The speaker prefaced the showing of pictures by some explanatory remarks relative to the changes which have taken place in the lives of Russian people following the Revolution.

Before the Revolution, ninety per cent. of the people of Russia could neither read nor write. Now there is only one-half of one per cent. in that condition, with exception of the very old, the insane, the deaf and the imbecile element in the population. Prior to the 19th century, the aristocratic Russian considered it vulgar to speak his own language, and French was the acknowledged medium of speech. In 1916, 7,800,000 children attended the public schools. In 1934, there were 24,036,000 and in the Autumn of 1936, the total was over 30 million. In 1915, the universities had 124,000 students. Now there are 469,800.

One of the causes that led to the Revolution was the Governmental insistence on ignorance among the peasants and workers. Since the epochal change, there are 352,000 schools for workers, with 42,000 new school buildings erected between 1923 and 1933, and 20,000 in 1936 alone.

Eager For Learning.

"There is a hunger for knowledge," declared Mr. Berlin. "They had nothing of the sort before. Now that the door has been opened suddenly, they are certainly running to take it."

In 1917, there were only 4,000 miles of paved roads, and the common method of travel was by use of a troika, or three-horse buggy. Now there are 36,000 miles of paved roads.

The slides illustrated the huge difference in the old method of architecture and the new. Streamlined (weird-looking) buildings of concrete, stone and glass, built with an eye to the maximum in light and air content, harmonize with the stream-lined street-cars of Moscow, where the university students, who are paid while they study, are housed in especially-built apartment houses.

A contrast to the ugly-looking public buildings was in the interior of the great Moscow subway, to which ordinary citizens contributed labor after hours in their eagerness to see its completion. The subway stations, built of solid marble or expensive stone, are beautifully constructed, with wide steps, massive pillars and mural paintings. This follows out the governmental wish to have the people become acquainted with beauty and culture. There are policemen on guard in these subways, to instruct people from the rural districts in their use. A common idea which has to be discouraged among these visitors to the city is the notion that they are supposed to sit on the shining rails and have the train push them along! They are also instructed in the proper use of the lavatories and discouraged in their attempts to turn flower-pots into drinking utensils and to convert ash trays into sandwich plates.

The child is king in Russia, because he represents the future of the nation. Apartment-house owners are compelled to instal playrooms for children of tenants; music is taught the children in the schools and tuition supplied free in a chosen instrument; working mothers are given two months prior to a birth, and two months following, and are supplied with free hospitalization and care by a physician. Setting-up exercises for children are compulsory in the schools and also in factories, where five minutes of every hour is devoted to this physical relaxation.

Bathe To Jazz Music.

Although mixed bathing in the nude was allowed in the first years after the Revolution, it is now forbidden. Bathing beaches have three sections, one for nude bathers among the men, one for women of a similar inclination, and the third for those who don't mind wearing a suit while in the water. At these beaches, portable gramaphones which grind out nothing but jazz music are popular. The Russian likes jazz in his lighter moments, because the Government-controlled radio stations allow him nothing but classical music.

Parachute-jumping, surrounded by restrictions which render it comparatively safe, is very popular among the people. They have also taken to their hearts the game of hockey, hitherto unknown to them, and rugby.

The description of different modes of presenting the drama was most interesting. In Russia, actors are taught at especial schools and make this a lifework, just as the professional sculptor does. When a certain theatre finds that a certain method is successful, it sticks to that without change, and no two theatres are alike.

The Government adopts a paternal attitude toward the drama, and takes from the successful box office of those that do well, funds to cover the deficits of less fortunate theatres.

The slides illustrated the extremely realistic theatre, which uses no stage nor scenery and sets the action of the drama in the middle of a room; the English comedies of Fletcher, a contemporary of Shakespeare; the queer acting of productions such as 'King Lear,' no curtains and a musical accompaniment; the very modernistic presentation of 'Romeo and Juliet,' and the strange things produced under the surrealistic influence of the present moment.

Research Work.

Speaking of the lack of research institutes under the old regime in Russia "and unfortunately, we have very few in Canada owing to opinions of certain politicians," Mr. Berlin said that 48,000 scientific workers are now engaged in research endeavors in the Union of Soviet Republics. There is also a development of social medical welfare in the villages, which possess 133,000 hospitals. "Considering that there are 60 million people living in these villages, this is not an ideal condition, but it is an advance on the old system."

With regard to newspaper publication, Mr. Berlin said that there are eighteen different republics in the Russian Union, and there are 182 different nationalities in Russia, each speaking a different language. The Government was compelled to create forty new alphabets because some of the languages had no alphabet. There are 134 written languages in the Union, and of these only seventeen are written in the Latin alphabet, the others being in script.

In 1913, Russia had 859 newspapers with a daily output of a little over two million copies. Now, there are 9,600 newspapers with a daily circulation of thirty-six and one-half million copies. In 1933, there were 43,000 odd titles of books printed in Russia, with a total of 518 million copies. Now there are 39,700 public libraries and 34,000 village reading huts. In the Moscow Public Library, which will be completed in May, there are eleven million books.

The president of the association, Mrs. F. E. Hooper, in the chair, thanked Mr. Berlin for his very interesting address, and also expressed appreciation of the service of V. R. Henry, operating the slide machine.

Home and School Association News

QUEEN ALEXANDRA SCHOOL

As the feature speaker for their Founder's Month program, the members of the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association had the president of the Home and School Federation of Ontario, Mrs. E. E. Reece of Toronto, who gave an interesting talk on the Home and School movement as it has progressed through twenty-one years since its foundation in Toronto in February, 1916, by the late Mrs. A. C. Courtice.

The meeting was held in the school with a large attendance, and was presided over by Mrs. L. M. Richardson, president of the association.

Greetings from the Board of Education were brought by J. R. Marshall and from the Queen Alexandra staff by the principal, J. E. R. Munro, School Inspector A. Mowat also spoke briefly. All expressed appreciation of the work carried on by the Home and School associations.

Music was provided by the Mothers' Home and School choir, led by Leslie Unitt, and by Mrs. C. H. Foster, who sang. Mrs. E. Wand read the Home and School creed.

Mrs. Reece, who was introduced by Mrs. W. R. Morris, gave an interesting historical sketch of the Home and School movement since its inception in Toronto by the late Mrs. Courtice, who was a teacher and parent both, thus realizing a dual viewpoint, and was also a woman of high ideals. Gathering kindred spirits, she launched the movement in a time when the school curriculum was limited and cultural subjects were few. That was in 1916. A year later, the provincial movement was started and ten years later, the national and international sections had their beginnings.

Mrs. Reece turned to the Home and School creed as the subject of a discourse on the ideals embraced in it, in which the two main objects are the promotion of greater co-operation between parents and teachers, also parental education in child training.

The speaker stressed the importance of religious training in the home in pre-school years, as a part of character training, also the need for study of conditions in the school and community, as they affect the child.

In the social period which followed the program of the evening, refreshments were served and a pleasant little candle-lighting ceremony took place, in which seventeen candles were lighted, symbolic of the seventeen years of life of the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association. This was carried out in the school colors, with gold candles placed in a black frame.

A feature of this period also was the presentation of an umbrella to a past president of the association, Mrs. S. F. M. Touchburn, who is leaving the city in March to reside near Lakefield.

Just Between Us Women

A Daily Chat With Examiner Neighbors, Conducted by Roberta

YOU can and you can't.
You will and you won't,
You'll be damn'd if you do,
You'll be damn'd if you don't.
—Lorenzo Dow.

Dear Friends:

I was amongst a group of people recently, all of whom had gathered there to be amused, and looking around I was surprised to see so many men with the look of defeat on them. Very few smiled, and most of them looked care-worn as if life had been altogether too much for them.

The women did not seem quite so bad, or they hid it better, yet nowhere amongst the mature among them, did there seem to be a looking forward only a look of strain and anxiety.

And I wondered where the sense of adventure had gone to, for even in the most commonplace life there can be small adventures, if only we look for them. The small everyday things can be tinged with it, if we only can keep our hearts young.

Birth is an adventure, and all life in between can be filled with it, but we must look for it, we must retain some of our illusions, else life becomes too grim to be borne, and we feel a sense of defeat when most of this defeat lies within ourselves, because of the way we let our thoughts get on the wrong track.

I never go out without feeling that I may have some sort of adventure. Not the nasty kind where we do something we shouldn't, but the kind where I think I may meet some interesting person, or have some little exciting thing happen, and it is surprising how often it does occur when you are looking for it.

After all, when you let the little things get you down, like "how are you going to pay the rent, or the store bill, or the doctor's account for junior's tonsils, it doesn't pay these things, but rather clouds your judgment, and gets you jittery.

A while ago, I told you that I was trying to live as our Lord told us, about taking no thought for the morrow, and it is truly surprising how it has worked out. If I had all kinds of money, it would be very easy for me to tell you to "take no thought," but when you know that I have the same problems as you have, and if I try a thing and it works with me, surely surely it will work for you.

Try and believe what the psalmist says also, which I told you before: "I have been young, and now am old, yet have I not seen the righteous forsaken, nor his seed begging bread." Let God be the judge as to whether you are righteous or not, and have a little more faith.

And this: "Consider the lilies of the field, who toil not neither do they spin, yet Soloman in all his glory, was not arrayed like one of these." Don't think I am pushing texts at you, but they explain things more briefly than I can.

And when you think them over, you see that there is no real need for all this strain or defeat. When we are young, every day is a new adventure, so where do we lose it along the way. I think it is because we do take too much thought about tomorrow, and miss the joys of today.

What though we had a lot of trouble and worry yesterday? It's gone, never to return, and we have a nice new day right now, in which we can look for all the happiness that can come our way. If your mind is all cluttered up with worries, there is no room for joy, or happiness, or adventures to come in, and it is all in the way you look at things as to what you hold in your mind.

I have been so sick of that kind of thing, that I will not give them house-room in my mind. So relax yourself, let yourself go on a nice spree of adventure hunting, smile instead of frowning so much, and you will feel all the lines of your face smoothing out, and all the little worries fly away. Try it won't you?

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

Weddings

PAVY—STURGEON

A pretty wedding took place quietly at half past two o'clock this (Saturday) afternoon at St. George's Church, when Irene Sturgeon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Sturgeon of 198 Braidwood avenue, became the bride of Wesley John Pavy, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Pavy of 279 McGill street. The ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. T. S. Gault. Mrs. R. King played the wedding music.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Edward Sturgeon of Guelph, wore a pretty frock of brown triple sheer made in tunic style with long sleeves and brown wooden buttons trimming the front. The collar and belt were of gold quilted satin. Her small hat was of brown faille and she wore matching accessories with a corsage bouquet of yellow roses.

The bridesmaid Miss Agnes Sturgeon, sister of the bride, was dressed in a tunic frock of green moire with black straw hat and corsage of red roses.

Harold Pavy, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where buffet refreshments were served from a table centered by the bride's cake and arranged with yellow candles and daffodils.

Mrs. Sturgeon assisted in receiving, wearing black and white figured crepe, and Mrs. Pavy was in black crepe with lace. Both wore floral corsage bouquets.

A party attended by friends of the young people was held in the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Pavy will live at 206 McGill street.

"I have gained in weight and have more color in my face!"

NORMAL WEIGHT and a good complexion are very closely related to health. Loss of health usually leads to loss of weight and a poor complexion. All beauty specialists agree on this point and many women have learned by experience how important health is to beauty and weight. Miss May W——* of Toronto, for instance, writes:

"Four months ago I was pale and underweight. I started taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and they have done me a world of good. Now I have gained in weight and have more color in my face. Friends tell me how much healthier I am looking."

One of the chief causes of a pale face and thin body is improper nourishment. The blood, glands and vital organs of your body must be nourished with mineral iron and cannot function properly without it.

If you are underweight, pale or sallow and rarely feel rested or really well, strike at the root of your trouble. Build up your health and vitality with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They will supply the iron you need and thereby help you back to normal weight, better health and improved complexion. Price 50c.

Take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills regularly for a while; and if you don't feel better, stronger and healthier, your money will be returned to you.

Business Much Better In 1936 Peterboro's Industrial Leaders Report In Examiner Survey

Payrolls Have Greatly Increased And Longer Working Hours Reported

GAINS AS HIGH AS 50 P.C.

"Happy Days Are Here Again!"

Frequently has this refrain been sounded by over-optimistic optimists in Canada and in Peterborough during the past several years, and just as frequently has the public found it to be the refrain merely of a whistler walking through the graveyard. Has the time at last arrived when George Z. Public can tell his neighbor happy days are here again, believing it himself and expecting his neighbor to believe it?

An inquiry conducted among leaders of representative industries in Peterborough this week would indicate that if happy times have not already returned to this city, they are well on the way.

Biggest Year

How did business in 1936 compare with 1935? was the question most frequently asked, and almost invariably the answer was that business last year not only far surpassed that of 1935, but surpassed anything since that haloed year, 1929. Comparing 1936 with 1935, leaders of the city's diverse industries reported general business gains ranging from 20 to 50 per cent. Recovery made its beginning as far back as 1933, they agreed, but it was not until 1936 that the swing gained full momentum.

In all cases, payrolls were reported larger and, in the few cases where significant employment increases could not be reported, longer working hours were cited.

Peterborough Lock

The Peterborough Lock Company experienced an increased demand for its products from almost all sections of Canada, Ernest H. Howson, vice-president, said. Sharp improvement was noted during 1936 in British Columbia, the Western Provinces, Ontario and Quebec, he reported. The improvement was not as great in the Maritime field, but still considerable.

Mr. Howson estimated the general business gain of his company over the previous year as 25 per cent. More employees were taken on and the payroll total was substantially increased, he said.

"We are quite busy at the present time and have encountered rushes necessitating overtime for the first time since the lifting of the depression," he said.

Quaker Oats

"Business was much better last year than in 1935," R. E. Cutting of the Quaker Oats Company reported. "We felt decided improvements in both the domestic and export fields. I think it is safe to say 1936 was the best year since the so-called depression."

Mr. Cutting was able to report that Quaker Oats payrolls totals increased notably during the year. Although the number of employees at the plant was not increased to any great extent, those already employed were enabled to work fuller weeks by the improvement.

The Quaker Oats is very busy at the present time, and the indication is that 1937 will surpass 1936, he said.

Peterborough Canoe

The Peterborough Canoe Company payrolls gained 60 per cent. over 1935 in 1936, W. A. Richardson commented. He estimated a 35 per cent. gain in the company's business volume.

Without hesitation, Mr. Richardson named 1936 the outstanding year of recovery to date, and the best business year since 1929. He pointed out that most industries are working on a smaller margin of profit than in earlier prosperity days, as they are concerned with turning out products at prices to suit the reduced public purses. Production is thus advanced with the dollar turnover lagging. Nonetheless, general conditions are so improved that few industrialists can grumble, he said.

Looking forward to another advance toward prosperity in 1937, he reported business in January was 20 per cent better than in January of last year.

Ovaltine

"Our business has been gaining steadily for the past five years and 1936 brought no interruption in the trend," Charles Shaw of A. Wander Limited, manufacturers of Ovaltine, declared. "The improvement continued even though we ventured to reduce the price of our product twice during the five years."

Mr. Shaw said he was more optimistic than ever as a result of a trip through Western Canada to British Columbia from which he has just returned. Contacting representative groups along his itinerary, he found the report of improved conditions to be general, he said.

Western Clock

On his return to the city from a business trip to Chicago, J. H. Vernor, plant manager of The Western Clock Company, Limited, commented on the outlook for the current year as being very favorable. He said the plant at the present time is running at the highest output in its history here, and is averaging 5,000 clocks and watches per day. Mr. Vernor said that, having reached the objective set last year, the staff has been built up to a point where no new hands will be taken on at the present time. There are over 470 employees on the payroll, a considerable increase over the same period of last year. While business was a third better last year than in the previous year, Mr. Vernor said his firm was hopeful of having even a better year's business in the next twelve months period. Each day of this year, he declared, the plant expects to produce an average of 5,000 watches and clocks and to find a market for them.

Canada Packers

Convinced that general conditions are on the upgrade and that the outlook for the current year is brighter, Gordon S. Matthews, manager of Canada Packers Limited, declared: "Our total volume is 20 per cent. higher than a year ago. This increase is caused chiefly by the fact that more hogs are being raised in Ontario this year than last. Canada this year will export half the quota the Dominion was allowed under the Ottawa trade agreements, and it will be the highest quota yet reached." He added that Canada Packers hopes this year to further increase the number of shipments from the local plant.

Regarding the number of employees on the payroll of the firm, the declared, there are at present 200 employed, which is 15 per cent more than at this time last year.

Woollen Plant Active

"Our business continued quite active throughout 1936 and we expect Take 2 —Send in for heading ... this year to be about the same," David G. H. Melton, manager of the Bonner-Worth Mill of Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Limited, informed the Examiner. "Employment remained steady and business has been in a healthy condition. As a matter of recent experience we have had a full complement of employees for the last three or four years, and we are hoping that production will be maintained at that level during 1937. A new condition is the upward price movement in raw materials. This has been very decided in regard to wool, and is a world wide condition."

De Laval Company

The De Laval Company's business in 1936 was distinctly better than in 1935, W. R. Breyfogle, general manager, told The Examiner.

"The increase was approximately 20 per cent," Mr. Breyfogle said. "While we have not yet reached the level of our best years, the volume of business was very encouraging in 1936, because of the indication of the return of courage which has affected all lines of industry. This year has all the benefit of the impetus given by the 1936 pick-up and the pleasing prognostications for the months to come. Prices of farm products are incomparably better than for some years, especially in wheat, and our farmer friends are beginning to get something of what has been due to them for a very considerable time.

Our payroll has trebled since the low levels of business in 1931 and 1932, and our man-power has increased at least 100 per cent."

Mr. Breyfogle said he regarded the prospects as decidedly bright, and he expressed the hope that nothing would interfere with the steady improvement in agriculture and that the dairy business in Canada would have a successful year.

Canadian Raybestos Co.

"Prospects appear to be bright for another year," Robert Abbott, manager of the Canadian Raybestos Company, stated to a reporter. "We have been going along on a steady keel since 1930, and last year was very satisfactory. We built a substantial addition to our plant, increasing the floor space for manufacturing by approximately 35 per cent.

This year looks promising, and we are hoping that it will be one of the best we ever had, although we don't expect that it will reach the business mark of 1929, which was our peak. Our second best year was in 1930, but 1932 let us down and we have been climbing back since then. In fact, 1935 was our third best."

Mr. Abbott said that certain conditions prevented him from making a fair comparison for 1936.

"The number of our employees has nearly doubled, but the volume of our business in dollars and cents has not kept pace with that increase. The fact is that brake linings for automobiles has developed a mode or fashion like women's hats. There is a style for one year, but there is no telling what it will be the next year. The trend has been away from the woven to the moulded product, and this has required the employment of more men. We have also started a rubber department, and in the various branches this year we are expecting an increased demand and production."

Scouts Hosts To Fathers At St. John's

Annual Father And Son Banquet Is Addressed By Field Secretary

NEW SCOUT MASTER

Fathers got a practical insight into the training being received by their boys in the Scout movement, when following the annual "Father and Son" banquet of 1st Peterborough (St. John's Church) Troop Friday night, they took part in a lively camp fire program in the Parish Hall.

As chief speaker, Edgar Jones, field secretary of the Provincial Scout Association, Toronto, gave the fathers some idea of the present position of the movement and stressed the importance of the work being done amongst the youth of the world.

Fred Hooper, as chairman at the dinner gathering, welcomed the fathers and sons on behalf of the troop committee, and noted the presence of representatives of other troops of the city association as well as visiting Scouts from Lakefield. There were 136 persons sat down to a splendid meal served by a group of Scout mothers.

The Toast List.

First toast on the list following that to The King was a toast to "The Church" proposed by Wray Matthews and responded to by the rector the Rev. W. P. Robertson. Stroyan Leith a member of the troop, ably proposed the toast to Lord Baden Powell, chief Scout.

Replying to a toast to the fathers proposed by Kenneth Brown, Dr. R. W. Frank offered some interesting observations dealing ... training of boys and stressed the responsibility of leadership in boys' work projects. He thought the Scout promise was the finest definition of true religion, and he said the boys, "A Scout is known by his actions and not by his uniform."

Appointed Scoutmaster.

At the camp fire program Fred Ford was presented with his warrant as Scoutmaster of the troop. Issued by Dominion Headquarters at Ottawa the warrant was signed by Lord Tweedsmuir as chief Scout for the Dominion.

Frank Pammett, assistant leader of the Cub Pack received his Akela certificate for satisfactorily completing his indoor course of training as a Cub leader, while "Buddy" Groombridge won recognition as being the third member of the local Association to receive his Leaping Wolf Badge. The award signifies his advancement from the Cubs to the Scouts, with full qualifications in the former group. Tom Hooper was appointed as Assistant Scoutmaster of the Troop, while Art Winslow received promotion as patrol leader of the Seal Patrol. Bruce Forsyth and Rex Rose were given their second class badges as Scouts, while both Wolf Cubs and Scouts received their registration cards from provincial headquarters.

AUDITORIUM HIGHLIGHTS

Assemblies of P.C.V.S. students in the Collegiate auditorium this week learned about dental health and Homer Watson when the usual morning assembly programs were varied to allow addresses by two visiting speakers this week. Dr. Thompson, field director for the Canadian Hygiene Council, was the first of the two speakers to appear, presented by L. J. Pettit Tuesday morning.

In order to realize the ambition of perfect health, dental health is necessary, he told the students. General body health is closely linked with the soundness of one's teeth and vice versa, he warned.

Ross Hamilton of the National Publishing Company, Montreal, was second of the week's two platform visitors. The student body heard with evident interest his lecture on the life and works of Canada's noted artist, Homer Watson. Charles Shaw, member of the Board of Education, introduced him.

Machine Guns.

Many of the cadet officers turned out eagerly for machine gun drills in the armouries this week. They were drawn up Monday in squad formation. Instruction in the handling of machine guns was commenced on Wednesday after 4 o'clock. The boys formed two groups and the many different parts of a gun and the action of each was demonstrated to each group.

When the manipulation of the weapon has been mastered, it is expected that target shooting will begin at the rifle ranges. The boys are studiously working in the anticipation of this event.

As reported previously the Board of Education has donated $100 toward a program of renewing cadet uniforms. Privates are to be outfitted with navy blue outfits, it is rumored.

It has also been reported that officers will be garbed in blue tunics with long white trousers and pillbox hats.

Glee Clubs.

Rehearsals under the direction of Martin B. Chenhall have been conducted each day this week in preparation for presentation of the Literary Society's operetta, Miss Marie Hicks is supervising the libretto while Miss M. A. Bailey and Miss Dorothy Brisbin are in charge of the dancing.

More Contests

The students have been invited to participate in further contests in connection with the school year book. Miss E. Murphy will award twelve prizes to members of the academic department and twelve to the commercial department, for the best stories and poems submitted for the section called "Purple Patches".

In connection with this contest, the school has been divided into three groups. Fourth and fifth forms comprise one group, second and third forms another group, and the first forms the third group.

Sports.

The P.C.V.S. senior boys' basketball squad was the only school team to play a scheduled game this week. Last night the team journed to Bowmanville to meet the B.C.I. team. The result of the match is reported elsewhere in this edition.

Photographers Busy.

Preparation of the Echoes is going ahead. Various school groups have been trooping to the photographers in a regular procession this week. The Echoes staff was posed on Monday with Field Day champions, Student's Council and Form Va students following on Tuesday. The three basketball teams were scheduled for Wednesday but the girls insisted on awaiting the arrival of the new uniforms, before yielding to the camera.

The athletic executives, Nicholls scholarship winners and Form Vb students were snapped on Thursday yesterday the Commercial scholarship winners, Household Arts III students and Special Commercial boys and girls completed the week's procession.

Odds and Ends

Last night form 2A, B, C and 3A academic were tendered a dance, the prize for their triumphs in the Echoes subscription campaign. The dance was held in the school gymnasium.

With the exception of the rugby team which was snapped outside on the east steps and the basketball teams which were taken in the gymnasium all groups were photographed in the library. More pictures will follow next week.

Fire Brigade Band Of 1879 Conducted By Finch Miller Outstanding Musical Unit

PRACTISED IN HAY FIELD

A stranger who paced up and down the bandstand at the Toronto Exhibition waving two fists full of bills and shouting that he was betting the roll on "the bunch of farmers from up in the country," the Peterborough Fire Brigade Band, is one of William F. Green's vivid memories of that afternoon in 1879 when the late Finch W. Miller's bandsmen won the competition which was recalled in connection with his recent death as an outstanding achievement during the years of his musical leadership in Peterborough.

"We never heard how much of the stranger's money was covered that day bu I recall that the attendants at a big refreshment booth wouldn't let us pay for anything," Mr. Green related to the Examiner today. "After a round or two for nothing we enquired why everything was free, and were told that some one was paying for everything the men in the Peterborough uniforms wanted. We found out that the stranger had been bandmaster with a circus, and had been in Peterborough a few weeks before the Toronto Exhibition. He had heard us practicing in the old hay field that is now Victoria Park and he evidently decided we were worth a stout wager."

Practiced Faithfully

"Mr. Miller joined the band in 1878 as the leader, and the next Spring he talked to us about going to the Toronto Exhibition. We thought he was just fooling, and we laughed at the idea of a bunch from the back woods trying for the Exhibition honors. That response nettled Finch, and his reply was that he knew what he was doing and also what we could do if we would settle down to it. I can remember him telling us that we would have to stand by him and that meant practicing at every opportunity we got, day and night. He sent to England for a lot of new music and out of it he selected a fine march 'Jolly Demons.'

"We used to practice every night in Victoria Park after the weather got fine. The park was then a hay field with no trees except in the upper section where there were oaks and pines. It was all fenced in, and later in the summer hundreds of people used to walk up and down outside the fence.

Cornet Damaged

"At the Toronto Exhibition we may have seemed a bunch of rustics. Other bands paraded swankily up to the stand to play their pieces. We were lying around on the grass, and Archie Freeman who played the E flat cornet accidentally stepped on his instrument and broke a valve. Mr. Miller had really built the band around Freeman, and for a while it seemed that our chances were ruined. However, he went around to some of the other bands and tried out their instruments until he found one that suited him. I think it belonged to the Queen's Own. When our turn came we scrambled up over the railing, and even left our music stands behind us. So we called up fellows from the Queen's Own to hold the music for us. It wasn't an auspicious beginning I suppose but we won the competition with 160 points. Orangeville was second with 130; Eglington 123 and Woodstock 115.

"On our arrival home we learned that we had taken higher points than the military bands professionals who had competed the day before, and Mr. Miller suggested that we join the 57th regiment which we did becoming the regimental band in 1880.

"The next year, in 1881 we entered a big contest at Ingersoll and were awarded third place behind the 7th Fusiliers of London and the 13th Battalion band of Hamilton. They were bands of fifty instruments, and in 1878 the Hamilton band had toured the continent all the way to Mexico. They were acclaimed everywhere. In fact I don't think there was a band in the United States at that time equal to them. However, we were well satisfied at Ingersoll. We had beaten again the non-professionals."

Forgot Music Books

Mr. Green recalled another incident involving the music stands which he mentioned a little reluctantly.

"I guess it will be all right to tell it as it was only a mischance. One of the citizens who was keenly interested in the band was Charlie Huffman. He was around with us so much that we appointed him to look after the music stands. On the train to Port Hope the morning we started for Ingersoll one of the bandsmen asked how he was getting along on his job. He suddenly turned pale and exclaimed that he had forgotten the stands and books in the excitement of leaving.

"Bandmaster Miller and the secretary John Fraser, immediately arranged to have the train stop at Fraserville and sent a telegram to Jack White, afterwards a Nile Voyageur, brother of Gus White, to get the outfit to Port Hope as fast as he knew how. It happened that Jack was at the Opera House when the message was delivered to him. He climbed over the back of seats in a dash to the door; raced home to the White House and hitched up a fast team, got the books and stands and arrived at Port Hope his horses in a lather and two springs of his light rig broken. He turned the books over to Bandsmen Jim Billington and Billy Hill just as a freight train was pulling out. The rest of the band had taken the passenger train. The two bandsmen climbed aboard the van, and at once the conductor ordered them to get off. But they weren't getting off. If that train was going to Toronto so were they, and they produced their tickets. They reached Toronto in time to make connection with their train for Ingersoll.

"But the real shock of the trip came later when George A. Cox, president of the Midland Railway at that time heard about the affair, and called us down for not getting in touch with him. He said he would have been glad to have placed an engine at our disposal instead of having to call on Jack White. Senator Cox was one of the best friends the band ever had, and a cheque for $50 was always waiting for us when we called on our annual Christmas serenade."

The members of the Fire Brigade Band in 1879 were: Finch W. Miller, director, playing an E flat cornet; John Fraser, secretary, B flat cornet; John Miller, B flat cornet; James Miller, baritone; Archie Freeman, E flat cornet; Archie Brown, trombone; Thomas Kennedy, B flat alto horn; Ed. Scott and John Lasher, B flat tenors; Chas James, solo E flat alto; William Hill, bass drum; Joseph Hill, snare drum; W. P. Green, E flat alto; J. H. Billington, B.B. bass; Joseph Buller, B bass; Ernest McCabe solo euphonium; Alex Paisley, B flat tenor horn, and W. A. Sanderson, B flat cornet.

It was entirely a brass band without a reed instrument, and its quality was developed by constant training.

"We all chummed together, and music was our first interest," Mr. Green said. "Alex Paisley ran the woollen mill on the old raceway. Our uniforms were made by Andrew McNeill, the leading tailor in Peterborough. They were of blue cloth with gold buttons, and the trousers had red stripes down the side. We wore smart caps, and were as well turned out as any bands of those days.

"We had all kinds of engagements. For a number of years when we were getting our money at the Toronto Exhibition we were re-engaged for the following years. And we played at picnics, lacrosse matches and all kinds of affairs throughout the district.

Put Peterborough On Map

"The day we won the competition in 1879 the Peterborough lacrosse team wound up its season by winning at the Toronto Exhibition, one of the most successful teams the town ever had and that same day a Peterborough four-oared racing crew also won the championship at Toronto. The town was certainly put on the map that year. When the Duke of Argyle, the Governor-General, heard about the band competition, he expressed a wish to hear the winning band. That was late in the afternoon, and the men had dispersed so they hired livery men to round us up the best way they could. I know I was walking along a street when a cab drove up and I was told to get in. I asked what all the rush was about and was told the Governor-General wanted to hear the Peterborough band.

Paid Own Expenses

"We all paid our own expenses on those trips, and after we won the championship the council planned a reception for our arrival, but we declined. Some of the men stayed in Toronto most of the week."

At one time Mr. Green was the only young man in Peterborough who could play the piano, and some of the engagements he recalls were at church affairs arranged by Senator Cox and J. W. Flavelle, now Sir Joseph Flavelle. He joined the Otonabee Lodge, No. 13, I.O.O.F. in 1882 and was installed as secretary in 1887 and is the present recording secretary, having held the office from time to time during that long interval.

WANTED TOBACCO SO STOLE SKATES

Brother Pleads Guilty In Police Court To Receiving Stolen Goods

"I am not working and I can't get tobacco. What's a fellow to do if he can't do without smoking," complained 16-year-old Jas. Woodcock as his excuse for stealing a pair of skates and boots to which charge he pleaded guilty. The lad appeared in dock before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., this (Saturday) morning along with his 18-year-old brother Howard Woodcock. The latter pleaded guilty to a charge of receiving the stolen goods.

Remanding the two accused until Monday morning and intimating that he might be disposed to place them on suspended sentence if their father would be prepared to go on their bond, the magistrate told the younger of the brothers, "You are a precious lad." Acting Crown Attorney F. D. Kerr, K.C., termed the boy's excuse for the theft as being "a fool of an excuse."

TRENTON FLIERS NET FIVE IN 3RD TO WIN 6 TO 2

Airmen Come From Behind In Dazzling Play To Overwhelm Petes

OUTLUCKED IN THIRD

Peterborough Outfit Lead Play In First Two Periods Of Game

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Feb. 6.—The R.C.A. Fliers, in a hectic third period rally that netted them five goals, downed the Peterborough Intermediates here last night to the tune of 6 to 2, it being the third consecutive win of the current O.H.A. season for the Airmen over the Petes. The score in no way indicates the play, as the visitors from the Liftlock City carried plenty of threat throughout the first two frames and were repeatedly outlucked around the Flier's net in the final stanza, with only Gibson, R.C.A.F. goalie, standing between the Petes and victory. The game was witnessed by 1,500 satisfied fans, who saw the fastest and most thrilling hockey game seen here in years. The ice was in splendid condition and resulted in speedy hockey being dished up on the part of both clubs.

There was no score registered in the initial frame, the Petes carrying the play to look a shade the better. After some 33 minutes of going Lecompte broke the deadlock in the middle stanza, taking Eric McNeeley's pass at mid-ice and batting the rubber past Clarke, who had stood up well and made many sensational saves for the Petes all night. The going proved somewhat heavier at this stage, both clubs laying on the gad and handing out numerous heavy body-checks.

Started Early in Third

The Fliers opened their scoring orgie early in the last frame, Cowley blasing Lowrey's pass into the net. Les Burton elevated the hopes of the visitors when he cuffed home Ellis' pass as the Petes were staging a power play and the score now stood 2 to 1, with the Petes carrying the play, Lecompte circled the net and scored for the fliers, to have Weir later pass to McDougal, who scored the Petes' last goal. Eric McNeeley and Lowrey bagged goals for the winners to end the scoring.

Both goalies, Clarke for the Petes, and Gibson for the Fliers, starred, with Gibson being especially fortunate on some of his saves when the Petes ganged up. Weir played himself into exhaustion and starred along with Ellis, the fiery Vitarelli, Burton, Creighton and Gardner. The McNeeley boys, Cowley and Lowrey proved most effective for the winners.

The line-up:

Peterborough.—Goal, Clarke; defence, Weir, Magee; centre, Ellis, wings, Vitarelli, Burton. Subs., Coughlin, Gardner, Creighton, McDougall and Williamson.

CURLING
By HERB MARTIN

We hope we are able to report correctly or near correctly the results of the ladies games played Friday morning. It's the first round in the Waddell trophy—and Mrs. R. Turner is playing Mrs. O DeGraw and Miss F. Gladman is pitted against Mrs. W. A. Sanderson. . . . So far so good.

The other day we reported some games and the day following did we get one sweet panning? . . . maybe we deserved it—and maybe not. We were told "I wasn't playing lead, I was the second on the rink" . . . "Our score was 11 and not 10" . . . "I am not a Mrs., I am Miss" . . . "My initials are G. H. instead of G.B." . . . and there they are, known as the "weaker" sex—You're telling I.

And just to make sure about the results we'll walk over to the official card:

Mrs. R. Turner 11; Mrs. O. DeGraw 9

Miss F Gladman 8; Mrs. W. A. Sanderson 7.

One Day Bonspiel
Canada Packers Trophy
Tuesday, February 9th
9 a.m. sharp
Three 12-end games. Entry $4.00 per rink.
Splendid prizes.

Already there are several local rinks entered and there is sure to be more—it is up to the skips to rustle around and get rinks. There are plenty of players who will play —"if asked."

We understand that Gordon Matthewa of the Canada Packers Co. is donating four special hams as one set of prizes, and Chris Graham, manager of the Empress Hotel, is giving four boxes of cigars as a special prize, in addition to these there will be several more sets of prizes.

So why not get up a rink and take a crack at this trophy and these prizes. Remember this competition is open to everybody—No restrictions. Anyone may skip a rink. Get who you like—but get up a rink.

McGILL DEFEATS QUEEN'S BY 8 TO 1

Paul Pidcock Notches Two And Assists In Two More

TORONTO, Feb. 6 (CP)—A definite line on the Canadian college with the best chance to win the International Intercollegiate hockey title should be available tonight.

Red Raiders from McGill University, with a two-point lead, clash against University of Toronto in the season's first duel between the teams, undoubtedly the class of Canadian colleges in the league.

While Toronto and McGill start their all-important home-and-home series, Harvard invade Dartmouth's camp for a game against the winless Indians. The Crimson, undefeated in three starts and the only club to defeat Toronto, are overwhelming favorites.

But the game at Toronto holds prime interest. McGill opened their one-game advantage again last night by defeating Queen's at Kingston 8-1 for their sixth straight success. Should they win today, they would be two full games in front and going-away favorites to win the title.

Queen's made a game out of it until midway through the third period. They held the Montrealers to single goals in the first and second periods, and when Johnny Munro scored after only 30 seconds of the third it appeared as if Queen's might pull off a major upset.

But Gord Crutchfield scored two five minutes apart, and when Munro was penalized at the nine-minute mark McGill went on a scoring spree. Jean Paul Ellis, Duff, Pidcock and McConnell all scored a single within four minutes.

Wins American Skating Title

Another year, another North American indoor skating champion. This year the Minneapolis flash, Marvin Swanson, captured the crown from a field of the continent's best. He dethroned the former champion, Alex Hurd, formerly of Sudbury, Ont., who held the crown last year and who finished third. Frank Stack of Sudbury, Ont., finished next to Swanson in total points. The new king of the blades is pictured here.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

(C.J.P.)

FOUR BASKETBALL games are on tap tonight at the Y.M.C.A. Two are Church League playoffs and two are Senior City Loop scheduled tilts. St. Paul's play St. John's in the second and final bantam playoff game at six o'clock, the former having a two-point lead. At seven, St. Paul's and St. Andrew's meet in the first of their two-game juvenile playoff serial. Dominion Like tackles St. Paul's at eight in a City League affair, followed at nine by P.C.I. and Neill's—with a hop later. Some really fine hoop action is expected in these different tussles tonight and fans should not pass 'em up.

* * * * * *

OUR JUNIOR Colts yanked out a 5-3 decision over Belleville here last p.m. before a fair crowd of fans to take top place in the group standing. They have one more tussle in Belleville and then these teams clash in playoffs. We imagine the money serial will be quite a brawl as the local kids didn't look too impressive beating their rivals last eve. However, they did beat 'em and that's the main thing for now. If they can do the same when it's playoff time, no one will care a hoot (or even half a hoot) how impressive or otherwise they look.

* * * * * *

NEITHER TEAM showed too much class in their combination. It was a sort of hit-or-miss affair, with the lads trying passes but not clicking half the time. However, there was a lot of close checking in the centre zone and some fair back-checking. This naturally raises the dickens with combination. We liked the Starr-Heal-Wright line best, with Geo Clark also showing up well. Al Clark and Webb looked pretty fair on defence and Crowe turned in a fine effort in the third period. Harding booted aside some nice tries. The others worked hard, too. Al Clark bounced McCreary, husky Quinte defenceman, once so hard in the first frame with a bodycheck that the latter had little sip left the rest of the period. Though the passing wasn't the best, the teams kept up a fast pace and made it an interesting tussle.

* * * * * *

TOMPKINS (NO. 9) for Belleville was the best man on the ice. This fast, tricky wingman is a sweet prospect. Some say he is on the Red Wings' negotiation list—but that may be just talk. Anyway, he has speed to burn, some fine stickhandling and a nice shot. Cain and Morgan also showed up well on the attack, while the burly defence was strong. The Colts will have to be at their best to cop this group, yet, though they did earn the nod last night. Shorty Burgess handled them in this game.

* * * * * *

THINGS DID not roll along so smoothly last p.m. in Belleville our intermediate Petes taking the short side of a 6-2 count at the hands of Trenton Fliers. That's three wins in three starts for the Airmen over the Buckland gang and it looks like curtains for the Petes. When the score of that tilt was announced at the junior game here as being 2-1 for the Fliers with 10 minutes to go, everyone said: "Well, they're making it a real battle, eh?" But a short time later, fans could hardly believe their ears when informed that it had ended up as 6-2—in fact, a mistaken report had it 5-2 for Trenton. A strong rally in the third accounted for five Fliers' goals and one for the Petes. There was no score in the first.

* * * * * *

A FAST, rugged fixture, the fans thought it a grand game in Belleville with the play much closer than the score indicates. 'Tis said the Petes had an edge in the first inning and played on even terms in the second. They did some ganging up in the third, but the zooming Aviators had an edge that canto to flash the light five times. The big Trenton defence was airtight and Gibson in goal robbed the visitors a dozen times. Of the forwards, Eric McNeeley, Cowley, Lowrey and LeCompte were outstanding. Clarke was good in the losers' net while Williamson, Weir, McDougall, the first line of Ellis-Vitarelli-Burton shone and the others were almost as effective. Bill Calladine didn't play and he was missed muchly.

* * * * * *

WE HAD to cover the junior tilt here and thus missed a fine battle on Belleville ice. But reports are that the Petes didn't go down without fighting their hearts out. However, the Fliers couldn't be shot down in that wide-open third heat. It's too bad but things look bad for the locals now. They play the Fliers here Tuesday night and it should be another thrilling puck scrap. Whether the Petes can take 'em here or not is something we wouldn't try to answer. We thought they could the last time and were wrong; they may or may not Tuesday. But it'll be a battle.

* * * * * *

THREE CLASSY cage games were staged last gloaming by the Ladies' Basketball League in the Y.W. gym. Westclox Juniors took a 10-4 verdict over "Y" Quakers; C.G.E. Seniors stepped out with a 14-7 nod over Marconi Radio; and C.G.E. Juniors dittoed with an 8-3 (or was it 8-5, the scorebook being vague?) decision 'gainst St. John's. Most of the games in this loop have been close and smart this season to date and should be tighter from here on home. Games next Friday are: "Y" Quakers vs. St. John's Juniors at 7.45, Westclox Seniors vs. Marconi at 8.15, and C.G.E. Juniors vs. Westclox at 9.00.

* * * * * *

HITHER AND yawn: Three Senior City Hockey League games at the Brock Monday night are: Mayfairs vs. Westclox at seven, Millbrook vs. Outboard Marines at eight, and Lakefield vs. Bewdley at nine . . . And two Junior City Puck Loop tussles will be staged there Wednesday . . . . After dumping McNeeley with a beautiful bodycheck last night, Stew Williamson was cut across the arm by that angered player, and he may be out next game . . . . Coach Buckland said: "We took chances in the third as we might as well be beaten by several goals as one; it was a swell game and our gang gave all they had." . . . . Bun Kingdon was used little by the Colts last p.m. as he has a bad shoulder . . . . Is the injury jinx hitting our two puck squads this year, boyoboyoboy! . . . . St. Andrew's Juveniles are after their fourth straight church cage title tonight.

St. John's Cagers Lose Girls' Game

C.G.E. Juniors won their third straight game in the Ladies' Basketball League last night at the Y.W.C.A., when they grabbed an 8-3 nod from St. John's. There was little difference between the squads both playing a neat passing brand of basketball with some speedy dribbling and close checking shown. Of the dozen penalty tosses, none paid dividends. The count at half-time was 4-1 and they had a slight edge again in the second chapter. It was two losses in a row for the Saints. V. Bartley led the winners with four points as Z. Birkhoff and E. Lynch counted two each. A. Bowler had two, and M. Snowden one for the losers. The teams:

St. John's.—J. Coleman, J. McIlwain, E. Maxwell, I. Young, M. Snowden, B. Castle, E. Clarke, A. Bowler, H. Maxwell, and E. Craig.

C.G.E.—V. Bartley, M. Heard, E. Power, P. Baxter, K. Knowland, Z. Birkhoff and E. Lynch.

Three Fast Counters Early In Second Sew Up Game In Big Seven Tilt

CLINCH SECOND PLACE

OSHAWA, Feb. 6.—Oshawa Generals practically clinched second place in the Big Seven Junior O.H.A. grouping when they handed St. Michael's College a 5 to 4 defeat in a close-checking game before a rabid crowd of close to 4,000 fans here last night. The win kept Oshawa's streak of victories on home ice intact so far this season, but the game itself failed to produce the crowd-pleasing action of previous contests.

Oshawa was forced to come from behind twice in the first period, the Laflamme-coached squad going ahead in the first minute of play when Tonn banged in Inglis's rebound during a ganging attack. McCullough tied the score a few minutes later on a great solo effort that saw him go through the entire St. Michael's team to give Dunne no chance.

Fred Hunt Breaks Tie

Oshawa's lead was short-lived. F. Hunt putting the Irish ahead two minutes later when he scored on Morrison's pass. Calhoun tied the count again just past the half-way mark of the period when his hard drive from the blue line found a corner of the net.

Three fast goals in the early part of the second period completed Oshawa's scoring, Shortt getting the first two on passes from Brunell, while Frantz scored the third on a nice solo effort.

R. Hunt drew down the only penalty of the exceptionally clean game, but Oshawa were unable to take advantage of the odd man. George McNamara scoring while his team was short-handed, when he stick-handled his way through the entire Oshawa team. Before the period ended, R. Hunt tallied on P. McNamara's pass when he pulled Forster out of position.

Generals on Defensive

The last period saw Oshawa put on a strictly defensive display, checking the hard-working St. Michael's squad continually and shooting the puck down the ice at every opportunity.

Dunne made a great save midway through the period when Calhoun broke away, the goaltender beating him to the loose puck just inside the blue line. St. Michael's indelibly stamped themselves as the strongest team seen here this season with their sustained ganging attempts, but could not shake themselves loose from their checks.

St. Michael's.—Goal, Dunne; defence, G. McNamara and Tonn; centre, Morrison; wings, F. Hunt and Inglis; alternates, J. McNamara, R. Hunt, Smith, Callahan, and Lukasik.

Oshawa—Goal, Forster; defence, McCullough and Patton; centre, Calhoun; wings, Brunell and Shortt; alternates, Krantz, Sanders, Hastie, Yourth and Daniels.

Referee—M. J. Rodden, Toronto.

First Period

1—St. Michaels, Tonn (Inglis) .56
2—Oshawa, McCullough 4.00
3—St. Michael's, F. Hunt (Morrison) 6.00
4—Oshawa, Calhoun (Patton) .11.10

No penalties.

Second Period

5—Oshawa, Shortt (Brunell).. 4.59
6—Oshawa, Shortt (Brunell).. 7.10
7—Oshawa, Frantz 7.50
8—St. Michael's, G. McNamara 13.20
9—St. Michael's, R. Hunt (P. McNamara) 18.00

Penalty—R. Hunt.

Third Period

No scoring. No penalties.

Canadiens Win 2-1 Over All Saints'

Cres Sprost's Canadiens of the West End Hockey League last night climbed into third place and practically eliminated All Saints by downing the latter by a 2-1 score in a rugged fray here. The two outside teams, Warsaw and Keene, lead the race for the Grafton Cup, with Canadiens still having a fair chance.

The winners had an edge last night but neither side scored in the first, Creighton ran in two fast ones near the end of the second. In the third, Conlin got one back for the Anglicans but they could not tie it up. Owing to close checking, the goalies had not too much to do but looked good. Hunter and Seabrooke showed up well with Kirkwood, Rusaw and Conlin also effective. The teams:

All Saints: Goal, Pearson; defence, Seabrooke, Rusaw; centre, Watson; wings, Quirt, Legon; alternates, Beauclerc, Frost, Alton, Conlin.

Referee D. Charlton.

Westclox Juniors Defeat "Y" Quakers

Westclox Juniors took a 10-4 decision over "Y" Quakers last night in a Ladies' Basketball League fixture in the Y.W. gym. to keep a firm grip on second place. Play was fast all through with the young Clockmakers having an edge in the first half, but being held on even terms through the second stanza. Checking was light and only five free throws made, none clicking. All the counting was done in the first period and the rival snipers held off the score sheet the last session. A. Flynn and P. Davis led the winners with four points apiece, while J. Crowe had two. D. Bestard and M. Sullivan hooped the ball once each for the other side. The teams:

"Y" Quakers.—V. Woods, M. Sullivan, M. Boyle, B. Frost, D. Frost, E. O'Leary, E. Alexander, J. Neiman, J. Hollingsworth, M. Kingsbury, D. Bestard.

Westclox.—J. Crowe, E. Walsh, Z. Florence, A. Flynn, M. Pammett, L. McNaughton, D. Dawson, L. Turcotte, P. Davis.

Scorer.—G. Ecobichon.

KING OF WINTER SPORTS
Skiing
By Charles Schaer
Sponsored By Peterborough Ski Club

36—STARTING ON A SLOPE

Starting on a downhill run from level ground presents no difficulty. One simply faces down the slope, proceeds to the edge, and is away. Starting downhill while standing on a slope, however, is a different matter, because skis have a habit of sliding off before one gets set in the direction to be taken. The most stable, stationary position from this position one first turns sideways and places the sticks well down the slope in the direction to be taken and far enough apart to permit the passage of the skier between them, figure 1.

Next move into the snowplow position with the points of the skis between the sticks, figure 2. By bringing the skis from the snowplow to the running parallel position one will slide off down the hill when the weight is taken off the sticks, figure 3.

Another method from the same starting position is to place the upper ski pointing as much downhill as possible while keeping the weight on the lower ski. Gradually shift the weight to the upper ski which will cause it to start to slide downhill. Bring the lower ski parallel to it in the running position. This is aided by the foot on the sliding ski coming against the curved front of the other ski and swinging it around. If, at the start, the upper ski was not placed as far around as the desired direction to travel this ski may now be stemmed, with some weight, until one is sliding in the desired direction, when the running position is again assumed.

Next: Lunging Position

Church League

Due to the death of Rev. S. G. McCormack, pastor of Knox Church, the Murray St.-Knox hockey game was called off last night. The Mark St.-All Saints Juvenile contest will take its place Monday night at seven. This changes the juvenile standing to St. Paul's nine points, Murray St. and St. John's eight points, and Mark St. six points. The last three teams have one game each to play. These four of the seven juvenile entries have still chances at the three playoff berths.

C.G.E. Senior Girls Beat Marconi Radio

C.G.E. Seniors of the Ladies' Basketball League moved into undisputed possession of second place in the standing last night at the Y.W.C.A. by coppling a 14-7 verdict over Marconi Radio. A second-half rally gave the Electrics an edge after the teams had fought it out practically on even terms the first frame. It was 6-6 for C.G.E. at the breathing spell and they outplayed their opponents the rest of the way. Play was fast, exciting and with some close checking. There were 20 personal fouls with the losers cashing in on three foul throws and the winners notching two. M. Woods and M. Hodson were the shooting stars for C.G.E., the former tallying seven points and the latter six. E. Hodson got the other. L. Magee, B. Flynn and L. Wesley had two each for the Radio Girls while F. Bestard had one. The teams:

Laughs of the week: (1) Talk of Louis-Braddock winner fighting Schmeling in Germany, which bars home-made profits from leaving the country; (2) suggestion for big league ball players to organize for collective salary bargaining... As Umpire Tim Hurst once remarked, "You can't beat the hours"... Besides it's matter of record no ball player has yet shown, while a top-notcher, he can make as much money in any other business pursuit... Current Yankee holdouts, six of 'em, averaged $14,000 in pay cheques last season which allies them with economic royalists, instead of laboring classes. This may explain why we have music with track meets: Charley Feraske plays clarinet, George Varoff bass violin, and Archie San Romani toots cornet.

Colts Cop Decision Over Belleville 5-3 In Fast Junior Tilt

Locals Move Into Top Place In Group Standing By Nudging Out Verdict Over Quinte Kids In Speedy Joust

HAVE EDGE IN SECOND

Before a fair-sized crowd at the Brock St. rink last night, the local Colts copped a 5-3 win over Belleville to take first place in their O.H.A. junior "B" group standing. It was a speedy, interesting tilt, with not much good hockey shown but the squads making up for it in dash. The homesters had a 2-1 lead in the first frame and were ahead, 4-1, going into the last stanza.

There was little difference shown in the teams, both battling along on even terms for the most part. The Colts had an edge in aggressive play in the middle chapter to gain the lead and they held it through the third. The ice was fast, the pace hot and the checking in mid-ice interfered considerably with passing plays. It was a clean contest despite nine penalties handed out, the local drawing five.

Four Go Good.

The front line of Starr, Heal and Wright, looked smart for the locals most of the way, with G. Clark also turning in a fine game. The alternates were good in spots. The defence showed up well for the most part and Harding did some neat saving in goal. The scoring was well divided by the winners. For Belleville, Tompkins (No. 9) played a grand game, his speed and stickhandling taking him in on the home goalie repeatedly. Cain also turned in a good performance and Morgan was quite effective, too. The husky defence looked good and the others battled hard from bell to bell.

Play was fast and even at the start. Cain was chased for tripping and just got back when Brady and McCreary were waved off for roughing it. G. Clark tore in fast alone to notch a nice goal and then A. Clark climbed the fence for tripping. Belleville pressed hard and Cain was robbed by Harding. Derry went off next for cross-checking but Belleville scored when Morgan took Cain's passout. The Colts looked disorganized for a time but later Connelly put them ahead on Kingdon's pass. The fans yelled at the speedy action and when Robinson went away for tripping the Colts tore in hard till the bell.

Colts Have Edge.

Early in the middle chukker, Starr came up the right boards fast and burned an angle shot that sifted through Sharpe's pads. Belleville pressed for a time but later the Petes took command and had most of the play, Sharpe having to hop to save. Wright made a nice rush but was thefted and then, as Kingdon went off for tripping, four Belleville boys put on a dangerous power play. Late in the inning, Heal scored at point-blank range on assists from Wright and Crowe, to put the young Petes up 4-1 as the frame finished.

Belleville got off to a flying start to tally two early in the third period. McCreary took Cain's pass in close within two minutes and then, when Crowe was gated for tripping, Tompkins scored a beauty on a tricky lone rush. Crowe came back for a dandy try and then Heal scored on Starr's passout. Brady got the finger for slashing and play ranged up and down at a fast clip. Belleville ganged up and were dangerous for a time, forcing the Colts to shoot the disc down the ice to relieve the pressure. Later, with both sides at full strength, the squads battled it out on about even terms with no letup in the hot pace till the final gong.

The teams:

Belleville: Goal, Sharpe; defence, Derry and McCreary; centre, Cain; wings, Tompkins and Morgan; alternates, Storms, Robinson, Jackson and Green.

Colts: Goal, Harding; defence, A. Clark and Crowe; centre, Kingdon; wings, G. Clark and Connelly; alternates, Starr, Heal, Wright, Brady and Webb.

TWEED SCHOLARS DOWNED BY MADOC

Victors Superior Passing And Checking Gives Them 7 To 4 Victory

TWEED, Feb. 6.—Travelling over to the Tweedites' stronghold on Friday night, the Madoc High School soundly trounced the local High School team by a 7 to 4 score. Reeves with two tallies and Parks with a single for Madoc ran up a 3 to 1 score in the first period, with the lone local goal being scored by Arber on a pass from Tummon. The only penalty of the game was handed out to Hawthorne of Madoc.

In the second period, Madoc increased the score 5 to 1 on tallies by Reeves. The lone Tweed goal went to Vance on a pass from Tummon. The play turned into a game of glorified shinny at this stage, with both sides laying on the sticks and giving a good exhibition of chopping.

In the last period Hawthorne and Parks on lone rushes tallied twice for the visitors, while Tummon and Courneyea, who took a pass from Doyle added another pair to the losing column for the home forces.

The passing and checking work of the Madoc team had the Tweed players completely broken. In the exhibitions of hockey so far this season, the visitors have displayed some of the best passing tactics that have been seen in many years. The local forces have now played a tie game, won one, and lost the third in three successive games. When Parks was in the clear in the last period, Tummon saved another tally by tripping and was immediately dispatched to the cooler by Geraldi who refereed the game.

Inside Sportin' Dope

BY A. WISE-CRACKER.

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well Mac, as this is being wrote Fri. p.m. and both our hockey teams swing into action to-nite they aint much I can say about the situation except that our jrs kin lose without hurting themselves a great deal, seeing they got a playoff berth cinched but the intermediate gang is faced with the stunt of having to beat them flyers in Belleville to get somewhere on even terms with the Air Force.

The Petes was outlucked here last Mon. nite and outplayed in the pinches as well. They had more chances to score than the Flyers but when the latter got in a scoring position they was poison while the home guard blew a number of glorious chances and that was the chief difference between the 2 teams. The losers had a shade the edge in the 1st and 3rd sessions but in the middle round the gang from the Trenton camp showed the punch that give them a nice lead and while the home guard ganged up on them most most of the distance in the final session the best they could do was alice a goal off the margin and they finished on the short end of a 6 and 4 score. Considering they practically lost the services of Mister Calladine after 1st 5 mins. the Petes done well to make it as close as they did. The 1st line was disorganized with the centre man disabled.

The Shrimp Showed Them

A feature was the exhibition give by Mister Shrimp McDougall which in spite of a cold that should have had him under the blankets instead of out there on the frozen aqua give a refreshing exhibition of wise hockey. His round-the-net goal was a master piece of smooth execution and at times he made that big Air Force defence look bad as he stickhandled round them.

The N.H.L. is moving along Mac and with the 2-3 mark reached it looks like the Red Wings and the Canadiens oughta finish tops in their sections and the Black Hawks and the Amerks seem sure for the discard. Anything can happen so far as the other places is concerned with the Leaves and the Maroons squabbling for 2nd place in 1 section and the Bruins and Rangers battling for the same slot in the United States group. A feature lately has been the development of the Jackson-Apps-Drillon line into 1 of the most powerful scoring threats in the whole loop. They was a long time getting clicking proper but recent games has seen them going all out with the result that Mister Jackson and Mister Apps is now up with 7 leading scorers and Mister Drillon not far out of that select gang.

Mister Aurie Cuts Loose

For a day or 2 in fact Mister Jackson was tied with Mister Schriner for the leadership but this Mister Aurie of Detroit aint going to take nobody's dust, it would look like for as soon as he seen the boys in front of him he goes out and nicks 4 goals in 2 games. Mister Aurie has actually sunk the old spheroid for 21 markers and that, neighbors, is shooting in any man's league. The little Red Wing right winger seems to be improving with age and right now they aint anybody the goalies wouldn't rather see loom up in front of them with the puck than the same Mister Aurie who knows all the numbers and all the answers when it comes to slipping a hunk of rubber where the goal minder aint.

It's a great race for the scoring championship and the Detroit star is evidently determined to show that the guy which beats him will have to go a lot of places.

Well it's pretty near time for the hamburg so let's scram.

Sportfully Yours,
A. Wise Cracker.

LEAFS - AMERICANS ACE FRONT LINES TO BATTLE TONIGHT

Outcome Will Test Boasts Of Coach Dick Irvin And Manager Red Dutton

LIVELY WEEK-END AHEAD

TORONTO, Feb. 6.—(CP)— High-scoring forward combinations are as welcome to coaches as sea to a sailor and that's why most National League mentors these days are trying to persuade themselves each has the most potent attacking force in hockey And for the shrewdest of pickers it would be a tough chore naming the best trio right now.

Several times this season, all three members of one forward flank have muscled their way into the big seven but the best any team can boast in the charmed group is a pair. The race for points grows hotter and smooth-clicking lines seem to take turns at hogging the spotlight.

You'd have a hard time convincing Coach Dick Irvin that there was a smoother string in the business than his Harvey Jackson-Syl Apps-Gord Drillon line. Apps and Drillon are both newcomers to pro ranks but it's doubtful if you could persuade Toronto Maple Leafs' management to trade them for any forwards in the League.

No Top Notch Trio Here.

Neither New York Rangers and Maroons who play in Montreal tonight and return to Gotham Sunday can boast any trio to rank as tops. Neither club has a man in the big seven, but they both have some potent scoring combinations which may be making them all step before the curtain comes down.

Cecil Hart, peppery manager of Canadiens, is one team boss who thinks he would have three men in the first seven scorers if injuries hadn't caught up with old Howie Morenz. But as the Flying Frenchmen take a week-end rest on their 12-point Canadian section lead, he's quite satisfied, with both Johnny Gagnon and Aurel Joliat in the group.

Dutton will probably rely a lot on Schriner, Chapman and Carr again Sunday as his team moves into Chicago to meet another lowly outfit—Black Hawks. Coach Clem Loughlin sadly admits none of his front lines are clicking like all-stars but he still can't decide what's wrong.

Detroit fans will be on hand in full force to cheer the champion Red Wings and particularly that great scoring line of Herb Lewis Marty Barry and Larry Aurie. Jack Adams men take on the burly Bruins from Boston, another club unable to boast a member among the loop's big gunners.

With Aurie topping all marksmen with 21 goals and 13 assists for 33 points, and Barry next in line tied with Jackson, two points back Wings have great scoring strength. Lewis, well up among the leaders all season, would likely still be in the Big Seven if he had not been hampered by hurts.

PORT HOPE FALLS VICTIM OF WHITBY

Red Wings Prove Far Too Strong For Ontarios, Beating Them 12-2

WHITBY, Feb. 5. — Whitby Red Wings proved too strong for Port Hope Ontarios last night when they defeated them 12-2. Heard, of Whitby, was sensational with his lone rushes, netting four goals. Brown earned two unassisted. Piper beat Cancilla twice while Blanchard and J. Sleightholm each got one. In the third period Record and Phillips, of Port Hope, avoided a shutout by scoring one each, Mutton, playing goal for second time in Hurst's place, proved sensational.

Referee—C. Rice, Whitby.

IN MEMORIAM

FROST. — In loving memory of a dear mother, Carrie Frost, who passed away February 7, 1936.

One year has passed.
Our hearts still sore;
As time goes on
We miss you more.
But we loved you in life,
We love you in death,
We will love you as long
As God giveth us breath.
—Sadly missed by Family.

WILSON. — In loving memory of Joseph K. Wilson, who passed away February 7, 1934.

Call not back the dear departed,
Anchored safe where storms are o'er.
On the borderland we left them
Soon to meet and part no more.
When we leave this world of changes,
When we leave this world of care,
We shall find our missing loved ones
In our Father's mansion fair.
—Sadly missed by daughter, Violet.

The Day That I Forget
By MARIE BLIZARD

READ THIS FIRST:

Janet McLeod has just married Joel Paynter, second-rate actor, whom she met a few weeks previously at a cocktail party. Because Joel asked Janet to stop work, she has had to economize. Martha Colby, her best friend, visits Janet in their one-room apartment. Joel tells Janet his show is closing.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 4

THE LIGHT was red but Janet didn't notice that. She stepped from the curb and a hand jerked her back roughly. She hadn't even seen the taxi turning the corner. She murmured her thanks and saw that her rescuer was gone. The slight adventure was enough to unnerve her; she felt her eyelids sting with the tears that sprang to her eyes.

The hot pavement burned through the thin soles of her sandals. The July sun beat mercilessly down upon her. It was a long hot walk across the park to West Seventy-third street, but a bus would have cost 10 cents. It was an extravagance she could ill afford and she resisted it, striking out bravely on her path homeward. There was no need to hurry for Joel seldom returned to her before 6 and more than ever today she dreaded going back to the airless room where the bright colors were less attractive in the hot light.

She had been leaving the bank where she deposited the check for the rental of her old apartment, a check that allowed no profit, when she heard herself hailed by Margaret Peyton. Margaret, like herself, was a bride and like Janet, had been a minor executive at the Faber-Johnston store.

Margaret, sitting at the wheel of a smart little roadster, said, "Come along with me, Janet, I'm dying to hear about what has been happening to you. I've got to get home early and I want you to see my place."

Margaret was a bride who might have been created by a woman's magazine. She had radiance; she had, also, an air of assurance, of security. She had a trousseau with everything a bride could want. Janet exclaimed over the lovely hostess gowns, the smart little evening frocks, the jaunty sports things. She murmured "lovely" and "how fortunate" and all the other things that were expected of her over the linens and glass and china. And she missed none of the beauty and completeness of the big, comfortable, cool living room, the spacious kitchen, the well-stocked pantry.

She sipped her iced tea and nibbled imported English biscuits and told Margaret that Joel was "temporarily at liberty" but they couldn't get away this summer—Margaret and her husband were going to Maine for the month of August—because "Joel is considering a part in a new production."

"His show closed in March, didn't it?" Margaret asked. "I was interested in it when I heard you had married him and I wanted to see it but when we got back from our honeymoon, it had closed."

Janet smiled very brightly. "Yes, I was glad it did. I had barly had him to myself. We didn't have a real honeymoon, you know. It was nice to have him more of the time."

It HAD been at first when they were both filled with optimism. There were new shows in production then, shows that would go on the road for the summer. There had been no need to worry then. They'd had over $200 in the bank, including Martha's wedding present.

There was less than $25 now. The English biscuits that cost a dollar a pound felt dry in Janet's throat as she thought of the dinner she had planned. Lamb stew again. It would make a nutritious meal for Joel, who looked these days as though he needed nutrition.

Sometimes Janet was stricken as she thought of the responsibility she was to Joel, yet she knew that if he didn't have her to eke out his pennies—and to do it so that he would not realize that he was practically penniless—his lot would have been worse.

"Do you ever miss working?" she said rather unexpectedly to herself, addressing Margaret.

"Heavens, no! I don't have time. My dear, when you keep house, the day just flies. I have marketing and little things to do around here and suddenly it is time for Jim to get home and the day is gone. It don't suppose you have either. It must be rather a story book life and full of glamor to be married to an actor, isn't it?"

"Yes," Janet said, "it's very different. One feels so completely an individual.....that is.....everyone seems to be doing something." She realized her words made little sense.

"I was surprised to hear that you gave up your job." Margaret picked up ice cubes from a silver bucket with a silver spoon and dropped them in Janet's glass. "I was in Faber's the other day and Mr. Hoadley"—he had been Janet's superior—"was bemoaning your departure."

Janet felt as though her ears were distended toward Margaret but she gave no sign.

"He said he couldn't take a vacation because he had no capable person to take charge. You know he hasn't been able to find an assistant since you left? I guess your job is there if you want to go back."

Walking home through the park an hour later, Janet thought of that. And she made a decision. Once she had done so, she hastened her steps. No matter what Joel said, she had made up her mind. She couldn't stand that strained look in Joel's eyes. She was sick to death of lamb stew and pork chops and hamburgers. She wanted broiled chicken and sweet breads. She wanted them for him. It would only be for a little while and in the autumn Joel would surely find a part.

"You knew what your chances were when you married me. So you're sick of it? Well, go back, forget me, have your little satisfaction that you married a no-good!" Joel flung down the dish towel with which he had been wiping a plate.

Janet's voice was patient and had the quality of a mother speaking to her child. "Darling, you don't mean a word of it. You're a bright, intelligent man and a reasonable one, too, only you haven't seen the point yet. I can go back to my job and earn $40 a week. I'll give it up when you get a part and in the meantime we'll have money for carfare and clothes and decent food."

"For better or for worse," Joel muttered and paced the small floor.

"Let's consider this for the better," she said as she wiped the last plate and put it on the shelf.

But Joel went on, angrily:

"You know it's a matter of principle with me. Why will you be stubborn? You know I cannot allow you to go back to work! Janet, if you go, this is the end between us. It tells me only one thing — that it means you aren't willing to share my luck. Do you want a husband who has no pride?"

Janet thought: Twenty dollars and the rent is $12 a week. What next?

She saw herself back at her job, back in the sweet little rooms on Twelfth street. She saw the long, empty nights without Joel.

"No, darling, I don't want anything but what I've got. You'll get something. You've got to! Forget that I said anything about going to work. Let's go out and sit in the park. It will be cool there and nothing terrible is going to happen to us tonight. When tomorrow comes, who knows what will turn up?"

That was their first quarrel if it could be called that, and Janet had met it as she was often to do, by recognizing the importance of Joel's pride. It was part of him and she loved all of him.

The next day something did turn up.

DIAMOND DRILL HAS BEEN SET UP ON KING PROPERTY

Considerable Mining Work Is Being Done North Of Enterprise

ZINC DEPOSITS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Feb. 6—With the setting up of a diamond drill on the property of Manson King, about eight miles north of the village of Enterprise, in the Fifth Lake District, on which is believed to be rich zinc deposits interest is renewed through this locality in general. Since last spring, J. Bacuslieu of Montreal, who has an option on the property, with several men, has done considerable work there, stripping and getting ready for the diamond drill which was installed on the property a few days ago, and since then it has been at work taking samples which have been taken to Montreal to be examined.

Should the deposits prove to be as rich as samples indicate, it is understood the promoter of the project has been promised ample funds to begin operations on a large scale. It is expected a mill will be built on the property and a number of trucks will be operated to convey the mineral to Kingston for shipment.

Options Obtained

Options have already been obtained on adjoining land belong to P. J. Murphy and Son, and Elmore Jackson, where it is believed the veins of mineral extend. Applications are being made to Ottawa and Toronto for Federal and Provincial aid in improving the roads leading to the locality in which the property is situated. If the project gets under way it will prove a boon to the district in general, in providing a source of employment for men much in need of work, in which the whole district will benefit.

Bedtime Story
By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AT THE PARTY

Uncle Wiggily looked at Mrs. Fluff, the old lady squirrel and Mrs. Fluff looked at Uncle Wiggily. They had met in a grove of trees where, Uncle Wiggily was sure, Johnnie Bushytail had a secret. Johnnie's brother, Billie, had told about the secret. He and Uncle Wiggily had watched Johnnie start to dig in a place where the ground wasn't frozen very hard.

Then the school bell rang, the squirrel brothers had to run so they wouldn't be late and along came Mrs. Fluff.

"Do you know where I can find one?" she asked, sort of quavering like and fretful. For she was a very old lady squirrel and she was troubled with acidosis, which means she had to eat very special food. Dr. Possom had put her on a strict diet.

"What is it you are looking for?" asked Uncle Wiggily politely.

"Some hickory nuts," answered Mrs. Fluff. "One will do but I would like many more. Dr. Possum says a hickory nut is the only thing that will make me well. We didn't save any hickory nuts this Fall.

No Luck

"We put away walnuts, chesnuts, butternuts, pecans and almonds, but no hickory nuts. Now I need some and I've been all over looking for them but I can't find any. Oh, if I don't get a hickory nut or two I'll never get well!"

"That would be too bad," said Uncle Wiggily.

"Are there any hickory nuts here?" asked Mrs. Fluff. "I saw two squirrel boys run from here a little while ago. Maybe they have hidden some hickory nuts."

"I don't know, I'm sure," said Uncle Wiggily. "But if you need a hickory nut, Mrs. Fluff, I think the best thing to do would be for you to go see the Lady Mouse Teacher in the Hollow Tree School. She can tell you a lot about hickory nuts."

"I don't want to HEAR about them, I want some to EAT!" said Mrs. Fluff.

"Well, let's go ask Miss Mouse or some of her pupils," suggested Uncle Wiggily. "I think I may say something is going to happen," he went on with a funny little twinkle of his pink nose. For, all of a sudden, he had an idea about Johnnie's secret.

Pops the Question

Still Uncle Wiggily knew how she felt, so he said nothing. Miss Mouse was glad to see Uncle Wiggily and Mrs. Fluff. After the rabbit gentleman had told what the old squirrel lady was looking for Miss Mouse asked:

"Do any of you children know where there are some hickory nuts?"

For a moment no one spoke. Billie looked at his brother Johnnie. Then Johnnie stood up and said:

"Please, Miss Mouse, I have some hickory nuts hidden away in a secret place. I was saving them for my mother's birthday party. But if Mrs. Fluff is ill and needs them she may have them. I'm sure my mother would want me to give them away, for we can eat other nuts at the party.

"I think that's a fine Squirrel Scout idea," said Uncle Wiggily. "And I will give a party. There will be not only hickory nuts for Mrs. Fluff but candy, cake and ice cream. Will you dismiss school early, Miss Mouse, so I may start the party now?"

"Of course I will!" squeaked Miss Mouse. So that's how Billie found out Johnnie's secret; the hidden hickory nuts. And when Mrs. Fluff ate them at the party, where everybody had a jolly time, all her troubles disappeared. So everything was all right.

And if the corned beef doesn't run away from the cabbage when they're swimming in the kettle, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's skis.

MADOC TROUNCES TWEED BY 7 TO 2

Old Rivals Give Fans Lively Battle On Good Ice

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MADOC, Feb. 6. — Madoc and Tweed the old rivals, met on good ice before a large and excited crowd last night. Tweed going down to defeat under a 7-2 score.

The play opened fast in the first period and shortly after Akey scored the first counter for Madoc after Alexander carried it down. Later in the period Smith placed the rubber behind Reeves for a second counter for Madoc. Shots were numerous on the Madoc net and kept Nickle for Madoc on his toes. The majority of the penalties were handed out to Tweed in this period by Referee Watson of Madoc. Lafountaine Long and Ellsbury gained the bench for Tweed while Fellman was the lone black mark for Madoc.

Alexander for Madoc opened the play in the second canto when he scored after a scramble in front of the nets. From another scramble Alexander again scored for Madoc to make the count 4-0 for the locals. Two penalties to Akey and Wes of Madoc were handed out.

In the third period Tweed succeeded in coming into the limelight when Ellsbury beat Nickle after Courneyea had battled his way through.

Alexander came back to make a lone rush and place Madoc up another point. Smith added another tally for Madoc after some minutes of play. Tweed obtained their second and last goal when W. Leal scored from an assist by McGuire. Akey got the puck and at the blueline passed to Alexander who carried it through to make the final score 7-2 for Madoc. One penalty was given Hailstone of Madoc.

Tweed goalie Thompson was out of last night's game as the result of a cut on the face received in one of the recent games. Reeves in the Tweed net turned in a good game after two years' absence from the role.

Credit should be given the entire local team for the performance they showed.

Courneyea and Tummon were especially good for Tweed.

Line-ups:

Tweed—Goal Reeves; defence, T. Tummon La Fontaine; centre, W. Leal; wings, Maguire, H. Leal; alternates, Courneyea, Ellsbury, Long, Arber.

Madoc — Goal, Nickle; defence, Whytock, West; centre, Smith; wings, Akey, Alexander; alternates, Fellman, Hailstone, Wellman, Embury.

way informed of the relationship between wages and capital.

The House reached the railway measure after considering the Home Improvement Bill in committee of the whole. The Bill was approved by the committee except for two sections which Finance Minister Dunning wanted to hold over for further study in the light of suggestions made during the discussion.

Explaining the Railway Bill, Mr. Howe said it would consolidate component parts and subsidiaries of the Canadian National system into one balance sheet and make for greater efficiency. At the time of the Duff Commission inquiry there were about 130 different corporations within the system and these had since been reduced to about 100.

He believed, the Minister said, the proper place to discuss the details of the Bill would be in the Select Committee on Railways and Shipping. All necessary experts would be there to give information and explanations.

To this suggestion, made by Mr. Bennett when the Bill was introduced, Mr. Howe said he took little exception. With reference to Mr Bennett's request the exact amount of money invested by the people always be clearly shown in the railways report Mr. Howe said he believed it could be worked out.

There was little doubt in his mind the people generally would approve of the plan to eliminate duplication as between the public accounts and those of the publicly owned railways, Mr. Howe Said.

There might be different opinions as to the method to be adopted. If the Bill passed as framed the people would know exactly what their tax money was doing with respect to servicing the national debt and meeting cash difficits of the railway.

Other Outlays.

In considering the costs to the taxpayers of the Canadian National system, Government expenditures on other forms of transportation were frequently overlooked, Mr. Howe said.

Sums totalling $1,500,000,000 had been put into the National system. But $104,000,000 had gone into the Canadian Pacific, $1,257,000,000 into waterways and shipping, some $84,000,000 into highways, and in the short time aviation had been in the ascendency, about $18,000,000 in the way of aids to that form of transportation.

Reference had been made to the South African railways which system was a complete monopoly and protected by statute from competition. In 1935 it had a surplus of $27,000,000 while the Canadian National had a deficit of $47,000,000. But the revenue per mile of the South African system was $11,061 while that of the Canadian National was $7,322.

"If we could have that mile revenue we could meet the debt and have a small surplus," he said. He wondered if the people of Canada would submit to a railway operated as a complete monopoly and with all competition banned by statute.

"We have the cheapest freight rates of any country in the world," Mr. Howe said, "and every convenience in the way of alternate forms of transportation of the latest and most flexible type."

It was not proposed to regulate one form of transportation to the prejudice of another. Every form of transportation must stand or fall on its merits.

"I think we are on the way to better days, so far as our railway problem is concerned," the minister said. The proposed changes would make no difference in the actual operation of the system but would improve the credit of both the railways and the government and make for greater efficiency.

For Bad Winter Coughs, Mix This Remedy at Home

Quick Relief. Big Saving. So Easy. No Cooking.

This well known recipe is used by many thousands of housewives, because they have found that it gives them a much more dependable remedy for discussing winter coughs. It's so easy to mix—a child could do it.

Then make a syrup by stirring two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. It's no trouble at all, and takes but a moment. No cooking needed.

Put the Pinex into a 16 oz. bottle and add your syrup. This gives you 16 ounces of cough remedy, unusually quick-acting and dependable, and you get four times as much cough medicine for your money. It never spoils, and is very pleasant—children love it.

You'll be surprised by the way it takes hold of severe coughs, giving quick, satisfying relief. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Money refunded if it doesn't please in every way.

MARKET RECORDS VOLUME TRADING ARE SHATTERED

Over Fifteen Millions Of Shares Changed Hands In Five-Day Session

ON MINING SECTION

TORONTO, Feb. 6 (CP)—Market records that have stood for years were shattered by the volume of trading on the mining section of the Toronto exchange this week. A total of 15,699,000 shares were handled in the five full sessions, the heaviest insight years and the number of individual transactions— 9,000 —on Thursday exceeded by 1,200 the former all-time record for a single session.

With the rush of trading, prices advanced and all groups are well up for the week despite the sizeable shake-down that struck the market on Thursday. Gold stocks have a net gain of more than four points with a rise from 161.40 to 165.56 in the exchange index. Prices went to a new high for recent years on Wednesday at 163.59. The miscellaneous mines index, embracing the Western Canada oils, the base metals and some of the junior golds, advanced from 193.84 to 197.45, a gain of nearly four points.

Industrials Not Active

The Toronto industrial share market moved more leisurely, doing a little better in point of volume than in the previous week but standing below the first three weeks of January. The industrials keep a weather eye on the storms of Wall street and in recent days, labor strikes and Washington political developments have influenced market sentiment. Despite the unsettlement the Toronto list recorded a net gain of about a point in the index.

The western oils, of which there are now about two dozen on the Toronto board, came in for an increased share of attention and price gains were general. Two new listings, Foundations Petroleum and Okalta, came on the board Thursday morning. Foundations opened Thursday at 70 cents and reached the $1 mark at the close yesterday and Okalta opened at $2 and advanced to $2.50.

Royalite registered a rise of $6 in the week but slumped on Friday to shown a net gain of $4 on a percentage basis. Calgary-Edmonton, up $1 to $4.50; South West Petroleum, up $1.15 to $1.85 and Calmont, up 60 cents to $1.25, had wider gains. Dalhousie advanced 25 cents, Leyshey 35, Commonwealth 22, Model 33 and Highwood-Sarcee 17. Home Oil moved against the trend, losing 20 cents and Foothills lost 10.

Where Action Centred

Action in the golds centred in the medium-priced issues. Read-Authier with a gain of 95 cents while Central Patricia added 60 cents, Buffalo-Ankerite 35 cents, O'Brien and Pioneer 20 cents each, Macassa 15 and gains of about 10 cents were boarded by Sylvanite, Pickle Crow and Bralorne. Of the big issues McIntyre gained $1.25, Lake Shore 30 cents and Dome lost $1.65.

In the base metals Noranda and Hudson bay stood unchanged. Falconbridge added 35 cents, Sherritt 10 and Wait-Amulet 20 while Sudbury Basin, Ventures and Chromium were on the losing end. Eldrado came into notice with a gain of 25 cents.

On the industrial board Brazilian added $2, Ford A 75 cents, International Nickel $1.50 and C.P.R. 65 cents.

HASTINGS

BURNS IS SUBJECT ADDRESS TO W.I.

Rev. D. K. Perrie Addresses The Hastings Women's Institute

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Feb. 6.—The February meeting of the Hastings Women's Institute was held on Tuesday afternoon in the Council Chambers, with twenty-two ladies in attendance and Mrs C. Baker presiding.

Mrs. Gordon Faux led in the singing of the Ode. The roll call, "A Canadian article every woman buys and where made," was well responded to and proved very interesting, as did the exhibit, "My favorite picture."

Correspondence read by the secretary, Mrs. J. A. Brown, included letters of thanks from Mrs. D. E. Scriver, Mrs. John Fairman and Mrs. Deyarmend for being remembered during their illness.

The program, which was prepared by the convenor, Mrs. Charles Dodd, opened with community singing.

Mrs. Dodd gave a paper on the motto, "Purpose is what gives life its meaning."

The guest speaker for the afternoon was the Rev. D. K. Perrie of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, who in an interesting address, paid tribute to the memory of Scotland's great lyric poet, Robert Burns.

Miss Pearl McMillan rendered a pleasing guitar solo.

Mrs. J. M. Baker and Mrs. A. E. Spooner were responsible for the very dainty luncheon which was served with the help of the executive at the close of the meeting.

Skating Party.

A very jolly skating party was held at Riverside Rink on Monday evening by the members of Trinity United Young People's Society. A full two hours of skating was enjoyed and then the happy group of forty gathered in the basement of the church for a social half-hour.

St. Andrew's Young People met on the same evening for their regular meeting, with Mrs. S. Whitred in the chair. Following the devotional period, a short program was enjoyed, consisting of a reading by Mrs. Reta Johnston; duet, Misses Annie Blavis and Pearl McMillan, and a reading by Jim Moore. Practice was commenced on the new play, entitled "The Planning of Charlie," which will be presented in March.

Born on Tuesday, February 2nd, to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Beamish, a son.

LAKEFIELD

DELEGATES GIVE SPLENDID REPORT

Mrs. Charlton And Mrs. Leonard Tell Of Presbyterial Meetings

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 6—The regular meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of Lakefield United Church was held on Tuesday afternoon, February 2 in the Sunday School room. Mrs. D. H. Charlton, Mrs. J. R. Knox and Mrs. S. Richardson were in charge of the devotional session with Mrs. Charlton in the chair.

The theme for the day was "Jesus the Pioneer of Life," and passages of scripture bearing on that theme were read by Mrs. Wilbert Frankish, Jr., Mrs. W. J. Charlton and Mrs. W. W. Leonard.

Reports of the presbyterial meetings held in Peterborough on Jan. 26 were then duly presented by the delegates, Mrs. J. W. McKerchar gave a report of the morning and evening sessions while an account of the afternoon and tea-hour meetings was brought back by Mrs. G. F. Kelly. While agreeably concise, the reports were most comprehensive and the members felt they not only secured all the important facts of the day's crowded sessions, but that the delegates had conveyed to them the spirit of the meetings. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. McKerchar and Mrs. Kelly for their splendid reports.

Raised $502 Last Year

The president, Mrs. W. W. Yale, occupied the chair for the business items. The minutes were read by Mrs. Leonard in the absence of the secretary, Mrs. G. E. Renwick. Miss M. Sanderson, treasurer, reported $502 raised during 1936.

The society regretted the absence through illness of the honorary president, Mrs. F. J. Burgess, and Mrs. Reid and Mrs. S. Pearson both officers.

Mrs. D. H. Charlton then called on Mrs. J. R. Knox to introduce the fourth chapter of the study-book, entitled. "Pioneering is not yet over." In an able manner, Mrs. Knox drew vivid pictures of hardships endured by early missionaries, and of pioneering methods used to-day to reach the natives. Some novel methods used at present are the phonograph and the moving picture which are made to illustrate the truths taught by the missionaries.

Mrs. Richardson continued with the pioneering work done by the great Japanese convert, Kagaiva in the slums of Tokyo. Mrs. D. H. Charlton presented the pioneer work of a convert, Josefa—a native of the Phillippine Islands—who was trained in missionary schools and became a lawyer ranking high in her profession. This she did to emancipate her fellow countrymen.

These talks were all concise and held an element of human appeal that caught and held the interest of the audience. Altogether, the meeting was most successful. Mrs. Hopkins, assistant pianist, accompanied the musical selections on the piano.

During the business meeting a letter received from the Red Cross of Peterborough was read, thanking the W. M. S. for the splendid bales and donations of money sent to them for the West.

renting and building no department could be more thrifty or careful.

Conservative Leader Bennett commended the minister for his system of operating the department with a view to making it pay its way. He told of his studies of the post office system in Australia which was also run as a business proposition and paid its way.

Mr. Bennett criticised the payment of $300,000 for Atlantic mail subsidies as too high. He also asked the Minister if the revenues were going to justify return to the two-cent postage rate.

Mr. Elliott said he would not commit himself but that it would depend entirely upon revenue developments.

D. McIvor (Lib. Port Arthur) said he had been pleasantly surprised when he came to Parliament to find he need not pay any postage. He aroused a laugh when he calculated that 245 members using $1 worth of franking privileges daily the amount in 100 days would run into "millions of dollars."

"I'm not a mathematician," Mr. McIvor admitted when the laughter subsided. But he thought members should not have a franking privilege. He was better able to buy stamps now than before he entered Parliament.

A Member Alone.

Mr. Elliott said the member from Port Arthur stood alone in the House of Commons. In all his many years in the House he had never heard a member asking to be deprived of the franking privilege.

Some members had protested the recently-initiated policy of having mail deliveries on all statutory holidays. Mr. Elliott said it was practically impossible to avoid working on holidays, especially on Christmas. There was no serious objection to it, and it meant putting a lot of unemployed to work. Those who worked holidays were given compensating days off, and there would be an extra vote of $180,000 which would be divided among the extra men who would otherwise be unemployed.

There had been strong protests from religious organizations at men working Christmas Day, but to them the minister would say that in their own home they probably had maids who probably worked harder during the holiday season than at any other time.

Referring to rural mail carriers, Mr. Elliott said the law required that contracts for carrying mail had to be advertised and let to the lowest tenderer. He would like to see them get more money and they would get more as times improved. He knew of very few rural mail carriers who wanted to give up their jobs. They were delivering mail to farmers who, in most cases, were working harder for as little money as they were.

Hints at Politics.

John R. MacNicol (Cons. Toronto-Davenport) and David Spence (Cons. Toronto-Parkdale) suggested politics entered into the appointment of temporary postal employees in Toronto. Mr. Spence said it had never been the case before, but this year it had turned out to be "an absolute racket." Liberal members of Parliament from the Toronto district obtained all the positions for Liberals.

Mr. Spence said the franking privilege for members and Government mail could be abolished. It was being abused and the backs of letter-carriers were being broken with the heavy load of free mail.

R. L. Baker (Cons. Toronto-Eglinton) said patronage was carried too far when people from outside Toronto were brought in to fill jobs in Toronto and people from North York were brought in for postal jobs.

W. F. Mulock (Lib., York North) said Toronto members should not object as many people from Toronto went to North York to vote.

Jean Francois Pouliot (Lib., Temiscouata) defending the patronage aspect of the Post Office Department, declared he had no faith in the merit system so far as the Post Office Dept. was concerned at least.

"To the victor go the spoils," Mr. Heaps suggested.

"Not entirely," Mr. Pouliot replied, "but I do think two Tories should be fired for every one Liberal."

"Well, he's all wrong about that," Mr. Pouliot retorted. He declared there was more patronage in the civil service than outside it. He was proceeding to tell of a "clique of 10 or 12" in the civil service in Ottawa when he was interrupted on the point of order that he had strayed from the subject under debate.

Summary of Revenue

Mr. Elliott said a summary of the sources and amounts of revenue obtained by the Post Office Department were more than $28,000,000 was obtained from the direct sale of stamps; more than $1,800,000 from cash postage paid by newspapers; $920,590 from postage on third class mail matter; more than $4,000,000 from registered mail; $3,372,000 from parcel post; $35,000 from carriage of gold; $313,403 from rents of letter boxes and drawers; $1,408,000 from commissions on money orders; $439,000 from postage on parcels from other countries; $180,000 from transit charges on foreign mail; $295,000 from postal notes; and $24,000 as profit from exchange on money order transactions.

George Wood (Lib., Brant), said too much consideration was being given the city mail carriers who got fairly good pay and superannuation. The rural mail carriers working under contract worked for very little and had no protection.

DEPARTMENT TO ACT ON BIOLOGIST'S REPORT

Taking Relief Vouchers In Store Costs Mayor His Job

First Case In Ontario Of Kind--Engineered By Beaten Candidate

Judge Holds Merchants Having Relief Claims Cannot Qualify For Mayors, Reeves, Councillors

CONFLICT WITH DUTIES

No Costs Allowed Cache Bay Complainant—Business Tax Charge Fails

NORTH BAY, Ont., Feb. 8—(CP)—Mayor Leonard St. George of Cache Bay, 30 miles west of here, was declared unseated to-day because, having accepted the town relief vouchers at his store, he had a financial claim against the municipality.

Judge J. A. S. Plouffe of Nipissing district handed down the decision, believed first of its kind in Ontario. Action to unseat the 26-year-old mayor, elected in early January, was instituted by John E. Jessup, defeated candidate.

The judgment said in part: "I further find that it was the intention of the Legislature that merchants having claims for relief could not qualify as mayors, reeves or councillors, because it is possible that, being members of a municipal body, their personal interests might conflict with their public duties."

Finds Business Tax Paid

No costs were allowed Jessup, who also claimed in his action that St. George's business tax for 1936, amounting to $12.30, had not been paid prior to the nomination meeting. Judge Plouffe decided on the evidence submitted that the business tax was paid in time.

At hearing of the case two weeks ago St. George said the business tax was paid December 28, a few hours before the nomination meeting was held. He said he gave his messenger boy, Joe Young, the money to take to Tax Collector Henry Poff. The 80-year-old tax collector claimed the tax was paid December 31. Judge Plouffe decided the collector may have been mistaken in the date.

MISSING STUDENT ON HIS WAY HOME

Arrives In Toronto From Kirkland Lake On His Way To Wiarton

TORONTO, Feb. 8.—(CP).—John Mason Daykin, 26, McMaster University student missing since January 6, arrived to-day from Kirkland Lake and boarded a train for his home in Wiarton, where his mother was ill. Walter Daykin died from pleurisy January 25, during the absence of his son.

"Nothing happened at the college to make me leave," Daykin said here to-day as he changed trains. He seemed worried but declined to make any other statement. He refused to confirm statements that he had been employed at a mine in the Kirkland Lake area.

Daykin was last seen by friends January 6 when he drew some money from a bank in Hamilton. He had been home for the Christmas holidays and had received a further week's absence from University to prepare for examinations.

It was not known whether the young student was aware as he was boarding the train here that his father had died during his absence. The son gave the reporter no opportunity to ask further questions.

PRISON INFLUENCE?

Platinum Canary in Jail Begins to Turn Scarlet.

SAN JOSE, Calif., Feb. 8 (C.P.).—"Mickey," a canary bird that lives in the jail here, once sported gleaming platinum blonde plumage.

But something—perhaps the proximity of Hollywood—is doing things to Mickey. Rapidly the bird's plumage is changing to brilliant scarlet. Mrs. Netta Snow, county matron, is inclined to believe the change is due to some mysterious element in her pet's diet.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—(CP-Havas).—Demonstrations against Chancellor Hitler's "Spanish adventure" have occurred in Germany, the diplomatic editor of the Daily Herald reported to-day.

"For the first time in four years angry criticism has been directed against the sacred person of Hitler himself," he wrote.

"'Bring our boys back from Spain!' That cry was raised at a street corner in the great Rhineland city of Dusseldorf," the article said. "A crowd gathering. More cries of indignation. Hurried messages to police headquarters. A police charge. The crowd dispersed.

INVESTIGATE SHOOTING

Victim Was Into Hospital For Aid But Refuses Details.

TORONTO, Feb. 8 (C.P.).—Police to-day started an investigation into the wounding of 23-year-old George O'Brien who walked into hospital for treatment saying he was from Halifax and later gave a Toronto address.

Examination showed a .25 calibre bullet had entered his back just below the right shoulder, stopping a few inches under the skin.

Questioned by police, all O'Brien would tell of the shooting was that a man had fired at him in a lane and then fled, authorities said.

Has Lived In Retirement Since Leaving Mayor's Chair In 1927

PRACTISED DENTISTRY

Succumbing to a heart affliction he had suffered for the past ten years, Dr. William Thomas Holloway, mayor of this city in 1926 and 1927 and long a practicing dentist here, passed away at his home 385 Stewart street in his 64th year on Sunday. He had lived in retirement since leaving his civic office.

He was born in Clinton, Ontario, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Holloway and gained his early education in the Clinton schools. As a young man, he went into the piano business but soon gave it up to enter dental college.

His first dental practice was in Wingham, Ontario, but he came to this city to practice thirty years ago. He was located in the Bank of Commerce building on the corner of Hunter and Water streets.

Elected Alderman in 1920

In 1920 he ran successfully for an aldermanic seat and began his period of civic service which concluded with his election in the mayoralty contest of 1926 and return by acclamation in 1927. He was a devoted golfer and a member of the Peterborough Golf and Country Club. Many years a Mason, he was a past master of the Corinthian Lodge here. He was also a member of the Peterborough Club and was former warden of St. John's Anglican Church.

Little More Than Wages From Canada's Forests

225 ACRES, 1 SUNDAY PAPER

TORONTO, Feb. 8 (CP).—Newsprint industry is using up Canada's wealth of forests "at a prodigious rate" and getting little for it beyond wages for the industry's workers, Charles Vining, president of the Newsprint Association of Canada, told the Canadian Club here today.

"We are consuming our forests at a prodigious rate," said Mr. Vining. "A single Sunday issue of the New York Times means some 225 acres of our forest. The Tabloid New York News, with its huge circulation, is using 60 square miles a year. The Canadian mills, during the last five years of selling newsprint at a loss, have consumed at least 4,000 square miles of forest, equivalent to a strip 12 miles wide stretching from Montreal to Toronto.

"If we sold our gold as we have been selling our forests, one can almost say that we would mine the gold, pay the miners their wages, and then give the gold away," said Mr. Vining as he quoted figures to show that newsprint companies were not securing a "minimum economic return."

All-Time Low in Price.

The newsprint industry in 1936 "had an all-time high in tonnage production, but an all-time low in price." Mr. Vining said. "Last month's returns of shipments show

Dietrich Takes Cab Traffic Jam Ensues

New York, Feb. 8 (AP)

TAXI transportation in Manhattan was crippled partially yesterday when a cab driver discovered his fare was Mariene Dietrich, movie-acting proprietor of the celebrated legs.

He screamed the news to another taxi-driver. The word spread and before long Madison Avenue was clogged by a score of taxis surrounding the actress's halted car as the hackmen clamored for autographs for fifteen minutes.

THAMES FLOWS OVER ITS BANKS

Mounts Eight Inches Sunday Covering Eton Playing Fields, Windsor Castle Grounds

FLOODS IN FRANCE

LONDON, Feb. 8 (C.P.). — The Thames, overflowing for the second time within ten days, flooded the Eton playing fields and the private grounds of Windsor Castle over the week-end. The river rose eight inches yesterday at Windsor and was steadily rising.

The rain-swollen Moselle River in France overflowed at Metz, cutting off numerous roads and transit lines, while the week-end rains, winds, and floods continued unabated.

Small rivers throughout Northern France left their banks. Despite night-long efforts of firemen to clear Saint Jean Cappel, near Haaebrouck, of water which reached the second floors of houses, the floods continued to pour in. Boats rescued hundreds of inhabitants from rooftops. Haaebrouck and St. Denis a suburb of Paris, also suffered floods.

The airports at Cannes and San Raphael were under water. Great holes were ripped in the sea wall on the Island of Re, off La Rochelle.

A Fishery Protection cruiser battled heavy seas to carry supplies to 60 inhabitants of lonely Foula Island, in the Orkneys, storm-bound since Christmas. The tugs fought vainly to reach the crew of the Eddystone Lighthouse, off the Devon Coast, which has been isolated for 15 days.

ICE PACK SHAKES FREE AT ST. JOHN'S

Liner Held Up Week Sails For Halifax—Hopes Rise In Marooned Villages

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Feb. 8 (C.P. Cable). — An Arctic ice pack, earliest in many years, moved offshore to-day before a steady westerly wind after holding the island in its grip for four days.

Officials began patching together disrupted communications and sent the Government steamer Sagona barging through the ice-choked harbor channel to allow the passenger steamship Newfoundland to clear for Halifax after being held here nearly a week.

While hungry residents of Northern Fleur de Lys watched food supplies run dangerously low, two avenues of aid opened to them.

A plane despatched by the Government was waiting to hop off from Norris Arm, 80 miles south with food brought in by train, and once again communication by sea was in sight. Snow prevented overland travel and the ice blockade held a ship from entering the little mining town's port.

The freighter Northern Ranger was the first to dock here as the blockade ended. Behind her came the Fort Amherst from Halifax which reached harbor on Saturday after a four-day fight with ice but was unable to dock.

Sault Man Downs 12 Eggs in 5 Minutes, Then Starts on More.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Feb. 8.—(CP).— Remo Stanghetti wondered to-day if he can lay claim to some sort of championship.

In his restaurant the other day, Remo bet a customer he could drink 12 eggs in five minutes. The 12 eggs disappeared in a hurry. Whereupon Remo took another bet that he could down 12 more. Between the 13th and 24th egg, another customer entered and ordered two fried eggs. Remo cooked them for him. This confused the first customer and he had lost count when Remo was ready to proceed.

But after a few more eggs went down he hastily paid up.

MANIAC HUNTED IN BRUTAL MURDER OF BOSTON GIRL, 18

Body Stabbed Nine Times Is Found In Field—Hunt Youth In Old Car

WATCH EIGHT STATES

Police Commissioner James W. Higgins asked in a telegraphic alarm that police watch for a man 20 to 25 years old wearing a short, brown jacket trimmed with fur and driving a sedan.

Police have made a house-to-house canvass of the south Buffalo district, searching for the man who beat and stabbed the girl nine times on Saturday and left her body in a field.

Commissioner Higgins who attributed the crime to a "maniac" said Mary Ellen apparently had been beaten in an automobile and dragged into the field. Her skull had been fractured four times.

Meanwhile Prof. C. Merrill Brown of the University of Buffalo turned his microscope on the few tangible clues to the slayer.

They consisted of a blood-stained pocket-knife, a man's red and white scarf and a shred of wool found under one of the girl's fingernails.

An unidentified woman told the police that a man of the description sought had approached her last Saturday night in the section where the Babcock girl's body was found.

Two Reported Held

BUFFALO, N.Y., Feb. 8—(A.P.).—The Buffalo Evening News reported to-day that police were holding two ex-convicts, both of whom had served sentences for attacks on women, in connection with the knife slaying Friday night of 18-year-old Mary Ellen Babcock.

A health survey is being conducted in the Irish Free State.

Railroader Quits, Now Runs Miniature Line In Back Yard

Meets Opposition From Wife Over Tracks In Pansy Bed So Has To Tunnel

OPERATES DAILY, ALL YEAR

YONKERS, N.Y., Feb. 8.—(CP).—It would be no stretch of the imagination to call E. J. Quinby, 72-year-old ex-locomotive engineer, an "incurable railroad addict."

He didn't get enough of it on the old North Jersey Rapid Transit Line, so for the past seven years he has operated a miniature of the N.J.R.T. in his own back yard.

Rain or shine, summer and winter, his backyard railroad works on schedule over the mile of tiny tracks which yesterday were so deep in snow that Quinby had to send out his snow plough to clear the line for his early "run."

The miniature snow plough went ahead of a tiny electric locomotive, tossing the snow in all directions. In a few minutes a flat car, a caboose and a work car—a complete wrecking train—were whizzing past Quinby's door.

He directs the train's progress by means of a rotary converter. Before building the railroad, Quinby took motion pictures of the old North Jersey line between Patterson, N.J., and Suffern, N.Y. He got all the stations, signal towers, tunnels, trestles and bridges and then reconstructed the whole thing on a small scale in his yard.

"I had a little trouble with the wife getting the right-of-way through the pansy bed," he said, "so I had to build an extra tunnel and go under it."

Although he admitted to companions the blow from the axe had hurt, he made light of the injury and continued to work until lunch-time. CHIPPEWA PLANT HAS BREAKDOWN

Plenty Of Reserve Says Roebuck Reporting Generator Trouble

TORONTO, Feb. 8 (CP)—Attorney-General Arthur Roebuck today announced break-down of a generator at the Queenston-Chippewa power plant explaining the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission would be only slightly affected because there is considerable surplus capacity.

"The plant has been operating at about 450,000 horsepower because of limitations on water use," said Mr. Roebuck who is a Hydro commissioner. "There is generator capacity for 600,000 horsepower and even with the generator out of commission we have a capacity greater than any anticipated need."

He said the peak of the winter demand had passed, if previous experiences could be taken as an accurate index. The Gatineau reserve hasn't been called on, he added.

Army Of Rats Seizes Embassy As Diplomats Give Up Fight

Warsaw Decides on Gas Attack After Frenchmen Use Cats, Dogs, Traps In Vain

OVER ANCIENT HIDEOUTS

WARSAW, Feb. 8 — (A.P.). — The French Embassy beat a strategic retreat from its new building today before an invading army of rats.

Unable to repel the invaders, with dozens of cats and fox terriers and a complicated system of traps, the members of the Embassy decided to evacuate the building so a last desperate effort could be made to route the rats with poison gas.

The rodents, who appeared shortly after the Embassy took over its new quarters, became so insolent they staged daylight raids into the smartest rooms of the diplomatic palace. At night they nibbled official documents and made life miserable for the outnumbered cats and dogs.

At last the Embassy officials gave up the struggle and called on the Polish government for aid. After an investigation, government experts reported the grounds on which the new Embassy stood were honeycombed with ancient subterranean passages, used centuries ago by illegal political organizations as hideaways.

Later the labyrinth became a breeding place for rats and when the new structure was put up, the openings into the passages were overlooked, giving the rats free entry.

While the Embassy staff is away for the poison gas attack on the rats, the openings will be walled up, ending forever—the Embassy hopes—the rodent menace.

Eleven Water Areas In Kawartha Lakes Be Closed To Fishing

Department Will Set Aside Areas Recommended By Biologist

ARTIFICIAL BASS PONDS

Deputation From County And City Councils See Minister

TORONTO, Feb. 8 (C.P.).—Eleven bays and water areas in the Kawartha Lakes district have been set aside for natural spawning, and fishing in them will be banned, Hon. Harry Nixon, Minister of Game and Fisheries, told a Peterborough City and County deputation to-day.

Last summer the Department had a biological survey made of the area and the report recommended the setting aside of 14 bays and areas.

The Department has concurred in the report, but three of the suggested locations are being held in abeyance for further investigation.

Waters in the area have previously been stocked by fry and fingerlings shipped in.

The Department told the deputation it would place larger staff in the lunge spawning area to collect eggs, to be returned to the waters as fry.

Bass propagation in the area will be aided by construction of series of artificial bass ponds if suitable locations can be found.

T. P. Lancaster, M.L.A., Peterborough, introduced the deputation. Representing the city were Aldermen James Dutton, R. M. Glover, Robert Cotton, and G. N. Gordon, K.C.; representing the county were Warden Roy Brown, ex-Warden James Gifford, and Reeve W. A. Anderson. Also present were Ted Outram, Peterborough Fish and Game Association, and J. J. Duffus, M.P.

Farmers Gang Up On Packs Of Wolves

Napanee, Feb. 8.

ORGANIZED warfare by farmers of Camden and Richmond Townships in Lennox-Addington County is being planned in an effort to destroy or drive out ravenous packs of wolves which have been destroying sheep and young cattle at an alarming rate.

The destruction by wolves this winter has been greater than can be recalled by the oldest inhabitants, it was reported.

A bounty of $15 was recently voted by one of the Township Councils.

TRAFFIC CREEPS AS SNOW, SLEET PELT ONTARIO

WIRE SYSTEM IN DANGER

Sleet storms were general in southern districts of the province, where temperatures were high for February. Snow and wind ruled in northern sections, with the mercury beneath the freezing mark.

Streets and highways were either snow-covered or glassy. Traffic was demoralized by snow drifting on northern roads and rendered perilous by ice conditions in southern parts of the province.

Dangerous ice which had formed on the wire lines would melt, and any threats of possible trouble would quickly disappear with warmer weather, telegraph and telephone officials said, but cold and strong winds blowing across the lines would cause the wires to snap right and left with widespread service disruption.

Warnings Sent Out.

The sleet storms brought "most dangerous conditions both for motorist and pedestrian" to the highways and streets, traffic authorities announced. In the interests of safety, motorists were advised by police to drive slowly and carefully and pedestrians were told to watch their step.

Most seriously affected by the weather conditions were the tramway services. Ice formed on the power lines and rails forced streetcars to a snail's pace as schedules had to be forgotten temporarily.

Accidents were negligible in view of the conditions, although officials said reports were not complete.

At Huntsville, Carl Woodcock, 15, was a victim of a week-end blizzard. Exhausted after fighting a storm while riding 10 miles on a bicycle, he suffered severely frost-bitten feet as he lay on the road for hours.

Ice conditions demoralized traffic at Kitchener with a heavy rainstorm still raging. Ice forming on trees brought weighted limbs crashing to the ground.

The blizzard at Huntsville, in the Muskoka district, isolated hamlets

THREE IN FAMILY ARE FLU VICTIMS

Mother, Two Children Die Week Apart On Walpole Island

WALLACEBURG, Ont., Feb. 8.—(CP).—Three members of the same family on Walpole Island have died of influenza within a period of three weeks, it was learned here yesterday.

Mrs. Edmarrow Dewey Williams was the first victim. She was buried January 19, while her husband was in Chatham hospital suffering blood poisoning. Indian Department officials removed her family to the home of the grandfather, McKenzie Nahdee, Walpole.

Friday, Egra Nahdee, 13, stepdaughter of Williams, died of influenza. Yesterday two-year-old Berneda Williams succumbed to the same disease. Egra Nahdee was a former pupil at Shingwauk School, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

The children were buried yesterday at a double funeral service conducted by Rev. W. Hall, rector of St. John's Anglican Church, Walpole Island.

THINK WINDSOR NO HURRY TO WED

Latest Reports From Vienna Say He May Hold Wedding In Hungary

VIENNA, Feb 8.— (CP).— The Duke of Windsor,—host to his sister, the Princess Royal and her husband, the Earl of Harewood—was represented to-day as not disposed to hurry his marriage to Mrs. Wallis Simpson, the Associated Press reported.

A few days ago the former King Edward was said to be planning the wedding for Enzsfeld or Vienna April 27, the day Mrs. Simpson's divorce becomes final. To-day, however, the Associated Press quoted "friends in a position to know" as saying he is now considering a plan to wed in Hungary at a later date, in a civil ceremony rather than a church service.

No actual decision has been made, however. Six weeks' residence in Hungary would be required unless a special dispensation were obtained.

Rev. C. H. D. Grimes, chaplain of the British Legation in Vienna, said to-day he had not been asked to perform the ceremony.

City Is Panic Stricken With Troops at Gates And Flames Spreading

Bands Of Anarchists Run Amok Adding To Terror Of Bombardment

DEFENSE BREAKS DOWN

Land Artillery Shells Port From Two Sides While Fleet Hammers From Third

WITH THE INSURGENT FORCES OUTSIDE MALAGA, Feb. 8.—(AP)—A double threat of death struck terror today into Malaga's 400,000 inhabitants, bottled up by a Fascist army hammering at the city's gates.

Insurgent observers on the hilltops overlooking the Mediterranean port described the situation in the provincial capital as "complete chaos." The population, with all land and sea exits blocked so escape appeared impossible, was panic stricken.

Bands of anarchists roving the city and the blazing fire from fascist guns, the observers declared, formed an equal menace to the civilian population.

The defence of the port collapsed yesterday before a sweeping drive of the insurgent southern army.

A joint attack by columns operating from the north and east, aided by concentrated fire from the insurgent fleet, drove into the suburbs, capturing position after position.

(The southern army commander, General Gonzalo Queipi de Llano, broadcasting from his headquarters at Seville, announced two of his columns had established their outposts in the outskirts, after capturing suburban buildings and houses.)

The number killed in the advance was estimated by fascist officers as only a few hundred as most of the towns and villages the insurgents occupied had been completely abandoned.

15,000 Italians Aiding?

(The "big push," reports from Gibraltar said, was aided by 15,000 Italian troops which had been landed at Cadiz within the past three days and rushed to the Malaga front.)

(The Italian government repeatedly has denied any troops have been sent to Spain.)

The bottle-neck outlet to the east of the city, where the mountains drop precipitously to the Mediterranean, was closed early yesterday before the five columns from the north and east started their co-ordinated drive.

By noon the commandant at headquarters on the western front received the long awaited report the northern column from the village of Loja had reached its objective and had taken the 1,000-foot peak of Puperto de Leon, dominating Malaga.

A few hours later the smoothly advancing parallel columns based on the Loja units, reported they had moved down to the gates of the city and the spectacular encirclement was completed.

As the insurgent forces gained the heights commanding the city, a squadron from the Malaga air base bombed the Fascist fleet blocking the coast in an attempt to open the harbor.

Its targets were the insurgent cruiser Almirante Cervera and two gunboats. Heavy anti-aircraft fire drove off the attacking planes.

LENGTHY DEBATE LOOMS 2 SECTIONS HOME LOAN BILL

Government Expected To Open Estimates Not Brought Up So Far

GOLD CLAUSE LISTED

OTTAWA, Feb. 8 (CP)—Finance Minister Charles Dunning's legislation giving parliamentary sanction to the home improvement loan scheme initiated on recommendation of the national employment commission as one means of providing work and business activity, is scheduled for further attention in the House of Commons today.

This project which has been in operation since Nov. 1 and which the government claims has met with great popular appeal throughout the Dominion, has been considerably criticized in the House although the principle is generally endorsed. Two sections of the act were left open for further discussion after considerable debate during the past week.

It is also expected that today the government will open some of the departmental estimates which have not yet been before the supply committee, including those for national defence. Government business will have priority today and private members this week will have precedence only on Wednesday and for the first hour of the Tuesday and Friday evening sittings.

A notice of motion is on the order paper in the name of Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture, calling for appropriation of the necessary money to carry on farm rehabilitation work during the next fiscal year, and for the appointment of regional committees instead of one advisory committee.

The Gold Clause

Apart from the home improvement loan legislation the only major government measure on the order paper is the resolution of Mr. Dunning paving the way for legislation to provide that the gold clause be removed from contracts to pay obligations in gold or gold coin. This would make legal what has been a practice for several years, the payment of bond obligations in normal currency instead of in gold as such bonds customarily require.

The Senate Railway Committee this week will open public hearings on the transport commission bill which would give extraordinary powers to the present Board of Railway Commissioners to control all classes of public carriers under the jurisdiction of the government.

A special committee of the House of Commons will study the advisability of amending the criminal code to substitute the lethal gas chamber for the gallows in exacting the death penalty.

It is also expected the house committee on railways and shipping will open hearing on the bill to revise the capital structure of the Canadian National Railways system, that the agriculture committee will resume the probe into farm implement prices started last session, and the franchise and elections committee may open an inquiry into possible changes in the method of amending the representation act.

Await Howe's Statement.

Transport Minister Howe has not yet made any official announcement as to the method by which the proposed Trans-Canada Air Service will be established and there was a report that some information may be given the House this week possibly in the form of a resolution.

Private members have exercised their traditional right of occupying the greater part of the time during the session to date but beginning to-day their priority will be effective only on the short Wednesday sitting and the first hour of the Tuesday and Friday and Friday evening sittings.

Considerable progress has been made, however, compared with previous sessions and a spirit of harmony and co-operation has been maintained among all groups. It would appear that the object of prorogation by the end of April will be easily reached barring unforseen controversy.

PROBE UNDER WAY CALGARY STRIKE

Fifty Men Occupying Plant State They Will Stay Till Christmas

CALGARY, Feb. 8 (CP)—A board of conciliation prepared today to begin inquiry into the wage dispute and strike of 176 employees at the Union Packing Company plant here.

Clayton Adams, chairman of the Alberta Board of Industrial Relations, announced last night the board would be under the chairmanship of O. S. Chapin, Calgary, with Vic Thompson, Edmonton, representing the strikers and Fred J. Green, Calgary, the meat packing company.

Fifty men occupying the building in "sit-down" demonstration partook of a chicken dinner cooked and carried to them last night by their wives and sympathizers. As they began their fifth day in the plant, today, it was reported they were "prepared to stay in until next Christmas if necessary." Someone shortly after was reported to have sent them in a Christmas tree.

RUSSIANS MAKE VIRGIL FARMS BLOOM AGAIN

Group Of 40 New Families Start "At Scratch" And Are Paying Own Way

AVERAGE TEN ACRES

One Man With $4 Last Spring Is Able To Pay Off $650 Of Debt In Fall

VIRGIL, Ont. Feb. 8.— (CP). — Typical head of a group of about 40 new Canadian families who left Russia after the Soviet government took over all farms, John Fast had $4 when a year ago last spring he decided to farm on his own.

He got a 10-acre piece of land on credit near this community, eight miles north-east of St. Catharines, and also built a barn on credit. Last year he paid $650 off his capital debts. He now has a truck, has fitted up half the barn to serve as a home and has many fruit trees.

Without capital or supervision and with little more than a few pieces of household furniture and an axe in some cases, these 40 families have settled themselves on self-sustaining farms in this district. The land is largely composed of abandoned farms which in recent years scarcely paid taxes.

Clear Scrub Lands.

Each farm averages 10 acres, is under intense cultivation and bosts a new house or "house-barn." A large part of the land is scrub bush land and the settlers' time is taken up with clearing it. The settlers themselves are largely German Mennonites who received their passage to Canada on credit.

To-day every farm is said to be paying its own way. Payment was arranged at five per cent. down and five per cent. interest on the remainder of the first year.

"We are essentially agriculturists," said John Dyck, leader of the community. "We left Germany in 1796 and in 1803 because we wanted to avoid militarism and had been offered a haven by Catherine II in South Russia. We lost everything there when they took over the land for collective farms. So we came here.

French Fleet Warns Germany To Stay Away

Blunt warning that France will tolerate no infiltration of Germans into Spanish Morocco through friendship of the Berlin government with Gen. Francisco Franco's cause, was given when France sent her Atlantic fleet into significant manoeuvres in the Mediterranean when rumors that German soldiers had landed in North Africa provoked a minor crisis. In this striking picture, made from one of the warships, destroyers of the French Atlantic fleet stretch to the horizon in a long line as they speed over the light-flecked waters off the Morocco coast.

Moved by F. Armstrong and seconded by W. A. Roseboro that the reeve and clerk be authorized to have the two tax deeds received in January from the county treasurer registered. Carried.

Ask For Exemptions

Applications were received from J. L. Rowland and J. H. Fowler for tax exemptions on 16 acres and 17 acres respectively of woodlands. The assessor was requested to make investigations and report to council.

Moved by H. Dunford and seconded by W. A. Roseboro that Reeve Mullen, Councillor Roseboro, the road superintendent and the clerk be a committee to confer with either the Minister or Department Minister of Highways for Ontario requesting the department to confirm the assumption of the Selwyn road and Middle Line in Smith township as county roads; and that the clerk arrange for such interview for Tuesday, February 9, at 10.30 a.m. if such time is convenient for the department. MAJ. McLAUGHLIN PUSHING HIS PLAN FOR ALL-U.S. SQUAD

Reported Paying Four Youngsters $25 Week For Tutelage Under Iverson

SCOUTS ON LOOKOUT

CHICAGO, Feb. 8—(CP)—Despite the guffaw that echoed around the National Hockey League when Major Frederick McLaughlin announced his intention of producing an all-American major league team, the owner of Chicago Black Hawks to-day went quietly ahead with his plans.

He was reported to be paying four "embryo stars" $25.00 a week and footing their board bills while they remain under the tutelage of Emile Iverson, the Hawk club trainer. Iverson is a first-class trainer, but his coaching ability is of unknown quality.

Meanwhile, scouts scour the United States for college boys who look like promising hockey material. The latest tip concerned two "rah-rah" boys in more-or-less Sunny California. A former Canadian hockey player resident there was asked to size up the boys and report back to McLaughlin.

Loughlin Pessimistic.

Even the pessimistic statement of his coach, Clem Loughlin, veteran of ice battles in Western and Eastern Canada over a span of 25 years, has not deterred the determined Major. Loughlin told his boss a team of native Americans could not be rounded up inside two or three years.

"I will admit," Loughlin said in an interview, "that the Americans did a pretty good job developing raw college boys for their 1928 Olympic team. It should be pointed out, however, the Winnipegs, Canada's entry that year, were not so hot. None of the team made the big time.

"Hockey is Canada's national pastime in the winter. It is the life of Canadian youngsters. You can't get them off the ice long enough to go home for meals. There may be cases where synthetic hockey players of merit have been produced but they are so rare as to be insignificant.

Thinks Science Will Do It

"The Mayor says 'science and physical training' will produce them. There is only one case in my coaching history where I tried to change a hockey player's natural style. I talked Mush March into shooting differently and in his second season Mush led the league in goals scored. But that is all. Science has a hard job improving nature in hockey.

"Take Pep Kelley for example. Toronto drove him until he was in bad shape, but since coming with us he has been playing a fine game. Toronto is one of those clubs that continually harp about the scientific angle in making this play and that shot.

"I believe that is the reason the team is always burned out by the time the playoffs come around."

FLOOD BATTLE BRINGS CHARGES OF BLUNDERING

Rotary Club In Greenville Strikes At "Reckless Predictions Of Disaster"

FIX BLAME LATER

Levees Hold All Along Line With Fight Concentrated On Sand Boils

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb 8 (AP)—Record flood crests apparently tamed by the river's sturdy levees pushed slowly down the Mississippi today while a civic group charged "official blundering" in the valley's high water battle.

The Greenville, Miss. Rotary Club deplored "the reckless manner in which unwarranted predictions of disaster have been made by a few of those charged with the duty of our protection" and resolved "to fix later on the responsibility therefore to the end that it shall not happen again."

"Panic" created by high water predictions "has now happily been mostly allayed" in Washington county, the club asserted, urging Delta citizens to return to normal business.

Sand Boils Main Menace

Meanwhile, army engineers continued battling sand boils and seepage but reported they had no adverse reports from any point in the levee line from Cairo south.

The weather bureau said snow and rain in sight in the Ohio Valley will not affect the river stages, and that local rains would serve only to worry flood fighting forces in the Memphis district.

The Mississippi reached a virtual crest at Memphis last night—48.30 feet on the Memphis gauge, 50 on the engineers' gauge. Meteorologist P. W. Brist had predicted a probable crest of 48 feet, while engineers had prepared for a 55-foot crest on their gauge.

TWO COUNTY HERDS INFECTED WITH T.B.

Compensation Of $216 To Owners—102 Cattle Tested

Four herds of cattle comprising 102 animals were tested for tuberculosis in Peterborough county during the week ending January 29. Two herds were infected showing eight animals as reactors. And the compensation allowed the owners was $216. This information is contained in the weekly report of L. E. O'Neill, director of the livestock branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, a copy of which was forwarded to the Examiner by T. P. Lancaster, M.P.P. It indicates that Peterborough is listed in the area in which the T.B. test is now in progress.

The Examiner asked A. D. Runions today if the testing had been actually begun in this county, and his answer was "yes and no," and the explanation was that the Department was carrying on the work of testing supervised herds, and accepting this work as part of the general tests for a T.B.—free area.

The same report for Durham county indicates that in the initial T.B. test 1833 herds have been examined, a total of 25,880 cattle of which 1,561 were reartors; 431 herds were found to be infected and the compensation to owners was $44,480.

The figures for Northumberland are: initial test, 3,611 herds; 45,155 cattle; 1,960 reactors; 742 herds infected; compensation, $58,123. For the same county the additional first sixty-day test: 450 herds; 6,359 animals; 76 reactors; 59 herds infected; compensation $2,276.

BROTHERS MUSHING TIMMINS - OTTAWA

Carry Invitation Asking Premier King To Their Old Home Week Celebration

PORQUIS JUNCTION, Ont., Feb. 8 (CP).—Denham and Harvey Greer planned to "mush" out of here today to Kirkland Lake on the second leg of their 500-mile trek from Timmins to Ottawa by dog team. They carry an invitation for Prime Minister Mackenzie King to attend Timmins' old home week celebration in June.

After their arrival here last night after the 30-mile trip from Timmins, they devoted immediate attention to harness broken when two of their nine dogs started fighting. One dog had to be cut loose to run along behind the sled for the rest of the trip.

The Greers covered the distance yesterday in six hours despite snowdrifts piled high by a blizzard they encountered after leaving Hoyle. They took turns trudging ahead of the dogs on snowshoes, breaking the trail.

Planning an early start today, the Greer brothers hoped to make Kirkland Lake, 55 miles away, by nightfall. They have estimated it will take them a week to reach Ottawa.

STORY OF MOODY IS TOLD AT ST. JAMES'

Life Of Great Evangelist Is Subject Of Interesting Address

In the 25,000 students who have graduated from his college and the other thousands who attend the summer school at Northfield, Mass., the work of Dwight L. Moody continues from year to year, Rev. Fred Craik related in his story of the life of the great evangelist at St. James' United Church Sunday night.

Quoting the Rev. Horatius Bonar, that when Moody had completed his ministry in Edinburgh practically every household had felt its impact, Rev. Mr. Craik also cited the tribute of Rev. R. Dale of Birmingham, "Moody has the right to preach because he never speaks of a lost soul without tears of confession in his heart."

Moody was a man of humility with a passion for the souls of men, a great bible student whose life was fully surrendered to God, Rev. Mr. Craik said. The centenary services in memory of Dwight L. Moody were largely attended at both mornning and evening at St. James' Church.

RECALLS TRAGEDY FALLS ICE BRIDGE

Man, Wife And Youth Swept To Death Twenty-Five Years Ago Today

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Feb. 8—(AP)—Arthur Elkin's thoughts turned back this week to one tragic day 25 years ago when the famous ice bridge at Niagara Falls suddenly broke up, carrying three tourists to death and endangering many more.

Elkins, who lives now at Stamford Centre, Ontario, witnessed the tragedy and participated in vain attempts to rescue the victims with ropes. Last night he described his experiences in the hour during which the slow-moving ice carried its prisoners downstream before hundreds of horrified spectators.

The victims were Russell Heacock, 17, of Cleveland, and Mr. and Mrs. Eldridge Stanton of Toronto. They were among the 30 tourists who were on the ice when it began to move downstream and break.

Young Heacock managed to grasp a rope dropped to him from a bridge, but lost his grip and fell back into the turbulent, ice-filled river. The Stantons died as they knelt praying on the ice when the floe broke up in the rapids.

Line Pulled From Hands.

A line was dropped to Stanton, but was wrung from his hands as he tried to tie it about his wife's waist.

He was one of the men who dropped a line to the three black specks that could be seen against the glare of the drifting ice. And it was Elkins who disclosed to-day that it was not a rope, but three strands of telephone wire twisted together that were let down to Mr. and Mrs. Stanton as they drifted under the railway bridge.

"I was at the foot of Simcoe street waiting for the Niagara Falls, N.Y., car when I saw people looking excitedly up the river," he said.

"I turned and looked and I saw three black dots floating on the ice floes just above the International railway bridge. A few minutes later I learned the ice bridge had broken up and that three persons were out on the river on the ice."

BRING OUR BOYS OUT OF SPAIN SHOUT GERMANS

coming out of Germany. But the efforts have failed."

"There are rumors of similar things elsewhere — in Berlin and Munich amongst other places.

"It is quite certain—this I know from a number of reliable sources —that all across Germany there has been a growing wave of protest against the Spanish adventure.

"And—this is very important—for the first time in four years angry criticism has been directed against the sacred person of Hitler himself.

"In spite of every official precaution the German people have learned that thousands of German boys have been sent to Spain and that they are being killed there in a war which to ordinary German minds is none of Germany's business.

Mourning Forbidden.

"'Your son has been killed on manoeuvres,' is the formula by which fathers and mothers have been notified. With the notification has come the warning that they are not to wear mourning. But the place and manner of death are never told.

"So gradually the suspicion grew; then rumours; then 'indiscretions.' Little by little the truth has leaked out and spread from city to city and village to village.

"Recruiting has been furtive and mysterious. It is not true, as some imagine, that detachments of the Reichswehr have marched enthusiastically to 'war against Bolshevism.' Very few indeed of the Reichswehr have gone and no organized detachments. The Reichswehr saw to that.

"They have been adamant in insistence their men could not be spared. So 'volunteers' have been drawn from the S. S. (Black-shirted Schutzstaffel), to give stiffening and provide officers, but the majority are youngsters of the Abbeitsfront (labor front) not yet of military age, taken discreetly one by one.

"To the boy in the factory or on the farm has come the local party leader with the order that he is being called up for 'manoeuvres' in some other part of Germany."

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—(CP).—Arthurs Schnable, 33, is a terrible marksman and to-day he had proof of it.

Just Between Us Women

A Daily Chat With Examiner Neighbors, Conducted by Roberta

TO everything there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven: A time to be born, and a time to die; a time to plant and a time to pluck up that which is planted; a time to kill, and a time to heal; a time to break down, and a time to build up; a time to weep, and a time to laugh; a time to mourn, and a time to dance; a time to rend, and a time to sew; a time to keep silence, and a time to speak.—Ecclesiastes III: 1-7.

Dear Friends:

Did you ever try the art of substitution? You have done the thing at a certain time, and now it is time to turn to something else, but so many of us persist in staying with certain things when it is past their time.

Let me elucidate. Supposing you have made a fool of yourself (as who hasn't at one time or another in their lives) what good does it do you or anyone else if you keep on berating yourself, instead of doing the thing you ought to be doing? In other words what good is a lot of useless regrets?

Use the art of substituting the thing you should do. Give yourself a good setting out for your folly, and then go on about your business. You are not perfect, you never will be, so remember that there is a time for everything, and the time you are wasting in useless regrets could be used to better advantage.

I used to be the greatest little regrettor. I used to torture myself by saying, "oh if I had not done this or that. If I had only done so and so, how much better I would be" and what good did it do me or anyone else? None that I can see.

And now I realize that there is a time for everything under the sun, so I try and do the things that should be done in their time, then turn to the next thing. It makes an awful difference in your life.

And so I think, it could be with our habits. We have taken time to do these things, we take time to regret them, then let us take time to get back what we have lost. If all the time is taken up with useless repining, what time have we left to make good?

If a child is playing with something that will hurt him, snatching it away and scolding him will only make him cry the harder for what he has lost. So, you take it gently away, and substitute something else to take up his attention and time.

And what are we all but grown-up children? And the same methods could be used on ourselves to good advantage if we only tried it.

Now I give you this for what it is worth, but I got it from a doctor. He said that the drink habit could be cured if the one who had formed the habit would, every time he had the craving for liquor, turn around and eat an apple.

Never having the occasion to need this, I cannot say if it would work or not, but it is worth trying, and would not cost much. But just thinking about it, without taking the time to try it will do no good. And the cure for bad temper, is to take the time to count ten before the words come out of your mouth.

You cannot eat all your meals for a week in advance to save time. Your stomach wouldn't hold it for one thing, and you would get a darned good dose of indigestion for another. You have to take the time three times a day to eat them. You cannot reap immediately you have sown, there must be time to let the grain grow and ripen. Then why not take the time to live, and not let tears occupy the time that should be given to laughter.

And now it is time to stop, but I shall go into it more fully later on. In the meantime, don't you think it is time you wrote to

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

CANADA HAS WELCOMED PENETRO

Established in popular favour as the most effective treatment for colds

Already, the fast growing sales of PENETRO in Canada prove its accepted popularity as the premier remedy for colds. Canadians have discovered that PENETRO does what it claims to do, and they are buying it because of their faith in its penetrating, healing properties.

PENETRO is a medicated "rub" made with the old-fashioned mutton-suet base, which penetrates through the skin, and goes deep to fight congestion and to ease pain. Applied to chest, back or throat, PENETRO strikes at the seat of inflammation, while its aromatic vapour—released by body temperature—soothes and heals the irritated nasal passages and restores free breathing.

As good for children as for adults, PENETRO will not harm the tenderest skin. Snow-white, it will not discolor personal attire or bed-clothes.

PENETRO is the friend of the Canadian family—keep it for every day emergency. At all druggists: 25c.

Must Look For Work

Peterborough Relief Committee believes it is right enough to keep the belief prevalent that relief is not a permanent solution for the problem of existence. That is the reason for the present insistence that a more determined effort be made to seek employment. It is reported that men from outside points have come to this city and found employment which might have gone to those on relief rolls had they made application.

Sault Ste. Marie has been passing through a similar experience. One contractor who needed men to take out pulp wood visited the relief office where men were coming to get their weekly supplies. He spoke to every man who came in about taking a job, but his report is that none of them was interested. After that the Mayor and chairman of the Relief Committee took the situation in hand and decided those who refused to work would have no more relief. The result of the first day was that thirty men signed up to go to the camp and work. This same contractor reported he had visited other places in the district and found similar conditions. Men were not interested in going to the camp at Massey where the work is waiting to be done. Taking out pulp wood would not be asking these men to work at something to which they were not accustomed. It is much the same as work they had been doing before they went on relief.

We do not believe it is the desire of the Peterborough officials to work hardship on any family, but rather to insist definitely that there must be that persistent application in the serious business of looking for employment, and with such policy there can be no disagreement.

Death of Rev. S. G. McCormack

Rev. S. G. McCormack had been in Peterborough little more than a half year. He came here as pastor of Knox United Church, and there was something abrupt and pathetic in the wording of the usual notice of that church as it appeared in Saturday's Examiner: "Funeral service for our late minister will be held at 3 p.m. All other services withdrawn."

Mr. McCormack had been here but a short time but people had grown to like him, to respect him and trust him. Those of his own congregation who knew him best found in him a friend, a leader and one of sane judgment. He was in the ministry because that is where he wanted to be, and felt that he should be. Had his life been spared there is no doubt Mr. McCormack would have left his impress on the lives of many more people in Peterborough. Those who knew him best speak of having lost a great friend; they speak of his human qualities and his dislike of anything which approached ostentation. The sympathy of the community will be extended in generous measure to Mrs. McCormack in the hour of her bereavement.

Took the Wrong Course

Jack Daykin, 28 years of age, and a student in theology at McMaster University in Hamilton, has been missing since January 14, although first public announcement of that fact has been made within recent hours. On January 14 he is known to have gone to a branch bank near the university and drawn the sum of $50, and it is believed the teller of the bank is the last person who saw him.

On January 25 the young man's father died, and knowledge that the son was missing is reported to have had something to do with his passing. It is said to have been consideration for the family which prompted suppression of the news. One can well understand such a motive being allowed to have its way. There are other people who in such circumstances would do the same thing. Keeping it out of the papers would be the first thing of which they would think.

And yet such a course is not wise, nor is it the best one to follow. If a young man is missing the surest way of finding him is to let as many people as possible know about it at once. The more widely the news is circulated the greater becomes the number of those who might be able to do something about it in the way of giving any available information at once. That feeling of trying to keep it out of the papers is easy to understand, but it is not the best course to follow especially when relatives and police have little idea of the direction in which to do their searching. The advantage of publicity in such a case is easily seen—the papers go in all directions and there are few people whom they do not reach in short order.

Fined for Playing the Pipes

Bearing the fine name of Alastair MacDonald helped not a bit when MacDonald was brought into court at Bow Street, London. The charge against the man as told by a London officer, was that he was playing the bagpipes in Piccadilly and was doing so at 11.15 at night and seeking to collect alms.

Previously the officer had warned Piper MacDonald about playing on Regent street, and he further informed court that the pipes were indeed making a great volume of noise. The bench inquired if it would not have been possible to make the pipes softer. The officer said it could not be done, but Piper MacDonald said it could be done by purchasing other reeds, but his present financial condition made that impossible as the reeds cost two shillings and some pence. The music of the pipes, contended MacDonald, should not be muted; it was great stuff and the listeners should get much of it.

The magistrate in fining the pipes eight shillings, admitted he was pleased he was in London rather than in Scotland when giving such sentence. If the Lord Provost of Edinburgh does not issue demand that the sentence be reversed and the fine remitted then indeed we will have to conclude that Scotland is going a bit soft.

That Much Is Plain

For several days there have been a number of questions answered in the columns of this paper. The questions were forwarded to a gentleman appearing in theatrical work during the week. This paper is not moved at the moment to discuss his powers to answer questions, but rather to consider the nature of the questions which so many of our readers wanted to ask.

In all there were dozens of them asking about some form of employment. They had been hoping for a chance to work, or they were considering making a change, and evidently there were cases where young folk were considering getting married if things took a turn for the better. Now and then a married person was suspicious that things were not all as they should be; there was evidently fear of a third party figuring where only two should exist. Others had money which they could not collect and so on.

The whole trend of the questions was that so many people have a problem of some sort in their lives; there is something which puzzles them or worries them, something which they might hesitate to mention or discuss with their most intimate friend. Within the scope of their own power of reasoning or the limit of their own vision they do not feel capable of arriving at a conclusion, so they will willingly ask one whom they have reason to believe is possessed of some occult power which has been denied the average individual. That much has been made plain indeed—there are hundreds of people living right here in Peterborough who have a problem, something which sticks to them day by day and within their own powers they do not feel competent to furnish the answer.

Farmers and Implement Prices

The makers of farm implements declare they can sell at no lower prices than are now being charged. It is no secret that several of the implement making concerns in this country have not been financially successful for a number of years.

There are two parties chiefly concerned in this business, the firms which manufacture the implements and the farmers who purchase them. The farmer does not grow dollars in his fields, nor does he produce them in his feeding or milking stalls. He produced wheat, oats, hay, beef, pork, poultry, butterfat, etc. The scale of prices by which he works varies. Within recent years he has seen the price of hogs down so low that at farm sales weanling pigs could be purchased for thirty cents, and he has seen beef cattle at a figure where a sale would mean an immediate instead of postponed loss. He has gone through seasons where his potatoes would not bring him a cash return of 25 cents per bag.

During such seasons the farmer, if he is going to keep up his equipment, has had to face implement prices which were little altered. The truth is the implement manufacturer could not in such seasons come down to the price level on which the farmer was forced to work. If he did so he would go out of business.

That is actually at the bottom of all the disputes between farmers and the makers of agricultural implements. They are not working on the same basis. The implement maker knows what his output costs him; he knows the cost of everything going through his plant, and on that known cost he can base his selling price, and no one can object to that way of doing business because it is sound and proper.

If the farmer could operate on the same basis there would be little trouble. But he cannot do it. The farmer in turn may know his costs—many of them do. But he cannot make use of his knowledge in naming his selling price, and right there his cost knowledge and selling system falls flat. He may know that it takes from four to five pounds of feed to produce a pound of pork, and he knows the cost of his feed, but he cannot say that because it has cost him $10 to finish a hog of 200 pounds he should get $11.80 for it so he may have a fair profit for his work. The price is set for him regardless of his costs. The farmer may know what it costs him to produce a bushel of grain of any kind, but if he sells his grain as a cash crop his knowledge of costs does not determine his selling price. Once again he is governed by the market price prevailing at the time of sale.

So it is that all through the farmer is working on a different basis to that used by the manufacturer of the implements which he buys. And for that reason there will always be that dispute regarding the selling price of farm implements. The only change comes in years when the price of farm produce runs high, and then the buying power of the farmer more nearly approaches the selling price of the maker of implements. But such years are infrequent.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A bill to abolish tipping has been defeated in the British House, and we understand the news has been received very calmly in Aberdeen.

Sir Samuel Hoare says Britain can still build ships better and stronger and quicker than any other country in the world, which is not of course a boast but merely a simple statement of fact.

There is a lot of pain and suffering wrapped up in the fact that nearly eleven million persons were injured in automobile accidents in the United States last year.

Ben Bernie, orchestra leader, is reported as having knocked out a heckler with his fist. That must have been some of that swing stuff we hear so much about these days.

Sturgeon Falls authorities are worrying because dog teams are wandering around the streets after dark without any lights. It shouldn't be long however before the motorists clean up that situation.

New British naval guns will hurl shells seventeen miles. That is battleships carrying those weapons could start firing two miles below Young's Point and drop their projectiles on the shore at the head of Stoney Lake.

C. Alfred Maguire, former member of the Ontario Hydro Commission says that the present government at Queen's Park is a bunch of misfits and apparently no law has yet been passed making it a crime to criticise the administration.

Windsor reports the lowest relief list in five years and that sounds most encouraging until it is realized that the Border City is still looking after 18,713 persons who are without any source of income.

The safe in the Brantford Collegiate Institute is broken into every year about this time, despite the fact that nothing of value is left in it. Possibly the burglars just use the thing for training purposes.

Ontario mayors will hold a conference in Brantford next month and if they hit upon a way of getting the Hepburn government to come across with a share of the gasoline tax, they will probably feel that the gathering has been worth while.

J. C. McRuer, chief counsel of the textile probe argues that it is the privilege of the consumer to buy on a free trade basis. But what happens if the free trade basis leaves the consumer without a job and therefore without the ability to buy at any price?

A York township woman got six months in jail for acepting relief for many months while her husband was steadily employed. The strangest thing about the case is that the culprit was able to deceive the authorities over so long a period.

Mr. Pouliot's latest idea is that two Tories should be fired from the postal service for every Liberal discharged during the Bennett regime. The member for Temiscouata says a great many things in the House and most of them would be better left unsaid.

AFRAID

(By A. R. K.)

¶ I heard the man talk nigh two hours, and he mopped up with all his powers, indeed he said a lot; he was the people's friend he said, and then he plunged right straight ahead, and it was pretty hot.

¶ He'd take the grafters by the throat, and pile them in a leaking boat, he'd send that out to sea; the boat would leak just like a seive, not one within it long could live, that's how he'd make us free.

¶ For them who hounded down the poor, he had another treatment sure, he'd let them feel the cold; he'd freeze them in their stately homes, he'd clip their wings and cut their combs, I shivered when 'twas told.

¶ He'd cut the taxes clean in two, and when he got the cutting through, why then he'd cut some more; if people hollered for their cash, could buy no wrinkled prunes or hash, why then he'd let them roar.

¶ When I hear speakers talk like that, I always reach and grab my hat, and then I make for home; I want to bolt the kitchen door, and spike the windows down some more, I fear to stay alone.

¶ I fear a man who talks so brave, for little things I have might crave, might think I'd wealth somehow; and so I lock the hen house door, and prime my musket up once more—and chain my brindle cow.

IF YOU INSIST

Mr. BROOKS: This question was partly answered the other day.

Mr. BROOKS: I assume it can be answered along the same lines as the question that was answered the other day with reference to those receiving twenty dollars.

Mr. DUNNING: If it is insisted upon it will be answered.

READING A SPEECH

Mr. DEPUTY SPEAKER: The hon. member for Weyburn (Mr. Douglas) cannot put the table on Hansard without reading it.

Mr. DOUGLAS: I do not want to raise the point, but several tables have been placed on Hansard this year by members who simply handed them to the Clerk.

Some hon. MEMBERS: No

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): With the consent of the house.

Mr. DOUGLAS: If the house disagrees, of course I shall be compelled to read it.

Mr. LAPOINTE (Quebec East): I object. We cannot answer things like that unless they are read. It is easy to make a long speech in that way.

Mr. DOUGLAS: I think the Minister of Justice (Mr. Lapointe) should be the last person to say that, after speaking for an hour and twenty minutes this afternoon.

Mr. LAPOINTE (Quebec East): At least I was reading what citations I wished to have recorded in Hansard.

Mr. REID: And the minister did not read his speech. Keep to the truth.

THE MEANING OF THE WORD

Mr. BENNETT: May I ask who asserts it is the courtesy of the employees of the Matson line that is responsible for getting trade away from the Canada-Australian line?

Mr. REID: I have the 1935 report of the shipping committee with regard to the possibilities of a British passenger and cargo service between Canada and Australia and New Zealand. On page 19 of that report I read:

The important fact to be borne in mind is that the Matson line has won its present position not by cutting rates but by superiority of amenities and speed.

It take that "superiority of amenities" to mean superior courtesy.

Mr. BENNETT: I just wanted to know if the hon. gentleman was putting his own construction on it, because if there is one thing that is not so, it is that the courtesy shown on those ships is greater than that shown on ships of the Canadian-Australian line. The word "amenities" is not open to the construction the hon. gentleman has placed upon it. I do not desire to discuss the point now; I shall do so later.

Mr. REID: I am sorry I have not time to develop that a little more. Neither my right hon. friend nor I was at the conference, so while my opinion may not carry quite as much weight as his, I suppose I am still entitled to it.

Mr. BENNETT: Quite so, but "amenities" in that case has nothing to do with courtesy.

NOT FIGHTING FOR PAY

L. A. MUTCH (Winnipeg South): Then another point has arisen in the debate which irritates me, as a returned soldier, and always has the same effect. Reference was made to men who fought and died for $1.10 per day. As a former soldier may I say the expression amuses me when it does not annoy me. Those who died in France and by whose graves some hon. members stood last fall did not die for $1.10 a day. The money element in war is reckoned not in wages but in dividends. Those men died for an ideal—hazy, half-understood; most of them would have scorned a description of it. But it was real. There was nothing of mob fatalism in their action. Beneath exteriors as varied as their numbers they wore a shining armour of idealism worthy of a greater and better cause. Deluded? — Maybe deceived? — perhaps grumbling?—sometimes. Suffering and wretched, they carried on till death. Need I say it is beneath the dignity of any hon. member or any person outside the house to suggest that those men acted only for mercenary reasons, for $1.10 a day. Theirs was not the disillusionment; that was reserved for us, who did not die. We talk too much and think too little. We crave action when we ought to pause and reflect. There is no dearth of opportunity for action. We in Canada, in common with the world, have problems worthy of all the patriotic endeavour we can muster. There is a clear challenge to a fight with a worthy foeman, poverty—a fight in which none is conscripted but in which all must serve. It is a fight in which man allies himself with God, not as in the great war when the German carried His name on his belt-buckle and romantic British journalists described His angels leading from the clouds, but as one reverently thinks He intended us to act, in the fight against man's inhumanity to man.

EVER SINCE 1579.

(Stratford Beacon-Herald)

JOHN E. GILL died at Rochester, Kent, England, recently, and if he has any claim to distinction at all it was that for 53 years he had held the office of Receiver of the Richard Watts charity known as "The Six Poor Travellers."

The charity was established and endowed in 1579 by a Rochester man, Richard Watts. It maintains almshouses in that ancient city and has an income of $40,000 a year, so Mr. Watts must have left a large sum to ensure the charity in perpetuity.

Every evening as the cathedral bell strikes six the Receiver emerges from the Poor Travellers' House in High street, and selects six men from the waiting cluster of wanderers. The six enter and have a warm bath, don slippers, and read or rest until seven when they are served a meal consisting of half a pound of meat, one pound of bread, and a pound of coffee. Each sleeps in a separate bedroom, and in the morning he is given a pint of coffee and four pence, then resumes his journey.

That has been going on every night since 1579, and will probably go on as long as the world lasts.

OUR CITY REGULATIONS

Editor Examiner,

Sir: The city of Peterborough is proposing a new market. I would like to know how the city of Peterborough got the present market, and who they got it from?

As far as building a new market is concerned, if the creameries and the packing companies influence prevails, there will be no need of a market except for a small amount of wood and vegetables, which are also inspected; and an odd bit of household effects, from homes, possibly infected with T.B.

If Peterborough does not want the farmers' produce why do they not openly say so and we will do our buying in the country stores and ship our produce. I would like to know how it is that every city in Ontario has a veterinarian for a stable inspector not an (M.D.) who does not know a cream separator from an engine, also cow manure from mud, but as Robby Burns said we are dust defiled, in sin.

Imagine milk venders being told that two small, clean colts were not allowed to stand in the same stable under a 50 x 60 ft. barn.

Just think of farmers today feeding hogs. It takes 800 lbs. of chop worth $2.00 per hundred grinding and hauling to produce 200 lbs. of pork live weight. The pig in the first place at 6 weeks old is worth from $3 to $4 at the present price, so the cost of the pig is $20 and all the farmer gets is $16; he is a loser of $4.00 and all we get is the manure and I am afraid we will lose it, as they will want to exchange it for fertiliser. They are so Sanitary.

WANTS TAXES REDUCED

Editor Examiner.

Sir: On page 1, Examiner, February 5, 1937, I read:

$56,000.00 placed in City Budget for 1937 relief.

One Alderman fears tax rate this year will be higher. A raise in salary is purposed for Property Committee workers and others. I would like to ask your honorable body where all the money comes from. Is it not from the tax payers? And has he work and what is his wages if any?

$14,000.00 and $20,000.00 equals $34,000 to be saved.

The poor man trying to pay for homes, and paying taxes, and no work, is he not to be considered? Or will you tax him over?

The real estate man who for the past three years accepted the rent in monthly relief orders at sundry times for thirteen families, which is about one half the monthly rental, is unable to carry on and pay taxes on said properties, especially if he has to pay interest on mortgages.

With a saving of $34,000.00 to the city, is it not time for a reduction of our taxes? They are high enough now.

The depression is not over. Ask any merchant or business man in the city. He knows.

WHAT ARE THEY TO DO?

Editor Examiner.

Sir: The discussion regarding the teaching of the scriptures in our public schools goes on apace. Many people are very much exercised over the lack of such teaching, but they do not make any suggestions as to how this is to be carried out if the practice be put in force. Many will remember the days when in the public schools of the 80's the scholars of the fourth or fifth forms were lined up each morning, and beginning at the head of the class, a verse of the chapter of the scriptures for the day was read by each scholar in turn. Then the Lord's Prayer was recited, and sometimes a hymn was sung. Some teachers, before dismissing the school for the day, would lead the school in singing a hymn; but not all teachers were good song leaders, and when such was the case, the singing was usually omitted.

If anything further than this is to be undertaken in the way of teaching the scriptures as a part of the every day school curriculum, then it would be appreciated if those sponsoring it would give us an outline of what they expect by way of a daily program along this line.

Those who are fearful about the youth of today growing up without any knowledge of the scriptures have apparently never themselves engaged in any teaching in the Sunday schools of our Protestant churches. Those on the other hand who have been active in Sunday school work and in other lines of endeavor among the youth of yesterday and today, have no fear for the future of our boys and girls. There have always been those, both young men and women, and older men and women, who have devoted their lives to this service of teaching without recompense except the joy of working in the service of the Master, whom they serve. To such shall one day come the voice of that Master, saying: Come thou blessed of my Father.

But what about this army of young men and whomen who, when finished with an education to fit them for a place in the sun, where they can work out their destiny as willing and useful citizens of this great Dominion, they hear no voice bidding them, come, work in My vineyard, in my office, in my factory. There they must stand in the ranks of the unemployed whole battalions of them, idle of hand, and sick of heart.

Our legislatures and our parliament are not aware of the seriousness of this situation, but they seem satisfied to sit in the seats to which we have voted them; twiddle their thumbs and look wise, or engage in wordy battles over things of much less importance. This is a matter of much more importance than the teaching of the scriptures in the schools of any denomination. Our young people of today will give as good an account of themselves, as their fathers did, if only they are given a fair chance to work out their destiny.

SOLD OUT TO THE DEVIL?

Editor Examiner.

Sir: Any one with the moral and spiritual welfare of this city cannot help but question the sincerity of the so-called Christianity of this or any other city or town where such things are given such publicity and support as has been given a foreigner carrying on such outlandish devilery as has been allowed in our city in the past week. I refer to the supposed magic and mystery performer.

More than two whole pages of our daily paper in one evening issue, and more or less every night since, for a week advertising the merchandise of some of our city merchants and dragging by the hundreds adults and minors to show house to get money supposedly to help the survivors of the great Ohio flood. One store to gain patronage gave their store window and new bed for a female of the human race to lie in full view of men, women and children under a hypnotic spell for over twenty-four hours, and from there was taken to the theatre where before hundreds (and mostly professed Christians) was recovered from this spell which was purely diabolical, as well as the rest of the black art practiced.

It will be a wonder to the writer if Almighty God does not send, not to say allow, something as bad as the Ohio flood to be meted out on our own city for the permitting of such devilishness. This very thing is an evidence that a worse flood than that in Ohio is already doing its work. The undermining of the Christian faith, the influx of such things as this and other things akin without a word of protest from pulpit or press is doing more damage than any natural river ever could do. The morals of our city are none too good as it is, our young men and women are going to hell fast enough without bringing more hell in from outside, I am not in favor by any means of the pool room, the dance hall, the beer parlors or any gambling devices or place even bingo in some churches, but I dare take the boldness to say that the beer room and gambling dens are not sending as many folk to hell as such things as has been allowed in our city this week, and the looseness in the lives of church going people.

In all due respect to many of our city, while masses supported the theatre with its black art magic man, there are hundreds of good sensible common sense people in Peterborough that were horrified and disgusted to say the least.

When I say such things are of the Devil, I take the word of God for my backing and say, "thus saith the Lord." God said such people performing such things should not be encouraged into our cities, but should be put to death. For your own information read: Liv., 20:27; Deut., 18:10-12; 1, Sam. 28:3; Is. 8:19,20; 2 Kings 23:24; 1, Chron. 10:13,14; 1 Tim. 4:1,2.

There is one church at least that is going to cry out against all manner of evil no matter where it is found.

Your for righteousness,
GEO. A. CHAMBERS.

PRODIGAL PROVINCES.

(Ottawa Journal)

NO TIN-HORN sports are our provinces when it comes to spending money. Indeed, judging by some figures just issued by the Bank of Canada most of them are as prodigal as a New York broker on New Year's eve. The Bank of Canada shows that in 1926 the total indebtedness of the provinces in excess of amounts they had deposited in sinking funds was $613,000,000. Ten years later, in 1936, it was $1,622,000,000—99 per cent. more.

Nor was all this spending done in the hectic days of the latter nineteen-twenties. A great deal of it has been done in the past five years; only this past week the little Province of New Brunswick bobbed up with a deficit for the year, of some $400,000.

A great deal of recent spending, of course, has had to do with relief. Nevertheless, relief or no relief, it is obvious that the provinces can't keep on going into debt.

UNDERSTAND U. S.

(From Labor, Washington, D.C.)

ACCORDING TO Drew Pearson, who helps write the "Merry-Go-Round" column for a number of daily newspapers, our ambassador to the Court of St. James, Robert W. Bingham of Kentucky, has been telling British statesmen how to win the good opinion of Americans.

"Instead of spreading propaganda in the United States, learn something about the United States. In our high schools, no student can graduate without a course in English history and English literature. But your schools teach nothing of American history or American literature.

"If you want to improve relations with us, learn to know and understand us."

When the peoples of the Old World understand Americans they will discover we do not covet the possessions of other nations, and that we have no desire to interfere in their domestic affairs or to limit their freedom in any way.

The American people are profoundly desirous of living at peace with all the rest of the world, and that is one reason why they have definitely made up their minds to stay out of quarrels between other nations.

THE ICE HAZARD.

(Oshawa Times)

"AN OUNCE of prevention is worth a pound of cure," is a proverb that should be applied more in our daily affairs.

For instance R. B. Morley, general manager of the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations, issued a memorandum to more than 5,500 industrial concerns throughout the province in which he points out that a few dollars worth of sand might have saved Ontario industry about $50,000," during the past 20 years.

During the past week when sidewalks were covered with ice many of us probably experienced falls or some narrow escapes from losing our balance on the slippery underfooting. Persons getting up in years are no longer as agile as they once were. Hence a fall on the ice can have serious consequences.

At this time of year every precaution should be taken to prevent paths, sidewalks and steps from becoming slippery with ice. Ice and snow slipping hazards may be overcome by mixing either common salt or calcium chloride with cinders or sand and spread on the walks, causing the ice to melt and form a non-slip surface. It is a very simple and inexpensive way of preventing accidents and should be adopted generally in Oshawa whenever slippery walks make such precautions necessary.

HARD TO READ.

(Cornwall Standard-Freeholder)

NEXT to an anonymous letter in our morning mail, we are most annoyed by communications bearing signatures which no one could read. . .

It is customary for the average stenographer in a business office to type the name of the Big Boss below his scrawl, which is very helpful to the puzzled reader. Sometimes one may guess at the name by checking over the officers designated on the letterhead. Too often the reader is left wholly in the dark.

It is certainly a breach of courtesy on the part of any letter writer to so scrawl his own name that it is illegible to the recipient of the communication. If those who write letters are incapable of writing their names clearly, they should at least be considerate enough to have it typewritten or printed in block letters.

THEY LIKE ROAST BEEF

(Edmonton Journal)

Supremacy of the roast beef of old England seems in no danger. A government report states more beef was eaten in Britain in 1935 than in any of the five previous years.

DR. W. T. HOLLOWAY DIES AT HIS HOME

alderman during the late Dr. Holloway's term as chief magistrate, expressed deepest sorrow at the news of his death. "I am very sorry to learn of his passing. The community loses a very worthy and prominent citizen," he asserted.

Referring to Dr. Holloway's term as mayor, His Worship stated, "I was always very impressed by the way in which he handled the affairs of the city, and as a newcomer to the council at that time I was always appreciative of his kindly counsel and wisdom."

Popular With Aldermen

"He made a good mayor and was popular with the councillors," Nagle Phelan, who was defeated by Dr. Holloway in the mayoralty contest in 1936, said: "I am very grieved to hear of his passing."

Mr. Phelan recalled that his contest with Dr. Holloway was one of the closest in the history of the city, Dr. Holloway winning by 44 votes. Later that year, Dr. Holloway suffered a stroke and Mr. Phelan acted as mayor for several months while he was confined to his bed.

Served City Well

"Dr. Holloway served the city well and earned the high regard of all who worked with him," W. J. Hancock, among others who held a council seat during his terms as mayor, commented. "He had the interests of the citizens at heart and was particularly conscientious in seeking the guidance of the aldermen in any action he took during his administration. His administration was a very pleasant one. Not only those who served with him, but all citizens will feel a loss in his passing."

Deeply Grieved

Alderman Walter Stocker, veteran member of the council, commenting on the passing of Dr. Holloway declared: "I sat on the council during the whole of his term as mayor and came to respect his sound judgment in his administration of civic affairs. I was deeply grieved to learn of his death."

Thinking That Her Husband Drowned Woman Near Collapse Taken To Hospital

Dropping his pike pole into the swirling current while assisting in removal of stop logs at Lock 25 a mile south of Lakefield on Saturday afternoon, Vincent Hickey, 34, wandered away downstream in search of it. His prolonged absence gave rise to the fear he had been drowned and in a state of hysteria and near collapse his wife was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital, but was able to leave the institution the day following.

Unaware of the commotion his absence had caused, Hickey returned to the Lock where he had been at work some time previously, after the lockmaster and others had reached the conclusion that he must have slipped off the west-end of the dam and been drowned.

It was learned by The Examiner that Hickey who lives in the vicinity of the lock had gone over to give Walter Hamlin, the lockmaster a helping hand when the latter was taken ill. He was working at the stop logs around 5 o'clock, but when he failed to show up at the lockmaster's house at the expected time a search for him was undertaken.

Some of Hickey's tools were missed, but not wishing to jump to a hasty conclusion the lockmaster sent his boy to Hickey's house with some mail giving him guarded instructions to enquire if the missing man was there, without however, arousing unnecessary alarm. The boy returned with word that Hickey was not at home.

Thoroughly alarmed Mr. Hamlin notified Coroner Dr. J. C. Smith at Lakefield and also telephoned officials of the Trent Canal at Peterborough. A few minutes later absolutely ignorant of the alarm he had caused Hickey returned to the dam. He declared that after he had dropped his pike pole into the water he believed he could retrieve it with another pole by fishing for it from the canal bank.

He followed the pole down river for some distance before losing sight of it and then waited at Dam 24 lower down in the expectation it might have been temporarily caught in some ice and that it would later come down that way. So intent was he on recovering the pole that he failed to notice the passage of time and had not given a thought to the anxiety his absence was causing.

and farm homes. Snow piled high in the roads and many residents helped stranded motorists who had driven to Huntsville winter carnival.

At Sault Ste. Marie rural roads were tied up by drifting snow and keeping city streets clear presented a problem. The snow near the city was covered with a fine layer of dust weather bureau officials said probably came from the middle western states, where a meteorological disturbance had occurred last week.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 8. — Sudden advances of nearly 4 cents a bushel in wheat prices on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange on Saturday accompanied a rush to buy the grain for export.

Values closed ¼c to 2¼c higher, net, May at $1.28⅜, July $1.23½, and October $1.12⅞, with export sales placed at more than 500,000 bushels.

Boosted by a late-session demand for wheat that found little for sale in the market, the price of the May future jumped 3¾c from its low point for the day to a high of $1.29¼ before tapering off toward the close.

Prior to the development of the export demand values had sagged more than a cent under weighty offerings brought out by belated weakness at Liverpool. There the close was off ⅜d-½d after relinquishing opening gains.

Coarse grains prices rallied smartly with wheat. Cash grains continued inactive, with little change in spreads.

SENIOR PROSPECTS FOR THE ALLAN CUP ARE NOT SO BRIGHT

Present Signs Indicate Intermediate Squad May Cop Year's Honors

PLENTY OF ACTION

TORONTO, Feb. 8—(C.P.). — Because the Southern Division of the Ontario Hockey Association has only four senior teams—and not one of those has proved itself outstanding—Ontario fans are wondering if the club to meet the Northern Ontario Hockey Association winners in Allan Cup playdowns will be an Intermediate force. Last year the senior Hamilton Tigers carried the O.H.A.'s banner for two rounds, then defaulted in favor of Sudbury Falcons, N.O.H.A. champions.

The senior series of the O.H.A.'s southern section is merely another designation for Toronto and York Mercantile League. To date two of the league's teams have been beaten by the Intermediate Port Colborne Sailors, and one has lost to the most formidable aggregation in the north country, Frood Mines.

It used to be that the senior division of the O.H.A. produced one or two teams that outdistanced the others. This year the four entries are closely bunched—no one seems to have corailed a majority of talent. On Monday night Toronto Goodyears and Toronto Dominions will battle for first place; at present Godyears are a point up.

Refused Admittance.

Port Colborne wanted to stay in senior company this winter, but because the Sailors' application was late, the Toronto and York League refused them admittance. So Port Colborne was relegated to intermediate ranks and was given a bye. The Sailors have contented themselves with playing exhibitions in Canada and the United States.

Favorite among intermediate teams to get a crack at the O.H.A. senior champions in the first round of Allan Cup battling, Port Colborne will not be without strong oppsition. In the first round of intermediate competition the Sailors will meet Kitchener, Waterloo or Brantford, whose group will start playoffs on Monday.

Kitchener, group leader, tapered off with a 3-3 tie against Waterloo last night. Waterloo and Brantford will start a best-in-three round on Monday and the winner will play Kitchener for the right to oppose Port Colborne. Included in the Kitchener lineup are such veterans as Honey and Carlo Fumiz and a sprinkling of the kind of first-class youngsters Kitchener has been producing for years.

In the Eastern end of the Province the Royal Canadian Air Force team of Trenton has been setting up a remarkable record of overwhelming vicories. After winning the Kingston City series, the Fliers went into their group to gain further honors. So far they're unbeaten.

a gain over last January of 25 per cent., and it seems safe to predict that 1937 means a new high record in tonnage production, although this rate of gain is higher than will be maintained for the full year.

"In dollars the 1937 performance is absurdly sad. Overseas prices are substantially improved, but in the North American continent, which consumes 80 per cent. of production, the 1937 contract price is up only $1.50, nearly $6 a ton lower than the 1926 price. It is no advance at all because of rising production costs."

Mr. Vining said the newsprint industry "is our largest single industrial investment with the exception of investment in Hydro-Electric power, and accounts for at least two-fifths of Canada's total power development. There are single mills which use more electrical energy each year than is used to light the cities of Toronto and Montreal combined."

The industry brought to Canada between 1930 and 1935 "in spite of its disrupted condition, $563,000,000 from foreign sources, compared with $475,000,000 of gold production and $130,000,000 of nickel exports. Newsprint income is spent in Canada for nearly all materials of newsprint production are of Canadian origin," he said.

LAKEFIELD

INSTITUTE HEARS LIFE STORY TOLD OF FAMOUS WOMEN

Mrs. J. M. Simpson Tells Of Career Of Mrs. Traill And Mrs. Moodie

INTERESTING PAPER

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 8.—When the members of the Lakefield branch of the Women's Institute held their regular monthly meeting in the Memorial Hall on Wednesday afternoon the presentation of a paper on "Historical Research" by Mrs. J. M. Simpson was the high light of the occasion. Mrs. Simpson chose as the subject of her research the lives and writings of Mrs. Catharine Traill and Mrs. Susanna Moodie, two eminent sisters of the talented Strickland family. The paper which give a most complete account of two of Lakefield's earliest and most prominent settlers, represented a most thorough research on Mrs. Simpson's part and proved highly enlightening to the audience.

The first part of the meeting was devoted to business. Mrs. S. E. White gave the treasurer's report which showed a balance of $22.81 in bank. A report on the card party held by Mrs. N. A. Moore's and Mrs. Stanley Higgins' groups of the Institute, showed the net proceeds to be $6.70.

Will Donate Prizes

The matter of donating prizes for the Lakefield Agricultural Exhibition next year was discussed. On motion of Mrs. A. Davis and Mrs. Arthur Payne, it was decided to again give $10 toward prizes from the Institute. Whether this amount should be used to provide a couple of substantial prizes or whether it be divided into a number of small awards was left to a committee consisting of Mrs. Stanley Higgins, Mrs. W. E. Gillman and Mrs. George Spence.

Mrs. Amberson Davis thanked the ladies for the plant sent to her during her recent illness.

During the past year, the Institute offered prizes to all pupils in rural schools in the district who could show a perfect record of attendance for the school year. Word has been received that three pupils of S.S. No. 7 Smith are the winners. They are Idell Northey, Janet Miller and Billy Millar. Miss Annie Cameron is their teacher. It is of interest to note that the prize offered by the Institute a year ago for the child in a rural school who received the highest mark on his entrance examinations was won by a pupil of this same school. At that time a sister of the present teacher was in charge of the school.

Mrs. Bullock announced that the roll would be answered at the next meeting by "A law to be thankful for."

Mrs. Simpson's Paper.

Mrs. J. N. Simpson was then called upon to present her paper which was on "The Lives and Writings of Two Eminent Sisters of the Talented Strickland Family."

"In preparing this paper," Mrs. Simpson said, "I thought one of the things which might be of interest to us all is to know how our township of Douro received its name. Baron of Douro was one of the Duke of Wellington's titles having been conferred upon him because of his brilliant victory over the French at the time of the Peninsular War, when he crossed the river Douro in Spain in the face of a fierce attack.

Some settlers by the names of Stewart and Reid, men of means and influence, had located in the township before it was surveyed. The survey of Douro township did not take place until 1823, and it was thought that Sir Peregrine Maitland K.C.B. Lieutenant Governor of Upper Canada at this time, suggested the name Douro in honor of the Duke of Wellington under whose generalship he had served during the Peninsular war. The authority of this is from the archives at Ottawa, Mrs. Simpson said.

She continued with an account of the lives of Mrs. Traill and Mrs. Moodie. "Mrs. Trail and Mrs. Moodie are two of the five sisters of the talented Strickland family of Reydon Hall, Suffolk, England, who attained distinction in literature both in England and Canada. It is chiefly about these I am going to speak this afternoon."

Mrs. Traill of whom I shall speak first was born in London, England in 1803, Stowe House, an old home in the valley of Waveney, Norwich, is where the sisters spent the happiest days of their childhood years. Their father, who is represented to have been a gentleman of education, refined taste and some wealth, was their teacher. In this home was a room with oak-panelled walls and a large fire-place where they learned their lessons, acted scenes from Shakespeare and read books on history."

"At an early age Mrs. Trail and Mrs. Moodie showed signs of literary talent. As children they wrote stories in the daytime and read them to each other at night."

"It was in the home of Mrs. Moodie in Southwold, England, that Mrs. Traill met her husband, an Orkney gentleman and a lieutenant in the Royal Scotch Fusiliers. On May 13, 1832 they were married and a week later they sailed to the Orkney Islands to visit at Mr. Traill's home, and some weeks later sailed for Canada where free grants of land were given and wonderful possibilities for the future offered. They arrived in Montreal in August. In her sketch "Sunset and Sunrise On Lake Ontario," she gives a vivid account of her trip from Brockville to Cobourg. Her trip from Cobourg to Lakefield was full of unusual experiences.

Settled in Douro.

Mr. Trail, being an army officer, drew his grant of land in Douro. For the first few months after they came, while their own house was being built, they lived with Mr. Strickland, her brother. In December, 1833, they moved into their new home which they occupied for seven years.

"In 1835, Mrs. Traill resumed her writing, and "The Backwoods of Canada," in which she gives a full description of the first few months in the new world and the natural history surrounding her new home. The book was published in England in 1836 for the "Library of Entertaining Knowledge Series."

"In 1839 Mr. Traill sold their forest home, Westove (on Mrs. E. R. Tate's property), and moved to Ashburnham. In 1846 they moved to Rice Lake, where they lived first at "Wolf Tower" and later at "Mount Ararat" where she wrote "The Canadian Crusoes." Then they purchased "Oaklands," where they lived some time, until a fire destroyed their home and everything but their lives. The shock of seeing his family homeless was too great for Mr. Traill, who died at the age of 66. Soon after his death Mrs. Traill and her family moved to Lakefield, where her daughter obtained a position as teacher in the school.

A Grant From the Queen

"On different occasions, Mrs. Traill had sent to England collections of pressed ferns and mosses which found ready sale there. Mrs. Greville was so attracted by one of these collections, that she interested Lord Palmerston in Mrs. Traill's literary work, with the result that Mrs. Traill received a grant of £100 from the Queen. With this gift she built the house in which she lived for 33 years, calling it "Westove," the name of Mrs. Traill's estate in the Orkneys. A remarkable form of the Shield fern "Trailiae" was named after Mrs. Traill.

In 1884 her "Studies of Plant Life in Canada" was published. The same year she visited Government House, Ottawa, at the age of 84. The declining years of this aged authoress were spent at Westove, Lakefield, where she died in her 98th year, August, 1899.

Mrs. Moodie's Career

"Mrs. Moodie, born in Suffolk, England, in 1802, began to write articles for periodicals and magazines at the early age of 15 years, contributing short poems and tales for children. In 1820, she produced her first work, a juvenile tale which was well received. In 1831 she married Mr. Moodie, a half-pay officer in the Royal Scottish Fusiliers. Mrs. Moodie wrote a volume of poems, published in 1831, under her maiden name, Susanna Strickland. In 1834 they emigrated to Canada, and after living on a farm near Port Hope for a short time, they moved to Lakefield, settling on the property now owned by Miss Downs. They remained there for eight years and her book, "Roughing It In the Bush," gives her experiences during that time and their attempt at clearing a bush farm. During the rebellion of 1837, Mrs. Moodie's loyal lyric poems were circulated and sung throughout the colony and brought about the feeling in favor of law and order.

"Can we imagine the feeling that prompted her to write the 'Sleigh Song' as she leaned against the open door of their shanty, watching for the return of her husband? The song has been very popular in Canada and has been set to music in the States. Truly Mrs. Moodie may be regarded as the pioneer of Canadian literature.

Is Made Sheriff

In 1839 Mr. Moodie was appointed Sheriff of Hastings County and they took up residence in Belleville. During the existence of "The Literary Garland" (Montreal) Mrs. Moodie was the principal contributor of fiction to its pages. For some years she edited The Victoria Magazine (Belleville).

After the death of Mr. Moodie in 1869, she went to live in Toronto, where she died April 8, 1885, at the age of 82.

"The work for which Mrs. Moodie became more especially famous was 'Roughing It In the Bush,' but other volumes such as 'Flora Lindsey,' 'Mark Huddleston,' 'Geoffrey Morton or the 'Faithless Guardian,' and 'Life in the Clearings,' are all exceedingly interesting," Mrs. Simpson concluded.

Trotzky Denounces Stalin and Trials

Lashing bitterly at the Moscow court which convicted seventeen conspirators in an alleged attempt to depose the Stalin regime with plots hatched by Trotsky himself, Leon Trotsky is pictured before the newsreel microphones in the beautiful garden of Diego Rivera's home at Mexico City. Thirteen were executed before a firing squad and four were given life imprisonment. Trotsky asks an international investigation into the trial.

TRIBUTE IS PAID REV. McCORMACK AT KNOX CHURCH

Funeral Service Is Conducted By Rev. A. S. Cleland Of Norwood

INTERRED AT MITCHELL

Knox United Church was empty and silent and dark Sunday night, a symbolic state of mourning for the death of its minister of less than a year, Rev. Samuel G. McCormack, who passed away Friday after a week's illness of influenza.

A large congregation including the ministers and many members of other churches of the city attended the funeral services in Knox Church Sunday afternoon, a solemn expression of bereavement by the community in which the Christian influence of Rev. Mr. McCormack had already been recognized and felt since his coming last summer. The loss to the church, to his wife and sister and to the ministry of Peterborough was accentuated by the untimeliness of his death at the age of 52 years.

The service was conducted by Rev. A. S. Cleland, Norwood, chairman of the Peterborough Presbytery of the United Church, assisted by Rev. J. D. Paterson, president of the Peterborough Ministerial Association, Rev. Dr. C. V. McLean of St. Andrew's United Church, Rev. F. W. Craik of St. James' United Church, and Rev. J. J. Black of Lindsay a close personal friend of the deceased.

The closed casket in front of the choir's platform was surrounded with floral designs in which red roses and yellow daffodils were dominant colors. Rev. Dr. McLean delivered the address basing it on a verse from the psalm read by Rev. Mr. Paterson, "For a thousand years in thy sight are but as yesterday when it is past, and as a watch in the night." When life closes and seems incomplete, the question arises in the mind why such a life was not extended to the allotted span of three score years and ten.

"If we were to measure the life of Rev. Samuel McCormack in terms of the calendar, then indeed is this a sad occasion," Rev. Dr. McLean said. "By that standard of measurement it was a life that had not rounded out its course. Let us use the measure of thoughts and deeds and achievement and in that realm we begin to see the richness and fulness and the glory of his life."

Dr. McLean said he first met Samuel McCormack in the Crow's Nest Pass district in the far west. He had been a school teacher, but he had noticed the large movement of men to that part of the country and he believed that the church should be with them. Mr. McCormack worked among mining men and those who were called lumberjacks, men engaged in heavy labor and accustomed to the hardships of that pioneering life. But, they were also men who by their experience could readily tell the difference between sincerity and insincerity, between integrity and the lack of it, and Dr. McLean told the congregation that he could well remember the tributes those men paid to Rev. Mr. McCormack. He was a man who knew the joys of the student for he was intensely interested in books especially history. He knew the ecstasy of the prophets who believe great things are yet to be revealed by God. He loved study but only in so far as it equipped him to be a good soldier of Jesus Christ.

"It remains for us to thank God for such men and to pray to God to raise up other leaders to take the place of those who have grown weary and have fallen. And so we leave him in peace and at rest."

The remains were taken to Mitchell this morning for burial.

COMMENCEMENT NIGHT IS ENJOYED IN HAVELOCK HALL

Diplomas And Prizes Are Presented—Musical Comedy Proves "Scream"

EXCELLENT CHORUSES

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Feb. 8. — One of the finest commencement programs of recent years was greeted by enthusiastic audiences on Thursday and Friday evenings, February 4 and 5, when the students of the Havelock High School presented the musical comedy entitled "It's a Knockout," in the Town Hall auditorium. The play was a production of the John B. Rogers Producing Co., under the direction of Normen B. Lake.

At the commencement exercises on Thursday evening, under the chairmanship of F. Breckenridge, graduation diplomas were presented to the following, by T. P. Lancaster, M.P.P.: Edna Rigby, Isabelle McQuigge, Irene Hagerman, Phyllis Bush, Winnifred Chiles, Marie McQuigge, Betty Ormiston, Roxy Rutherford, Lois Scott, and Donald Miller.

The presentation of the general proficiency medals was made by Mrs. George Rigby to Anne McNeely, Eileen Brisbin, Debra Longmuir, and Irene Hagerman, leaders in their respective forms last term.

Play Goes Over.

The play, "It's a Knockout," really lived up to its name, and the whole cast is to be congratulated on the successful presentation of such a splendid entertainment. The plot was an interesting one, enlivened by numerous songs and dance numbers and frequent humorous by-plays. It concerned the homecoming of Bob Randall after an absence of six years, during which time, as he said, he was engaged in the "leather-pushing industry." His sister and her college chum play a practical joke on him by pretending that the strange girl in his home is an 11-year-old child adopted in his name. Bob, played by Jesse Anderson, at first resents this, but eventually falls in love with the clever Pattie, ably played by Mary Anderson. Barney Quinn, as "Spike," the sparring partner from the Bowery, contributed much of the humor of the play and some of the romance for he falls in love with the winsome Winnie, a role taken by Winnifred Chiles.

A tense situation is developed when Bob and Spike learn that the car in which they have motored home was stolen. Fred (played by Fred Hill), the friend whom they thought owned the machine, is found to be a kleptomaniac, and had taken the car from its parking place. The situation is further tensed when Bob, whose invention of a fire-proof paint he expects will make him rich, learns that the Atlas Paint Co., has revoked their offer owing to an explosion in the lab. Simultaneously with the discovery of the car theft and the arrival of the bad news about the paint contract the news reaches the little town that Bob Randall is a prize-fighter, much to the disgust of the two old maids in the picture. Then the indignant Lyman Ross, millionaire owner of the stolen car, arrives with murder in his eye.

The situation is relieved when Bob receives a wire from the paint company reversing their decision and accepting the paint formula and he succeeds in bluffing Ross into believing that he sold the car while intoxicated.

Clifford Kennedy made a hit, as Caleb, the elderly farmerish playboy, who with Hazel Holdcroft and Georgina Nobes playing the role of the old maids, amused the audience both by their part in the dialogue and their comic dancing numbers. Frank Voyer capably filled the role of Lyman Ross.

Miss Barbara Fennell played opposite Jesse Anderson, as his sister Josie, Ernest Leeson filled the role of the elder Mr. Randall, and Noel Lade that of the amazingly stupid Englishman.

Lively Choruses.

Interspersed through the play were numerous catchy songs. Included were the opening chorus, "Hot Time," "If You Had a Girl That Was Different," "Ho Hum," "When We Were the Village Belles," "When I Grow Up," "Love Is the Game," "I Certainly Must Be in Love," "When You're Riding With the One You Love," and "Rough House Romeo."

Seven choruses, six of them girls, and one a business men's Bowery chorus, which brought down the house, provided dancing numbers at intervals. The choruses, with their personnel, were as follows: Backyard Brigade Darlings—Jean Hubbel, Shirley Hutchinson, Marilyn Hutchinson, Marion Isaac, Evelyn Iles, Elaine Iles, Helen Revoy, Gale Pollock, Barbara Watson, Lois Ames.

Guests — Edna Rigby, Irene Hagerman, Irene Pollock, Cordie McColl, Jewell Scott, Florence Jones.

Sweethearts — Lois Thompson, Eileen Brisbin, Evelyn Stevenson, Marjorie Jamieson, Mary Whitney, Muriel Post.

Flapperettes — Marie McQuigge, Debra Longmuir, Muriel Quinn, Betty Mathison, Edna Rigby, Irene Pollock.

Bowery Dance — Charles Taylor, Thomas Wannamaker, Douglas Drinkwater, Dr. Holdcroft, Ernest Leeson, William McBurney, Carmen Coon, S. J. W. Clarke.

Following the program on Friday evening the whole cast, over sixty persons, were invited to the home of Miss F. E. Morgan, where they were served with a delicious lunch of sandwiches, cake and coffee.

Only those who have suffered from lumbago know how exceedingly painful it can be. And when they discover a remedy for this complaint, they are anxious to pass on the good news to other sufferers. Let this man tell you how Kruschen brought him relief:—

"I had a bad attack of lumbago. When I got into bed I had to stay in that position—I could not move for pain. I didn't know what to take or what to do. I was advised to try Kruschen Salts and I am very grateful I did so. After taking a few doses I felt relief, and after taking one large bottle, I am glad to say that my lumbago had entirely gone, and I have not had the slightest trace of it coming back."—G.A.V.

contained in the Social Reform program of the last government, and a report will probably be made to Parliament later as to the Government's intention.

The possibility has been advanced that the Natural Products Marketing Act may be allowed to remain on the statute books so that certain sections found intra vires may be Utilized until a new Act has been passed. No indication has been given as to whether the government will at this session make any move toward constitutional reform, although the subject has been debated at great length on private member resolutions.

Meanwhile Jean Pouliot (Lib. Temiscouata) has on the order paper six bills to repeat all the social legislation found invalid by the Privy Council. When these bills were called last week Mr. Pouliot asked that they be allowed to stand until to-morrow. It is possible he will withdraw them and let the government take whatever action it proposes regarding the acts found ultra vires.

NEW CAREER OPENS FOR OSCAR O'SHEA ON SILVER SCREEN

Former Peterboro Boy Signs M.G.M. Contract For 'Captains Courageous'

LOST A FORTUNE

"Having earned a fortune in the theatre and lost it in the depression, Oscar O'Shea, former Milwaukee stock producer more recently a WPA federal theatre actor in Chicago, has started a new career in the motion pictures," says a Hollywood report to The Milwaukee Journal, a copy of which was received to-day by Max Swanston, from his brother.

Oscar O'Shea is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James O'Shea, who for years was proprietor of the Commercial Hotel at the southeast corner of George and Brock streets. As a boy he showed a talent for the theatre and left Peterborough to seek a career in the United States.

The Hollywood story, dated January 19, relating a new opportunity for Mr. O'Shea in the movies continues:

"A few weeks ago O'Shea was playing in the WPA production of "Broken Dishes" in Chicago. The critics acclaimed his performance and Gummo Marx of the famous Marx brothers, an agent went to see him. Marx promptly wired Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer executives that O'Shea was a sensation.

O'Shea was asked to make a screen test in New York, which he did, then boarded a plane for Hollywood, where he was signed to an M.G.M. contract. Because of his ability to portray character parts, O'Shea was cast in the role of a sea captain who competes against Lionel Barrymore in Rudyard Kipling's "Captains Courageous" in which Freddie Bartholomew and Spencer Tracy star.

"For many years O'Shea conducted stock companies in Milwaukee. Frank McHugh, now a screen star, was a leading man. O'Shea also opened a stock company in Madison, Wis., with Ralph Bellamy and Melwin Douglas as the male stars. Douglas is appearing with O'Shea in "Captains Courageous."

Mrs. O'Shea, the former Esther Evans, an actress since childhood, to whom he has been married 35 years, will join him in Hollywood this week.

The oldtimer has been an actor some 40 years. Over the coffee and doughnuts in Milwaukee's one-arm cafes he used to boast with gusto that he had appeared in every op'ry house in the United States. He used to relate that often, in his barnstorming, he had played in railroad roundhouses and one of his pet stories had to do with the time he spoke his lines from a platform of planks laid upon beer kegs. That also was in Wisconsin.

Away back there in the dark ages Mr. O'Shea was in the films—in the cerebrated Essanay company, for example, and his lunchroom reminiscences included brave tales of the cinema's pioneers. He was particularly fond of telling how he once found a wistful, pinched little maiden crying in a corner of an Essanay studio. And the young woman whimpered: "I guess there's no chance for me. Mother and I are alone and we need work." And that maiden was Gloria Swanson.

SAYS CHURCH LAW BEING PUT FIRST

Birth Control Defence Counsel Charges Attempt To Override Law Of Courts

OTTAWA, Feb. 4.—(CP).— Defence Counsel F. W. Wegenast today claimed in the birth control trial of Dorothea Palmer that influences were in evidence seeking to place the law of the Roman Catholic church above the law of Canada.

The Toronto lawyer presenting his argument for acquittal of the 29-year-old social worker who is alleged to have advertised birth-control information and contraceptives by means of a pamphlet, spent half the morning on that point, going as far back in history as the conviction for heresy of the astronomer Galileo for his enumeration of the theory the earth revolved around the sun.

Mr. Wegenast held Galileo's conviction before a Roman church court and his subsequent recantation and pardon could not have happened in a British court.

Nevertheless, he claimed, it had been indicated in evidence that some believed a separate law should exist for Roman Catholics and another for Protestants.

A conviction, Mr. Weganast argued, would be a victory for those who set Roman Catholic law above the law of the courts.

He urged Magistrate Lester Clayton to disregard any such influences and received from the magistrate assurance he intended to judge the case on the evidence and the law as he saw it and on nothing else.

LOCAL MINISTERS ENTERTAIN ROTARY IN CHOICE PROGRAM

Supply Much Enjoyed Vocal Numbers And Rev. G. S. Easton Is Speaker

ALLENBY'S CAMPAIGN

Members of the Peterborough Ministerial Association took charge of the program at the regular luncheon of the Peterborough Rotary Club at the Empress Hotel today and made a very enjoyable affair out of it. The ministerial quartette, Miss Elizabeth Walker, deaconess of St. Paul's church and Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe of Murray street Baptist church contributed voal numbers and the speaker was Rev. George S. Easton of Trinity United. Martin B. Chenhall was the accompanist.

President Chris Graham was in the chair for the first part of the program during which Rotarian Fred L. Roy introduced Sidney J. Black as the new member of the Rotary club. The baby member is a son-in-law of President Graham.

Rotary support was asked on behalf of the educational week later in the month and for the concert to be given by the Peterborough Orchestral Society on February 19, President Graham calling the attention of the club to these events.

Ministerial Quartette.

The ministerial quartette composed of Rev. Fred Craik of St. James United, Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe of Murray Street Baptist church, Rev. E. W. Rowland of Mark St. United and Adjutant N. Warrander of the Salvation Army sang the very amusing number "Johnny Smoker" in effective style and for an encore responded with a spirited rendition of the negro melody "Hear Dem Darkies Sing."

Miss Walker's sweet voice was admirably displayed in the Scottish number "A Highland Lad My Love Was Born" and she had another success in her encore, the very appealing "I Heard You Passing By."

Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe scored with his very fine singing of a very fine religious offering "My Task" in which the beauty of the words and the music was most effectively brought out.

The speaker of the day was Rev. George S. Easton who gave a brief but very interesting address upon Palestine which he said he had found to be the land of disillusionment, inasmuch as it was so very small and the topography was nothing like what most people imagined. Siloam for example was far from being the thing of beauty described in the familiar hymn while the river Jordan was merely a swiftly flowing dirty little river across which any child could throw a stone without the slightest difficulty.

The Allenby Campaign.

Mr. Easton dealt chiefly with the campaign of General Allenby, pointing out how that British general had fulfilled the ancient Arab prophecy that when the water of the Nile flowed into Palestine a prophet from the west would drive the Turk out of that country. The speaker told how Allenby, following the ancient caravan route, the road along which Moses had led the children of Israel had overcome the difficulties of lack, of water and the sand of the desert and had finally triumphed over the enemy. Water had been carried across the desert from the Nile in pipes originally intended for the use of the Standard Oil company and the desert had been made passable by the use of chicken wire laid across the sand to offer a footing for the soldiers and transport.

Briefly in conclusion the speaker referred to the improvements that had been made in Palestine by the British since they had been given a mandate over the Holy Land and to the Zionist movement following the Balfour declaration.

President Graham expressed the thanks of the club to those who had so ably taken part in the program. Among the ministerial visitors was Rev. R. D. Wright of Gilmour Memorial church.

Kirma Feared Not Be Able To Tell Where Body Of Tranter Child Is Lying

Echoes of the tragedy that befell Mr. and Mrs. George Panter of 149 Stewart street last April when their 7-year-old son Gerald was presumably drowned after falling into Jackson Park Creek in the vicinity of Sherbrooke street bridge, were awakened with the visit to a local theatre of Kirma.

In an effort to determine the whereabouts of the body which was never recovered despite an intensive search of the creek and the waters of Little Lake into which it empties, a grandmother of the dead child wrote a letter to the be-cloaked and turbanned visitor who claimed powers to delve into secrets of the past and future.

Not knowing that relatives of the dead child had approached Kirma and quite independently a reporter queried the mystic in an interview at the theatre Saturday asking him if he could throw any light on the mystery of the child's disappearance.

Acknowledging that he had made a close study of the circumstances connected with the drowning of the Panter child, Kirma produced a rough pencilled diagram of the section of the city and the portion of the creek in which the fatality occurred.

He told a reporter he could do very little by way of solving the mystery of the whereabouts of the child's body without the presence of the parents, and he added he would have much preferred he had been approached directly by them instead of through other channels. "Now," he explained, "the situation is such that there is a great deal of confusion in my mind and I am not altogether certain that I could receive very definite mind impressions bearing on the matter."

He gave it as his opinion, "The lad's body will be recovered this Spring."

A small fire in the cellar at the home of J. Madden, 593 Aylmer street was extinguished by firemen Sunday before it had caused serious damage.

LOOKING FOR LEAK.

PAYING STIPULATED WAGE.

William Jones, William Turner and Charles Long of Toronto, who were captured here after a thrilling chase on icy streets by Sergt. Jack Thompson and Constable Joe Wheeler of the city and Traffic Officer Lloyd McClure, were convicted at Cobourg of attempting to rob Dan Sidey's store at Bewdley. Jones was sentenced to five months, Turner to four and Long to three.

NOT SOCIAL CREDIT.

In referring to T. C. Douglas, M.P. for Weyburn, it was stated he was a Social Credit member. That was an error, as Mr. Douglas is national president of the Co-operative Commonwealth Youth Movement, and is a Baptist minister. Mr. Douglas is the speaker for the Open Forum meeting next Sunday afternoon.

DEPUTATION TO TORONTO

Aldermen Juby, Dutton, Gordon and Glover and E. A. Outram, assistant city clerk, representing the city, and Warden Brown, Reeves Anderson and Gifford were a deputation to Toronto today to urge the Department of Fish and Game to establish a fish hatchery in this district.

BY WAY OF CONTRAST.

It is a dull week when some person does not bring an unusually large specimen of hen fruit into a newspaper office for inspection, admiration and comment. Tiny eggs are something else again and Saturday established a record when a young visitor produced a box containing a specimen not bigger than a robin's egg that had been turned out by a game bantam hen owned by George Downer, 139 George street.

WHAT SPIRIT GOVERNS MAN?

"Spirit" was the subject of the lesson-sermon for the Christian Science Churches on Sunday. The golden text was "We all, with open face beholding as in a glass the glory of the Lord, are changed into the same image from glory to glory, even as by the spirit of the Lord." (II. Corinthians, 3: 18). Selections from the Bible included the following from I. Corinthians, 2: 12: "Now we have received, not the spirit of the world, but the spirit which is of God; that we might know the things that are freely given to us of God."

O. M. STEER HONORED.

Superintendent of St. Paul's Sunday school for fifteen years, O. M. Steer was presented with a Schofield reference Bible Sunday afternoon. The presentation was made by Mayor George A. Macdonald on behalf of the school, and as a token of appreciation of Mr. Steer's long service. As his resignation took effect he introduced his successor, C. M. Lawrence, who is now assuming the leadership of the Sunday school, and wished him every success in this important department of the church. Harry Taylor, assistant superintendent, was chairman, and W. S. Hill was in charge of the arrangements. Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr supplemented the tributes to Mr. Steer in a neat speech.

MAGISTRATE'S COURT.

John Routley, former employee of Fashion-Craft Shops, pleaded not guilty to theft of a trench coat. He was similarly remanded to Thursday, while Charles Kennedy of this city was remanded until Wednesday, after pleading guilty to an indecent exposure charge.

Madrid Storekeepers Take To Streets

Because so many shops have been destroyed by rebel bombardments, business goes on in the Spanish capital as you see here. Merchandise is spread out on the sidewalk and the buyer may inspect the offerings and select his purchase at leisure. There is no overhead to worry about—except the death that sometimes flies overhead in Gen. Franco's bombing aeroplanes.

Mediterranean Port Falls At 8 a.m.—Fleet Enters Harbor

GIBRALTAR, Feb. 8.— (AP).— The southern coastal city of Malaga is under "complete control" of Spanish Fascists, the insurgent radio station at Salamanca announced today. Part of the insurgent fleet already is in the harbor the announcement said.

March In At 8 A.M.

ROME, Feb. 8.—The Italian cable station at Malaga advised its home office to-day that Fascist troops marched into the coastal city at 1 p.m. to-day (8 a.m. E.S.T.)

The entrance of Generalissimo Franco's soldiers was signalled by loud blasts from sirens in the port, the cable office said.

Another message later declared the insurgent columns were taking over railroad station as headquarters for the municipal garrison.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8 (A.P.). — Holding up six persons returning from a hotel party in a taxicab early to-day, three robbers snatched an estimated $25,000 in jewellery from two women. They escaped in a car eluding a hastily formed police net.

With the Boy Scouts

At the 1st Rover Crew the boys received instruction on whippings—just rope ends—and Rover Mate Tom Hooper gave an instructive talk on the third law: "A Scout's duty is to be useful and to help others."

One hundred and thirty-six fathers and sons attended the banquet at St. John's Scouter McKercher, Rev. C. A. G. Spence and two Scouts from Lakefield, Messrs. Patterson and Brown, members of the 11th Troop, with several Scouts and fathers; three Scouts from St. George's, Scouters Pete Dominic, Gerald Grady, Mike Crow, and Max Hutchinson. Honorary Scouter Rev. Warren Turner, Douglas Blagrave and friend from Toronto, were among the visitors. Field Secretary Edgar Jones was guest speaker.

At the 2nd Rover Crew, Fred Simmons held chairmanship. The main topic of discussion was the "Scout Craft Show."

Akela Pete Dominic was appointed chairman for this year in place of Vic Millard, who is now working in Vancouver, B.C. For his committee Rovers George Brooks and Eric Edmundson were appointed, with power to add. The show is to be essentially Scout Craft, and at this time literature is being distributed among the troops to act upon.

Let us all get behind Pete in this and make it a success.

The St. Andrew's Pack got into full swing by the Grand Howl, followed by inspection. Then followed a scramble for pumping balloons, and a series of old time songs. Cub Bill Crowe received his 1st year star and Jim English marked up a three-year credit. Giving Grand Howl followed by repeating the Lord's Prayer brought to a close a splendid evening.

We congratulate Bruce Forsythe and Rex Rose on earning their second class badges, and the following promotions: Tom Hooper to A.S.M., and Art Winslow to P.L.

Regret to report that I have not heard from any other troops or packs.

Hullo, Cubs.—I want to talk on Burns and Scalds this week.

A burn is caused by dry heat, like a fire, or getting hold of hot iron, etc. Touching anything hot like this burns up the outside skin and leaves the raw flesh exposed. The first thing to do is to keep it from the air. The best thing for this is bicarbonate of soda, or baking soda as it is commonly known. Put a little in warm water and if it fizzes like a soft drink you know you have the right stuff.

Now take two dessertspoonfuls and put in basin of warm water. Dip in narrow strips of bandage, then place wet bandage over wound. When wound is covered, take dry bandage and put round the outside.

Water, oil or hot fat will cause a scald. Now be careful here, because a scald sometimes raises a blister, and that blister must not be broken. Do the same as dry burn, but be extra careful in bandaging. Make your patient sit down in a comfortable chair, and send for a doctor at once.

Notes for the column should be left at J. J. Turner's or United Cigar Store next to McDermid's, before 5 p.m. on Saturday, or phone 2536J before 9 p.m. Sunday. Please act accordingly.—"The Skipper."

BRANTFORD, Ont., Feb. 8 (C.P.). —Fred Burke, Winnipeg, explained he bought in Peterborough the 52 safety pins found on him, but he murmured something about a "man, and we had some beer," when asked to explain where he secured the 11 pair of sox, 92 pairs of shoe laces, tin of salmon, and pair of new boots found when Constable Ernest Stanbridge arrested him. He was convicted and remanded for sentence when Art Perry, Woolworth employee, and Coie's Shoe Store identified the articles as stolen from them.

SKIIER SUFFERED PAINFUL INJURIES AT JACKSON PARK

Fraser Bowen, 19, Victim Of First Major Skiing Accident Of Season

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Suffering severe internal injuries as the result of being impaled on a ski pole, Fraser Bowen, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Bowen, of 298 Pearl avenue, was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital, on Sunday afternoon. Dr. J. M. O'Brien is quoted as saying: "The youth suffered serious and painful internal injury and extensive haemorrhage."

Victim of the first major accident of the present winter sports season, Bowen was skiing at Jackson Park on a fresh fall of snow, when it is believed he struck a bare spot as he was coasting along the flats after having descended a steep hill.

Hurled into the air by the sudden check he descended heavily on the pointed end of one of his ski poles. His father told a reporter the youth had experienced a restless night, but that the injuries were not so severe as it was at first believed.

Following the accident, Bowen accompanied by his younger brother Jack staggered in a state of near collapse to the residence of Leonard Orde, caretaker at the park.

"I noticed the boy coming towards the house. He was staggering along and looked deathly white and weak," Mr. Orde related. "I brought him into the house and offered him some aromatic spirits of salts to stimulate him a little. He smelt at the bottle and seemed to revive momentarily."

Mr. Orde said that when he realized the serious nature of the accident that had befallen the youth he called Fontaine's taxi and had him removed to his home on Pearl avenue. There Dr. O'Brien was called and the injured skiier was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital.

It is believe that Bowen was alone at the time the accident occurred although he and his younger brother were out skiing with a party of young people.

BABE RUTH HINTS HE'D START AGAIN

Would Give Next 25 Years To Ball He Admits At Scribes' Banquet

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—(AP)—It appeared today, in the wake of the New York baseball writers' annual frolic, that fresh impetus had been given to the idea, at least, of restoring Babe Ruth to a spot in major league baseball, after a lapse of nearly two years.

Whether the onlooking club owners develop any new thoughts on the subject remains to be seen. Their attitude is doubtful, but they can hardly have any doubts about the Babe's continued popularity, after observing the spontaneous tribute given the one-time home run king last night by a record gathering of 900 at the scribes' 14th annual dinner.

Ruth, celebrating his 42nd birthday with the aid of the writers, virtually stole the show. The Babe gave a 20-minute speech that indicated his longing to re-enter the baseball picture. Enjoying the spotlight and giving the gathering a characteristic touch of Ruthian oratory, the Babe summed up as follows:

"I gave the best yearsof my life, 22 of them, to the big leagues, but just when it seemed to me I was at the top, why I was dumped out.

"Baseball's my game. I don't know what I would do without golf now, but my life has always been devoted to baseball. I would be willing to give the next 25 years to the game, even if it killed me.

"I gave the best years of my life, done. I've got to admit baseball has been fair to me and that Colonel Ruppert, in particular, has always been my best friend. He must have been, because he made it possible for me to stay off the relief rolls."

Tributes to Ruth's achievements and place in the game's history came from Postmaster General Farley, former Mayor James J. Walker, Heywood Broun, columnist and others.

Central won their fourth straight game by rolling over King George 7-0 in the final School Hockey League game on Saturday morning at All Saints rink. The game was played in the midst of a blinding snow-storm which slowed the action up considerably. The winners sank two smart goals in the first period, went scoreless in the second and hammered home five more counters in the final twenty minutes. King George, although well beaten, kept fighting all the way and even with the game hopelessly lost were trying all the time. R. Clark, L. Clark, and Ascott each collected a pair of goals while Manbeck netted the other tally. In the course of the game the Central goal keeper was not called upon to make more than half a dozen stops.

Prince of Wales	3	2	1	0
Queen Alexandra	4	2	2	0
King Edward	4	1	2	1

King Edward notched their first win of the season by putting on a desperate rally to defeat Queen Alex 5-2 in a School Hockey League game on Saturday morning at All Saints rink. The latter team jumped into an early lead, as the result of two goals scored by Lewis but the southend lads kept trying and finally near the end of the second period they broke through the stout Queen Alex defence to take the lead for the first time during the game. They put the tilt on ice by adding two more markers in the final canto. Self was the spearhead of the King Edward attack. He banged home three tallies and was a constant threat all through the game. Cox and Jobe were the other successful marksmen for the winners. With a few minutes to go Lewis, who had been getting a rough ride all morning, and Woodgate, the goal keeper, both of Queen Alex left the ice and refused to continue. The team was forced to finish the game with a forward guarding the nets.

The teams:

King Edward: Goal, Shea; defence, Roberts and Henthorne; centre, Cox; wings, Jobe and Self; subs, Reader and Hodson.

St. Andrew's took a 28-13 win over St. Paul's at the "Y" on Saturday to gain a 15-point lead in the two-game Church Basketball League juvenile finals. The perennial juvenile champions appear to have their fourth straight title clinched. St. Paul's had a good share of play but lacked the finish of the Uniteds. Behind 14-5 at half-time, the Presbyterians did better in the last half till Sedgewick, their mainstay, left with four fouls. St. Andrew's ran up a big score in the closing minutes. Their scoring was distributed among the regulars with Cutting having nine points to lead. Weir and Johnston went best all around. Sedgewick shone for the losers, with W. Ferguson and Morrow losing a lot of offensive effectiveness by poor shooting. Ascott was effective going either way. The teams:

St. Paul's: Sedgewick, R. Ferguson, W. Ferguson, Ascott, Morrow, Dunford.

CURLING
By HERB MARTIN

Seven mixed rinks from Bobcaygeon came down Saturday night to play in the first round for the Harkness Trophy. The Peterborough curlers were up thirteen points and the games were all close and very interesting. At the conclusion the visitors were the guests of the Peterborough Curling club at the Elite Cafe. A return match will be played in Bobcaygeon in the near future.

There is still plenty of time to get up a rink and enter in the Canada Packers bonspiel on Tuesday—but remember the play commences sharp at 9 a.m. . . . There are lots of boys who want to play.

The successful skips on Saturday were N. Cruthers, A. Gates and W. Harvey.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

(C.J.P.)

BLOOD AND thunder is the order tonight at ye Brock St. puck-and-check parlor, there being three Senior City Hockey League tilts listed. Mayfairs meet Westclox at something after seven—with the loop leadership at stake; Millbrook plays Outboard Marines an hour later; and Bewdley winds it up with Lakefield toward the latter part of the evening. The schedule is getting well along and the teams are battling bitterly now to stick up in a playoff position. And anytime now the O.H.A. is liable to say: "All right, let's have a winner in that league to go into the 'B' playdowns." Consequently, the boys are really laying to it and dishing up keen contests. They should draw a pretty fair gate again tonight.

• • • • • •

FOUR C.G.E. Shop League hockey tussles were staged in the Brock Saturday afternoon with the winning teams continuing to win and the others getting left. Machine Shop 6-2'd Industrial Control; Office outscored Induction Motors, 8 to 2; Fractional Motors slipped Switchgear a 4-2 reverse; and Wire Dept. blanked Transportation by a 3-0 count. The boys dished up some smart hockey and nippy struggles to make the welkin ring and the fans holler through some four hours of action.

• • • • • •

BIFFER IS still biffing 'em. We mean Biffer Ranger, ex-local senior O.H.A. star winger now with Wichita. A clipping, containing a two-column picture of Ranger, reached us the other day telling of a crowd of 4,500 fans at St. Paul seeing "the first real hockey fight of the season." Yeah, it was between Biffer and Coach Emil Hansen of St. Paul. The item says: "It was evident that bad blood existed and on the next faceoff, Coach Hansen and Biff Ranger dropped their sticks and lit into each other. They tossed gloves in the first real fight of the season and policemen were summoned to pry the two apart. Both were given major penalties." It adds that the scrap was officially declared a draw with John Law the referee.

• • • • • •

ANOTHER OF those scrappy Fliers-Petes' puck tussles will be staged here tomorrow night, it being their fourth meeting of the season. Needless to say, fans can bank on a thrilling battle with the Fliers out to make it four in a row and the Petes fighting their heads off to get a win before their bitter series with the Airmen is all over. They simply must win and will give all they have. There are hard feelings in the two camps now and this should make it doubly interesting. The teams play dandy hockey.

• • • • • •

COACH BUCKLAND has his worries on how to line up the locals in this game. He'll have Clarke in goal with Weir, Magee and Williamson on defence. And seven forwards. But Calladine may not be able to play—his shoulder still bothering him. And Ellis has a touch of the 'flu and may not be on hand. One line will likely have McDougall, Creighton, Coughlin and Gardner; while the other will have Burton and Vitarelli on the wings with Calladine, Ellis or Schultz at centre. The Fliers will be at full strength and both the McNeeleys and Lowery had better step carefully going into the local defence — they'll receive a rousing reception, the Petes say. Don't bet too much coin on the contest—but don't pass it up. It'll be a peacherino.

KING EDWARD beat Queen Alex 5-2 while Central took a 7-0 nod over King George in School Hockey League contests played Saturday at All Saints' rink. The Queen Mary-Prince of Wales' fray was postponed but will likely be held through the week. Next Saturday ends this schedule and the top two teams will playoff at the Brock in home and home tussles. By the way, a couple of Queen Alex players, Lewis and Woodgate, got peeved at something or other Saturday in the third period and walked off, refusing to continue play. Little boys with big ideas, eh? The lads may have thought they were justified but there is no justification in sports for quitting unless because of injuries. There are older athletes here, too, who have never learned that lesson. But their teammates know it.

• • • • • •

WHILE LECTURING the youngsters, we might mention the fact that a couple of players in the Scouts Hockey League were suspended on Saturday for swearing and officials warn others to watch their language, too. There are some good games in this loop at the Sacred Heart rink, Saturday seeing Sacred Heart nose out a 4-1 verdict over St. Luke's; St. Peter's managing to gain a 10-8 nod over St. Andrew's; and St. James holding Immaculate Conception to a 3-all draw. Standing is in tonight, and the schedule will wind up in two more weeks, with first and second teams then meeting in playoffs. This is a new minor loop here and a good one.

• • • • • •

ST. PAUL'S won the Church Basketball League championship at the "Y" Saturday night, defeating St. John's by just one point on the round, 25-24. But St. John's won the second game and made it a lovely battle. Both squads deserve a hand for their fine work. St. Andrew's have a 15-point lead over St. Paul's in the juvenile finals, taking the first game by a 28-13 score. They should again put the clutch on the title when the two teams meet next Saturday night. Dope on the games is in elsewhere, and likewise the two Senior City Cage Circuit contests played on Saturday.

UP AND down Sports' Rialto: Pirates and Maroons had a 5-5 tie in a Southend Puck Loop intermediate game Sat'day . . . . And P.C.I. took a 7-3 win from Lakefield High on Lakefield ice that day . . . . Trinity Collitch got a 5-3 decision off St. Peter's in an exhibition puck tussle Sat'day in Port Hope . . . . Our Colts go to Belleville this Wednesday to wind up their O.H.A. schedule . . . . St. Peter's play All Saints and Canucks meet Monarchs in Junior City Hockey League games at the Brock on Wednesday . . . . Men's City Softball League will meet in a couple of weeks . . . . And a senior ball meeting may be held here this week . . . . Big league baseball keeps popping up in the sports pages more and more these days; it won't be long now.

Machine Shop Win Over Industrials

Machine Shop took a 6-2 C.G.E. Shop League victory over Industrial Control Saturday afternoon in the Brock St. rink before a fair-sized crowd of fans. The score was closer than it sounds, Machine Shop breaking away for some soft ones in the third when the Control crew ganged up. Play was fast and rugged all through with good hockey shown most of the distance. Weir notched both markers for the losers while Jamieson got three for the winners with Langton, Murduff and Rowbotham tallying the others. Magee and Jamieson looked outstanding for the Machinists while Weir and Hawkes were best for the other side, Haughton also going fair in goal. The teams:

Referee—Lou Lebarr.

Fractional Motors Beat Switchgears

Fractional Motors yanked out a 4-2 win against Switchgear at the Brock St. rink Saturday afternoon in a speedy C.G.E. Shop League puck contest. Play was at a hot clip most of the route with Switchgear ganging up hard in the third and making Clarke shine to hold them off. Field got the first marker for the winners and then Jobe ran in two in a row. Their final counter came from Coursey's stick. Leggitt notched the two tallies for Switchgear, he and Whatley looking outstanding for this squad. Jobe, Field and Coursey dished up smart combination for the winners and looked best, but both goalies also had to be good in this lively fray. The teams:

Fractional Motors: Goal, Clarke; defence, Bailey, Spencely; centre, Coursey; wings, Jobe, Field; alternates, English, Higgins.

Fliers And Petes Clash On Tuesday

Intermediate O.H.A. group standing to date:

Team	P.	W.	L.
Fliers	6	6	0
Petes	7	4	3
Belleville	6	2	4
Trenton	5	0	5

R.C.A.F. Fliers play the Petes a scheduled game here tomorrow (Tuesday) evening at 8.30 in the Brock St. rink. It will be the fourth meeting—the second here—of these two classy "A" teams this winter, and should be another fine battle. The Airmen have won three from the locals and hope to make it four in a row.

The Petes are desperate and will fight fiercely from start to finish in an effort to crack their jinx and knock off the Fliers here. It is uncertain yet if Bill Calladine—injured local centre—will be in the lineup, but the rest of the squad will be on deck anyway and fans can look for probably the scrappiest and closest contest of the year. Another big crowd is expected to see this classic fixture.

Induction Motors Lose To Office 8-2

In a wide-open C.G.E. Shop Hockey League game in the Brock St. rink Saturday afternoon, the Office outfit took an 8-2 victory from the Induction Motors. The teams turned on the heat in every inning and dished up smart passing plays and good shooting. Neither defence could hold the fast-stepping rival forwards with any consistency, Starr, Tranter and Williams worked neat combination plays for the winners from start to finish. Archibald, Campbell and Schultz were best for the Motors. The latter got both their goals while Starr got four with Williams and Tranter getting two apiece for the victors. Murphy and Pilling having an assist each. The teams:

P.C.I. PUCKSTERS WIN IN LAKEFIELD

Collegiate Team Cops 7-3 Verdict With Third Period Rally Of Neat Contest

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 8.—The Peterborough Collegiate Institute hockey team journeyed to Lakefield on Saturday afternoon and defeated the Lakefield High School 7 to 3 on their own ice.

The Peterborough squad were much heavier than the hometown team, and it looked at first as if they would walk all over the Lakefield lads. But the youngsters put up a hard battle, making the city chaps fight for every point, as the tied score at the end of each of the first two periods indicates. The score was 1-1 when the first bell rang and 3-all when the second gong sounded. The younger, lighter, Lakefield team showed their ability to "take it", and they certainly were the victims of a lot of hard checking while their own lack of weight made it impossible for them to bodycheck effectively. The Peterborough pucksters outskated the Lakefielders, too, and the Lakefield lads deserve credit for their spirit.

They more than held their end up until the last period, when the superior strength of the Petes proved too much for them, and the visitors tallied 4 goals while Lakefield failed to score.

Patterson, on the second forward line for P.C.I. scored four of the winning goals, Petterson is credited with one goal and one assist for P.C.I. while Morrow and R. Parnall each made a single and Dorris was responsible for one assist.

Tanner, Bullock and C. Birch did the scoring for Lakefield with Tanner making his goal on an assist from Lloyst. The lineu-s:

Lakefield High School—Goal, J. Morrison; defence, Stabler, Quigley; centre, F. Lloyst; wings, Hurl, Tanner; alternates, M. Bullock, C. Birch, J. Birch, K. Morris and C. Johnston.

Pirates And Maroons In Southend Loop Tie

In a classy Southend Intermediate Hockey League game Saturday at the Sacred Heart rink, Pirates and Maroons battled it out to a 5-5 tie. On good ice, the teams put up a keen contest with neat hockey shown and the squads fighting on practically even terms all the way. Menzies, Whatman and Tranter got one goal each for Pirates with Fleming tallying two. For Maroons, Kearney scored twice while Mowry, Maudsley and Inkpen got one apiece. The teams:

KING OF WINTER SPORTS
Skiing
By Charles Schaer
Sponsored By Peterborough Ski Club

37 — LUNGING OR TELEMARK POSITION. PART 1.

Due to the necessity for holding the skis absolutely together the lunging or telemark position requires a greater degree of lateral balance than the other running positions where the skis may be somewhat separated when necessary.

From the narrow-tracked running position Lunging Position advance one ski thrusting the knee forward well over the toe. The thigh of the rear leg is held approximately perpendicular to the ski, the knee bent and the heel raised. The body is normally erect from the waist up. The amount of lead given the forward ski will depend on the physical proportions of the skier in that it should be just sufficient to permit the perpendicular position of the rear thigh. Don't take too low a crouch, or too long a stride, about half a ski length is usually correct, and keep the skis close together. The arms are held slightly forward with the sticks trailing above the snow.

Balance in the direction of motion is maintained by swinging the body forwards and backwards from the hips. This position is not used where lateral stability is difficult to maintain on account of side-slipping or other causes.

Next: More on Lunging Position.

Bowmanville Cagers Defeat P.C.I. 39-21

P.C.I. senior boys suffered an interscholastic basketball reverse Friday night in Bowmanville when the home squad took a 39-21 decision in a fast but close-checking game. The winners led by Siemon, were out in front at halftime, 22 to 12. Davern, star Peterborough forward, had a tough break when he twisted his knee in the first few minutes of play and was out the rest of the contest. Despite this handicap, the team led by Gemmell and Galley with six points each, put up a fair battle. On the local defence, Turner went well but had to leave with four fouls. Dougherty turned in a good performance in his first senior game. Siemon, pivot man for Bowmanville's attack, scored 16 points. Accurate passing and sure shooting accounted for the Bowmanville win. The teams:

BASKETBALL TITLE WON BY ST. PAUL'S

Cop Church Bantam Championship Over St. John's By Margin of One Point At "Y"

St. Paul's won the Church Basketball League bantam championship Saturday night at the Y.M.C.A. by a 25-24 score on the round, though St. John's took an 11-10 win in the second of the two-game series—it being St. Paul's first loss in nine starts this season. First game ended 15-13 for the new champs. It was a hard-fought series with St. Paul's overcoming many difficulties to cop the shield. They lost out on three players they had planned on and had to go through with but five, while limited time for practice was also a handicap, but Coach H. Marsh had them using a short passing game with a lot of finish to win out.

Poor Shooting.

St. John's, with almost a new team from their winners of last year, proved a hard-checking crew, but had tough luck in shooting. They did most of the forcing in the final game and, near the end, St. Paul's had to stall to hold their lead. Coach V. Coleman and his team made it a great fight and came closer to winning without doing so than any other squad in the league's history.

St. Paul's had a 4-3 lead at halftime, and the Anglicans made five of their 10 points on free throws. Land was their big scorer. The Presbyterians were well-balanced with no particular stars. The three forwards shared in the scoring. Moore and Thompson shone for St. John's, the former for his pass intercepting and the latter for the way he checked the elusive Fraser. The teams:

St. Paul's: Hall, Ferguson, Taylor, Fraser, McBride.

St. John's: Thompson, Moore, Castle, Crowter, Land, Sage.

Wiremen Win 3 to 0 In C.G.E. Shop Tilt

Wire Dept. blanked Transportation 3 to 0, in their C.G.E. Shop Hockey League contest in the Brock St. rink Saturday afternoon, it being the final of four loop games run off that day. There was little difference in the teams but the winners had more punch in close to finish off their plays and presented a strong checking and defensive game to hold the other side safe. Aikers got their first marker with Heal then scoring two. Crowe, Heal and Williams were best for the Wiremen; while Kearney and Vitarelli shone for the losers. The Transportation team had no substitutes and found the going tough during the last half of the game. It was a fairly fast affair with some good passing and stickhandling displayed in spot. The teams:

LEAFS TROUNCE AMERKS 5 TO 0 ON HOME ICE

WINGS LACE BOSTON 8-0

Maroons Do Well Defeat Rangers 4-2 At Home, Tie Them 1-1 In New York

By A. E. Fulton
(Canadian Press Sports Writer.)

TORONTO, Feb. 8. — Art Ross scanned the hockey horizon to-day for a defenceman who can plug the wide hole on Boston Bruins' rear-guard left by the illness of Eddie Shore. The Boston manager has about reached the conclusion he cannot hope for playoff success with his present set-up.

That was never more evident than last night when Bruins took the worst beating of the season—an 8-0 lacing at the hands of the world champion Detroit Red Wings. You could have driven a truck through the holes in the Boston defence and Wings swept through almost at will.

Ross can hope for no more aid from Shore this season. Lying in a Boston hospital last night, the great defenceman indicated he may be on skates in four or five weeks. But it is far from certain that he will ever play hockey again.

Shore has no intention of hanging around the National League as a second stringer. The man who once dominated Boston hockey will go out quickly if he has to go. And his present injury—a cracked vertebrae—and an old pelvic injury make it seem probable his career is ended.

Only Surpassed Once.

The Detroit scoring bombardment was their heaviest of the season. Only Chicago's 9-0 defeat of New York Americans on January 26 surpassed it. Their rampage highlighted a week-end program of five games. Three teams—Americans, New York Rangers, and Montreal Maroons—played two games.

Tommy Gorman's Montreal crew made the best use of the opportunity to gather points. They defeated Rangers 4-2 in Montreal on Saturday and then played them a 1-1 tie in New York last night. Americans lost both their games. Maple Leafs defeated them 5-0 in Toronto on Saturday, and Black Hawks beat them 5-1 in Chicago last night.

Johnny Sorrell stood out in the Detroit win. He not only beat Tiny Thomoson with a penalty shot, but batted two others past the Bruin goalie. Larry Aurie, the League's leading scorer, Wally Kilrea, Ebbie Goodfellow, Marty Barry, and Pete Kelly scored the others.

Northcott Opens Up.

Baldy Northcott had a great week-end in the games against Rangers. The Maroon scored two goals on Saturday night and drove the tying counter past Dave Kerr last night at New York.

Northcott's goals at Montreal formed two-thirds of a scoring outburst in the first period that eventually won Maroons the game. Working with Paul Runge and Jimmy Ward in a new front line combination, Northcott passed to Runge for the first goal of the game.

Then he scored his two, on both of which he was aided by Ward and Northcott. Herb Cain made it 4-0 in the third period before Rangers hit the score sheet, Neil Colville and Butch Keeling finally slapping the pucks past Bill Beveridge.

Northcott broke away from a Ranger power play to score his tying goal at New York. It came in the third period to even up a counter Phil Watson scored in the first period of the game, featured by the stellar netminding of Beveridge. Rangers outshot the Montrealers 38-17, but found Beveridge too big a stumbling block.

Toronto's high scoring line of Harvey Jackson, Syl Apps, and Gordon Drillon led the Leafs to their victory over Americans, scoring two goals and picking up six scoring points. The defeat hit American's play-off hopes, sending them eight points behind the third-place Leafs in the Canadian division. Leafs kept within four points of Maroons by their win.

Leafs took a two-goal lead in the first period through goals by Bob Davidson and Jackson. Apps, Jimmy Fowler and Bud Jarvis rapped in three more in the second period to send 10,000 fans home satisfied.

In Chicago Americs started off well, Joe Lamb scoring on Neil Stewart's pass in the first period. But Mush March evened that up in the same period and gave Hawks a goal lead in the second. Pep Kelly, Paul Thompson, and Earl Siebert picked up a trio of goals in the third to make the Hawk victory more decisive.

Finette, Dompierre's Lead Dog Survives Stolen Meat And All Night Exercise

LACONIA, N.H., Feb. 8.—(AP)—All was forgiven today between Narcisse Dompierre, veteran Quebec musher, and his lead dog Finette.

Dompierre, on relief in Quebec, saw the end of his costly effort to win the derby's $300 first prize. No overfed dog could lead a team to victory.

But trainers took desperate measures. They walked Finette all night. That might help. It might also have a reverse effect, tire out Finette so she would be useless. But they took the chance.

Yesterday, gloating over her theft, Finette led her team over the 30 miles of New Hampshire hills in the derby's third and final leg in the winning time of two hours and 39 minutes with Dompierre's 21-year-old brother-in-law, Philias Daigle driving.

To Dompierre, cheering lustily at the finish, went the $300 and a leg on the silver and gold derby cup valued at $400. Ovide Carrier, also of Quebec, who finished last, won a leg last year.

The elapsed time of Dompierre's team for the three days' runs was seven hours, 23 minutes, 42 seconds—two minutes and eight seconds better than that of Harry Wheeler of St. Jovite, Que., who won the first day's race. Emil Martel, of Quebec, was third in elapsed time.

Remember When—

Aurel Joliat, hockey's mighty atom, played his 500th National League game with Canadiens at Montreal three years ago tonight. The 136-pound Ottawan, a master stickhandler and one of the smartest players in the game, made that season his best, finishing eighth in scoring lists. He may make this, his 15th year with Canadiens, even better.

BARRY, BUN COOK TWO MAIN JINXES FOR NORMIE SMITH

LISTS TEN BAD MEN

DETROIT, Feb. 8 (CP) — Two players who have never scored against Normie Smith, Detroit Red Wing goaltender, are the ones who bother him most in National Hockey League play.

One is Marty Barry, crack centre on Normie's own team—the other is Bun Cook, left winger of the Boston Bruins whom Detroit trounced 8-0 last night.

"I don't know why, but Bun always has me worried," Normie said. "His shots from the boards get me jumpy. So far I've always stopped him but even if he should never make a goal against me, he'll be down in my books as the one who worries me most."

Barry drives Normie almost "Daffy" in practice.

"I'm glad he's on my team," Normie said. "In practice I always try to stop him putting the puck past me. I might as well be out there with a paper sack. He always outsmarts me."

Smith revealed the two as his prize bothers while listing 10 big league players who cause him the most trouble.

"Pete Palangio of Chicago gets me down," the Detroit custodian admitted. "I put him down 10th on the list. Since that time he's made nine points and five of them have been against me. He's just a jinx."

Schriner, Dillon Top Bad Men

Who's first on the list? "Marty Barry, of course," says Normie. "Then Sweeney Shriner of New York Americans and Cecil Dillon of Gotham's Rangers. For men against whom I play I rate Schriner and Dillon in a tie for first place. They really are tough to stop."

Dit Clapper of Boston is fourth; Babe Siebert, Montreal Canadiens, fifth; Harvey Jackson, Toronto, sixth; Bill Thoms, Toronto, seventh, and Art Chapman, Americans, eighth.

"If Charlie Conacher of Toronto was playing this year I'd make him rover on those teams of best shots," Normie said. "When Charlie isn't hurt, I place him right up there with Schriner and Dillon."

But Normie hasn't a word to say on the subject of what players he rates the easiest to stop.

"Just as sure as I mentioned somebody as an easy mark, he'd make three goals against me the next night," Normie phophesied.

TWO PEDENS WIN IN BUFFALO GRIND

Break First Place Tie By Great Spurt In Final Ten Minutes

By a tremendous burst of speed in the final 10 minutes of riding last night, the Victoria, B.C.C., combination rode out of a first place tie with Tino Reboli, of Newark, N.J., and Charlie Yaccino, of Chicago, to win the grind by a single lap.

In addition to finishing ahead on mileage, the Pedens piled up a point total of 1,453 against the Italian-Americans' 908.

The Pedens covered 2,191 miles and 10 laps.

Breaks Gave Him His Big "Break"

Here is Jimmy Orlando, an Italian lad from Montreal, who won a place on the Detroit Redwing defence and a chance in major league hockey through a succession of "breaks" that added to the Wings' already heavy hospital list. It was this way: Captain Doug Young fractured his leg and Orville Roulston was called up from Pittsburg to take his place in front of Norm. Smith. Then Rouston also broke a leg, and Orlando was given the defence assignment. He turned pro. last year with Rochester of the International league.

Harvard Takes Indians 14-4 For Fourth Straight League Victory

TORONTO, Feb. 8.—(CP).— Red raiders from the University under Montreal's Mount Royal McGill punksters drew out into a commanding four-point lead in the International-Intercollegiate Hockey League to-day, with University of Toronto's bid to upset McGill's college hockey supremacy all but washed away.

Toronto, after dropping a 6-3 decision to McGill at Toronto Saturday, still has a chance for the Canadian College title, one of the three championships geing decided in the "Double Int" League. But they have to beat the leaders on their home ice next Friday and few conceded them enough power to do that.

Meanwhile Harvard's defy to the Montreal hockeymen was echoed louder than ever after the crimson swamped the winless Dartmouth Indians 14-4—their fourth straight league success and their 16th consecutive win over all opposition in two seasons. The Harvard-McGill game late this month should decide the International crown.

McGill's first-string line of Paul Pidcock, Alex Duff and Russ McConnell showed speed and passing brilliance Toronto could not equal.

N.H.L. All-Stars

(By The Canadian Press)

Johnny Sorrell, Detroit, who led Wings' offensive with three goals in a 8-0 victory over Boston.

Harvey Jackson, Gord Drillon and Syl Apps, Toronto's high-powered first line, which picked up two points each as Leafs whipped Americans, 5-0.

Bill Beveridge, Maroons, who tended goal sensationally to bring Maroons a Sunday night 1-1 tie against New York Rangers.

Baldy Northcott, Maroons, whose two goals formed the victory margin, 4-2, over Rangers Saturday night.

Mush March, Chicago, who fired two goals as Hawks continued pursuit of Boston with a 5-1 victory over Americans.

CANADIANS LOSE SQUASH LAURELS

Sullivan Of Philadelphia Wins From Polley Who Defeats Canadian, W. M. Vickers

HAMILTON, Ont., Feb. 8 (CP)—A new men's singles champion ruled Canadian squash racquets courts today but the championship was still out of Canada. Neil J. Sullivan of Philadelphia trounced defending titleholder, C. H. Polley, Buffalo, in a four-set final match after Canadian chances collapsed when W. M. Vickers, Toronto, lost to Polley in a semi-final match.

Polley started off strong and took the initial set 15-10 but the speedy Philadelphian outplayed the defender and took the next three sets 15-8, 18-13, 15-9. Sullivan forced the play at all stages after the opening set, turning many seemingly impossible gets into aces.

In the consolation event J. W. Johnson took a five-set victory over M. Goldenberg, Toronto, to complete the all-American triumphs. After taking the first set 15-8, Johnson dropped the next 10-15. He won the third 17-14 but the Toronto player tied the count by winning the fourth set 12-15 only to lose the final 15-12 and the match.

Howie Morenz Confined To Bed With Broken Leg

Howie Morenz, standout centre of the Montreal Canadiens' hockey team, rests as comfortably as a broken leg will permit in his hospital bed at Montreal. He was checked into the boards during a hockey game between the Canadiens and the Chicago Black Hawks at Montreal. His skate imbedded itself in the wood, and twisting his leg he crashed to the ice, the fall snapped the fibula just above the ankle. A bad break, said his doctor. Howie will be off the ice for the rest of the season.

REDS PLAY PUSIE GRAB THREE POINTS OVER WEEK-END

Tie Springfield 2-2 Saturday And Trim Hornets 3-2 Sunday

STARS 5, RAMBLERS 1

TORONTO, Feb. 8—(C.P.). — Jean Pusie, the big Frenchmen who returned to hockey because he likes to "score goals," thinks Providence Reds will make it tough for the rest of the International-American League clubs from now on. The wrestler-boxer-hockey player figures there will be no stopping the Rhode Islanders now he's back.

Peeved because the club would not pay a $100 fine tagged on him for throwing his stick and taking a punch at a referee some time ago, Jean quit Providence ranks. Now he has decided to kiss and make up with the team heads—after all, playing hockey is not a bad way to make a living.

Monsieur Pusie was in both fixtures Reds contested at the week-end, playing at his defence post. He failed to score any goals but showed some of his old-time dash as the club chalked up three of four possible points. Reds tied Springfield 2-2 Saturday, and edged out Pittsburgh Hornets 3-2 Sunday.

With Pusie back and Bobby Bauer again available for forward duty, Reds had a full roster and played much better hockey than in recent games. The three points gained moved the team within a game and a half of Springfield Indians, second-place club in the eastern division.

Stars Go to Town

The charm Philadelphia Ramblers have carried of late was finally broken Sunday when Syracuse Stars pasted Herb Gardiner's men, 5-1. It was the first setback in 18 games for the east group leaders who had been tied thrice and won 15 starts since their last licking. The third tie came Saturday as Hornets held Ramblers to a 1-1 stalemate.

Cleveland Falcons were unable to shake their tie-game Nemesis and broke even 2-2 with New Haven Eagles Saturday night. Both tail-end clubs of the eastern and western division respectively, the teams both fought desperately for victory, but no goals were scored in the overtime session.

Eagles kept right on going Sunday night in their game effort to reach the playdowns. When Irvin Frew drew a match penalty for slashing New Haven's Yank Boyd over the head with his stick, Eagles saw red and went right to work. Paced by Obe Heximer and the veteran Hal Cotton, they ran in five goals in the second period to win 5-2.

Harvey Jackson of Toronto and Detroit's Marty Barry closed the gap on Larry Aurie, the National League scoring leader, to one point during the week-end, picking up two points apiece while the Detroit's right winger was held to a single goal. NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—(AP).—Cincinnati Reds have a contract to train in Puerto Rico. Actually, they'll train in Tampa, Fla., but may have some trouble before they do....They were offered a flat cash guaranteed to train in Puerto Rico last year and accepted it....Larry Macphail, former general manager of the club, signed a contract to train down there again....Macphail's successor, Warren Giles, doesn't want to take the team there....So if the island interests post their guarantee in a New York bank on February 15, as they agreed to do the Reds may face trouble for breach of contract....The New York Giants have already received their guarantee from Havana....They made a contract with a Florida city several years ago and didn't get the money....Treasurer Leo Bundy said they didn't take any chance this time....The Havana guarantee is already in the Giants' 42nd street safe.

Ralph McGill down on the Atlanta constitution was talking to a gent who lines up athletes for one of the large universities and the gent says the high school lads are really getting tough....One demanded the scout guarantee he'd play in the Rose Bowl....Another wanted the school to pay his way, take his family along and get them on relief....And another asked for a scholarship for himself and one for his sister, too. Ripper Collins, Cubs' first baseman, says they had a raffle to help the flood sufferers the other night, and two of his shirts brought $11 each.

UNCROWNED CZAR

By Dewitt Mackenzie
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 8 (A.P.).— One of the outstanding world figures of the day, and paradoxically, one about whom the least is known, is Joseph Stalin, Communist chief of Soviet Russia.

His policies are no secret, although rarely do they come directly from his lips to the public. His works are visible. And his name often is written large in the news, as when men face death for plotting against him. But Stalin himself remains in the background—a powerful but mysterious personality, the sphinx of Moscow.

The name "Stalin" means "steel man." It was bestowed by the late Nikolai Lenin, father of the Soviet, on his disciple and right-hand lieutenant (christened Joseph Vissarionovich Dzugashvili) and was a commentary on its bearer's inflexibility of purpose.

Stalin, although virtually uncrowned czar of all the Russias, objects vigorously to the designation of "dictator" which foreigners apply to him. "Never, under no conditions, would our workers tolerate a one-man rule," the steel man once told Emil Ludwig, German historian. "The bleeest authorities among us become converted into zeros as soon as they lose the faith of the working masses."

Stalin is directing secretary-general of the executive committee of the Communist Party. As such he is head of government, but the office he holds is elective and he could be removed at any time.

There is a dictatorship in Russia, but Communists declare it is that of the Communist Party; that is, the people, for no other party is allowed to exist. Government policies are evolved from general party discussions. The executive committee imposes these policies in a dictatorial manner, but the policies persist only until the party decides on a change.

Stalin's influence in this system is so great that it is tantamount to dictatorial power. His admirers say, however, that his influence comes from the fact that he is head and shoulders above all others in his party in intelligence and far-sighted statesmanship.

Personality Dominates.

He is like a great medical specialist whose advice the patient accepts and follows. But a specialist who made several bad mistakes would lose his standing, and so might Stalin.

Stalin's personality dominates every conference he attends. He holds his head erect with an air of supreme confidence. His mouth bespeaks kindly traits, but if you glance a bit higher you encounter a pair of hard eyes which look straight through you. His remarks are brief and as straight as the glance of those steely eyes. He never raises his voice—never indulges in strong language.

Stalin is said to be able to get at the meat of a situation quicker than any of his colleagues. When he presides at a committee meeting he frequently gives the impression—they say he does it with shrewd purpose—that he is just a listener. Quietly he injects a pertinent word here or a question there, and the sum total of his interjections is a subtle guidance which impels his colleagues towards the decision he wants. The committee makes the decision, and is pleased with itself, but the man behind the gun is Stalin the Silent.

He never hems and haws or corrects himself. He knows what he wants to say and says it briefly.

When Stalin receives callers he rarely interrupts a speaker as long as the guest is talking commonsense. Russia's Big Boss is impatient of drivel, however, and, being a blunt man, does not hesitate to call the turn when he finds his time being consumed needlessly. This does not mean that Stalin is unwilling to have his views challenged. He will debate a point at length, but only as long as his opponent shows knowledge of the subject. Let the questioner betray ignorance and Stalin's hard eyes will flash a signal of the caustic retort to come.

Stalin's private office is said to be the best-organized and run the most smoothly of any in the Kremlin. He has only one secretary working with him at a time. Actually he has three private secretaries, but they work in shifts of six hours each. It is not unusual for him to spend 18 hours at his desk.

Virtually everything important passes through Stalin's hands. He wants to know what is going forward. No one writes letters or statements for him to sign: the chief does all his own dictation. He himself never rushes about or waves his arms, nor does he permit anyone else to indulge in displays of temperament. He is methodical and deliberate both in speech and in action.

If he decides any individual's activities are menacing party policies, Stalin first tries to win the rebel over, but if this is impossible, well, suicide would be an easy way out of the difficulty. Stalin asks no quarter, gives none.

The Day That I Forget
By MARIE BLIZARD

READ THIS FIRST:

Janet MacLeod has just married Joel Paynter second-rate actor, whom she met a few weeks previously at a cocktail party. Because Joel asked Janet to stop work, she has had to economize. Martha Colby, her best friend, visits Janet in their one-room apartment. Joel tells Janet his show is closing. Janet decides to go back to work but abandons the idea when Joel, because of pride, rebukes her for considering it. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 5

The telephone rang distantly two flights below and Janet waited as she always waited with her ear attuned for the few anxious moments until Mrs. Birney's voice cried out to whichever one of them the call was for.

It came now: "Miss—us Paynter! It's a call for your husband!"

Janet untied her apron quickly, threw it on a chair and hurried downstairs.

"Hello," she said, picking up the receiver, "this is Mrs. Paynter. May I take a message? Mr. Paynter is not at home."

Waiting for the voice to answer her, she thought: I hope it's not another of his friends asking us to a cocktail party or something like that. It was so necessary for it to be "a call." She thought of the importance the telephone had taken on in their lives.

There was an unusual hesitation before the voice answered her. "Mrs. Paynter?"

The emphasis made Janet feel that this was someone who had known Joel before he was married and didn't know that he had a bride.

"Yes," she said and repeated, "may I give him a message?"

"Well....er....tell him Claude Higgins telephoned and I've fixed up everything."

Janet's curiosity got the better of her. "Will he know what it's all about, Mr. Higgins?"

"Sure, sure, he'll know. Tell him to meet me at Broadway and Forty-fifth, the southeast corner, at 4 o'clock tomorrow."

"Would you like him to telephone you?"

"No. Just tell him to be there."

"All right, I'll tell him."

Claude Higgins. Janet had never heard Joel mention him. His manners weren't very good Janet thought, but perhaps it might mean that he knew of something for Joel.

She told him about it as soon as he came in. For a few minutes mingled emotions struggled in his expressive face. He looked relieved rather than exultant when he swung her off her feet in the waltz that was the barometer of his good spirits. "I' means a job Jan. You were right. Something did turn up. Higgins is..er..he's sort of an agent."

"Oh, my sweet, that's wonderful! Here, let me get your pipe while you tell me about it. What kind of a job is it?"

She tamped down the tobacco in his pipe the way he had taught her to do.

Joel had gone into the bathroom and in a few minutes she heard the shower. "It's not much of a job," he shouted "but it will pay the butcher, the baker and Mrs. Birney."

"You're a brute," she called back. "Hurry up and come out and tell what will be left of me, what it is all about."

Joel came back a few minutes later with a towel wrapped around the middle of him and said, "It's nothing to boast about. It's er...it's temporary work in a movie until I can get something on Broadway."

"Movie!" Janet was as excited as a child. "But that will be a grand opportunity for you. I know some director will see..."

"Not much chance in this one," he said avoiding her eyes. "You see, it's what they call a quickie company, you'll never hear of it or what they make."

"What company is it, Joel?"

"Oh, for the love of Pete, I told you it was of no importance," he bit his words off impatiently. Janet felt as though he had slapped her.

"I'm sorry," she said gently. "I only asked because I was interested."

"Well, it's nothing to be interested in anyway." Janet had never heard Joel's voice when it was surly. "Will you start right to work? I mean tomorrow?"

"Huh?...oh, yes."

"Are my white flannels clean? I'll have to wear them and my blue coat."

She put down her paper. "How do you know what you'll have to wear, darling?"

"Is there anything else you'd like to know?" he inquired coldly.

"No, Joel, not a thing," she answered slowly.

But there were many things she wanted to ask him during the next four weeks.

She wanted to ask him why he wouldn't talk to her about his new job? She wanted to know why, the few times she had asked tentative questions, he had grown sulky and silent. She had been afraid then, afraid that the silence between them would make a rift that they could not bridge. But she kept silent.

She wanted to know what kind of a moving picture he was making since he wore the same clothes every day—either his white flannels with a blue coat, or on alternate days, his fresh white linens—and what kind of a picture company was it that required his services at such odd hours. Joel left the apartment every afternoon at half past 3, and didn't return until 8.30. He was punctual in his departures and arrivals.

But now they had money. Some weeks it was $30. Others weeks it was $50 and over. Not much compared to what they had had but it was a lot when you had pinched pennies trying to feed two people on 50 cents a day.

And now they had good times again. They went for little boat trips. On Sundays they were up by 8 and, while Joel dressed, Janet packed a lunch of sandwiches and fruit and they were off to the beach before the crowds had begun to pack the trains. On hot evenings, when Joel looked so physically tired, Janet took him off to the green shadows of the park or lured him onto the top of a bus for a ride up Riverside drive. If Janet was mystified by the unanswered questions in her mind, she was not unhappy. Joel was more like his old self, proudly bringing a new bathing suit home to her, a little bottle of her favorite perfume, a huge box of flowers that wilted over night. There was nothing to disturb her quiet happiness until—

One night she said to Joel, "Darling, a lady who wouldn't leave her name called you today. She started to say, 'Ask him to telephone Mrs.' and then she interrupted herself and asked who I was. I told her I was your wife and she said, 'never mind,' and hung up."

"She probably had the wrong number."

Janet let it pass. They had had their own telephone installed.

That had been the first call. There were three after that. Each time it was a woman's voice. The last time Janet said, "This is Mr. Paynter's apartment." She didn't say she was Mrs. Paynter.

"Tell Mr. Paynter that Mrs. Berwind telephoned. He'll know my name," the voice said.

Joel had a flush on his high cheekbones when Janet told him about it but he volunteered no explanation and Janet controlled her features so that no expression of what she was feeling showed on her face.

Joel is attractive and I am not, she thought reasonably. I've got to learn to expect that women will run after him. He loves only me. She buoyed herself up with that knowledge.

Nevertheless, when a few days later she found herself face to face with Harry Devanter, an old beau, and Harry took her firmly by the arm, saying, "Janet, you're a sight for sore eyes. Come and have a cocktail with me" she accepted, feeling the need of being important if only for a little while.

"If you still dance as beautifully as you used to we're going to the Jungle Bar and have a whirl."

"On to the Jungle Bar, whatever that is, and let what will, happen," she said gaily.

"The Jungle Bar, since you don't seem to know, is the place that boasts the most attractive gigolos in New York but mind you, you're not fat and 40 and I'm beaming you." He gave directions to the taxi driver.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S SKIS

Outside Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow one day sounded a loud binging banging noise, a clattering a clittering and cluttering.

"My goodness! Whatever is that?" cried Nurse Jane.

Before Uncle Wiggily could answer her, and he had to wait until he had swallowed his last mouthful of carrot breakfast cakes with cabbage syrup, a voice shouted:

"Where is he? Where's Wiggily? I want him."

"Oh, no! No! cried Mrs. Longears, putting her furry paws around her pink nose-twinkling husband. "You shan't have my Wiggy, you Bad Chaps!"

"Say, wait a minute, my dear!" said Uncle Wiggily, laughing a little and coughing. For some of the pancake had gone down the wrong way." Then, when he had his breath, the rabbit gentleman said to his wife: "You are smearing cabbage syrup all over yourself."

Almost Screamed

"I don't care, Wiggy!" sobbed Mrs. Longears. "The Bad Chaps aren't going to get you—calling for you to come out so early in the morning. Oh, I'm going to scream!" she said as she opened her mouth very wide.

"Don't!" begged her husband. "Those aren't bad chaps. That was the voice of Mr. Twistytail, my fat gentleman pig friend."

"Yes, it's Mr. Twistytail," said Nurse Jane, looking from a side window.

"But what was the other noise?" asked Mr. Longears.

"I think it was the skees," said the rabbit gentleman, pronouncing the word that way though it is spelled with an "i" letter.

"Oh, Skees—you mean the Bad Old Skeevicks!" said Mrs. Longears.

"No, no," my dear," said Uncle Wiggily patiently, as he wiped some pancake syrup off his pink nose. "The Skeevicks hasn't bothered me in a long time, neither has the Pipsqueeks. They may come around again, though. But perhaps if I said shees instead of skees, you would understand."

For a moment Nurse Jane looked at Mrs. Longears and the rabbit lady looked at the muskrat housekeeper. Then Mrs. Longears coldly asked:

"Which particular she lady are you going out with this morning."

"Oh, neither one. Don't be silly, my love," begged the bunny uncle. "That noise you heard was Mr. Twistytail coming to get me to go sheeing or skeeing, whichever way you like to pronounce it."

At Last!

"Oh, I see what he means!" laughed Nurse Jane. "Mr. Longears and Mr. Twistytail are going to put those long, thin wooden snow shoes on their paws and go sliding over the snow. Isn't that it?" she asked.

"Quite correct," said Mr. Longears. "Twisty has brought my skis. I asked him to buy me a pair. And now having had my breakfast I'll go skiing with Twisty."

Oh, excuse me for not understanding at first," said the rabbit lady wife. She and Nurse Jane watched the pig and rabbit strap on the skis and then start pushing themselves over the snow with long poles that had some things like wheels from a doll carriage fastened on the ends. Away skied the two friends.

"This is fun, Twisty!" laughed Uncle Wiggily.

"I'm glad you like it!" grunted the pig. "Now watch me go fast!"

Mr. Twistytail turned to see if his rabbit friend was watching, but Mr. Longears wasn't in sight. He had completed disappeared.

"Oh! My goodness! What has happened to Wiggy?" grunted the pig.

And if the chair which has four legs will give one to the rag doll who has only one. I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's long slide.

LIFFORD LINE

NEW CLUB HEARS INTERESTING TALK

Karl Monk Addresses Newly-Formed Home And School Organization

LIFFORD LINE Feb. 8. — On Thursday afternoon last the Lifford Home and School Club met at the school with an attendance of twenty-one adults and several children.

The meeting was in charge of the president, Miss E. Stephenson, teacher of Lifford school, who was ably assisted by a programme committee of five young people. The meeting was opened by the singing of "O Canada" and the repetition of 'The Lord's Prayer.' The minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted.

The school pupils rendered a pleasing chorus unaccompanied which they had been taught by their music instructress, Mrs. L. Switzer, of Toronto, who makes a weekly visit of one hour's duration at the school.

Maisie Lang, a junior school pupil, also sang a delightful solo, "My Kitty," accompanied on the organ by Miss Stephenson.

Miss Vera Strachan contributed an amusing reading with a fine moral from Seth Parker's collection. Miss Marjorie Page read the 'Home and School Club' creed. George Tims, convenor of the programme committee gave an instructive and entertaining sketch of interesting features in the life of the poet Robert Burns. "That Silver Haired Daddy of Mine" was a beautifully rendered solo chosen by Miss Marjorie Page.

The guest speaker for the afternoon was to have been Mrs. F. Bowen, of Newcastle, who found it impossible to come. In her absence Karl Monk of Bethany, local telephone operator, who is much interested in travel, very kindly consented to come with very short notice and address the club. In introductory remarks the speaker recalled his own student days and stressed the encouragement received by pupils from the visits of parents and friends at the school. Expressing his particular liking for the subject of geography, he outlined an educational trip to Windsor, Detroit, Michigan, Kingsville, etc., which he enjoyed this summer, using a large map of Ontario and several illustrations in the form of snap shots and views of various types.

An appreciative vote of thanks was extended to the guest speaker by Messrs. C. and L. Staples.

It was arranged to hold the next monthly meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Staples when a pot luck dinner will be served by the club and an interesting programme provided, including a guest speaker to be chosen by the programme committee.

The meeting was then turned over to the Social committee, who served a dainty luncheon of sandwiches and cake and a social time was enjoyed by all.

The majority of those present paid membership fees to the treasurer, Mr. George Tims and became definitely connected with this newly-formed organization.

Man-Powered 'Plane Is Successfully Flown

After many years of experiments, which extended back to the first desire to fly, man made his first successful air flight using his own motive power alone when an Italian army officer flew a new invention at Milan, Italy. The aeroplane weighs 200 pounds, and may be built at a cost of $500. In the UPPER LEFT is a photograph of Bossi, the inventor, while at RIGHT is shown the mechanism which powers the machine. WESTWOOD, Feb. 8.—The February meeting of St. Andrew's Women's Missionary Society was held Wednesday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. David Brackenridge, with a fair attendance, and the president, Mrs. E. W. Sargent in the chair.

A most interesting and instructive program was held, the theme throughout being, "Jesus, the Pioneer of Life." Portions of scriptures from the gospels were read by the president, and prayer was offered by Miss Jessie Davidson. A reading, bearing on the subject was given by Miss Mary Cameron and Mrs. Clayton Brackenridge gave a reading, "Cancelled Prayer."

A.Y.P.A. Meets

A pleasant evening was spent on Wednesday, February 3, when the members of the A.Y.P.A. of St. Michael's Anglican Church sponsored a social evening in the Town Hall.

An intellectual talk by Rev. Mr. Lemon, while displaying a number of lantern slides was most interesting. The views, many of them in color, pictured beauty spots of the Kawartha Lakes, St. Lawrence River and the Trent Canal. An excellent account of early days spent in Northern Ontario while stationed at Sioux, accompanied the views of that part of our province.

Dainty refreshments were served by members of the A.Y.P.A. during the social hour. The president, Miss Helen Bray, extended words of welcome to the visitors, to which Mr. S. Warr, president of the Y.P.S. of St. Andrew's United Church, responded.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 8.—Kenneth Morland, Premier of the Ontario Older Boys' Parliament, addressed the congregation of St. John's United Church here last night. Speaking of the Trail Rangers and Tuxis groups, the speaker drew attention to the fact that the Boys' Parliament constituted the only undenominational fellowship that these boys had.

The Boys' Parliament, which first met in Toronto in 1917, was now found in every province in the Dominion with the exception of Quebec, and influences to a great extent the policies of the Ontario Boys' Work Board as well as the opinion of youth throughout the province.

There was no age group which requires leaders so much as did these boys in the 12-16 group who, the speaker stated were in the critical transition stage, and too often found parents and clergy too busy to give time to the boys special needs. "We need the help and guidance of the older and more experienced generation," said the speaker.

Jack Carr, local member to the Boys' Parliament, introduced the speaker, who spoke to the congregation through the courtesy of the Rev. Harold B. Neale, pastor of St. John's United Church.

Guelph Prisoner Reveals At Probe—Got All Cushy Jobs

GUARDS OFTEN OVER-ROUGH

Protests Carelessness With Food—Not Allowed To Wash Morning Till Night

GUELPH, Ont., Feb. 9.—(CP).—Complaints about food, cleanliness of the kitchen staff, lack of facilities for keeping themselves clean and imposition of uncalled-for penalities by guards were heard as the inquiry into the riot of January 17 at the Guelph reformatory resumed to-day.

Judge James E. Madden is presiding. He again banned use of names of the prisoners who testify.

Prisoner "D," an Ottawa youth 19 years old, complained of poorly washed dishes, and on the regulation preventing the prisoners from washing from early morning, before breakfast, until after supper at night.

"Some of the guards around here are too bossy," he said. "For nothing at all, they hand it to you. When they brought me back here from the county jail after the break, one guard grabbed me and shoved, saying, 'Get over there.' I told him I would but to keep his hands off me." He went on to tell of other instances were guards showed their authority "unnecessarily," particularly where youngsters 16 years old were expected to handle a pick and shovel all day. Prisoner "D" testified he had found cockroaches, string and the odd fly in the reformatory bread, and little bugs or worms in cake served.

Afraid of Beating.

"When food is good we don't get enough," Prisoner D said.

"When several prisoners were seized by Sergt. A. Maguire at the dining-room demonstration on the day of the riot on January 17, the boys yelled to get them released because we thought the guards would beat them up," the young prisoner said.

"I have never seen them, but there's been a lot of talking," he replied.

"Was there any intention on the part of boys yelling in that corridor to cause a disturbance by inflaming the rest of the institution?" asked Gillanders.

"No," said Prisoner D. "We just wanted to stay there until we could see Mr. Neelands (Deputy Provincial Secretary) and tell him our complaints. We had no intention of causing any damage."

"If the guards had kept you there and arranged to have your com-

SUBURBAN ROAD BODIES DOOMED?

Hepburn Hints Provinces May Take Over Job—Ease Cities' Burdens

TORONTO, Feb. 9.—(CP)—Premier Mitchell Hepburn said yesterday he "looked for some adjustments of costs as far as suburban area roads are concerned."

A Toronto deputation last week sought relief from the province's share of costs of suburban area roads. Hon. Harry Nixon, then acting premier, said he favored relief. Mr. Hepburn went on the record yesterday as favoring easing of the cities' burdens too.

"We'll do as much as our finances permit," said the premier.

It was learned the government will consider legislation that session to abolish suburban area road commissions and put the roads now controlled by them under the jurisdiction of the department of highways.

These commissions are established in cities where the cities share the cost of suburban roads with the counties in which they are situated. Costs are divided 25 to the city, 25 to the county and 50 to the province.

Premier Hepburn was in his office today for the first time in three weeks. He looked considerably better than three weeks ago when he left for Arizona to fight off an attack of bronchitis. In three weeks he has lost 16 pounds.

Mr. Hepburn announced the writ for the Wellington North by-election, made necessary by the death of Dr. George McQuibban, would not be issued until after the present session of the legislature.

Tenants in second floor apartments were forced out by smoke.

Plight Of Capital's Defenders Becomes Desperate As Ring Tightens

800 DIE IN ONE CLASH

Cleanup Of Malaga Sector Releases Thousands Of Rebel Troops For Madrid Sector

WITH THE INSURGENT FORCES OUTSIDE MADRID, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Spanish insurgents captured the vital highway to the coast to-day, cutting off Madrid's defenders from both their government and source of supplies at Valencia.

The Fascists occupied the strategic line of communication, about 10 miles south-east of the city, after a three-day battle waged in intermittent rain and snow.

Insurgent commanders reported they counted 800 bodies left by the Socialists on the Ciempozuelos front on the southern edge of the sector.

The successful operation, while less spectacular than the capture of Malaga on the south coast, was considered of greater importance.

The severing of the communication line was confidently expected by the Fascist commanders to make the plight of Madrid's defenders even more desperate by starvation.

See Madrid Doomed.

Unofficial observers said the two simultaneous victories would quite likely mean the fall of Madrid.

The extension of the line which now hems in Madrid on three sides was expected to facilitate the complete encirclement of the capital and the eventual success of a new offensive against the city.

"Conditions appear to be improving," he said, "and if this continues I promise you victory soon — even sooner than some optimists think."

Behind the lines, important insurgent centres such as Avila, were bright with flags under grey skies jubilant over the capture of Malaga. The cleanup of the Socialist pocket on the Mediterranean released thousands of troops who could be thrown into the siege of Madrid.

PLANE TRAPPING BEING FORBIDDEN TO ASSIST INDIANS

Crerar Hopes By Encouraging Fur Pursuit To Cut Relief Bill

$1,000,000 LAST YEAR

OTTAWA, Feb. 9—(C.P.).—Airplane trapping in Northern Canada has been forbidden, Hon. T. A. Crerar, Minister of Mines and Resources, told the House of Commons last night, as he gave an outline of plans his department had for betterment of conditions among Canada's 112,000 Indian population.

Relief costs among the Indians in the last fiscal year had cost nearly $1,000,000, and this was due in a measure to their abandonment of their old vocation for fur trapping. And the inroads of the white man had been accountable to some extent for this.

One white trapper had obtained a pilot's license and bought an airplane with which he was able to cover traps over an area of 125 miles. Discouraged Indians in that district had given up trying to compete with him, but this form of trapping had now been forbidden.

Vocational rather than academic training, restoration of the trapping industry and assistance in marketing their handicraft were some of the reforms under consideration, the minister said. Indian population was increasing at the rate of between 1,200 and 1,500 annually and was a growing problem.

Medical treatment and hospitalization cost $940,000 in the last fiscal year and education $1,900,000. These costs and relief expenditures would be greater during the present fiscal year, the minister anticipated.

Areas for Indians Alone

It was the hope that areas could be set aside exclusively for the exploitation of Indian trappers, adjacent to the Indian reserves, that Indian tanning and leather working, basketry and wood carving could be marketed more advantageously for them and that the Indian population could be placed on a more independent economic basis.

Mr. Crerar paid a high tribute to the work of churches in Indian care and education and their efforts to raise the standard of living among the aborigines. There were 79 residential schools and numerous day schools.

Medical and hospital costs were too high, the minister thought, although he was not reflecting upon the administration. He was not satisfied with this branch, however, and was hoping to improve it. Too many Indians were sent to hospital, in his opinion, when their illness was not serious enough to warrant it.

'She Wins By A Nose' Is True So Magazine Girls Discover

Counts 25 Per Cent Alone Says O'Neill Expert In Photo Model Business

(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 9—(A.P.).—The dazzle-eyed girl on the magazine cover didn't get there because of her eyes.

It's the nose—pert, aristocratic, classic or "teasy"—that counts most of any single feature in the struggle to reach the top among the highest-paid photo models.

Author O'Neill, New York photographer of magazine cover girls, voiced that dictum to-day in announcing the names of four "repeaters" on the 1937 "All America Beauty Model" team—selected from literally thousands of hopefuls steaming into New York annually from every section of the continent.

The quartet, as listed by O'Neill, follows:

Frances Donelon of New York City, No. 1 Photographic Model of 1937. "She's got everything," says O'Neill.

Barbara Backwith of Miami, Fla., daughter of a physician, typed as "sweet."

Girl Blind and Crippled Aims Become Linguist

Types, Knits And Writes Braille, Plays Autoharp And Bridge

VICTIM OF ARTHRITIS

TAVISTOCK, Ont., Feb. 9 (C.P.).—Blind, unable to walk and having normal use of only one finger on each hand, Miss Lucille Lemp can type, knit, read and write Braille and play an autoharp. She enjoys a game of bridge. Her ambition is to become a linguist. Nineteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Lemp of this Oxford County town, Lucille was stricken with arthritis when only two years old. Since then the disease has spread through her system, crippling her limbs and destroying her eyesight.

Now on her way toward High School graduation, the girl is studying German as well as the usual matriculation subjects. Her teacher, Carl Seiltz, has taught himself Braille to better meet the needs of his pupil.

"He writes all my examinations in Braille now," said Miss Lemp. "This is a big help, as I can just work away here and I don't have to get the others in to read off the questions."

Her typing is done on a special machine made by her father, whose hobbies are woodwork and fine machine work. The keys are covered with Braille characters. She has a special deck of playing cards stamped in a similar manner.

Seated on a chair mounted on castors, the girl propels herself about the house and entertains her visitors in easy fashion.

CALGARY STRIKE GANG SUMMONSED

Sixty Men Involved Refuse Conciliation Board Offer—Prefer To Deal Direct

CALGARY, Feb. 9—(CP)—Summonses were delivered and acceptance of a board of conciliation refused as 60 "sitdown" strikers at the Union Meat Packing Company passed their fifth night of occupation in the plant here.

The summonses, calling for appearance of the men in police court today, were issued after Harry Stubbs, plant superintendent, laid a complaint in magistrate's court yesterday. The charges are "besetting and watching."

In a vote at the plant last night, strikers refused to accept a board of conciliation appointed by Clayton Adams, chairman of the Alberta board of industrial relations. Adams said the strike committee had informed him they preferred to negotiate directly with President A. H. Mayland and other company officials.

Vic Thompson, secretary of the Edmonton local of the Packers and Provisioners Union, was named workers' representative on the conciliation board but his appointment was cancelled last night.

Wants New York Bars Sanctum For Males

New York, Feb. 9 (CP)

STATE Senator E. J. Coughlin, Brooklyn Democrat, worked today to put a "sit-down" clause in his bill to keep women from standing at tap-room bars as introduced in the Legislature at Albany last month. Looking his bill over, the Senator found he had made no provision to prevent women sitting at bars and what he wants to do is make the bar in New York a man's sanctum.

3 FACING MURDER IN POLICE DEATH

Girl And One Other Held Accomplices After Fatal Shooting In Jail Break

QUEBEC, Feb. 9.—(CP).—Honorat Bernard, Cyrille Emond and Wilfrid Darveau were charged today with the murder of Provincial Detective Leopold Chateauneuf.

Simonne Bacon and Irene Desrochers, arrested with Emond and Darveau following the jail break of Bernard and Arthur Fontaine and the slaying of Detective Chateauneuf, were charged with conspiracy in aiding and abetting the pairs escape from Quebec jail.

The coroner's jury held Bernard, Emond and Darveau criminally responsible for Chateauneuf's death and named Miss Bacon and Desrochers as accomplices.

The five accused were remanded to jail without bail for preliminary inquiry February 15.

MID-MISSISSIPPI STILL IN DANGER

Levees However Continue To Hold—5,000 Busy Cleaning Up In Louisville

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Powerful waves sustained flood perils along the mid-Mississippi today but strained levees held and the Red Cross began mapping rehabilitation plans for the valley.

Winds up to 38 miles an hour out of the northwest rolled combers against the dikes but United States army engineers reported no major damage and, with the peaks past Memphis, reiterated belief the worst was over.

Red Cross officials' faith in this view was reflected in shaping of a tentative, months-long rehabilitation program for 75,000 refugees in Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Western Kentucky.

While the fight went on in the valley, Washington surveyed the problem of floods and flood damage from all angles.

Senator Bulkley, (D.-Ohio) said President Roosevelt was sympathe-

BLAIR SCORES PART OF PRESS IN CRIME CASES

Charges Sympathy Aroused For Accused Persons, Destroys Effect Of Courts

GAS CHAMBER DEBATE

Committee Approves Miss Macphail's Proposal To Call Warden Lawes Of Sing Sing

OTTAWA, Feb. 9 (CP)—Sympathy aroused by newspapers for persons accused of serious crimes was destroying the effect of the courts, Dr. J. K. Blair, (Lab.-Wellington N.) claimed today at the first meeting of the special committee of the House of Commons considering his bill to substitute the lethal chamber for hanging.

The cruelty of the method of carrying out the death sentence might create sympathy on the part of the public which partly offset what deterrent effect the death penalty might have, he suggested. References were made to Dillinger and Hauptman.

In its preliminary session, the committee elected George W. McPhee (Lib. Yorkton) as chairman. Dr. Blair stated he had authoritative information as to the practices in European countries as well as states in the United States.

Miss Agnes Macphail (U.F.O.-Lab., Grey Bruce) moved and the committee approved that Warden E. E. Lawes of Sing Sing Penitentiary, New York, be invited to appear. The first witness, at the next meeting, will be C. P. Plaxton of the Department of Justice, who made a first-hand study last year of methods in several states of carrying out the death penalty.

More Humane

Ernest Bertrand (Lib. Laurier Montreal) told the committee he had spoken against the bill in the house. "Anyone will admit that as far as the accused is concerned that the lethal chamber is the more humane way of carrying out capital punishment," he said.

Dr. Blair questioned whether the deterrent effect or retribution was the prime consideration. In countries where capital punishment had been abolished altogether, serious crimes had not increased, so its value as a deterrent might well be doubted. It also tended to create sympathy for the accused.

"When I was teaching school, I first punished pupils before the others, for its deterrent effect." Dr. Blair said. "But I found I was losing ground, since their sympathy for the one being punished exceeded its deterrent effect."

"Maybe you weren't beating them hard enough," suggested a member, but Miss Macphail agreed the reasoning was sound.

When Dillinger was being chased for days across the continent, the sympathy of boys was generally with Dillinger, Dr. Blair contended. The newspapers created sympathy for him by the way in which they related all the details.

At the end of the war, there were those who wanted to hang the Kaiser, he recalled, but suggested that that would only have made a martyr of him and ultimately have the reverse of the desired effect.

"The newspapers even created sympathy for this man Hauptmann who killed the Lindbergh child, a very sad case," put in Mr. Bertrand.

Miss Macphail said the committee was directed to consider merely two methods of carrying out the death penalty. She considered that the deterrent was the death of the accused, not the manner in which that penalty was carried out.

Lad's Foolish Prank Proves Fatal to Chum

Somerville, Mass., Feb. 9 (AP)

A Sunday school prank, his mother said, caused the death yesterday of 11-year-old Frank R. Sherry. Mrs. Harry T. Sherry said a companion pulled a chair away from him as he was about to sit down and Frank injured his head.

"I'll never tell who did it," Mrs. Sherry promised. "I think it is the Christian thing to keep it secret."

FREAK WEATHER YIELDS LIGHTNING THUNDER AND HAIL

Icy Conditions Produce Worst Traffic Tie-ups In Many Cities In Fifteen Years

FOG PLAYS HAVOC

TORONTO, Feb. 9.—(CP). — Battered by rain, sleet and snow storms, Ontario to-day faced the prospects of colder weather with further snow flurries, carrying threats of disrupting transportation and telegraph company services.

Already covered with ice after heavy rain and sleet, highways and roads will become more treacherous and telegraph and telephone wires, now ice-encrusted, may snap if temperatures drop sharply, it is feared.

Northern Ontario yesterday was snow-laden while the east, west and south was swept by rain and sleet storms, accompanied in some districts by thunder and lightning, the freakiest February weather witnessed in Ontario for years.

Pedestrians walked gingerly over streets of cities, towns and villages. About 60 persons who slipped and fell on Toronto streets were treated at hospitals for fractured wrists and ankles and other injuries. Motor traffic barely crawled along the highways and street car service was disrupted. Not since 1922 has Toronto witnessed such a serious tie-up.

Thunder In East

In Eastern Ontario hail accompanied by lightning and thunder struck Ottawa, Smiths Falls and Morrisburg districts but no serious damage was reported. Kingston's streets were turned into skating rinks.

Thunder and lightning, rain and sleet swept from Midland on Georgian Bay down through Brantford district. As the rain struck the earth it froze, covering shrubbery, trees, telephone and telegraph pole with a glistening coat.

A mist followed the storms, enveloping Kitchener, Galt and other Western Ontario points and spread over the Toronto district. Goderich, Chatham, Simcoe, and Stratford received heavy rains, accompanied in some areas by thunder and lightning.

The fog was so thick at Kitchener it made driving and walking over icy thoroughfares extremely dangerous. In the Kitchener area it was feared temperature drops would be disastrous for traffic.

Washouts and flooded highways marked the rare February weather in Simcoe district. A few stores had cellars flooded by the heavy rains and the river Lynn rose slightly. Highway crews repaired washouts on No. 24 highway near Langton and on the highway running north of Simcoe.

Streams Overflow In Western Ontario Towns Of Ayr And Waterloo

ABANDON ALBERTA TOWN

England And France Experiencing Worst Floods In Quarter Century

PORT HOPE, Ont., Feb. 9 (C.P.). —Wary of flood threats after experiences about a month ago when the Ganaraska River went on the rampage and swirled over its banks into the city causing damage estimated at $75,000, authorities last night sounded a flood warning.

Bells at the Town Hall and Fire Stations rang out, calling residents from their beds as the river began to rise again.

Heavy rain and sleet for almost 24 hours caused the jump in the river level. City workmen removed stop-logs from dams all along the river to permit free passage of the rushing waters and shop-owners nailed protective boards on the fronts of their establishments downtown.

The river reached its peak level early to-day and the water overflowed at one point sending a swirl of water down the main thoroughfare. Level dropped, however, and the river level dropped.

Village of Ayr Flooded.

KITCHENER, Ont., Feb. 9. — (CP.)—Most serious flood condition in the county appeared to have presented itself at Ayr, where villagers worked frantically to-day to save a dam and a roadway from being swept away. Fed by the unusually turbulent waters of Cedar creek, the large upper dam near the centre of the village was being strengthened with rocks as overflow waters threaten to wash out an important roadway.

In the heart of the village, furnace fires were extinguished and business places were flooded when the Nith river rose four feet during the night.

At New Hamburg, six streets were flooded, and basements in the business section turned into subterranean lakes.

Furnaces Go Out.

WATERLOO, Ont., Feb. 9.—(CP), —Children of one Waterloo family residing near the corner of Eason and John streets were taken to the home of friends last night as cellars were flooded and furnace fires extinguished by flood waters of the Waterloo creek which reached unprecedented heights. Furnaces likewise were "out" in several King street stores. On Eason street water reached 14 inches deep in spots and early to-day the creek overflowed the retaining wall at Herbert and Queen streets, spreading over the road. The creek touched practically every bridge. Many cellars in the Pepper and Cedar street district also were flooded.

Many homes were without heat for the night and furnaces could

WINDSOR MAY BUY HUNGARIAN ESTATE

Shows Interest In Spots Near Austrian Border Vienna Dealer Reveals

VIENNA, Feb. 9.— (AP).— The Duke of Windsor has indicated a desire to purchase an estate in Hungary into which he can move during May, a Vienna real estate agent said to-day.

The Duke, seeking a permanent home, showed interest in estates near the Austrian border, the agent declared. He said Edward wanted a place with hunting and golfing facilities.

On the Duke's schedule to-day was a meeting of his guests—his sister, the Princess Royal, and her husband, the Earl of Harewood—and President Wilhelm Miklas of Austria at the British Legation.

The Madrid government at the beginning of the civil war confiscated factories and used them to manufacture war supplies. Now 550 metallurgical plants employing 5,000 workers are turning out materials necessary for defence of the city.

1000-Year-Old Church To Fall In Aid Of Religion In London

Revenue From Site Of Hoary All Hallows Will Build Several Spots Of Worship In Suburbs

PRIVY COUNCIL AFFAIR

LONDON, Feb. 9.—(CP Cable)—A curiosity of British jurisprudence was revealed today when the judicial committee of the Privy council, which has supreme authority in matters ecclesiastical in England, decided the Church of All Hallows in Limbard street, in the heart of the banking quarter, must fall to pick and shovel.

It is believed a place of Christian worship has existed on the site for nearly 1,000 years. The present building is attributed to Sir Christopher Wren, the great architect who designed St. Paul's, and its value for commercial purposes has been estimated at £250,000 ($1,250,000).

The Bishop of London, Rt. Rev. A. F. Winnington-Ingram, proposed to sell the site and with the proceeds erect churches in the new Metropolitan dormitory quarters. One of these would be called by the same name and the ancient furniture of All Hallows would be moved there.

London Itself Opposed.

Opposition to the scheme was offered by the Corporation of London and several archaeological bodies.

Lord Sankey, delivering judgment for the Privy council today, said the ecclesiastical authorities had found it difficult to justify the stipends paid the rector at All Hallows and in the neighboring parish of St. Edmunds, amounting respectively to £1,834 and £1,222.

Their lordships held it in the interests of religion that the scheme should go forward and gave permission for the sale of the site.

Since the war at least 500,000 persons have settled in London's new district, in which it proposed that the new churches be built. Naturally there are few parishioners in the financial district where All Hallows stands.

CANADIAN INDIANS ARE ON INCREASE HOUSE INFORMED

Rogers Promises Probe Of Welland Strike As Estimates Discussed

DEBATE WANDERS

OTTAWA, Feb. 9.—(CP)—After discussion yesterday which ranged from Indian administration to the Welland, Ont., cotton mill strike and Vancouver waterfront activity, the House of Commons today will likely consider further estimates, the home improvement loan and prairie farm rehabilitation.

It was Government Day yesterday but most of the discussions arose during consideration of estimates in committee of supply. Progress was made with appropriations for the departments of national defence, trade and commerce, labor, and mines and resources. There was virtually no acrimonious debate.

Hon. T. A. Crerar, minister of the new department of mines and resources, told of the amalgamation procedure and forecast important changes in Indian affairs administration now being considered by the government.

Due to care accorded Indians, costing about $3,500,000 this year, the Indian population was increasing. A few years ago it was diminishing.

It was proposed to restore the Indian fur trapping industry, assist them in marketing their handicraft products and to direct their education into more practical channels than at present.

The cotton mill strike in Welland came in for consideration when Labor Minister Rogers was offering his estimates for discussion. He was urged to seek a settlement even though company officials had refused arbitration. Mr. Rogers promised to make a full investigation and report.

In the course of this discussion Mr. Rogers announced it was intended to appoint four junior conciliation officers so that trained Victim Walks Into Hospital For Aid But Refuses Details.

TORONTO, Feb. 8 (C.P.).—Police to-day started an investigation into the wounding of 23-year-old George O'Brien who walked into hospital for treatment saying he was from Halifax and later gave a Toronto address.

Examination showed a .25 calibre bullet had entered his back just below the right shoulder, stopping a few inches under the skin.

Questioned by police, all O'Brien would tell of the shooting was that a man had fired at him in a lane and then fled, authorities said.

VOTERS PILE UP BIG DRY MARGIN AT CAMPBELLFORD

Proposal To Establish Liquor Store In Town Defeated By 340

DRY FOR 25 YEARS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 9.—Wet weather failed to have any effect on the plebiscite here yesterday, when the drys won a clear majority of 340 votes over the wets, when the vote was taken on the establishment of a liquor store here.

Opinions from the scrutineers at the polls early in the day seemed to indicate what the counting of the ballots later confirmed that after 25 years under the Temperance Act the Act had only become more firmly rooted in the town.

The voting by wards was as follows: Ward I, yes 175, no 215; Ward II, yes 100, no 208; Ward III, yes 160, no 244; Ward IV, yes 110, no 208.

AFRAID OF EXAMS STUDENT EXPLAINS

Wiarton Man Missing Weeks Is Permitted To See Gravely Ill Mother

WIARTON, Ont., Feb. 9 (CP) — John M. Daykin, 28, who dropped from sight four weeks ago, arrived here yesterday from Kirkland Lake. For a few minutes he was allowed to see his mother, seriously ill. Since his disappearance, the young man's father, Walter Daykin, died.

A theological student at McMaster University, Daykin said fear of failing to pass his examinations caused him to leave school and strike out for himself in the world. He intended to write home as soon as he felt able to take care of himself, he said.

The 28-year-old student was unheard of since Jan. 6 until the week-end when he sent a telegram to his family at this Bruce County town, informing them he was coming home today.

The father's death and young Daykin's disappearance left his mother in a weakened condition.

BALLYDUFF HOME SWEPT BY FIRE

Mr. And Mrs. William Finney Lose Everything—Both Away At Time

BALLYDUFF, Feb. 9. — Fire on Wednesday destroyed the red brick home occupied by Mr. and Mrs. William Finney, aged residents of Ballyduff. Mrs. Finney was visiting at the time at the home of her son Jack, Eighth Line of Manvers. Mr. Finney, after replenishing the fire, walked down to the village before noon and accepted the kind invitation of the postmistress, Mrs. Bannister, to remain for dinner.

In his absence a neighbor noticed flames appearing from the interior of the Finney home, and on investigation discovered that fire had gained enormous headway.

It is understood the fire was caused by overheated pipes, and the couple are left destitute, the only thing saved being an old table from the back kitchen of the home.

A group of willing helpers speedily gathered at the scene of the fire but little could be done, as the building was a raging inferno. Some insurance was carried on the building but the homeless couple find themselves in a most unenviable position for the winter. It is unknown where they will reside.

He Actually Said It

Members of parliament do not buy postage stamps. They do not have to. All that is necessary is that they write their initials on the outside of mail matter and away it goes. They send letters, copies of their speeches, material which is straight campaign stuff, and the post office department carries it for nothing. That is called the franking system, and it has been abused. What is more the abuse is a matter of general knowledge.

So much for that. The rest is hard to believe but it is all accorded in the pages of House of Commons Debates for the fifth day of February in the year 1937. On page 676. Let us quote:

Mr. McIVOR: As a new member I was surprised that I did not have to pay any postage on the letters I posted. . . . I want to say that I am better able to pay my postage now than I was before I came into the House. I think members of parliament should pay their own postage and thus put the postoffice on a paying basis.

Being a little disturbed at such an outburst of frankness on the part of a member of parliament, we thought it advisable to look in the Parliamentary Guide in order to make certain there had been no mistake. But there he is, listed as: McIvor, Rev. Daniel, B.A., M.A., B.D., member of the Rotary Club, a Liberal and a preacher in the United Church. Comes from Fort William, and we take it is somewhat of an Irishman.

And he admits he is better off now than before he entered the House of Commons; admits he was surprised he was not obliged to buy postage stamps to place upon letters, and thinks each of the members of parliament should pay postage as other folk do and see if the post office can be made a revenue producer.

On behalf of a great many people, Mr. McIvor, we feel moved to thank you. It was but a short speech you made, but within it we found the brave suggestion that a member of parliament was willing to pay his way even if he had to put his hand in his own pocket to do it.

Doing the Right Thing

Stratford ladies connected with the Air Force and the Women's Canadian Club entertained a number of folk who have recently taken out citizenship papers. Each was presented with a "When Food Is Obtained" booklet, a "When Prison" booklet, several "When" booklets by Sergt. Canada. Each was presented with a dining-room meeting card and an effort was made to cause these new Canadians to understand they were welcomed to the community. There were several speakers and a reception followed the presentations.

That is a good direction toward which to aim some well-guided effort. If there is one way in which a foreigner who takes out his Canadian papers can be spoiled it is by snubbing him and leaving him entirely alone. These people who come from other lands are built on lines much similar to our own, and we have yet to meet the individual going to a new community who prefers to be snubbed or ignored rather than noticed and welcomed.

It may be the ladies in Brantford would find it difficult to talk to these new citizens; the barrier of language may not have been completely overcome, but kindness and a little attention form a language of their own which the whole world understands.

Railways and Revenue

When Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Transport, was speaking at Ottawa regarding the railway situation in Canada he made this statement:

"In Canada we have the cheapest freight rates of any country in the world. I do not think that can be disputed."

On the same day R. J. Deachman, M.P. for North Huron, in making inquiry regarding financial affairs of the post office department, used these words:

"Railway and express rates have declined . . . We'll do as much as we can, since about 1918."

It was learned the statements have a bearing on whether legislation will consider legislation between workers on Canadian railroads to abolish suburban lines and the management of the commissions and put the roads regarding wages. The number of 117,000 have been controlled by them under action of the department. These commissioners take action on a strike vote cities where they feel the reductions in pay sets of suburbs not being restored with sufficient rapidity.

If freight rates are lower than elsewhere in the world it is beyond the powers of the railways to increase them as the fixing of such rates is in the hands of the Railway Board. In that way the railroads are powerless to reach out for greater revenue by increasing carrying charges in order that the men's demands for more wages should be met.

No bill will be issued until the railroad workers did finally reach a session of the legislature we find it difficult to see how it could materially improve their position. They could readily enough improve business and transportation, but even so they would still be dealing with railways which at the moment are not rich and whose power to enforce revenue is governed by the decisions of another body.

Will Be All Powerful

Governments which have power are seldom satisfied, and they want more power. They want powers which are denied to other organizations, and they desire their own powers to be so deep-rooted that full and absolute carrying into effect of anything they promote will be the result.

President Roosevelt, who has had more power invested in him than was ever entrusted to a president of United States, is seeking greater power at the moment, and the reason is plain. The Supreme Court of his country is the one agency which is beyond political control. Within recent months that court ruled against a number of Roosevelt's New Deal policies because it was found the government of United States did not possess power to pass such laws; the constitution gave to the government no such authority.

The next move, the announcement of which has already been made, is to increase the number of judges on the Supreme Court, and those appointed will be men who approve of the policies of the President of United States. The reason given is that it is desired to have the work of the Supreme Court speeded up so there will not be so many cases hanging fire, and that in itself is a very nice reason under which to advance the real motive—that of making sure the Supreme Court will not rule against legislation by Congress.

Having a sympathetic majority on the Supreme Court would be one way of increasing the power of Congress (or as we would call it in this country, government) to the point where it would be supreme, and where its enactments would never successfully be challenged even by those who would be bound to work under the constitution of United States, and who should make its interpretation the keystone of their findings. When they finish the present move in United States, and there is no doubt it will be done, then the republic will have an absolute monarchy under the guise of democratic government.

History Becomes Hazy

Elihu Root is dead in New York at the age of 92; and the reading of his obituary recalls a good many names and historical events which for the most part have passed from active memory. Col. Edward M. House, who was always at the elbow of President Wilson, says if Elihu Root had participated in the Paris peace conference the trend of world history might have been changed. That at best is but an opinion, but it shows the faith which people had in Elihu Root.

Elihu Root was secretary of War for President McKinley and Secretary of State for President Theodore Roosevelt, and he was head of President Wilson's delegation to the Kerensky regime in Russia, and right there one recalls how dim has become the memory of Kerensky. Alexander Kerensky was a member of the last Russian Duma, a Moderate Socialist; he was Minister of Justice at the start of the revolution in 1917. That was in March; by May he was Minister of War and Marine; in August he presided over the Moscow conference; on the 15th of September he proclaimed the Russian republic, with himself as head of the provisional government and also chief of the Russian army, while in early November of the same year he fled the country when Trotsky and Lenin executed their coup d'etat. How much was crowded into the few months of that one year for Kerensky, and yet how dim has become our memory of who he was and the part he played.

It is recorded that Elihu Root was a member of The Hague Permanent Court of Arbitration, something born from a lofty ideal, but lost in the mad world of more recent growth. It is also stated President Arthur gave him his first appointment in 1883 as federal district attorney of southern New York. How many today have any recollection or information of Chester Alan Arthur as President of United States? He was vice-president on the Republican ticket in 1881, and might have remained in the seclusion which is accorded to all vice-presidents had it not been for the death of President Garfield. Then he served as President until 1885, but failed to secure nomination at the next Republican convention.

We read also that Elihu Root extended the "open door" policy in China, and it is referred to as John Hay's policy. And who again was John Hay? At one time he was editor of the New York Tribune, was secretary of State under McKinley and Roosevelt, and it was John Hay who extended United States trading with China; he had to do with the settlement of the Alaska boundary dispute with Canada in 1903; he framed the treaties which made possible the building of the Panama canal, and in all there were fifty treaties negotiated with foreign countries by the former editor, John Hay. Elihu Root's efforts reached far, but it is of interest to think for a moment of how hazy has become much of the recent history of men who dealt in international affairs.

The Ruling Is Plain

Mayor Leonard St. George of Cache Bay, thirty miles from North Bay has been unseated. The mayor runs a store and it is stated relief orders issued by the municipality had been traded at his place of business. The regrettable feature is that action to unseat the Mayor was taken by a defeated candidate in the last election, but that fact does not get away from the plain wording of the law which contains this clause under the heading of "Disqualifications:"

"A person having himself or by or with or through another an interest in any contract with the corporation or with any commission or person acting for the corporation or in any contract for the supply of goods or material to a contractor for work for which the corporation pays or is liable directly or indirectly to pay, or which is subject to the control or supervision of the council or of any officer of the corporation, or who has an unsatisfied claim for such goods or material."

The exception made to that ruling is in the case of a person who may be a shareholder in an incorporated company having dealings with the corporation, but it is also stipulated that such shareholder who may be a member of council "shall not vote on any question affecting the company."

There is nothing in the report from Cache Bay to indicate or suggest that the Mayor was not dealing fairly with the holders of civic relief orders, or that he was using his position to pull the business to his store, but the law on that point is plain. We doubt whether in recent years it has been as strictly enforced as it might have been, and the reason may well be that individuals hesitate to take action for fear of being regarded as local busybodies.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A Swedish coin weighing nearly eight pounds has been sold to a man in England. The purchaser probably wants to keep the thing as a pocket piece.

The sit-down strikers in a Calgary packing plant say they will stay there until next Christmas. And if their friends continue to supply them with chicken dinners who will blame them?

Major McLaughlin the Chicago hockey impressario is proceeding with his plans to collect an all-American professional team. If the Major is not an optomist he will do until one comes along.

Anthony Eden has arrived at Monte Carlo for a brief vacation. The British foreign minister has earned a few days' holiday for few men in Europe have had such a trying task in recent months.

Professional hockey teams will be interested in the story of the Verona woodsman who worked all morning after chopping off two of his toes. They can use men like that in the N.H.L.

A health survey is being held in the Irish Free State and among the facts that it would probably disclose is that it is unhealthy to wave the British flag too openly there.

Sault Ste. Marie seems to be slowing up. It is now relying upon some sort of a champion egg-eater to put Algoma on the front page and that is a poor substitute for a genuine Curran wolf story.

There is an agitation in Berlin to have German soldiers brought home from Spain and we do not imagine the Spanish government would have any objections to the move.

Two Toronto men were seriously injured when they were struck down by a stolen car. It is difficult enough to dodge the machines that are legitimately on the road without having to avoid stolen automobiles.

A "horror parade" of wrecked automobiles, ambulances, hearses and floats showing "dead" and "dying" motor victims was held in Jacksonville in an effort to scare the public into safer driving. The trouble seems to be however that no driver is able to visualize such things happening to him.

Peterborough expects to get by with $14,000 less for relief than was expended last year. If this hope is realized it will represent a decided betterment although $56,000 for relief purposes looks enormous alongside the modest budget of the Central Charity Board in pre-depression days.

USEFUL MAN

(By A. R. K.)

¶ Old Johnny Doe attends his lodge, when there's some work he'll never dodge, the members all know that; and so he's on committee's there, and tends to everything with care, his effort's never flat.

¶ When there is ever work to do, of names they put on quite a few, and place them in a row; but members all make sure of this, they see that never will they miss, the name of Johnny Doe.

¶ They meet and plan the things they'll do, they figure when they'll get it through, and then they up and go; and they don't bother with it more, forget it when they close the door, it's left to Johnny Doe.

¶ And Johnny Doe goes oft to church, and roosts upon the family perch, he's on committees there; he buys the cordwood and the brooms, binds broken books with ancient tunes, wires up the weakened chair.

¶ And Johnny Doe was reeve last year, it struck the folk as rather queer, they never heard his name; the other members talked and spoke, and raised aloft their sacred smoke, they grabbed for fleeting fame.

¶ And chairmen wave their hands and talk, folk point them out along the block, no so with Johnny Doe; the same in council, lodge or kirk, when others fold their tents and go—then Johnny does the work.

Our Statesmen At Their Labors

Official Parliamentary Debates

LAUGHING AT SOMETHING

Mr. ELLIOTT (Middlesex): May I make myself clear? You cannot give expression of a government's intention in a matter of that kind until a decision has been reached.

Mr. ISNOR: Perhaps this is a laughing matter; I do not know.

Mr. ELLIOTT (Middlesex): I do not think it is.

Mr. ISNOR: To me it is a matter of business. Ever since confederation the practice of the department has been to set up in one column its revenue and in the next column its expenditure, and one subtracted from the other gives the net deficit or the surplus as the case may be. This evening the minister comes here and, after having been questioned with regard to the set-up of expenditure, says, in effect, we should or perhaps we shall include an item running into many thousands of dollars. Then, when I ask whether it is the intention of the department in future to include this expenditure, he laughs.

An hon. MEMBER: No, that is not correct. We laughed.

Mr. ISNOR: Then, I say, members of the house are not dealing in a businesslike way with this matter.

An hon. MEMBER: Do not be too serious.

Mr. ISNOR: I am not too serious, but I do not want to be laughed at when I am asking a question that I consider I am entitled to ask.

An hon. MEMBER: We were not laughing at the question; we were laughing at the answer.

HE WANTS TO PAY!

Mr. McIVOR: As a new member I was suprised that I did not have to pay any postage on the letters I posted. If the Postmaster General and his staff did not do anything but carry the letters of the 245 members of this house, they would certainly be deserving of commendation. A dollar a day for 245 members—the hon member from Huron North (Mr. Deachman) is not here — for 100 days, which would be a short session, would mount up into the millions.

Some hon. MEMBERS: No.

Mr. McIVOR: I am not a mathematician.

Some hon. MEMBERS: Hear, hear.

Mr. McIVOR: I want to say that I am better able to pay my postage now than I was before I came into the house. I think members of parliament should pay their own postage and thus put the post office on a paying basis. I have just one criticism to make. I should like to see the letter carriers get their holidays on Christmas day and Good Friday.

TOO MUCH FREE MAIL

Mr. ELLIOTT (Middlesex): I have before me a list of all the buildings; I shall be glad to give it to my hon. friend.

Mr. SPENCE: No; we do not want to take up the time of the committee. If the minister can give the information in regard to Toronto, that will be sufficient. While he is looking it up, let me say it is no wonder the post office does not pay; it costs too much for franking privileges. If you went from here to-night on the Toronto train, to-morrow morning at station A you would see the postmen unloading bags of mail piled up ever so high, all franked from this house. Half of the publications from the different departments, and particularly the Department of Agriculture, should be eliminated entirely. We are breaking the backs of the postmen with the weight of the mailbags strapped over their shoulders, and mostly carried for no purpose.

Mr. BRADETTE: Why the agriculture department particularly?

Mr. SPENCE: All the departments. I am not going to say we should not have the franking privilege from this house, because it would make it very difficult for some hon. members if we did not have it. It would not for me, because I send very little, but I see hon. members sending out stuff that would cost them five or ten dollars a day.

Mr. BAKER: An abuse of the privilege.

Mr. SPENCE: I think the minister said it cost over a million dollars.

Mr. MULOCK: Will the hon. member permit a question? Did he mention that before the last general election?

Mr. SPENCE: No; at the present minute. I will bet you a hundred dollars that to-morrow morning—

The CHAIRMAN: Order.

Mr. SPENCE: And it will be worse before the next election, if things go on the way they are. The hon. member had better keep quiet or I will tell a little story on him. I am not as dumb as he may think I am.

Mr. MULOCK: We never suspected that the hon. member was dumb.

CAMDEN WOLVES.

(Belleville Ontario-Intelligencer)

KEEPING the wolf from the door appears to have a real significance to the folks living in Camden Township, north of Napanee, where wolves are reported as raiding the sheep folds. Camden Township Council paid $600 for damage done to sheep by wolves during 1936, and didn't like it a bit. Ten-dollar bounty is now offered by the council for every wolf killed, and three skins have been brought in thus far. Lack of snow prohibits tracking of the wolves and dogs will not follow a wolf trail, it is said. The Camden wolves have been identified as a half-breed variety, exceedingly fearless, and seem to know their way around the farm buildings. Can it be that the mild weather is sending the wolves south in the hope of finding real cold weather and plenty of good pickings?

AT ANY PRICE.

(Manchester Sunday Chronicle)

THE Spanish trouble is only one phase of a long-drawn-out crisis which has come to a head many times in the last three years with quite as ominous threats to peace as Europe now faces. After such tests as Danzig, the Rhineland, and Italy's attack on Abyssinia, it is clear that nobody wants European war, that every nation will go to extreme lengths to avoid it, and that peace can stand a greater strain than the Spanish situation now imposes.

EXPERIENCED

Editor Examiner:

Sir: As a producer of milk and a former producer-distributor of same, I wish to pass a few comments on this pasteurized bill which was introduced at the last meeting of the city council.

I cannot help but allow a big smile to creep over my face when I read the remarks passed by a few people who think they know the why and the wherefores of pasteurizing milk. Of course a person has a right to voice an opinion but on such an important subject would they not be well advised to study pasteurization before passing comments on what they think to be right. Years ago back in 1905 I could pick a lot of flaws in it but my how times have changed. Pasteurization of any article certainly improves it and frees it from harmful bacteria and disease that may be present.

Being a producer of milk I was always interested in producing the best grade of milk possible for my customers. I therefore in the past ten years made a thorough study of pasteurization and ways and means of keeping my cattle healthy. Sorry to say careful and all as I am I lost a number of cattle in the last check-up with T.B. This of course is only one of the many prevelant diseases, abortion and Bang's disease chasing it very hard. We can protect the public by having our cattle tested twice a year but in spite of this precaution we all have lost cattle at one time or other and the government veterinary certainly cannot park on our door step all the time to stop this when the trouble occurs.

Therefore any person or persons who are public spirited enough to forget fourth rate thoughts creeping into their minds have certainly no grounds to resent pasteurizing all milk going into any city or town whose citizens could possibly support a pasteurizing plant. Surely we have enough plants in Peterboro' to look after the needs of at least 10,000 more of a population. They tell me Oshawa has only three, why all the cry about monopoly and putting the small man out of business? Surely our present aldermen and mayor have the interest and welfare of the public at mind to see that this bill is put through right away before Peterborough has the experience several other cities have had. Milk is a perfect food and should be consumed in larger quantities so why not give them the best. I have always been treated very fairly by the plant I ship to and certainly a whole lot better off than when I used to spend hours delivering milk around the city. Distributing milk is a very important one and very costly. Yet nobody offers a word of comment on the fellow who buys his milk and then delivers. The average quality of pasteurized milk delivered in Peterborough is exceptionally good and deserves the whole hearted support of the citizens and the representatives, the aldermen. Other cities have it, why not give Peterborough the best milk possible. Petty thoughts and grievances should be forgotten on such an important subject as this.

A PRODUCER

P.S.: I certainly won't drink raw milk even though I do produce it Myself and the Board of Health are to be admired on the stand they have taken on this very important matter, as pasteurization does not harm milk in any way, but gives the public that added protection that is so necessary for the health of the community.

Editor Examiner:

Sir: A gentleman recently appeared at one of local theatres here presenting "Crystal Gazing" and "Message Reading." To this I would like to say that there are gullible persons who believe that this exhibition shows genuine telepathic power on the part of the crystal-gazer, and it is a regrettable fact that some people have taken advantage of that situation to prey upon the susceptibilities of their audiences. But from the performer's view the crystal-gazing and message reading act is merely a form of trickery. To be presented legitimately, it should be simply a form of entertainment, in which the spectators are mystified by the performer's ability to state what they have written—not by his ability to give answers to the questions.

What the Sparrows Think.

(From the Victoria Times.)

FOR nearly a month now the sparrows have been playing about on my garden path, just outside the window. At first we offered them a casual hand-out to help them through a few days of cold. Then it became a regular meal ,twice a day. Now it is a grim duty, a set routine, and the sparrows expect us to carry it out, without question. They are permanently on relief.

If we are a few hours late in putting the grain out for them you can tell by their chirp of protest that they feel we have treated them very badly, failed in our solemn undertaking. The grain is no longer a favor to them. It is an obligation, their right.

And every day you can hear the sparrows talking about the source of the grain. Some of the more intelligent sparrows hold that the food falls from the sky. The high gods up in the sky, they say, make this delicious food and drop it like rain for sparrows for whom the world was especially made. Others insist that the large, two-legged slaves of the high gods, who live in this house, are ordered to place the food there for them. Still others believe that it grows up out of the ground every day for their benefit.

All of them agreed on that point—that this grain is part of the natural scheme of things, designed for their benefit because they are the most important creatures in the universe. They don't know where the grain comes from. They don't know it is grain or that it grows in a field in Saskatchewan and is shipped here in freight cars and ground up fine in a mill.

They believe that the south wall of this house was erected to shelter them from the north wind, that the evergreen trees were planted to provide them with cosy roosting places in the Winter, and they tell me that the lord of creation is a very large sparrow with especially fine plumage who always sees that there is plenty of food for them in a universe designed for sparrows.

It is interesting to listen to the sparrows' talk. You have to remember, of course, that they haven't the intelligence of human beings.

LOCAL BOYS, ETC.

(Belleville Intelligencer)

JIM and Nathan Booth were born on George street, Belleville, grew up, went to school, and looked out upon the world of business in an effort to choose the line of endeavor to which they would be both best fitted. They chose the profession of the chemist, and after the usual apprenticeship with local druggists and college course Jim thought the United States not too large for his field of endeavor. Before long he was promoting a toothpaste, which, with big national advertising behind it, became favorably known around the world. Jim sent for Nathan, and together they put over some big deals, always winning their commercial battles with the best ammunition available, publicity — particularly newspaper advertising. James and Nathan Booth are big figures in the big business world of the United States and among their various promotions the names of "Ipana" and "Sal Hepatica" will be readily recognized by all.

LED TO FAME.

(By The Canadian Press)

TWO WOMEN on a trans-continental airliner several months ago took special notice of Pilot Laverne Brown, then one turned to the other and said: "Oh, I think he's a dish. I mean, he really is a honey."

That started it. Today Pilot Brown, using John Trent, as his movie name, is one of the hottest prospects in Hollywood.

Producer B. P. Schulberg, who hadn't noticed the pilot, said he overheard the women. "So I looked at him. I saw a big, strong, dark-haired fellow. When we set down in New York, I cornered him at the lunch room and talked to him."

Three times Brown refused a screen test. "I didn't know the first thing about acting," he grinned, "and I didn't want to give up a good job that I liked. My wife talked me into it, finally." Trent's first picture. ("A Doctor's Diary.") in which he played the lead, was previewed several days ago. Now major producers are hollering "I get him next." He is the talk of the town.

"The whole thing has been a dream since it started," Trent said. With no preliminary training, no bit parts, he was pushed off in the deep But directors say he is one-in-a-thousand, a natural actor.

"I was pretty scared," he said. "Every scene was just like a new takeoff and, boy, there are no beams to follow in this business."

TALKING TURKEY.

(Country Home Magazine)

AROUND 70 per cent. of all turkeys are marketed and consumed between Thanksgiving and Christmas. The birds are just as good to eat at other seasons; in fact fried young turkey is delicious in late summer, but few people have ever eaten it. Last season there were 20,000,000 turkeys produced, 5,000,000 more than in 1935. As a result of the surplus, prices were low. Production has been growing because, due to disease control methods, it is easier to raise them. As a means of increasing turkey consumption and lengthening the season, it is proposed that February 22nd be added to the list of "turkey holidays." Washington raised turkeys. Why not?

Birthday Party for The Ageless Mr. Smith.

Peterborough guests at the annual birthday party given for their president by the directors and staff of R. C. Smith and Son, Limited, Toronto, included Alderman R. M. Glover, Alderman James Dutton and E. A. Outram.

Robert C. Smith is the dean of advertising men in Canada, and this annual party is a gay affair. Mr. Smith keeps his age a profound secret. Last evening, at the party, which took place on the Roof Garden of the Royal York Hotel, he smilingly replied, in answer to the perennial query: "Why should I tell which birthday it is? What difference does age make, anyway? I am in excellent health, up early and at my office every day, doing just as big a day's work as ever I did, and enjoying life thoroughly."

Men and women prominent in business and the professions, including many from newspapers and advertising firms, were among the numerous guests welcomed by Mr. Smith, and many beautiful flowers were sent from friends in Toronto who were unabled to be present, also from various parts of Canada and the United States.

Nonogenarians Of City and District.

Joseph Richardson of Port Hope is ninety-seven years old to-day. Mr. Richardson is in good health and has every prospect of rounding the century. His recipe for longevity is contained in a version of the old Greek ideal of moderation. "Do not over-indulge in anything," he advises. "Remember the adage, 'Early to bed and early to rise' and keep good company." Mr. Richardson was born in Saleby, Lincolnshire, England, in 1840, and came to Canada forty-seven years later. He lived since then in Port Hope, where he was coachman for several prominent families until he retired from active work, at the ripe old age of nearly ninety years. He reads his Bible every morning and retains an active interest in religion. He became a member of the Methodist Church in the Old Country over seventy years ago.

Mr. Richardson is one of the oldest men in the district. He can't rate yet in the centenarian class, like George Roche of Harborn, who was one hundred years old on December 11th last, nor Freeman Hart of Round Lake, who commenced his hundredth year of life on the same date, but he is well up on Dr. Jacob Neelands of Lindsay, who was ninety-eight years old on December 8.

Peterborough's oldest citizen at the present time happens to be a lady: Mrs. E. McIntyre of River Road, who is approaching her ninety-seventh birthday.

Very Pleasing Songs by Trio

Pupils Present Fine Program Of Vocal Music At 'Y'— Large Audience

The green room of the Y.W.C.A. was filled to capacity on Monday evening for a well-presented recital of songs by three pupils of Dorothy Allan Park: Miss Isabel Duthie, Miss Olga Westbye, and Miss June Shield of Ida.

The young ladies, all of whom are in the soprano class, acquitted themselves admirably, earning the appreciative applause of a large gathering of friends. Their numbers were accompanied on the piano by Mrs. G. W. Craw.

Miss Duthie's pretty voice displayed great feeling in the operatic aria, "Softly Awakes My Heart", from "Samson and Delilah", and was very good in three Scotch airs, the 'Eriskay Love Lilt', Robin Adair and Annie Laurie. She sang also Del Riego's "Homing", "The False Prophet" and Rubenstein's "Romance".

Miss Westbye made a hit with her listeners with her charming singing and the histrionic quality which animated all her lovely songs, especially the whimsical compositions of A. A. Milne, from "When We Were Very Young" cycle: "Market Square," and "Vespers". Miss Westbye's selections included also two English folk songs arranged by Healey Willan: "In the Merry Month of May" and "The Bailiff's Daughter of Islington"; Purcell's "Nymphs and Shepherds", Haydn's "My Mother Bids Me Bind My Hair", and "Where the Bee Sucks", by Arne.

Miss Shield's light, lyric soprano voice was heard to splendid advantage in "Ma Curly-Headed Babby", and "My Heart is Like a Singing Bird", also in Schubert's "Hark! Hark! The Lark!, "Le Violette", an Old English Pastorale by Lane Wilson, and "Be Still, Blackbird", by Sanderson.

Home and School Association News

CENTRAL SCHOOL.

Mrs. C. H. McWilliams was re-elected as president of the Central Home and School Association, at a meeting held in the school on Monday evening, with a dual purpose: to hold the annual business session and to observe the twenty-first anniversary of the Home and School movement.

Mrs. McWilliams presided and Mrs. G. A. Spicer took the chair for the election of officers. There was a fair attendance.

The executive list for the coming year is as follows: Mrs. K. S. Wightman, honorary president; Mrs. C. H. McWilliams, president; Mrs. J. Hempstead, first vice-president; Mrs. F. Smith, second vice-president; Mrs. L. Callander, secretary; Mrs. J. H. Quirt, treasurer; Mrs. N. Staniger, Program convenor; Mrs. H. Delahaye, Refreshment convenor; Mrs. L. Callander, Mrs. G. Metcalfe, Mrs. G. E. Marshall, Mrs. W. J. Ascott, Membership committee; Mrs. G. E. Lee, Telephone convenor; Mrs. Constable, Mrs. G. Metcalfe, Mrs. F. Skitch, Sick-Visiting committee; Mrs. J. O. Wyllie, Press secretary.

After duly installing the officers, Mrs. Spicer presented each one with a copy of the constitution of the Home and School Association.

Mrs. McWilliams, on resuming the chair, expressed her appreciation of the honor conferred on her by being re-elected as president for the third term.

Mrs. E. Wand was present as special speaker for Founder's Day, and received rapt attention in her very interesting talk on "The Significance of the Home and School Movement." All honor was paid to the founders, Mrs. A. E. Courtice and Dr. Marty, as well as to our own local pioneers. The speaker mentioned the names of the men and women who were responsible for the formation of the movement in this city. Outstanding were the names of Mrs. S. T. Medd and Mrs. W. R. Morris.

At the request of the meeting, Mrs. Wand recited a poem on a Home and School theme of which she is the composer.

A vote of thanks to Mrs. Spicer, Mrs. Wand and Master Fowler was proposed by Mrs. McWilliams, and heartily responded to by the audience.

At the close of the meeting, Mrs. Delahaye, with her willing staff of assistants, served dainty refreshments from a table covered with a Clumy lace cloth and centered by a birthday cake decorated with pink and white icing and holding twenty-one candles, which were lighted by the president, to signify the coming of age of the Home and School movement, and that it is burning brightly. The cake was flanked by low silver candlesticks holding tall pink tapers.

THEY that go down to the sea in ships, that do business in great waters; these see the works of the Lord, and His wonders in the deep. —Psalm cvii. 23.

Dear Friends:

What do you think is the cause of all the unrest among the nations and the people of the world today? We have had wars all down the ages, but never have we had so much education, such easy transportation with cars, busses, trains, aeroplanes, and even the lowly bicycle.

We never have had such a varied assortment of foods, or clothing, such up-to-date machinery, such marvellous things to work with in electricity, so that if those who died a hundred years ago were to see some of these things in action (without having them gradually as we did) they would think it was black magic.

There are more luxuries of every kind, The poor, and the lame and the blind, are all better taken care of than ever in the history of the world. We can talk to people hundreds and thousands of miles away, and can also hear them talk to us, so that we know accurately what is going on all over the world, right at the time it is happening.

And yet, there is this fierce unrest. Everyone feels it, the high and the low, those who are well off, and those who have little. And what can be the cause of it all?

I think it is the lack of prayer, and do not think I am a long-faced Christian when I say this. But it does look to me as if God was letting us try our own sweet way to see how far we get with it.

He said He would put a rainbow in the sky to show that He would never destroy the world that way again. But we are having floods alright, and I'll bet there are people who are praying now who haven't done it for years. They can see that there is a Power which man, with all his inventions cannot control.

And they can also see that many of the things that they thought were so right and progressive, are the very things that have brought them to the pass they are in.

But, it is very easy to sit back and blame the other fellow, to think we are not like that, because we are not in the midst of war or flood, but how much better are we if we forget the One who made us, and to whom we hurry like the dickens when our small lives get all tangled up because we were so darned stiff-necked we would not pray.

We can be so brave and self-reliant when things are going well with us, but we are like children afraid of the dark, when we barge up against circumstances we cannot control.

But, get it out of your head that our Father means us to have no fun if we keep in contact with Him, that He wants us to have a dry, dusty sort of life if we follow His teachings. Would any of you give up your son to a cruel death for the sake of any of your friends or relatives? I think not.

Would you stand by, so that he even began to think that you had forgotten him, so that when people laughed and jeered at him he had to go thorugh it all alone, just to be sure a lot of ungrateful people would have a chance of eternal life and not be cast into hell?

What would you think of them, if after all you and he had done for them, they went their own sweet way and forget all that you both had done? You would think they were not worth the bother. You would say, "let them go. They'll be glad to come back, when they realize that there is only one way that they can be really happy."

And isn't it possible that God is doing exactly that? That He is using the policy of "hands off," so that we shall be glad to come to Him of our own accord? Never forget that He can do without us, but we cannot do without Him. You say to yourself you are not an atheist, but what indifference you can show, and you will never know how much it can hurt, until someone you love shows the same indifference to you and your love, that you are showing Him. More later.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

DON'T SUFFER FROM CONSTIPATION

Read this letter from Wm. C. Billings (address on request): "When I had eaten a heavy breakfast, I would feel logy. After a couple of days of this, I would have to take a laxative.

"One morning I had a dish of ALL-BRAN. It beats any laxative, as it keeps me in shape every day."

Everybody knows that taking medicine all the time is an unhealthy habit. How much better to end common constipation by enjoying this safe, natural food!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN relieves common constipation because it gives the body the "bulk" it needs. It absorbs twice its weight in water, gently exercises and sponges the intestines clean.

Try it for a week. If not satisfied your money will be refunded by the Kellogg Company. Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually enough—with every meal in chronic cases. Serve with milk or fruits. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in London.

Its promptness and effectiveness in loosening the phlegm is such that the trouble may be checked before anything of a serious nature sets in.

He Actually Said It

Members of parliament do not buy postage stamps. They do not have to. All that is necessary is that they write their initials on the outside of mail matter and away it goes. They send letters, copies of their speeches, material which is straight campaign stuff, and the post office department carries it for nothing. That is called the franking system, and it has been abused. What is more the abuse is a matter of general knowledge.

So much for that. The rest is hard to believe, but it is all accorded in the pages of House of Commons Debates for the fifth day of February in the year 1937. On page 676. Let us quote:

Mr. McIVOR: As a new member I was surprised that I did not have to pay any postage on the letters I posted. . . . I want to say that I am better able to pay my postage now than I was before I came into the house. I think members of parliament should pay their own postage and thus put the postoffice on a paying basis.

Being a little disturbed at such an outburst of frankness on the part of a member of parliament, we thought it advisable to look in the Parliamentary Guide in order to make certain there had been no mistake. But there he is, listed as: McIvor, Rev. Daniel, B.A., M.A., B.D., member of the Rotary Club, a [illegible] and a preacher in the United Church. Comes from Fort William, and [illegible] it is somewhat of an Irishman.

[illegible] admits he is better off now [illegible] before he entered the House of Commons; admits he was surprised he was obliged to buy postage stamps [illegible] upon letters, and thinks it high time members of parliament should pay postage as other folk do and see if the post office can be made a revenue producer.

On behalf of a great many people, Mr. McIvor, we feel moved to thank you. It was but a short speech you made, but within it we found the brave suggestion that a member of parliament was willing to pay his way even if he had to put the hand in his own pocket to do it.

Doing the Right Thing

[illegible]ntford ladies connected with the [illegible] and the Women's Canadian [illegible]ood entertained a number of folk who [illegible] taken out citizenship papers [illegible] several [illegible] Canada. Each was presented with a greeting card and an effort was made to cause these new Canadians to understand they were welcomed to the community. There were several speakers and a reception followed the presentations.

That is a good direction toward which to aim some well-guided effort. If there is one way in which a foreigner who casts out his Canadian papers can be taught it is by snubbing him and leaving him entirely alone. These people who come from other lands are built on lines not in similar to our own, and we have [illegible] to meet the individual going to a new community who prefers to be snubbed or ignored rather than noticed and welcomed.

It may be the ladies in Brantford will find it difficult to talk to these [illegible] the barrier of language [illegible] have been completely overcome, they may not [illegible] and a little attention form [illegible] kind of their own which the whole world understands.

Railways and Revenue

[illegible]. C. D. Howe, Minister of Transport, was speaking at Ottawa regarding the railway situation in Canada and made this statement:

"In Canada we have the cheapest freight service of any country in the world. I do not think that can be disputed."

On the same day R. J. Deachman, M.P. for North Huron, in making inquiry regarding financial affairs of the transport office department, used these words:

"Express and express rates have declined [illegible] since about 1918."

"We'll do as [illegible]," said the minister.

It was learned [illegible] statements have a bearing on the [illegible] between workers on Canadian railways and the management of the railways regarding wages. The [illegible] controlled by the railways, a number of 117,000 have been [illegible] in favor of action on a strike vote [illegible]. These companies [illegible] to cancel the reductions in pay [illegible] and restored with sufficient [illegible]

It is [illegible] rates are lower than elsewhere in the world it is beyond the power of the railways to increase them [illegible] the fixing of such rates is in the hands of the Railway Board. In that way railroads are powerless to reach out for greater revenue by increasing carrying charges in order that the men's demands for more wages should be met.

[illegible] be issued until [illegible] road workers did finally receive we find it difficult to see how it would materially improve their [illegible] they could readily enough [illegible] business and transportation, [illegible] they would still be dealing with railways which at the moment are [illegible] and whose power to enforce [illegible] is governed by the decisions of their body.

FIRE AT WH[illegible]

[illegible] Stores Are Su[illegible]

Will Be All Powerful

Governments which have power are seldom satisfied, and they want more power. They want powers which are denied to other organizations, and they desire their own powers to be so deep-rooted that full and absolute carrying into effect of anything they promote will be the result.

President Roosevelt, who has had more power invested in him than was ever entrusted to a president of United States, is seeking greater power at the moment, and the reason is plain. The Supreme Court of his country is the one agency which is beyond political control. Within recent months that court ruled against a number of Roosevelt's New Deal policies because it was found the government of United States did not possess power to pass such laws; the constitution gave to the government no such authority.

The next move, the announcement of which has already been made, is to increase the number of judges on the Supreme Court, and those appointed will be men who approve of the policies of the President of United States. The reason given is that it is desired to have the work of the Supreme Court speeded up so there will not be so many cases hanging fire, and that in itself is a very nice reason under which to advance the real motive—that of making sure the Supreme Court will not rule against legislation by Congress.

Having a sympathetic majority on the Supreme Court would be one way of increasing the power of Congress (or as we would call it in this country, government) to the point where it would be supreme, and where its enactments would never successfully be challenged even by those who would be bound to work under the constitution of United States, and who should make its interpretation the keystone of their findings. When they finish the present move in United States, and there is no doubt it will be done, then the republic will have an absolute monarchy under the guise of democratic government.

History Becomes Hazy

Elihu Root is dead in New York at the age of 92; and the reading of his obituary recalls a good many names and historical events which for the most part have passed from active memory. Col. Edward M. House, who was always at the elbow of President Wilson, says if Elihu Root had participated in the Paris peace conference the trend of world history might have been changed. That at best is but an opinion, but it shows the faith which people had in Elihu Root.

Elihu Root was secretary of War for President McKinley and Secretary of State for President Theodore Roosevelt, and he was head of President Wilson's delegation to the Kerensky regime in Russia, and right there one recalls how dim has become the memory of Kerensky. Alexander Kerensky was a member of the last Russian Duma, a Moderate Socialist; he was Minister of Justice at the start of the revolution in 1917. That was in March; by May he was Minister of War and Marine; in August he presided over the Moscow conference; on the 15th of September he proclaimed the Russian republic, with himself as head of the provisional government and also chief of the Russian army, while in early November of the same year he fled the country when Trotsky and Lenin executed their coup d'etat. How much was crowded into the few months of that one year for Kerensky, and yet how dim has become our memory of who he was and the part he played.

It is recorded that Elihu Root was a member of The Hague Permanent Court of Arbitration, something born from a lofty ideal, but lost in the mad world of more recent growth. It is also stated President Arthur gave him his first appointment in 1883 as federal district attorney of southern New York. How many today have any recollection or information of Chester Alan Arthur as President of United States? He was vice-president on the Republican ticket in 1881, and might have remained in the seclusion which is accorded to all vice-presidents had it not been for the death of President Garfield. Then he served as President until 1885, but failed to secure nomination at the next Republican convention.

We read also that Elihu Root extended the "open door" policy in China, and it is referred to as John Hay's policy. And who again was John Hay? At one time he was editor of the New York Tribune, was secretary of State under McKinley and Roosevelt, and it was John Hay who extended United States trading with China; he had to do with the settlement of the Alaska boundary dispute with Canada in 1903; he framed the treaties which made possible the building of the Panama canal, and in all there were fifty treaties negotiated with foreign countries by the former editor, John Hay. Elihu Root's efforts reached far, but it is of interest to think for a moment of how hazy has become much of the recent history of men who dealt in international affairs.

The Ruling Is Plain

Mayor Leonard St. George of Cache Bay, thirty miles from North Bay has been unseated. The mayor runs a store and it is stated relief orders issued by the municipality had been traded at his place of business. The regrettable feature is that action to unseat the Mayor was taken by a defeated candidate in the last election, but that fact does not get away from the plain wording of the law which contains this clause under the heading of "Disqualifications:"

"A person having himself or by or with or through another an interest in any contract with the corporation or with any commission or person acting for the corporation or in any contract for the supply of goods or material to a contractor for work for which the corporation pays or is liable directly or indirectly to pay, or which is subject to the control or supervision of the council or of any officer of the corporation, or who has an unsatisfied claim for such goods or material."

The exception made to that ruling is in the case of a person who may be a shareholder in an incorporated company having dealings with the corporation, but it is also stipulated that such shareholder who may be a member of council "shall not vote on any question affecting the company."

There is nothing in the report from Cache Bay to indicate or suggest that the Mayor was not dealing fairly with the holders of civic relief orders, or that he was using his position to pull the business to his store, but the law on that point is plain. We doubt whether in recent years it has been as strictly enforced as it might have been, and the reason may well be that individuals hesitate to take action for fear of being regarded as local busybodies.

Two Toronto men were seriously injured when they were struck down by a stolen car. It is difficult enough to dodge the machines that are legitimately on the road without having to avoid stolen automobiles.

A "horror parade" of wrecked automobiles, ambulances, hearses and floats showing "dead" and "dying" motor victims was held in Jacksonville in an effort to scare the public into safer driving. The trouble seems to be however that no driver is able to visualize such things happening to him.

Peterborough expects to get by with $14,000 less for relief than was expended last year. If this hope is realized it will represent a decided betterment although $56,000 for relief purposes looks enormous alongside the modest budget of the Central Charity Board in pre-depression days.

USEFUL MAN

(By A. R. K.)

¶ Old Johnny Doe attends his lodge, when there's some work he'll never dodge, the members all know that; and so he's on committee's there, and tends to everything with care, his effort's never flat.

¶ When there is ever work to do, of names they put on quite a few, and place them in a row; but members all make sure of this, they see that never will they miss, the name of Johnny Doe.

¶ They meet and plan the things they'll do, they figure when they'll get it through, and then they up and go; and they don't bother with it more, forget it when they close the door, it's left to Johnny Doe.

¶ And Johnny Doe goes oft to church, and roosts upon the family perch, he's on committees there; he buys the cordwood and the brooms, binds broken books with ancient tunes, wires up the weakened chair.

¶ And Johnny Doe was reeve last year, it struck the folk as rather queer, they never heard his name; the other members talked and spoke, and raised aloft their sacred smoke, they grabbed for fleeting fame.

¶ And chairmen wave their hands and talk, folk point them out along the block, no so with Johnny Doe; the same in council, lodge or kirk, when others fold their tents and go—then Johnny does the work.

LAUGHING AT SOMETHING

Mr. ELLIOTT (Middlesex): May I make myself clear? You cannot give expression of a government's intention in a matter of that kind until a decision has been reached.

Mr. ISNOR: Perhaps this is a laughing matter; I do not know.

Mr. ELLIOTT (Middlesex): I do not think it is.

Mr. ISNOR: To me it is a matter of business. Ever since confederation the practice of the department has been to set up in one column its revenue and in the next column its expenditure, and one subtracted from the other gives the net deficit or the surplus as the case may be. This evening the minister comes here and, after having been questioned with regard to the set-up of expenditure, says, in effect, we should or perhaps we shall include an item running into many thousands of dollars. Then, when I ask whether it is the intention of the department in future to include this expenditure, he laughs.

An hon. MEMBER: No, that is not correct. We laughed.

Mr. ISNOR: Then, I say, members of the house are not dealing in a businesslike way with this matter.

An hon. MEMBER: Do not be too serious.

Mr. ISNOR: I am not too serious, but I do not want to be laughed at when I am asking a question that I consider I am entitled to ask.

An hon. MEMBER: We were not laughing at the question; we were laughing at the answer.

HE WANTS TO PAY!

Mr. McIVOR: As a new member I was suprised that I did not have to pay any postage on the letters I posted. If the Postmaster General and his staff did not do anything but carry the letters of the 245 members of this house, they would certainly be deserving of commendation. A dollar a day for 245 members—the hon member from Huron North (Mr. Deachman) is not here — for 100 days, which would be a short session, would mount up into the millions.

Some hon. MEMBERS: No.

Mr. McIVOR: I am not a mathematician.

Some hon. MEMBERS: Hear, hear.

Mr. McIVOR: I want to say that I am better able to pay my postage now than I was before I came into the house. I think members of parliament should pay their own postage and thus put the post office on a paying basis. I have just one criticism to make. I should like to see the letter carriers get their holidays on Christmas day and Good Friday.

TOO MUCH FREE MAIL

Mr. ELLIOTT (Middlesex): I have before me a list of all the buildings; I shall be glad to give it to my hon. friend.

Mr. SPENCE: No; we do not want to take up the time of the committee. If the minister can give the information in regard to Toronto, that will be sufficient. While he is looking it up, let me say it is no wonder the post office does not pay; it costs too much for franking privileges. If you went from here to-night on the Toronto train, to-morrow morning at station A you would see the postmen unloading bags of mail piled up ever so high, all franked from this house. Half of the publications from the different departments, and particularly the Department of Agriculture, should be eliminated entirely. We are breaking the backs of the postmen with the weight of the mailbags strapped over their shoulders, and mostly carried for no purpose.

Mr. BRADETTE: Why the agriculture department particularly?

Mr. SPENCE: All the departments. I am not going to say we should not have the franking privilege from this house, because it would make it very difficult for some hon. members if we did not have it. It would not for me, because I send very little, but I see hon. members sending out stuff that would cost them five or ten dollars a day.

Mr. BAKER: An abuse of the privilege.

Mr. SPENCE: I think the minister said it cost over a million dollars.

Mr. MULOCK: Will the hon. member permit a question? Did he mention that before the last general election?

Mr. SPENCE: No; at the present minute. I will bet you a hundred dollars that to-morrow morning—

The CHAIRMAN: Order.

Mr. SPENCE: And it will be worse before the next election, if things go on the way they are. The hon. member had better keep quiet or I will tell a little story on him. I am not as dumb as he may think I am.

Mr. MULOCK: We never suspected that the hon. member was dumb.

CAMDEN WOLVES.

(Belleville Ontario-Intelligencer)

KEEPING the wolf from the door appears to have a real significance to the folks living in Camden Township, north of Napanee, where wolves are reported as raiding the sheep folds. Camden Township Council paid $600 for damage done to sheep by wolves during 1936, and didn't like it a bit. Ten-dollar bounty is now offered by the council for every wolf killed, and three skins have been brought in thus far. Lack of snow prohibits tracking of the wolves and dogs will not follow a wolf trail, it is said. The Camden wolves have been identified as a half-breed variety, exceedingly fearless, and seem to know their way around the farm buildings. Can it be that the mild weather is sending the wolves south in the hope of finding real cold weather and plenty of good pickings?

AT ANY PRICE.

(Manchester Sunday Chronicle)

THE Spanish trouble is only one phase of a long-drawn-out crisis which has come to a head many times in the last three years with quite as ominous threats to peace as Europe now faces. After such tests as Danzig, the Rhineland, and Italy's attack on Abyssinia, it is clear that nobody wants European war, that every nation will go to extreme lengths to avoid it, and that peace can stand a greater strain than the Spanish situation now imposes.

EXPERIENCED

Editor Examiner:

Sir: As a producer of milk and a former producer-distributor of same, I wish to pass a few comments on this pasteurized bill which was introduced at the last meeting of the city council.

I cannot help but allow a big smile to creep over my face when I read the remarks passed by a few people who think they know the why and the wherefores of pasteurizing milk. Of course a person has a right to voice an opinion but on such an important subject would they not be well advised to study pasteurization before passing comments on what they think to be right. Years ago back in 1905 I could pick a lot of flaws in it but my how times have changed. Pasteurization of any article certainly improves it and frees it from harmful bacteria and disease that may be present.

Being a producer of milk I was always interested in producing the best grade of milk possible for my customers. I therefore in the past ten years made a thorough study of pasteurization and ways and means of keeping my cattle healthy. Sorry to say careful and all as I am I lost a number of cattle in the last check-up with T.B. This of course is only one of the many prevelant diseases, abortion and Bang's disease chasing it very hard. We can protect the public by having our cattle tested twice a year but in spite of this precaution we all have lost cattle at one time or other and the government veterinary certainly cannot park on our door step all the time to stop this when the trouble occurs.

Therefore any person or persons who are public spirited enough to forget fourth rate thoughts creeping into their minds have certainly no grounds to resent pasteurizing all milk going into any city or town whose citizens could possibly support a pasteurizing plant. Surely we have enough plants in Peterboro' to look after the needs of at least 10,000 more of a population. They tell me Oshawa has only three, why all the cry about monopoly and putting the small man out of business? Surely our present aldermen and mayor have the interest and welfare of the public at mind to see that this bill is put through right away before Peterborough has the experience several other cities have had. Milk is a perfect food and should be consumed in larger quantities so why not give them the best. I have always been treated very fairly by the plant I ship to and certainly a whole lot better off than when I used to spend hours delivering milk around the city. Distributing milk is a very important one and very costly. Yet nobody offers a word of comment on the fellow who buys his milk and then delivers. The average quality of pasteurized milk delivered in Peterborough is exceptionally good and deserves the whole hearted support of the citizens and the representatives, the aldermen. Other cities have it, why not give Peterborough the best milk possible. Petty thoughts and grievances should be forgotten on such an important subject as this.

A PRODUCER

P.S.: I certainly won't drink raw milk even though I do produce it Myself and the Board of Health are to be admired on the stand they have taken on this very important matter, as pasteurization does not harm milk in any way, but gives the public that added protection that is so necessary for the health of the community.

NOT THE SAME

Editor Examiner:

Sir: A gentleman recently appeared at one of local theatres here presenting "Crystal Gazing" and "Message Reading." To this I would like to say that there are gullible persons who believe that this exhibition shows genuine telepathic power on the part of the crystal-gazer, and it is a regrettable fact that some people have taken advantage of that situation to prey upon the susceptibilities of their audiences. But from the performer's view the crystal-gazing and message reading act is merely a form of trickery. To be presented legitimately, it should be simply a form of entertainment, in which the spectators are mystified by the performer's ability to state what they have written—not by his ability to give answers to the questions.

What the Sparrows Think.

FOR nearly a month now the sparrows have been playing about on my garden path, just outside the window. At first we offered them a casual hand-out to help them through a few days of cold. Then it became a regular meal ,twice a day. Now it is a grim duty, a set routine, and the sparrows expect us to carry it out, without question. They are permanently on relief.

If we are a few hours late in putting the grain out for them you can tell by their chirp of protest that they feel we have treated them very badly, failed in our solemn undertaking. The grain is no longer a favor to them. It is an obligation, their right.

And every day you can hear the sparrows talking about the source of the grain. Some of the more intelligent sparrows hold that the food falls from the sky. The high gods up in the sky, they say, make this delicious food and drop it like rain for sparrows for whom the world was especially made. Others insist that the large, two-legged slaves of the high gods, who live in this house, are ordered to place the food there for them. Still others believe that it grows up out of the ground every day for their benefit.

All of them agreed on that point—that this grain is part of the natural scheme of things, designed for their benefit because they are the most important creatures in the universe. They don't know where the grain comes from. They don't know it is grain or that it grows in a field in Saskatchewan and is shipped here in freight cars and ground up fine in a mill.

They believe that the south wall of this house was erected to shelter them from the north wind, that the evergreen trees were planted to provide them with cosy roosting places in the Winter, and they tell me that the lord of creation is a very large sparrow with especially fine plumage who always sees that there is plenty of food for them in a universe designed for sparrows.

It is interesting to listen to the sparrows' talk. You have to remember, of course, that they haven't the intelligence of human beings.

LOCAL BOYS, ETC.

(Belleville Intelligencer)

JIM and Nathan Booth were born on George street, Belleville, grew up, went to school, and looked out upon the world of business in an effort to choose the line of endeavor to which they would be both best fitted. They chose the profession of the chemist, and after the usual apprenticeship with local druggists and college course Jim thought the United States and not too large for his field of endeavor. Before long he was promoting a toothpaste, which, with big national advertising behind it, became favorably known around the world. Jim sent for Nathan, and together they put over some big deals, always winning their commercial battles with the best ammunition available, publicity — particularly newspaper advertising. James and Nathan Booth are big figures in the big business world of the United States and among their various promotions the names of "Ipana" and "Sal Hepatica" will be readily recognized by all.

LED TO FAME.

(By The Canadian Press)

TWO WOMEN on a trans-continental airliner several months ago took special notice of Pilot Laverne Brown, then one turned to the other and said: "Oh, I think he's a dish. I mean, he really is a honey."

That started it. Today Pilot Brown, using John Trent, as his movie name, is one of the hottest prospects in Hollywood.

Producer B. P. Schulberg, who hadn't noticed the pilot, said he overheard the women. "So I looked at him. I saw a big, strong, dark-haired fellow. When we set down in New York, I cornered him at the lunch room and talked to him."

Three times Brown refused a screen test. "I didn't know the first thing about acting," he grinned, "and I didn't want to give up a good job that I liked. My wife talked me into it, finally." Trent's first picture. ("A Doctor's Diary.") in which he played the lead, was previewed several days ago. Now major producers are hollering "I get him next." He is the talk of the town.

"The whole thing has been a dream since it started," Trent said. With no preliminary training, no bit parts, he was pushed off in the deep But directors say he is one-in-a-thousand, a natural actor.

"I was pretty scared," he said. "Every scene was just like a new takeoff and, boy, there are no beams to follow in this business."

TALKING TURKEY.

(Country Home Magazine)

AROUND 70 per cent, of all turkeys are marketed and consumed between Thanksgiving and Christmas. The birds are just as good to eat at other seasons; in fact fried young turkey is delicious in late summer, but few people have ever eaten it. Last season there were 20,000,000 turkeys produced, 5,000,000 more than in 1935. As a result of the surplus, prices were low. Production has been growing because, due to disease control methods, it is easier to raise them. As a means of increasing turkey consumption and lengthening the season, it is proposed that February 22nd be added to the list of "turkey holidays." Washington raised turkeys. Why not?

POLITE HORNS.

(Kitchener Record)

A CHICAGO hotelman, just returned from abroad, was favorably impressed with the low,polite modulated tone of European horns. Automobile manufacturers this side of the pond should equip next year's car with horns not only would purr a gentle ing, but that would sound a reproof at the erring pedestrian a mild protest at a car that's a stop sign, and, perhaps, admiring whistle if an woman drives by.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 9. — Wheat prices pointed upward toward the last on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday, reports of dust storms in the South having much to do with offsetting a falling-off in foreign demand for the grain.

Values at the close of an erratic but featureless session were ½c to 1c higher. May at $1.29⅞, July $1.24½, and October $1.13⅜. A flurry of buying in the late stages enabled prices to close at virtually the best levels of the day.

Damage to the United States winter-wheat crop was feared as high winds drove across Kansas and other parts of the south-western grain-growing area. The bullish reports prompted a small scale rush to buy that found selling at a minimum. No export sales of Canadian wheat during the week-end were reported which resulted in some of the early one-cent losses. Helpful to the late rally were gains of more than a cent at Chicago, where weakness prevailed earlier. Liverpool was firm.

PRIVILEGED MEN HAD OWN RADIO

plaints heard, there would have been no trouble," suggested Mr. Gillanders.

"That is correct," was the reply.

Better At Burwash.

"Conditions at Burwash Reformatory are superior to those at Guelph," said the 19-year-old Ottawa prisoner. He entered the Guelph Reformatory in March of last year, had previously spent two years at Burwash, he said.

"At Burwash we might have to work a bit harder, but we could wash before dinner and again before supper at night. Here we can't wash from the time we go out in the morning until after supper.

"We washed in the dormitory at Burwash before each meal, but here we are not allowed to return to the dormitory during the day. At Burwash we could go and lie down in the dormitory for a half-hour after meals.

"The guards at Burwash are better than here. They know how to handle men.

"The dishes are cleaner at Burwash, not greasy as they are here, and we get a knife, something you never get at Guelph.

"At Burwash we got a square of butter three times a week, but the only time I've seen butter here was at dinner on Christmas. We got pepper each day at Burwash, but never at Guelph."

Likes Dormitories Better.

The Ottawa prisoner said he liked the dormitory system better than the individual cell system, although in his dormitory he was occasionally awakened at night by other prisoners talking in their sleep.

The fifth prisoner was a slight boy of 17 who has served 17 months in reformatory. "If I make parole I go out in November," he told the inquiry. He said he had been one of the group who had intended to refuse food at the January 17 dinner, but he was turned back by the guards before he got into the dining room.

"A lot of the fellows got drunk on bay rum out of the guards' barber shop during the riot," said prisoner "E." "That's how it is so many escaped—they were so drunk they didn't know what they were doing."

"Who are the politicians?" asked Ralph Bone, assistant counsel.

"They are the privileged prisoners, we call them politicians. They think they run things. They get private cells and the soft cushy jobs of clerks, teachers and so on."

"Where did the politicians get the radio?"

Had Pull to Keep It

"Oh, one of them had the radio brought in for him and because he was a politician, he was able to keep it," said the prisoner.

"And this politician was using the radio in his own cell while serving his sentence?"

"Yes."

"Do those in domitories have radios?"

"We hear a radio once every third night, but the reception is not very good," said Prisoner E.

"We didn't want any rough stuff or anything, but Sergeant Maguire tried some strong arm stuff," said the young prisoner.

"He pulled me into the corridor, told the other boys to come out of the dormitory, and said it would all be forgotten and nobody punished. But he locked me and another fellow in the tower, and the boys started yelling.

"Several guards were scared and went to the tower, where they'd be safe," said Prisoner E. "Some of them knew they hadn't treated certain prisoners right, but had reported them for no reason. The guards figured they would be mobbed, they thought there'd be stuff flying around and that they'd be on the receiving end. But not a single guard was touched."

Three tear gas bombs were thrown into one small cell in which a prisoner was lying sick unable to move. Prisoner E said, "The guard blocked up the cell with a piece of cardboard and yelled, 'Now, will that learn you?'"

There would have been no riot except for the way Sergeant Maguire and Superintendent Dr. Heslip acted, said Prisoner E. "All we wanted was some action to get better food, but they wouldn't do anything."

Prisoner E said he was thrown "in the hole" a week before the riot because he had not been "smart enough" at physical training.

"I was not moved out of the cell for a week," he said. "I was given bread and water for three days. On the fourth day I was given three full meals, and only bread and water the next two days."

"A lot want to be transferred to Burwash, and were peeved when they couldn't get moved. Here we have found bugs in beans, hair and straw in meat. At breakfast we get a tasteless egg powder and porridge. Most boys don't touch the porridge. We get a slice of greasy toast. It is supposed to be buttered toast, but I've seen them fix the grease and put it on with a great big brush."

WATER QUICKLY SUBSIDES AGAIN

not be started until a late hour this morning.

CANMORE, Alta., Feb. 9—(C.P.)—Thirty-one homes were endangered and many families had evacuated their water-surrounded houses as the second flood in three weeks swept down on the "Horseshoe Island" district here to-day.

A mountain town, 65 miles from Calgary, Canmore was endangered when the water rushed over the spillways at the Lake Minnewanka dam, to the west, sweeping over the ice surface of the Bow River.

Twenty-five minutes after the first warning came Monday, water had surrounded a score of homes in the island area. Several children were marooned in a skating rink for several hours and three school girls were trapped on a highway, the flood rushing toward them at a depth of more than a foot.

Men in trucks rescued the children while others were rushed to the island houses bringing residents from the flood area to higher land.

More than three feet of water raced through the district to-day as homes were abandoned.

Worst In 25 Years.

LONDON, Feb. 9 (AP).—The worst floods in a quarter of a century were predicted today as steadily rising rivers, spurred by unceasing rains, submerged wider sections of England and France.

More heavy rain was forecast in both countries. Swollen rivers drove inhabitants from their homes in lowlands and, in some places, flood tides rose in city streets to the rooftops of dwellings.

Parts of 13 counties in Southern England were flooded. Thousands of acres of farming land were inundated and large numbers of householders forced to flee their homes along several stretches of the Thames River.

Flood waters from the Thames, a mile wide at Runneymede, near Windsor, and almost as wide at Eton, continued to spread. Eton College boys fed swans from upper windows in their school buildings.

Northern France and Normandy were hardest hit. Lille, Bethuen and Hazebrouck were invaded by floods. The Seine River recorded crests eight feet above normal and rose persistently.

The situation was grave at Lille and at Armentieres, where three factories were forced to close down.

Some sections of Etain were under five feet of water. About 300 acres in the lower districts of St. Denis, Paris suburb at the junction of three overflowing rivers, were submerged to a depth of six feet.

Many Homes Needed.

The president's flood relief commission, headed by Harry L. Hopkins, reported after a tour of the flood sector an urgent need for housing to replace water-wrecked homes; liberalized credit and increased health protection.

The fatal burning of a National Guardsman when an oil heater exploded in a cabin near Tiptonville, Tenn., and additional disease fatalities among refugees raised the disaster death toll to 431. The refugee list dropped steadily from its peak of nearly 1,000,000 but hundreds of thousands still were homeless. Rehabilitation made great strides in the Ohio Valley—at Cincinnati, Portsmouth, Ironton, and other points where streets were cleared of debris and public services began to function normally. Five thousand workers strove to clean up Louisville.

South of Memphis, the Mississippi was rising all the way to New Orleans. All levees were believed strong enough and high enough to hold the water in sight.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MADOC, Feb. 9.—The Wednesday afternoon tea and bridge, sponsored by the Madoc Women's Institute in the Community Hall was very well attended, and a most enjoyable afternoon was spent. The proceeds about eighteen dollars, made a very welcome addition to the funds already donated to a special line of undertaking. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. R. Beatty and Mrs. R. C. Cummings, and being specially donated were a complete surprise to all concerned.

At a brief executive meeting held earlier in the afternoon, it was unanimously decided to supply two nurses as requested by the town council at the clinic for toxoiding the school children for scarlet fever.

This clinic will begin next Saturday morning and continue the next two Saturdays under local physicians. The nurses whose services have been secured by the Women's Institute are Mrs. Keith Smith and Miss Mary Brownson, both of Madoc.

Paper on Industries

Canadian Industries was the subject very ably dealt with in an excellent paper written by Mrs. Nathan Brownson, ad read by Mrs. C. Whytock at the January meeting held on Friday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Arthur Parks.

With an attendance of 34, the meeting was called to order by Mrs. T. L. Nickle, president, and the Institute Ode was followed by a brief sing-song.

Mrs. C. Whytock was appointed delegate to the Fairs Association Convention, with Mrs. R. Bristol as alternate.

A review of Current Events of the Month was given by Mrs. James Whytock. Plans were discussed for the annual Valentine reunion, and were referred to the entertainment committee, with Mrs. A. Corrigal as convenor.

Reports were received from Mrs. E. Phillips on relief committee, and Mrs. C. Henderson on flower fund committee. Several new members were received, and an afternoon tea and bridge planned for Wednesday afternoon. The National anthem and a social tea hour followed.

About 50 girls a week come into O'Neill's studio, wanting to be models. "And some of them are knockouts—to the naked eye, but not to the camera. I'm lucky if I can use one in a hundred," he said.

"It isn't surface beauty that counts. When I'd see a pretty girl in a cafe, I used to get all excited and say, 'There's a girl I'd like to take a picture of!' But I tried it once, and she came out in the photographs looking like Donald Duck. Her make-up and natural coloring —blue eyes that didn't show blue in the picture—hid a multitude of camera defects."

Figure, poise, grace of movement, knowledge of posing and the indefinable "sex appeal" 'all count heavily in selecting a model, O'Neill said, but there has to be a face to go with it.

SUN LIFE REPORTS BILLION DOLLARS PAID IN BENEFITS

Assets During Past Year Have Increased Over Seventy Million Dollars

TO INCREASE DIVIDENDS

MONTREAL, Feb. 9.—The 1936 Financial Statement of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, awaited with unusual interest this year, was released here today by Arthur B. Wood, president and managing director, who presided at the 66th annual meeting. The report reflects the general improvement in business conditions in the United States, Great Britain, Canada, and other countries where the company secures its business. Of special interest is the announcement that in 1937 dividends to participating policyholders are to be increased. The statement shows an increase in assets during the year of over seventy million dollars which—now exceed seven hundred and seventy-seven million dollars—the highest in the company's history. Incidentally, the assets have increased by over two hundred and nine million dollars since 1929. The assurances in force show an increase over 1935 a definite sign of a general recovery in business conditions, while new business for the year was well maintained at over two hundred and nineteen million dollars.

Financial Statement

The company's securities are carried in the balance sheet at book values which in the aggregate are lower than market values. The amount of government and other bonds is now over three hundred and ten million dollars, an increase of more than ninety million dollars since 1936, the total representing forty per cent of the assets. Investment income shows a substantial increase and in addition profits from redemption or sale of ledger assets during the year exceeded ten million dollars. The total income from all sources is up and increased to over one hundred and sixty-four million dollars; while disbursements are down, leaving an excess of income over disbursements amounting to more than sixty million dollars. The average rate of interest earned on the company's investments shows an increase for the second consecutive year.

The special contingency reserves and surplus of the Sun Life total over thirty-seven million dollars. In addition to the special contingency reserves other reserves have been further strengthened. Taxes paid by the Sun Life, exclusive of those on real estate, amounted to nearly two million dollars for 1936.

Issued First Policy in 1871

The strength of the financial statement is one of the bright spots of the insurance and financial world and apart from the news that dividends to policyholders are to be increased, perhaps the highlight is the fact that since the company issued its first policy in 1871, it has paid out in benefits over one billion dollars to policyholders and beneficiaries. In 1936 seventy-seven million dollars was paid under this heading. In making the announcement regarding the billion dollar payments, Mr. Wood declared the company had passed another milestone of achievement in public service and that the benefits paid out by the Sun Life were only made possible by the thrift and foresight of men and women brought together for mutual protection.

CANADIANS AND THEIR INDUSTRIES... AND THEIR BANK

THE HYDRO-ELECTRIC INDUSTRY

Established long before the commercial use of electricity was even dreamed of, the Bank of Montreal has seen the hydro-electric industry rise from its infancy and has provided helpful financial service in every phase of the utilization of water power to industrial and domestic use.

With abundant snow and rainfall on the uplands, and ample reservoir capacity in numerous lakes, Canada is fortunate in having a reliable supply of water power within transmission distance of the principal industrial centres. Only one country, the United States, has a greater total of hydro-electric development.

More than three-quarters of the power equipment used in manufacturing industries in Canada is electric-driven. Seventy per cent. of Canadian homes, urban and rural, are equipped with this "modern servant."

Cheap hydro-electric power has been an important factor in the rapid development of the mining industries. It has been a deciding factor in the refining of base metals from Canadian mines, which only a few years ago was a monopoly of foreign countries. The use of water power has gone hand in hand also with the expansion of the great forest industries of Canada.

The production of hydro-electric power has advanced steadily since the recovery of 1932, reaching new high records each year. The per capita output is exceeded only by that of Norway, yet only one-sixth of the known available water power resources of Canada has been utilized.

Hydro-electric industries and their employees all over Canada find in the Bank of Montreal the convenient and helpful banking service they need.

JACK CARR TELLS ROTARY CLUB OF BOY PARLIAMENT

Members Are Advised Northumberland's Quota Is Placed At $125

SPEAKS AT LUNCHEON

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 9.—Jack Carr, local member for the Ontario Older Boys Parliament addressed Rotarians at their weekly luncheon Monday telling them something of the work and aims of the Parliament which he attended in Toronto last December.

Jack, who has been interested in boys' work for the past two years told of the formation and work of the Trail Ranger and Explorer groups which have been organized locally and stated further that it was his hope that there would soon be formed a Tuxis group.

Speaking of the work done at the sittings of the Older Boys Parliament he explained how it was divided into three committees: District Enterprise, Life Problems, and the Vocational Guidance Committee of which he was a member. The speaker explained that there had been a distinct gap in the number of Junior Executives from 1930 to the present time. This was to a large extent due to the fact that from 1920-29 men would not study after the days work was done because during the period of prosperity through which we were then passing they found it very easy to get jobs whereas after the depression started they thought it was no use. To become a Junior Executive requires study, work and sacrifice to which few are willing to submit themselves.

Finance Campaign

Referring to their present finance campaign Jack told the club that this year's objective was set at $8,000.00 of which East Northumberland was to raise $125.00 as its share. This amount is necessary in order to pay the Provincial Secretary, E. R. McLean as well as the field secretary for full time work which involves the leadership of 450 Tuxis and Trail Ranger groups as well as giving guidance to nearly 30 summer camps for 2,000 boys. In conclusion he requested that the club members give every consideration to the boys when they were approached with the request to contribute towards the campaign. Mr. A. D. Bennett expressed the appreciation of the club to the speaker for his very fine address.

OBITUARY

ERNEST CARVETH

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARSAW, Feb. 9.—There was a great element of sadness at the funeral on Sunday of the late Ernest Carveth, when he was placed beside his wife, who passed away only ten days before him. There were many friends and relatives from Dummer, as he was born and lived in this township until he moved to Cavan.

Mr. Carveth was a home man, devoted to wife and family. Into whatever work he went, he put his whole heart and worked for others with as much interest as if for himself. Indeed he counted it as working for himself.

Mrs. Clouston, who had only been ill a short time, was a member of the Presbyterian Church. Left to mourn her passing are one son, Arthur, at home, and two grandchildren, John and Jean Clouston; and one sister, Mrs. Jennie Canty, Castleton.

The funeral service was held at the family residence on Tuesday afternoon. The remains were interred in the family plot in St. Andrew's Cemetery, Grafton.

Of a kindly and courteous nature, the late Mrs. Lowery was much loved by her fellow citizens, being ever ready with a kind word or a helping hand for the use of those in need. A life member of St. Thomas Anglican church deceased was also endowed with an honorary membership in the St. Thomas' Women's Association.

CANADIAN INDIANS ARE ON INCREASE HOUSE INFORMED

successors for the existing officers might be ready when needed.

Some Criticism.

The government was criticised for being party to the Vancouver Shipping Federation's failure to recognize the International Longshoremen's Association in that city. Representatives of the harbor board were on the federation it was stated but Transport Minister Howe advised the House the government would shortly dissociate itself with the federation.

The federation, Mr. Rogers said, had negotiated with other Longshoremen's associations which were larger than the I.L.A. The complaint was that wages had been reduced by the federation without consulting the latter organization.

C. Grant MacNeil (C.C.F., Vancouver North) said there had been reports that young women applying for work in Canadian labor bureaus had been assigned to prospective jobs in questionable districts where there was danger of them falling into evil associations. He urged that some effort be made to protect them from this danger.

Mr. Rogers replied the offices were operated by the provinces with grants from the Dominion but he would take the suggestion into consideration.

In the discussion of mineral resources arising from the mines and resources estimates, the suggestion was advanced Canada attempt to develop iron ore mines so the Dominion would be independent in this respect. Conservative Leader Bennett said it had been the experience after long study that Canadian iron ore did not exist in quantity or quality sufficient to meet the need without some importations.

Never Replace Agriculture.

Mr. Bennett also impressed upon the House that mines were a diminishing asset and in Canada there was no definite knowledge as to extent of these resources. He would not like anybody to feel that mines could ever take the place of agriculture in Canada.

Considerable debate arose over Transport Minister Howe's bill to give the minister power to appoint wharfingers. There are 949 government owned wharves outside the jurisdiction of the national harbors board and only 38 with wharfingers. This was because the remuneration was so low that it was difficult to get anybody to act.

It was the opinion of Mr. MacNeil and some other members that wharfingers served no useful purposes and only added to the expenses of those in small communities where their only means of getting supplies was by means of the government wharf. Fees were exacted where wharfingers were on the job. The bill passed all stages without amendment.

Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture, gave notice of a resolution indicating the intention of pursuing operations under the prairie farm rehabilitation act, and Fisheries Minister Michaud announced that the question of issuing trap fishing licenses on the British Columbia coast would be referred to a select committee of the House.

Finance Minister Dunning announced the government was considering submitting the annual report of the Bank of Canada to the house committee on banking and commerce so that the management could be questioned by members as is the case with the government owned railways.

LAKEFIELD

VALUABLE HORSE KILLED IN WELL DURING RESCUE

Chain Slips Round Animal's Neck As He Is Being Hauled From Water

ROLAND DARLING'S LOSS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 9.—When Roland Darling, who lives on a farm in Douro Township, a few miles northeast of Lakefield, set out for church with his family on Sunday morning, he left a number of horses running loose in a field behind the house, as is his custom. In this same field is the board-covered well from which Mr. Darling's household is in the habit of drawing drinking water.

When the Darling family returned from church, having been away not much more than an hour, they noticed nothing amiss; nor did they learn that things were not as they should be until Miss Darling set out to get some drinking water. Arrived at the well, she found the wooden well-cover broken, and heard loud moans, which were emanating from somewhere below the surface of the earth. Looking down, she saw one of her father's finest horses—a beautiful 160-lb. animal—at the bottom of the 15-foot well. The well was so small that the animal could not stand on four feet, but was found practically suspended, with two feet in the water at the bottom of the pit and its forefeet caught in mid-air.

If the accident had happened some weeks ago, when the water was high, the animal would have been drowned. As it was, he stood in about five feet of water.

Miss Darling called her father, who, realizing that they could do nothing about the situation without outside aid, sent for Clarence Foster's derrick which is commonly used for pulling wrecked cars out of ditches.

With some difficulty they succeeded in getting a chain about the horses fore-feet, and by means of the derrick hoisted him to the top of the well.

But tragedy seemed to be stalking in the horse's wake, for just as the animal's head appeared above the ground the chain which was being used to draw him up, slipped and caught about his throat, choking him, so that when the body reached the ground, the horse was dead.

Sickness From Colds Cut More Than Half

Startling Results Obtained in the Most Extensive Colds-Clinic Ever Held—Tests Include Total Of 17,353 Men, Women and Children

Final figures—audited and certified by a nationally known firm of public accountants—disclose really amazing results from a long series of clinical tests of Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds.

The clinic included four series of winter tests, begun in 1932 and concluded last year. A total of 17,353 men, women, and children took part as subjects—and a staff of 37 physicians and 512 supervisors and nurses was necessary to the work.

Following is an official summary of results. Just think what such results would mean to you and your family, especially now with the colds-season at its peak—

Fewer Colds—a reduction of about one-fourth (24.66%) in the number of colds, with all their discomforts and dangers.

Shorter Colds—a reduction of more than one-fourth (28.78%) in the duration of the colds that did develop.

Fewer School Absences—a reduction of considerably more than half (57.86%) in days absent because of colds.

Throughout these tests, results varied in different groups. Some were almost unbelievably good; others were comparatively poor. In your own family group, too, individual results from following Vicks Plan may vary. But its fine record in this tremendous colds-clinic certainly makes it well worth trying in your own home. Here is the Plan, in outline:

To Help Prevent Many Colds

Keep out of crowds as much as possible. Get plenty of rest and sleep. Stay in the open air as much as you can. Eat light, wholesome food and drink plenty of water. Keep elimination regular.

Watch yourself and your family after any exposure likely to be followed by a cold. Then—at the first sniffle or sneeze or the slightest irritation in the nose—quick!—put a few drops of Vicks Va-tro-nol up each nostril. Va-tro-nol is specialized medication, expressly designed for the nose and upper throat, where most colds start. Used in time, it helps to prevent many colds or to throw off head-colds in their early stages.

To Relieve a Cold Sooner

If a cold strikes without warning or gets by even the best precautions—as some colds always will—go straight to bed. Eat lightly and drink plenty of water and fruit juices. For prompt relief, use this vigorous treatment with your dependable Vicks VapoRub:

Massage it briskly on the back (between and below the shoulder-blades) as well as on the throat and chest, for 3 full minutes. Then spread a thick layer of VapoRub over the chest and cover with a warmed cloth. Long after you relax into restful sleep, VapoRub's famous poultice-and-vapor action continues hour after hour—loosening the phlegm, relieving the irritation, easing the coughing, and helping to break up the local congestion.

These simple measures are the basis of Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds in the home. In your packages of Vicks Va-tro-nol and Vicks VapoRub are full directions for following this practical guide to greater freedom from colds. You'll find it easy to follow in your own home.

View Of Stone Upon Which First Kings Were Crowned

Approach of the coronation of King George VI revives interest in the King's stone at Kingston-on-Thames, England, which was centre of the ceremonial at the crowning of seven kings, from Edward the Elder to Ethelred, including Athelstan, the first sovereign to call himself "King of the English." Athelstan was installed with "dreade and marvellous ceremonie" in 925. The stone is the centre of attention from many visitors.

More Than Half of Britain's Prisons Have Been Closed For Lack of Tenants

LONDON, Feb. 9.—(CP).—If the trend of the past thirty years is maintained, Britain in another fifteen years may boast of the ideal state of being a country without prisons.

Since introduction of the Probation Offenders Act in 1907 by Sir Herbert Samuel, then Parliamentary Under-Secretary for the Home Office, the number of committals to prison in Britain has fallen from more than 180,000 to fewer than 60,000.

Discussing the probation system, Sir Herbert declared more than half the country's prisons had been closed for lack of tenants.

"The saving of cost to the nation has been immense, but more important has been the saving of souls," he said.

"There was a time when the Home Department was regarded as an assembly of heartless bureaucrats, whose only idea of penal law was to mete out sentences mechanically, according to a tariff, and whose only maxim was, 'Crush the Criminals.'

"I do not believe that was ever true. It is certainly the opposite of the truth to-day. Ministers have always found the greatest co-operation and encouragement from the staff of the Home Office in any proposals for penal reform."

MARRIED MAN IS PAID $7.00 WEEK

Magistrate Says He Would Like To Have Opportunity Of Talking To Employer

COBOURG, Feb. 9. — Because he was a married man with a family and received only $7.00 a week, Magistrate W. A. F. Campbell allowed Albert Darrington of Campbellford, his freedom on suspended sentence when he appeared in Police Court on Saturday on a charge of converting $60 of his employers' funds to his own use. Magistrate Campbell stated that he would like to have the opportunity of "talking to his employer." Darrington testified that he had been employed buying eggs for a Mr. Baker of Campbellford, receiving $12 a week and later being reduced to $9 and then $7. He was married, with a wife and child.

"Starvation wages," commented defendant's solicitor.

"A married man with a family can't pay rent, buy food and so on with a salary of less than $12 a week. I'd like to have a talk with this Mr. Baker," declared the Magistrate.

ELECTION APPEALS HAVE NOT CHANGED IN PAST 66 YEARS

Old Card Issued By J. O'Donnell In 1871 Has Same Familiar Ring

BREAK UP ALL CLIQUES

The way of the municipal candidate in his appeal for votes is as old as man's ambition and the rivalries it creates. It is as recent as a few weeks ago.

An election card of sixty-six years ago issued by J. O'Donnell who presented himself as The People's Candidate for council to the voters in Peterborough's east ward in 1871 was shown to the Examiner today by W. J. Green, former tax collector.

Mr. O'Donnell was a dentist with an office at the corner of George and Hunter streets where Dr. J. J. Craig now practices the same profession. And the east ward probably comprised most of the present centre ward, for the river was the town's eastern boundary, and Ashburnham ran its own municipal show.

J. O'Donnell's election car has a familiar ring in its warning of debt which presumably other candidates were ready to fasten upon the ratepayers' shoulders.

"Vote against the men who are willing to sink the Town in an irredeemable debt of $75,000 or $100,000"; and again "Vote against the men whose hobby it is to force on the Town a wild and Chimerical scheme of Water Works, contrary to the expressed wish of the ratepayers."

Bath tubs were primitive and rude contraptions, perhaps, in those days, and only for men of property, but the community had to fight fires, and to that end Mr. O'Donnell drew up this plank — "Vote for a Steam Fire Engine and Tanks." Those were the days before hydrants and water mains. The tanks were strategically located throughout the town as big water containers from which the fire engine would pump water to pour on some blazing building.

Another plank in the O'Donnell municipal platform suggests the pathos of time and men who are gone, their aspirations and their accomplishments in all the little towns and even the great cities:

"Some village Hampden, that, with dauntless breast,
The little tyrant of his fields withstood."

Mr. O'Donnell advised his fellow citizens—"Vote to break up all cliques and combinations in the Town Council"; "Vote for men who have no "axes to grind"; "Vote for men who are willing to work for the benefit of the Town, independent of all other considerations."

"Vote for men who will look after the interests of the people generally."

"Vote for men who will attend the meetings of the Council, and not do the business in private lobbying places."

"Vote also to turn out of the Council men who have been the means of putting up in different parts of the Town Gas Posts for ornament only, and for which the Town has had to pay."

Possibly there is a depth of wisdom in the next admonition: "Vote against men who want to be elected only for the Honor."

Other ideas were:— "Vote for an economical, efficient and intelligent staff of Town Officers."

"Vote for having some money spent in your own ward."

"Vote for having the Bell that cost the Town $400, rung regularly, and at the proper time."

"Vote for the people's Candidates, and vote early for men who have an opinion and are not afraid to express it."

Mr. O'Donnell possibly condoned the practice of the municipality paying the expenses of civic deputations on trips abroad, or it may be that the Town had not heard of deputations up to that time. At any rate he is silent on that matter. With a little revamping to adjust it to present day needs on the one hand and expensive projects on the other, Mr. O'Donnell's election card is made to order for the candidate of this generation. The water works system has been extended on every street; the gas lamps are gone, and undreamed of electricity is in every home with bath tubs and the rest of the standard equipment.

And who remembers the council of 1871, and whether J. O'Donnell was elected. The reading of his election card with its minor leit motif of the vanity of vanities might be the beginning of wisdom for municipal candidates and ratepayers alike,—wisdom and its prerequisite humility.

For Wednesday, February 10

A DAY of conflicting conditions is read from the prevailing planetary operations. There are omens of a sudden upheaval or disruption which may prove devastating. Be wise with strangers and in new surroundings. Cultivate influential persons and superiors. Delays, obstacles and postponements may be expected, although a policy of non resistance may eventually be profitable. Private affiliations should bring compensations.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves confronted by a year of contradictory situations, with delays, obstacles, misadventures and difficulties to be wisely manipulated. These impediments may be due to a sudden upheaval in routine affairs, with disturbance and disruption that may bring vital changes in the life, its environs and plans. In this rearrangement, seek the advice and co-operation of those in power and influence.

A child born on this day may have a good mentality, but it may be restive and erratic, although kindly, affectionate and sociable. It will be popular with important personages, superiors and the public.

PANCAKES JUST AN OLD CUSTOM

Walls Of Westminster School Looked Upon Many Shrove Tuesday Contests

CUSTOMS DIE HARD

(By The Canadian Press)

LONDON, Feb. 9—The succulent pancake tossed with time-honored ceremonial today under the hoary walls of St. Peter's College, that famous London institution of learning, better known nowadays as Westminster School, and adjoining the Abbey. And throughout the English-speaking world the quaint old ceremony finds its counterpart in thousands of homes as youngsters clamor for Shrove Tuesday pancakes.

Apart from its observance as the day preceding the six-weeks penitential season of Lent, Shrovetide customs are numerous throughout the world. Shrove Tuesday is Mardi Gras, or "Fat Tuesday" to the French while to the Germans it is Fastendienstag. Everywhere it is associated in some degree with feasting as a preliminary to the Lenten fast.

Traditionally in England Shrovetide merriment began the day before. Children made it a custom to beg for treats in a jingle:

Shrovetide is nigh at hand
And I be come a shroving
Pray, dame, something
An apple or a dumpling.

Ancient customs die hard and the famous "Pancake Greaze" at Westminster School is a red-letter day for the 19 pupils selected to participate in the annual battle staged in the Great Schoolroom. The boys call it "the greese." Brought in with old-time ceremonial, the pancake is tossed high in the lofty hall and a made scramble follows. The boy grabbing the largest portion of the flapjacks gets a reward from the Dean. This originally was a sovereign but in these days of paper currency it is a pound note.

St. Peter's College is one of the oldest public schools in England and the only school of such standing occupying its original site in London. A school was maintained by the monks from very early times. The college owes its present importance to Queen Elizabeth who is remembered as its foundress at a Latin commemoration service held periodically in nearby Westminster Abbey.

Students, or King's Scholars as they are called, jealously prize the privilege to acclaim a sovereign at the ceremony of crowning. The forthcoming Coronation will find the boys holding special seats in a gallery that affords a splendid view of the altar.

Kirma's Question Box Nets Relief Fund $219

When the last question had been answered by Kirma and the final contribution to the Kiwanis flood relief fund through the question and answer column run in The Examiner last week had been entered in the books, a total contribution of $219.71 was indicated. More than 800 questions had been answered at 25 cents each.

The total sum was swelled by the generosity of many who sent in more than 25 cents required with each question. The sum will be turned over immediately to the Kiwanis Club for the flood relief cause.

Another noteworthy contribution to the flood cause is reported to-day from Peterborough branch 519 of the United Farmers of Ontario. The branch has donated $68, proceeds from a recent dance in the Legion Hall.

JEERS GREETED PIONEER SKIER AROUNDOTTAWA

British Officer Tells Of Winter Sports In Canada Fifty Years Ago

FEELING RAN HIGH

By MARGARET BRUCE
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, Feb. 9—(C.P.).—Half a century ago this month skiing was introduced to North America by Lord Frederick Hamilton, aide-de-camp to Lord Lansdowne, Governor General from 1884 to 1887.

In his book, "The Days Before Yesterday," Lord Hamilton says he brought his Russian skis to Canada and coasted down the hills near Ottawa "amidst universal jeers." He adds: "Everyone declared that they were quite unsuited to Canadian conditions," a sentiment echoed this winter by skiers living in snowless regions.

Lord Hamilton described the Canadian winter of his day as dry, crisp and cold, "the air like wine" and the days bathed in sunshine, conditions none hereabouts have noted this year.

Curling, skating, snow-shoeing and tobagganing were the capital's popular sports. The governor-general's residence had two open-air skating rinks in its grounds, two imposing toboggan slides and a covered curling rink. Excitement over one curling match ran so high that long-distance telephone, for the first time in Canada, was used to relay results to Montreal where they were posted on a board. Montreal won.

Elaborately Decorated

For such occasions the curling rink was elaborately decorated in colors by use of stencils. Colored inks were mixed with water and poured into the stencils where they froze to the surface of the ice, producing designs of roses, thistles and maple-leaves "which lasted until they were destroyed by the first six 'ends'."

The Governor-General gave two evening skating and tobogganing parties at Rideau Hall every winter. Of them Lord Hamilton wrote:

"All members of the snowshoe and tobogganing clubs, men and women alike, wore colored blanket-suits, consisting of knicker-bockers and long coats, with bright-colored stockings, sash and knitted toque.

"The rinks were fringed with colored lamps, the curling rink and tea room above were outlined with colored electric bulbs, and Japanese lanterns were stretched between fir trees in every direction."

At the top of the toboggan slides great arc-lamps blazed, and a huge bonfire flared on a little hill. Supper was served in the long, covered curling rink and the table was elaborately set out with silver-branched candlesticks and the Governor-General's fine collections of plate, "but the servants waited in heavy fur coats and caps."

The silver vases held branches of spruce and hemlock instead of flowers. The French cook had to be very careful to prepare dishes with no moisture in them, and the tea, coffee and soup had to simmer over lamps.

Once a week all Ottawa turned out up at Rideau Hall to skate to the music of a military band. At night snowshoe tramps across-country into the woods were popular, and said Lord Hamilton, "the girls showed great dexterity in vaulting fences with their snowshoes on."

38—LUNGING OR TELEMARK POSITION. PART 2

Due to the long base on which the weight is supported in this position, stability in the direction of motion is greater than in the normal running position. For this reason the lunging position is used when snow conditions are such as to cause sudden changes in speed, such as alternating dry and wet snow, alternating shallow and deep snow or breakable crust, etc.

LUNGING POSITION

This position is also used when local depressions and elevations covered with soft snow are encountered, but in these cases the extent to which the knees are bent will depend on the abruptness in change of speed caused by the surface contour.

This position should be first practiced on a very gentle slope with the opposite foot leading on alternate runs. Then try changing the leading foot during the run. Later on it should be practiced in oblique or traversing descents.

TWO CLOSE GAMES IN CAMPBELLFORD

Peterborough Canucks Gain 6-4 Win While Brighton Is Held To a 4-4 Draw

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 9. — A small crowd witnessed two of the best games of the season at Davidson's Arena here Monday when the Campbellford Juveniles held the leaders of the Peterborough Junior League to a score of 6 to 4 while the Campbellford Intermediates who clashed with the Brighton Fly Tox Kings left the score tied at 4-4. The first game found the visitors having the edge on combination plays which cost the home towners the game despite the fact that the locals worked hard and really earned their counters. Peterborough started the scoring with Red Gilbert getting the only goal scored during the first. In the second period Fleming scored for the visitors while Reddick and Nicholos got credit for one each for the locals. In the final period the Peterborough team turned on the pressure which was a little too much for the Juveniles who left it to Reddick to do the scoring with two counters in the period. For the Petes, Fleming and Coursey took two each which wound up the game with the Juveniles on the short end of a 6 to 4 score.

Peterborough—Goal, McKinnon; defence, Coursey, Creighton; centre, Gibert; wings, Fleming, Connely; subs, Whaley, Csumrick, Collins, Leith, Townsend.

Campbellford: Goal, Seguire; defence, Atkinson, Reddick; wings, Jarvis, Bell; centre, J. Farrell; subs, Kennedy, F. Free, C. Nicholos, McCook, D. Nicholos.

Referee—E. Bush.

Second Game

The first period of the second game opened with each team checking hard and neither side seeming to have the edge of the play, however Brighton started the scoring when Corbett got through the Campbellford defence and fooled Turner with a shot into the corner of the net. Two minutes later Bush evened up the score when the Brighton team was all down the ice leaving only the goal tender to beat. In the second period E. Wilkes went through the Brighton team with some nice stick-handling and netted another counter for the locals. Following this H. Lambert took a long shot from centre ice which glanced off the Campbellford defence man's glove as he attempted to reach it and slid into the net to even up the score. Bush drew the only penalty of the game for tripping and the period ended with the locals playing one man short.

In the final stanza Thomson and Rundle each netted one for the visitors while Bush evened up the score with two well-earned goals which brought the game to a close with the final score at 4-4.

Campbellford: Goal, Turner; defence, Lambert, E. Bush; centre, D. Couch; wings, Reddick, Keating; subs, Atkinson, Chas. Bush, Don Free, E. Wilkes.

Referee: Harold Dunk.

NOT MUCH can be said of tonight's intermediate "A" game here between the Fliers and the Petes that the fans do not know already. A full house saw a swell scrap between these teams here a week ago and they can bank on another such setto this eve. Both crews are classy and play a fast, rugged brand of hockey on practically even terms. There is some bitterness between the squads now and, while the Fliers hope to cop their fourth win, the Petes will be out to blast the Aviators with a barrage of goals. It'll be another nifty hockey game and you can take your choice on the winner. It certainly rates a big crowd of fans.

* * * * *

THE SCHEDULE is on the wane now and, if the Petes should lose this tilt, they may not be seen in action here again this winter. The schedule calls for six games and the teams are willing to go ahead with 'em, but if the Fliers should win in four straight, they may be ordered into playdowns shortly or soft weather might conclude our schedule rather abruptly. Peterborough fans haven't seen much good O.H.A. hockey so far this winter. Oh, several games, of course, but not nearly enough. So, they had better cash in on classy contests while the cashing is good.

* * * * *

IT IS a pity for the Petes that they had a poor grouping and are hanging on the well-known ropes so early. The team is just beginning to click properly now. Lack of practise and good competition at the start—while the Fliers were having a gruelling schedule and playoffs—was a big handicap. Clarke is getting his batting eye now in goal and seldom fanning on one. Weir, who didn't go so hot last season, has been having a fine winter in hockey. Magee is bumping 'em hard and Williamson is really hitting his old form lately. McDougall is starting to flash his oldtime trickery again at centre. Calladine and Creighton were going good till injuries hit 'em. Vitarelli was in form all along but Burton and Coughlin are just lately showing their real class. Ellis was slow rounding into shape but is getting there fast now. Same way with Gardner. Murphy and Schultz haven't had enough work to show much. Yeah, the team is coming now but it looks like it's too late. Just look 'em over tonight.

THIS FROM Belleville: "That gang of Peterborough puck-chasers are sure a game gang; they never quit trying and showed plenty of courage. Last night's game was marked with plenty of close checking and we heartily agreed with Coach Kelly who said: 'We've a tough job on our hands with that gang and we can't afford to take any chances.' The Petes missed their veteran centre, Bill Calladine, who is out with a shoulder injury. Whether it was their birthday or not, the McNeeley twins, Eric and Ernie, gave a thrilling display of speed and hockey ability; while the outstanding feature of the game was the stellar work of both goalies. Incidentally, for the amusement of the fans, Smoke Gardner and Archie Weir staged a personal feud with Johnny (One Man Gang) Lalonde, that was a honey. The Fliers go to Peterborough on Tuesday."

OF THE three Blood and Thunder Loop games played last e'en at at the Brock, the Mayfairs-Westclox one was the most bitterly fought. They argued about everything possible, including the referee's pedigree, but it wound up in a 2-1 win for Westclox. The Outboard Marines took a 6-4 decision from Millbrook in a fair sort of melee, and Lakefield lambasted Bewdley by a 5-1 count. Standing shows the Clockmakers on top with Mayfairs next and then Outboard Marines. That's the way it's beginning to look like the playoff teams will finish the schedule—though Lakefield isn't out of it yet. None of 'em are right out so far but Bewdley and Millbrook have no primrose path ahead of 'em now.

STROYAN LEITH, local soccer official, wrote some time ago to News of the World, widely-read English newspaper, asking the soccer columnist if he had ever heard of a nine-game playoff series which wasn't settled. He referred to the local School Soccer Loop finals last fall between King Edward and Central, when the lads battled it out for nine games and then had to call it off as a draw. A recent issue of News of the World devotes several paragraphs to the questions as follows:

* * * * *

"WHAT IS the most number of times two teams have met in the same competition? The query reaches me from Peterborough, Ontario. There, in a public schools competition, two teams met nine times in the final without being able to reach a settlement, and I am asked if it is a record. I ought to mention that the teams did not draw the whole of the nine games. The idea was that they should play three matches to decide the victors, but at the end of these games, they were all square, neither side having scored. Another three games were played and these also ended in draws, and in the final series each side won a game and the last one ended in another draw. I can find no parallel to this amazing feat, but of course matches are not as a rule played on similar lines in this country. In our cup competitions the team that wins a game has not to concede to their opponents the chance to level the account. There have of course been some very long drawn-out ties in which teams have met as many as five times. That has happened more than once in F.A. Cup competition, but subject to correction I shall be prepared to concede to the boys in Peterborough the record."

ANNUAL MEETING of the O.R.F.U. will be held at the Royal York Hotel on February 20th, and one of the main matters to be brought up is that of moving the best intermediate teams up to a Senior "B" rating. Motion is: "All intermediate teams would be grouped as usual and would play their regular schedule. After this schedule is completed, the club finishing in first place in each group would be moved up to senior 'B' and playoff for the championship with other clubs in the same category. The club finishing second in each group will carry on in the same way to declare the intermediate championship." Amendments must be in before this meeting. No doubt, Peterborough will have a representative on deck.

SCOUTS ARE OUT FOR PUCK STARS TO CROSS BRINY

Hockey Still Brisk Overseas And Owners On Watch For Good Material

FANS WANT GOOD HOCKEY

LONDON, Feb. 9 (CP)—The trek of hockey players from Canada to England is by no means ended. English club owners already are making plans for extensive importing from the Dominion for next season.

Practically every team in the National League is on the lookout for fresh talent. The promoters have educated the fans on the best brand of amateur hockey available and they now find themselves in the position where they must keep up the standard they have set.

The wealthier clubs operating two teams — Wembley, Harringay and Earl's Court—are reported to have scouts in Canada now watching players they may decide to invite to England next season.

It is certain Wembley Lions, now in a great battle with Harringay Racers for the league championship, will present a number of new faces.

While they have one of the smartest clubs in the league, Lions are faced with the fact that some of their veteran players are slowing up and cannot stand the strain of the long season they are called upon to play in England.

Paul Herbert, major domo of hockey at Wembley's Empire Pool, is already getting a line on a few players in Canada. Primarily, he is on the lookout for a spare goalkeeper. At present Lions have no one they can use if the brilliant Roy Musgrove of Winnipeg, is injured.

Then too, the defence needs a little added strength. Big Cam Shewan, member of the Winnipeg Monarchs when that club toured Europe in 1932, has been a big disappointment.

Herbert feels that he needs another couple of fast wing men for his front lines, while Albert and Tony Lemay, the flying Frenchmen from Winnipeg, are talking about hanging up their sticks for good at the end of this season. The brothers may be serious in their statement and if they are, Lions will be in a tough spot for they would be hard men to replace.

As for the two Harringay clubs, the Racers and Greyhounds should go even better next season than this, although Percy Nicklin, manager of the Harringay rink and coach of the two clubs, feels there are one or two spots on the teams needing bolstered.

Earl's Court has a real problem to face. Rangers definitely need repairs if they hope to get anywhere next season. This may be simplified if Earl's Court Royals pass out of existence. Rangers of course, would take the best players on the Royals' team.

If the Royals still operate next season, Fred Summerhayes, the man behind the Earl's Court rink, will import extensively from Canada. At present, Earl's Court rink is not a paying concern as far as hockey goes. With the Royals on the bottom of the league, the rink is empty nearly every time that club plays, while the Rangers do not draw exceptionally well even although they are right in the running for the league title.

GANANOQUE WINS 1ST PLACE IN GROUP

Defeats R. M. C. 3 To 0 And Cinches First Place In Group

GANANOQUE, Ont., Feb. 9 (CP)—Gananoque defeated Royal Military College Cadets 3 to 0 here last night and cinched first place in the playoff for the intermediate O.H.A. group honors. The winners scored one goal in each period. Whittaker of Cadets injured his knee and had to retire from the contest and may be out for the season. The teams were:

Gananoque — Goal, Nalon; defence, Brenna, Nicholson; centre, Kennedy; wings, Dickson, Wing; subs, Sheridan, Kirby, Gordon, Bishop and Dexter.

R.M.C. — Goal, Carpenter; defence, Savard, Moore; centre, Wilson; wings, Palmer, Whittaker; subs, Charles Fee, Brooks, Spencer and MacBrien.

Referees—Bus Robertson, Gananoque, Bill Walshe, Kingston.

Chi-Hawk Owners Wants Only American Born Boys

Major league hockey magnates greeted with derision the announced intention of Major Frederick McLaughlin, owner of the Chicago Black Hawks to build an entire N.H.L. team of American - born players within the next two seasons and change the club name to Chicago Yankees. While admitting the idea might be a good one most N.H.L. managers claim the scheme impracticable. They maintain that all the coaching which McLaughlin could give his athletes in a hockey school which he plans for tutoring, would not turn out talent to compare with Canadian-born pucksters who pick up the game almost as soon as they can walk. McLaughlin already has four American-born players on his squad. They are Alex. Levinsky (top centre) and Louis Trudell (top right), and Mike Karakas (lower left) and Elwy "Doc" Romnes (lower right). A good major is shown above characteristic pose.

POSTAL BOWLER HAS 416 SCORE

Andy Jackson Rolls Highest Mark Of Year At Duffus' With Eleven Strikes And a Spare

The highest single score in five-pin bowling this year was hung up by Andy Jackson Monday night at the Duffus' Bowling Alleys. Rolling in the Post Office League, Jackson hit 416 of a possible 450, his four-men team going over 1,100. He had 11 strikes, getting the first two and then sparing out on the third when he left the four-pin standing, going on from there to strike out.

Jackson missed a permanent prize of $100 offered by Duffus' for a perfect score, Tom Curvin last year rolling 450 to collect. Jackson may be in line at the end of the season for a prize for high single for the year. Art Moscrop of the same bowling league last year rolled 410.

Whether or not they will hold it at a later date will depend on what they do at the next meeting of the committee.

Gore's Landing Wi... Over Hiawatha Squ...

HIAWATHA, ... 9. — Gore's Landing defeated Hiawatha in overtime, 2-1, on Friday in a Rice Lake Hockey League fixture. It was a return game played on the Hiawatha rink and the teams went at it hammer-and-tongs throughout. It was tied then but the Landing landed a goal in the extra inning. Both goalies looked good and the Indians, though shorthanded, and having to get young Thompson and Loukes from school for their first game, put up a real scrap. The rookies worked like veterans and Reg. Paudash got the lone goal in the third. Joe Anderson was hurt against the boards but finished the tilt. No penalties were drawn. These teams are now in second place.

Pride of North Bay Does Hat Trick

REGIS "PEP" KELLY

It seemed that Major Frederick McLaughlin had made a wise move when he traded Bill Kendall for "Pep" Kelly, formerly of Toronto Leafs, when in a recent game the ex-Leaf performed the hat trick by scoring three of his team's goals. "Pep" started his hockey career with the North Bay juniors in 1930. The season of 1931-32 saw him with Oshawa and the following year he played for Newmarket, Dominion junior champions. Not satisfied with playing for one championship team he joined the St. Michael's College team, who also won the Dominion junior championship in 1933-34. Kelly turned professional when he joined Toronto in the fall of 1934. This North Bay youngster is gifted with a world of speed and can last a longer time on the ice than most experienced league players.

Stratford And Copper Cliff Redmen Also Have Visions Of Fame

PEMBROKE GOING STRONG

Amherst, Nova Scotia, St. Pat's Going Great Guns In Maritimes

TORONTO, Feb. 9 (C.P.)—While fit survivors lined up for playoffs, Eastern Canada viewed its junior hockey picture with approval today and looked for one of its several outstanding teams to keep the Memorial Cup in the East. The emblem of Dominion supremacy was won last year by West Toronto Nationals. It was the East's fourth triumph in the last five seasons.

Nationals are not operating this winter, but Toronto has worthy successors, as shown by results of Sportsmen's Patriotic Association play and subsequent Ontario Hockey Association schedules.

St. Michael's College, winner of the S.P.A. Trophy and leader of the O.H.A.'s Big Seven, is to bid for the Canadian championship it won three years ago when Nick Metz, Art Jackson, Pep Kelly, and Reg. Hamilton were among those in its ranks.

Stratford Midgets rose to power four years ago, then lost out to Newmarket Redmen in a dramatic, four-game series for the Southern Ontario title. Newmarket went on to win the Memorial Cup. Now Stratford has come back with another great team, one that has lost but one game in 10 in its group.

Vocationals Lose Pivot.

Finalist with St. Mike's in S.P.A. play, Toronto Northern Vocational school has shown itself to be the best of the O.H.A. Junior B teams. Last night, however, Northern Vocationals lost the services of its centre-ice star, Herb. Carnegie, and a new pivot man will have to be found to work with Hank Goudup and Billy Taylor, son of the famous Cyclone Taylor.

Copper Cliff Redmen have set up a remarkable record playing against senior opponents in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association, and are considered almost sure things to come out of the North.

However, Red Hamill, left winger of Redmen, has been suspended by the N.O.H.A. and is under court remand for his part in a fracas on the ice. Copper Cliff's threats will be diminished if he is not allowed to play.

Last year Pembroke Little Lumber Kings gave West Toronto a magnificent fight before going down to defeat. Pembroke has assembled another strong contingent this term, as it showed in beating Ottawa Rideaus, leaders of their group, in a recent exhibition.

Rideaus, however will be no push-overs for any opponent along the way. They have had the benefit of continued strong opposition and, if they survive elimination in their own league, may knock off Pembroke when the clubs get down to serious business.

Montreal's Junior League has been productive of better hockey than in several seasons. Royals last year earned the right to meet Victoria in finals by defeating Canadiens and the team which comes through to should give trouble in the Memorial Cup playdowns.

Representatives of their Provincial Association in 1936, Quebec Aces are being given a tussle right in their own city by Castors, who pulled out in front with a recent schedule victory.

The biggest surprise in the Eastern Junior campaign last season was that provided by Amherst, Nova Scotia, Canucks who were delegates of the Maritimes. They battled Pembroke to a three-game finish before losing out. Now Amherst St. Pats have come up with almost the same line-up Canucks had last year and are promising to come out of the seaboard and with new honors.

Now Scheduled February 28 at St. Margaret's, Quebec.

MONTREAL, Feb. 9.—(CP).—Date of the first Dominion Women's ski championships, scheduled for Feb. 21 at St. Margaret's, Que. has been moved to February 28, the Ski Club Montreal has been advised by Frederick A. Hall of Toronto, president of the Canadian Amateur Ski Association.

A letter, read last night before the Laurentian zone committee of the C.A.S.A., said the February 21 date would conflict with the Ontario and women's championships at Bay.

It was a return bout. The Pennsylvania Athletic Commission called their first fight a draw after Ettore had been credited with a decision.

Lakefield Wins 5-1 Over Bewdley Gang

SENIOR CITY HOCKEY LEAGUE STANDING

Mayfairs	6	4	2	0
Marines	6	3	2	1
Lakefield	5	2	3	0
Millbrook	6	1	4	1
Bewdley	5	1	4	0

Lakefield moved out of the Senior City Hockey League cellar at the Brock St. rink last night by beating Bewdley, 5 to 1. It was a lively game but not a great deal of good hockey was displayed. Sticky ice hampered passing plays and it resembled shinny at times. Play was fairly clean, with Lakefield getting a 3-1 margin in the first and adding one goal in the second and again in the third.

Blewett Good

Blewett scored twice and Deeth once for the Northerners in the initial inning, while L. Mercer got the Bewdley counter. Morin tallied in the second and Blewett wound up the scoring in the third session. The latter played an effective game with the rest of his squad also showing up well. Walker, the two Mercers and Elliott went best for the losers. Each goalie kicked aside some hard thrusts throughout. The teams:

Bewdley: Goal, Sloan; defence, Walker and D. Sidey; centre, J. Mercer; wings, L. Mercer and Elliott; alternates, P. Sidey, Morton and Jewison.

Lakefield: Goal, Loyst; defence, Sabatino and Pearson; centre, Chittick; wings, Blewett and G. Charlton; alternates, Chappell, Deeth, I. Charlton, Morin and Brady.

Aurie 'Tops' Among Right-Wingers

LARRY AURIE

Rated by hockey-wise critics the finest competitive right winger in major league hockey today, little Larry Aurie of the champion Detroit Redwings can well smile happily. The Redwing line of Aurie, Barry and Lewis shapes up as the most effective point gathering trio in the game, with the flashing and hard shooting Aurie as top sniper. Nine years of N.H.L. service hasn't started to age this right-wing ace yet.

Outboard Marines Defeat Millbrook

Outboard Marines took a firmer grip on third place in the Senior City Hockey League by copping a 6-4 decision over Millbrook at the Brock St. rink last night. The loss shoved the Greenshirts down into the fifth slot. Play was ragged all through on ice that became heavy, with good combination and stick-handling seldom seen. The winners had a 3-2 edge in the first frame and were in front 5 to 2 going into the third. It was a clean game though some rugged bodychecking was dished up.

The Marines had more system and experience to their play to crowd in close on Ferguson often in the first two periods. Millbrook had many good chances, also, but their shooting was bad. Play was fairly even in the first with the winners having a slight margin on close-in work. They dominated play through the middle chapter, but a ganging Millbrook squad had them bothered through the third.

Five in First

Cathcart and Sloan scored for the visitors in the first, the latter being aided by Wainman. Cournyea, Payne and Maudsley tallied for the Marines. In the second, Payne notched a nice one and Cripps scored on Lebarr's assist, the puck going in off the goalie. Maudsley scored early in the third with Dallin and Payne in on the play. Millbrook came back strong to get two, Sloan tallying one on Wainman's pass-out and Cathcart getting the other himself. Spencely, Sloan, Wainman and Cathcart went best of the losers; while Maudsley, Payne and Cournyea looked most effective for the other side. The teams:

Millbrook: Goal, Ferguson; defence, White and Spencely; centre, Edmunds; wings, Skitch and Cathcart; alternates, Wainman, McCarthy, Sloan.

Outboard Marines: Goal, Beavis; defence, Lebarr and Cripps; centre, Maudsley; wings, Dallin and Payne; alternates, Cournyea and Reeves.

Feuds Will Enliven Fliers-Petes Clash

Personal feuds are expected to flare up again when the Fliers of the Trenton Airport and the Petes clash here tonight in an O.H.A. intermediate "A" fixture at 8.30 in the Brock Street rink. While the last game here was fairly clean, both tilts on Belleville ice have been marked with rough, bruising play. The Petes have marked the McNeeley twins, Cowley, Lowrey and Lalonde as being the rougher Fliers and will exchange wallop for wallop with them. The Aviators have taken three of the three games played so far between these teams in the six-game (no playoffs) series, and hope to wind it up with four in a row. The Petes are battling desperately to break into the victory column and may win here tonight.

Despite the loss of Bill Calladine, the locals hope to lick their fast, classy rivals in this tilt before a big crowd of home rooters. There is little difference in the teams, and the homesters have a fair chance of nosing out a verdict. But it will be a bitter, close contest from start to finish—and with some grand hockey displayed by both squads. The Airmen are at full strength and will win if at all possible, not taking any chances on the up-and-coming fighting Peterborough gang. It promises to be the most thrilling tussle of the season.

Westclox Gain Nod Over Mayfairs 2-1

Westclox climbed into undisputed possession of first place in the Senior City Hockey League last night at the Brock St. rink by nudging out a 2-1 nod over Mayfairs before a small crowd. A two-goal splurge in the second heat after a scoreless first frame gave the Clockmakers the win, Mayfairs marking up one in the third.

The ice was fair and the game fast, as well as being bitterly fought. There were numerous arguments, mostly verbal, and a bunch of penalties passed out for minor infractions. The Mayfairs had only two substitute players and were without Pete Vitarelli, strong defenceman, but made it a battle all the way. They ganged up in the third and had an edge on play after an even first period, while Westclox looked best in the middle chukker.

Field Got First

Field scored, aided by Williams, halfway through the lively second stanza. Whatley made it 2-0 on a fine piece of stickhandling on a lone rush. The third chapter was well advanced when Meyette tallied for the losers in a close-in scramble. Tharby was hit in the face with a puck but stayed in the game. Both goalies looked good in this game, and the defences checked well. The forwards worked hard but their passing was not too good. Gardiner and Currie stood out for the Mayfairs while Whatley, Field and Williams went best for Westclox. The teams:

Mayfairs: Goal, Currie; defence, Gardiner and Mowry; centre, O'Leary; wings, Cournyea and Hill; alternates, Meyette and Driscoll.

Westclox.—Goal, Tharby; defence, Parsons and Whatley; centre, Field; wings, Williams and Dinsen; alternates, White, O'Leary, Calladine and Padgett.

Referee—Gamey Jarvis.

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Feb. 9—(AP)—Walter Johnson's tough luck still is with him . . . Great pitcher on a mediocre Washington team for years, his pay scarcely was up to his ability . . . What he did save dwindled in the collapse . . . But he still has his head up . . . He'll be 50 next November, and he's dairy-farming in Maryland to keep seven kids, two of them his sister's . . . Chief family worry at the minute is that his son Ed broke his nose playing basketball for the University of Maryland against Navy the other night.

Powel Crosley, owner of Cincinnati Reds lost plenty in Cincinnati's flood and fire, but he didn't take back any of that $200,000 offer for Dizzy Dean.

Tony Lazzeri's still kidding Babe Ruth about putting tonic in his eyes before going to bat. The Babe used to wash his eyes every time before strolling to the plate. When he'd get a hit, he'd come back and say, "Boy, that eye wash does it!" Lazzeri got tired of hearing this, so one day while the Babe was raving about it, Tony picked it up, took out the cork and took a long drink of the stuff . . . Ruth almost collapsed. "You'll die," he yelled . . . He didn't find out till later that Lazzeri had drained the bottle before the Babe used it and filled it with water.

It's probably not of lasting importance, but 81-year-old Judge McKeever, president of the Dodgers, shakes your thumb instead of your hand when you meet him . . . Consensus around the ball meetings was that Dizzy Dean will be offered a $22,500 contract.

Tony Canzoneri's brother, Oy, is captain of the University of Alabama boxing team . . . Bill Terry has a favorite Porter on the Missouri Pacific . . . His name is Harvey, and Terry has requested that Harvey be assigned to take care of the Giants while traveling over that road.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9—(A.P.)—Lou Gehrig may be the successor to Babe Ruth in July, but in February he's just another first baseman . . . When Lou tried to talk Colonel Jake Ruppert out of more money and failed he got up to leave and left his contract on the Colonel's desk . . . "Don't forget your contract, Lou," reminded Ruppert . . . "I think I'll leave it here," replied "Legs" . . . And there it is, in the Colonel's upper left hand drawer.

Jack Dempsey's place in Miami Beach is doing all right . . . Incidentally, he doesn't actually "own" those places . . . He's just the front . . . Paul Berlenbach, Jack Delaney and Tom Heeney also are working in Miami . . . And Gene Tunney's building a new house in Palm Beach.

Bump Hadley, first and only Yankee regular to sign so far, has worked up a new winter business . . . During the baseball season, he takes movies of the stars and the big games . . . In the off-season, he goes around the country telling baseball stories and showing the pictures. He gives a lot of free talks, but he gets anywhere from $25 to $200 most places, and makes winter expenses out of it. The Giants didn't out Hank Leiber, despite his bad year, and they haven't heard from him yet.

Billy Beauhold, promising young lightweight, is actually Billy Madden, a good Irishman . . . Both his parents died when he was a kid and a poor Dutch family named Beauhold adopted him in St. Louis . . . He's fighting now out of Jersey City, a good Irish town . . . His backers want him to change to his right name. But he won't, and he's taking care of the St. Louis Beauholds with his earnings.

JACKSON IS IN TIE WITH LARRY AURIE IN N.H.L. SCORING

Apps Has Moved Up To Catch Shriner In Fourth Place In Standing

AURIE HAS 22 GOALS

MONTREAL, Feb. 9—(CP)—Detroit's Larry Aurie, with a week's bag of five points, has forged into a tie with Harvey Jackson of Toronto for leadership of the National Hockey League's scorers.

Official league figures released last night show the Red Wing and the comeback artist of the Maple Leafs drawn at 34 points apiece. The official figures give Aurie 22 goals and 12 assists and Jackson 17 and 17.

(On the basis of summaries published after each game, Jackson is shown as having only 16 assists. The figures could not be checked with the N.H.L. office today).

Dave Schriner of New York Americans, tied with Jackson for first last week, had dropped back to fourth place behind Marty Barry of Detroit, whose ten goals and twenty-three assists put him three up on Sweeney and Syl Apps of Leafs. Apps has moved up fast recently.

Aurie still topped the goal-getters with twenty-two tallies, five up on Jackson, and Barry was still leading in assists with twenty-three.

The Ruesty Reubens and "The Girl on the Front Page"

The Rusty Reubens is the title of a Musical Cowboy outfit that gives you plenty to listen to, what with Elmer Peabody who plays on the 'what is it' and jazzes up the show in general; a lad with a glittering silver piano accordion, a tall bimbo who 'slaps the bass', another who is a nifty with the fiddle, and a performer on the banjo-guitar.

They do cowboy songs: "Comin' Round the Mountain" and "Tumblin' Tumbleweeds"; they play the harmonica and do imitations on the fiddle, along with a gay presentation of "Turkey in the Straw"; they sing about 'Farmer Gray' and 'Boots and Saddle' and 'The Chapel in the Moonlight', and they give you a 'streamlined' yodel and a musical goulash called 'Mixed Pickles'. They have a trick rope-thrower, also, who gets a big hand with his extremely clever rope tricks. He throws eight cows at once and does some tall skipping-rope stunts with a double rope wheel, all with speed and vim.

The feature picture, "The Girl on the Front Page", is lucky in having two excellent actors to bolster up a thin tale. Edmund Lowe, who never lets a part down and gives it everything he has, from first to last, is the hard-boiled newspaper man, 'Hank' Gilman, who has to hold down a job and temperamental lady boss at the same time, after his own chief passes out and leaves the Chronicle to his pretty daughter, a dame who upholds the ancient saying that they don't often come good-looking and brainy too. The other very good actor is that man who seems to get better as he grows older, in inverse ratio to the general theatrical practise. He is Reginald Owen. Where could you get a more natural-acting person than he, in any role? And the lady is the pretty Gloria Stuart.

The picture hews close to the line with the latest style in moving pictures, in which a dramatic situation (blackmail) is sugared and lightened by plenty of gay persiflage on the part of the main actors.—C.L.M.

The Day That I Forget

By MARIE BLIZARD

READ THIS FIRST:

Janet MacLeod has just married Joel Paynter, second-rate actor, whom she met a few weeks previously at a cocktail party. Because Joel asked Janet to stop work, she has had to economize. Martha Colby, her best friend, visits Janet in their one-room apartment. Joel tells Janet his show is closing. Janet abandons the idea when Joel, because of pride, rebukes her for considering it. Joel finds a job but he is vague about where he is working. Janet meets Harry Devanter, an old beau, who insists she have a cocktail with him. (NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 6

"MY IT'S beautiful!" Janet said following Harry and their waiter to a wall table against the gaily painted walls of the Jungle Bar.

"I'm surprised you hadn't heard of it before. It's a popular spot at night with the younger set, but the old gals come here in the daytime to catch up on their thrills."

Janet's eyes traveled appreciatively around the big room to the dance floor beyond. A Spanish orchestra played softly on the palm-decorated dias at the end of the room. There were soft, cool lights, the companionable sound of clinking glasses and the air was sweet with mingled perfumes. There were flowers on each table. A girl in a page's costume moved from table to table with her tray of hors d'oeuvres. The appointments of a luxurious play place.

Noting the prevalence of diamond bracelets, of sable and silver foxes thrown back over chairs, Janet wished that she was wearing her good black taffeta frock instead of her faded summer print. It was still warm these mid-September days but the new autumn fashions had already made their debut and Janet felt shabby and uninspiring.

"I've been so busy keeping house," she said, "I haven't had a chance to run over to Paris this fall for my clothes."

"You look alright to me," her host said gallantly. "You look fresh as a daisy compared to most of these women."

I well might, Janet thought, noting that most of the women were indeed fat and 40 as he had said. "Harry, as we used to say, you must be in the chips. Tell me about yourself."

He had been with a booking office she remembered. "I am, Janet. Did you know I had connected with the Federal Picture Company?"

The Federal Picture company was a large combine in Hollywood. "Congratulations, Harry! I didn't know. You're not an actor, are you?"

"No, honey, and no longer a 10 percenter," Hollywood's name for agents. "I'm scouting. Perhaps you read about Liane Lester? I discovered her working in a haberdashery store. She's going over big. The movies are looking for new types and faces and I'm official looker."

"That must be interesting." Janet sipped her cocktail and her eyes wandered to a nearby table where two women were sitting alone. They were both fiftyish and they simpered and cooed when a young man with a green carnation in his lapel came over to their table. They exchanged a word across the table and on of the women rose.

"What are you looking at?" Harry asked.

"That table. A young man with a green carnation came over and..." her glance darted to the dance floor. "What is this? A St. Patrick's day party? All the young men have green carnations."

Devanter laughed. "No, little innocent, the green carnation marks the gigolo. Most of them are chorus boys. They get $20 a week and a tip slipped into their hands by the ladies when the dance is over. I say, Janet!"

"What's the matter?" Janet asked alarmed, and felt the back of her hair. Harry was looking at her so strangely she thought her hair might be slipping down her back.

"There isn't anything the matter. I was just thinking of something that might interest you. Ever do any acting?"

"I? Don't be ridiculous, Harry."

"I'm trying not to be. I have an idea. You know we're not looking for pretty girls in the pictures today. We're looking for interesting girls, malleable material for directors to develop. You look an awful lot like Helen Hayes. You've got the same way of smiling as though you didn't know how poignant the effect is. What about it?"

"What about what?" she said derisively. "I go to the movies, Harry. I know what the movies want. Good heavens, I'm a plain, home girl and you're trying to get me excited pretending I might be a movie queen. You've got to be beautiful and..."

"No you don't, Janet. They want handsome men and interesting women. Say the word, and I can shoot you over to Corona to the studio for a screen test. It wouldn't do any harm to try."

Janet hardly heard what he was saying. She was watching the dancers.

"Shall we?" he said. Janet got up to dance.

They threaded their way through the tables and got to the dance floor just as the music ended.

Janet turned back to him with a regretful glance. "Better luck next time," she said and they sat down again.

"You know, these boys"—he nodded toward the table where three gigolos sat—"would have many a good opportunity but the management will not permit them to make any dates with the women who come here."

"What boys?"

"The gigolos. Boy, am I glad I don't have to earn my money that way. I'd feel sorry for them toting 200 pounds of flesh and jewelry around if I didn't think they liked it. He-flappers I call 'em. Nothing but good looks, no self-respect."

"All right, Harry, I won't ask you to hire one for me," she laughed.

Janet, sipping her cocktail, eating the delicious tidbits that arrived in a steady stream, listening to Harry Devanter's flattering comments about herself, thought: Joel wouldn't really mind it. He'd be happy to have me have a good time. It wasn't she knew, an exhilarating time. Nothing was unless she was with Joel. Nevertheless she enjoyed the stimulation, the pleasant luxurious atmosphere. And what girl doesn't enjoy meeting an old admirer and finding that she still has charm for him?

She thought: If someone were to tell Joel that he saw me at a bar with another man, what would Joel think? Oh, I know he would understand. It made her feel ashamed that she had been momentarily disturbed by the telephone calls for Joel.

The music began again.

"Let's wait until someone else gets on the dance floor," she said.

She was looking at the floor when the first dancers swung out from a table at the right of the floor. Janet stared. Then she leaned forward, feeling herself tense all over.

His back was to her but she knew it was Joel. When he wheeled expertly, carrying the thin woman who was his partner with his rhythm, she saw that it was he.

Joel with a green carnation in his buttonhole.

Her eyes felt hot and she wanted to cry out to him, knowing now all that she had not known.

Her blessed baby was a gigolo! He was ashamed to tell her how he earned his money. That pride of his! How he must have hated what he was doing. Oh, she was proud of him. She felt rich suddenly, protected and secure and very proud. Her husband wouldn't let his wife work. He could take care of his wife He'd do anything to prove it.

"Shall we dance now?"

"Dance?....Oh, Harry, I'm afraid I can't." She couldn't let Joel see her there. If Joel didn't want her to know what he was doing, she was not going to humiliate him.

She was going to say that she had to hurry home but then she thought of something, something that became important. She drew her vanity from her pocketbook, powdered her nose and touched her lipstick to her mouth. She fluffed her hair out under her straw hat the way she had seen a movie star do it.

"Harry," she said as though the idea had just returned to her, "did you really mean it about the screen test?"

"Sure enough," he took a card from his wallet. "If you do, I'll give you a card to Kurt Jackson at the studio. He'll arrange it."

Janet wet her lips. "Will...will you see it?"

"Not until after it is made. I'm going to Chicago tomorrow. Why?"

Janet relaxed and smiled. "I.... I just wondered if you would."

He was beginning to write. "What name are you using?"

Janet thought very quickly. She said. "I don't know yet. Couldn't you just say 'the bearer'?"

"Sure enough," he said and handed the card to her.

Janet read:

"Kurt, please give the bearer a test at your earliest opportunity. I think I've got something here." The message was written around his engraved name.

"Thank you," she said, wrapping the precious square in her clean handkerchief.

Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S LONG SLIDE

After having told Uncle Wiggily to watch him do a trick on skis, and not seeing the rabbit gentleman when he turned to look, Mr. Twistytail, the fat pig, was surprised. I told you about that last night.

"I hope Uncle Wiggily isn't getting jealous of me because I can go better on skis than he can," thought the pig. "Maybe he went back to the bungalow to practice so he can beat me."

Uncle Wiggily had certainly gone somewhere. He wasn't in sight on the big white field of snow where the two animal friends had started to do some ski walking. The snow was so white and the sun was so bright even a Squiggle Bug could have been seen on it. Only there were no Squiggle Bugs.

"This is very strange," grunted Mr. Twistytail. "I hope nothing has happened Wiggy."

Playing Tag

Just then along came running the Police Dog. How he loved to run and jump in the snow! He was playing tag by himself and turning somersaults and peppersaults. When he saw Mr. Twistytail, the jolly Police Dog ran straight at him.

"Don't bump into me! Don't knock me down!" begged the pig. "If I fall with these long skis on my feet I can't get up again."

"Ha! Ha!" laughed the Police Dog. "I won't knock you down. I was only pretending. But why are you out here skiing all alone, Twisty?"

"I'm not all alone," grunted the fat pig.

"Well, I see no one with you," barked the police Dog.

"I had Uncle Wiggily with me but he suddenly disappeared. Have you seen him?"

"No, I haven't," answered the dog, looking over the snow. He was sitting down now, hanging his tongue out of his mouth, for in that way dogs cool themselves. "Did Uncle Wiggily have on skis?"

"Of course he did," said Mr. Twistytail. "Just like mine. I bought them for him and we started out together. All of a sudden he disappeared just as I was going to do a trick."

All of a sudden the Police Dog began to laugh.

"What's the matter?" asked the pig.

"I think I know where Uncle Wiggily is," barked the dog. "At least I saw a pair of skis sticking out of a snowdrift. And they seemed to have some one fastened to the other end."

"Were the skis moving?" anxiously asked the pig.

"Oh, yes, indeed," barked the Police Dog. "They were waving like tree branches in the wind.

"Then it must be that Uncle Wiggily made a wrong step and went head first into a drift," grunted the pig. "You know it's very hard to get out of a drift of snow if your head sticks in it and you have skis on your paws."

"I should imagine so," barked the dog. "Well, I'll help you pull Wiggy out of the drift."

Safe for a While

This they did after a little work and Mr. Longears was soon standing upright again on his skis. He had some snow up his pink, twinkling nose, but this soon melted (I mean the snow melted) and Uncle Wiggily said:

"Well, now for some real ski walking. Do you want to see me take a long slide?" The Police Dog said he did. But Mr. Twistytail grunted that it was his turn to do the trick he started when the rabbit disappeared into the drift. Just in play the pig gave Mr. Longears a little push. And as Uncle Wiggily was on top of a hill, down he went in a long, long slide on his skis.

"Here I go! Her I go! Watch me!" he cried. And then something happened. I'll tell you about it in the next story, which will be about Uncle Wiggily's bump.

But please don't let the onion get in the apple sauce or it may taste like potato salad at a picnic.

Following Hitler's bitter reichstag speech, which slammed the door on new peace proposals until Nazi colonial ambitions are satisfied, the three nations which gained most from the carving up of the pre-war German colonial empire are anxiously awaiting a formal demand from Berlin for return of the areas. This map shows the former German colonies in Africa, with names under which they were known when part of the German empire and their present names and ownership.

MILLBROOK

PANCAKE SOCIAL FOR GRACE Y.P.S.

St. Andrew's W. A. Makes Profit Out Of Recent Banquet

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK Feb. 9.—Members of the Young People's Society of Grace Presbyterian Church and members of the Anglican Young People's Association are making plans for a pancake social next Tuesday evening. The event will be held in the Sunday School hall of Grace Church and everyone is cordially invited to attend. A small sum will be charged as admission and used to defray expenses.

Mrs P. Handley vice president conducted the business period at this week's regular meeting and Venerable Archdeacon Simpson led in the worship addressing the gathering on the subject "Hymns and their authors." "Son of my soul," "Nearer My God to Thee," "O Little Town of Bethlehem" were among those studied. Ed. Williams assisted with the study and an interesting Bible drill was conducted by Miss Margaret Simpson. Singing of hymns and the Mizpah benediction dispersed the gathering.

Banquet Profitable

Mrs. P. I. Bentley, president presided at the regular meeting of the Women's Association of St. Andrew's United Chiurch held recently at the home of Mrs. George Burnham.

A financial report of the banquet sponsored by the Short Course with catering by the W.A. was decidedly encouraging, a goodly sum having been added to W.A. funds.

Mrs. G. Burnham, convenor of the parsonage committee reported an amount of redecorating having been done at the parsonage and all bills were ordered paid on the motion of the meeting.

Plans were also laid for a hot supper which will be served Saturday, March 13.

Making Layette

The regular meeting of the Junior Women's Missionary Society was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thorndyke with a goodly number in attendance and the vice-president Miss Ruth Thorndyke in the chair.

"A Service of Worship for Youth" was the theme of the devotional period. The program was carried out along the lines of the World's Day of Prayer, which the Senior Auxiliaries are sponsoring next Friday, February 12. Miss Agnes Johnson, leader assisted in the worship period. Others who took part in the program included Misses Mary Eakins, Mary Armstrong, Joan Deyell, Roberta and Flossie Bothwell.

It was decided to continue with the making of an infant's layette, the work to be done at the meetings held regularly each fortnight.

Delicious home made candy was served by the hostess during the social hour at the close and felicitations were extended to one of the members, Miss Mary Eakins, who was that day celebrating a birthday.

Gateway to the World!

There is magic in the telephone: in every item of the vast assemblage of plant and equipment that stands behind it to make modern telephone service possible.

Take the simple plug on the switchboard. A piece of metal on the end of a cord; yet it bridges unheard-of distances. The World is literally at its gleaming tip. It can connect you with the office on the next floor, send you winging across the continent or take you overseas. It annihilates time.

This is but one aspect of the perfectly coordinated army of miracle workers that has grown from Alexander Graham Bell's initial experiments at Brantford.

Canada, the birthplace of the telephone, is today its greatest user, leading the world with more calls per capita than in any other country. It is telephone-minded, not because of sentiment but because of the scope, efficiency and low cost of service as pioneered and developed through the years by the Bell Telephone Company.

URGES CONVICTS ALL BE PAID UNION WAGES

Rev. Smith Also Suggests It Be Made Legal For "Starving Man To Steal Loaf Bread"

PENITENTIARY PROBE

Proposes Body With Prisoners Represented To Deal With Complaints, Punishment

TORONTO, Feb. 10 — (C.P.). — Rev. A. E. Smith, who said he was a Communist and who suggested it might be made legal for "a starving man to steal a loaf of bread," recommended to the royal commission investigating Canadian penitentiaries to-day that convicts be paid union wages.

Mrs. Jean Laing, member of the advisory vocational committee of the Toronto Board of Education, supported the plea that prisoners be paid for work they did while serving sentences.

Favoring abolition of corporal punishment, Mr. Smith suggested formation of a body, on which convicts would be represented, to deal with complaints, grievances and punishment.

Similar to Students Council

"You suggest setting up some body like a students' council?" asked Commissioner R. W. Craig, K.C., of Winnipeg.

"Yes, that would be the idea," agreed Mr. Smith, who criticized special treatment given what he called "political prisoners." He charged that officials of all penitentiaries discriminated against this type of convict.

If prisoners were paid for the work they did while in prisons, they would be enabled to re-establish themselves upon their release, Mrs. Laing said. She thought homes might be found where the men could be placed.

"Where would you expect to find those homes?" asked Mr. Justice Archambault, commission chairman.

"There are still some idealists left," Mrs. Laing said. "I think it could be done."

LOSES TWO BARNS IN THREE DAYS

$25,000 Loss Is Sustained At Baden—37 Cattle, 4 Horses Included

BADEN, Ont., Feb. 10 (CP).—With a loss estimated at $25,000, fire destroyed another barn on the farm of J. P. Livingston near this village, nine miles west of Kitchener, early today. The second in three days, the fire followed a blaze which on Monday night caused loss of one barn.

One of the largest in this district, the barn burned today contained 37 head of Shorthorn cattle, four horses, 125 tons of hay, 800 bushels of wheat, 1,500 bushels of mixed grain, 100 turkeys and considerable farm equipment.

Authorities are investigating the possibility the fire was due to incendiarism.

WIFE IS CLEARED OF SHOOTING MATE

Judge Emphasizes Victim's Boasts Of Kissing Other Women, Neglecting Child

LINCOLN, England, Feb. 10.—(CP Cable.)—Cheering greeted the jury's decision when Mrs. Cecil Teesdale, 28, was found not guilty yesterday of the murder and manslaughter of her husband, who was shot at the breakfast table December 28, allegedly by his wife.

The case excited much interest in the United Kingdom. The Judge in summing up the case for the jury, recalled the woman's evidence that Teesdale, a butcher, had "boasted of the women he had kissed" and had neglected their child.

"You can draw the inference of what these boastings meant to the wife," the Judge remarked. He proceeded to indicate that the court understood the alleged extenuating circumstances of the case, whereupon the all-male jury returned a not guilty verdict on both charges.

COLDER WEATHER SERVES AS BRAKE ONTARIO FLOODS

Grand, Thames And Nith Rivers Drop—Dynamite Used At Ayr

DAMAGE IS SMALL

TORONTO, Feb. 10 (CP).—The weatherman faced about today and brought relief to flood-threatened Southern Ontario districts with dropping temperatures and bright clear skies. The weather conditions were ideal to bring about further subsidence of receding streams and rivers which had risen violently after heavy rains and sleet storms Monday.

The Grand, Thames and Nith Rivers, which caused most trouble, started to fall yesterday after flood conditions prevailed for several hours.

Throughout Waterloo County—the most seriously threatened district—waters returned to normal levels almost as quickly as they rose.

Dynamite was used at Ayr village, where floods assumed menacing proportions to save a roadway and a dam from obliteration by the torrential Nith.

Several blasts cleared away obstructions beneath the dam spillways after the base of a road to the village had been eaten away and the surface caved in.

In Fergus district any alarm felt over possibility of inconvenience and damage from floods disappeared. An ice jam on the Grand River at the outskirts of the village remained intact and colder weather dismissed fears of a break-up which had threatened.

WANT NO PROTECTION

Colorado House Votes To Outlaw Civil Suits For Breach of Promise.

DENVER, Feb. 10 (AP)—The Colorado House of Representatives has voted unanimously to outlaw civil suits for breach of promise, alienation of affections, and seduction of women of 21 years and older.

Rep. Eudochia Bell Smith (D., Denver), its sponsor, called it "protection for endangered men."

"We sisters of the skillet don't want open season on men," the woman legislator told the House. "We are against the gold diggers with the theme song 'Gimme, gimme, gimme'."

ASKING EXTRA FOOD AT MEAL MEANT TROUBLE

Prisoner Claims They Were Also Punished If They Didn't Eat Enough

GUARD TELLS OF FOOD

Says Omelets "Beautiful" — Second Helpings Available, But Never Sought

GUELPH, Ont., Feb. 10.—(CP).—If a prisoner asked at meal-times for more food he was punished, and if he did not eat he was punished, Prisoner "J," a youth of 20 in the reformatory 14 months, to-day told the inquiry conducted here by Judge James E. Madden into the reformatory riot of January 17.

'Some times there is not enough food on the tray," he said. Prisoner J works outside in the "bull gang," kept busy throughout the year on "heavy work." Sergeant Maxwell in charge of the dining room had several times refused his requests for more food, the youth said.

The food was not properly cooked, vegetables were "hard and tasteless," said Prisoner J, who complained also of lack of cleanliness.

Prisoners were often without soap at night after working all day, he said. The institution supplied 36 men with only four bars of soap," he said. "If one man took a bath, there would be no soap there for other persons to wash with."

Feared Mental Examinations.

When prisoners were given mental examinations, there arose a widespread impression that some were to be declared criminally insane, he said.

"What do you think of your maniacs now?" the prisoners called out to the Superintendent (Dr. J. D. Heaslip) during the riot," said J.

The youth said he preferred living in a dormitory to living in a cell because "you have more freedom, can take baths oftener."

"That's a dirty lie," said Prisoner J when J. Gordon Gillanders, Commission counsel, referred to a charge that he had cursed and threatened a guard.

Prisoner J has never had a job, he has no trade, he served a previous four-month term in the Reformatory, and has not been to school since he reached Junior Fourth Book. He would like to be an auto mechanic, but saw no use going to the Reformatory's class which is held "only once a week."

No Egg Powder in Omelets.

Guard Owen Joseph Connors on duty in the Reformatory kitchen, said the 'egg omelets' objected to by prisoners were "beautiful.' He denied they were made with egg powder as suggested by prisoners, but declared that 60 dozen fresh eggs are used with seven gallons of milk for about 700 men.

"We use fresh milk if we have it, but lately we have used powdered milk,' he said.

"On one occasion part of the omelet left over from the previous day was mixed up in the new omelet, but I knew of this only once."

Guard Connors said prisoners could have second helpings at meals. "I have never known a prisoner to come back for a second helping," he said. He has been four years at Guelph Reformatory, was seven years at Burwash.

"Two pounds of fresh butter are mixed with two pounds of pure lard and put on toast with a brush," said Connors, regarding prisoners' complaints of greasy toast.

"We have had to place a guard over the cake supply to stop prisoners grabbing three or four pieces as they go by," said Connors, denying the cake ever had worms.

"The aluminum plates were greasy for the first two days after the riot, but at no other time," said Connors regarding prisoners' complaints.

Durbar Cancelled

Magnificent ceremonies of the Durbar by which King George VI would be crowned King-Emperor of India, will not be held this year, it was officially announced in London, when his majesty decided that pressure of public duties following his sudden accession to the throne would prevent him leaving Britain until a later date. In many quarters, however, it is believed that political conditions in India, where the militant All-India Nationalist Congress, led by Pandit Nawarhaldai Nehru, recently voted to boycott the Durbar, have influenced the decision. The Delhi Durbar of 1911 when King George V was crowned King-Emperor is pictured BELOW, an Indian chieftain paying homage to the monarch. Pandit Nehru and Mahatma Gandi, leaders of the Nationalist party, are shown at the RIGHT. Nehru is even more outspoken in his opposition to British rule than the Mahatma, whom he succeeded. His Majesty King George VI is at the LEFT.

Forgotten In Excitement Baby Perishes In Fire

Brother And Father Seriously Burned In Night Blaze In Sudbury Area

THREE FAMILIES HOMELESS

CONISTON, Ont., Feb. 10.—(CP)—When fire swept through a frame home here yesterday, two-year-old Norman Vaillancourt was burned to death. His brother, Laurent, 4, and the father, Naise Vaillancourt were rushed to Sudbury hospital, suffering from burns.

Two small frame dwellings were razed before the fires were brought under control.

Dr. F. M. Lively at Sudbury said burns suffered by the father were "moderately serious." The boy's burns were not serious but he is suffering from a severe chest cold and fears are entertained he might develop pneumonia.

Mrs. Vaillancourt is being cared for with several other children at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Mann, neighbors. The mother is suffering from burns, exposure and shock.

Neighbors Burned Out.

Fanned by a 40-mile-an-hour gale, the fire started in the Vaillancourt home and spread rapidly to a neighboring dwelling occupied by two families, Mr. and Mrs. R. Chiswell and their eight-months old daughter, Diana, and Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Blake and their one-year-old son, Donald.

Mr. Blake heard a cry of "fire" around midnight from within the smoke-filled Vaillancourt home. He rushed out of his home and smashed a window in the Vaillancourt house. Through the broken window the children, in night clothes, were moved to safety. Mrs. Vaillancourt fled outdoors in her night dress and her husband in his underwear.

When the partly-clad children were taken to a neighbor's, Norman was found missing. The child's body was found in the smouldering embers late yesterday. In the excitement, the baby boy apparently was forgotten in his crib.

No insurance was carried on the two buildings, valued at $3,500. The furniture in the home next to Vaillancourt's was saved.

OPPOSE ALLOWANCE

British Laborites Favor Edward Being Cared For Out of Royal Family's Purse

LONDON, Feb. 10—(A.P.)—Labor members of the House of Commons decided to-day to oppose granting former King Edward a civil list allowance.

At a special meeting the Labor M.P.'s adopted, instead a resolution favoring his "being provided for by the royal family."

The Labor members also advocated nationalization of the revenues from the Duchies of Lancaster and Cornwall and suggested a "part" of these be given to the royal family.

Six Common Stories The Professor Doubts

Toronto, Feb. 10 (CP)

LECTURING on "Un-natural history," Prof. J. R. Dymond, director of the Royal Ontario Museum, said that among the "stories" he would like substantiated are the following:

That the ostrich buries its head in the sand.

That the possum plays dead.

That the one aim and object of the bat is to get in somebody's hair.

That warts come from handling toads.

That horse-hairs could turn into snakes.

That the mother snake protects its young by swallowing them.

INSURGENTS CLING TO VALENCIA ROAD

Repulse Determined Madrid Attack—Capture Train Of Supplies

WITH THE INSURGENT FORCES OUTSIDE MADRID, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—An insurgent communique announced to-day a desperate attack by Madrid's Socialist defenders to re-open the supply route to the sea had been repulsed.

The communique declared the Fascists held their dominant positions on the newly won highway to Valencia, and the government forces left many casualties on the field.

The insurgents also reported they had beaten off a Socialist attack on Alcala La Real in the Granada sector.

(Heavily censored despatches from Madrid before telephone communication with the Spanish capital was cut declared Socialist troops still held control of the vital supply road, although it was under insurgent artillery fire at some points.)

Insurgents pointed to the capture of a train of supplies on a railroad siding as an indication of the importance of the captured territory.

DUST WITH HAIL

Red Mud Covers Wiarton Area During Freak Storms

WIARTON, Ont., Feb. 10—(CP)—While most of Western Ontario talked yesterday of flood rivers and ponds, Wiarton and district discussed the dust storm which accompanied a hail, rain and thunderstorm. The storm, which blew up from the southwest, left a heavy coating of red dust.

In some places dust was so deep, residents said, it could be taken up with shovels. The locality from which the winds swept the dust is not known.

POLICE CAPTURE HAMILTON PAIR IN RUNNING CHASE

Officers Leap From Hiding Firing Guns As Suspects Get Nervous In House

SAFE ROBBERY CASE

HAMILTON, Ont., Feb. 10 (CP).—After a running chase in which revolvers were brought into action, police arrested Roy Wilson and Lorne Burns today. Wilson is charged as being the companion of Joseph Long, held in the Cloke safe robbery. Burns is held on a vagrancy charge.

Authorities said they had information Wilson and Burns would visit a house on Catharine Street North today. Six detectives and a Provincial officer, all armed, were secreted in the building.

When the two men arrived, they became suspicious and broke and ran. Police pursued them through yards and over fences, firing as they ran. The men were not hit, but officers caught up to them and captured both.

Joseph Long was charged with shopbreaking and theft in connection with the removal of a safe from the Cloke and Son store February 2. The strong-box contained $300 in cash and $500 worth of pens and supplies.

Long was arrested last Sunday on a vagrancy charge.

Bathhouses In China Crowded Day Of Financial Reckoning

Everybody Is Expected To Settle Their Debt Before The New Year

SOME CANNOT PAY

The balancing of personal budgets at the end of the year is an old Chinese custom, and Thursday is New Year's Day in the Orient, the day of financial reckoning and of the clean sheet.

A despatch from Shanghai reports that bathhouses all over China were crowded to-day with debtors who sought to avoid the traditional bill collecting as the Old Year approached its final hours.

"We always thought the Chinese were a people who were scrupulous about paying their debts," a reporter said to Hum Hoin of the Louis Cafe to-day. "You know, pay bills when they are due."

"But if you haven't got the money," Hoin replied, "what can a man do? Here just the same as China. No money, can't pay. People in China want to pay before New Year's Day. If you owe me money, I expect you pay me. Everybody settle up to start the New Year right. Suppose I owe bills. Men come on New Year's to collect. One man, two men, like that. If you have no money to pay them, it makes you sad. So you go away somewhere. That's what it means about men going to the bathhouses. If you're broke in China, just the same as here. No money in can't get them."

Attempt To Conform With Law Nets 30 Days In Jail As Starter

Leaves Enterprise, Finds Work In U.S., Gets Nabbed on Return To Enter Legally

WILL NOW BE DEPORTED

ALBANY, N.Y., Feb. 10 (CP). — Ralph Carrara's attempts to comply with what he believed to be the law involved him in international difficulties, he told Federal Judge Frank Cooper in pleading guilty of illegal entry.

Carrara, a native of Manchester, England, said he emigrated to Enterprise, Ont. Then he came to the United States as a visitor in 1934 and remained to work at a cement plant in Cortland.

When he received his Federal security card, Carrara said he thought he should return to Canada and enter legally, so that his record would be above reproach. But Canadian officials wouldn't admit him, he added, and he was turned over to the United States immigration authorities.

Judge Cooper sentenced Carrara to 30 days in the Chenango County jail, after which he will be deported to Canada.

WOMAN GETS 3 YEARS.

HAMILTON, Ont., Feb. 10 (CP)—Magistrate H. A. Burbidge today sentenced Josephine Sears, colored, to three years in Kingston Penitentiary for theft of $50.

"It seems that four terms in Mercer Reformatory have done you no good," he commented.

Pupil Government Works Fine In School

Tillsonburg, Feb. 10 (CP)

GOVERNMENT by the people, functioning in a Tillsonburg public school class of 10-year-olds, was called a decided success today by C. Gerald Elder, teacher.

Under the Elder system, the pupils hold elections of officers who enforce the school's "criminal code." Minor offences are dealt with on the spot by a student-appointed police force.

Major offences, such as talking during classes, failing to keep desks tidy and reading magazines instead of text books, come before a weekly court. At this court a Tillsonburg barrister sets as magistrate. Defence counsel is the teacher—yes, the teacher.

Next Move In Plan Involving Chats Falls Project Now Up To One Of Two Principals

TORONTO, Feb. 10—(CP)—Next move in the proposed deal between the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission and the Ottawa Valley Power Company was up to one of the two principals today.

The Commission yesterday presented to the cabinet the draft of the best agreement it could make with the Ottawa Valley Company for Chat Falls power. Cabinet did not give approval to it. Basis of yesterday's proposal was reached in five days' discussion between the commission and company officials.

No statement was made after cabinet met as to whether the proposal was rejected wholly or whether revision of clauses in it will be sought.

Two Main Snags.

TORONTO, Feb. 10.—(CP)— The Globe and Mail today says a new power agreement between the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission and the Ottawa Valley Power Company failed to meet the approval of the Ontario cabinet.

The Globe and Mail says the cabinet did not accept the agreement "because it allegedly embodied two concessions to the power barons that were viewed by the government as dangerous to the welfare and success of any great distribution system which Hydro might build out of the Chats Falls development."

(The power commission operates the Chats Falls Power development, on the Upper Ottawa River, jointly with the Ottawa Valley Power Company).

The paper continues:

"These concessions, it is said, would have given the Ottawa Valley Company the right to recall power from Ontario and market it in Quebec any time they saw fit and would have rendered the current they exported to Ontario liable to taxation by the Quebec government."

Situation Uncertain.

TORONTO, Feb. 10 (C.P.). — Chairman T. Stewart Lyon of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission said to-day he could not forecast the future of negotiations between the Commission and Ottawa Valley Power Company, which terminated yesterday with refusal by the Ontario Cabinet to approve a proposed plan.

"We don't know whether we'll be able to deal with the Ottawa Valley Company or not," said Mr. Lyon. "The situation is too obscure."

Doctor Aids Stork Then Wins His Game

Guelph, Ont., Feb. 10 (CP)

DR. J. D. Heaslip, superintendent of Ontario reformatory, last night left a curling match in which he was playing to give the stork a hand and then returned to the ice to help the doctors' rink to a 12-4 victory over a rink of lawyers.

The match was about halfway through when Dr. Heaslip was interrupted by an emergency call. His rink held to their lead while he was away and the doctor returned right after officiating at a birth. The lawyers didn't have a chance.

FLU STRIKES CITY NORTH BAY HARD 1,300 PUPILS SICK

Epidemic At Wiarton And On Bruce Peninsula Improves Somewhat

105 MEASLES CASES, GALT

NORTH BAY, Ont. Feb. 10 (CP) —Almost 1,300 pupils of North Bay's Public and Separate Schools and Collegiate Institute and Vocational School were absent from classes this week owing to illness. While the majority suffered from influenza, rampant in the district in a mild form, several cases among the younger children were mumps.

The North Bay Normal School, North Bay College and St. Joseph's Academy were only slightly affected, with fewer than 50 pupils away from them all. Four French-speaking classes representing about 175 pupils were disbanded Tuesday owing to the illness of students. More than 250 of the 800 Collegiate Institute and Vocational School pupils as well as eight teachers were absent from class Tuesday. Today the absentees numbered about the same.

Situation Eases

WIARTON, Ont., Feb. 10—(C.P.) —Medical and school authorities said to-day an epidemic of influenza which swept the Bruce Peninsula early last week had largely spent itself. The situation was so improved that school attendance in Wiarton, seriously impaired last week, was almost back to normal.

"It is true there has been quite a lot of 'flu here, but the worst of it is over and, with the arrival of colder weather, conditions are bound to improve," said Dr. W. A. Wilford. A few cases of pneumonia were being treated here, but no deaths had been reported, he added.

One death, attributed partly to influenza, and several cases of pneumonia developed among Indians on the Cape Crocker Reserve north of here.

Measles Break Out

FIND AIRLINER 5 MILES AT SEA ONLY TAIL CLEAR

Patrol Boat Unable To Ascertain If Any Of 11 Aboard Alive

PREVIOUSLY CIRCLED PORT

Sixty Rescue Vessels Are Rushed To Scene In Salvage Effort

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 10 (AP)—Without apparent sign that any of 11 persons aboard were alive, a wrecked United Airlines plane was found early today five miles out in south San Francisco Bay where it plunged last night at the end of a flight from Los Angeles.

Patrol Boat No. 267 reported finding the twin-motored liner, its nose rammed into the bottom of the bay.

Eight feet of the plane's tail jutted out but the cabin and pilot's compartment were submerged in 18 feet of water.

Discovery of the ill-fated craft, which carried several persons prominent in the business and social life of San Francisco and Los Angeles, came more than five hours after it fell into the water.

Shortly before the coast guard boat made its report, Frank Fuller, a member of the Point family, said he had sighted the wreckage from the air.

"I was flying low over the bay when I saw a small boat which appeared to be signalling," he said. "I swooped down and saw what seemed to be the partly-submerged tail of a large airplane."

R. E. Neghirboron, an express company employee, said he saw the big plane sink. "There was a big 'wham' where she struck and disappeared," he asserted.

Prior to last night's accident, transport crashes in the West have killed 32 persons—Martin Johnson, the explorer, was one victim—in less than two months.

Those On Board

The passenger list of the United Airlines ship, coming in from Los Angeles, was announced by officials as:

R. Meyer, Ridgewood, N.J.; M. Lorge, Los Angeles; Mark Fontana, San Francisco; J. F. Gilmore, Los Angeles; R. Margaroni, San Bruno, Calif.; H. B. Freelander, Los Angeles; John Grennan, Sr., Berkeley, Calif.; and Miss Gertrude Grennan, his daughter; Pilot Tommy Thompson; Co-pilot Joe De Cesaro and Stewardess Ruth Kimmel.

Over Belmont, only a few miles south of his destination, Pilot Thompson received radioed instructions from Dispatcher Theodore Martin to use the north-to-south runway at Mills Field which is bounded on the east by the bay.

Martin said Thompson a minute later asked for use of the east-to-west runway and the dispatcher answered "yes."

When the big ship crossed the field and headed out into the bay, Martin said he was "amazed."

"She came in from the south and then for some reason she circled around east and started back south," Neghirbon related.

"The plane had no landing lights turned on.

"I saw her get lower and lower and said to another fellow, 'She's going to hit. There was a big 'wham' where she struck and disappeared."

Among the shore watchers was Michael Gilmore of San Francisco, brother of J. Frank Gilmore, one of the passengers. He had gone to the airport to meet the plane.

Boats, kept near Mills Field in case of emergency, speeded more than 60 men to the crash scene.

Airport officials admitted they were mystified by the accident. Visibility was good, they said, and no other plane was in the air nearby to interfere with the landing.

TEL AVIV, Palestine, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Dr. A. Litwak, Tel Aviv psychiatrist, was convicted yesterday of having held a young American, Miss Hiya Rubin, in a chicken coop for several months during 1936. He was sentenced to one year in jail.

Dr. Litwak was charged with illegal detention and malpractice for confining Miss Rubin in the chicken house on his orange ranch. Officers of the Government Criminal Investigation Department found the young woman, only partly clothed and undernourished.

The psychiatrist also has been named in a civil suit for an accounting of her estate.

Newspaper Change Upsets All Quilting

Dundalk, Feb. 10.

THE local paper, the Herald, came in for censure at the monthly meeting of the Inistioge Women's Missionary Society. The reason the ladies were provoked was because the local paper changed its size recently and the original size was the same as the ladies used for blocks for quilts. When any one offered to help with a quilt and asked the size of the blocks, the missionary ladies would say: "Just the same size as the Dundalk Herald." Now the ladies are forced to use the tape line.

FARM ASSISTANCE ACTION IS FAVORED HOUSE COMMONS

Rehabilitation Act To Cover Next Three Years Meets With No Opposition

CENTRE ON DROUGHT AREAS

OTTAWA, Feb. 10 (CP) — The House of Commons gave private members precedence today with the first resolution on the list proposed by Denton Massey (Cons. Toronto-Greenwood) and calling for consideration of a housing plan that would include slum clearance and the necessary assistance to enable working men to build their own homes.

The Commons also awaited a survey of the drought area which Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture, expects to present to the House tomorrow.

Canada's fight to reclaim sections of the once-fertile prairie lands made desolate by successive droughts and crop failures will be described in detail by the minister when he presents his amendments to the prairie farm rehabilitation act. The minister will ask for approval of changes in the organization and financial provision covering a three year period.

In the House of Commons yesterday the minister obtained approval of the resolution on which the bill was based and introduced the measure which was given first reading. There was no opposition and considerable commendation of the rehabilitation efforts.

The change will enable the government to set up more than one committee. Mr. Gardiner said at present there was one committee representing various interests. It was thought it might be desirable to have one or more localized or special committees, perhaps a committee to deal with ranch land or with wheat farming areas.

It was also proposed to widen the scope of the rehabilitation work somewhat, said Mr. Gardiner. Plans for resettling some people on better lands and for developing a scheme already tested in Saskatchewan of community ranches or pastures.

Proposes No Limit

It was also felt more could be accomplished without the limitation of expenditure to $1,000,000 said Mr. Gardiner. The amendment would strike the limitation from the act. With the experience now acquired he thought more than $1,000,000 could reasonably be spent this year if the House would vote it.

Conservative leader Bennett said the drought problem was the gravest confronting Canada. There was a serious question of whether great areas of Western Canada, once highly productive, would ever produce again. The economic aspects of the problem affected every person in Canada and were being watched by the whole world.

Anything the opposition could do to strengthen the hands of the government in dealing with the prob-

Anglican Clergyman Must Conduct Burial

SARNIA, Feb. 10.—(CP)—Future burials in Sutherland Cemetery, Moore Township, must be carried out with an Anglican clergyman officiating at the graveside, Rev. S. H. Coleman, rector of the parishes at Courtright, Corunna and Mooretown, has announced an old canon of the Church of England, decreeing no clergyman other than those of that church may officiate in the Sutherland burial ground, will be strictly enforced.

Mr. Coleman said a burial was conducted recently with a Roman Catholic priest officiating. Mr. Coleman is ex officio Chairman of the Sutherland Cemetery Board.

KING IS OPPOSED ON SPENDING MORE UPON LEGATIONS

T. L. Church Would Have None —Woodsworth Says Give It To Child Welfare

CHARGES FALSE FRONT

OTTAWA, Feb. 10—(CP)—Canada's representation abroad both in legations at foreign capitals and on special occasions such as the coronation should be in keeping with Canada's status as a nation and in line with the procedure of other nations of the British Commonwealth, Prime Minister Mackenzie King told the House of Commons yesterday.

He was defending expenditures on legations and representation at the coronation when estimates for the Department of External Affairs were before the House.

Harry Leader (Lib. Portage La Prairie) and J. S. Woodsworth, C.C.F. leader, were the chief critics. Mr. Leader protested against increasing expenditures on the upkeep of legation buildings. T. L. Church (Cons. Toronto-Broadview) objected to legations of any kind and declared no more should be established.

Mr. Woodsworth could see no reason why $197,000 for a Canadian contingent to the coronation and $35,000 for official representation should be voted when appropriations for child welfare and other social services were small.

Canadians were getting away from their earlier ideals of simplicity and living within their means, and were trying to keep up a false front, he said.

Unfair Says Premier.

The comparison was unfair, said Mr. King, because Mr. Woodsworth ignored all the money the provinces and municipalities were spending on social services and all the money the Dominion was spending for unemployment relief and pensions.

He believed the people of Canada wanted their country adequately represented as the oldest Dominion in the Empire and would resent it if Canada were not as well represented as Australia and South Africa.

"Then send farmers, textile workers, and fishermen instead of soldiers," said Mr. Woodsworth.

Mr. King retorted he resented very strongly the imputation that a man who was prepared to give his life for his country was not performing a useful and proper function. Those who were offering their services as soldiers were deserving of all possible recognition and

MATTSON SUSPECT REVIVES INTEREST

Officer Terms Arrest Of Convict As "Hot"—Be Faced By Witnesses

SEATTLE, Feb. 10.—(AP)—A former convict whose arrest was termed "hot" by one officer was questioned today concerning the kidnap-killing of 10-year-old Charles Mattson and plans were rushed for witnesses of the abduction to confront him.

The man identified as James G. McDonald, denied any connection with the crime but William Cole, chief of the Washington state police, said his appearance strikingly fitted descriptions of the bearded kidnapper and his movements at the time of the kidnaping were suspicious.

"It may be just another false lead but it looks hot to me," Cole said.

After McDonald had been questioned for 10 hours, a high police official said William and Muriel Mattson, brother and sister of the kidnap victim, would be brought from Tacoma to face the man. Virginia Chatfield, 16, who also saw little Charles seized December 27, at his Tacoma home, also will be brought here, the officers said.

Little Charles' nude and battered body—stabbed in the back—was found frozen near Everett, Wash., ending efforts of his father, Dr. W. W. Mattson, Tacoma physician, to ransom him alive for a demanded $28,000.

His statements termed contradictory by Police Detective A. E. Kuehl, McDonald was booked on an open charge.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation description of the Mattson kidnapper is:

"Thirty years old, five feet seven or eight inches tall, 156 to 165 pounds, swarthy, did not stand erect, dimple in chin, high cheek bones, nose may be broken a little below centre, hairy hands, slightly foreign accent, speaks brokenly, appears to be of Southern European extraction."

Cole described McDonald as follows:

"Thirty-one years old, five feet, 10 and one-half inches tall, swarthy, high cheek bones, nose broken, dark brown hair."

B.B.C. APOLOGIZES

Words "Mrs. Simpson" Are Injected Into a Program

LONDON, Feb. 10—(A.P.)—The British Broadcasting Corporation last night broadcast an apology after the words "Mrs. Simpson" were interjected in a program.

During a song on a program entitled "Masculine Fame on Parade," listeners were startled to hear a masculine voice shout, "Mrs. Simpson."

As the program ended, an announcer said:

"We apologize to all of our listeners for the unfortunate lapse from taste which occurred earlier in the program." No explanation of the interruption was given.

The male chorus was singing, "and we all have sex appeal" when the incident occurred.

Shown above are some scenes near Fergus Tuesday afternoon, when one of the most severe ice jams in a half century plugged the Grand River and spilled its waters over its banks. Upper right shows how the thousands of tons of ice extended for a mile and one-half eastward, while, in the bottom picture, may be seen ice blocks piled up on the approach to a bridge.

PRISONERS SAY RIOT WAS NOT PREMEDITATED

Planned To Refuse Lunch As Method Of Getting Nixon's Attention

THREE LOCKED UP

Action By Guards Started Fracas—No Use Protesting To Dr. Heaslip

GUELPH, Ont., Feb. 10 (CP) — The riot in Ontario Reformatory here Jan. 17 was unpremeditated, according to testimony of youthful prisoners yesterday before a public inquiry conducted by Judge James E. Madden.

Prisoners had planned to refuse their noon-day meal in an effort to draw attention of Hon. Harry Nixon, Provincial Secretary, to what they described as unsatisfactory conditions at the Reformatory. When guards locked up three prisoners who refused dinner, the riot broke out because of resentment, the prisoners said.

"It was no use speaking to the superintendent (Dr. J. D. Heaslip) regarding food," said a prisoner witness. "We had done that before and nothing had been done."

Reformatory authorities often allowed supplies of soap and tooth powder to run out, so prisoners had to go two or three days without them, another youth testified. Teen-aged prisoners complained guards forced boys as young as 16 to handle pick and shovel beyond their endurance.

100 In Solitary

Guards had locked about 100 prisoners in solitary punishment cells after the riot and they were fed sandwiches and soft foods, never getting a full meal, a prisoner said.

The 22-year-old prisoner asked Judge Madden if charges had been laid against these men. Assured they had not been charged, he asked why they were in solitary confinement.

"I have no control over that, it is up to your guards," said the judge.

"The guards say they are doing it on orders from you," said the prisoner, "we are not allowed to smoke or have a haircut, and we don't get a full meal."

"I asked that prisoners giving evidence be kept separate," the judge told him. "You're not suffering too much are you?"

DEFENCE IN SOUTH CRACKS WIDE OPEN

Socialist Troops Surrender En Masse As Fascists Advance On Motril

MALAGA, Spain, Feb. 10—(A.P.)—Defeated Government militiamen laid down their arms in mass surrender to-day before a victorious insurgent advance toward Motril, 58 miles up the Spanish Mediterranean coast from this captured port.

"Large numbers of Government snipers surrendered at sight," insurgent commanders reported as the Fascist drive moved east of Malaga.

One column of General Francisco Franco's triumphant troops took forcible control of the seaboard highway along the Mediterranean to a point 18 miles east of the conquered southern port.

In the hills leading down to the coast, insurgent cavalrymen engaged in "cleaning up" operations in an effort to stamp out threats of guerilla warfare.

All through the night troops marched out of the city toward a new front line extending from Motril, on the Mediterranean to the Sierra Nevadas, south of Granada.

In the city proper, a military governor and reorganized police force ruled the strategic harbor and speeded work to convert it into a powerful naval base. Tons of military equipment and war materials captured from the fleeing government forces were brought into Malaga.

Three councils of war were set up to try arrested Socialists suspected of participating in the killing of 5,000 inhabitants during the last days of the siege.

NO SPECIAL ISSUE OF SILVER DOLLAR

Dunning However Believes Coins With George VI. Image May Be Out For Coronation

OTTAWA, Feb. 10—(C.P.)—Canadian silver coins bearing the image of King George VI. may be in circulation at the time of the Coronation, Finance Minister Dunning told the House of Commons yesterday, but no special issue was contemplated.

Martha Louise Black, Conservative member for the Yukon and wife of the former Speaker of the House, urged the Government to strike silver dollars, of which 1,000,000 would be minted, as a typical Canadian token of the Coronation year. It would be of assistance and encouragement to the silver mining industry.

Mrs. Black said she realized the Government could not force people to use silver dollars, but she was convinced the coins would be rapidly taken up as souvenirs. For every 60 cents worth of silver minted into the coins the government received $1.15 and she believed the suggestion was a practical one.

Thomas Reid (Lib., New Westminster) supported the suggestion, but said if the idea was to popularize silver dollars "it might be as well to place on one side the image of the Duke of Windsor and on the other that of Mrs. Simpson."

Silver Certificates

Mr. Reid would go further and had the Minister of Finance take over all silver and issue silver certificates. It would mean added employment, he declared, and would not disturb the country's credit. "That could be done in Canada if we had the intestinal fortitude," Mr. Reid declared.

At the time of the abdication, Mr. Dunning said, steps had been taken to mint coins with the image of former King Edward VIII. It then became necessary to start all over again, and recently approval had been given to the image prepared of the present King. There was some doubt of the dies being received in time to mint George VI coins before the Coronation, but every effort was being made to get them.

The dollars minted for the Silver Jubilee of King George V had been issued to the number of 743,000 and were available at all bank branches. They had been peculiar, more particularly in the silver mining districts.

Conservative Leader Bennett observed that the fact large silver coins were not minted in greater quantity was due more to the unwillingness of the people to circulate them than to the unwillingness of governments to issue them.

SQUADS "MOP UP" IN SACKED, BURNED PORT OF MALAGA

Entire Central Area Destroyed —Over 5,000 Rightists Slain By Anarchists

HORRIBLE CONDITIONS

INSURGENT HEADQUARTERS AT MALAGA, Feb. 10 (A.P.)—Armed "clean-up" squads of Fascist military police enforced order to-day in sacked and burned Malaga, last important seaport to be held by the Spanish government on the southern coast.

Officers at the head of the victorious columns of insurgents said conditions in the city, captured virtually without a blow, were "in a horrible state."

The entire central part of the Mediterranean metropolis of 400,000 residents had been sacked and burned, they said, before the Fascist southern army climaxed its drive with a triumphal entry.

Bands of anarchists, the leaders reported, had roved the city after the sweeping advance threw them back into the provincial capital and bottled up Malaga's exits by land and sea.

More than 5,000 Rightists, they estimated, had been killed during the Socialist occupation.

Collapse Comes Suddenly.

As an indication of the sudden collapse of the city's resistance, however, Fascist officers said they found "not a single body in the streets" when they entered the city.

When the first troops of General Gonzalo Queipo de Llano's western seaboard column marched through the suburbs they found no preparations made to hold the defence positions—the Socialist defenders had vanished into the crowds lining the sidewalks, seeking to merge their identity with throngs welcoming the invaders.

The only continuing resistance came from bands of anarchists armed with pistols and hand bombs who sniped at the army of occupation from house tops and upper windows in a futile attempt to harrass the parading Fascists.

MUSIC MAKES LIGHT LIGHT MAKES NOISE

Two Of Many Demonstrations To Be Given In Collegiate Auditorium Next Week

Music—singing, whistling, or the playing of instruments — that can be thrown on a wall in the form of light, and the glow of a lamp that comes to the audience in the form of sound — these are two of the many demonstrations that will be shown at the "House of Magic" at the Collegiate Auditorium on February 16 and 17 by William A. Gluesing, of the General Electric Research Laboratory at Schenectady, N.Y.

Using the phototube, or what has come to be known as the "electric eye", Mr. Gluesing will pick up the music from a phonograph and cast it upon the wall in the form of parti-colored light, very pretty but extremely silent. The current from the phonograph pick-up is so arranged that it travels to a lamp on a tripod instead of to a loudspeaker, the sound waves being transformed into light. The lamp, having the ability to go on and off hundreds of thousands of times a second, transmits an ever-changing light beam equivalent to the notes of the phonograph record. When the beam is focussed at the receiving end on a phototube pick-up, however, the light is turned back into music. The sound can be interrupted by interception of the beam at any time. By using a disk and partially intercepting the beam of light, Mr. Gluesing produces what he terms "saxaphone music with a scalloped edge."

Too Fast For Human Eye

In another demonstration of a phototube's versatility, Mr. Gluesing will use it to turn the light of an incandescent lamp into sound—flickering on and off 120 times a second, too fast for the human eye to observe but slow enough for the ear to hear.

Other experiments which will be performed will include demonstrations of the voice-controlled train, Alnico—new magnetic alloy—high frequency radiations, gas-filled tubes, lighting a lamp with a match, the cathode-ray oscillograph, and ultra-violet rays. Mr. Gluesing was in charge of the "House of Magic" demonstrations of the General Electric Company exhibit at a Century of Progress for two years and since then has been in charge of the "House of Magic" show in New York City.

LOW VITALITY MAY CAUSE 'FLU

Beware of widespread epidemic! Keep your system free from poisons that lower resistance.

Doctors agree that one of the greatest causes of 'Flu is lowered resistance caused by accumulation of harmful body wastes and poisons. Don't take chances. Keep your system free from these harmful wastes and poisons by taking Fruit-a-tives regularly. Start right now too, because 'Flu strikes quickly, without warning. Fruit-a-tives, the prescription of a prominent Canadian physician, contain extracts of fruits and herbs and act to stimulate the liver and four other vital organs to normal healthy action; activate the flow of bile, cleanse the intestinal tract of harmful wastes and poisons; tend to purify the blood of poisons and acids. Guard against 'Flu. Get your supply of Fruit-a-tives right now. Every druggist has them. Be sure you get only genuine "Fruit-a-tives".

STRIKE MEDALS FOR CORONATION

Plans For Official And Local Souvenirs Of Event Announced

LONDON, Feb. 10 (CP). — The Minister of Health, Sir Kingsley Wood, recently despatched an official circular to local authorities informing them of the revised arrangements for the supply of officially-approved Coronation medals.

The Royal Mint is to produce an official medal which will show the King's effigy on one side and the Queen's on the other. In addition there will be two classes of medals struck by the trade in this country.

The first will bear the officially-approved double effigies of Their Majesties on one side, with municipal coats of arms or other appropriate designs on the other. They will be described as medals with the officially-approved portraits of Their Majesties.

The second class will have both sides designed by private medallists, but arrangements have been made under which the portraits of Their Majesties upon them may be "approved by the Federation of British Industries Coronation Medal Committee acting in conjunction with the Deputy Master of the Royal Mint" and they may then be so described.

Supplies of all three classes of medals will, it is anticipated, be available by April at the latest.

LINDSAY PLANNING TO ENTER PROTEST

Council Feels Boost Given Town's Assessment Is Too Much

LINDSAY, Feb. 10. — The town council at a special session last night decided to enter an appeal against the by-law passed by the County Council confirming the equalization of the assessment of the real property of the county. The members felt that the boost given Lindsay's assessment was altogether too big and that they would be willing to accept the final equalization as made by the county judge.

Mr. George Pollock, who has been acting in the capacity of Inspector of Relief, has been appointed foreman of the local Board of Work. His salary has been fixed at $15.00 per week.

A partly filled bottle of gasoline was found near the building, close to the spot where the fire originated. A thorough investigation is under way.

Speaking of Crime

The House of Commons turned again to discussing the method of inflicting capital punishment, the proposal being that the lethal chamber be used instead of the scaffold. From that point the discussion drifted to include the so-called deterrent effect of capital punishment. That is, because men are hanged for murder others will hold back from such crime for fear of the consequences. We doubt very much whether that point could be proved. If a murder is a cold-blooded and deliberately plotted affair those responsible are not thinking of the day they will be hanged. Nor do they pause to reason because others have been hanged the same thing may happen to them.

We do not inflict capital punishment as a deterrent, but because the law asks the life of a murderer in payment of a crime. The remark is often made when a sentence in court is passed which does not involve murder that a stiff penalty is being given as a warning to others. But that warning does not become operative. The history of crime is plain as a pikestaff. Those who enter it believe they are smart enough to escape its results.

The Baby Brides

Eunice Winstead, a girl of nine years, was married to Charlie Johns in Tennessee, and he is 22. Leona Elizabeth Roshia, twelve, was married to Stanley Backus in Watertown, N. Y. Then the papers started to talk, and they published pictures of Mrs. Mary Keller of Birmingham, Ala., with her infant child, and Mrs. Mary Keller is twelve years of age.

After that some writers started to invade government statistics in search of facts. Census reports show brides in United States of under 15 years number 5,000 in a year. How much younger the official records do not show. There is no federal minimum marriage age, and the laws in the various states follow no set pattern.

It is recorded that if those of the full age of 15 years were added to the number under 15 years there would be found 20,000 brides in United States within that age group. Included in the classification are 29 widows and divorcees, but it is explained the divorce cases have come through the action of parents. If left to themselves it is claimed there would be virtually no divorces in the class to which some writers refer as the "baby brides."

The Price of Milk

There are times when a newspaper asks those who write letters or articles if they are sure of all their facts. The Examiner had occasion to make such a request regarding the price charged for milk in London, Eng. It was difficult to believe it ran as high as 27 cents per quart.

In a few minutes our correspondent was back again and had with him a copy of the United Dairies Home Magazine of March 1936, and United Dairies makes the claim it is the largest dairy plant in the world, and the price of milk is plainly listed, each kind being fully described.

The milk which sells for 1s 1½d per quart is "produced on farms specially licensed by the Ministry of Health as attaining the highest standard of excellence ,and from herds which have passed the tuberculin test. The milk is bottled on the farm but is not pasteurized." And reduced to our money it is 27 cents per quart. What is described as Grade A pasteurized sells at 18 cents per quart. United Dairies have large pasteurizing plants, but they deal as well in milk which has not been pasteurized.

Who Would Pay It?

There must be times when a trial and a verdict by the jurors fails to produce the result desired by the jurors. There was one at London, Ont., within recent days. James E. Betteridge sought $25,000 damages from Ninian Sanderson because the latter's car crashed into the rear of the parked car in which Betteridge was sitting. Evidence showed that a third car had swung out of a street intersection at the same time and Sanderson was powerless to do anything else but run into the parked car, and for that reason there was no negligence on his part. There having been no negligence shown the Judge dismissed the case.

Afterward the foreman of the jury and several members waited on Mr. Justice Jeffrey and said that was not the way they wanted the case to end. They desired Mr. Betteridge to be paid $5,200 for suffering and injury, but they did not want Mr. Sanderson to pay it because he had not been negligent in his manner of driving. The question naturally is: Who should pay the damages of $5,200, and the foreman of the jury says he does not know. The nearest he could come to an answer was: "Somebody should make arrangements for Betteridge to be compensated." But as to who that somebody shall be the jurors had no immediate answer.

Did They Complain In 1868?

Back in 1868 the net debt per capita of the people living in Canada amounted to $21.58, and in 1871 it was down to $21.06. Today the average Canadian, be he poor or moderately well off or immensely rich can state with assurance that he represents $272.59 of national debt. If there are five in the family, then the family circle can know with statistical certainty that $1,362.95 of public debt is some way or other assigned to their domicile.

Of course the family is not going to be asked to pay this off. Governments do not pay their debts. They carry them along and pay for the privilege.

According to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics the net debt of the country at the end of 1936 was $3,006,100,517, and we have that debt because of the number of years we have spent more money than we have received. That has not always been the case. It can be shown in a simple table. In the first group are the years when the per capita receipts were greater than the per capita expenditures:

Year	Per Capita Receipts	Per Capita Expenditures
1871	$ 5.25	$ 5.23
1926	40.51	37.58
1927	41.56	37.21
1928	43.86	38.50
1929	45.88	38.77
1930	43.68	38.01

If all our years had been on that basis we would not today be bothered with debt. Here are other years when the expenditure was greater than the receipts. Again it is on the per capita basis:

Year	Per Capita Receipts	Per Capita Expenditures
1868	$ 3.90	$ 4.01
1881	6.85	7.82
1891	7.96	8.44
1901	9.78	10.80
1911	16.36	17.05
1921	49.65	60.12
1931	34.32	42.40
1932	32.05	42.92
1933	29.13	40.79
1934	29.98	42.31
1935	33.09	43.71
1936	33.78	48.29

Those tables show we have had a few years when receipts were greater than expenditure, but we have had many more years when expenditure was much greater than receipts. The resident of 1937 can well look back toward the year 1868 when the per capita expenditure on government was $4.01, compared to $48.29 in 1936 and he can also wonder if the residents of 1868 were complaining about the high cost of government. Likely they were.

There Has Been a Change

Time was when a strike was something which concerned chiefly the workers and the company against which the strike had been called. If the strike were protracted business in the community felt it as well.

The strike which has been going on for seven weeks in Welland at the plant of the Empire Cotton Mills shows that a distinct change has been made in the strike situation. Today the entire community, through the operation of the relief department, is made a party to the strike because it is called upon to care for those who have gone on strike and who have no means of supporting themselves.

According to figures furnished by William Powrie, relief officer, Welland should have about 800 persons on relief, but his latest returns show the figure has grown to 1,700. That is an increase of over 100 per cent., accounted for by the influx of those who went on strike.

Under the old system when a union called a strike it had funds to pay strike allowance during the period of idleness. In Welland the responsibility has been shifted to the municipality.

Wide Roads Dangerous?

This may come as a surprise, but Arnold H. Vey, state traffic engineer for New Jersey, finds that narrow roads are safer than wide ones for auto traffic. In his state he has opportunity to observe what takes place on highways where there are four lanes for traffic, and compare the results with the two-lane system such as we have in most places.

Mr. Vey finds that on the two-lane roads those who desire to cut in generally wait until they see a clear space ahead so they can get back in line safely, but when the number of lanes is increased the drivers are inclined to take greater chances because there seems to be so much more room.

That finding must come as a shock to those who have been certain that greater safety lay in more lanes for traffic. The greater space seems to incite greater daring once the limitations of the two-lane method have been removed. Better driving is the cure, but that is the one thing the engineers seem unable to secure.

They Just Talked It Out

J. S. Holmes, National Labor member in the British Commons, had a measure up for discussion. He wanted to abolish tipping. The bill was not defeated, but it was talked about. As it was a private member's bill it now goes down to the bottom of the list and it may be a long time before it gets to the top again. It is a convenient way of shunting a measure on which members do not want to vote. The people who govern France did the same thing with a similar bill not long since. Voting to abolish tipping in France would have been a serious thing, because that country, as tourists generally know, has developed the tipping business to the point of science, art and extortion combined.

There were good sound arguments advanced in the British House. It was stated that workers in hotels, restaurants and in some railway positions were paid next to nothing at all, and depended on the general public for their revenue in the form of tips. If they were doing useful work then they should be paid a living wage and tips should stop.

It is a strange thing how that custom keeps on living, and yet it does. It would take a brave man to do much travelling after making up his mind he was not going to do any tipping. There are plenty of men living in the larger centres who have paid more in tips for hanging up their hats than the hats are worth. It would have been well had the British House put the boots to the miserable custom. But it didn't.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Montreal man was arrested for stealing two newspapers. We wonder how he got in wrong with his neighbors.

Western farmers, it is said lose $180,000,000 through weeds every year and it should be understood this total does not include the amount of their cigar bill.

The public is beginning to wish that the radio comedians would start a sit-down strike on this sit-down strike motive before they work it to death.

It is officially announced that the Indian population of Canada is on the increase and thereby another strongly-held idea is debunked.

Fifty-six persons were injured in Toronto Monday by falling on icy streets. 1937 starts out as a great year for the legal fraternity.

It cost Canada a million dollars to furnish relief to the Indians last year but after all that is a small amount in view of the fact that they were the original owners of the whole country.

Toronto grand jury recommends that cars more than five years old should have a government inspection before a new license is issued or an old one transferred. Any car salesman would second that motion.

A Toronto paper reports the ordering of hockey equipment as a sign that the mining district of the Northwest territories is becoming civilized. The writer cannot be a regular attendant at professional games.

It will be difficult to convince a lot of motorists that grand juries have lost their usefulness. The Toronto grand jury has thrown out no fewer than eleven cases where motor manslaughter was charged.

Lord Tweedsmuir has been making a plea for more beauty in architecture. We may not have an artistic eye but some of the newer designs seem to suggest there is need of paying attention to what the Governor-General is asking for.

The relief legislation to be introduced by Hon. Norman Rogers, Federal Minister of Labor is being awaited with some interest. Conditions have improved manifestly in Canada but there is still a large amount of unemployment and the Government plans for dealing with the situation are naturally causing speculation.

The significance of the recent decision by the privy council can perhaps be more easily grasped when it is realized that the man who is now laboring thirteen hours a day can expect relief from that situation only when he has persuaded the government of his own province, the governments of eight other provinces and possibly the government of the Dominion as well, that he is entitled to an amendment of the law.

SUCCESS

(By A. R. K.)

¶ When Andy Speck went off to school, to try to learn each printed rule, his work was never done; he could not learn to read and write, his answers never came out right, they all said he was dumb.

¶ The teacher did the best he could, to try to teach him like he should, it almost turned him grey; he feared for Andy's future too, and wondered what the lad could do, so he'd have oats and hay.

¶ And people laughed when he left home, and started off to go alone, he'd come back pretty quick; he'd never hold a job they said, and he would never get ahead, his brain was like a brick.

¶ But Andy Speck turned up out west, that seemed the spot he liked the best, and he did fairly well; then everything he touched went right, and he was rich just overnight, and Andy was a swell.

¶ He came back home, I mind the day, I listened to all things they'd say, and they spoke honeyed words; they knew when he was small in frame, that he'd go out and make a name, they spoke astounding verbs.

¶ And folk who said that he was dumb, they wiggled then a praising tongue, they knew he would succeed; they patted Andy on the back, and in each word and friendly smack—they lied a lot indeed.

Says Trust Fund Not Being Spent

THE WILLIAM HALL PROTESTANT TRUST

EDITOR Examiner:

Sir: The recently published annual statement of accounts of the William Hall Protestant Trust makes rather provocative reading in these days of difficulty and stress.

Wm. Hall came from Scotland in 1827 and eventually became a partner in the firm of Nicholls and Hall. He died June 28, 1875, unmarried and left a sum of $30,000 to be invested and the "avails" thereof were designated to relieve distress among the Protestant poor of Peterborough.

In Aug. 1876 the Trust was established and the first meeting of Trustees held. The first trustees were for the Presbyterian three—Judge Dennistoun, Dr. Taylor and Col. Kaulbach; for the English Church: A. P. Poussette; for the Methodists, W. Yeland and for the Baptists, Alex Gillespie. It is now managed as far as is known, by a Board of Managers, appointed by the churches of the city, but in fact very few citizens know of this trust or its management.

The published figures speak for themselves. The balance in hand, Jan. 1936, was $1,112.55 and the income from investments, $1,685.—a total of $2,797.55, and out of that sum only $980 is paid out in relief to those whom the charity is supposed to benefit. The debit side of the account shows: Relief paid, $980; general expenses, $302.27; balance in bank, $1,515. The expenses of administration amount to nearly one-third of the amount paid out for the stated purposes of the Trust—and more than 150% is kept in reserve at the bank, doing nothing at all to carry out these purposes.

In the Capital accounts we find in addition to the original $30,000, there is an item of a holding of a $1,000 Hydro Bond. This has been purchased recently out of accumulated income instead of paying this income out to the people the Trust is supposed to help. Surely in these distressful times it is all wrong that moneys left in trust for those in distress should be accumulated in this manner. Out of $2,797 only $980 is paid out in the relief which is the real object of the Trust—the expenses of management amount to about 30% of the relief paid, and that only 35% of the total assets are paid out in relief.

It would be well if there were in this country some legislation on the lines of the English charitable Trusts Act and the general administration of Trusts of this nature placed under the beneficient supervision of a Board of Charity Commissioners.

The amount of the individual relief allowance is small—amounting to $4 a month but this would often make the difference between privation and a reasonable subsistence and especially in the case of men unable to work and approaching pensionable age who are supposed to keep body and soul together on a relief allowance of $2.35 per week for food, shelter, and fuel.

Looking back at a former statement we find in the year 1933 the receipts consisted of, balance in bank, $1,536.33, interest from investments, $1,650—total, $3,186.33, compared with $2,797.55 in 1936; but on the other side of the account we find relief paid out, $1,420 as against $980 in 1936, while expenses of administration have increased from $159.70 three years ago to $302.27 last year.

One can hardly think the general economic position being what it is, that the intentions of this generous testator are being effectively carried out when out of total assets of $2,979.55 only $980 is paid out of the aid of the persons whom the will purports to benefit.

Yours Truly
PETER B. CIVIS

Feb. 8, 1937.

LIQUOR PROFITS.

(Woodstock Sentinel-Review)

ST. CATHARINES STANDARD, on the authority of a former member of the government liquor store staff, says receipts there are sometimes $6,000 to $7,000 a day, and that on one occasion a take of $9,000 was reached.

"What the volume of beer business by the case may be has never been divulged," adds the Standard; "no doubt it is plenty. There is a slight check on business of the beverage rooms through the amount which is handed back to the city every year. The liquor and beer business taken together must run into scores of thousands of dollars per year in this community. It is a matter of regret that so much government secrecy surrounds the liquor business in other centres....The public has no idea of the economic drain of the liquor business in this or any other community, because if it did know there would be more condemnation of the government free-and-easy policy, one which is all for revenue."

An interesting fact about that situation is that during the regime of the Ferguson government it was attacked by the Opposition, and in particular Hon. H. C. Nixon, for refusing to give particulars of the revenue at liquor stores. Now Mr. Nixon is a senior member of the government of Ontario, and he has continued the very procedure which he condemned on the part of its predecessor.

MILLIONS OF ROBINS.

(Christian Science Monitor)

ROBINS numbering between 75,000,000 and 100,000,000, according to estimates of federal and state game officials, selected several square miles of scrub pine forest in Orange County, N. C., as a resting place, on their way South. This resting of the robins, a strange occurrence, brings the birds together in a comparative, small area, where they perch on the branches of trees, weighing them down like a heavy sleet.

North Carolina has entertained these feathered visitors several times before in unbelievable numbe . In 1929, it was estimated that between 75,000,000 and 100,000,000 "red breasts" paid a visit to Randolph county.

Says Salesmanship Is Lacking.

(Shopper Tells of Several Experiences.)

The writer of this letter is moved to be somewhat critical of the treatment received in some stores. Not a vindictive person at all, but the experiences are related in the hope of correcting what the writer considers certain defects in salesmanship.

EDITOR Examiner:

Sir: This article is not written with an aim for destructive but constructive criticism. It is an article which narrates events and conversations experienced by a frequent visitor to our fair city, each trip made for business as the ultimate aim, this being a business of leaving money in the hands of various merchants and not in the visitor's pocket.

This picture may be drawn of the visitor. He is a man of middle age, very reserved, strictly of a business character, given but very little to unnecessary talk, courteous, can take a joke but seldom takes part in that type of conservation.

He walks into a privately owned store where 3 men are concerned. The owner, he knows well, but another he knows only by name and back history; the third he knows only as a salesman and not even by name, having had no dealings with him.

Conversation enaues—

Owner—"Hello Jack."

Customer—"How do you do Mr.—?"

Owner—"What are you doing, living in town now?" (Owner having seen customer in town a few times recently, but the question seems much out of place)

1st Salesman, known by name but a camparative stranger, "Hello Jack."

2nd Sales person not known at all to customer—"Hello Jack."

1st Salesman—"How is the fishin' up on the lake?" (This being in January.

2nd Salesman—"Are you gettin' any muskies?"

Customer astonished at their freshness or bold outbreak using such tactless and unethical salesmanship answered slowly, "I don't know anything about the fishing. I've only had one in two years for I have little or no time for pleasures like that."

The 2nd salesman, very ignorant but most persistent, said, "Well you must be gettin' some for somebody is gettin' them."

About this time the customer felt much like departing rather than purchase what was wanted and leave their money. This was not friendliness, joviality, but unethical salesmanship, showing such tactlessness, impudence till one would wonder where the ignoramus secured his education in even the faintest rudiments of a business knowledge. After such nearly $2.50 were spent.

ANOTHER incident in a chain store—Same customer entered approaching rather than being approached. Wife requested to see a leather jacket for the husband.

Salesman shows an imitation leather (real salesmanship would have been to show a good leather first.)

Customer's wife—"No we want a leather jacket for it turns rain and wind better."

Salesman (having many times seen the customer but never knew him and customer did not even know salesmaan's name)—"Oh, doesn't your husband know enough to come in out of the rain?" More frivolity continued. Such insults are most incredulous when one considers what real salesmanship involves. Nearly $15 were left in that place even after such methods.

THE customer enters another chain store after having had supper and was only killing time waiting for the theater hour. After making unexpected purchases they were gazing at some clocks near an entrance when with their backs to a salesman who was on his way to supper.

A description of this sales person is due.—He is a man who is quite old for a frivolous conversation. He is known only to the customer as a sales person employed at least by two store employers. He has sold the customer a few hundred dollars worth of goods. Neither one knows the other personally.

Sales person.—"What are you doing in here?"

A bystander.—"Is this business yours?"

Salesman.—"I think I'll have you arrested."

Same customer.—"Well it would be more fitting for you to give such as us a warmer welcome, you should be glad such as we come in here."

Salesman.—"Well, guess I'm like the story . . . my brain isn't functioning."

Customer.—"That explains what is wrong with you."

ANOTHER incident: Man approaches a woman asks for size 15½ shirt of a designated pattern. The woman scrambled the shirts till they were in a heap. Returned saying, "I haven't that in a 15½, but do have it in a 15."

Customer.—"I wear a 15½ so the 15 will not do."

Instead of trying to sell another style in a 15½, she said, "You may wear a 15½, but it is way too big."

One customer laughed at her and thought she had plenty of gall or cool impudence, while the buyer remarked, "You can keep your old shirt."

IT IS incredulous that one buyer should be confronted with such tactless methods used by salesmen, poor conversations, orders of approach, using the rudest fragments of a business nature and a mighty poor way of increasing business and popularity. What is needed? A progressive character or a personality which will induce a wise buyer or even the ordinary layman to part with his money where real welcomes are extended.

ALL people of business should keep it in mind to use utmost discretion in every way with all concerned for it is not always the man of wealth who will shell out his money, for he generally frequents places where he is highly respected and difference in prestige has great influence.

More often most money is spent by the unexpected and it is not always the best dressed fellow who has the most money to spend. It would behove every business man whether he be of a chain or private business to train and keep only those who use discretion and if he has not had an opportunity to learn what, when, and how to act, through lack of early education, environment, or perchance through inheritance or lack of funds he can greatly improve by making use of the inestimable resources of our efficient library system.

The more business qualifications are improved the greater the business will be but the spectacular gains little renown.

CONSIDERING this city from a business standpoint, scenic beauty, educational facilities, as well as the various churches where all are privileged to obtain guidance worthy and commendable, one would wonder why our various business organizations would not take advantage and make the best for progressive extension along the various channels to which they are subjected in their daily routine of contact with their fellowmen.

Let it be as it may, a casual acquaintance, a client, a purchaser, an employer or an ordinary layman—treat all with the utmost courtesy. We do have some business organizations worthy to be used as a pattern.

At a recent service a very eloquent sermon was given by a renowned clergy, which was based on the needs of our own city.

"The Soul of a City."

Too bad all could not have heard and absorbed the morals represented and put them into effect. "A man, let it be who he may, is nearly dead, who has no feeling. It is the soul of man in which eternal life depends and every act and thought go toward making that soul worthy of eternal life."

BIG BEN STOPS.

(Galt Reporter)

THEY tell a story about an English village postmaster visiting London who took out his own watch and asserted that Big Ben was two minutes fast. If that postmaster was revisiting London the other day, he had a chance to laugh right back at the London folk. For Big Ben did worse than go a couple of minutes astray. Big Ben stopped.

Passersby hardly could believe their eyes, the morning it happened. They knew it must be after 9 o'clock, but Big Ben said quarter to 9. Big Ben stuck to his story of it being only 8.45 until about 9.30. Then the foremen of a gang of painters, at work in the clock tower, stepped outside to ascertain the time. He looked up at Big Ben. He stared, his mouth opened; then he dashed back into the clock tower and started up to find out what was wrong. Before he reached the top of the tower, Big Ben started again, apparently of its own volition.

The painters couldn't figure it out, but the clockmakers could. Here they said, is how it happened: The painters had placed a ladder against the spindle which turns Big Ben's hands. The ladder did not stop the clock, but the weight of a man who climbed up it did. And when he came down again lack of his weight apparently started the clock once more.

Probably the clockmakers were right. At all events, some London clerks had a good alibi for being late that morning.

MILK CONTROL

Editor Examiner:

Sir: I know what people can expect should you have to buy pasteurized milk. I was 25 years with dairymen who are in the largest dairy combine in the world, the U. D. of London, and today their prices are only 27 cents per quart for certified raw milk and 18 cents per quart for grade A pasteurized. This large combine is supplying over half of London's nine millions of people, serving on every street in the 700 square miles of Greater London.

They will place raw milk as the superior product and get 9 cents extra for it. I have several records of typhoid epidemics and it was not raw milk that caused them. You will know why that some of the firms in Ontario are so very anxious about your good health when they get the control of the market. This large combine in London has almost 20,000 employees today. My old friend that writes me has only been in the dairy trade 50 years. There has never been anything detrimental occur with milk at any dairy where I have been. Yours very truly,

F. J. MERRETT

WHERE ARE EVANSES?

(New York Herald-Tribune)

THE Social Security Board's revelation that there are 294,000 Smiths, out of a total of 26,000,000 insurable persons on its lists, comes as no great surprise. Every one knows that there are a lot of Smiths.

But it must upset the popular idea of the incidence of names to learn that the Joneses, with whom mankind traditionally keeps up, are only half as numerous as the Smiths, and that there are fewer of them than there are of the Johnsons, the Browns and the Williamses, while the Robinsons are not even in the running.

The three names in the Federal list of 10 leaders that are usually thought to be distinctively Welsh—Williams, Jones and Davis—with 426,000 between them, make up nearly a third of the 10-family total; but where the Welsh are so strong what has happened to the Evanses?

RIGHT TO SELECT ITS OWN WRITERS VITAL TO PRESS

Interference By Labor Act Termed Blow To Freedom Of The News

A. P. DISPUTE IN COURT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10—(A.P.)—Nine Supreme Court Justices heard John W. Davis assert yesterday that a news writer and his product are inseparable. Any interference with the hiring or discharging of a reporter interferes, he said, with the right of that man's employer to publish freely.

Davis, speaking for The Associated Press, declared the National Labor Relations Act, as it has been applied to that orees association, is a "direct, palpable and undisguised attack on the freedom of the press."

"How," he asked, "can a newspaper remain master of its business, if those who compose its news columns are no longer selected by it?"

The National Labor Relations Board had ordered the press association to reinstate Morris Watson, a discharged employee.

"The press," Davis went on, "has a right to live under the law and the supreme law is that the press shall be free.

"If we fetter the press, we fetter ourselves.

"Those who publish and print the news"—he waved his right hand for emphasis—"must have the right to choose the people by whom the news is to be written. You cannot divorce the author from his product. You can't have Dickens' novels without Dickens.

"What more effective engine could a dictatorial power have than the right to name the men who write the news?"

Watson contended he was discharged because of activities for the American Newspaper Guild. The Associated Press said he was dismissed because his work had dropped below his proven capability.

CLEAR OF BANK DEBT

Tecumseh, However, Still Has 750,000 in Liabilities.

TECUMSEH, Ont., Feb. 10—(CP)—Paying off $111,000 since 1932, this government-supervised town does not owe any money to its bankers for the first time in history, Mayor Fred Bouteiller told council last night. A recent payment of $34,485 has wiped out the municipality's bank obligations.

Tecumseh is far from being clear of debt, however. The Essex county towns liabilities amount to $755,000, or about equal the town's assessment.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 10. — Frost-damage reports from parts of the United States winter-wheat area inspired late rallies in wheat prices on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday, enlivening a dull session and cutting in half earlier losses.

Off about two cents until a subdued rush to buy developed toward the last, values closed ¾ to 1⅛ cent lower. May at $1.28¼, July $1.23⅝ and October $1.12⅝. Chicago reports told of wheat fields turning to sheets of ice with low temperatures prevailing over the South-west.

In the background as a constructive factor was a decline in Canadian visible stocks of wheat for the week ended February 5 to 97,796,951 bushels, the first time the total on hand has been below the 100,000,000-bushel mark since August, 1930. Last year at this time the visible was 239,411,458 bushels.

Export sales were 500,000 bushels including one cargo to Germany. The moderate demand from abroad served only to slow the early recessions in the face of 2¼d setbacks at Liverpool where general liquidation was the rule.

Coarse grains prices followed the trend of wheat. Cash grains continued inactive and little changed.

EIGHTY HONORARY COLONELS ON LIST

Cost Public Nothing, Add To Prestige Of Militia, Pouliot Informed

OTTAWA, Feb. 10 — (C.P.). — Eighty honorary colonels grace Canada's Permanent and Non-permanent Active Militia, at no expense to the public, J. P. Pouliot (Lib., Temiscouata) was informed in a return tabled in the House of Commons yesterday. Last week he learned, by a similar return to a series of questions, that there are 127 honorary lieutenant-colonels in the Militia.

Such honorary officers supply their own uniforms and arms and are under no obligation to make any payment to the state by virtue of their appointment.

"Owing to their local prominence they add prestige to the forces and help to maintain esprit de corps to the general advantage of the Militia," states the return, in answer to a question as to what services honorary colonels, as such, have rendered to the state to date. "It is understood that on occasion these gentlemen provide material assistance to their units."

The list shows Sir A. C. Macdonnell of Kingston, is honorary colonel of four regiments, and Sir James H. MacBrien, honorary colonel of three regiments disbanded. Those holding the rank of honorary colonel of only two regiments are: Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett; Senator W. A. Griesbach, Edmonton; T. L. Tremblay, Quebec; Hon. H. H. McLean, Saint John, N.B.; and C. H. LeP. Jaones, Liverpool, N.S. Lord Beaverbrook and Lord Baden-Powell are included in the list with one regiment each.

REV. McCORMACK BURIED IN MITCHELL

Six Ministers From Perth County Act As Pallbearers—Service Held In Church

MITCHELL, Feb. 10.—The funeral of the Rev. S. G. McCormack, M.A., of Knox United church, Peterborough, took place from the Main street United church, Mitchell, on Monday. The body arrived by C. N. R. train accompanied by Mrs. F. G. Forrester, sister-in-law of the departed; Rev. A. S. Cleland, chairman of Peterborough Presbytery; A. E. Pitsford and H. J. McCannan, members of the Board of Managers; John Hornsby, a personal friend of Mr. McCormack; A. A. McLaren, brother-in-law, and Elson Butcher and family of St. Marys.

Mr. McCormack left the chaplaincy in the army to accept a call to the Madoc church. He also served in Priceville and Thornton before going to Knox United church in Peterborough last July.

At an impressive service held Monday noon Rev. G. Kersey read the Scripture lesson, Rev. A. R. Gibson led in prayer, Rev. J. A. Gale, accompanied by his wife, sang "Just Beyond the River Jordan," and "One Sweetly Solemn Thought." Rev. W. A. Leitch read the 23rd Psalm and Rev. James Anthony, Chairman of Perth Presbytery, gave the address. At the grave Rev. A. S. Cleland was assisted by Rev. C. L. Lewis and Rev. W. A. Leitch. The six ministers from Perth county acted as pallbearers.

Rev. S. G. McCormack married Miss McLaren of Mitchell and had spent several vacations in this town. He preached in Main street United church last August at a joint meeting with Knox church. He took as his subject at that time, "Give Me, or Make Me." This sermon was a masterpiece and is most favorably remembered by the people of Mitchell.

RIBBENTROP AGAIN GIVES NAZI SALUTE

Remainder Of Staff However Bow With Ambassadors In Presentation To King

LONDON, Feb. 10—(A.P.)—German Ambassador Joachim Von Ribbentrop raised his hand in the Nazi salute to King George VI again today—at the new Monarch's first levee.

Ignoring the furore last week over his first such salute, he stretched his arm straight out when he presented 18 members of his staff in the throne room of St. James' Palace, but his subordinates did not follow his example.

The salute passed almost unnoticed. The ambassadors were presented to the King in order of their seniority, and Von Ribbentrop, a recent appointee, was among the last.

The others bowed according to custom, as did the ministers and charges d'affairs, diplomats of lower rank, who followed the German envoy.

Later, authorities said the British Government did not take a serious view of Von Ribbentrop's penchant for saluting in the Nazi manner at formal occasions, holding precedent has established an envoy may adhere to the customs of the country he represents.

Von Ribbentrop first saluted the King in the Nazi fashion last Thureday, at a diplomatic reception. Some newspapers criticized him sharply.

pay, no matter how much you want to."

Hoin said that this custom follows Chinese wherever they go, and in Peterborough to-night if there are any outstanding personal debts on the cuff they should be cleared up—always depending on condition of solvency that enables a man to meet his creditors and lay it on the line. As for a New Year's Eve celebration it will be "just quiet," some of the Chinese getting together to start the New Year as they do more or less in their homeland.

And about the liquidating of debts, if a man who owes a bill escapes the New Year settlement he is still expected to come across when he can, but the pressure may not be applied with the same zeal until the New Year itself is ending.

The United Press story says bill collectors carry lanterns continuing their search throughout the night and on into the morning of the first day of the year. The lantern is a sign that the night is not ended.

NOVA SCOTIA TOWN HAS 400 FLU CASES

Two Already Dead With Not a Home Unaffected—Disease Spreading To Rural Areas

DIGBY, N.S., Feb. 10.—(CP). — Digby's influenza epidemic entered its 11th day here yesterday, with the death toll standing at two and doctors reporting the disease spreading to nearby rural districts. Churches, schools and theatres remained closed by order of the Health Board as 1,500 residents battled further spread of the disease.

Within the town itself more than 400 persons were ill with influenza, with not a household unaffected. Dr. W. R. Dickie, who for almost a week was forced to tend the sick unaided because of lack of medical assistance, reported the number of cases in surrounding country districts was soaring while those in the town itself were on the decrease.

W. E. Walker, 20, and John Eugene Burns, three-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Burns of nearby Broad Cove, were the two victims of the affliction.

OXFORD GROUPER TAMES SAVAGES

Live Christians Better Than Headless Heathens, Paupans Learn

NEW YORK, Feb. 10 (CP) — A story of how head hunters of Papua, New Guinea, were changed in six months into law-abiding citizens through the teachings of an Oxford Group member, was unfolded by Cecil Abel, young British missionary, in the pulpit of Calvary Episcopal Church here.

Abel, who passed four years in Papua after leaving Cambridge University before he was inspired by the principles of the Oxford Group movement to change pagan lives into Christian ones, related how his work had resulted in peace among the warlike tribes, a condition which the British government had tried to bring about for 30 years. He told the story of his missionary endeavors in part as follows:

"Five chiefs of a tribe of head hunters were changed and began to listen to God. After only three months' training at our station they went back home and calmly assumed the responsibility for changing their whole district. They set out to crush the age-long custom of head-hunting by telling others the simple but gripping story of what had happened to them.

"They told them that head-hunting is tame compared to the joy and the kick they got out of taking men alive for Christ. And their witness was so real and vital that these raw savages came clean, and before we knew what was happening, these same men were listening to God and joining their chiefs on life-changing teams.

"The result of that was a miracle. Bridges were built between village and village, and tribe and tribe that spelt doom to all intertribal fighting. In the six months that elapsed since they went home, head-hunting had been stamped out."

80 P.C. AMNESTY PRISONERS BACK

Penal Commissioner Reveals Only Seven Of Those Freed For Jubilee Still At Large

TORONTO, Feb 10—(CP)—Testifying before the commission investigating Canada's penal system, Alfred G. Hall, of the national committee of penal reform, said today that 80 per cent of the Kingston penitentiary prisoners granted the King's Jubilee amnesty, had been returned there. "Only seven remain at large," he said, "and of these three have been jailed for minor offences."

A visit to the penitentiary is a "Cook's tour," Hall said, with the visitors being shown only what officials want him to see.

"It has not been that way for us," interjected Mr. Justice Joseph Archambault, chairman of the commission.

"I am not referring to this commission," said Hall. He said Miss Agnes McPhail, U.F.O.-Labor, member of parliament for Grey-Bruce, was deceived on her visit.

When Hall urged "resident control," Mr. Justice Archambault said the commission had a record "of an incident when a warden had to have instructions from Ottawa to replace a toothbrush broken by a prisoner at a cost of 18 cents."

Public hearings here began today at city hall. Mr. Justice Archambault said the powers of the commissioners allowed them to deal with all matters relating to the classification of prisoners in prisons to the constitutions of prisons; protection of society; reformation of convicts; administration of prisons; the co-operation between the government and outside societies; conditional release of prisoners and the parole system, and the general pardon question.

England will have Sunday television programs.

LOCATE COCKTAIL INVENTOR'S GRAVE

Search Reveals Mrs. Hustler Died In Lewiston—Plan Special Marker

LEWISTON, N.Y., Feb. 10—(A.P.)—Bjarne Klaussen reported last night he had succeeded in finding the grave of Mrs. Catherine Hustler, reputed here to have been the inventor of the cocktail.

Klaussen made his report to the "Generators," an organization of which he is a member. This group, made up of Niagara Falls business men, had asked him to verify if possible the local tradition that Mrs. Hustler died in Lewiston.

By talking with old residents, Klaussen said he had confirmed to his own satisfaction the belief here that Mrs. Hustler and Betsy Flannigan, who ran a tavern in Yonkers during the latter part of the 18th century, were the same woman. Betsy Flannigan is reputed to have mixed a special drink with a cock's tail feather, leading American soldiers to dub it "cocktail." Later, Klaussen said, she married and ran a tavern here.

Klaussen said he found in a local cemetery a gravestone with this inscription:

"In memory of Catherine Hustler, wife of Thomas Hustler, born in 1762, died 1832.

"As you are now so once was I:
As I am now, so you must be;
Prepare for death and follow me."

The "Generators" planned to designate the grave by a special marker.

ANGRY CATHOLICS SEIZE CHURCHES

Defy Vera Cruz Police After Girl 14, Is Slain At Worship

ORIZABA, Vera Cruz, Mexico, Feb. 10—(AP)—Defiant Roman Catholics, angered by the police slaying of a 14-year-old girl worshipper, held possession of this city's long-closed churches today while the state government considered their demand for repeal of anti-church laws.

For the first time in 10 years, bells tolled as wrathful crowds burst into the churches late yesterday while police looked on without interfering. Catholic sources estimated the crowds at 15,000.

Throughout the night vigilant watchers, emulating sit-down strikers, remained on guard in the shuttered, musty buildings, watchful lest authorities try to close the doors again.

State Prosecutor Adolfo Moreno promised, however, they would have full religious guarantees and the state government took under consideration their demand for repeal of the laws.

Tempers flared after the fatal shooting of 14-year-old Leonor Sanchez and the arrest of 73 of 200 worshippers supposedly attending clandestine services in a private home Sunday. The prisoners were released except for Father Jose Maria Flores, who was said to have officiated at the mass.

Mourners at her funeral set the stage for the forcible reopening of the churches in a tremendous mass meeting where banners were unfurled demanding punishment of the officer who fired the fatal shot.

Fashion Service

Shirt collar, perky sleeves, tricky pockets and flaring hem are the mode for tiny tots as well as for her big sister.

What could be more spic and span or more appropriate for romping youngsters than this easy to don flared dress with French pantees to complete it? Such a practical outfit as well as cute looking. The pantees are the cut up at the sides type, so neat and comfortable.

The one-piece dress and the one-piece pantee open out flat for easy ironing.

The sewing chart included in the pattern explains in pictures every step in the making.

It will help you decide to sew several outfits of crisp cottons. Percale prints, bright chintz and broadcloth in stripped or flowered pattern wash and wear especially well and cost so little.

Style No. 3189 is designed for sizes 2, 4 and 6 years. Size 4 requires 2¼ yards of 36-inch material with ¾ yard of 36-inch contrasting for dress and pantees.

PUPILS SCRAMBLE FOR BIG PANCAKES

Gananoque Lad Gets Largest Share And Prize Of Five Dollars

PORT HOPE, Feb. 10. — Pancakes are scrambled for as well as eaten at Trinity College School on Shrove Tuesday. This old custom was instituted at Westminster School, England, in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, and introduced at T.C.S. on affiliation with the English school in 1914. This year saw the usual terrific scramble at T.C.S. when the three-pound putty pancake was tossed over the wire in the gymnasium from behind a line of boys, each the representative of one form.

The competitors were: Prefects, D. H. Armstrong, Gananoque, Form VI.; B. B. Magee, Toronto, Form V.; R. M. Reid, Vancouver, McGill V.; D. Wood, Haiti, Ontario IV.; J. Coleman, Ottawa, McGill IV.; C. Kirkpatrick, Montreal, III.; E. Fleet, Montreal, S.L.C. From V.; Mood New York.

After a terrific three-minute struggle, a whistle blew and Kirkpatrick emerged from the writhing mass of battling boys with one pound six ounces of the "pancake" an easy winner. His nearest rival, Reid, had eight ounces, and Mood seven. Kirkpatrick was awarded the prize of $5.00, presented by Mrs. Phillip Ketchum.

COMMUNITY HEALTH

A Column Conducted by the Department of Public Health, Peterborough, in the interests of Peterborough Citizens.

"PRE-NATAL CARE"

Is it not time that something be done to lower the high rates of infant deaths, maternal deaths and still births in our city? Last year, of every thousand babies born here, 78 died before they reached their first birthday. More than half of these died before they were a month old. Out of every thousand mothers giving birth to children, 11 died. These rates place Peterborough in an unique position because they are higher than the rates for the Province.

More than half of these deaths are preventable. A healthy mother will give birth to a healthy child but illness or disease in a mother opens the possibility of the child being born dead, or prematurely, or in such a weakened condition that it cannot stand the hardships of its new surroundings. If we could persuade every expectant mother to seek qualified medical aid during her pregnancy, confinement and post-natal period, there is no doubt considerable illness could be prevented and many infant and maternal lives saved.

Women should place themselves under the care of a physician as soon as possible after they know they are pregnant. Doctors have many ways of safeguarding the health of the patient and her unborn child and ensuring a safe delivery. Regular examination of the urine and blood pressure, supervision of hygiene and diet, measurement of the pelvis; in other words a careful watch on the progress of the pregnancy is what is undertaken and what the patient has a right to expect. Because a woman has had a previous normal pregnancy and delivery is no indication that subsequent ones will be normal. For example, eclampsia, one of the toxaemias or poisonings of pregnancy, may occur any time. The patient may have a dropsical condition and have black specks floating before the eyes before she knows anything of this condition. But it can be detected by the careful doctor in its early stages by examination of the urine for albumin and by watching for a rising blood pressure. This condition can be checked, but if allowed to progress due to carelessness on the part of the doctor or his patient, may result in the death of either the mother or child or both.

Every expectant mother should consult her physician regularly. If all would do so, our death rates in relation to childbirth would reach average heights instead of being high enough to cause alarm.

Just Between Us Women

A Daily Chat With Examiner Neighbors, Conducted by Roberta

HE IS the half-part of a blessed man
Left to be finished by such as she,
And she a fair divided excellence,
Whose fulness of perfection lies in him.
O, two such silver currents, when they join,
Do glorify the banks that bound them in!"
—Shakespeare.

Dear Friends:

I have been asked by two young married couples to write on the adjustments that men and women must make, if their marriage is not to end on the rocks.

Now, if each of you would think of yourselves as two strong rivers, both headed in the same direction, yet both going separate ways to get there, you will have a better idea about it all.

Supposing the one river insists that the other flow over exactly the same course, there is going to be a boiling and a thrashing of water, there is going to be a lot of mud thrown up from the river-bed, along with rocks and roots, and the accumulation of years.

No decent river would dare ask such a thing, yet human beings with all their learning will insist on trying to change the current of the lives of those they love, immediately they are married to each other. The mere fact of being married to each other does not give either one the license to choose the other's friends, to break family ties, to try to stop innocent habits which the other enjoys, such as smoking, or having an evening with their men or women friends.

Neither does it give license to criticise the clothes either one wears or their religion, or in fact anything that belongs to the other, and to which they have been accustomed all their lives.

Nor should either one have to give an account of every penny they spend, nor every hour in which they are absent from each other. Remember, that although you are joined in marriage, you are still separate human beings with a wish for a little privacy in your lives, and that if you want that privacy, you should have the decency to allow it to the other one.

Never should either one decry or disparage the parents of the other. Neither one's parents are perfect, and if you hadn't had parents you wouldn't have each other.

My father used to say, that every married couple should adopt two bears, immediately the marriage service was performed. "BEAR AND FORBEAR." Bear each others' burdens and bear with each others' habits, unless they are too offensive. Yet whenever you think of all you are bearing from the other, just look closely at yourself to see what offensive habits you yourself may have, and not be conscious of it.

Forbear, just to triumph over the one you love to make light of something he likes, and never under any circumstance belittle the other. It's the sign of a bully, of a small-minded person, to make anyone feel small. We are all mentally crippled in some small way, and your own defect may be sticking out all over you, while you so cruelly point out your mate's defects.

Real love cannot stand to be dragged through the mud with horrible words, with swearing and loudness. Love is a very dainty thing and should be cherished carefully. Cold words will chill it, indifference will wither it, selfishness will make it grow crooked, carelessness in speech will make it grow ugly, and in a little while what was such a gorgeous thing lies trampled in the dust, and looking back you will see that it was not one big thing that did this, but a lot of little ugly things, words and deeds, which shriveled the poor thing up.

And above all, it cannot be kept alive by one person alone. It is a joint affair, and if each would think of what they could do for the other to make them happy, instead of thinking what the other should do for them, love would be as it was meant to be, the grandest thing in the world. Lord Byron says of it:

"Oh Love! young Love! bound in thy rosy band,
Let sage or cynic prattel as he will,
These hours, and only these, redeem life's years of ill!"

More later.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA

AUXILIARY PLANS COPPER CONTEST

Reports Of Presbyterial Are Heard At Meeting Of Elizabeth Parker Auxiliary

Reports of the eleventh annual meeting of the Peterborough Presbyterial were an interesting feature of the meeting of the Elizabeth Parker Auxiliary of Trinity United Church, which was held in the Ladies' Parlour on Monday evening. Mrs. G. N. Moncrief gave a very comprehensive review of the reports given at the morning session. The events of the afternoon were very ably covered by Miss Esme Thomlinson.

After much discussion regarding means of raising money a committee composed of Mrs. W. Derry, Mrs. B. V. Moore, Mrs. Upper, Mrs. C. McIntyre, Mrs. C. R. Pogue and Mrs. W. Giles were appointed to make further enquiries and report at the March meeting. A copper contest was arranged with convenors in Miss Elsie Bennett and Miss Greta Giles.

The theme for worship and study was, "Jesus the Pioneer." Bible readings dealing with this theme were given by Mrs. W. Poley, Miss Ethel Rehill and Mrs. S. Harrison. Mrs. A. R. Brown led in prayer. A story of pioneer medical work in India was read by Mrs. C. Taylor. A piano duet by Mrs. C. R. Pogue and her daughter, Miss Agnes Pogue was a very enjoyable feature of the program.

At the close of the program a social hour was enjoyed when two new members were welcomed.

Red Food to Kindle Love On St. Valentine's Day

Splendid Time To Inject a Splash Of Color Into The Daily Menus

HAM TIMBALES

WHILE only about one out of four of us will go to a Valentine party (at our age!) to say nothing of throwing one, it is a good excuse to inject a splash of color into our menus and besides I have some good pink and red recipes—not political—purely esthetical and nourishing.

These colorful things can be used any day of the month, for if we can just keep our chins up and serve appetizing and nourishing meals for one more month the market will then begin to offer a greater variety of fresh foods cheaper — even though they will still be imported. Then we can look forward to our own hothouse rhubarb, after that cheaper hothouse tomatoes, next asparagus, then pineapples, then, oh joy, strawberries.

But hold on—the mere dreaming of it won't fill anybody's stomachs.

St. Valentine Cocktail.

That's a high-sounding name, but for us practical ones it makes a good breakfast "juice" that can be prepared the night before and covered and chilled in the ice box overnight.

Two cups cranberry juice and pulp (made from straining sweetened cranberry sauce), juice of 1 lemon, juice from 1 can of pineapple or 1 cup pineapple juice, 1 cup sugar syrup made from boiling together ¾ cup sugar with ½ cup water and grated rind of 1 lemon. To this add ice to double the quantity. Tangy.

The following are perfect only you have leftover ham and want to serve it for a company dinner or specially nice family dinner.

Ham Timbales With Creamed Mushrooms.

Four tablespoons butter, 1¾ fine stale breadcrumbs (or rolled cracker crumbs 1½ cups), 1¾ cups milk, 2 cups cooked chopped ham, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, 1 tablespoon minced onion, 4 eggs slightly beaten, a little salt (depending on how salty the ham is), ¼ teaspoon pepper. Melt butter, gently, add the crumbs and milk and heat through, stirring all the time. Remove from heat, add remaining ingredients and turn into individual custard cups that have been buttered (this makes them "timbales") or into larger buttered glass or enamel casserole, filling dishes only 2-3 full. Stand in pan of hot water and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 30 minutes after water in pan begins to simmer—or until silver knife inserted in centre comes out clean. Invert individual moulds on centre of warm plates and surround with border of creamed mushrooms.

Cream the mushrooms—by sauteing them scrubbed, and sliced — in butter for 3 minutes, then adding 2 tablespoons flour (to ¼ lb. mushrooms), and stirring until it blends with the butter, then 1¼ cups of milk, stirring until it thickens. Add salt to taste. (Mushrooms done this way are delicious on toast for lunch or for the main portion of a vegetable plate.)

I won't bore you with a repetition of the recipe for Tomato Tea Biscuits—just don't forget they are nice for Valentine purposes — and the flavor's good, too. For those who are not familiar, you merely have to use tomato juice in place of milk in your regular tea biscuit mixture.

Moulded Beet and Celery Salad.

One-third cup good quality vinegar, 1¾ cups water, 1 teaspoon salt, speck black pepper, ½ medium-sized onion, 1¾ tablespoons gelatine, 2 tablespoons cold water. Add the seasonings and onion to the vinegar and water, and cook 5 minutes, then strain out the onion. Soak the gelatine in the cold water and add it to the hot mixture, stirring until it dissolves. Add 1 cup cooked, sharply diced beets and 1 cup finely chopped celery. Pour into small deep moulds and chill. Turn out on endive or excarole or head lettuce leaves, serve with mayonnaise made with lemon juice instead of vinegar, and garnish with slices of radish and sprigs of parsley.

Cranberry Ice.

Four cups cranberries, 2 cups water, 2 cups sugar, juice of 2 lemons. Cook cranberries with the water until the berries stop bursting and are tender, strain through coarse sieve and add sugar, stirring over heat until sugar dissolves. Cool, stir in strained lemon juice, and freeze, stirring three times in trays of mechanical refrigerator or freeze in hand-turned freezer.

The above Cranberry Ice makes a fine light dessert—but is at its best when served with hot roast pork or turkey.

The following foods are not red—not even pink—but they make nice little specialty numbers for party occasions.

Homestead Tea Toast.

Make very thin toast of either white or brown bread. Cover each slice with butter creamed with as much soft maple sugar (or brown sugar) as the butter will take up and still spread. Place a small spoonful of very heavy cream on each piece and place in hot oven under broiler until the cream melts into the toast and the butter and sugar mixture bubbles. Mace may be sprinkled on.

Potato Puffs.

Mash freshly boiled potatoes thoroughly. To 2 cups of them add ½ cup sifted flour, 1 teaspoon of baking powder, 1 egg well beaten, salt and pepper and 1 teaspoon butter. Beat well and let cool. Take up in round spoonfuls and drop into deep fat at 380 deg. Fahr. frying until golden. Delicious with roast beef.

Peppermint Ice-Cream.

This is the most effortless possible frozen dessert — economical, too.

One-half pound peppermint stick candy (buy red sticks if you want it for Valentine events), 1 cup milk 2 cups heavy cream. Dissolve candy in top of double boiler, pounding it some at first to break it up, with the milk. Chill, and pour into freezing trays and freeze until firm. Remove to cold bowl and beat quickly with rotary beater and add the cream during the beating process (if you want to thin table cream may be used). Return to tray and allow to finish freezing. If you care to, this may be served with thin chocolate sauce and is always a sensation.

New York Sun Chicken Mousse.

Try this once, and you will add it to your recipe files for frequent use.

Three egg yolks, 1½ cups milk, 1½ tablespoons gelatine, ¼ cup cold water, 1 cup minced white meat of chicken (tuna is good, too, if a little lemon juice is added), 1 cup heavy cream, ½ cup hot chicken broth, 2 tablespoons finely minced or grated onion, salt, pepper, paprika. Beat yolks, add milk and stir over hot water. Soak gelatine in cold water, add hot chicken broth, stir until dissolved. Add to the custard and minced chicken. Season to taste and when cool add the whipped cream. Put in greased mould, let chill overnight. Place on large platter nicely garnished. Serve with hot biscuits.

Frivolity to Suit

A black Chantilly blouse worn over a black slip was chosen by Goupy-Rosine for this dinner suit of black broadcloth with trimming of gold embroidery on the jacket. Puffs on the sleeves and frilly jabot give a touch of frivolity to an otherwise strictly tailored ensemble.

Tested Favorite Recipe

By MARY MOORE.

Thanks to obedient hens that observe the dictates of the mild winter, eggs are way down in price. And when I say use eight eggs in your omelette I don't have to cringe for fear of being the target of some rotten eggs, for being so handsome with your supplies. Eight of the very best eggs will only cost you 20 cents this week.

Omelettes Smetanoi With Tomato Filling

In separate bowls beat stiff the whites and the yolks of eight eggs, beating the whites first so the beater can be transferred to the yolks without washing it. To the yolks add 1 cup hot water stirring, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, and then fold the whites into them, and immediately pour them into two separate frying pans that have been heated with some cooking oil to coat the bottoms and sides. As soon as they puff even a little reduce the heat to low, and let cook for 5 minutes. Then remove to oven to dry off tops under broiler.

In the meantime make

Smetanoi Sauce

Melt 1 tablespoon butter, add 1 tablespoon flour and gradually stir in ½ cup hot milk until thick. Add 1 cup sour cream, 1 slightly beaten egg yolk, and salt and pepper to taste. Cook a little more to heat cream and cook yolk but do not boil.

Immediately put the omelettes one on top of the other, spreading between stewed down canned tomatoes, flavored with butter, and pour over all the Smetanoi Sauce. Serve at once.

This is unusual and little known and should be served with baked, buttered new potatoes and green beans.

Il Duce's Eldest Son Wed In Rome

This Central Press Canadian radiophoto from Rome shows Vittorio Mussolini, eldest son of Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy, and his bride, the former Orsola Buvoli, outside St. Joseph's church following their wedding. The ceremony was marked by simplicity. The couple plan a U.S. visit in the near future.

Enquiry Column

Conducted by
Mrs. MARY MOORE

Question.—For the past few years I have been a constant reader of your weekly page. I have not written to you before, but now I have two or three problems with which I would like some help.

Firstly could you tell me how to make German Fried Cabbage?, which my husband tells me is very good. I have tried a number of ways of frying it, but without hitting the correct one.

Secondly, could you give me instructions for making "Danish Pastry?" I have never noticed it in any of your pages and as my husband is Danish he would like me to learn how to make it.

Another thing which puzzles me is this: What is the cause of dill pickles becoming hollow? We made several quarts this year and quite a number of them have all shrivelled up inside. Otherwise they taste fine.

I am still a very inexperienced cook and housekeeper and I enjoy reading your advice and trying your recipes. I have a good many failures and make many mistakes but I keep trying until I am satisfied with results.

I shall continue to read your columns, and thank you for the advice I am sure you can give me. —Mrs. N. J. J.

Answer.—Thank you for a friendly letter.

There are two good methods that I know of for making Fried Cabbage:

Caraway Cabbage

The caraway may be omitted, of course.

Slice 1 lb. cabbage very finely. Mix with 1 small sliced onion, ½ teaspoon salt, pinch of pepper, and 1 teaspoon caraway seeds. Melt 2 tablespoons butter, add ½ cup water and the seasoned cabbage. Simmer about ½ hour very slowly, then add ¼ cup mild vinegar. Cook 4 more minutes and serve. Cook covered.

Hot Slaw

Melt 1 tablespoon butter and 1 tablespoon lard in iron frying pan; add ½ medium head of cabbage sliced finely. Stir often, season with salt and pepper and add a little water when necessary. Keep covered most of the time for about 15 minutes to steam it tender. Then add a little sprinkling of flour—about 1 tablespoon—stir, and add ½ cup water, and 3 tablespoons mild vinegar. When tender, add 1 beaten egg, stir in well and serve. Sour cream may be added in place of an egg.

If none of these variations please your husband, try serving hot slaw without the egg and with no lard and more butter.

A Canadianized version of Danish Pastry is made as follows:

Danish Pastry

Two and one-half cups flour; 1½ teaspoon salt, ¾ cup mixed butter and lard, 1 egg, ice water. Mix and sift flour and salt. Cut in shortening with knife. Add beaten egg and only enough water, a few dops at a time to make paste hold together. Chill. Break off small pieces of paste, roll out on floured board to ⅛-inch thickness and use in desired shape, for tails, napoleons, horns, pin wheels, etc., with desired filling and flavoring.

For Danish Almond Pin Wheels roll out Danish pastry and spread with 2 tablespoons butter creamed with 1/3 cup sugar and 2/3 cup finely ground almonds. Roll up as you would a jelly roll. Chill. Cut into slices when hard, about ¼-inch thick and bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for about 6 minutes.

Danish Raisin Pastries

Two cups flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ cup shortening, 1 egg, 1 tablespoon milk, 3 tablespoons shortening, 1 cup chopped raisins, ½ cup chopped nuts, 3 tablespoons sugar. Mix and sift flour and salt. Cut in ½ cup shortening with a knife. Beat the egg and milk together and mix with the dry ingredients, adding only enough liquid to hold the mixture together. Turn out on slightly floured board, roll out thin, and spread with 3 tablespoon softened shortening. Cut in 4-inch squares, and sprinkle with raisins, nuts and sugar. Roll like jelly roll and press edges together. Place rolls on baking pan, cover with clean, damp cloth and place in ice chest until ready to bake—about three hours. Brush tops with yolk of egg mixed with a little milk and sprinkle with sugar. Bake in quick oven of 425 or 450 deg. Fahr. for about 25 minutes. These were originally served hot.

Pickles sometimes shrivel because they are allowed to stand too long after picking, especially if they were not covered with salt water—even then they should not stand too long (not more than two days in hot weather without changing the brine) or fermentation begins. Too much salt or too much sugar may also make pickles shrivel. If the blossom end of pickles is slit for ¼ inch with a sharp knife, they will absorb the brine and vinegar much more readily.

We hope you find one of these reasons the cause of your trouble, and that your pickles next year will be perfect. You probably know that a pinch of alum in each quart of pickles helps keep them crisp—although we never recommend this for health's sake.

REV. WM. STOCKS WED AT ST. ANNE'S

Hastings Rector Weds Member Of His Former Parish In Toronto

TORONTO, Feb. 10.—Palms, ferns, and spring flowers adorned the chancel of St. Anne's Church, Gladstone Avenue, for the marriage last evening of Miss Bertha Piccini Jane Wotley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Wotley, to Rev. William Stocks, son of Mr. Richard Stocks and the late Mrs. Stocks. Rev. A. J. Jackson officiated assisted by Rev. F. N. Palmer. Mr. Edward W. Miller was at the organ.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was preceded up the aisle by the choir singing, "The Voice That Breath'd O'er Eden."

The bride wore a gown of wine velvet with high neckline caught with brilliant clips and long fitting sleeves, and the skirt falling in long graceful folds to the floor, her hat, in matching velvet with a small nose veil. She carried a bouquet of Butterfly roses. Mrs. Frank McRae attended as matron of honor, in a deep blue velvet costume, designed on long simple lines with small hat and accessories to match. She carried Premier roses. Mr. Frank McRae was best man. During the signing of the register the choir sang, and as the bridal party left the church formed a guard of honor to the cars.

Reception was held afterward at the home of the bride's parents, where Mrs. Wotley received her guests gowned in blue crepe with white trimmings and wore a corsage of Talisman roses. Later Mr. and Mrs. Stocks left for points west. The bride travelled in a rust crepe dress with brown accessories and brown muskrat coat. The bride and groom will reside in Hastings, to which parish the groom has been appointed as rector.

BALDWIN STANDS FIRMLY BEHIND IDEA OF TITLES

Informs Laborite "The More Democratic a Country Is The Longer The Honors List"

PRESS TAKES IT UP

LONDON, Feb. 10—(C.P. Cable)—Prime Minister Baldwin made the front and editorial page of this morning's newspapers with his spontaneous reply in the House of Commons last night in defence of titles.

Emanuel Shinwell, Labor, asked the Premier whether in view of the large number of people already possessing titles he would consider recommending the suspension of all further honor lists during the present government's term of office.

Mr. Baldwin: "No, sir."

Shinwell then asked whether it would not be more in accord with the democratic age to suspend honors lists "In view of the fact the premier and other members of the government manage to maintain their reputations without titles.

Mr. Baldwin: "Experience goes to show that the more democratic a country the longer the honors list."

The House laughed.

The Morning Post, declaring this an "enviable turn of phrase and sentiment," declared every country had men and women performing freely the kind of public service that was not adequately remunerated—in medicine, art, literature, the civil service, engineers, etc.

It was impossible to reward them financially, but possible to say to them: "You've deserved well of your country," and give them an "outward visible sign of this deserving."

"That, and that only, is what a perfect honors list signifies," the Post declared.

Africa and Duncan's Title.

Meanwhile, the South African press displayed mixed reaction to the knighthood conferred yesterday on Patrick Duncan, governor-general-designate of South Africa. He was received by the king at Buckingham Palace yesterday and received the insignia of a grand cross of the Order of St. Michael and St. George.

The Cape Times declared the people of South Africa felt it was a departure from the general anti-title principle but was justified by "considerations of public convenience as well as the circumstances of the case."

The Africans-Language paper "Die Burger" termed the move " a slap in the face" and forecast "great indignation and surprise at the government's action in setting aside the people's will."

In Cape Town, Prime Minister J. B. M. Hertzog said the South African parliament's resolution banning titles remained unaffected and that the honor conferred upon the governor-general-designate was "a personal matter."

"So far as the king is concerned it is merely a case of promotion in the order to which Mr. Duncan already belongs."

Duncan was formerly a companion of the order. As a Knight Grand Cross he will be known as Sir Patrick Duncan.

CAMPBELLFORD

ST. ANDREW'S Y.P.S. TO SPONSOR PLAY

Burnbrae Young People Will Provide Cast For Enjoyable Event

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 10. —The Young People of St. Andrew's Church decided on Monday night to sponsor a play to be held in the church basement on February 16, with the Young People's Society of Burnbrae forming the cast. Miss Linn, the literary convenor, who was in charge of the program, was rather handicapped by the fact that the inclement weather retarded the attendance for the evening and kept a large number of the members at home. However, a brief program which followed the business session, which was presided over by the president, Frank Roe, was given, after which the meeting adjourned.

St. John's Young People.

Miss Verna Saunders, literary convenor of the St. John's Young People's Union, was in charge of the program presented by the Young People at their weekly meeting on Monday night. After the general business and devotional part of the meeting for which the president, Miss Ruth Palliser, presided, followed by the Scripture reading by Mago Blake, Rev. Harold B. Neale addressed the young people, choosing as his subject "Book of Prophecy." The program arranged by Miss Saunders followed, with the following taking part: Gwendolyn Neale, piano solo; Lillian Abernethy, vocal; Marguerite Bateson, piano; Marshall Sills, guitar solo and encore. The topic for the evening was taken by Miss Grace Payne who read a very interesting story entitled, "Our Common Origin."

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

KING IS OPPOSED ON SPENDING MORE UPON LEGATIONS

among them were many farmers and artisans.

Both Mr. King and Conservative Leader Bennett frowned on a suggestion that a special committee of the House be set up to study foreign affairs. It was advanced by Paul Martin (Lib. Essex East) and supported by Mr. Woodsworth.

Expensive Outlays.

Mr. Woodsworth said Canada House in London was on one of the most expensive sites of that city, and in Tokyo, Canada, a small country, had one of the most expensive legations. It had been built without the knowledge of Parliament by the former Government.

The legation building in Tokyo had not been built without the knowledge of Parliament, said Mr. King. Mr. Bennett, Prime Minister at the time, had made a statement in Parliament. The building had been obtained at a moderate cost, and if it were built to-day the cost would be twice what was paid.

Mr. Bennett also said he had informed Parliament of the Tokyo project before the building was started and denied Mr. Woodsworth's claim members of Parliament knew nothing about it until after the building was up.

Mr. Bennett questioned the physical fitness of Hon. Randolph Bruce, present Canadian Minister at Tokyo, to carry such a responsibility. He mentioned this with regret, he said.

Mr. Mackenzie King replied that the defective eyesight of the Minister was to be regretted, but as Mr. Bruce had so well discharged his duties as Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, his handicap could not have been very serious.

THIRD GALT FLOOD

Rains Send Grand River Up 8 Feet Over Night.

GALT, Ont., Feb. 9.—(CP).—The third flood of the winter on the Grand river occurred to-day. After Monday's heavy rains, there was a sudden drop in temperature accompanied by a high wind during the night.

Rising between eight and 10 feet over night, the ice on the Grand river broke up to-day and for an hour there was a solid pack of cakes passed down the narrow channel through the city. No damage was reported.

Many cellars in the city were flooded last night when catch basins were blocked and the surface water overflowed the sidewalks.

PIONEER BLACKSMITH DIES.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 10 (C.P.).—Matthew Johnston, 70, pioneer Winnipeg blacksmith and horseman and a veteran of the North-West Rebellion of 1885, died last night in hospital here. For many years his horses were considered among the best in the West and he won many prizes at early horse shows.

Born in Ingersoll, Ont., he came to Winnipeg as a youth. In 1892 he married Alberta Chambers of London, Ont., who predeceased him in 1929.

FARM ASSISTANCE ACTION IS FAVORED HOUSE COMMONS

lem would be done gladly, declared Mr. Bennett.

Harry Leader (Lib Portage La Prairie) said the effect of the drought on prairie lands had to be seen to be appreciated. He thought the people of Western Canada should appreciate the manner in which the opposition leader had drawn attention to it. In his rehabilitation efforts he urged the minister to pay particular attention to the livestock industry. Good breeds were needed and whatever money was spent should be put into good sires of the proper beef type.

Mr. Gardiner said he hoped to move second reading of the bill Thursday and that he would be prepared to present a complete picture of the problem, the corrective steps taken and proposed, and the amounts spent by previous governments because of it.

Appropriation of a limited sum for one year only would not, the minister thought, render the administration any more efficient.

Proposes Aid for All

T. L. Church (Cons., Toronto-Broadview), said he believed in helping the Prairie Provinces, but felt the time had come when some assistance should be given all farmers in Canada. They were suffering in the east as well as in the west.

Members of the house were in a mood to facilitate business yesterday and great progress was accomplished. Estimates of the Department of External Affairs were adopted with some criticism of the expenditures for foreign legations. State Secretary Rinfret got his entire estimates through with even greater dispatch, and progress was made with those of other departments.

Thomas Reid (Lib., New Westminster), introduced the same measure he had before the House last year, seeking lower freight rates on Prairie grain and mill-feeds for use in British Columbia. Mr. Church introduced a bill to amend the Criminal Code for the purpose of preventing unnecessary noise in public places, particularly on the highways and streets.

Dollar Too Late for Coronation

An effort by Mrs. Martha Black (Cons., Yukon), to induce the government to strike a silver dollar to commemorate Coronation year and to mint 1,000,000 of these coins was sympathetically received, but Finance Minister Dunning feared it could not be done, at least in time for the Coronation. The Government hoped to have George VI coins in circulation by Coronation time, but no special issue was contemplated.

Thomas Reid, an ardent advocate of silver coinage, said he would urge the Government to take over all silver and issue certificates as had been done in the United States. Minting of 1,000,000 silver dollars would not do much for the industry, he said, and he suggested if it was desired to make silver dollars popular it would be well to put on one side the image of the Duke of Windsor and on the other side that of Mrs. Wallis Simpson.

The Home Improvement Loan legislation was given final touches in committee stages, with some amendments arising from suggestions in debate, and now stands for third reading.

I hardly had strength enough to get around but the 'Favorite Prescription' soon calmed my nerves and gave me the necessary strength to carry on." Buy now!

Howard Cole Brings Animal Down While Out Hunting Foxes

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Feb. 10.—The quick action of Howard Cole, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cole of Vansickle Settlement, North Marmora, caused the youth to add to his laurels as a hunter on Tuesday morning.

Out with a cousin, John Ellis, in search of foxes, he encountered a large wolf with the suddeness which made him later declare, "It saw me as soon as I saw it." With one shot, he killed the animal outright.

The wolves were heard howling around the Cole property frequently during the evenings of last summer, but not during this winter, so the supposition is held that when the pack moved elsewhere for better times or prospects, this member got separated—or the pack has returned.

CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY RATING REMAINS LOW

Board Of Directors Will Endeavor To Get Copy Of Government's Report

SHELTER IN CLASS "D"

In a determined effort to discover the true reason for the very low and undesirable classification of the Children's Aid Society of the city and county of Peterborough, the Board of Directors, at their monthly meeting, held on Tuesday afternoon in the City Council Chamber, passed a resolution to have a copy of the governmental report on the Peterborough society placed before each of the directors, prior to the annual meeting in April.

The suggestion was made by James Gifford of Ennismore, ex-Warden of the county, who said: "There is something wrong when we are not placed in a higher classification, and I think this report will clear it up."

In the discussion which ensued, it transpired that the provincial government classifies Children's Aid Societies in sections from A to E, the highest section receiving an annual governmental grant of $2,000, the lowest receiving only $100. The Peterborough society, although admittedly the Shelter is one of the best in the province, is placed in the second lowest category, labelled D, and receives an annual grant of $500.

(Ex-Warden Gifford, in a conversation later with the press, spoke of the county's interest in the work, and the financial aspect of that interest. He said that the previous month's bill to the county alone for upkeep of its wards in the Shelter had totalled $327.25, and that the costs were increasing from month to month.)

The meeting Tuesday had a large attendance and a good deal of discussion took place with regard to various matters. Mrs. W. H. Gibbs, first vice president, was in the chair for the first portion of the session, with the president, the Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr, assuming the chairmanship on his arrival later.

Those present included Mesdames W. H. Gibb, J. Lynch, W. J. Oke, S. J. Graham, E. F. Lawrence, H. C. Huffman, the Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, Alderman Walter Stocker, R. H. Parsons, Ross Dobbin, C. A. Salmonsen, E. B. Fowler, Dr. R. F. Nott, H. B. Cowan, James Gifford and John Edgar.

Pay a Fee to Belong

T. J. Carley, K.C., was also in attendance to present a legal opinion in a matter referred to him and explained by the superintendent, John Edgar. In a memorandum received from the Department in Toronto, it was mentioned that there is nothing in the constitution to indicate just who are members of a Children's Aid Society, and, in order to make a distinction, it was suggested that a small fee be charged the members.

Alderman Stocker: "Why should we pay to be a member of this organization when we are working our heads off for it, and ninety-nine per cent. of the people are working their heads off to maintain it."

After some discussion pro and con, it was decided to have the secretary write to the Department in Toronto for detailed information as to procedure carried on in other branches.

C. A. Salmonsen reported on medical men appointed to attend the society's wards, having promised to preform such duties at one-half the regular rates. The list included Drs. R. F. Nott, D. W. Clark, W. S. Fitzpatrick, H. M. Yelland. Dentists appointed at the same rates were Drs. W. J. Preston and E. M. Crough. To the latter list was added the name of Dr. S. J. Graham, after Mr. Edgar reported he had offered to do free dental service at the Shelter for wards under school age.

Alderman Stocker had some exceptions to take to various matters. He was absent from the last monthly meeting, when a letter addressed by him to the Board members and president was not read, but received. He pointed out that it was the privilege of himself, or any other member of the society, to address a letter to the Board members, and felt that it should have been read, as requested, and recommended that those who, he said, had made unfavorable comments during his absence should practise the Golden Rule.

"I have been incapacitated largely through public service," he pointed out. "I have been ignored altogether in my position as superintendent of E. B. Fowler rose to say that he orders I have given that would result in considerable saving to the society have been changed by someone else. But you will find out the difference when you have to pay for the type of service I have given you for nothing." Mr. Stocker said also that trouble had been made for him by tale-bearing to the Shelter by Mr. Edgar.

Mr. Stocker a Stalwart

E. B. Fowler rose to say that he appreciated Mr. Stocker's position to the full and that he would take the same attitude in a similar situation, if he had been appointed to do certain work, and, striving to do it to the best of his ability, found himself foiled by interference or positive neglect.

"Mr. Stocker has saved us a great deal of money in the past," he declared.

Dr. R. F. Nott moved that instruction be given that Mr. Stocker's wishes should be carried out at the Shelter, and this was seconded by H. B. Cowan and passed unanimously.

In a previous question by Mr. Stocker, who sought light on the reason why the Toronto Department was forced to send a special investigator to Peterborough in a certain case, after Departmental requests for information, had, he said, been ignored on several occasions, Mr. Edgar volunteered an explanation, the nature of which he asked the press to refrain from publishing. Pressing the matter further, however, on motion of H. B. Cowan, a committee was appointed to investigate the matter with members in the Rev. Dr. Barr and R. H. Parsons.

J. Edgar, reporting on a case brought to the attention of the Board at the last regular meeting, when Dr. R. F. Nott asked for the removal of an infant from a home which he regarded as undesirable, said that the people in the home were receiving relief, and that there were no grounds, under the Children's Protection Act, for such removal, He remarked that, while the home was not all it might be, "it is better than some I have been in. We can do nothing unless conditions in the home get worse."

The superintendent also reported on the financial condition of the society, which shows a balance of $584.71, and on the progress in scholastic work made by a child in whom the society is interested. She has a record of never having been absent from school, never having been late, and of standing very high in her class.

The report of activities for the previous month, as read by Mr. Edgar, recorded two children passed for adoption since the last meeting. At the commencement of January, there were nine cases. During the month, two new complaints and two investigations were registered, with nine remaining at the end of the month.

Sundry Business

The Shelter report, recording the total of cases under care of the society, registered 88 at the first of the month; with one admitted; five closed; leaving 84 at the end of the period. Of these, 19 were in the Shelter at the end of the month; 2 were in boarding homes; 3 were on adoption probation; 9 were in wage homes; 35 in free homes; other institutions held 2; 1 was a non-ward, and other societies' wards accounted for 13.

In the forthcoming absence from the city of the society's treasurer, C. S. Cummer, the appointment of R. H. Parsons was made. It was decided also to ask the city auditor to audit the society's books prior to the annual meeting in April.

At the annual meeting, in accordance with a motion made by Mr. Stocker, an invitation will be extended to M. A. Sorotell, Deputy Minister of Public Welfare for Ontario, to speak.

With reference to the annual meeting, the Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr signified that he wished his term of office in the chair to close at that time, although he said he would continue to take an active interest in the society's endeavors

The members welcomed James Gifford at the meeting and moved unanimously that the other two members of the County Council who were appointed with him at the recent Council meeting as representatives to safeguard the county's interests on the Board, along with the Warden of the County, who is always an ex officio member, be appointed as directors.

The following is the list of purchases passed at the meeting: Herbert Allen, 41 cents; Graham's Bakery, $1.10; National Grocers, $20.89; Canada Packers, $2.62; A & P. Store, 39 cents; Weston's Bread, $12.36; T. H. Hooper, $1.50; Mrs. R. Ruth, $5.25; Campbell's Dairy, $44.00; Richard Hall Store, 77 cents; H. S. Routley, $16.80; S. S. For Thursday, February 11

ACCORDING to the very important places of major planets, this should be a lively and progressive day, if certain tendencies to rash, impulsive and passionate conduct are kept in check. Tempestuous and tumultuous behavior might jeopardize some very fine prospects for promotion, popularity and substantial co-operation of superiors, employers and those in power and influence.

Those whose birthday it is are at the threshold of a year of some splendid opportunities for promotion, progress and increased standing and income. But they should not imperil such prospects by indulgence in reckless, hasty and ill-considered plans or ungoverned conduct.

A child born on this day may be impulsive and tempestuous, and it may be carried away by its temper and emotions, but it will be capable, constructive and popular in business and in its private associations.

FATHERS AND SONS OF MARK STREET MEET TOGETHER

Rev. Dr. Semple Of Belleville Is Guest Speaker At Annual Banquet

PROPER TRAINING

The annual "Father and Son" banquet held under auspices of the official board at Mark Street United Church on Tuesday evening, proved to be one of the most successful functions of its kind in the history of the church. It was estimated that around 160 dads and their lads partook of the splendid meal served by members of the Women's Auxiliary.

George C. Northey officiated as the very able toastmaster, while the Rev. E. W. Rowland introduced Rev. Dr. Semple of Belleville as guest speaker. Other prominent guests included: Mayor George A. Macdonald who responded to the toast to "Our City" proposed by F. Sidey; J. J. Duffus, M. P., who replied to a toast to "The Empire" proposed by William Hales; and the Hon. G. N. Gordon, K. C.

In rising to speak to the toast to "The Church" which was proposed by Ward Gamble, Dr. Semple stressed the importance and value of the proper training being given to the youth of today. He pointed out that to the youth must the world look for leadership, and as proof of his contention he cited several instances from history in which young men had played an important role. In this connection he mentioned the accomplishments of Luther and Wesley, and also the Pilgrim Fathers who left their native land and settled in America in search of religous freedom.

In training to take their part as men in a world of men, Dr. Semple urged his younger listeners to get a proper conception of the work they were to engage in; to remember that cooperation was always more important than competition; and to cultivate the spirit of conquest and the virtue of constancy.

"The greatest contribution that you and I can make to life," he declared, "is to build like a giant and finish like a jeweler."

Other toasts were those to "Our Sons" proposed by Len Adlam and replied to by Warren Gamble, and "Our Fathers" proposed by Robert Sager and responded to by Edward Butler.

Rufus Payne led the gathering in group singing with Harold Kitney at the piano while Ed. Shortt gave an amusing dialogue that was well received.

TRUCKS NOT INSURED.

Lindsay town fathers decided after a discussion Tuesday it would not be necessary to insure their fire trucks against fire. Inquiry in Peterborough to-day reveals that attitude has prevailed in Peterborough for some time. Peterborough's fire trucks are insured neither for fire or collision, although the department is covered for public liability and property damage.

47 CLINICS HELD.

Full use of the Well Babies' Clinic by Peterborough public is continuing. During 1936, 47 clinics were held and 246 babies were examined. Attendances totalled 802. NO RUSH FOR LICENSES.

Although the deadline for use of last year's commercial vehicle licenses is approaching, February 15, no rush demand has yet been experienced by the Chamber of Commerce. Officials are fearing another last minute rush, as in the case of the recent closing date on passenger markers.

NO DANGER OF FLOODING.

The waters of Jackson Park Creek swelled rapidly early this week, but have now subsided without offering any serious flood threat. The presence of ice in the creek, such as would be found in a normal winter, would have heightened the danger greatly, but little ice remains to obstruct the flow of the water at present.

Considerable interest has been aroused among hockey followers here as the Peterborough team continues in the O. H.A. race.

OID RAILS DANGEROUS

The old street car tracks on George street south of the C.P.R. are an unnecessary menace to traffic, drivers of the city motor buses report. For weeks they have been parallel ridges of ice, tending to hold the wheels of motor cars in a wide groove. Several references to this condition recently suggested that the council might as well tear up the last stretch of the old street railway.

ANYTHING TO OBLIGE

A little, bright-faced lad was playing at recess time in one of the Peterborough schools. "We're havin' a good time," he informed his teacher, as she paused beside him.

"You forgot your 'g,' Johnny," she admonished him.

"But we're havin' a real good time," he repeated.

"Johnny, I said you forgot your 'g'," she patiently reminded him again.

"Gee, Miss ——, we're havin' a good time," he replied, obediently. —C.L.M.

LENTEN PERIOD LASTS 40 DAYS

Represents Number Of Days Jesus Spent In The Desert

The forty day period of Lent began to-day, Ash Wednesday, and continues until noon on Easter Saturday. In the Roman Catholic church it is time of special prayer and abstinence in preparation for the commemoration of the culminating events of Holy Week, concluding with Good Friday and Easter Sunday.

The number of days is symbolical of the time Jesus spent in the desert, the fast of Elias, and the wandering days of the Israelites. In the early days of the Church it was a time of preparation for the baptism of catechumens and for the reconciliation of penitents. Since then it has become a forty day period of preparedness for the observance of the passion, death and resurrection of Jesus Christ. Devotions will be held on Wednesday and Friday evenings, and the members of the church are urged to make a special effort to assist at Mass on week-day mornings. Abstinence and self-denial are required in regulation which sanctions only one full meal a day with a collation in the morning and evening for Roman Catholics between the ages of 21 and 60. Alms giving is also recommended, and the people are expected to avoid worldliness in amusements during the Lenten period.

AMATEUR NIGHT IS DECIDED SUCCESS

Final Program Of Season Is Given In St. Alphonsus Lyceum

There was a bumper attendance at the Amateur Night held in St. Alphonsus Lyceum on Tuesday, under patronage of His Worship, Mayor G. A. Macdonald, who attended with Mrs. Macdonald.

The Rev. P. J. Kelly, rector of St. Peter's Cathedral, had charge of the program in the finale for this season of a very successful series of Amateur programs which have unearthed considerable talent among the younger fry of the city.

Prize-winners last evening included little Lenore Gordon, tap dancer; the Rural Rascals, a group of old-time musicians; George Downer, step dancer; Regina DeCarlo, tap dancer; Wilfred Galvin, impersonator; Teresa Crowe, tap dancer; Nina Cacavelli, singer.

Others taking part in the amateur contest were the Misses Alma Tucker and Grace Bell, and Messrs. Murray and Jarvis, in guitar duets; George and Margaret Young, vocal duets; the Valley Rhythemerrs, old-time musicians; and a number of song and guitar performers, in Fred Montgomery, Marie Grainger, Leo Delaire and Miss 'Toots' Delaire.

Another group of girls presented 'Dixie Land', in black face. Those taking part were Evelyn Stewart, Rita Hyne, Margaret McKane, Doreen Wells, Loretta Grisdale, Teresa Heffernan and Lucille Cadigan.

In the concert portion of the program, vocal solos were given by Miss Geraldine Collins and George Daly; recitations by Miss Helen Ross; violin music by Miss Catherine Corkery; Hawaiian guitar numbers by Miss Helen Ludbrook; whistling solos by Miss Mignon Mayneord; piano solos by little Marion Downer, and Scotch songs with bagpipe music, by Jack Smith and R. Hendry.

TWO BOYS HURT SLEIGH RIDING IN BRIDGENORTH

Ralph Connors And James White Crash Into a Motor Truck

ONE LAD IN HOSPITAL

Unable to check their speed or diverge from the course they were on two youthful sleigh-riders careened across the highway running through Bridgenorth Village into the pathway of a north-bound motor truck on Tuesday afternoon and escaped death by a narrow margin.

Ralph Connors, 6, was admitted to Nicholls Hospital with head injuries and severely bruised hands, while his companion James White, 9, was removed to the home of his parents suffering from extensive bruises to his right thigh. The lads were attended by Dr. J. A. Morgan.

J. Galvin, 24, of 338 Cameron street, driver of the truck involved, which is owned by Everett J. Nicholls, declared that the sleighs shot downhill off a side street as he was proceeding through the village around 4.30 p.m.

Noticing the two sleighs when they were within a length and a half of his heavy vehicle, Galvin swung his wheels sharply to the left in an effort to avoid an accident. The truck lurched into the ditch at the left side of the road, regained the pavement and then made an about face on the slippery surface of glare ice which covered the roadway. The truck narrowly missed overturning.

The driver declares that after he brought the truck to a halt, he found the elder of the two lads hanging to the front axle of the truck. Police officers who investigated expressed the opinion the sleighs which were smashed as a result of the accident, presumably went between the wheels of the truck. Galvin was not held by the police.

MISERY STALKING THROUGH MADRID

Women Wait Hours For Scanty Supply Of Food—Homes Cold, Shell Rocked

MADRID (Uncensored—By Messenger to Paris, Feb. 10).—(AP).—Misery stalks the women of Spain's beleaguered capital in their struggle for the meagre supplies of food that remain.

Stoicism almost beyond belief marks the embattled population of the war-torn city. In the face of shells, bombs, unheated homes and shortage of food.

For the men it means some kind of war work from the trenches to the factory; to the children it means a whole new life of work and play, broken by the terrifying thud of exploding shells.

But for the women, it means a dull, ceaseless struggle to keep the homes running— homes that, far from being pleasant and warm, are not even safe. Women wait in line for hours before the food shops to buy rice, beans, bread, olive oil and cabbage, which form the chief diet of the Maerilenos.

Fight On Ice Best Forgotten Suggests London Sporting Editor

FIGHT DESCRIBED

LONDON, Feb. 10 (CP)—Fights at hockey games are common enough in Canada but newspapers in London make quite a to-do over them. Here is how one London newspaper described a recent brawl between Harringay Racers and Streatham, National League clubs:

"This game at Streatham is best forgotten. On two occasions rival players had a stand-up fight, while spectators hurled missiles ranging from newspapers to a bottle.

"Another astonishing thing was an attendant of the rink climbing over the boards to protest about a certain incident in the Racers' goalmouth and being turned off the ice by a Racers' defenceman, who received a penalty from the referee for the rest of the match.

"The trouble started after the gong had gone for the second period when Bert Peer, of Racers, and Dent, the Streatham defenceman, began an argument which resulted in an exchange of blows."

CURLING
By HERB MARTIN

We have been advised by the bonspiel committee that they intend to hold the Canada Packers competition this coming Friday, February 12th.

So we hope that all the curlers that had intended to enter the spiel Tuesday will make arrangements to be on hand at 9 a.m. Friday morning . . . There will be no changes in the rules and regulations.

I. Hamley and C. Westbrooke made history in curling Tuesday night when they scored the least number of points possible, by scoring on each of the twelve ends. They each scored one alternately and Westbrooke was one up, 6-5 coming home but he bumped in Hamley's stone with his first shot, forcing an extra end.

It was the closest scoring game we think we have ever seen—13 points in 13 ends. As far as we know there is no record that can equal it.

NEVER "BOIL" AN EGG

Eggs Are Now Either Soft Cooked or Hard Cooked.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—(AP).—Take a tip from the United States' Bureau of Home Economics and never "boil" an egg. Even the term is outmoded. Eggs are soft-cooked or hard-cooked the Bureau's experts said to-day.

The old soft-boiled egg now is achieved—with a tender white—by a cold water start. When heated until the water simmers, the pan should be covered and removed from the fire. How long the eggs should stand depends on each family's whims.

Hard-cooked eggs, started the same way, should be kept below boiling over a low fire for 30 minutes after the water simmers, the Bureau said.

BADMINTON IS RELATED TO CHINA ASSERTS LECTURER

Scholar Hails Increasing Popularity Of Outdoor Sport

TEAM WORK STRESSED

FREDERICTON, N.B., Feb. 10 (CP)—Tennis may be a parent of modern badminton but older paternity belongs to an ancient Chinese game which, in conjunction with tennis principles, has become a popular offspring, according to sports sidelights revealed here by Dr. Chen Han-Seng, noted Chinese economist, historian and teacher.

Ancient Chinese invented the forerunner of the modern badminton bird. The original one, as still used in the Orient, consists of a coin weight in a small bundle with a large feather attached. Using only his feet, a single Chinese player keeps the bird in the air as long as possible. The usual stroke is dealt with the inner side of the foot.

Other native Chinese sports, Dr. Chen said, are "Big Sword" and "Twin Swords," similar to occidental fencing, with the contestants using either one large sword or a shorter one in each hand. Popularity of these sports was said to be waning in modern China.

Started Boxing, Wrestling

Boxing and wrestling were developed in China long before their recognition by younger nations. Of all athletics introduced to China by western people, soccer is by far the most popular with young Chinese, Dr. Chen said. The small expenditure necessary for equipment and simplicity of the game have been important factors in making it the principal team sport of the Chinese universities and "middle" schools.

Volley ball ranks next to soccer in popularity, especially among girl students. Unlike the case in Japan, Chinese university men play little baseball. Golf and swimming are unpopular owing to limited facilities but the number of tennis players is slowly increasing.

Ice hockey, United States football and English rugby are practically non-existent in China, Dr. Chen continued. Skiing and skating are becoming more attractive to Chinese youth of both sexes but little yachting or riding are done. Chinese women students have become enthusiastic basketball players.

Old Chinese sports are confined to one or two persons, reflecting the individualistic organization of Chinese society, the lecturer said. He characterized sports team work as a product of industrial civilization.

Introduction of western sports since 1905 was attributed by Dr. Chen to the influence of Protestant missions. "Thus," he concluded, "in China we have gained a new element in athletics from the western nations, namely the element of team work. But in addition we have gained, with the increase in popularity of outdoor sport, its consequent beneficial results to the youth of my country."

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

(C.J.P.)

SINCE THE streets are so icy lately let us sprinkle a little diamond dust around and about so that folks may keep their equilibrium and remember that summer will come eventually. Annual meeting of the O.B.A.A. in Oshawa is not too far away and clubs should send nominations and amendments to Secretary Snyder before March 20th. The reorganization session of the C.O.B.L. will be held—maybe here—in about four more weeks. And the Peterborough Baseball Club will hold a meeting sometime next week, according to President Ed Riley. Meantime, rumors of the diamond pastime flutter about with increasing frequency.

* * * * * * *

THERE IS a possibility of six senior teams in the 1937 Central Ontario League, these being Oshawa, Kingston, Napanee, Trenton Fliers, Belleville and the Petes. There is talk of some of the Napanee players leaving, but nothing definite yet. Also, things do not look too bright for either Belleville or Peterborough. The others look okay and should be plenty strong. The Quinte gang will find it tough to get proper backing and to strengthen their team—which was woefully weak last semester. Ditto with the locals. And March 15th is the deadline for importing ballsters.

* * * * * * *

WHAT IT boils down to here is this: Manufacturers who have the interests of baseball and the town's advertising through sports at heart must get in behind the team again. No use trying to field a poor squad. We need three or four good imports along with the best of the present Petes. It means the city—a fine sporting town and long known in baseball—will go the way Lindsay did in ball unless steps are taken right away. We have the equipment, the park and the fans—but not enough players to compete successfully in the strong C.O.B.L. Lock at the enthusiasm, the dough and the advertising which resulted when the Oshawa GM-men last year went through to the Ontario title. It would be the same here! It is not too early for local sportsmen to think the matter over and do something about it.

* * * * * * *

TWO JUNIOR City Hockey League games will be staged tonight in the Brock St. rink. At eight bells, St. Peter's tangle with All Saints; and at nine, Canucks and Monarchs meet. That first fray should be a nifty as the squads are tied for second place and look well-matched. The other tilt will be a rugged, interesting battle, too. Some lively hockey is dished up by these youngsters and they are worth seeing.

* * * * * * *

WISE THE fan and his lady friend who dropped around to the Brock last p.m. and gave the Fliers and the Petes a gander. Because it was by far the best game of hockey seen here this winter and any of the hoarse-voiced customers who saw it will back us up. The Petes' 6-5 nod was their first win over the Fliers and the latter's first O.H.A. loss this year. It keeps the locals in the running and they were highly jubilant after the joust. "We'll take 'em now if we have to batter 'em to a pulp first to soften them up," they asserted. They must win the next two to force a playoff but the gang figure they have the Fliers' number now. Next game is in Belleville Friday and then back here Monday. The R.C.A.F. officials refused to play here again this week.

* * * * * * *

AT THIS writing, Bill Prindible was trying to line up a C.N.R. special train for Belleville on Friday for local players and fans. Plans weren't completed but the idea was for the train to leave here at six or shortly after, go straight through to Belleville and leave there on the return trip half an hour or so after the game. Fare would be $1.50 return. Bill figures a big crowd would go not only because it is the first hockey excursion of the winter here but also because it promises to be another whiz-bang of a battle on Quinte ice Friday. More again.

* * * * * * *

YES, SIR, the two teams put up a swell scrap and had the fans yelling their heads off almost steadily. That dramatic two minutes in the second when the Petes were short two men and the Fliers ganged up fiercely but ineffectively was a highlight. The Petes outplayed 'em most of the way and earned a bigger margin in scoring. Without good backchecking from their forwards, the husky Airmen's defence didn't look so hot. By the way, Coach Buckland asks us to tell local fans to lay off questionable support such as tossing cigarette butts at Goalie Gibson—as he had to apologize to that indignant player after the game, Gibson getting burned. Yeah, it was a bitter brawl and the fans were fighting, too. Referee Armstrong missed a lot of understand stuff pulled by both sides.

* * * * * * *

OUR SQUAD starred from the goal out. They knew they had to win or be eliminated and they fought from start to finish. Lots of speed, dash, combination and rugged checking. Williamson was robbed of several. Calladine was back in the game again. The McDougall-Burton-Vitarelli line looked fine. The other line was also plenty dangerous. The defencemen shone. LeCompte, Cowley and Eric McNeeley stood out for the losers—and were dangerous right to the finish. There was plenty of hefty bodying all through and the defences blocked well. Big Lalonde took quite a riding from players and fans. Weir almost conked the referee once when ordered off. There was so much going on, we couldn't begin to describe it. You either saw the puck classic of the season or your luck was away on vacation. "Lucky punks," one of the Fliers grunted later, while "they're not so hot," was the Petes' opinion after the brawl was over.

They raised their group average from 530.5 to 561. Eagles of Indian School, Brandon, Man., again coming second with 553. In 1935 the Eagles had a group average of 527.1.

Lives Wires of Vineland Station, Ont., rose from fifth to third place with 504. Two Calgary groups, Maple Leafs and Live Wires, were fourth and fifth with 477 and 463 respectively.

During 14 years of competition the Trail Ranger Shield has been won six times by Manitoba. British Columbia boys have four victories to their credit, Ontario two and Quebec and the Maritime provinces one each.

KING OF WINTER SPORTS
Ski-ing
By Charles Schaer
Sponsored By Peterborough Ski Club

39—FALLING AND HOW TO GET UP

The beginner, practically always falls backward, the expert forward, but not because this is the correct way to fall. Falling is one thing the beginner does more or less correctly! In his case falls are almost always due to the body not leaning far enough forward from the ankles. The reason for this is nervousness or fright. He tries to go slowly by leaning backward, his skis shoot out from under him and his "sitzmark" is imprinted in the snow, if it is soft enough. Try to convince yourself that you want to go faster. This will encourage a forward lean and you won't fall. Speed will not increase indefinitely on a constant slope, the maximum velocity is soon reached. Fatigue also promotes falling, so when you feel tired take a rest. This is a good rule any time, particularly after a strenuous climb before commencing the run down.

When you feel that a fall is inevitable, after having done all in your power to prevent it, crouch down low, raise the arms shoulder high, or higher and fall backwards and to one side, with all muscles relaxed. The next problem is to regain your feet. Having become calm mentally and collected physically, get your skis parallel and horizontal across the slope on your downhill side. All other methods falling, this can be done by lying on your back, raising the feet in the air and lowering the skis to the desired location. Bring your knees and chest together, within reason, to get the body as nearly vertical over the skis as possible. Place one stick on each side, a little to the rear, a pull with the arms and a hoist with the uphill leg particularly and there you are!

The First Step in Getting Up

Petes Defeat Fliers In Rousing Battle To Keep in Running

Locals Cop 6-5 Nod Before Over a Thousand Noisy Fans In Best Game Of Season— Have Good Margin of Play And Well Deserve The Victory

LEAD MOST OF WAY

The Petes grounded the Trenton Fliers by a 6-5 score here last night before a roaring crowd of over a thousand. It was the locals' first win against the R.C.A.F. crew in four starts and kept them in the running. In the liveliest hockey game seen here this year, the Petes clearly earned the verdict and should have won by a larger score.

The count was 2-2 at the end of the first but the homesters had a big margin on play. They were in front, 4 to 2, going into the third, and only a belated Fliers' drive in the final heat cut down their margin. On a fair sheet of ice, the teams dished up a grand game to keep the rooters roaring lustily most of the way. It was a rugged, fast and thrilling tilt from start to finish with action galore.

On their play, the Petes had a good margin and were outlucked at the Fliers' goal half a dozen times. They carried play most of the game and made the strong Airmen look quite ordinary. Gibson in the Trenton goal stopped over twice as many shots as Clarke. The refereeing was only fair, and of the eight penalties drawn the Petes caught six. Considerable underhand stuff by both sides escaped the arbiter.

ALL PETES STAR.

There were no outstanding stars for the Petes—they all starred. Every local player from the goalie out turned in a fine effort. Clarke made some fine saves in goal and the three defencemen worked their heads off and looked smart. Both front lines outplayed the visitors on passing, stickhandling and shooting. And their backchecking was far ahead of the opposition. They looked half a dozen goals better than the Fliers and finished at least as strong. Gibson made some nice stops for the losers but muffed a couple, also. His defence, without good backchecking from the forwards, looked weak. The front players went good on the attack at times but their combination was not up to that of the Petes. LeCompte, Cowley and Eric McNeeley were their most effective players.

Play opened fast and even till Cowley went off for tripping. The Petes pressed and a Williamson-Coughlin combination almost scored. Williamson was robbed again and later Burton and Vitarelli nearly tallied. Creighton drew the gate for charging but the locals held off the Trenton power play for a time till Cowley intercepted one in close to tally. Right away, Vitarelli scored at close range on McDougall's pass and the Petes go another when Burton bulged the hemp, aided by Vitarelli and McDougall. Gardner was robbed on Coughlin's pass and later Creighton had a swell chance as the Petes continued to dominate play and the fans kept roaring at the homesters' fight. Williamson was waved off for boarding and the Fliers pressed hotly for a space, LeCompte finally counting in close. An argument ensued as to whether he was in the crease or not but the goal was allowed just before the frame finished.

Two In Second.

The Petes again took command in the second and looked much better all through. Vitarelli scored early on nice combination with Weir and McDougall. Coughlin was thefted by Gibson and then, as Vitarelli climbed the fence for tripping, Clarke had to be good as Trenton pressed. Later, Weir was thumbed off for boarding and then Creighton got it for slashing to leave the Petes two short. All the Airmen moved up in a ganging attack and Williamson, Magee and Vitarelli starred as they held them out while the fans nearly brought down the roof. Creighton later got a neat goal on a return pass from Coughlin in close. Beck got the air for boarding near the close of the stanza and the Petes were pressing hard at the bell.

They continued to gang up to start the third and Burton got a lucky goal early when his side shot was kicked into the rival net by Lalonde. At full strength again, the Fliers scored with LeCompte taking Eric McNeeley's pass at pointblank range. The locals got it back within two minutes when Gardner blazed a hot angle shot by Gibson on assists from Coughlin and Weir. Gardner got the finger for tripping and the Fliers ganged up dangerously. McDougall nearly tallied on nice stickwork but was outguessed by Gibson. The Petes looked better for a time but later tried defensive hockey and the Aviators had an edge on play. It was rough checking at this time and highly exciting. Cowley parked in close and rapped home LeCompte's pass to make it 6-4 and three minutes before the finish, Cowley again scored on a pass from LeCompte. Clarke kicked out a nice one when Laing broke away and the pace was hot and even at the end.

The teams:

Fliers: Goal, Gibson; defence, Lalonde and Partridge; centre, Lowrey; wings, Cowley and Ernie McNeeley; alternates, LeCompte, Laing, Eric McNeeley, Beck and Carling-Kelly.

The victory placed the Americans, cellar occupants of the International division, within three games of the third-place Toronto Maple Leafs. It was the first defeat the Stanley Cup champions have suffered in ten games.

Marty Barry shot the Red Wings to the front early in the first frame by scoring while the Amerks were shorthanded. The lead lasted until after the halfway mark of the second chapter when Sweeney Schriner knotted the count.

The Americans outplayed Detroit during the last twenty minutes and goals by Tony Hemmerling and Joe Jerwa clinched the contest. Sid Howe made matters close by scoring the Red Wings' second goal with only a few seconds to play.

HASTINGS JUNIORS ARE BADLY BEATEN

Fall To Havelock Wreckers Under Doug. Brennan's Generalship By 9-1

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Feb. 10. — The "Wreckers" went on a scoring spree last night, to defeat the Hastings Juniors by a decisive 9 to 1 count, in a fast and furious Kawartha Junior League fixture.

The locals, coached by 'Doug" Brennan, well-known former pro hockey star, demonstrated the advantage of expert coaching by completely bewildering the visitors in a clever exhibition of stick-handling and a systematic passing attack.

Montgomery, in goal for Hastings, was by no means as bad as the score might indicate, and made more than one spectacular save. Harnden was also effective in the Havelock nets. The first line of McMullen, Hagerman and Ketchen again stood out for the locals, receiving 9 scoring points, 5 goals and 4 assists.

The teams:

Hastings—Goal, Montgomery; defense, Boyle and Turner; centre, Coughlin; wings, McCarthy and Scriver; subs, Fox, McCoy, Phillips, Calberry and Radford.

MAROONS TROUNCE BRUINS BY 2 TO 0 IN EASY VICTORY

Boston Takes Eighth Straight Loss—And On Their Home Ice

FANS DWINDLING

BOSTON, Feb. 10 (CP). — Montreal Maroons shook off the Bruin hoodoo last night as Jerry Shannon's brace of goals sent the Boston National Hockey Leaguers down to 2-0 in their eighth straight winless game on home ice.

The victory was Maroons' first of the season against the slipping Bruins, and it drew them up 3½ games behind the first-place Montreal Canadiens of the International section, and three full games ahead of the third-place Toronto Maple Leafs.

Shannon, a former Bruin, got his tallies in the first and third periods, the opener coming with the game little more than four minutes old. On this one, Earl Robinson got the rubber at the right boards and passed across the goalmouth to Jerry, who banged it in.

It was Robinson who got the assist on Shannon's second goal, too. After circling the Bruin net, Robinson slipped a pass out to Shannon, who shot it home from five feet out with nobody in front of him but Goalie Tiny Thompson.

In the period's closing minutes, Maroons lost Bob Gracie and Oy Wentworth together on penalties, and the Bruins tried desperately with five-forward offensives. Goalie Billy Beveridge, brilliant all through the game, held them off, and Maroons were attacking as the final bell went.

A crowd of 10,000, one of the season's smallest here, saw Maroons overcome the homesters for the first time since November of 1935. Until last night, Maroons had been defeated eight times by Bruins, gaining only one tie, since 1936.

For Bruins, it was their eighth home game without a win. They won here on January 3 at the expense of New York Rangers.

Selwyn Cops Game 3-2 Over Long Point Team

(Examiner Correspondence.)

SELWYN, Feb. 10. — The first hockey game of the season was played on the new skating rink at Selwyn on Saturday evening between the Long Point hockey team and the local boys. The visitors were at a great disadvantage owing to illness among some of their players but both teams were evenly matched. Selwyn showed the lack of practice. John Galvin of Peterborough gave his services as referee and filled the bill to perfection.

At the end of the third period it was a 2-goal tie but in the overtime Selwyn won with a margin of 3-2.

The line-ups were:

Long Point—Goal, J. Burnell; defence, M. Fowler, D. McConkey; centre, B. Nicholls; wings, B. Nicholls, J. Preston; alternates, O. McConkey, B. Mann, C. McIlmoyle, A. McConkey.

LEAFS GO DOWN BEFORE RANGER ATTACK 5 TO 1

Toronto Squad Collapse Completely In Second Period To Allow Four Tallies

EACH SCORE ONE IN FINAL

Trimming Dims Smythemen's Hopes Of Overtaking Maroons

TORONTO, Feb. 10. — It was decidedly on "off night" for the Maple Leafs, as the clever New York Rangers handed them a 5-1 licking before almost 10,000 fans last evening at Maple Leaf Gardens.

Showing little of the brilliant form that had marked their recent games, the Smythemen held the visitors even for the first twenty minutes, then collapsed completely as the Rangers ran in four goals to sew up victory in the second frame. Each netted once in the final period as the Leafs battled hard but hopelessly to cut down their deficit.

Defeat dimmed the Toronto hopes of overhauling the Maroons in second place, as the Montrealers, by blanking Boston, widened their margin over the Leafs to six points. Victory strengthened the Rangers hold on second place in the American Section.

Leafs Are Outplayed.

Outskating and outplaying the Leafs for the most of the sixty minutes, the Patrickmen were full value for victory, though not, perhaps, by such a decisive margin. The all-round play of the locals left much to be desired. They tried hard enough, but were just not clicking as passes were flung recklessly and wildly and their shooting was erratic.

Cecil Dillon, veteran right wing star, who shoots from the left side, and youthful Phil Watson, who pivots the Rangers' third line, were the "big shots" in victory. Each whipped in a brace of goals, to share point-scoring honors, with Defenceman Ott Heller, who garnered a pair of assists through his aggressive attacking. Mac Colville, on a pass from Brother Neil, completed the New York scoring in the closing stages of the game.

The Leafs owe a vote of thanks to ageing "Ching" Johnson that they were not shut out. The big defenceman laid down a perfect pass to Gordon Drillon, in a clearing effort, and the young right-winger drove it past Dave Kerr at 8.30 of the third.

The goal was manufactured from a scramble in the Ranger zone, in which Sylvanus Apps and Red Horner figured. Horner led the charge and passed to Apps. The big centreman swept in on Kerr and sprawled over on top of the goaler. In the scramble, the puck shot out to Johnson, who accidentally cleared to Drillon.

Assists—Apps and Horner.

Assists were no; originally credited to Apps and Horner, but, after the game, Manager Smythe argued the point with Official Scorer Bill Graham, who finally agreed the assists should be awarded.

"They both took part in the play," Smythe insisted. "If Johnson had knocked the puck in himself, who would the goal be credited to?" he asked of the scorer.

"Apps," was the reply from Graham, to which Smythe shot back: "Then Horner would have been given an assist?" Graham nodded in the affirmative.

Rangers' first goal, coming at 11.04 of the second period, was a freak one. Lyn Patrick lifted the puck high in the air, where it struck the Sportimer, and deflected down into the Leafs' area.

Dillon dashed through and whipped a low one at Breda, the puck sliding in under the goaler's pads.

Just two minutes later, after Kerr had robbed Apps on a couple of close-in thrusts, New York shot two ahead as Watson picked up a neat pass from Heller and blazed away into the unprotected corner behind Broda.

Score On Breakaway.

Penalties to Red Horner and Mac Colville preceded the next goal. Horner had returned, giving Toronto a man advantage but it worked in reverse English when Dillon took a pass from Heller and broke clear. He dashed down on Broda and unleased a backhander to the short side of the net for Goal No. 3.

Only Jimmy Fowler was back when Watson broke with Keeling less than two minutes later. "Butch" took a relay, but his shot was blocked by "Turk." Watson raced in to slam home the rebound.

Toronto came out a battling band in the third, and for several minutes their whirlwind attacking rushed the Rangers off their feet. Exciting scrambles were numerous around the Ranger net, and it was only sheer luck that enabled Kerr, who was prostrate most of the spell, to block shots from the sticks of Fowler, Drillon, Apps and Harvey Jackson.

That goal by Drillon inspired the Leafs to even greater heights, but the Rangers, disorganized for several minutes, pulled themselves together and offered a defense which Toronto could seldom penetrate in the remaining minutes.

Fowler was stranded again as Broda's only protector when the Colville boys swept down the ice to chalk up the game's final goal. Neil took a wide berth around Fowler and then lifted a pass to centre. Mac, in full motion, slapped the disc cleanly past Mr. Broda.

A light flurry of fisticuffs was provided with only a minute to play when Bobby Davidson tangled with big Joe Cooper, Ranger defenseman, and they fell to the ice with arms swinging. A double major was meted out.

Toronto—Goal, Broad; defense, Day and Hamilton; centre, Apps; wings, Drillon and Jackson; spares, Thoms, Finnigan, Boll, Metz, Shill, Davidson, Jarvis, Fowler and Horner.

Rangers— Goal, Kerr; defense, Coulter and Heller; centre, Watson; wings, Murdock and Keeling; spares, N. Colville, M. Colville, Shibicky, Dillon, Patrick, Boucher, Johnson, Cooper and Pratt.

Bowmanville had the edge in the first period but were unable to score and fell down badly in the second when Vipond for Whitby scored two goals and Brandon, Bragg, Campbell and Watson each got a single. In the third period McKnight of Bowmanville got their only goal while Bragg and Brandon slipped the rubber past Hooper, making the final score 8-1.

IN MEMORIAM

FROST.—In loving memory of our dear Father, who passed away February 10, 1935.

God saw the road was getting rough
And the hills were hard to climb;
So He closed your weary eyelids
And whispered, "Peace be thine."
—Sadly missed by Family.

POTTS.—In loving memory of our dear Mother, Estella Potts, who passed away February 10, 1936.

But dear to our memory you ever will be.

The Day That I Forget
By MARIE BLIZARD

READ THIS FIRST:

Janet MacLeod has just married Joel Paynter, second-rate actor, whom she met a few weeks previously at a cocktail party. Because Joel asked Janet to stop work, she has had to economize. Martha Colby, her best friend visits Janet in their one-room apartment. Joel tells Janet his show is closing. Janet decides to go back to work but abandons the idea when Joel, because of pride, rebukes her for considering it. Joel finds a job but he is vague about where he is working. Janet Meets Harry Devanter, an old beau, who insists she have a cocktail with him. At the Jungle Bar Janet is dismayed to find Joel there in the role of gigolo. Harry, a film scout, gives Janet his card requesting a screen test for "the bearer."

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 7

JANET KNEW that she didn't carry off lies well; they were not part of her make-up so she stiffled her consience with the thought that what she was doing should not hurt Harry Devanter and that some day —if her plan worked—she would explain it to Harry.

"How about that dance now?"

"I'm afraid we haven't time," Janet added another white lie to her list. She couldn't have Joel see her dancing, have Joel humiliated by her discovery of his secret. "We've dawdled so long! Dinner to prepare—", she murmured vaguely and put on her gloves.

"I'll bet you're a good little cook," he said admiringly. "When are you going to invite me to dinner and meet the new husband?"

"You're going away tomorrow and you're not coming back until when?" she asked and waited anxiously for an answer that had nothing to do with the matter of inviting him to dinner. If only he would be safely out of the way until this picture business was over!

"I won't be back for two or three weeks but I'll telephone you then if I may."

"Please do," she said cordially, and wouldn't let him take her home.

Going home on the bus, she thought Martha would say this is managing and she is right but she couldn't say it is wrong.

Her arms were filled with packages when she reached the brownstone house. One by one she opened them with an air of excitement. There were a half dozen yellow roses and four candles of the same color. There was a minute package of Joel's favorite salted nuts. There were oysters on the halfshell. There was also a little duck to cook with slices of orange and there was crisp endive. These were festive things that Joel loved.

At half-past eight Janet, wearing the amber frock that clung smartly to her small, svelte figure, with her mother's heavy gold ear-rings and necklace, heard Joel's step on the stair. She dropped ice cubes into the cocktail shaker, whipped the damp cloth from the small plate of hors d'oeuvres and lite the candles.

From the tiny kitchenette a tempting aroma of roasting meat pervaded the room. Janet clicked out the bright lights and the room was in candle light save for the soft glow of the rose-shaded lamp.

"Hello, what have we here? A party!" Joel stood his wife off and, as Janet hoped, his face lighted up with that look of eager expectancy that gave him an air of wistfulness, a very appealing wistfulness.

"Yes, darling." She took his hat and while she hung it in the closet she said, "A cocktail party. A dinner party also."

"It must be something special because you forgot to kiss me." He rectified her omission and repeated, "What's the glad occasion?"

"I don't know whether to tell you now or whether to have your dinner served first because, Joel it's something that may be very important. You couldn't guess what it is, could you "

Joel obliged her; he assumed an air of deep concentration. He said: "My stepfather has struck oil and made us a wedding present!"

"No," she shook her head and the cocktail shaker at the same time. "We're going to have a baby!"

"Oh, Joel!" she put down the shaker and forgot what had been in her mind. She and Joel had never talked about having a baby and somehow she hadn't dreamed that it would make him happy. "We're not, but would it make you happy?"

"What makes you think it would not, young woman? Don't you think I'd make a good father?"

"The very best in the world," she answered.

"But since we're not, you might remember that I'm only human and I still haven't heard the news."

"You're going to hear it in one minute." Janet went over to the dresser and picked up a samll white square of cardboard. She carried it back to him. "Read," she commanded.

"Harry Devanter," he read. "What's it mean?"

"Turn it over, idjit!"

He turned it over to the back where Harry had scrawled and read, "Kurt—please give the bearer a screen test at your earliest opportunity. I think I have something here. Harry."

"Janet!" He spoke her name and Janet saw that his face had gone white. She thought, oh Lord, what have I done? Please let it be the right thing.

She was in it too deep to withdraw now. She did as she had planned. She opened her mouth to speak. At first it was hard and then, quite convincingly, she said, "Mr. Devanter came by this afternoon. He said he was a movie scout from Federal looking for new faces. He said he had seen you in your last show and wanted to see a screen test of you. He...he didn't promise anything."

But there was no muting Joel's enthusiasm then. "He didn't have to promise anything, Jan," he shouted waltzing her around the room. "This is my chance! This is the only way to get in pictures! To have someone discover you. I've got to get to this Devanter chap. Where is he?"

Janet was panicky but she sounded cool and composed when she said, "You can't do that... yet. He left for Chicago or St. Louis or some place this afternoon. He said he won't be back for a month but if you just take this card over to a man named Kurt Jackson at the Federal studies in Corona, Mr. Jackson will arrange it."

Janet woke up about four in the morning with the horrible feeling that perhaps Harry had telephoned Mr. Jackson to tell him he was sending a girl, not a man, for the screen test. But she comforted herself with the thought that Joel would be less of a shock than the sight of her for Janet believed herself to be unattractive.

Nevertheless, her hands felt hot and dry while Joel telephoned the Federal offices the next morning and talked to Kurt Jackson.

"He'll make it tomorrow morning," he told her exultantly as he put up the receiver. "What do you suppose I'll have to do?"

Janet said that she had no idea but, whatever it was, she was sure that it would turn out all right. "Darling, I want you to go to the nearest telephone and call me the minute it's over," she told him.

His face fell like a little boy's. "Janet, don't you want to come with me?"

"Do you want me to?" she asked and her eyes shone.

He took her face between his hands and kissed her tenderly. Then he drew her toward him and pressed her head against him. She could feel his heart pounding until it grew calm beneath the soft touch of her.

"Don't you know that every man wants his sweetheart with him at every important moment of his life?" he said.

"Oh, my dearest," she answered. "Whether I'm at your side or away from you at every important moment and every other moment, I am with you and I always will be no matter what happens."

"But what is going to happen, you little goose?"

Janet was surprised to find that she was suddenly frightened. Frightened of this stimulating world that was her husband's but not hers. She was afraid of all the nameless things that could happen to them. Not money or lack of it. Not anything that had to do with the normal events in married people's lives. She was afraid of the emotional pulls in the disproportionate life of the theater.

"Nothing," she answered staunchly, "except that tomorrow morning we are going to show the cinema its new star."

"Don't be silly, honey. I'll be lucky to get a chance. I may never be a star."

"Oh, yes, you will be," she said determinedly.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S BUMP

"Whee!" cried Uncle Wiggily as he started skiing down the long hill of snow. "This is a long slide!" he called back to Mr. Twistytail and the Police Dog at the top of the hill.

"Wait for me, Wiggy! Wait for me!" grunted the fat pig.

"He can't stop," barked the Dog. "Once you start skiing down a hill you can't stop until you get to the bottom. That is unless a ski comes off or you turn a somersault or something like that."

"Oh, I wouldn't want anything to happen to Uncle Wiggily," said the pig gentleman. "But I do wish he would wait for me. We started out to ski together. But he got stuck in a drift."

"I know," barked the Police Dog. "I helped pull him out."

"And I was going to show him some ski tricks," went on Mr. Twistytail. "But now he is beating me."

"Yes, you'll have to go fast to catch him," said the Dog. "Better get started, Twisty."

Twisty Agrees

"I suppose so," agreed the pig looking to see that his long skis were well fastened to his feet. "Here I was going to show Wiggy how to ski and now he's showing me," he laughed. "But I hope nothing happens to him."

"What could happen?" asked the Police Dog as Mr. Twistytail pushed himself closer to the edge of the hill with the long poles to which were fastened some jiggers that looked like wheels from a doll carriage.

"Wiggy might bump into a tree," said the pig.

"Oh, I think he'll know enough to steer himself away from trees," barked the dog. "My, but he's sliding fast!"

"Here I go!" grunted Mr. Twistytail as he pushed himself over the edge of the hill and then he started his long slide as his rabbit friend had done.

"Whee!" cried Uncle Wiggily again as he slid down the long slope on his skies. "I didn't know this was so much fun. It's better than the long jump I took when I beat Quiffy, who is part kangaroo. I wish Quiffy were here now to see me ski."

But Quiffy, who claimed to be a champion Snow Jumper, had gone back to his own Norway country where he could make long jumps.

Faster and faster Uncle Wiggily skied down the long snow. The wind whistled a tune in his ears. His pink nose was getting very cold for the loose, powdery snow was blown against it by the wind.

Error

Uncle Wiggily banked around one turn to the right. Then he banked around another turn to the left. Then he looked behind him and he saw Mr. Twistytail coming down the slope after him.

Looking back was a mistake. Uncle Wiggily said this himself after it was all over. Mr. Twistytail also said it was a mistake.

"I should have been watching where I was going and not looking back at Twistytail," said Mr. Longears. Just for a moment he forgot to steer himself and a moment later he felt a terrible bump.

Uncle Wiggily had a collision with a tree at one side of the ski run. His left leg and ski went one side of the tree. His right leg and ski went the other side of the tree. But Uncle Wiggily's pink nose, twinkling as best it could, being in one piece, hit the tree, smacko! So did the rabbit gentleman's head. Oh, such a bump! "Good night," said Uncle Wiggily, for everything went dark and he thought it time to go to bed. He was bumped out.

And if the liverwurst doesn't tie a red ribbon on the dill pickle to make it look like a Christmas wreath, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's toboggan.

ALDERVILLE CHOIR SPONSORS CONCERT

Enjoyable Affair Held To Cover Deficit In Church Funds

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ALDERVILLE Feb 10—The choir of Alderville United Church held an entertainment in the hall recently. The object of the entertainment as stated by the chairman, Thomas Marsden, was to raise funds to cover a deficit in the church funds from the previous year.

The organist, Mrs. Norman Marsden, assisted by her children, Charlotte and Vernon, led in a half hour of community singing. A violin contest, with the players out of sight, then took place. The judges, Mrs. A. Simpson, Moses Smoke, Jr., and John Simpson awarded first prize to Dan Simpson and second prize to Irvin Smoke.

A vocal trio, "Darling I Am Growing Old," was sung by Misses Charlotte, Marjorie and Vera Marsden. The next item on the program was a pie-eating contest, out of six girls competing. Miss Vera Marsden's piece of pie disappeared most quickly. Then not to be outdone by the girls six boys entered the contest and Arthur Wheeler won the prize. Rev. L. W. Scott contributed a reading, "Wee David." Mr. Scott also spoke warmly of the choir and thanked all those taking part.

Partners for supper were secured by auctioning of hands, the lady placing her hand over a curtain where it was visible to the bidders. Billy Marsden acted as secretary and announced $11.30 as the sum raised through the evening's entertainment. The singing of the National Anthem closed the entertainment.

LAKEFIELD

MARRIED WOMEN SHOULD STAY HOME DEBATERS DECIDE

Cannot Give Necessary Attention To Household Duties If In Business

LIVELY DISCUSSION

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 10—"A married woman in business cannot give the necessary amount of time to home-making" was the decision arrived at at the Young People's meeting on Monday night, when the Y.P.U. of Lakefield United Church held an entertaining discussion on the subject: "Should a married woman remain in business?"

The meeting opened with an hour spent in recreation under Mr. Kelly's leadership. At the business session which followed arrangements were made for a Valentine party to be held next week instead of the regular meeting. The results of the membership contest were announced, with the Tecumseh Group, headed by Nora Webster, leading with a total of 54 members present during the contest. The Mohawks, headed by Phyllis Webster, were second, with 43 members, while the Iroquois, headed by Delmer Jackman, and the Hurons, led by Mrs. Wm. Millage, trailed with 37 and 35 members respectively. The winners of the contest are to be guests of honor at the party next week; while the other groups provide the program and the refreshments.

It was decided that after next week, the membership contest would be resumed to run until March.

Mary Webster, Christian Fellowship convenor, then took charge of the meeting. Mrs. Wm. Millage read the Scripture. The theme of the reading was the sacredness of the marriage vow. Miss Nora Webster was called upon to lead the discussion which dealt with the sacredness of marriage. The topic—"The All-importance of Marriage"—brought up a discussion on the subject: "Should a woman remain in business after her marriage?" The meeting decided that the happiest marriages result when the woman devotes her time to home-making and such social interests as do not interfere with her job of creating a house.

Reasons For Divorce.

Some reasons for divorce, Miss Webster said, are:

(1) Hasty marriage. (2) Supposed "love" at first sight. (3) Taking jazz songs too literally. (4) Desire for publicity (common in the case of movie stars).

"Because of the need for loyalty and companionship in a life-mate, we should not choose a partner blindly nor superficially," Miss Webster continued. Superficial attractions frequently fade with the years, but loyalty and companionship remain.

"Married couples should choose friends and acquaintances pleasing to both parties; every married man and woman should have friends of both sexes and married people should be careful not to let jealousy of each other spoil these relationships. It is possible to have a happy marriage without it being a glamorous one. The church is of immense help in providing the most helpful, faithful and steadfast friendships that can be found," Miss Webster concluded.

Rev. Mr. Kelly then sang an enjoyable solo, and Miss Hannah Webster read a portion of "Jessica's First Prayer," which brought the meeting to a close.

TRENT RIVER

Rev. G. A. Kemp attended the funeral service of Rev. Samuel Garfield McCormack (late pastor of Knox United Church, Peterborough) at the manse, King street, Peterborough Sunday afternoon. Mr. G. A. Brethen of Norwood supplied for Mr. Kemp at the Sunday afternoon service at Trent River, choosing as his text "A life out of control" and gave an interesting address on temperance stressing the fact to "Keep out of harm's way."

The Young People's League will have a missionary program Friday night at the United Church with Mrs. John Scott, convenor in charge. Mr. Platt of Havelock will give a short address on India.

Miss Hazel Waters has returned from visiting relatives at Trenton.

Members of the Trent River and Havelock Road Group of the Ladies' Aid plan to have a play "The Wild Flower of the Hill" by Peterborough talent presented at the church during February.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Phillips of Warkworth, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Adams of West Seymour were recent visitors with Mr. and Mrs. George Van Volkenburg.

Members of the United Church choir with their leader Mr. Wesley Wildman met Tuesday night Feb. 2nd at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Umphrey for organization and rehearsal. The officers were appointed as follows: Secretary, Miss Freda Thompson; librarian, Mr. George Brooks; membership committee, Mrs. R. W. Umphrey, Miss Helen Brown.

A dance is being held Friday night at "Cedar Isle" under the auspices of the hockey team, a game will be played with an outside team earlier in the evening at the rink.

The February Women's Institute meeting will be held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. Greenly. Roll call, pet proverb, Valentine program and contest.

SELWYN, Feb. 10.—For the past two years the Lakefield Women's Institute have awarded prizes to the rural school pupil who for the first year obtained highest marks in the entrance examinations, and the second year, to the pupil with the most perfect attendance.

In 1935 S.S. No. 7, Smith, was the winning school, as three pupils were tied for prizes, Janet and Billy Miller, children of Mr. and Mrs. Melville Miller and Idell Northey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Northey. For the year 1936 the same pupils of the same school again were tied for the prizes awarded as they all had perfect attendance.

There are five rural schools who compete in this contest: S.S. No. 6, Smith; S.S. No. 7, Smith; S.S. No. 9, Smith; Pine Grove School, Douro; and Garbutt's School, Douro.

The many friends of Mr. Aaron Davis will regret to learn that his serious condition caused his removal to the hospital in Peterborough on Tuesday, where he underwent a slight operation. His condition is as well as can be expected.

The drawing for the clock conducted by No. 2 Group of the Ladies' Guild resulted in Gilbert Steenburgh being the lucky person.

A successful euchre party was held in the Separate School on Monday evening. Richard Moloney secured the gent's prize, and Miss Hilda Hughes was top scorer of the ladies. Mrs. Hector Auger received the door prize.

To Relieve Bad Cough Quickly, Mix This at Home

Does the Work in a Hurry, Saves Money. Easily Mixed.

Here's an old home remedy your mother used, and, for real results, it is still a very dependable thing for distressing coughs. Try it once, and you'll swear by it.

It's no trouble at all. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking is needed—a child could do it.

Now put 2½ ounces of Pinex into a 16 oz. bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you 16 ounces of really superior cough remedy—more than you could buy for four times the money. It keeps perfectly, tastes fine, and lasts a family a long time.

This splendid home mixture has a three-fold action. You can feel it take hold at once. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. This explains why it gives such prompt, pleasing results.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine, in concentrated form, well known for its prompt action on throat membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

CHEF MORRISON TRIUMPHS AGAIN

Three Hundred At Springbrook Pronounce His Oysters Best Yet

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BONARLAW, Feb. 10.—On Friday of last week Springbrook Lodge I.O.O.F. No. 429 held their annual Oyster supper and dance in the Orange Hall at Springbrook. Nearly three hundred persons sat down to enjoy the famous John Morrison cooked oyster stew and the popular opinion appeared to be that this year he had out-Morrisoned Morrison for they were 100 per cent. and plenty of them. For those who said, "Only a little soup, please" the tables were almost groaning under the supply of meats, scalloped potatoes, salads, jellies, pickles, cake, pie, etc.

When all were satisfied they repaired to the dance hall above where to the strains of excellent music furnished by the well-known trio, Messrs. Allen, Bell and Stapley, they danced both round and square dances until the wee small hours. Mr. Herb Jones made a capable floor manager and under the management of Mr. Lindsay Mumby, Noble Grand, Mr. Geo. E. Thompson, rec. secretary and a strong committee the evening was pronounced one of the most successful yet held.

Worried By Pimples and Eczema

Complexion Unblemished After Six Weeks of Kruschen

"For the past two years," writes a woman, "my face was covered with hard pimples and red blotches, and I also had eczema on my neck and fore-arms. I tried lotions, creams and ointments, without the slightest effect. I was so worried. Fortunately I decided to give Kruschen a trial, and without any exaggeration, within six weeks my face was without a blemish, and I have not had a sign of eczema since. I take Kruschen regularly every morning, and would not be without it."—(Mrs.) J. A.

Pimples and eczema are frequently due to impurities in the blood—irritant poisons which sluggish body organs are failing to expel from the system. Kruschen Salts help to keep the body organs functioning normally and healthily, thus preventing the accumulation of impurities in the blood.

Young Prisoner Tells Of Helping Plan Hunger Strike To Get Transfer

CURSED, KICKED

Lays Damage To Guards' Trickery—Asked For Complaints Then Locked 3 Up

GUELPH, Ont., Feb. 11.—(CP).—Some guards curse and kick prisoners at the Ontario reformatory, the inquiry into the January 17 riot was told to-day by Prisoner "Q," a youth who marked his 17th birthday two weeks ago and who has been in the institution 16 months.

"If the prisoners say anything back they are punished and strapped," said Q. "One guard cursed me one day because I was out of step in the bull gang."

Young prisoners are asked to do too heavy work for which they are not physically fit, he said.

"The work a boy does in here does not depend on what he is capable of doing but on what the guards want him to do," said Q. "I had asked when I came in here to go to the tailoring shop, but I was placed on the bull gang. I couldn't do the work there, it breaks me down.

The doctor ordered my transfer. I had to haul 300-pound loads of sand in a wheelbarrow. The load was too heavy, and I had to push it too far."

Prisoner Q said he had helped plan the hunger strike. "I wanted to be transferred out of the institution, anywhere but here," he said.

"I've seen the meat green, it was so bad."

Blames Guards Trickery.

There was no intention of doing damage at the institution, he said. "The guards asked for the complaints of those on hunger strike and when two or three stepped forward they were locked up in the tower," he said. "That wasn't fair. The kids got excited, broke windows and the older guys joined in."

J. Gordon Gilianders, K.C., commission counsel said Q was reported to have taken pears from the cannery. "If you can't eat at the table you have to eat somewhere else," commented the prisoner.

Prisoner R, aged 17, wanted to leave laundry work, but he was placed in the "bull gang." He said "there's a slight kid in the bull gang who is only about four feet tall and he's even less able to do the work than I am. He doesn't wear underwear either summer or winter at outside work.

"There is no light underwear given, and the heavy underwear irritates my skin," he said.

Feared Escape.

Prisoner R said "Long-term prisoners" were not allowed to take part in recreational activities for fear they would escape.

"They should allow more letters," he told the inquiry. "When I came here I was told I could write one personal and one business letter a week. I want to write to both my mother and girl friend each week. More paper should be given us. We get only one sheet of about 25 lines."

The guards sometimes dare prisoners to fight. "If you don't you look yellow, and if you do take the dare, the guard reports you and you're

TWEEDSMUIR'S SON FINED FOR PRANK

He And Chum Fined For Breaking Hurricane Lamps—Allegedly Drinking

WINDSOR, England, Feb. 11 (CP-Cable).—Alastair Buchan, son of the Governor-General of Canada, Lord Tweedsmuir, and Alastair Campbell, both 18, pleaded guilty in Windsor Police Court today to stealing and damaging two hurricane lamps belonging to the Windsor Corporation.

A constable testified he saw the accused standing in the centre of Windsor High Street in evening dress, the lamps in their hands, pretending to direct traffic. They smashed the lamps against the railings of a club, the constable said, and took to their heels when they saw him approach.

The constable caught them after a run. They had been drinking, he said, but were not drunk.

The Chief Constable of Windsor testified both were old Etonians and Oxford undergraduates, and had no intention of stealing the lamps. He therefore withdrew the theft charge. On the remaining charge each was fined $5 and assessed the costs of the damage. The lamps were valued at $2.25.

War Preparations Blamed For Price Increases

Higher Schedule Being Forecast Before Year Ends In Many Lines

Even Baby's Teddy Bear Has Been Caught In War Preparation

WOOL VERY SCARCE

Japan, Russia And Germany Buying Bulk Of Wool Offered For Sale

The awesome figure of Mars, conceived by cartoonists as the personification of war, is being blamed for the present universal advance in prices from which no man or woman is likely to escape.

Everything a woman wears, and women are singled out for example because they are innocent bystanders in the tremendous armaments race, is likely to be dearer before many months pass, if as a matter of fact the prices of her boots, coat, dresses and the various silken accessories, have not already been marked up.

Woollen blankets, cotton prints, silk hose, fur coats, leather purses, the whole range of goods that women buy, are due for a new and higher schedule of prices before this year ends, Charles H. Saunders of Richard Hall Limited, told the Examiner today.

Even Teddy Bears Up.

Even such a little inconsequential thing as the baby's Teddy Bear has been caught up in this broad movement which is currently gathering volume.

Importers in Toronto recently reported that Adolf Hitler issued orders that the wool used in making the soft tawny coats of the Teddies is needed for more important purposes in Germany, primarily for new uniforms for the Nazi soldiers. Prices of these nursery toys are already being quoted at a sharp advance, and their quality will be considerably inferior to the Teddy Bears that were bought last Christmas.

Manufacturers of woollens mention essential factors that are causing the advance in prices. A shortage of wool in the wool producing countries, and an increased demand in the wool consuming countries form a combination that thrusts prices forward.

At a recent wool auction in Great Britain, it is said, Japan bought half the wool supply offered for sale, and at another auction Russia, Germany and Japan grabbed the bulk of this raw material. And these countries are regarded as setting the pace in preparations for war.

Yarn and Blankets Higher.

Mr. Saunders discussed the new problems which unsettled markets have laid at the door of the retailer. A wool yarn that sold at 98 cents a pound last year is now costing 96 cents delivered at the store; and this price may advance to $1.39 a pound. Quotations are announced only for limited periods.

The manufacturers of Hudson's Bay and Kenwood blankets have guaranteed their new prices for a few months. Salesmen of ready to wear coats report that "they don't know where they are at" because their companies are experiencing a great deal of difficulty in getting prices from the wool dealers.

Anticipating continuance of the demand for blankets by tourists during the summer months, Mr. Saunders placed a heavy order on three days' confirmation, but three days were the limit.

Some Effects Unjustified.

"I can only express an opinion

BLIND FARMER IS GIVEN CHANCE TO SEE AGAIN

Peter Robertson Underwent Operation—Hoping For Complete Success

BEEN BLIND 12 YEARS

Modern surgery was to-day called upon to bring back sight to an elderly grey-haired man who has dwelt in total blindness for the past 13 years. The man is Peter Robertson, 65 years of age, whose courageous struggle to operate alone his little farm in Otonabee township near Keene despite his blindness was revealed through the press three weeks ago.

In Nicholls Hospital this morning, Dr. Charles M. Scott of this city, assisted by Dr. J. C. Smith of Lakefield, operated for removal of a cataract on his right eye. They warned that no immediate pronouncement on the success of the operation can be made, but reported that every indication for a success was present.

Was Good Patient

"As the operation progressed, he said he could see my hand before his face and could see light," Dr. Scott said. "He was a very good patient, and we are hoping for a complete success."

Dr. Scott repeated a warning, however, that optimism must be restrained in connection with even the most ideal of operations. The final word on whether or not Peter Robertson is to see again will not be available for several days.

The first hint that Robertson

Silent African Lion-Chasers Find Ready Market In London

22-Pound Dogs That Look Like a Cat Have No Bark And Gentle Growl

4,332 CANINES ON EXHIBIT

LONDON, Feb. 11. — Barkless dogs—Basenjis from the heart of Central Africa—were exhibited to-day to London dog fanciers for the first time in any civilized land.

Great crowds assembled around Bongo and Bereke and their eight puppies at Cruft's Annual Dog Show in Agricultural Hall, where 4,332 dogs, valued at $5,000,000, were exhibited. The Basenjis are the rarest breed here. They were brought from Africa by Miss Olivia Burns, who has sold them at good prices and is rushing more by airplane.

Generations of dusky masters, who use them to chase game, taught them not to bark. Finally evolution stamped out their bark altogether, although they growl gently.

The Basenjis, hardly larger than a fox terrier, average about 22 pounds each in weight. Yet they chase lions and other ferocious game.

Cat-like in appearance, they wash their faces with their paws and arch their backs when angry. Carvings of similar dogs appear on the facades of Egyptian tombs.

Russia's iron output is lagging behind demand.

U.S. COURT REFORM STIRRING BATTLE ACROSS NATION

Most Important Internal Development Since Civil War Is likely To Make History

SEEN ROOSEVELT PLOT

By H. M. Peters
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—State legislatures, prominent men, the press and the man in the street were forming sides sharply to-day as the battle over President F. D. Roosevelt's plan to reorganize the United States Supreme Court and the Federal Courts generally continued to crowd other domestic developments to the sidelines.

Everywhere it is conceded that United States history will be written over this measure—called the most important internal development since the Civil War. Battle lines are being drawn chiefly with a view to a sharp struggle in the Senate as most observers think the overwhelmingly Democratic lower house will back the President, even should a wing of the party rebel.

The controversy is bringing out expressions of opinion from men who normally would not speak on a political matter, even during an election campaign.

For instance last night Bishop William T. Manning of New York opposed the President's proposal to increase the Supreme Court members by six should those six over 70 years of age not retire. Retirement would bring replacement with young men. Dr. A. Lawrence Lowell, president-emeritus of Harvard University, was another who condemned the proposal.

Dr. Manning, from the pulpit, asserted the change would "strike a death blow to our constitutional democracy and would destroy the very foundation on which our government rests."

Claims Ground Weak.

Dr. Lowell said the two principal grounds on which the President's Federal Court reform message was based "would not hold water if impartially examined."

Now 80 years of age, Dr. Lowell, an authority on government and law, asserted the President's proposal "conceals from no one the fact that it enables the present administration to appoint six new judges of the Supreme Court and will be expected to produce a majority on constitutional questions favorable to the President." The grounds that would not hold water were that the courts were overburdened and that Judges of the age of 70 lose some of their judicial efficiency. The first, he said, was incorrect, as the Supreme

WILD ARE TALES TOLD

Alaska's Liars Tell Some Fine Ones To Win Prizes.

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Feb 11 (CP).—Wild were the tales which won prizes in the annual liars' contests here. One concerned a mine where sourdoughs dug out electricity in big square chunks and sold them as storage batteries.

Another described air pockets so large airplane pilots were compelled to chop and shovel clouds into them before they could be crossed.

RAIL STRIKE VOTE BE KNOWN MAR. 18

General Conferences Set For That Date—3-Day Session Kept Secret

MONTREAL, Feb. 11 (CP).—The result of the strike votes of 117,000 Railway Union members will be made known at a meeting March 18 of the general conference committee of the running trades unions, it was learned today.

The committee dispersed yesterday after its 100 delegates held secret sessions here for three days. Any move to resume negotiations on the workers' demand for restoration of a 10 per cent. cut must come from the railway companies or the Department of Labor, Ottawa, union officials intimated after the sessions.

Delay in completing balloting is said to be due to the varying procedures of the 17 unions involved.

DEAD, ALIVE AGAIN

Doctor's Quick Act Saves Baby As It "Dies" on Way to Hospital

CHARLESTON, W.Va., Feb. 11—(C.P.).—Eleven-month-old Tommy Griffith rested "comfortably" in hospital to-day, apparently returned from the dead.

Dr. M. Petersen, child specialist, said he was driving to the hospital with Tommy, ill of diphtheria, yesterday when the baby's uncle, James Brooks, looked up and gasped:

"Doc, he's dead!"

Dr. Petersen stopped—in front of a power company's office building. Typewriters stilled as he ran in and placed the baby upon a desk. He blew into the baby's throat—and Tommy began to breathe again. Then they continued to the hospital.

BRITAIN TO FLOAT 2 BILLION DOLLAR LOAN FOR DEFENCE

Chamberlain States Present Revenues Unable To Keep Pace With Outlay

FOR FIVE-YEAR PROGRAM

LONDON, Feb. 11—(A.P.).—Great Britain plans to float a defence loan up to a sum not exceeding £400,000,000 ($2,000,000,000), Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, disclosed to the House of Commons to-day. He said a bill would be introduced by the government to give it the general power to borrow money or to use realised surpluses for defence expenditures.

The Chancellor made his disclosure in reply to a question by Clement Attlee, leader of the Opposition.

He said the loan would be spread over a period of not more than five years, and that the debt would be redeemed within 30 years. Under the plan, Parliament would annually vote an appropriation to pay the interest.

Chamberlain said Britain's defence expenditures—she is in the midst of a vast defensive scheme of rearmament in every phase—were increasing apace, and that present government revenues would not meet them.

People Are Absent-Minded Many Articles Left On Buses

Summer It Is Umbrellas, In Winter Mittens—But Other Articles Also Left

ONE PURSE WITH $40

Potatoes, mittens, school books, muffs, umbrellas and even the occasional bag of spinach. Drivers for the Peterborough Bus Lines are accustomed to find just about anything when they go through their buses at the end of each run to see what their passengers have forgotten and left behind. Manager Laurie Mitchell reveals.

"In summer it's umbrellas and in winter it's mittens," he states. "But other artitcles are found in all seasons. One of our drivers turned in a lady's night dress and another a purse containing $40. On Sundays the chief contribution to the lost and found department is hymn books."

Purse Contained $40.

The lady's night dress was wrapped up, so apparently was a forgotten purchase from one of the stores, he explained. And the $40 purse was subsequently claimed.

Possibly an indication of the return of better times is contained in the fact the volume of forgotten articles has increased sharply during recent months, he suggested. In times of plenty, passengers evidently relax their vigilance over their belongings.

"Our buses have carried prominent placards warning passengers to take with them their belongings before they step out, but it seems few people pay attention to such routine signs," he said. All articles found in the buses are held at the company's local headquarters for 30 days or more in order that owners may have a full opportunity to claim the articles.

OTTAWA, Feb. 11.—(C.P.).—The caucus of the Social Credit members of the House of Commons adjourned to-day without taking any action against one of their number, P. J. Rowe, who represent Athabaska, following expressions of dissatisfaction by Mr. Rowe with the progress being made by Premier Aberhart in Alberta.

A lengthy statement was issued by Mr. Rowe immediately following the caucus in which he detailed his criticisms of the Aberhart Government and challenged J. H. Blackmore, Social Credit Leader in the House to define the steps which have been taken so far to institute Social Credit.

ELEVEN AREAS ARE SET ASIDE TO AID FISHING

Orders-In-Council Are Passed Designating Closed Season For Fishing

BOUNDARIES OUTLINED

Eleven executive orders by which the closure of certain waters in Peterborough and Victoria counties has been effected by the Ontario Department of Game and Fisheries in accordance with representations made by the deputation from the city and county that recently waited on the Minister, have reached E. A. Outram, secretary of Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association.

Copies of the executive orders, which declare certain waters closed to all fishing for a period of two years in each case, and prohibit the taking of fish by angling or by any other means, were received here from H. H. MacKay, biologist and director of the fish culture branch of the Department.

The various waters in the district which have been declared closed and set aside for natural spawning areas, and for the proposed establishment in some cases of artificial bass rearing ponds, are designated as follows:

"A portion of the North River, locally known as Seawright's Bay, located on Lot 18, Concession 7; and Lots 18 and 19, Concession 6, Belmont Township.

Corporation Announces 5-Cent An Hour Raise Effective February 15

DETROIT, Feb. 11 (A.P.). — The costliest strike in American automotive history ended formally to-day with the signing here at 11.46 a.m. (E.S.T.) of a peace agreement between General Motors Corporation and the United Automobile Workers' Union.

The signing occurred as the strike, estimated to have cost $1,000,000 a day in wages alone to General Motors employees, entered its 44th day. It will start 100,000 men back to work in 40 factories.

Shortly before the agreement was signed, General Motors announced a five-cent hourly wage increase for all its employees effective February 15, estimated to aggregate approximately $25,000,000 a year.

Terms of the Agreement

1—The corporation recognizes the union as the collective bargaining agency for those employees belonging to the union. The corporation recognizes and will not interfere with the right of its employees to be members of the union. There shall be no discrimination, interference, restraint, or coercion by the corporation or any of its agents against any employees because of membership in the union.

2—The corporation and the union agree to commence collective bargaining negotiations on February 16 with regards to the issues set forth in the letter of Jan. 4 of the union to the corporation.

3—The union agreed to end the present strike and evacuate all plants now occupied by strikers.

4—The corporation promises to resume operations in all strike-bound or idle plants "as rapidly as possible."

5—All employees are to return to work and without discrimination against strikers.

6—The union agrees that pending negotiations there will be no other strikes or interference with production.

7—During existence of the collective bargaining agreement contemplated all opportunities to negotiate shall be exhausted before any other strikes or production interference is attempted by the union.

8—After evacuation of plants the corporation agrees to dismiss the injunction proceedings started by the corporation against the union or any members in Flint, Mich.

Avoids Shut-Down In Oshawa

OSHAWA, Ont., Feb. 11 (CP)—Termination of the strike of General Motors employees in the United States "probably means the Canadian plant here will avoid a shutdown," Harry J. Carmichael, general manager of General Motors of Canada said today. The Oshawa plant remained in production to some extent throughout. He expressed the belief the flow of materials, halted by the strike, would be resumed before present supplies are exhausted.

Speedy Evacuation

FLINT, Mich., Feb. 11 (AP)—Evacuation today of three striker-occupied plants here was advanced as a possibility this afternoon as an aftermath of a peace treaty terminating the General Motors strikes. It was previously announced the evacuations would be deferred until a mass demonstration is held on Sunday.

MASSEY PRESSES HOUSE FOR ACTION ABOLISHING SLUMS

Emphasizes Need Of Healthy Homes At Cost Low-Wage Earner Can Afford

LOAN BILL UP TODAY

OTTAWA, Feb. 11.—(CP)—Constitutional limitations and high municipal tax rates were some of the influences retarding progress in slum clearance and housing so far as the federal administration was concerned, Finance Minister Dunning told the House of Commons yesterday. The Dominion Housing Act was being used to a greater degree, however, and progressive amendments had made it more accessible to those needing low-cost homes.

Throughout yesterday's short session the House listened to a discussion of Canada's need for abolition of slum areas and the creation of healthy, comfortable homes that would be available to the low-wage earner at a cost he could afford.

Denton Massey (Cons. Toronto-Greenwood) moved a resolution calling for consideration of a plan aimed at the elimination of slums and the provision of facilities whereby every family could be adequately and comfortably housed. It was still under debate when the House adjourned at six o'clock.

URGE CARE NAMING FAIR BOARD HEADS

Pick Only Men Who Will Do Something 700 Delegates To Convention Are Told

TORONTO, Feb. 11 — (C.P.). — More than 700 delegates gathered here to-day to open the two-day convention of the Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies. Delegates came from Stratford, Galt, Woodstock, Belleville, Leamington, Simcoe and other Ontario centres.

Addresses of the president, and other delegates and the superintendent's report were delivered at this morning's session. Hon. Duncan Marshall, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, will speak at the annual banquet this evening.

President S. A. Gibson of Ingersoll urged delegates to use care in selecting their directors. He said he believed the election of proper directors to be of first importance.

"It is a great mistake to elect a director merely because he happens to be popular in the community," the president said. "Only such persons as may be expected to give efficient and enthusiastic service should be elected as directors."

It would add to the efficiency of district meetings now absolutely necessary, if women directors and delegates were invited to attend, the president said. The women's departments of the fairs were of great importance.

Competitions Important

He stressed the importance of field crops and best-kept farm competitions as leading to improvement in farm standards.

"Last Fall I received several complaints about long delays in the payment of prize money by some societies," he continued. "Prompt attention to this matter would mean much to the future success of your fair. I would like to publicly compliment the management of the Western Fair at London on this point.

"Exhibits may be taken to the London Fair on Monday morning and by Friday afternoon or evening prize cheques are ready and may be collected before returning home. This is sure evidence of efficiency and I really believe a much better feeling would be created and many societies would benefit by following this example."

Delegates gathered at a pre-convention meeting yesterday when insurance for fairs and the new regulations concerning amusement attractions were discussed.

BUS, TRUCK TRAFFIC PLANS EXPLAINED

Howe Hopes To See Province Pass Legislation To Work With Ottawa

OTTAWA, Feb. 11 (CP)—Plans to regulate bus and truck traffic on Canadian highways comparable to the control now exercised over railways were before the Senate Railway Committee yesterday. The committee was considering the transport bill.

Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Transport, explained the bill to the committee. It is framed to change the railway commission into the transport commission and extend its powers to include shipping, air transportation and highway traffic. The shipping provisions would apply only to inland waters.

The difficulty in regard to highway traffic was the narrow jurisdiction of the dominion, Mr. Howe stated. It was limited to interprovincial, international traffic and traffic on Dominion highways.

Such restricted jurisdiction would hamper effective control as most of the traffic is intra-provincial and on highways other than those built by the Dominion. Mr. Howe hopes the provinces will pass legislation regulating the traffic within the provinces to coincide with the federal legislation and designate the board of transport commissioners to administer it. In this way the board would not be hampered by jurisdiction disputes.

The committee has wired the provincial governments to send representatives to appear before the committee and discuss this point. With the British North America Act as it is, this is said to be the only way the highway traffic can be effectively regulated.

AGREEMENT WILL PROVIDE U.A.W.A.

Although the strike did not attract national interest until it became spectacular through the occupation of the two Flint Fisher plants by the "sit-downers," the union actually began its campaign to win recognition and other concessions from General Motors when it called a strike August 18 in the Fisher plant at Atlanta, Ga.

It was a "sit-down," but the strikers held the factory only a few days. Gradually the strikes spread to other plants of the corporation, finally extending from New Jersey to California and from Georgia to the Great Lakes. At the peak at least 135,000 General Motors employees were out of work.

The Strike Capital.

Flint, with one-fourth of its 165,000 population employed by General Motors, became the strike "capital." Two serious disorders and several other minor ones occurred there. In the first, January 11 — 27 persons were injured, and Governor Murphy dispatched Michigan National Guardsmen to the scene.

The second disturbance, in which a dozen were hurt February 1, led to the establishment of a militarized zone around more than a dozen General Motors buildings. In the area were Fisher Body Plant No. 2, where the January 27, riot occurred, and Chevrolet No. 4, both occupied by strikers.

Additional troops were sent to Flint. Although the total reached 3,300, only 1,200 were on patrol duty. The others were held in reserve.

Twice General Motors went into circuit court at Flint to obtain injunctions against the occupation of its property by strikers, but in neither case was action to remove them carried out.

CLAIMS DOCTORS' KNOWLEDGE SMALL IN BIRTH CONTROL

Defence Counsel States Evidence Shows Many Only Enlightened By Travellers

RAPS R. C. MEMBERS

Miss Palmer is charged under section 207 A of the criminal code with having advertised by means of a pamphlet birth-control information and contraceptives.

Mr. Wegenast spent some time drawing attention to an error in a translation of the Latin text of the papal encyclical letter Casti Connubii which had led him to conclude Pope Pius had ignored the injunction of St. Augustine that children should be "lovingly welcomed," into the world. The words "lovingly welcomed," were omitted by the translator, but were contained in the Latin.

He then turned to evidence of Dr. J. E. De Haitre, a Crown witness, agreeing there was no scientific proof for assertion of some anti-birth-control writers that contraceptives in themselves were a cause of sterility.

The same witness, he submitted, agreed to the suggestion that women whose health or economic condition made pregnancy undesirable seldom failed to overcome any prejudice they might have regarding use of contraceptives and come to use them without mental repressions.

He then sought to show evidence of three medical Crown witnesses showed the medical conduct of a Roman Catholic doctor was dictated in some instances by his religious beliefs.

Do As Church Dictates

He claimed the doctors had said in effect: "We think contraception is a proper therapeutic measure but the church says we mustn't use it and we have such faith in the church that that is good enough for us."

He read from the evidence of Dr. Ernest Couture ,a Crown witness, the statement he was governed in his attitude towards contraceptives by canon law of the Roman Catholic church which he believed was based on biological law. Nevertheless, he said, Dr. Couture found that in cases in which the mother's life was in danger, he could perform operations resulting in effect in abortion, but not desirous as such without running counter to law of his church which forbade therapeutic abortion. This he claimed was "sophistry."

Dr. Couture was a spectator in court.

Mr. Wegenast said: "If I have appeared to be riding Dr. Couture and the other doctors, it is my duty and my privilege to show up the inconsistencies."

He then spoke of the pamphlet some Eastview women received from the Parents Information Bureau of Kitchener, Ont., allegedly through Miss Palmer's agency.

The pamphlet, he said, was prepared under medical supervision and the contraceptives sent by the bureau were found medically to be harmless.

The Best Method

He held also the method of visitation by nurses and social workers such as Miss Palmer was the best possible method of doing the work.

He dealt briefly with the case of an unmarried woman, "a self-confessed liar," who allegedly obtained contraceptives through Miss Palmer.

The woman said in the witness box she had corrected the impression she was married before Miss Palmer left her home.

He suggested that in any event it "might be argued from half a dozen angles" that the girl should have had the contraceptives to prevent her having another child while she was unmarried.

"I don't think we ought to wait for the verdict of the next century before finding if what Miss Palmer did was right or wrong," he said. There had been half a century of birth control in the United States, he said, regardless of laws designed to suppress it.

"Human nature won't stand for it," he declared, "any more than it would stand for prohibition even though it was part of the constitution of the United States."

He held Miss Palmer's work, was subject to ample medical supervision exercised through the Parents Information Bureau.

"It is perfect nonsense," he said, "to say to the women of Ontario 'go to your doctor' as the evidence shows the doctors have not adequate knowledge."

Many doctors, he said, were shown to have obtained what contraceptive knowledge they had through salesmen and travellers for drug companies.

"The preponderance of evidence was that no one would have known how to do the work any better than it was done by the Parents Information Bureau.

"If we are not going to do anything about it, I suggest, to put it bluntly, we should keep our mouths shut."

Chase, spokesman for the railway workers and key man of the conference between railwaymen and railroads officials who has declared: "If it is necessary to call a strike over the wage question, there will be no violence, no damage, and all locomotives will be brought to terminals and left so there will be no damage or risk to the public pending settlement of the question!"

Flickering Of Lights Nets Mounties Rum

Halifax, Feb. 11.

ROYAL Canadian Mounted Police seized two automobiles and 14 kegs of rum and arrested three men here all because one of the officers flickered the headlights of an automobile.

A police patrol car found another automobile parked on a lonely west end street. Suspicious, the Mounties decided to move in beside its driver and await developments. Soon, a third automobile came along and a constable flickered the headlights on the parked car. The approaching automobile slid to a stop beside the parked car.

In it were 14 kegs of rum. Its two occupants and the driver of the waiting automobile were arrested.

MORGANSTON PAIR MARRIED 25 YEARS

Banquet Is Held In Honor Of Mr. And Mrs. Charles Reycraft

(Examiner Correspondence.)

NORHAM, Feb. 11.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reycraft of Morganston celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage on Sunday and on the Friday evening they were guests of honor at a sumptuous banquet in the Morganston United Church parlors, at which over 75 friends gathered to congratulate the happy couple.

At the entrance Mr. and Mrs. Reycraft received, the latter wearing a becoming costume of wine silk crepe.

In the dining hall decorated for the occasion with white bells and streamers with touches of silver, the guests sat down to dinner at seven o'clock. The tables were decorated with flowers and candles in silver holders and silver streamers. The efficient waitresses Misses Helen Darling, Irene Begg, Bernice Fitchett, Mabel Bradley, Marjorie Massey, Verna McComb and Marion Huycke were smartly attired in black and white uniforms.

Rev. M. L. Hinton of Castleton was chairman for the evening. The toast to the King and the National Anthem was followed by the chairman's address. Mr. Lorne Darling sang a solo "The Stern Old Bachelor" after which Mr. C. W. Massey proposed a toast to the "bride and groom."

Misses Helen Darling and Marjorie Massey gave an instrumental duet. Interspersed with community singing speeches were given by Messrs. J. W. Glover, H. Reynolds, A. Bray, M. McComb, John Moore, Phillip O. Grady, Lorne Harding, E. Moore, Roy Darling and Wm. Campbell.

The gift of the community, a beautiful chest of flat silver was presented with an accompanying message of congratulation by Mr. Lorne Darling. Mr. and Mrs. Reycraft also received a number of beautiful gifts of hollow silver from other friends and relatives.

Mr. Reycraft in a few words of grateful appreciation expressed the sincere thanks of himself and his wife for the gifts and the spirit of good will and friendliness which prompted the givers.

Mr. and Mrs. Reycraft were married in Rochester, N.Y., on February 7, 1912 by the Rev. R. J. Shannon, Anglican minister, after which they came to Morganston to reside. The bride was formerly Miss Sarah Wilson, a native of County Cork, Ireland. Present with them at their anniversary dinner were their two sons Arthur and Gordon and their small grandson Beverley Reycraft, other relatives present were Mr. and Mrs. John Moore of Elgin County and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Moore of Kent County.

PICKS NOTED COUNSEL

Hastings to Defend Mrs. Sutherland in Simpson Slander Case.

LONDON, Feb. 11—(AP).— Sir Patrick Hastings, K.C., has been named, it was learned to-day, to defend Mrs. Joan Sutherland in Ernest Simpson's suit against her, charging slander growing out of gossip about his divorce from Mrs. Wallis Simpson.

Briefing of the noted counsel — one of the "big three" of the English bar—led legal circles to anticipate the suit would be brought to trial.

The action is based on remarks which Simpson contends Mrs. Sutherland made at a luncheon party.

LaNear left the car to secure help, and has not been heard from yet. It is feared he perished in the snow from hunger and exposure.

FREE PORTS BILL RUNS INTO SNAG

Senate Repeals Third Reading And Will Continue Debate

OTTAWA, Feb. 11 (CP). — The Senate continued its session today after making parliamentary history last night by giving third reading to the Free Ports Bill, then repealing the motion for final reading after it had been carried.

Yielding to both opposition and Liberal members' objections that the measure was being considered too hastily, third reading was held up and the bill will be debated further tomorrow.

The incident was believed unprecedented in Canadian parliamentary procedure. Senator Raoul Dandurand, Liberal leader, recalled that 30 years ago a bill had received third reading and then repealed before the motion for final reading had been carried. But the Free Ports Bill had been accorded third reading and the motion carried before being repealed.

Protest was launched by Conservative Leader Meighen after the motion was carried and Senator Murdock (Liberal, Parkdale), finally moved to repeal adoption of third reading and his motion was accepted.

Mr. Meighen said a public measure of such importance as the Free Ports Bill should not be pushed through the Senate even though the bill went through the Chamber last year. He believed the Government should make a statement of policy on the measure in the Upper House before it went to the Commons.

WELLAND COTTON STRIKE COLLAPSES

Workers Gain Little By Seven Weeks' Layoff—Relief Situation Forces Hand

WELLAND, Ont., Feb. 11—(CP)—Activity resumed at the Empire Cotton Mills plant here to-day as preparations were made to throw open the doors to more than 700 workers, on strike for seven weeks. Conferences yesterday wound up with a strikers' mass meeting where the workers unanimously accepted settlement proposals offered by the company.

The walkout which started December 12 came to an end as relief expenditures in Welland were beginning to reach serious proportions. Expenditures had advanced so sharply during the strike, city fathers sought help from the Ontario government.

Louis Fine and O. C. Jeannette of the Ontario Department of Labor came to town yesterday to confer with the strikers' committee and company officials. The government representatives talked with the strikers and company heads from two o'clock in the afternoon till after seven o'clock in the evening.

During discussions settlement proposals were drawn up. They were then placed before the strikers' mass meeting. After addresses and reading of the proposals, the strike was called off as the vote showed the workers unanimously for a return to their jobs.

Accept Proposals

When the strikers committee appeared before the mass meeting the members recommended the proposals be accepted, and Alec Welch, union organizer, supported this step.

The strike hinged on 20 per cent. wage increases demanded by the workers and which the company maintained it could not meet. Under the settlement reached last night, the company agrees to the return of all former workers without discrimination.

Establishment of shop committees will be permitted to handle grievance and employees will be able to join any union they wish.

Only wage reference came in the provision under which the company will review the salary of day workers and increase that of low-paid workers, where efficiency warrants, within six weeks. The company also agreed to keep machines in perfect working order, to use better material so production and wages would increase; and to spread payment of unpaid rents, caused by the strike, over the whole year.

$5 FOR ONE KISS WAS WORTH IT

Youth Fined For His Method Of Driving However Refuses To Give Girl's Name

DETROIT, Feb. 11 (C.P.). — It cost 20-year-old Victor Phelps exactly 5.00 to kiss his lady friend, but by his own admission he got his money's worth.

Phelps appeared in court on a reckless driving charge after police observed his car zig-zagging from one side of the street to the other. Driver Phelps had one arm around his girl friend. He would not bring the girl into court as a witness and refused to give her name.

"In that case," Judge George Murphy said, "I'm sure you won't object to paying a fine of $5.00. You'll be chivalrous enough to admit the kiss was worth that much."

"I'll say it was, Judge," Phelps said emphatically.

DID GOOD TURN BUT DIED

Golfball Hit Sparrow And Deflected Onto Green.

LITHGOW, Australia, Feb. 11 (CP) —A sparrow did a golfer on the links here a good turn, but unfortunately got killed in the attempt.

A golfer hitting his second shot to the first green struck a sparrow which had risen quickly from the ground. The ball was deflected so that it came to rest five yards from the hole. The sparrow was picked up dead, although the ball had travelled 80 yards before it hit the bird. It covered another 40 yards after hitting it.

G.M. STRIKE UNCHANGED.

DETROIT, Feb. 11—(AP)—Representatives of General Motors Corporation and Labor considered a definite plan of strike settlement for two and three-quarters hours today, then recessed for two hours. Governor Frank Murphy said "the situation was unchanged from last night," and announced that another conference would be held later today.

Just 4 Out of 27

The Royal Commission investigating the Canadian penal system, has started its sessions in Toronto. Doubtless the commissioners have found a number of interesting and probably helpful bits of information in sessions elsewhere, but for plain hard fact it would be difficult to equal a statement placed before the commissioners in Toronto. Just this:

Of 28 convicts released from Kingston Penetentiary by the King's amnesty all but seven are back there again, and three of the seven are in the Jail Farm.

That means of 28 who were pardoned and released, 21 are back in Kingston, three are in the Jail Farm, and but four of the 28 retain their freedom.

When Col. Meglaughlin was warden of Kingston Penitentiary he made the statement that he was more concerned about the men who were going out of prison than any other class, because they faced the hardest problem. They were given new clothing and a railway ticket to the place where they had been sentenced and $10 in cash. They were going out known as ex-convicts and they were facing straight into a period when employment was hard to secure, and when the employer would not engage a man who had served time. They would be thrown in contact with the men with whom they associated when they fell into trouble previously; their $10 would not last long and they would seek to gain money as best they could in order to live. The Warden said the most disappointing feature of prison work was that so many who completed their time and were released were certain to return. And the figures presented at Toronto prove his contention was correct.

No Farmers On Relief

There was something in the news a few days ago to arouse interest in Nova Scotia, and it had to do with the action taken when a price increase was announced in gasoline. Some government agency informed the gas company to cancel the increase or close up business, and the increase was cancelled.

From Ottawa come figures showing that in Ontario there are 27,272 farmers on direct relief, and we have become accustomed to referring to our Ontario as the banner province of the Dominion.

Reading some more, and looking again toward the east we find that there are only two provinces in Canada where farmers are not receiving relief, and those provinces are New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

For a good many years we have been looking pretty much to the West; that is where many of our folk went to carve out their living in a new land. If a person were thinking of leaving Ontario he would not likely turn to New Brunswick or Nova Scotia. But they have no farmers on relief there.

What Strikes Do

The strike of workers at the Empire Cotton Mills in Welland came to an end just as it was entering its eighth week. It is reported that strikers were unanimous for accepting the company's proposals of settlement. The company agrees to take back workers as required without discriminating against those who took leadership in the strike. The company will recognize a shop committee named by the workers to consider any grievances, and workers in the mill can belong to any union they desire, but the company does not undertake to recognize any union. The company will review wages and make increases where warranted. Back rent on company houses, unpaid during the strike, will be collected and payable in small instalments during the rest of the year.

The strike and its end is like so many others. There is not a word or line in the terms of ultimate settlement which would not have been possible on the day before the strike occurred. Meantime workers have been put on municipal relief by the hundreds; some families of skilled workers have been put to the inconvenience and expense of moving out and finding employment elsewhere, and the mill itself has had no production. It is taking a long time to prove the futility of strikes and the lesson has not yet been learned.

He Should Have Inquired

Man in Toronto went to the police and laid complaint that he had been beaten and robbed. He was able to give particulars, even to the house where violence had been practiced upon him.

The plaintiff said he had met a lady in a Queen street beverage room, and as the result of this meeting she had invited him to call at her address.

That he did, and before he emerged he claims he was robbed of $4 in cash, lost his false teeth, and when he paused to make further inventory he found his hat was likewise missing. Then he called on the police.

Had he reversed the order of his pilgrimage and called upon the police in the first place he might have been told not to make the acquaintance of stray ladies who might smile at him in the beverage rooms.

Stepping Right Along

We read in a Toronto report that a numerologist is at work in that city. Hand in your age and the date of your birth and you are presented with your number. It may be four or six or seven or something else. Likewise there is a chart and thereby you work out your destiny toward prosperity or happiness.

And it works. We read there was a man who came before the numerologist and he had been dismissed from a department store after having worked there for 26 years, and he was certain he never would get another job. He got his numbers and was told to walk up and down Yonge street looking at things rather than go moping about with his chin trailing on the pavement.

That's just what he did and when walking about looking at things he met a chum of other days; went to school with him in fact. Chum had a big business and the out-of-work man was taken in as a partner. For a success story we rank that one rather high. In all the old books it was necessary to start as an office boy, show quality and speed and honesty and all such things and then step by step go on up the ladder. But this new method is remarkable. Out of work, walk up and down the main street and end up as partner in a big business. It seems almost glorious.

A Few Good Lines

Now and then one comes across lines which have a form of rugged simplicity and sound reasoning. There may be no lyric beauty in the thing, but it has within it a thought.

To illustrate: The Examiner received a letter from a correspondent who argued that workers in industry were entitled to a greater portion of the profits or proceeds of that industry. That is, if they were aiding to build a great commercial enterprise then they should participate in the growth. Our correspondent concluded his appeal with these lines which seem to be unusually good:

We are all blind until we see
That in the human plan
Nothing is worth the making if
It does not make the man.
Why build these cities glorious
If man unbuilded goes?
In vain we build the work, unless
The builder also grows'

A Great Egg From the Tenth

We know well enough of one Tenth Concession, but apparently there are other Tenth Concessions. We were reminded the other day there is one in Cavan Township in Durham County and from that Tenth Concession there came to this office an egg. A large egg it was. When measured with the family tape line it showed a little better than eight inches—that is when going around it the long way. The shell was dark and it is quite possible that great egg may have been laid by a speckled hen.

There is quite a good deal about the laying of eggs which we do not understand or know, and never yet have we been able to learn just when or how the hen puts the shell on. We never bothered much about that on the Tenth unless the shells were becoming too thin and then it was said the hens were not getting enough grit to eat. But on that large egg which was laid on the Tenth Concession of Cavan the hen's shell department must have been functioning to perfection.

Nor were we ever able to understand what it is which prompts a hen to make such a notable effort as must have been required in the production of two eggs housed within one shell. The impression used to gain ground that even the speckled hen was rather a stupid thing especially when it came to the season when she took a notion to cluck. When the maternal instinct was aroused she became particularly stupid. She would neither lay eggs nor get off the nest so that some other hen might have the use of it. If she had a china egg or a door knob under her she was content; if she had been setting on a piece of brick it would have made not the slightest difference. She was bound to cluck and cluck she would.

The stupidity which even a speckled hen displays in one of those clucking spells makes it difficult to understand why she would ever have the notion of producing an egg of unusual size, almost equal to anything which a duck might do. It may be she is subject to being caught up with the exuberance of mankind which calls for more production and greater production of everything. There has been much said in praise of the man who caused two blades of grass to grow where one had previously grown, although what was done with that other blade of grass we have never been informed. Then too, much has been spoken of increasing production of hogs in order to keep up our quota for the British market. So it may be that feeling rests heavy upon the Tenth Concession of Cavan, and the speckled hen, which at times we have been moved to regard as rather a stupid thing, has been caught up in the acceleration of the greater production movement. Whatever the cause, the hen on the Tenth Concession of Cavan made a great and notable effort. The danger is of course that once a hen attains the maximum in egg-laying size the folk may have born within them the fond expectation that the hen is just getting on to the hang of the thing and will do it repeatedly. But it was a great egg and a good egg.

NOTE AND COMMENT

No wonder business is not what it should be. So many people have just been letting things slide in recent weeks.

Our Statesmen At Their Labors

Official Parliamentary Debates

ALL IN ONE CLASS

Mr. ROGERS: In most of the provinces unemployables have simply gone on the relief rolls. That is one question we have to face in this country, namely, that our relief rolls do not consist solely of unemployed who have become unemployed as a result of the depression. That is one element, and we can still say the predominant element, but our relief rolls also contain those who formerly received poor law assistance in some provinces and municipalities and those who might be termed charitable cases. In fact, where formerly we had a number of distinct classifications, those classifications have now tended to disappear; the boundaries, such as they were, between them have been blurred in consequence. It is going to be a problem of great difficulty and magnitude to restore that distinction between unemployment due to physical disability and unemployment due to lack of opportunity for work.

Mr. HEAPS: Where would the minister draw the line between the two?

Mr. ROGERS: I would prefer not to be drawn into a statement on that point at this time. I think that discussion would be more appropriate when the special supplementary estimates are before the house. I have no desire to curtail discussion on the point, for it is most interesting but there will be full opportunity to bring it up at that time.

Mr. POOLE: Would the minister say there are more unemployables to-day than there were prior to the depression; that the depression has caused many to become unemployable?

Mr. ROGERS: I would agree that it is probably so, but I do not know of anyone who can state accurately the extent to which long idleness tends to create unemployability.

ON TAKING A TRIP

Mr. POULIOT:

1. Is there an individual named Brooks employed by the Bank of Canada, and, if so, what are his duties and his salary?
2. How long has he been so employed?
3. Upon whose recommendation was he appointed?
4. Was he granted leave of absence, with salary, in 1936, and, if so, for how long, and why?
5. Did the said Brooks accompany a member of this house on his recent trip around the world?
6. If so, in what capacity?
7. Has the said Brooks resumed his duties at the Bank of Canada, and, if so, on what date?
8. Who replaced the said Brooks at the Bank of Canada during his absence, and what salary was paid to such individual?

Mr. DUNNING: There is no information on record with the government of Canada with respect to the questions asked, but inquiries of this nature, and other relating to the Bank of Canada, raise a point which with respect to the Canadian National Railways was determined a number of years ago somewhat in this way: that questions as to matters of internal management were not usually answered in the house unless in the judgement of the management they could be answered without affecting the day to day management of the business. But in the case of the Canadian National Railways a standing committee has been set up during each of the past many years in which members were given the opportunity of meeting the officers of the railway and asking questions relating to the business of the road. The government is giving consideration to the advisability of referring the annual report of the Bank of Canada to, say, the committee on banking and commerce, in order that members of the house may have the same general opportunity with respect to the affairs of the Bank of Canada as they have to-day with respect to the affairs of the Canadian National Railways. This matter is now under consideration, and I give the information in view of various questions which appear from time to time on the order paper with respect to the affairs of the bank.

Mr. POULIOT: It would be a good reason to abolish the Bank of Canada.

Mr. BENNETT: Mr. Speaker, I feel it incumbent on me to make at least one observation with respect to the question. I went away in August last. I might have taken one of the messengers, as the right hon. the Prime Minister (Mr. Mackenzie King) did when he was leader of the opposition, to serve me in any capacity that might be required. Instead I concluded I would not do so, and I asked Brooks whether or not he was having his holiday. He had not been absent, had had no rest since the war. He applied for leave of absence, which was granted to him without salary, and I paid him the amount of salary which he was receiving, together with his transportation charges, during his absence.

Mr. POULIOT: Was it paid before or after the question was put?

Some hon. MEMBERS: Order.

Mr. SPEAKER: Order.

Mr. BENNETT: It was paid every month, Mr. Speaker, from August until the day he terminated his engagement with me.

Mr. MACKENZIE KING: The right hon. gentleman has referred to myself, when leader of the opposition, having taken with me a messenger, who was attached to the office of the leader of the opposition, when I was absent from Ottawa on one or two occasions. My right hon. friend did not say, though I imagine the omission was an inadvertent one on his part, that I personally paid all the travelling and other expenses of the messenger.

Mr. BENNETT: There was no question about that, but not his salary.

Mr. MACKENZIE KING: I paid the expenses of the messenger when I went away, and the messenger himself is a permanent official. I may say to my right hon. friend that he did not pay the salary of his messenger while he was absent, but the salary was paid just the same.

Mr. BENNETT: Quite so, when he was here.

Mr. POULIOT: I wonder if I could not have gone in his stead.

HE REPORTS PROGRESS

Editor Examiner.

Sir: It has been some little time since you heard from me. This has been a nice open winter and not very much government work going on except on the Faulkner Highway, about which a great deal was said on the night of the Conservative meeting in the Community Hall on Saturday November 8th in the interest of Hon. Earl Rowe, the leader of the Conservative party. Mr. Rowe said at that time that anyone who got on the Faulkner Highway would have a hard chance getting off it. In the meantime I had been down to the south of Camp 5 but I took the turf road out onto the Hastings road coming back. From what I could see of the Faulkner Highway it is a highway that should have been there 25 or 30 years ago if, some of the work had been put on it that was put on the Hastings road. All that was needed was to reserve the barren districts for cranberry bogs, bring down a bunch of beaver from Algonquin Park to flood the section and load the berries on to the Bancroft transports with the steam shovel to be delivered in Bancroft and thus cut down the price of shipping them in from Nova Scotia. At the same time the hill called the "Hole in the Wall" might be moved into Bancroft for a toboggan slide so the children would not need to use the sidewalks, for nobody carries any accident insurance.

Yours truly,
PAYSON H. COONES.

LABOR IS NOT RAW MATERIAL

Editor Examiner:

Sir: Recently you have printed numerous editorials on the prevailing labor disputes and without doubt the reading public welcome your comment on these interesting news items. These disputes have a tendency to re-act either directly or indirectly on the population in general. The great automotive dispute no one can deny is causing a reflection on the stability of our own national industry. Such a colossal struggle cannot do anything other than engender a militant attitude among the employees of other trades.

We have within our own borders many disputes that could either be avoided entirely or at least minimized to almost a negligible degree. When a trade wantonly treats labor as just so much material with which to bargain with for trade privileges, then Mr. Editor we are to have ever recurring struggles of ever increasing intensity.

You have made reference to the Welland dispute on more than one occasion. To my own mind you appear to convey the impression that the organization of a union within this mill resulted in the strike in question when they were financially unable to sustain themselves during the dispute. I beg to submit sir that a union was not even in the stages of formation when that struggle commenced. True, union officials may be at present guiding the conduct of this struggle, and for that these officials are deserving of commendation of not only the people in this trade but also the people in general. Any concessions that may be gained will be productive of an increased purchasing power and incidentally more comforts we hope for the people involved. Are we to continue with the old cry that industry cannot afford these concessions? In view of recent revelations especially in the Textile Trade one would be short sighted indeed if he were to support such a contention. When a trade has been treated as a spoiled child who repeatedly is asking for an increased allotment from the parental purse then I personally feel that the trade in question should pass on some of the plums to the productive and consuming public.

The recent investigation into the textile situation has been productive of some startling facts but can anyone even imagine the data that has escaped even the searching investigation that is nearing completion? Do the public realize it is becoming increasingly more difficult for a Canadian to attain a more important position than a worker in this trade. Apparently there is little room for advancement to our own nationals in this trade as long as these firms can import the bosses from the south under the guise of "improvers".

I am not ready to concede the superiority in the production of textiles to any other nation as yet. We have produced outstanding men in every profession practically and I am convinced we can produce them in this trade. If we are backward in academic training in this field then it is time we made available to our people the tuition necessary for managing the trade. We must take into consideration the fact that the textile trade with its 115,000 operatives is a very important gear in our industrial set-up.

I still maintain that the strike method of settling disputes should be cast aside with all other worn-out panaceas but until the powers that be recognize the individual worker as an asset and not so much raw material then labor cannot afford to adopt the laissez-faire attitude.

The recent decision of the Privy Council only serves to enhance the necessity of organization in the trades to attain the bargaining power so urgently needed. The working man has arrived today to the full realization that his united strength constitutes his sole salvation.

Let's hope we pass through the transitory period peacefully and safeguard what we have left of democracy. The cost of living is rising; dividends are rising. Are the workers wages rising proportinately? Much more could be said to support the worker in his struggle for economic security, but this already has become lengthy and not wishing to take advantage of your generosity I would like to conclude with a few lines I am very fond of:

We are all blind until we see
That in the human plan
Nothing is worth the making if
It does not make the man.
Why build these cities glorious
If man unbuilded goes?
In vain we build the work, unless
The builder also grows.

WHY THE COMPLAINT?

Editor Examiner:

Sir: Having read numerous articles in your paper on the question of pasteurization of milk, may I take a few moments of your valuable time to pass a few comments on same.

First of all the distributors of raw milk claim that they serve 12 doctors in the city with raw milk. On making a canvass of the city I can find 4 and certainly three of these do not prefer it to pasteurized milk. Sometimes it's a case of you scratch my back and I'll scratch yours. There is no medical fraternity who would endorse raw milk in preference to pasteurized milk. Even some of our aldermen must have studied this all-important question when they went to school, I know we did. So why do the representatives of the people hesitate on such an important matter, are they going to let a few outsiders tell them how to run the affairs of the city?

Pasteurization of milk used for cheese, butter, by-products of milk, face creams etc., certainly improves them. In pasteurizating milk all the dairies are doing is eliminating any possibility of disease passing from the herds to the public. Pasteurization does not harm its food value in any way and surely is an admirable feature and when their cost of the upkeep of the plant repairs equipment, taxes, etc., have to come out of the price they get for milk, why the cry about monopoly? The raw milk man gets more than the pasteurized plant.

I see by the paper that a deputation of the raw milk men waited on the city council endeavoring to have them hold their hand on the pasteurization by-law. Yet in the course of their appeal they stated that they had lost numerous cattle in the recent check up and would like to deliver raw milk for a while longer to compensate them for their loss. Now as a consumer of milk is this fair to myself and family? True enough I am strong enough to throw off any germ that may be present, but have they no consideration for the families that have been taking raw milk and were not aware of the dangers. The cases of undulant fever in the province and the evidence in the Sick Children's Hospital in Toronto should be convincing to the average person.

The average deliverer of raw milk in the city keep their place in good shape and to the best of their knowledge their cattle are that way too, but the germs are bound to creep in either out of the soil or coming in direct contact. The local M.O.H. is to be admired on the manner in which he has cleaned the milk situation up, along with several others. There is certainly a big improvement over five years ago when they just didn't bother.

In closing, may I ask the aldermen to give this matter their serious consideration and investigate same in preference to allowing people who know little about the matter to influence them.

Yours Very Truly,
PLAYFAIR

RURAL MAIL CARRIERS.

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

RURAL mail carriers, with work that is not always pleasant or easy to carry out, have a grievance of long standing which deserves to be ironed out to their satisfaction and to the satisfaction of the people they serve and for whom they work.

The carriers would like greater permanence in their positions and something better than what in many cases may be called "starvation wages." The present system of calling for tenders—pitting applicants against each other every few years, resulting quite often in men agreeing to deliver the mail over a 20-mile route at a rate as low as $300 a year—is most unfair. How a man can invest in a car or horse-drawn outfit and do this work for less than $1 a day and be expected to keep a family is beyond our comprehension.

The carriers have been urging reform in respect to the system of contracts and pay for many years, but their pleas have fallen on deaf ears. With Hon. J. C. Elliott in charge of the post office department, and showing a real desire to improve conditions and remove injustices, the carriers have every reason to hope for sympathetic action from Ottawa.

HE HAS TO PAY.

(Ottawa Journal)

A TORONTO paper quotes Dr. W. D. Smith, M.L.A. for East Simcoe, as declaring that "the farmer who drives an inexpensive car perhaps not more than 600 miles per year" should not pay as much for his license plates as "the man driving a 12-cylinder expensive car 50,000 miles per annum."

The answer is that he doesn't.

If he has a four-cylinder car the farmer pays $7 for his markers. If he drives 600 miles, and travels say twenty miles to the gallon of gasoline, he pays an additional $1.80 in gasoline tax.

The chap with a twelve-cylinder car pays $30 for his plates. If his mileage is fifteen to the gallon his gasoline tax returns $200 to the provincial treasury. His total bill is $230 as against $8.80 for the fellow with the cheap car and the small mileage.

WATERING PLANTS.

(Kitchener Record)

POURING water on the surface of the soil in the pot is said to be bad for the plant. Moreover it means much work for the gardener when he has a lot of flowers. So Dr. Burton E. Livingston has developed a method of watering plants from the bottom. He is professor of plant physiology at the Johns Hopkins University.

He fixes an artificial sandstone column about an inch square and eight inches long in the bottom of the pot and sets the pot on top of a jar of water. The column absorbs the water from the jar, and the soil in the pot absorbs the water from the column. It works on the same principle as the lamp wick which feeds oil to the flame.

This method of providing moisture for potted plants has several advantages. The plant thereby gets just enough water. The pot is never flooded, as when the watering is done from the top. Flooding a flower pot cuts off the roots' oxygen supply temporarily, and this encourages attacks by certain types of molds.

A BIG CHANGE.

(Brockville Recorded and Times)

AS an illustration of what centralization has done to rural industry, it may be remarked that in the year 1850 there were no fewer than 37 grist mills and 74 saw mills in Leeds and Grenville counties. Today there are few survivors. Gone also are the tanneries, the asheries, the coopers' shops, the breweries, distilleries and other small manufacturing establishments of earlier days.

might regain his eyesight came after the story of his unusual existence had been published in The Examiner. Inspecting closely a picture which accompanied the story, Dr. Scott refused to accept the verdict of eye specialists who had previously examined the farmer and reported his optic nerves dead, and offered in the cause of humanity to re-examine his eyes An examination was arranged and Dr. Scott diagnosed the cause of blindness as cataracts of an unusually opaque type.

Performed on Right Eye

Peter Robertson accepted an offer by Dr. Scott to attempt restoration of his sight through an operation and through the co-operation of a neighbor, William Stewart, and The Examiner, the blind man was accommodated in Nicholls Hospital Wednesday. The operation this morning was performed on the right eye, the film-covered lense of the eye being removed to allow passage of light back to the eye's retina. If the present operation should prove a success, an operation on the left eye also to provide sight through both eyes would be practical in the future.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 11. — A tendency to sell wheat at every opportunity pulled down futures prices on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday after two-cent advances were boarded.

The close was irregular, ¼ cent higher to ⅛ cent lower, May at $1.28½, July $1.23¼, and October $1.12⅝. Final prices were at or near the session's lowest levels.

Strong support afforded the market by 500,000-bushel export sales and good mill buying failed to stay the late recessions. Trading for most of the day was erratic.

While Germany was reported to have bought further quantities of Argentine wheat, trade reports were Argentina's exports this week would again be large. Prices at Buenos Aires reflected free movement of grain, advancing more than a cent a bushel.

JOBS ALLOTTED GUELPH PRISON

punished with the strap," he said.

"Only the day after the riot a guard came into my cell to frisk me and the shoe I was taking off hit him. He wanted to fight with me but some other prisoners came along and he knew we had him, so he pulled out a tear gas bomb."

At 16 prisoner R did not like to be in the same dormitory as the "punkers, the young kids" and obtained a transfer to another section of the institution.

The only objection he had to cell-life instead of dormitories was the lack of baths and hot water.

"I've been sweat and dust-caked for three and four days, unable to get a bath," he said.

"In the dormitories you can get a bath any day."

Prisoner S, 23, said he had started to attend school when he came here nearly two years ago, but "half the time the teachers weren't around and the boys read magazines."

Prisoner S said if complaints were made the prisoner was locked up for being critical.

Asked if he'd like to learn any trade, a negro prisoner of 23 drawled, "I don't know, I never thought much about it."

"It isn't the work that's hard, it's the guards who make it hard," said Prisoner 'U,' 20 last month, in the reformatory for his second term.

"The guards walk about cursing. They say, 'Come on, get down there' and then swear," he said. "If we turn around and even look at them it is dumb insolence and you lose 10 to 15 days of your good time."

Prisoner 'U' has "a good stock of toilet articles cached down in the tailor shop," he said. He got them before the ban was placed on parcels coming into the reformatory. "I got them mostly by buying them after crap games."

Revenue From Operations During The Past Year Advanced $1,912,152

MONTREAL, Feb. 11—(C.P.).—Net profits of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada increased to $3,455,600 in 1936, from $4,475,222 the previous year, according to the annual report issued here to-day. The increase allowed payment of the regular dividend of $6 a share and transfer of $751,143 to the earned surplus fund. Last year a deficit of $186,397 was shown following dividend payments.

Total revenue from telephone operations was $38,096,581, an increase of $1,912,152. Operating expenses, including disbursement for depreciation and maintenance, totalled $26,355,426 compared with $25,619,062 the previous year. Net operating income was $8,929,155 against $8,102,767 in 1935.

'Swingy' Styling

In this day of "swing" motifs, what could be more "swingy" than this dinner dress worn by Ida Lupine? Black crepe makes the skirt, which has slight train back and a slit in front. The blouse is white crepe with square-cut neckline and sash brushed at the waist. Three-inch wide fringe covers the entire cape, which is hip length in back and elbow length in front.

World Circled With Petition

Women Of The Globe To Unite In Prayer On Friday—Local Service At Trinity

On Friday, the praying women of the city will engage in a chain of Petition to the Almighty which will circle the globe. Peterborough's Day of Prayer will be observed in a special service which commences at three o'clock in the afternoon at Trinity Church, sponsored by the Women's Missionary Societies of the city, with a Young Women's Service in the evening at the same church.

In the morning, women of the Eastern Hemisphere will start this prayer circle and in the afternoon, women of the Western Hemisphere unite in supplication. It is literally true of to-morrow (Friday) that "from the rising of the sun until the going down of the same the Lord's name is to be praised."

The program for this year for the older women has been arranged by Miss Mabel Shaw of Livingstone Memorial School at Mberesht Post Office, Kawambwa, North Rhodesia, and for the Young Women's Service by Miss F. Mary Watts of the Canadian Church Mission Diocese of Honan, China. Those who have prepared the basic program since 1930 are Miss Helen Kim of Korea, Miss Macarthur of Canada, Mrs. H. A. Yusufi of India, Mrs. C. C. Chen of China, Mrs. J. W. L. Hoffmeyer of South Africa, Baroness von Boerzalair von Dubbledam of Holland, and Senorita Laura Jorquera of Santiago, Chile.

The first conception for this World Day of Prayer for Women was on the North American continent. Before 1900 the Presbyterian women of Canada had for years a Day of Prayer for all their mission enterprises, both home and foreign. In the 1890's the Women's Home Mission Council and the Federation of Women's Boards of Foreign Missions (international women's groups of the United States), had their separate days of prayer. In 1920, in Canada, the five women's boards in the newly-formed Interboard Committee united in a Dominion-wide observance of the Day of Prayer. The same year the Home and Foreign Mission Boards of the United States took a similar step. Two years later, in 1922, the American groups asked the Canadian women to unite with them in a continent-wide day of intercession, which was first observed on March 3, 1922, and the first Friday in Lent was chosen as the permanent date.

But there were hosts of women in Great Britain, Europe, Asia and Africa whose hearts beat with women of this continent, and in 1927, only seven years after the first services were held in Canada and the United States, the observance became world-wide. In 1935 services similar to our own, with a practically identical program, were held on the same day in Great Britain, Europe, Africa, China, Japan, Korea, India, Mexico, and the South American Republics.

Talk on Recent Labrador Visit

Mrs. W. R. Morris Outlines Her Summer Trip—Club Plans Fashion Show

A delightful talk on her recent trip to the Labrador, when she acted as official hostess on one of the sight-seeing boats, at invitation of Lady Grenfell, was given by Mrs. W. R. Morris at the regular meeting on Wednesday evening of the Business and Professional Women's Club of Peterborough. There was a good attendance for the meeting, which was held in the clubrooms, with the president, Miss Trucie Pearson, in the chair.

Announcement was made of a Fashion Revue, to be held under the club auspices on February 19, when club members who are in business will unite in presenting a Spring Fashion Show, under convenorship of Mrs. L. M. Lockington. Those contributing to the parade will be Lyda Telford, in feminine wearables; Jane Horsfield, in hats; the Smart Set Shop, and Elsie Bennett's Jewellery store, in accessories.

A pleasant musical interlude was provided, in violin selections by Nancy Spring, pupil of Roy Rome, accompanied by Miss Marguerite Rome.

Eight new members were admitter to the club's rolls.

Mrs. Morris outlined her trip from the time she left Montreal and, later, Quebec, on one of the warmest days in last summer's calend r. But blankets were necessary la when colder air was encountered.

She spoke of the Orphanage and Mission at St. Anthony, where women take old silk stockings and convert them into pretty mats. Reference was made to the assistance to the people in isolated sections given by nurses who go inland, carrying supplies and medicines.

Mrs. Morris spoke of the great work carried on by Dr. Grenfell, who devoted his whole life and effort to helping the people of the Labrador and also mentioned with surprise the fact that Canadians do not take more interest in the project, which is supported liberally by Americans and the people of Great Britain.

ST. JAMES' CIRCLE HOLDS MEETING

Mission Circle Meets At The Home Of Miss Jean Rose, Morrow Street

A meeting of unusual interest was held by the X. L. Mission Circle of St. James United Church when about twenty-five members gathered at the home of Miss Jean Rose, Morrow street on Monday evening.

The president, Jessie Martin, presided and the program opened with a brief worship period which included prayer by Mrs. E. Kitney and the scripture reading by Mrs. S. Rowe.

One of the highlights of the program was an exceptionally fine report of the Presbyterial meeting brought to the Circle by one of their representatives, Mrs. A. Rosborough.

Temperance was presented in an unique manner, when Jean Rose, assisted by Dorothy Drysdale, Doreen Elliott and Jean Hammond gave an excellent little playlet entitled "Is Temperance a Lost Cause?"

"New Life in Rural Communities" was the subject of study in which every member of the Circle enthusiastically participated. With the aid of the map, some pertinent facts were brought forth in a brief introduction by Connie Wagar and the group was then divided into two sides for an impromptu debate. The subject of argument was "Resolved that the W.M.S. should set aside more missionaries for the work of rural evangelism both in Canada and in the foreign fields." Throughout the debate, appeals were made to the leader for detailed information from the Study Book, and at the conclusion, a vote taken on the question showed the majority favoring increased rural endeavour.

Little Joyce Pitchford delighted the gathering with her two splendid recitations, while a vocal duett "More Like the Master" was sweetly sung by one of the Circle girls and her mother, Marion and Mrs. W. A. Wood.

Dainty refreshments with Valentine touches were served by the hostesses for the evening, Jean Rose, Mrs. E. Kitney and Mrs A. Rosborough.

The March meeting of the Circle which will be featured by an Easter Thank-Offering program, will be held at the home of Mrs. A. Wilson, Westcott street.

CALL DOCTORS FOR DRUNKS.

TORONTO, Feb. 11—(CP).—Magistrate R. J. Browne said to-day in police court doctors should be called to examine any person arrested by police and charged with drunk driving.

Just Between Us Women

A Daily Chat With Examiner Neighbors, Conducted by Roberta

HONEST good humour is the oil and wine of a merry meeting, and there is no jovial companionship equal to that where the jokes are rather small and the laughter abundant.—Washington Irving.

Dear Friends:

Did you ever wake up at night and laugh at something funny that had happened the day before? I did that this morning at 4 a.m. I lay and chuckled for awhile, and then as I recalled it fully, I laughed outright, and what started out to be rather a bleak day, became a day full of laughter.

And so I thought it would not be a bad idea to start every day like that. Let's try it, shall we? Much more fun when a few are doing it, than only one. Never mind altho' you cannot find much to laugh at in your life just now.

Just look back over the years, and think of some of the foolish things you or some of your friends have done, and you will feel your mouth quirking up at the corners, and laughter bubbling out of you.

I'll give you a little starter. Not long ago, last year to be exact, I started to cross the street in a very dignified manner, and when almost across, I stepped on a piece of ice and my feet shot from under me and down I sat. My hat perched over my right eye, my purse flew open and spilled the contents all over the street, and as it is large like a week-end case, there were quite a few things to pick up, and I sat there helpless with laughter.

Gone was all my dignity, and the more I tried to get up, the more I slid, until a man came and helped to orient me again, and he could not speak for laughing. Talk about asking anyone if their face was red, but the more I thought about it the more I laughed.

Of course I could have let old Mr. Embarrassmnt get in and spoil it all, but I kept him out. And the oftener I tell it, the funnier it seems. Now you tell one.

Here is what you find in the Proverbs: "A merry heart maketh a cheerful countenance: but by sorrow of the heart the spirit is broken." Have your way in sorrow. Cry and get it out of your system, but for heaven's sake do not carry it around with you all the time. There are funny things happening around you all the time, and it is good to laugh and forget your troubles.

You know how you welcome those who make you laugh, so let yourself be welcomed in the same way. And when you get into the habit of looking for something funny every day, it is amazing how many causes you find for laughter.

I remember once when our bishop came to see us, he stepped on a small rug which slipped on the polished floor, and after twisting himself almost into a knot, trying to keep upright, down he went, and we laughed all the rest of the afternoon about it, and could hardly eat dinner because he would remind us of the contortions he went through to keep from falling.

And now I feel ever so much better for even talking about these things, just as you feel more blue when you keep thinking about the sorrows you've had.

Of course there is cruel laughter, when we mock someone because they are weak in some thing, but I am sure you would not do that. And there is laughing behind a person's back, than which nothing can be more cruel, but we would not do that either.

But do try when you wake in the morning, to think of some ridiculous thing you may have done, or some joke you have heard, or some time when you lost your dignity as I did mine, and you will be off to a good start for the day, as Cheerio says. (Haven't heard him for a long time as I am usually writing to all of you around that time.)

Stop me if you have heard this one: Macdougal's wife says she can feed him on thirty cents a day," and the other said, "that's a lot of boloney." And he replied, "I'll say!" It's more than he can eat."

And with that I will leave you to think up funny things for yourself. But, keep smiling.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

GUARANTEED RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Common constipation is usually due to meals low in "bulk." Pills and drugs give only temporary relief. The sensible thing to do is to put "bulk" back into your meals.

Millions of people get this needed "bulk" in a delicious cereal: Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Its "bulk" is much like that in leafy vegetables. Within the body, it absorbs moisture, forms a soft mass, gently cleanses the system.

Some years ago, an investigation was made among thousands of ALL-BRAN users. 98 per cent found it satisfactory. Only 2 per cent had the type of constipation that would not respond to ALL-BRAN.

ALL-BRAN is guaranteed. Try it a week. If not satisfactory, your money will be refunded by the Kellogg Company.

Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily, either as cereal or in cooked dishes. ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in London.

Expression Of Sympathy For Bereavement By Former Treasurer

Reference to the passing of Dr. Holloway, husband of Mrs. Holloway, a treasurer for many years of the Women's Auxiliary of St. John's Church, was made at the devotional and business meeting of the society, held on Tuesday in the parish hall, and presided over by Mrs. F. M. Dela Fosse, with devotional services conducted by the Rev. W. P. Robertson. A standing resolution of profound sympathy was observed.

Preparations are under way for a Hostess tea to be held after Lent, at the time the Dorcas bale is shown. In the meantime the band of sewing members, convened by Mrs. G. Groombridge, is achieving fine results in making quilts, clothes and woollen garments.

The monthly talk on the study book, "Consider Africa," was continued, and the meeting closed with a cup of tea served by members of the Refreshment committee.

Mrs. Simpson Crack Costly To Comedian

London, Feb. 11 (UP)

JOHN Rorke, veteran comedian, today was suspended from all British broadcasting studios until March 17 for ad libbing "Yes, Mrs. Simpson," at the end of a radio ditty about sex appeal.

The punishment was announced by the British Broadcasting Company, which apologized profusely at the conclusion of a Tuesday-night comedy program, when the "slip of the tongue," as Rorke described it, shocked millions of listeners.

Rorke said he intended to say, "Yes, Mrs. Gibson"—an imaginary character familiar to British music-hall devotees—but that the name of the woman for whom King Edward VIII gave up his throne, just "popped out."

Fashion Service

Would you believe it?

You can use this pattern for a house coat, evening coat or a beach coat. It depends entirely upon the fabric you select. This slenderizing princess model is cleverly styled to add height to your figure. The sleeves puff up to make the wrist seem slimmer.

As a house coat, warm flannel in bright shade is very smart as well as practical. For relaxing in the luxurious manner, make it of glamorous satin crepe. Then again, it's simply adorable and so young looking in a gay cotton challis print.

For a beach coat, choose a tyrolean cotton print or plain bright linen or terry cloth.

Upholstery fabrics, velvet, heavy faille taffeta, etc., are stunning for evenings.

You'll find the illustrated dressmaking chart included in the pattern a marvellous time saver. It shows every step in the making.

Style No. 2875 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46-inches bust. Size 36 requires 6⅝ yards of 39-inch material.

RAILWAY BALLOTS ON WAY TO MEN

Leaders Reported Standing Pat On Refusal To Accept MacLean Report

MONTREAL, Feb. 11—(C.P.).—Their plans enveloped in silence, union leaders of 117,000 Canadian railwaymen went ahead to-day with their ballot to determine whether the men want a general strike to enforce their wage increase demands.

Though there was no official announcement on whether the ballot was beyond the stage of plans, a source close to the deliberations of the union chiefs said most of the 117,000 white slips already were in the mails, on the way to the men from coast to coast.

Pending their return and the count, it was understood the leaders were standing pat on their refusal to accept the Maclean Conciliation Board's majority report, which recommended three per cent wage cut restoration over a period of months. A union officer said last night they would make no overtures to the railways.

If the railways made the first move, this source declared, the unions would meet them. Otherwise, they would wait until results of the balloting were in.

Howard W. Chase, chairman of a three-day meeting of union delegates from all over Canada that closed yesterday, said a vote in favor of a strike would be regarded as a virtual mandate to the officials, though not necessarily binding.

Chase had previously expressed belief 98 per cent. of the rank and file would vote for the strike. He and other leaders believe a walk-out would completely paralyze rail transport in the Dominion.

THE SHOW WENT ON.

AFRICA IS TOPIC OF W.M.S. MEETING

St. James' Church Society Hears Interesting Paper On Dark Continent

With the president, Mrs. F. B. Elliott, in the chair St. James' W.M.S. February meeting was held on Tuesday afternoon. The two chief features of the business session were the plans for the Day of Prayer to be held in Trinity Church on Friday, and the annual mother and daughter banquet. The report of the Presbyterial meeting was read by Mrs. G. H. Rowe, one of the delegates, Mrs. M. H. Drysdale took over the remainder of the meeting. A brief period of devotion followed, in which Mrs. Drysdale and Mrs. Jones read the Scripture lessons and all joined in singing "In the Cross." The study for the day was Africa, and was taken by Miss Margaret Kidd. She told of the Africa of both yesterday and to-day, with a resume of the vast progress in missionary work which has been made during these years. A paper on Africa was presented by Mrs. E. J. Wagar and Miss M. Deyell, Prayer, offered by Mrs. W. H. Buckler, completed the study; and the solo, "My Task," sung with fine effect by Mrs. G. R. Butcher, fitted perfectly into the spirit of the meeting. A little reading, "Black and White," by Mrs. Drysdale, further told of the work in Africa, and the meeting closed with the hymn, "O Love, that will not let me go," and the Mizpah benediction. Letters were read from absent members, and thanks expressed for kindness shown while in hospital. One new member was enrolled.

SAYS DEPARTMENT IS IN SAD STATE

Dr. Harold Welsh, M.P.P., Addresses Social Of Rawdon Conservatives

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BONARLAW, Feb. 11.—The Rawdon Township Conservative Association social evening held in the Orange Hall at Springbrook on Tuesday of this week was a splendid success, the hall being filled to capacity.

President W. J. Tanner acted as chairman and filled the office very capably. On the platform with him were Vice-President V. Richardson, Dr. Harold Welsh, M.P.P., Guest Speaker, Canon W. G. Swayne, Reeve Geo. E. Thompson, Deputy-Reeve Bert Bedford and Councillors John Morrison and Mark Shortt.

Dr. Welsh gave a splendid address concerning the school question, education, hydro, finances, department of health, etc. In introducing the doctor, Canon Swayne referred to him as the next Minister of Health in the new Conservative cabinet. Doctor Welsh modestly disclaimed all such aspirations but admitted his intense interest in this department and deplored the fact that it was in a sad state at the present time.

Reeve G. E. Thompson moved a hearty vote of thanks to Dr. Welsh which received the enthusiastic support of those present. Deputy Bert Bedford also spoke briefly and to the point.

A program was given consisting of readings by Mrs. Hayton and Mr. Chas. Dracup and vocal solos by Mr. Reg. Haggerty accompanied by Mrs. Haggerty, and Mr. J. F. Baker accompanied by Mrs. W. G. Swayne, after which lunch was served in the basement. Dancing was then enjoyed until a late hour. Music was furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Haggerty and Mr. Hagerman.

CAR IS WRECKED IN TWEED SMASH

Mrs. A. Montgomery Is Injured As Machine Is Ditched On Icy Rock Cut

TWEED, Feb. 11.— The slippery condition of the roads and the too sudden application of the brakes, caused a motor car driven by Mr. Arnold Montgomery, of R.R. No. 1, Tweed, to leave the road and crash into the side of a rock cut on Highway No. 37, just north of the village of Actinolite, as he was driving to Madoc to view a hockey game.

The car was badly damaged by the impact, one side being almost torn off, and the front of the car being partly telescoped. Accompanying the driver were his wife who suffered minor bruises and lacerations and another passenger, who was unhurt. The car was owned by Mr. Stanley Tufts of Tweed, a brother of Mrs. Montgomery. MASSEY PRESSES HOUSE FOR ACTION for consideration in third reading of the Home Improvement Loan measure and second reading of the bill introduced by Hon. J. G. Gardiner, minister of agriculture to provide for continued operation of the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act.

119 Homes Built.

Up to the end of January 1, 119 family units had been built under the Housing Act, said Finance Minister Dunning, at a total cost of $5,376,000. While at first the tendency had been to use the act only for the construction of more expensive houses, the building of lower-cost homes had been encouraged and the average cost of all houses built had come down.

Plans had recently been approved for a house costing $2,700 which was definitely in the low price class and which an owner could finance for $14.12 per month.

The great obstacles to the provisions of low cost houses were high taxation on real estate and the constitutional control over housing vested in the Provincial governments. Many persons who had the $5,000 necessary to build a low-cost home under the Act would hesitate to spend it when taxes were high and when, in the event of unemployment, they might lose the house for taxes.

All members who spoke were agreed on the need of improving the housing condition of the Canadian people. Miss Agnes Macphail (U.F.O., Grey-Bruce) told of Swedish schemes she had studied last summer.

All Should Own Homes.

J. V. Mallette (Lib., Jacques-Cartier) said he believed every citizen of Canada should own his own home and a decent home.

The Housing Act helped the well-to-do people to build houses and the Home Improvement Act helped people who already had houses to improve them. There was nothing, however, to assist the poor person who had no house to obtain one.

Since Confederation all laws respecting homes and home building had been provincial or municipal laws, said Finance Minister Dunning.

"We may as well face that fact," he added. "We have been put in our place recently by a very high authority (the Privy Council) with respect to our powers."

Power of the Federal Government had been largely limited to providing the money belonging to all the people to be spent for the benefit of a part of the population.

The Dominion Housing Act initiated by the last administration had been in operation something over a year. The average cost of houses built so far was around $4,800. The Act had not proved as popular as had been expected, but, Mr. Dunning thought, it provided the framework into which could be fitted many useful housing schemes.

Some Balk at Risks.

But it was impossible to compel lending companies to lend, Mr. Dunning said, and difficulty had arisen because in some sections lending institutions would not take risk on proposed housing plans.

Amendments had been made to the Act to facilitate loans and encourage the building of lower priced homes.

Lending institutions had co-operated generally, particularly the great life assurance companies, Mr. Dunning said, but the best co-operation had come from local financial companies.

The model $2,700 house would have living-room, kitchen, bathroom, three bedrooms, full basement and central heat. It would be well insulated and well constructed.

The Department had been criticized for making the specifications too rigid, Mr. Dunning said, but it was not the policy of the Government to assist in building "new slums."

Hon. J. Earl Lawson (Cons., York South) asked the Minister if there would be any question of jurisdiction, if the Federal Government built 100 residential homes in any given locality in Canada.

Mr. Dunning replied that the project would be subject to provincial law.

The Federal Treasury could contribute or spend the people's money on housing projects without violating the constitution, but he was growing more and more to believe that when the Government disbursed public funds it should have some control over the manner in which they were spent. This, he added, was true particularly of the old-age pensions of which 75 per cent. are paid by the Dominion by agreement with the provinces, but over which the provinces exercise exclusive control.

BAILIEBORO

FEARS EXPRESSED FOR FALL WHEAT

Fields Are In Very Bad Condition As Result Of Ice

BAILIEBORO, Feb. 11.—Monday night's heavy rainfall left the surrounding country and township roads covered with a heavy coating of glare ice. The rain, which was considered the heaviest of the season, brought the creeks in the district to a new high level and besides washing culverts and roads out, left the roads in a very dangerous condition for traffic. The fields are in a very bad condition and it is feared that fall wheat and grass seeds may suffer as a result of ice.

Farmers of the community are having a difficult time with their livestock. Many report cattle and horses suffering severe falls on ice while going for water from the barns.

Highway 28, however, is in very fair condition. The sugary snow was plowed off the surface before the rain and the traffic kept ice from forming on the surface. Village streets are in a treacherous condition for pedestrians.

FIRE CHIEF'S CAR FIGURES IN JAM

Charlie Davidson Finds The More Hurry The Less Speed

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 11. — If Fire Chief Charlie Davidson was late for the fire which broke out in the Wellington Greene residence at five o'clock yesterday afternoon it wasn't because he didn't try to get there in a hurry. Jumping in his car at the sound of the bell he backed across the street from the garage and failed to see L. A. Burbank who arrived there at the same time. The side of his car was crashed in the collision by zealous firemen. The chief took a couple of minutes to explain and then rushed on to the fire which developed into a case of over-heated pipes thus leaving the Burbank car the only damage caused by the fire.

Policemen Find Car Can't Do 45

DANVILLE—W. D. Hasty, arrested for speeding, said a governor prevented it from going 45 miles an hour, as charged. The judge sent the two arresting policemen out to test the automobile. "Thirty-six was the best we could do," they reported. Hasty was hastily freed.

NURSING SERVICE FOR THE HOMES BEING PLANNED

Board Of Health Will Employ One Public Health Nurse In City

STRIKE ESTIMATES

A first step toward combatting Peterborough's increasing infant mortality and maternal death rate was taken by the Board of Health when provision was made for institution of a home nursing service in the city, at a special meeting Wednesday night. As estimates for the year were drawn up, $1,500 was allowed for employment of a public nurse.

Total estimate of the Board was $10,000 as compared with $9,704.20 in 1936. The additional expense of employment of a Board of Health nurse was saved by sharp reduction of the estimate for operation of the Queen Mary Isolation Hospital.

Operation of the hospital during the year was reckoned at a new low figure of $2,000 as a result of the policy of opening its doors only as the occasions require. In 1936, $5,000 was set aside for this purpose.

Two proposals were made by Medical Officer of Health Dr. G. Murray Fraser as the matter of a public health nursing service came up for discussion. Dr. Fraser urged that the increasingly serious health situation in the city demanded either that the Peterborough Health Association be given a larger grant for its work or that the Board establish its home nursing service.

Given Grant of $1,000

The Health Association now receives a grant of $1,000 a year and employs one public nurse at present serving the city in general, it was pointed out. A substantial increase in the grant would permit the association to bring to the city possibly two Victorian Order nurses and thus cover the city's needs more adequately than is at present possible, Dr. Fraser said.

The setting up a nursing service directly under the jurisdiction of the Board of Health was the only alternative, he continued. To meet health needs of the city adequately, five nurses would be needed, he said.

Members voiced the opinion that such organizations as the Health Association should be given every encouragement but agreed that, if a start is to be made on a regular nursing service, the service should be directly in charge of the M.O.H.

May Take Advantage

Objection to the cost of institution of the service was voiced by Alderman McIntyre. "Citizens who can afford to pay for their own nursing will be taking advantage of this," he said. "We've got to think of the taxpayer."

"Most of the nursing will be done in the homes of those who cannot pay," Mayor Macdonald said.

"You can buy health for the community but it costs money," Dr. Fraser reminded. "We are already spending $12,000 a year and getting nothing for it." He was referring to the annual bill of $12,000 for Peterborough patients in tuberculosis sanitaria elsewhere in the province. That this $12,000 bill can be substantially reduced over a period of time by an adequate nursing service in the city, was suggested.

Alderman McIntyre urged strongly that nurses employed be selected from within this city, despite the report of Dr. Fraser that there are no fully qualified health nurses available in the city and that employment of regularly-trained bedside nurses would be a waste of the city's money. Public health nurses must be specifically trained for the work, he said.

Members compromised by agreement that a local nurse could be employed for the first year. The opportunity for employment in later years might, in the meantime, serve as an inducement for one or more local nurses to take the post-graduate training for qualification as public health nurses, it was suggested.

MAGISTRATE'S COURT

Thomas Doggert, described as a transient pleaded guilty to an intoxication charge before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., this (Thursday) morning and was fined $10 and $4.50 costs with the option of ten-days imprisonment. The defendant who apeared with his right arm in a sling, was stated by Inspector James F. Reid to have been "drunk as the dickens." He went into a George street restaurant and swore at the proprietress and patrons when refused money, the officer declared. In answer to a query from the Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., who was in court as counsel in another case, Doggert admitted he got liquor from the wineshop.

The accused who sobbed bitterly in the dock while Harold Massey, Toronto barrister pleaded on his behalf was further remanded for sentence until Friday morning. Kerr, K.C., said, "I look upon stealing from an employer as a most serious offence. It is a betrayal of confidence. TRAVELOGUE GIVEN IN TRINITY CHURCH

Coronation Year in Old Country Is Subject Of Musical Show

George VI. will be crowned just prior to the one hundredth anniversary of his august great-grandmother, Queen Victoria's accession to the throne, June 20, 1837, Walter L. Payne of Montreal reminded his audience during the presentation at Trinity United Church on Wednesday evening of a musical travelogue "Coronation Year in the Old Country."

Motion pictures were screened by Mr. Payne to artistic musical accompaniments by Harold Eustace Key, conductor of the Mendelssohn Choir of Montreal. The pictures included a novel map of the British Isles, Royal proclamation scenes, hunting, sheep dog trials, the embarkation of the Vimy pilgrims for France, a trip through London, and a very beautiful picture called "Somerset Idyll.'"

Arrangements for the presentation were made through J. H. Skinner, local agent for the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, and over 300 people were present. The program was interspersed with songs representing England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales, and closed with the National Anthem.

What might be termed a "Royal route" was followed in pictures, showing many Royal residences past and present throughout the British Isles, commencing with Carisbrooke Castle where Charles I. was a prisoner when he made the observation "We bless God we have those inward refreshments the malice of our enemies cannot pertur'b."

Two hundred years later Queen Victoria came from her nearby residence Osborne House to Carisbrooke Castle one day, and observing the neglected condition of the grave of Elizabeth, daughter of Charles I., caused a tablet to be erected to her memory.

The round Tower of Windsor Castle was built to accommodate the fraternity of Knights on equal footing. The men who built St. George's Chapel, Windsor, were paid 26 cents per day. Many English Kings and Queens are buried in St. George's, among them the much married Henry VIII. and the headless body of Charles I.—a fact which was noted by Lord Byron as follows: "Famed for contempt of sacred ties by headless Charles see heartless Henry lies."

The magnificent Hampton Court on the banks of the River Thames was built by Cardinal Wolsey, who unwillingly had to "present" it to his sovereign Lord King Henry VIII. —the Palace has 1,000 rooms.

Balmoral Castle, the Scottish home of the Royal Family, came into being through the ever-growing attachment of Queen Victoria and Prince Albert to life in the Highlands.

So thoroughly did the Queen enter into Scottish life that she is said to have designed a special Royal tartan for covering the chairs and sofas in the Castle.

These and many other items of interest were imparted by Mr. Payne as the still views were shown, which also covered pictures of former Coronations, the activities of the present King and Queen and their family.

CUTTER IS STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE

Vehicle Is Demolished But Driver Escapes With Minor Injury

Pitched from his horse-drawn cutter when it was struck from behind by an automobile opposite Canada Packers plant on Wednesday evening, Charles Cromie of North Monaghan escaped with minor injuries to his legs, and abrasions to his nose and forehead. An X-ray examination at St. Joseph's Hospital revealed that Cromie suffered no fractures, and after being detained there for a brief period he was permitted to go home. Dr. C. M. Scott attended.

As a result of the impact the cutter, which was proceeding south on George Street at the time of the accident, was damaged beyond repair. The car involved, which is alleged to be owned by Bruce Curtis, 38, of Havelock, had broken headlights and damages to the left running board and fender. Charles Harris of George Street released the horse from the shafts of the badly damaged cutter and stabled it at the Montgomery House.

Arraigned before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., this (Thursday) morning, Curtis was remanded until Wednesday next on a charge of drunk-driving. Represented by the Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., he did not plead to the charge. Bail was granted in the sum of $500.

Mr. Curtis was accompanied in the car by Mrs. George Davidson and Walter Davis, of Havelock. They were returning home after having been to the Clinic here, it was learned, when the accident happened.

For Friday, February 12

ACCORDING to the lunar and mutual aspects bearing on the affairs of this day, there may be sudden events, possibly of a surprising or intriguing nature. These may call for abrupt decisions, with removals, changed plans and entirely new connections. Managed with sagacity, these events should prove beneficial, particularly to the private life and its interests. In this connection there are signs of some peculiar or mysterious condition or experience.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of sudden, precipitate and probably unforeseen and intriguing events, which may affect the business as well as private affairs. Change, removal and travel seem imminent. In personal affiliations, peculiar circumstances or adventure may arise, affecting the emotions or spiritual impulses.

A child born on this day may have sensitive, peculiar or emotional nature, with singular leanings. It may be talented in original or unusual channels.

HIGHER SCHEDULE IS BEING FORECAST

on the present market, but it seems to me that some of the advances can hardly be justified." Mr. Saunders said. "Grant the shortage of wool which would bring about higher prices, but other lines move in sympathy. It is not easy to understand why rayons should also advance. The primary trade has been so long depressed, and have been forced by competition to keep salaries and wages down, that they seem eager to take an advantage of a rising trend. What might be called a legitimate increase is accentuated to get a slice of extra money. That may be a secondary influence in the present situation.

We have had several of these surges during the last seven years, but they have been quickly checked by opposite conditions. New substitutes may come into the market, and of course there is eventually the corrective of competition. But, at present the retailer has a new tangle of worries to watch the market, guage his stocks and consider the buying power of the public.

Local Competition Keen.

In regard to competition in the retail trade Peterborough has always been something of an exception. Consumers may not realize it, but there is keen competition in this city. For instance, a woman who comes to Stoney Lake from west of Toronto places a large order with us every summer, and the significance of that is that she drives through Toronto to buy at Peterborough prices."

The retailer has to adjust his purchasing in an effort to maintain prices to which the public is accustomed. Manufacturers, wholesalers and consumers have been buying only according to their needs, and the result at the base of this pyramid that the effect of increases in the price of raw materials is more quickly felt in the wholesale and retail channels and transferred to them. If public demand were to develop volume during the present season, the problem of the retailer will naturally be sharpened. At the other end, representatives of manufacturers declare that retailers can't go wrong for at least twelve months by placing orders now. They believe that the present movement will be felt for a year at the very shortest time, and it may extend beyond that period.

The Rambling REPORTERS

SKI JUMP INSURED.

It is a sad commentary on the deal the weatherman gave Peterborough ski enthusiasts this winter but the fact is the Peterborough Winter Sports Committee has deemed it wise to insure the new ski jump at Nassau against fire.

As there has not yet been enough snow to put the jump into service, can it be that the committee members are trying to shame the weatherman into providing a bit of snow?. Possibly they fear some over-enthusiastic jumper will burn up the jump by trying a run down the bare boards.—C.P.K.

JAMES ADDISON MORROW

(Examiner Correspondence.)

NORHAM, Feb. 11.—The funeral of James Addison Morrow, one of the pioneer residents of the district was held at the home on Sunday and was largely attended. Mr. Morrow died on February 5th at the age of 87 years. He had been in failing health for some years. Left to mourn his death are his wife (formerly Minnie Langfood), his only son Alton and six grandchildren. Two nieces, Marguerite and Doris Nelson, who have lived at the Morrow home for some years will also sadly miss their beloved relative. Always a kindly neighbour, his passing will leave a void in the community where he lived since early manhood.

The funeral service was in charge of Rev. M. L. Hinton of Castleton who chose as his text the shortest verse in the bible "Jesus Wept." With quiet organ music, the old hymns "Rock of Ages" and "Nearer My God to Thee" were sung.

Pallbearers were Messrs Conrad Plumton, Harry Hutchinson, Raymond McNutt, Percy Moore, Ernest Davidson and Charles Puffer. The remains were taken to Hilton cemetery for interment in the family plot.

ELEANOR JANE ANN GRANDY.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Feb. 11. — Death has claimed another of this village's older and most highly respected citizens in the person of Eleanor Jane Ann Grandy. Her sudden passing occurred at her home, Anne Street, following an illness of less than three days' duration.

Born at Coboconk, deceased was the eldest daughter of the late Thomas Grandy and Annie Cathcart, and was the only remaining member of a family of seven. Four sisters, Misses Adelaide, Mary Hannah, Laura, and Mildred Grandy predeceased her, as also did three brothers, Stanley, John and William.

At an early age the deceased moved with the family to a farm on the 9th Line of Cavan, and has since resided in and around Millbrook, having been a village resident for at least fifty years, a greater portion of that time having been spent on Anne Street.

A member of St. Thomas' Anglican Church, Miss Grandy was one of its most faithful helpers, and was especially interested in Sunday School work, having presided as one of its class teachers for more than forty years. A member also of the local branch of the Women's Institute where for a number of years she officiated as president and treasurer, deceased gave support to many community activities.

The funeral, held from her late residence, Anne Street, was largely attended and conducted by Venerable Archdeacon Sumpson, rector of Cavan parish and Rural Dean Spencer of Bowmanville.

Floral tributes were many and beautiful. Pall-bearers were W. H. Coombe, P. I. Bentley, A. A. Needler, John Cathcart, Cavan, Orville Young, Smith, and Robert Grandy, Brooklyn.

Interment was made in the family burial plot at 9th Line Cemetery, Cavan.

PUBLIC PRESSURE MAY FORCE FRANCE TO ACT IN SPAIN

Grows Incensed At Reports Of Further Italian, German Troop Shipments

FRET AT HANDS-OFF DELAY

PARIS, Feb. 11 (AP).—France renewed her threats today to intervene in the Spanish Civil War on behalf of the faltering Republican government unless Germany and Italy halt their aid to the insurgents.

Reports of recent landings of 12,000 Italian troops at Cadiz and foreign support in the capture of Malaga stimulated evident impatience in government quarters over delay of the non-intervention committee in action to isolate the civil conflict.

Socialist Deputy Joseph Rous declared he would raise the matter in the Chamber of Deputies today and ask the Government what were the real prospects for halting all foreign aid from either side in the more than seven-months-old Peninsula conflict.

That the Government was taking a serious point of view was indicated by Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos' promise to reply to Rous' question. A general meeting of the Council of Ministers to deal with the new situation and the consequences of the parliamentary debate — was called for Saturday morning.

Premier Blum's newspaper Le Populaire issued a warning to Germany and Italy that French popular opinion might force the government to take a hand on the side of the Socialist government.

"There is no doubt," the paper declared, "that if Italy and the Reich do not cease their sabotage immediately and if international control is not established an irresistible movement of democratic opinion in this country will oblige the government to review its decision and resume liberty of action with regard to Spain."

Court cleared its docket each year and the second was an "almost obvious absurdity."

Meanwhile Congress tackled the question. Yesterday the Lower House approved the first part of the project, a bill to give retiring supreme court justices full pay for life—"an acknowledged enticement to elderly Conservative justices to retire," the Republican New York Herald Tribune called it. The vote was 315 to 75.

And throughout the country State Legislatures considered resolutions that would place them on record as approving or opposing the plan.

Kansas and New Hampshire Legislatures disapproved the re-organization. Ohio and Indiana approved it by defeating moves to align them with its opponents. Pennsylvania quelled a Republican effort to criticize the President.

THREE PATHS OPEN POWER PURCHASE DEAL BY ONTARIO

Hepburn Refuses Statement For Fear Of Affect On Stock Markets

THREE-HOUR SESSION

TORONTO, Feb. 11 (CP)—Ontario cabinet today is expected to decide on one or three courses of action in connection with negotiations between the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission and the Ottawa Valley Power Company.

The cabinet's three choices were understood to be:

Purchase by the commission of power from the Ottawa Valley Company.

Purchase of the Ottawa valley's plant at Chats Falls of which the commission is already half-owner.

Abandonment of negotiations.

Premier Mitchell Hepburn and the Power Commission talked together for three hours yesterday. At conclusion of this conference the premier said he would make no statement because of the fear it might affect the stock market.

Should either of the first two choices be approved by cabinet, a condition will be Ottawa Valley's abandonment of judgments obtained against the commission for non-fulfillment of a contract for 96,000 horsepower, for purchase of which the commission contracted with the Ottawa Valley Company.

Ontario declared the contract null and void under authority of a statute passed early in 1935. The legislation was held ultra vires and Ottawa Valley obtained judgment for more than $1,500,000. Ontario's appeal to the Privy Council against this judgment has been scheduled for hearing late this month.

PUBLIC LIBRARY AT CAMPBELLFORD WELL PATRONIZED

Annual Report Shows Near Half Town's Population Are Borrowers

OFFICERS ELECTED

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 11— The annual report of the Public Library was given at a meeting of the Board, held in the Library on Tuesday evening. The librarian's report showed that in the year 1936 there was again noted a change in the character of reading which showed a steady decline of the amount of fiction reading and a corresponding increase in the amount of non-fiction reading. Another year has accentuated this transition which received comment in the report of last year. Another change, which is perhaps more marked than the type of reading, comes from the inside, "the change from closed shelves to open shelves—storage methods have been replaced by display methods."

"The tendency to decrease is consistent throughout America and England—but while fiction reading declines, non-fiction reading has increased.

The circulation for the year 1936 totalled 30,461, which is practically the same as that of 1935, which it would have exceeded had it not been for the enforced closing of the library during the month of July.

The circulation figures for the year show not only the increase in non-fiction reading, but also that biography, history, travel, literature followed fiction which was in the lead for circulation. Religious and fine arts books showed a sharp increase and have doubled in circulation in the past year. Approximately 11 books per person circulated in Campbellford during the year which indicates that each book would have circulated an average of five times during the year. Five hundred and seventeen new books were added and 87 were discarded during the year.

Borrowers Number 1,279.

The number of borrowers on the register is 1,279, which is almost half the population of the town. There were 104 new members added and 45 withdrawn during the year. Out-of-town members paid $36.00 in fees, while fines and sale of cards amounted to $33.50, rent $18.00, sale of magazines $4.50, totalling $142.00.

The librarian's report continued: "We find the reference room is becoming better known and is reaching more and more each year as new material is constantly being added as the fine new shelves make more room for books.

"More children are taking an interest in books and some of the teachers are assisting in this work. The problem we all have to work out is the technique of working with the 'teen-age, by making books more attractive, making suggestions without "good intent" being apparent to the youngster emerging from juvenile to adult shelves."

Financial Statement.

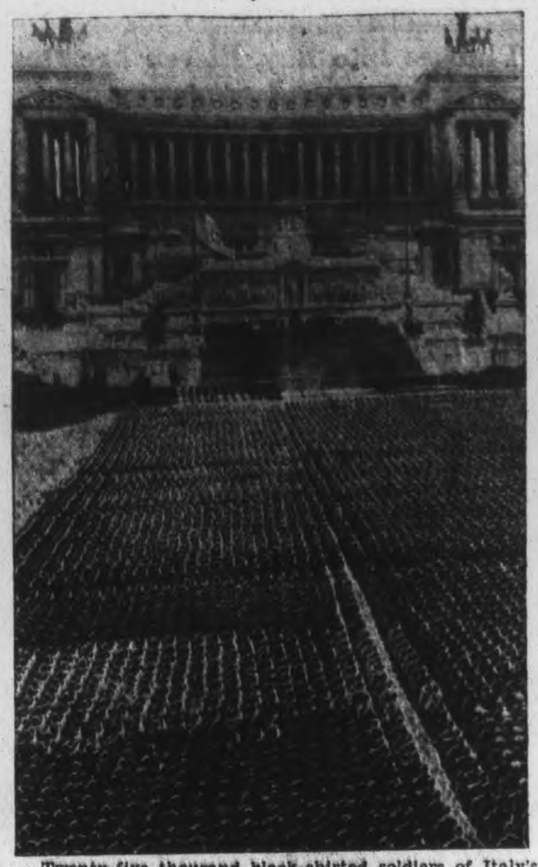
The annual financial statement followed:

Books—Adult, $181.06; Juvenile, $104.34; Fiction, $270.56; Periodicals, $79.03; Binding and book repairs, $16.08; New equipment, $23.00; Repairs to building, $44.20; Fuel, $177.26; Salaries, librarian $600.00, assistant $20.00, janitor $156.60; stationery supplies, $36.67; Sundry expenses, $34.27; total, $1,740.49.

Receipts—Balance from 1935, $1.82; from Town of Campbellford, $1,300.00; Legislative grant, 1936, $200.63; Membership fees, $36.00; Fines, lost and damaged books, $83.50; from sales of periodicals, $4.50; Rent Council Chambers, $18.00; Rent County Court, $88.00; Deficit, 1936, $8.04; total, $1,740.49.

The officers for the year 1937 are: H. Townsend, chairman; Eli Brunelle, treasurer; Earl Greig, secretary. The other members of the Board are: Messrs. R. Weston, A. T. Linton, Dr. O. C. Watson, Rev. B. Simpson Black, and Rev. Father McAuley. Miss Lillian Benor is the librarain.

Black-Shirt Army Publicly Thanked



Twenty-five thousand black-shirted soldiers of Italy's army of invasion are massed before the tomb of the unknown soldier at Rome, Italy, on the occasion of the 15th anniversary of the founding of the blackshirt militia. At the ceremonies, King Victor Emmanuel thanked them for "presenting Italy with an empire". Il Duce Mussolini reviewed the troops and decorated relatives of soldiers who died in the African campaign.

A campaign has been started in Syria to modify the laws which deal harshly with debtors, who are experiencing unusually trying times economically just now.

BRITISH INDUSTRY EXPANDS ITS SHOW

Italy Among Exhibitors This Year But Spain Not In List

LONDON, Feb. 11 (CP) — Among other great institutions of the Empire out to break their own records this Coronation year is the British Industries Fair, to be held in London and Birmingham February 15-26. Last year's record area is to be exceeded by 10,000 feet and 11 sections are larger than 12 months back.

Buyers from more than 60 countries are expected to visit the fair. As regards Empire buyers, the Irish Free State again takes the lead, while next in order are India, Canada, South Africa and Australia. Holland is sending the greatest number. Italy—a notable absentee last year—is to be well represented, and other countries sending large delegations include Germany, Belgium, France, Denmark, United States, Sweden and Poland. There will be no buyers from Spain — a country which showed much interest last year.

NEW ARISTOCRACY OF STALIN REGIME DOOMED – TROTZKY

6,000 Cohorts In New York Disappointed As 'Phone Broadcast From Mexico Fails

DENIES PART IN PLOTS

NEW YORK, Feb. 11—(A.P.) — Failure of efforts to bring Leon Trotsky's voice by telephone from Mexico City sent some 6,000 of his supporters home in disappointment early to-day, forced to be content with a reading of a fiery address the Russian exile air-mailed in advance.

The former Soviet Commissar of War sweepingly denounced the Kremlin in his prepared speech and dramatically offered to surrender to Soviet executioners if an impartial commission found him guilty of crimes imputed to him by Moscow courts.

He predicted inevitable doom for the "New Aristocracy" of the Stalin regime, and reiterated his innocence of what he called "absurd" and "frightful" conspiracies attributed to him in the recent trial of 17 Russians, 13 of whom were executed.

Mach Schachtman, Trotzy's personal representative in America, read the message after the crowd had waited patiently while efforts were being made to contact the Bolshevik exile in Mexico City and at his suburban retreat there.

Trouble in Mexico

Only confused sounds came from the amplifiers in the Hippodrome when Trotky was to begin speaking.

Telephone company officials here said they knew only that there were difficulties on the line south of the Mexican border.

From Mexico City came word Trotzky had slipped from the villa of Mrs. Diego Rivera, in Coyocan, under police escort just before he was to speak to New York.

Long distance departments of Mexico's two telephone companies said they expected Trotzky to use their facilities, but that all efforts to locate him—spurred by urgent calls from New York—had been futile.

At the villa, it was said Trotzy had gone to Mexico City to speak from the central office after it was discovered at the last moment the telephone he intended using was defective.

Harold Isaacs, a member of the Trotzky defence committee, which sponsored the meeting, attributed failure of arrangements to "technical difficulties."

REPORTS ARE READ

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 11—The annual congregational meeting of Lakefield United Church, Lakefield, was held in the Sunday School room on Tuesday evening, with Rev. G. F. Kelly pastor, presiding.

Mr. George Spence was appointed secretary for the evening in the absence of the secretary, A. E. Higgins, who is ill. Mrs. Higgins read the minutes of the last congregational meeting, minutes of a special meeting, and recommendations from the Official Board of the Church. On motion of Messrs. A. Darling and George Harrison, the minutes were adopted as read.

Roy Bullock, treasurer, gave the treasurer's report, showing a deficit of $162 in the current expense fund. Discussion regarding the deficit, ensued, with the result that $107 was subscribed towards meeting this deficit. On motion of Roy Bullock and C. S. Tanner, the report was adopted.

A report of the Missionary and Maintenance Fund was read by Mrs. J. A. Porter, in the absence of J. A. Porter, Missionary and Maintenance treasurer. The report was adopted on motion of Mrs. Porter and L. Harrison.

Miss Zelma Darling gave the report of the Sunday School, which was adopted on motion of Miss Darling and Elmer Northey.

Women's Association

The report of the Women's Association was given by Mrs. A. E. Higgins. On motion of Mrs. Higgins and J. H. Sherin, the report was adopted.

A report of the Women's Missionary Society was read by Mrs. G. E. Renwick. It was adopted on motion of Mrs. Renwick and Miss M. Sanderson.

The Mission Circle report was read by Miss Helen Burgess. On motion of Miss Burgess, seconded by Mrs. W. J. Charlton, the report was adopted.

Mrs. R. Bullock presented the Mission Band report. It was adopted on motion by Mrs. Bullock and George Mullen.

The report of the choir was given by Miss Eva Hendren. On motion of Miss Hendren and Mr. J. H. Sherin, this report was adopted.

Mr. Andrew J. Young gave a report of the Board of Session. This report was carried on motion of Mr. Young and Albert Darling.

Mrs. Porter gave a report of the Parsonage fund, stating that it stood about the same as last year with the addition of interest.

Vote of Appreciation

It was moved by Mr. Yale, and seconded by Mr. L. Harrison, that the church as an organization give a vote of appreciation to all those who have assisted in the work of the church during the past year. Carried.

A report of the Young People's Union was given by Miss Zelma Darling. On motion of Miss Darling and Mrs. Hull, this report was adopted.

The election of officers then took place. Sherman Northey was elected to fill the vacancy on the Board of Elders, left by A. B. Burrows, who has transferred his membership to George Street Church, Peterborough. The election is for a term of two years.

A. E. Higgins, G. H. Spence and T. T. Milburn were re-elected to the Board of Elders for a term of five years.

Archie Carveth was elected to the Board of Stewards to fill the vacancy left by A. B. Burrows. His term expires in two years.

E. J. Millage, J. Reid, F. J. Burgess and W. J. Charlton were re-elected to the Board of Stewards for a term of five years.

Robert Spence was appointed Captain of Ushers, with responsibility of choosing and training the church ushers.

George Spence and J. H. Sherin were appointed auditors to audit the 1936 books and to remain in office to audit the 1937 books before the next annual meeting.

The Financial Report

It was moved that sufficient copies of the financial report be made so that each family would receive a copy, and that the printing or mimeographing of the report be left in charge of W. Madill and Roy Bullock. Carried.

The recommendation from the Official Board that the church year end on December 31 instead of January 31, as it now does, was adopted on motion by A. Young and W. A. Payne.

Regarding a recommendation from the Official Board that envelope contributions be opened and recorded after each service, and that the treasurer be assisted in the task by another person or persons, was accepted on motion of Messrs Harrison and Yale, and the matter was referred to the Board of Stewards.

The chairman expressed regret that such a large number of church members were ill and unable to attend the meeting. A motion was made that Mr. Davis and Mr. Northey, who are ill in hospital at Peterborough should be sent letters of sympathy, and hope for a speedy recovery.

Parsonage Committee

Rev. G. F. Kelly gave a report of the Parsonage committee which has been appointed to take charge of arrangements for the new parsonage which the church is planning to build on the site of the present parsonage as soon as arrangements are complete and weather conditions permit. The parsonage fund—the sum of approximately $2,300—was the proceeds from the sale of the Knox Church property and was set aside at the time of sale to be used either to buy or build a new parsonage for the Lakefield United Church. At a special meeting held in the Fall, it was decided that the present parsonage should be torn down and a new one built on the site, which is adjacent to the church. Mr. Kelly reported that amounts of $800 over and above the original $2,300 had been subscribed towards the project, since the subscription list was opened. He recalled the situation in 1906-09 when the church was built and $11,000 was raised, and felt sure the church would have no difficulty in raising the required amount of $3,000. The Parsonage committee has decided to have subscriptions payable in four payments over a period of two years.

Rev. Mr. Kelly then gave a report of his work since his arrival in Lakefield last summer. He said he had a postorate composed of 238 families or about 800 persons. He had made a number of calls since his arrival, and plans to call twice each year on each family in his charge except in case of sickness, when his calls will be more frequent. He said he had attended 84 meetings in the six months since he came to Lakefield.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Southern China is to have an airline from Kwangsi Province to Yunnanful, 400 miles.

POTATOES FIRST SPINACH SECOND

Welfare Federation Lowly Tuber Favorite Among Children

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 (CP). — Spinach ranked second as the favorite vegetable of boys and girls in a "child preference survey" conducted by the Children's Welfare Federation among 18,000 children between six and 16 years old.

About 10,000 answers were received to a questionnaire covering a variety of topics which was sent out to children attending summer camps operated by a member organization of the federation.

Potatoes were listed first by both boys and girls, but opinion was divided as to the other vegetables. Girls listed celery third, followed by asparagus lettuce, beets, turnips, peas, carrots, lima beans, string beans and cabbage, and boys gave third place to lettuce and followed it with asparagus, beets, cabbage, carrots, peas, celery, turnips, lima beans and string beans.

In school subjects, the girls expressed a preference for mathematics and the boys gave first place to history. English and arts were second and third choice for the girls and mathematics and languages for the boys.

To the question, "What do you wish to be when you grow up?" 19 per cent. of the boys replied that they would like to be newspapermen, 17 per cent. aviators, and 11 per cent lawyers. Fifty-three per cent gave various vocations ranging from fireman to research engineer. Forty-nine per cent. of the girls wanted to be private secretaries, giving second choice to actresses and third to nurses.

Under "favorite hobbies" boys gave first place to stamp collecting and girls preferred dancing. Thirty-one per cent. of the girls, however, said they had no hobby. In the motion-picture field boys expressed a preference for mystery films and girls preferred musical pictures.

Girls preferred swimming in the sports catagory and boys preferred baseball.

Back To Jungle

Mrs. Martin Johnson, wife of the late famous explorer, is shown here in a Los Angeles hospital bed, recovering from injuries received when an aeroplane crashed at Los Angeles on January 18, killing her husband and another passenger. In an interview with newspapermen, Mrs. Johnson told of plans to return to the jungles of the Belgian Congo where she and her late husband had planned on exploring before his death.

SUN'S ECLIPSE DODGES EXPERTS

But Some Laymen May Get Kick Out Of June 8th Performance

LICK OBSERVATORY, Calif., Feb. 11 (CP). — The longest total eclipse of the sun in more than a century will occur June 8, but to astronomers it is likely to be a total loss.

The sun will be hidden completely for seven minutes and four seconds, nearly an all-time record. Yet, scientists who last year scurried to points all the way from Greece to Japan to study a mere 2½ minute eclipse expect to pass this one up. The reason is that it will follow a nearly landless course through the South Pacific, missing islands as effectively as if guided by a master mariner.

The eclipse will start in the Ellice and Phoenix archipelagoes, near Samoa, where the sun will rise entirely obscured. A rare sight to the layman, this means little to the astronomer because he cannot effectively photograph an eclipse close to the horizon.

As the sun climbs into the sky, the path of totality will cross the South Seas until it reaches Peru. There, near Cuzco, the ancient Inca capital, there will be a totality-eclipsed sunset. Hawaii and Mexico will see a partial eclipse and a very slight dent in the sun's disc will be visible in the southwestern United States.

From New Zealand to lonely little Canton Island will go one expedition under C. B. Michie to await the eclipse in its four-minute stage. Los Angeles' Griffith observatory considered a trip to Christmas Island but doubt that the island actually lies in the path of totality has about caused Director Dinsmore Alter to give up the idea.

The isle most favorably located in the path of totality is Enderbury, an uninhabited atoll in the Phoenix group, but there is no anchorage and landing is dangerous.

MOVING TO STOP JERRY-BUILDING

Builders In England Organize For Better Construction

LONDON, Feb. 11 (CP).—England has had enough "jerry-building" and the building industry is out to put an end to it. The National Federation of Building Trade Employers has drawn up a scheme, with government approval, whereby the erection of houses in England will have to live up to a standard that makes them "capable of becoming real houses rather than a source of trouble and expense."

The scheme comprises: Formulation of a minimum standard specification for ordinary houses; registration of builders who undertake to build houses in conformity with this standard and certification of houses so built, and the establishment of a national council to deal with registration and certification.

Sir Kingsley Wood, minister of health, warmly commended the idea at a recent luncheon held for discussion of the scheme. The housing achievements of this country since the war had been unexampled, he said. The industry as a whole had done a splendid job. But against the "jerry-builder" who sold unsatisfactory houses the new code would be most useful. The "jerry-builder" had been a menace to the good name of the industry, had perpetrated a "mean fraud" on the purchaser.

G. H. Parker, president of the National Federation, said that the unsuspecting and unprotected public had risen to demand fair treatment and the building industry had formulated this arrangement. The ministry of health, the board of trade and the leading associations of architects and builders had all approved the plan.

Great Britain built 10,000 more houses in 1936 than in 1935, setting a record.

BRITISH SCHOOL TEACHES BEAUTY WITH COMMERCE

Exhibition Encourages Trend To More Artistic Publicity

HIGHER STANDARDS

By Thomas T. Champion
(Canadian Press Staff Writer).

LONDON, Feb. 11 (CP).—To make commerce a matter of beauty both in its production and in the advertising of its wares is the aim of the Reimann School, which has established an inaugural exhibition in London. Such a school has existed in Berlin for more than 30 years, and can claim to have exercised an international influence in commercial art.

"The essential idea," says the prospectus heralding the exhibition, "is the combination of school (representing education) and studios (representing practice) under the same roof and side by side—so that the student is offered unique facilities to become familiar not only with the theory but with the actual practice of the conditions which will govern his future.

"By intensive, carefully planned, individual instruction, and by methods practical as well as theoretical, the student is given every opportunity for development and expansion, so ultimately assisting in raising professional standards."

There are departments in the school for window-dressing, figure draping and exhibition work. "Industry is seeking to put beauty, not only into its products, but into the machinery of selling those products," declared Lord Hollenden at the opening of the exhibition. "This for two reasons—pride in being associated with something beautiful rather than with something ugly; and because it has been proved beyond question that art in industry and commerce is good business.

"The highlights of successful advertising are a succession of instances of the employment of first-class artists and designers in place of the hack that the 'commercial artist' has too often been. One case that will come into all your minds is the publicity of the London Passenger Transport Board, which has for years been the admiration of the world as well as a most successful creator of travel."

WESTERN JUNIORS HAVE HIGH HOPES OF HOCKEY LAURELS

Teams From Thunder Bay To Pacific Prepare To Wrest Cup From Toronto

9 TIMES IN WEST, 9 IN EAST

WINNIPEG, Feb. 11 (C.P.).—Western junior hockey clubs headed toward the playoffs to-day with the confident hope the "rubber" year of Dominion championship play would swing the trend of victory this side of the Great Lakes.

Since the O.H.A. Memorial Cup became the emblem of Canadian junior puck supremacy in 1919, it has rested nine times in the East and nine in the West. From Thunder Bay to the Pacific Coast, strong junior teams are preparing for the attempt to wrest the trophy from its present holders, West Toronto Nations.

Saskatoon Wesleys, Western champions who lost to Nationals in the final in Toronto last spring, are rated strongly again although completely rebuilt. Wesleys will meet the winner of the Saskatoon Nutana-Prince Albert playoff in which Nutana has a lead of one game, won 3-2.

Wesleys are favored to take the Saskatchewan title, but the Southern Section may provide an upset. Regina Aces finished the league season last night with a one-point advantage over Wilcox Notre Dame by virtue of their 3-3 tie with Regina Abbotts.

These three teams and Moose Jaw Canucks will meet in the playoffs.

New Alberta Champion.

A new junior champion will be crowned in Alberta for the 1936 Calgary Rangers have disbanded. No league operated in the south this year but Calgary Radios, Drumheller Rockets, and Medicine Hat Tigers are expected in the playdowns.

Edmonton Athletic Club, runners-up to Toronto St. Michael's in the 1934 Canadian final, rate well in the Edmonton City loop, but their league rivals, Southsides and Rangers, retain a chance to qualify for the intersectional race.

Indications are the winners of the Vancouver Junior League, now led by New Westminster Gyros, will not seek provincial honors. If so the British Columbia representatives will come again from the West Kootenay League, which sent Trail Tigers into the Western semi-finals last season. Trail, Rossland, and Nelson have strong teams.

Four teams domi te play in Manitoba, Winnipeg Monarchs and Portage La Prairie in the South Division and St. Boniface and Brandon in the North Division, and any of these would be a championship contender. Monarchs, Dominion titleholders in 1935, are slight favorites.

GETS GOOD CONTRACT.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

With the schedule three parts finished we give below the standing of the different groups:

In Group A—Bruce Scott is leading with six wins and one loss, and Gordon Matthews second with four wins and one loss.

In Group B—J. J. Howden is well out in front with six wins and one loss, and several others are right in the running.

In Group C—E. R. Shirley is leading with six wins and one loss, T. Donaldson second, five wins and one loss and W. Harvey third with four wins and one loss.

This is by no means the final standing ... anything may happen before Good Friday.

We understand that Walter Oke's rink was successful in reaching the charmed circle at Lindsay yesterday...He had with him J. T. Braund, R. Williamson and T. Doughty ... They each received a blanket.

And don't forget the Canada Packers Trophy Friday commencing at 9 a.m....remember it is wide open...Anybody can take part in this bonspiel...A good list of prizes and a day of good sport.

There is no truth in the rumor that we are looking for some quiet little nook, so we can do our writing in a peaceful state of mind...We are still going to stick to No. 8... we might miss something if we moved to different quarters.

Murray Street Beats St. John's Team 4-1

Murray St. finished on top of the juvenile section of the Church Hockey League last night by copping a 4-1 win over St. John's in a rough fray at All Saints' rink. The losers are in third place and have a playoff berth. It was a close contest with the Baptists getting the winning goals in the third. A dozen penalties were handed out with Foster, Pammett and Lewis getting most. These classy players hurt their play by serving time, Foster and Lewis finally getting match penalties. Whatley and Lewis opened the scoring in the second on neat tries. The former got another in the third when Foster and Pammett also tallied. Turner was good in goal and the other netter also showed up well. Whatley and L. Clark were effective. If Mark St. Juveniles win tonight, they play St. John's for third place on Monday. The teams:

Murray St.: Goal, K. Gillespie; defence, Foster, C. Gillespie; centre, Cox; wings, Pammett, Crary; alternates, Whatley, Smith. Lasenby.

St. John's: Goal, Turner; defence, Morley, Hogg; centre, Lewis; wings, R. Clark, L. Clark; alternates, Forsythe, Lomax.

Referee, D. Charlton.

Ready For Canadian Championships

On the steep slopes of Mount Norquay, just above Banff, Alberta, in the Canadian Rockies, the cream of Canadian skiers, plus an invading guard of United States running and jumping aces, will seek the Canadian Amateur Ski association championships in the title meet March 5 to 8. Warming up for the events is Rupert Edwards of Banff, pictured here as he does a gelandesprung in a cloud of snow at Simpson Pass.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

(C.J.P.)

AND TONIGHT at the Brock St. bootheel factory, three Blood and Thunder Loop battles will be battled. It's a triple-header in the Senior City Hockey League, with Outboard Marines and Mayfairs meeting about 7.30, followed by Bewdley vs. Westclox, and then Lakefield against Millbrook. The first game should be the best but every one will be a real scrappy setto. Playoffs will be starting in about two weeks and, in the meantime, the teams are in there fighting for the coveted playoff spots. Another pretty fair crowd of rooters who like rugged hockey will likely be on deck tonight.

FANS WHO want to see the Petes play the Fliers in Belleville tomorrow night should notify Bill Prindible, phone 236 through the day. The C.N.R. is running a special train, leaving here at 6.15, and pulling out from Belleville after the game at 11.30 o'clock. Return fare is $1.50. The local players will go on this train and a big crowd of puck followers is expected to enjoy the outing and the dandy ice tilt at the Quinte arena. It's the first and may be the only hockey excursion here this winter.

* * * * * *

WE HAVE received a form for the Fenelon Falls' hockey tourney February 17, 18, 19 and 20—and any local team interested in entering may have it. Winning squad in this open tournament gets two fine trophies and 11 Bulova wrist watches. Runners-up get a cup and 11 windbreakers. With fine prizes, a big entry and special train excursions—well, it looks like Fenelon Falls knows how to stage a real tournament. No use sending a poor team, though, as the competition will be high class. We imagine O.H.A. players are eligible. Entry should be in the hands of Secretary W. R. Welsh by February 16th.

PLENTY OF basketball activity here again this weekend. Friday e'en at the Y.W.C.A., these gals' teams play: "Y" Quakers vs. St. John's Juniors at 7.45, Westclox Seniors vs. Marconi Radio at 8.15, and C.G.E. Juniors vs. Westclox at 9.00 sharp. At the Y.M. Saturday night at seven, St. Andrew's tangle with St. Paul's in the juvenile final game; followed by P.C.I. vs. C.G.E. at 7.30 and Neill's vs. St. Paul's at 9.00 in Senior City Cage Circuit tilts. By the way, a six-man team of gym performers from the Toronto Central "Y" will strut their stuff at the "Y" here that eve at 8.30 or so.

* * * * * *

ALL SAINTS took a 1-0 verdict from St. Peter's while Canucks and Monarchs ended in a 4-all draw in last night's two Junior City Loop hockey tussles at the Brock. First one was a keen contest with penalties hurting the S.P.S. squad. Second game was something of a surprise as the scrappy Monarchs really outplayed the smart Canucks and had a win in the bag till Canucks ran in two quick goals in the final minute of play. The tilt was hard-fought and fairly clean till a grand free-for-all broke out late in the third. Every guy it seemed on each side picked an opponent and took a swing at him. But we didn't see any sticks swung—they tossed fists or grappled. Peace was finally restored without calling out the militia—but the melee probably cost Monarchs the decision.

* * * * * *

OUR COLTS finished their schedule in top place last night by grabbing a 7-3 decision before an anemic crowd in Belleville. Without Webb or Kingdon, the Buckland boys still showed too much speed and class for their Quinte rivals. They got the worst of it in refereeing too—and again we'd like to squawk about weak-toned whistles that cannot be heard. Al Clark knocked all the pep out of Tompkins once with a lovely bodycheck after the whistle had blown for an offside. But none of the players heard the whistle, so ye ref. penalizes Clark instead for something or other. The playoffs won't be till next week, Tuesday in Belleville and Thursday here. Our gang had choice of first game but decided, since the Fliers are here Monday, not to run two O.H.A. tilts on succeeding nights at the Brock.

* * * * * *

HEAL SCORED three for the young Petes while Gee Clark got two and Connelly and Brady one each. The latter played his best game of the season, and White did okay on the wing. Jopling showed more speed than any of 'em and will be all right when he just barges in and shows the class he used to in Junior City League. Al Clark starred on defence. In fact, the whole team looked good and Coach Buckland said this a.m.: "They're starting to show their class now. They still aren't going as well as they should but they ought to go a long way once they get started." He has thought all winter that it is prospectively the best junior gang he had under him in years—and he expects 'em to wind up pretty close to the Ontario finals.

* * * * * *

ALEX KASABOSKI, who used to wow 'em in rasslin' here, is the latest victim of Lem Stecklin and his pet 'coon. In a recent pro grapple bout in Detroit, Lem and the 'coon took Alex to the cleaners. Of all the peculiar characters to spring up in pro mat ranks, Lem is the oddest. A gangling hillbilly, who wears a red-and-white horseskin overcoat on the street—and a pair of overalls in the ring—he parks his pet 'coon on a ring post during matches. If Lem needs any help in his "scuffling", as he calls it, he hollers and the 'coon jumps in and scratches and bites the unfortunate rival! It's a tough combination to lick, what? Naturally, Alex, was indignant, but why didn't he bite the 'coon back? Lem says when he gets some more dough he will retire to his Tennessee hills, sit under a tree with a jug of moon and watch the missus hoeing corn.

Keene Drops 5-3 Tilt To All Saints' Squad

All Saints took a 5-3 nod over Keene in a good West End Hockey League fixture last night at All Saints' rink, to even up for their last meeting. They had lost in Keene 9-0, but last night had most of the play. Keene lacked their usual combination and were clearly outplayed. Fisher and Russaw got two goals each for All Saints while Maudsley scored the other. Nelson notched two for the losers with Shearer getting the third. Renwick and Seabrooke were the other players who stood out. The teams:

Keene: Goal, Renwick; defence, Nelson, Gillespie; centre, D. McCarthy; wings, Campbell, Shearer; alternates, Joyce, Fletcher, McIntyre, O. McCarthy, Richardson.

All Saints: Goal, Jay; defence, Beaucierc and Seabrooke; centre, Maudsley; wings, Fisher, Russaw; alternates, Alton, McDougall.

Referee—G. Webb.

WANT JULIETTE BACK

Many Protests When Stations Romeo And Juliette Separated.

DUNNELLON, Fla., Feb. 11 (CP).—Folk in this section want Romeo and Juliette back just where they were—eight miles apart.

The change was affected February 1 when the Atlantic coast line railroad changed "Juliette" to "Rainbow Falls."

The Marion County Chamber of Commerce hit a figurative ceiling and its protest was subscribed to by many citizens sentimental about Shakespeare's love story.

Furthermore, the Protestants urge that Juliette in the future be spelled Juliet. Romeo remains the village of Romeo.

HARD TO KEEP

Monarchs Draw 4-4 With Canuck Team

Junior City Hockey League standing:

Team:	P.	W.	L.	T.
Canucks	4	2	0	2
All Saints	4	2	1	1
St. Peter's	4	1	2	1
Monarchs	4	0	2	2

Monarchs provided an upset last night at the Brock by holding Canucks to a 4-4 draw, and only two quick goals in the last minute of play gave Canucks a tie. Monarchs led 3-0 in the first, but it was 3-2 going into the third. They appeared to have the game won with a 4-2 lead when a free-for-all broke out with half a dozen different fist fights at once on the ice. Two Monarchs and one Canuck player were penalized and the gangling South-enders then ran in two in a hurry to sew it up.

Berwick, Boyle, and Langton tallied for Monarchs in the first frame as this squad dominated play. Fleming and Connelly counted in the second as Canucks came back strong, Coursey and Collins having assists. MacInnes got a soft one in the third on poor clearing by a Canuck puckist, and Fleming and Riel ran in the final two markers. It was a hard-fought, fast tussle, mostly clean until the final donnybrook broke out. Monarchs played an improved brand of hockey, while the Canucks looked spotty in their play. The teams:

Monarchs — Goal, Driscoll; defence, Vilarelli, Todd; centre, Conroy; wings, Berwick, Langton; alternates, Boyle, MacInnes, Shea, Brault, Derris.

Canucks — Goal, McKinnon; defence, Giardino, Ceumrik; centre, Gilbert; wings, Connelly, Coursey; alternates, Fleming, Riel, Collins, Townsend.

Referee—Pat Calladine.

All Saints Move Up In Junior City Loop

All Saints climbed into undisputed possession of second place in the Junior City Hockey League last night at the Brock Street Rink by losing out a 1-0 verdict over St. Peter's before a slim crowd. It was a speedy, hotly-contested struggle all through, with the Saints showing poor combination and suffering from frequent penalties. The winners had a better passing game and earned the verdict, but it was close all the way. St. Peter's were shorthanded through penalties a good part of the fray, twice having a couple in the cooler together.

Clarke scored the lone marker of the contest in the initial stanza. Both sides threatened often the last two heats, but were unable to tally. St. Peter's ganged up for a time in the third to threaten to sew it up, but had no luck. Both goalies turned in a nice game, while the first line for the winners stood out. The alternates on the other side proved as good as the regulars. The teams:

St. Peter's — Goal, Shaughnessy; defence, Curtin, Prete; centre, O'Leary; wings, Craig, Hoy; alternates Creighton, Thornton, Sullivan, Heath, Lynch.

All Saints — Goal, Jay; defence, Legon, Quirk; centre, McDougall; wings, Williams, Mortimer; alternates, Clarke, Rowbotham.

Referee—Pat Calladine.

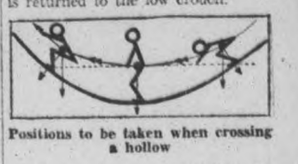
40—HOW TO CROSS A HOLLOW.

Surface contours, by which we mean here, localized depressions or elevations encountered on a downhill run, call for changes in the body position.

In entering a hollow the low crouch position is taken, before reaching the deepest part, a change is commenced to the erect position which should be complete as the bottom is reached. As the ascent out of the hollow is commenced the body is returned to the low crouch.



Positions to be taken when crossing a hollow

The more abrupt the hollow the lower and quicker is the change, low crouch—erect—low crouch, made, and the more gradual the hollow the earlier and slower is the change.

The same procedure is followed in running from a slope to the level. The low crouch is assumed before the change in gradient, the erect position at the change and followed by the crouch again.

In soft snow the lunging position may be used instead of the crouch.

Canadiens In Tie With Warsaw 2-2

Warsaw and Canadiens went to a 2-2 tie in a West End League puck tilt last night at All Saints' rink, I. Watts' long shot late in the third going in off Spencely to gain the draw. It was a close scrap all the way with both teams minus several star players. Watts also got the first Warsaw goal early in the game, Spencely banged home Sproat's rebound and Kirkwood tallied the other for Canadiens. Clifford shone in goal for the visitors. Bowen went good both ways for the Dummer crew. Kirkwood, Hunter and Sproat stood out for Canadiens. The teams:

Warsaw: Goal, Clifford; defence, Bowen, Cooper; centre, Payne; wings, T. Watts, I. Watts; alternates, Bell, Thompson.

Canadiens: Goal, Townsend; defence, Kirkwood, Spencely; centre, Parnell; wings, Hunter, Sproat; alternates, Foster, Wright.

Peterborough Juniors Win Beat The Belleville Redmen In Final Game Of Schedule

Playoffs Likely To Commence On Friday With First Game In Peterborough

SCORE WAS 7 TO 3

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Feb. 11 (CP) —Peterborough Juniors emerged as schedule winners here last night when they defeated Belleville Redmen 7-3, with period score of 2-1 5-1, and were always the best on the night's play excepting for a few minutes in the latter part of the contest. It is expected the play-offs for the group will commence on Friday night with Peterborough having the choice of the first game and will likely take their home ice.

Peterborough packed too much speed all down the line for the losers, the game being played on a fast sheet of ice. Jopling and A. Clarke made a rugged defence, and had lots of protection with Starr, Heal and Wright performing out front. Heal with three goals, G. Clarke with two and Brady and Connell with one each, were the marksmen for the winners, while Thompkins with two and Storms with one scored for the Belleville squad.

The boys were inclined to rough it in the latter stages, but Alex Weir ruled with an iron hand. A. Clarke was the worst offender, with three penalties and Connelly with one while Cain collected two, with Derry and McCreary each having one.

The first period of the game was very draggy, with Heal and Brady scoring and Belleville replying with Thompkins on the prettiest goal of the night. In the second period Heal scored two and G. Clarke one, with Starr assisting on the first Heal tally. This period was much faster, but Peterborough were playing safer hockey and using combination to work in close on Sharpe who was not as steady in the twine as formerly. The last frame saw the teams even in scoring, with Belleville carrying more punch. Storms and Thompkins scored for the home team, with Connelly and G. Clarke counted for the Petes.

The line-up:

Peterborough—Goal, Harding; defence, A. Clarke, Jopling; centre, Starr; wings, Heal and Wright; subs., Brady, G. Clarke, Connelly, Crowe and White.

WINTER HIGHLIGHT STARTS ON MONDAY

Big Bonspiel In Toronto Will See 430 Games Played

TORONTO, Feb. 11.—(CP)— Important competitive curling was almost completely thrust aside across Ontario today. Most of the province's select rinks were engaged in a tuning-up process for the winter's main event, the bonspiel.

To be staged on Toronto ice as usual, the event will begin Monday. Those in charge had no trouble drawing the full complement of 124 entries and other rinks are anxious to gain admittance if there should be withdrawals before starting time.

The draw for the top award, the Royal York trophy, was held yesterday and curlers were alloted their places at the five arenas which will be used. Thirty-one sheets of ice will be available and it will be up to C. W. MacQueen to see that no rink uses the same ice twice. A total of 430 games will be played.

Winners in the preliminary round of the Royal York will go on and will also compete for the Birks-Ellis-Ryrie and Seiberling trophies. Losers will play in the North American Life and Seagram competitions.

TWEED TROUNCES BELLEVILLE 4-2

Sailors Gang In Final Period But Fail To Beat Reeves In Goal

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Feb. 11. — In their first appearance on the local ice this season, the Belleville Sailors were downed by the local boys to the tune of 4 to 2. Tweed opened the scoring in the first period when Courneyea took a pass from J. Tummon. Belleville soon tied it up when Semark stick handled his way through the defence to dent the twine behind Reeves. Hap Day for Belleville and J. Tummon and W. Leal for Tweed were the penalty receivers in this period.

Near the beginning of the second period, J. Ethier of Belleville was given a five-minute penalty, closely followed by Hammett. During this period the locals only tallied one counter when Courneyea took a three-way pass from W. Leal and Maguire. The third goal for the locals was tallied by J. Tummon, and Tweed went three up when Courneyea took another pass from Maguire to tally his third goal of the game and the fourth for the home forces. Long received the only penalty for the locals near the end of the period.

In the last period Belleville tallied the only goal when J. Hickey stick-handled his way in, was turned around and then back-handed a shot which puzzled Reeves. Courneyea for the home forces received the only penalty of the period. The game was well played and the local forces showed some of their old form. Reeves in goal played a sensational game, especially in the last period, when Belleville swarmed in most of the period endeavoring to equal the score. Long, Reeves, and Courneyes were the outstanding players for the home forces, while J. Ethier, hefty defence player, and Hinton, the Belleville goalie, were the main force of the Belleville line.

Belleville—Goal, Hinton; defence, J. Ethier, Hammett; right wing, Hickey; centre, Hap Day; left wing, Goyer; subs., Harvey, Semark, Ethier, Hickey.

The summary:

First Period.

1—Tweed, Courneyea, J. Tummon.
2—Belleville, Semark.
Penalties — W. Leal, Hap Day, J. Tummon.

Second Period.

3—Tweed, Courneyea, W. Leal, Maguire.
4—Tweed, J. Tummon.
5—Tweed, Courneyea, Maguire, Leal.
Penalties—Hammett, J. Ethier (5 minutes), Long.

Third Period.

6—Belleville, J. Hickey.
Penalties—Courneyea.

Sport Spice

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—(AP)— If those Chicago promoters want to get Heavyweight Champion James J. Braddock in Chicago to sign for the Joe Louis bout, they should advance him $18.20 of his $500,000 for railroad fare.

Smart money, Broadway scouts report, will be put on Braddock to beat Louis in the Chicago title fight, providing something more attractive than the current 2-1 odds, favoring Brown Bomber, can be obtained.

Braddock's crown may be vacated in New York, as a face-saving gesture by fistic fathers, but that won't worry Jersey Jim, who is no better off financially after two years as champion that he was before beating Max Baer.

California sports writers do not take Max Baer's comeback seriously. Art Cohn of Oakland's Tribune suggests Max prepare for Bob Pastor by training with California's track team.

Fight critics favor more safeguards, to check ring fatalities, but have split wide apart on New York proposal for new rule to halt bout in which one gladiator absorbs three knockdowns in single round.

Luis Angel Firpo was down seven times in the first round before belting Jack Dempsey out of the ring at the Polo Grounds . . . But Ernie Schaaf died after going down for the first time, in the 13th round of his bout with Primo Carnera, from what looked like a harmless jab to the nose . . . So what?

"Shanty Hogan rounding into shape," says a Washington headline. We believe it. Even in the winter, Lou Gehrig swings at no wild pitches. Since Col. Ruppert let out that blast against him, Lou has closed up like a bank. The guy may not get more than the $31,000 offered, but he's playing his hand the right way. . . . Mike Jacobs carries around a spare set of false teeth . . . Johnny Dundee, tagging around the fringe of the fight crowd, can scarcely talk. His Adam's apple was punched so much his speech grates out in a husky whisper.

The Max Baer-Bob Pastor bout will go on March 19 . . . It's almost a certainty . . . "Remember what I tell you guys," roars Jimmy Johnston, "this kid Pastor will be the best heavyweight in the world a year from today." . . . Never given to understatement, James Joy also says John Henry Lewis is not only the best light heavyweight, but the best heavyweight boxer in the business today . . . P.S.—Both Pastor and Lewis fight for Johnston.

BARRY-WEILAND DEAL GAVE WINGS WORLD'S TITLE

Jack Adams Tells Of Trade With Boston That Came On Spur Of Moment

RESULT OF CHANCE REMARK

By George Maguire
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 11—(C.P.). — Although he struggled for years to develop a high-powered championship contender, Jack Adams, the genial gentleman from Pembroke, Ont., who spends his winters leading Detroit Redwings into National Hockey League battles, said to-day the decisive stroke in perfecting the Stanley Cup champions was concluded in a matter of moments.

Adams said he thought trading Cooney Weiland, the little Owen Sounder, to Boston, for Marty Barry poker-faced pivot, two years ago was the move that changed his Redwings—or "Redlights" as Gotham fans acclaim them—from a strong contender into a titular outfit.

The Redwing mentor said the Barry-Weiland deal followed a chance remark by Frank Patrick, then guiding the Bruins. "If I had Weiland," the Bruin mentor said to Adams, "I would win the Stanley Cup."

"And if I had Barry,' quoth Adams, "it would be me who would win the cup."

The deal was concluded shortly after that, and Detroit took the cup and the championship.

Barry Thinks Up Plays

"Of course I had a powerful team before we got Barry," Jack said. "But to my way of thinking Marty is the smartest centre in the league to-day, and he 'made' the team. He thinks up a lot of the scoring plays we use and with wings like Larry Aurie and Herbie Lewis, it is only a matter of minutes before they have them down pat.

"Barry is a type of player you do not see much of to-day," the admiring pilot proceeded. "He does not have to have his eyes glued down at his feet while stickhandling through or around a defence. His head is up as he sizes up the situation of his wingmen while jockeying into position."

The Montreal Irishman, Adams said, is also of great help to the youngsters on the Detroit lineup. Barry never seems to get tired of skating and shooting, the coach added, and even after a hard game at night he will go out the following morning with the rookies who need practice and teaching.

Marty is not only a prolific scorer and great playmaker, but is also establishing a great "iron-man" record. He has played in 407 consecutive games. This is below the record of Murray Murdoch of New York Rangers, who has participated in 570 straight contests, but it is considered as outstanding, as Barry, a playmaking pivot, has to charge in on rearwards and take more punishment than Murdoch, who is rated strictly a back-checker.

EAGLES SLUMP DROP 4-3 TO REDS

Falcons Take Trimming From Springfield Indians 4-1

TORONTO, Feb. 11.—(CP).—New Haven Eagles may not reach the play-off stage in the International American Hockey League, but they will have the distinction of producing one of the season's brightest finds—Pete Leswick. A raw youngster from Saskatoon, Pete will be given a trial in the majors if he continues at his present pace.

Playing his first game since injuries forced him to the side lines a month ago, the Westerner bagged all three Eagles' goals in a losing home ice cause last night. The eastern-section basement dwellers absorbed a 4-3 defeat at the hands of Providence Reds, but it was no fault of the speedy wingman.

After Leswick rifled home his third goal with less than 1½ minutes to play, New Haven yanked Goalie Alex Wood, and put six forwards on the ice in a futile attempt to even the count. Alex Motter's goal early in the third period which put Reds in front 4-1, proved the margin of victory.

Another cellar club, Cleveland Falcons of the west group, also saw their play-off hopes dimmed. The Birds failed to keep pace with Springfield Indians and took a 4-1 thumping. Minus Captain Irvin Frew, under a one-game suspension for alleged rough play, the Redmen showed plenty of class.

With Goalie Earl Robertson playing brilliantly in Pittsburgh nets, Hornets outlegged Syracuse Stars to beat the western division leaders 2-1. Red Doran gave Hornets the lead in the first period and Mike Miller evened it up in the second. Late in the same session, Art Giroux sank the winning goal.

AMBERS OUTPOINTS DAY IN TEN ROUNDS

Takes Heavy Punishment In Final Three—Gets Split Decision

NEW YORK, Feb. 11—(A.P.). — Lightweight Champion Lou Ambers looked over the records to-day and found he finally was all-square with the opposition during his title run.

Anything but impressive since he whipped little Tony Canzoneri for the crown last year, the "Herkimer Hurricane" from upstate at last had reached a spot where his record as a champion showed two victories and a draw against a pair of defeats.

He gained that spot last night by outpointing Chicago's Davey Day in 10 rounds, although he absorbed heavy punishment in the last three rounds in doing it. At that, he gained only a split decision, winning the votes of the judges, while Referee Frank Fullam balloted for the Chicagoan, who outweighed the titleholder, 136¼ to 135.

With the fight going down in the books as a victory, Ambers now has Day and Stumpy Jacobs as his victims since he became champion. On the other side of the ledger are a pair of important beatings he took from Eddie Cool, Philadelphia boxer and Vancouver's Jimmy McLarnin, and a draw with Enrico Venturi, the classy Italian titleholder.

FLOOD HOLDS UP IN MEMPHIS AREA

Treacherous Mississippi Keeps Engineers On Guard Right To Coast

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 11—(AP)—As if determined to gain by siege what they failed to win by assault, ponderous crests lingered along the mid-Mississippi today.

The river fell slowly above Memphis but in this sector record levels remained unchanged hour after hour while the brown tide edged higher downstream to New Orleans, forcing more evacuations.

The Memphis district office of the United States army engineers warned the top of the flood is "very flat" and the river will stand near its crest here for several days. As long as this situation prevails the remorseless pressure on the overtaxed levees may force a major breach at any time.

The engineers remained confident they would win their fight but explained sluggishness of the crests made imperative a ceaseless vigil along the dikes from here to Helena, Ark.

While the death list stood at 426 along the flood's destructive path through the Ohio and Mississippi valleys, Red Cross officials said the refugee total remained almost stationary not far below 1,000,000.

GILMOUR

A very enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex McGregor on Friday last when the B.Y.P.U. members and their friends held a jolly crokinole and jost heir party. There were eleven tables playing and the committee in charge, Misses Phyllis Moore and Gladys Blewett counted the score cards and the two first prizes went to Mrs. Stanley Millage and Mr. Gilmour Paul and the consolation prizes to Hasel Telford and John Wright. Dainty refreshments were then served and a vote of thanks was tendered to the McGregor home by R. S. McMullen and responded to by Gordon McGregor.

Miss Vera Bapile of Toronto visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Blewett of Chemong road recently.

Mrs. Edith McKay is spending this week with Mrs. J. G. Mann of Smith.

Among those who attended the Purina trip to St. Louis are Messrs. Fred Mann, Gordon Mann, Albert Garbutt, Herb Darling, James Young and Harry Jackson.

The Day That I Forget

By MARIE BLIZARD

READ THIS FIRST:

Janet Paynter, newly married to a second-rate actor, Joel Paynter, whose show has just closed, obtains a card from an old friend, Harry Devanter, a film scout, requesting a screen test for "the bearer". Because of his pride, Joel first refuses to permit Janet to continue working and then conceals the fact he has been playing the role of gigolo at a cocktail bar because he can find nothing else. Joel is elated when Janet tells him of his chance for a screen test. He does not know that the card was intended for her—not for him.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 8

"KILL THE baby, Joe!"

Janet, sitting in the shadows back of the row of chairs, each with a name on it, started slightly when the man sitting in the chair marked Mr. Arnhelt shouted that. Then she sat back and smiled.

There were no babies in the corner of the room that was obviously a set. The electrician was setting lights. A baby, then, was a light.

"Hell, no! Can't you ever get a sunlight effect without using a number 2?" Arnhelt's voice was loud and had a sharp, annoyed edge. Janet knew that he was a great director and that Mr. Jackson had called to him as he went through the corridor in the office building to ask him if he'd mind making a test, that someone named Hank Dive hadn't arrived.

She couldn't decide whether she was glad that Arnhelt was going to do it because Arnhelt was an ace director or whether she was sorry because he seemed to be upset. One way or another, it was sure to affect Joel.

But Joel didn't sem to be as affected as she was, she thought happily. She'd spilled his coffee when she was trying to pour it that morning. She'd deliberately taken off her good gloves and taken a pair with a hole in the thumb. She'd made no sense in her conversation but Joel had whistled in the bath, eaten a hearty breakfast and had been as unmoved as though a screen test were no more than an every day occurrence.

Maybe it's his movie experience of the last few weeks, she thought with kindly sarcasm.

He'd carried off the brief interview in Jackson's office with aplomb. Jackson had studied his face with close scrutiny as he shot questions at Joel. Questions about his theatrical background, about a technique that was beyond her. He had hardly given her a glance. She was glad that she hadn't been movie struck.

Then a page had taken them through the corridor, through great doors marked silence in huge letters and led them over a maze of cables on the floor, past lights that looked gargantuan in the shadowy hugeness of the studio.

Someone had given Janet a chair on the fringes of the light that lighted the set and Joel had gone off to the dressing room with a make-up man who was clad like a physician in a long white apron.

Janet thought: I know what it must be like to be going to be a father. I wish I could pace up and down.

Then Joel came into the range of light. Joel looked as he always did, a little unhappy, a little wistful yet entirely at ease with a poise that was essentially masculine. No, Joel didn't look exactly the same, in the eerie green lights, his skin appeared to be yellow and the red on his lips was purple. His hair was untidy and Jane wondered if she should tell him. But there was no way. Joel had forgotten her there in the shadows.

"We're waiting for Miss Ingoldsby," the director said curtly and paid no more attention to Joel than if he had been an office boy sent to him with a message. Joel walked over to him and they talked for a few minutes. Janet couldn't hear what they were saying.

In a little while Joel came over to her and sat in a chair at her side.

"What did he say?" she whispered excitedly.

"He told me what I'm to do. Guess what?" There was a twinkle in his eye but he looked uncomfortable.

"Judging from the effect of the make-up in that light, I'd say Dracula. What did he say?"

"I've got to make love to some dame named Ingoldsby," Joel answered disgustedly.

"Then, listen, lover," Janet bent toward him. "Why don't you do that bit of business you gave your bride the night we went dancing at the Starlit Roof? Remember? You didn't say anything but you looked up at the stars, then you looked at my eyes and pretended you couldn't see the stars any more. You wore a red rose in your lapel and you took it off and looked at it, then you touched my mouth and threw away the rose. Don't you remember the orchestra was playing and I said, 'Isn't the music lovely?' and I stopped speaking and you said you heard no music except when I spoke. Oh, do that, Joel!"

"Is nothing sacred to you?" he muttered with assumed fury. "Listen, little girl, when I take lessons in acting from my girl, I'm going to quit the acting business."

"All right, you there!" It was Arnhelt calling him.

A pale, blonde, lifeless sort of girl said in a business like way, "Taking it standing or sitting?"

"Dick, move that bench over to the railing. Ingoldsby, you sit on the bench looking up at him. Now, Mr. ...er...you"—he gestured toward Joel. "You are talking to her from the other side of the rail. You're a young society man. She's a debutante. You've just met at the dance and you're falling in love with her. She's cold to it. Give us the Robert Montgomery technique. Okay, Joe?"

Janet thought: I won't look. But she couldn't help herself. The set was flooded with bright lights. Joel stood at the railing staring at the girl. He began o speak...

"Don' stare! Put a little life into it!"

Joel touched the girl on her shoulder. She swung her eyes up and Joel smiled. He leaped over the rail and sat beside her. He reached for her hand.

Janet heard the director sigh resignedly. He was bored.

"Joel," Janet heard herself shout, "the stars!"

Joel gave no sign that he heard. The director turned his head toward Janet who made herself as small as possible.

In a moment Joel relaxed and his slow smile began at one corner of his mouth. He put his hands into his pocket and looked down at the girl commanding her glance. Then his eyes went up to where the heavens would have been and he looked down into her eyes quickly. In that small bit there was no doubt of what his pantomime meant. He wore a flower in his button hole. He took it out and touched the girl's lips with his finger. Then he threw the flower away.

Miss Ingoldsby got up. "The music has begun," she said as though Janet had given her a cue.

Joel stood at her back, his hand hovering shyly at her shoulder as though he dared not touch it. "The music is here," he said. "Please don't take it away."

Janet saw that Arnhelt had moved forward, his figure alert, his interest engaged.

"Cut," he said calmly, all the quality of annoyance gone from his voice. "Stay there, please, we'll take that bit of the stars and the flower in a close-up."

Janet relaxed. Then it was over.

Joel came straight to her. "It was grand," she said.

"Let you know," Arnhelt said briefly but he smiled cordially. He left the set immediately.

Joel had little to say on the subway ride to town. It was nearly four when they got there. He kissed Janet at the stop where they both got off. "I've got to get to my...back to my other job," he said. "But I'll see you at the usual time."

He never spoke of the movie job any more. If he guessed that Janet knew he had not been working in a movie, he made no offer of any explanation. Janet thought how strange the working of his mind must have been that he would accept it that she never asked about it.

"Don't work too hard," she said lightly. "Save yourself for news from the studio."

"Oh, that? We probably won't hear for weeks if ever. I know what these things mean." His tone was as light as hers but she knew what the waiting would mean to him.

And she knew that if she didn't love so much, she would have wished that the answer would not be favorable. Down in her heart she didn't want Joel in the movies. But it was his happiness and not her own. That was the only thing that mattered.

Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S TOBOGGAN

Out of a great distance and darkness Uncle Wiggily heard a voice calling him:

"Get up, Wiggy! Get up! Open your eyes. You're all right!"

For a few moments the rabbit gentleman thought he was asleep in his hollow stump bungalow and that his wife was calling him to get up and turn on the furnace. So he murmured:

"Oh, it's too early yet. This isn't Christmas is it?"

"Christmas, Wiggy? I should say not!" spoke a grunting voice.

Then a barking voice said: "You aren't really hurt. But your skis are broken."

"Did you say my teeth are broken?" asked Uncle Wiggily. This time he sat up and wondered why it was so cold in his bed room and why his wife was rubbing snow on his pink, twinkling nose.

"No, not your tee—your SKIS!" grunted Mr. Twistytail.

First Aid

Uncle Wiggily knew it was Mr. Twistytail grunting at him, for he could now plainly see his fat gentleman pig friend. And it was the Police Dog who was rubbing snow on the rabbit's nose. And then Uncle Wiggily noticed he wasn't in his bungalow bed room at all.

He was sitting on a bank of snow and the Police Dog was rubbing some on his pink nose which was bleeding a little. In front of Mr. Longears were broken skis and a little farther on was a tree with some of the bark rubbed off.

"Did that tree hit me?" asked the rabbit gentleman.

"No, Wiggy, you hit the tree," grunted Mr. Twistytail. "But you didn't hurt it much. Don't worry."

"Oh, I'm not worrying about the tree," said Mr. Longears. "It's my nose I'm worrying about. Is it still on my face?" When he was told it was he felt with his paw to make sure.

Then the pig and Police Dog helped Uncle Wiggily get up. They brushed the snow from his fur overcoat and the pig, picking up the skis, said:

"Well, will you try another long slide? Let's go down together this time."

"No," said Uncle Wiggily, shaking his head after having made sure it wouldn't roll off his neck. "I've had enough skiing."

"You don't mean to say you're going to give up Winter sport, do you, Wiggy?" asked the pig.

Has an Idea

"Not exactly," answered the rabbit gentleman. "But I'm going to try a new kind now."

"What?" asked the Police Dog. "Maybe you'd like to hitch me to a sled as they do dogs in Alaska?" he snickered politely.

"No, thank you," said Uncle Wiggily. "I'm going to get a toboggan."

"What's a toboggan?" asked Mr. Twistytail.

"It's a sort of Canadian sled without runners," said the rabbit. "It sets flat on the snow and curls up in front like a piece of swiss cheese that's been left in a sandwich too long. Come on, Twisty, we won't do any more skiing. We'll get a toboggan. It's a lot safer."

"Maybe it is," said the Police Dog, to whom Mr. Twistytail gave his skis since Uncle Wiggily's were broken by the tree bump. Then the two friends ran across the snow to get a toboggan sled.

And in the next story, if the alarm clock will send the soft boiled egg a comic valentine I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's toboggan ride.

STRICKEN 18 YEARS MYSTERY MALADY

Woman Goes To Bed With Head Cold Now Able To Move Only Eyelids

DETROIT, Feb. 11 (CP)—Eighteen years ago Mrs. Alice Waller, of Detroit, now 63 years old, suffering a slight head cold, went to bed.

She has been bedridden since, usually sleeping, never more than semi-conscious, and unable to move any part of her body with the exception of her eyelids, which she can open but cannot close unaided.

Her family stopped consulting prominent physicians and specialists, both in the United States and Canada, several years ago, because, according to Lilly, a daughter, they despaired of finding anyone able to diagnose the illness.

Some medical men say it is a form of paralysis; one said goitre was the difficulty; another said it was a gall bladder infection.

Mrs. Waller, a widow, lives with Lilly and a son. She has five daughters and four sons, the youngest 22, and the elder 39, all single. Lilly, the youngest, has been in constant attendance upon her for years.

"The illness was not particularly severe for the first little while," Lilly said, "but at the end of three years it has reached its present stage."

Mrs. Waller lies motionless in the bedroom, her eyes closed until someone speaks to her. Then she opens her eyes slowly, and stares unblinkingly unemotionally.

Her only means of communication is to signal an affirmative answer to questions by an almost imperceptible convulsion of one gnarled hand.

At 145 pounds, Mrs. Waller is 45 pounds lighter than when she took ill. There is just one change, besides loss of weight; disappearance of a goitre.

"She had a large goitre which some doctors believed might be causing the trouble," Lilly said. "The goitre disappeared by itself. Now there is no trace of it."

PILES GO QUICK

With Dr. Leonhardt's Prescription.

Many sufferers from itching, bleeding or protruding piles have found out that quick relief can be had with an internal medicine.

Bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel is the cause of piles. The veins are congested and flabby, the bowel walls weak. That is why an internal medicine like HEM-ROID should be used. HEM-ROID stimulates the circulation, relieves the pressure of blood in the veins of the lower bowel and helps to heal and restore the sore, tender parts.

HEM-ROID is the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, who spent several years of his professional life in finding the cause of piles and the medicine that would remove them. His medicine succeeds because it tends to correct the cause.

No matter what kind of piles you have or how long you have had them, if you want to try HEM-ROID, you have our promise to give you back your money if you do not find quick and satisfying relief, after using just one bottle.

HOWE BELIEVES SHIPPERS BEHIND TRANSPORT BILL

Thinks All Transportation Must Be Regulated Or Cease Control Over Railways

PROTECTION NOT THE AIM

OTTAWA, Feb. 11—(CP)—Bill to convert the Board of Railway Commissioners into a Dominion Board of Transport Commissioners with wide powers to regulate shipping, air and highway traffic to-day was before the Senate Railways, Telegraphs and Harbors committee for consideration.

Transport Minister Howe appearing to explain features of the measure, believed the industries affected by the measure were pretty well in favor of it. It was not a bill to protect the railways, 'or any particular industry against any other particular competitor.'

When the present Board of Railway Commissioners was established in 1904 the railways were the dominating factors in transportation.

"I am convinced that to-day we must regulate all transportation or cease regulatory control over the railways as at present," Mr. Howe said.

In regard to placing inland shipping under the new board, it was not intended to give the body authority over coast-wise shipping on either the Atlantic or Pacific, the Minister said.

He believed the great body of shipping interests on the great lakes were behind the bill.

There had been a "dumping" of practically obsolete ships into Canada in recent years, Mr. Howe said. It was, therefore proposed that no vessel imported into Canada 10 years after being built would be given a license to conduct business between Canadian ports.

Exempts British Ships.

This was a most essential step to stop the "dumping" of obsolete vessels from the United States, the Minister said. The provision would not apply to British vessels.

Only vessels above a certain tonnage would be licensed, Mr. Howe answered Senator F. B. Black (Cons. Sackville). This was the present intention, although some elasticity might be introduced by order-in-council later.

The legislation would not increase grain rates by water but rather stabilize them, Mr. Howe said.

Regulation of air rates should start as proposed with the initiation of the industry.

The Minister touched on highway traffic. He saw difficulties in the Dominion having control over Inter-Provincial traffic only. However, Federal authority over traffic rates on Dominion highways was being assumed by the Board.

"Of course we have jurisdiction over a motor vehicle travelling from one province to another or from a Canadian point, like Toronto, to Buffalo, for instance," the Minister stated.

The provinces were "invited" by the bill to co-operate with the Federal authorities to control bus and truck traffic other than that of an Inter-Provincial or International character where Federal jurisdiction was recognized. Frankly, Mr. Howe said, he was not particularly optimistic at the moment that much would be achieved in that direction, although he was hopeful.

"This bill is only a first step," the Minister commented.

HASTINGS

BOWLERS' EUCHRE ENJOYABLE EVENT

Twenty Tables Of Cards Played And Successful Dance Follows

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Feb. 11.—Lynch's hall was very attractive on Monday evening with its gay and colorful valentine decorations for the euchre and dance under the auspices of the Hastings Bowling Club. Despite the downpour of rain and the icy roads it was a decided success and twenty tables of euchre were played.

At the close of the series of games the high score for the ladies was won by Mrs. John Oliver who received a manicure set in a leather case. For the ladies' second the score was brought forward by Mrs. E. Lynch, Mrs. D. Hay and Mrs. W. Montgomery. A draw was made and Mrs. Montgomery declared the winner, receiving a beautiful bath towel as her prize. Mr. Hayden Kelley received a tie and socks as the gent's first prize and Mr. Thomas McMillen a flashlight as second prize.

Following the presentation of prizes on behalf of the Bowling Club, a dainty luncheon was served by a very efficient committee. The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing, with music supplied by the O'Grady orchestra and with Mr. James Lamey as floor manager. The president, Mr. Robert Johnston, Mr. W. Montgomery and Mr. McKenty took charge of the receipts of the door and looked after all arrangements pertaining to the euchre.

Describes Peace River

The main feature of St. Andrew's Young People's meeting held on Monday evening was an illustrated address by their pastor, Rev. D. K. Perrie, who chose as his topic "The Peace River District". He gave an enlightened talk with illustrations from thirty snapshots and a large map on the work done there, and his experience among the settlers when he was among them as a missionary in the year 1927. The subject of his discourse proved most instructive and interesting to the society, as most of their missionary money is forwarded to the Peace River district.

The meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. Stewart Whitred, and was in charge of the missionary convenor, Miss Pearl McMillan. Other numbers on the program were an instrumental by Mrs. Roy Johnson and a duet by Mrs. Reta Johnson and Mrs. Stewart Whitred.

Trinity Y.P.S.

Twenty-one members were present at Monday's meeting of the Trinity United Y.P.S. In the absence of the missionary convenor, Miss Irene Oliver, the meeting was presided over by Mr. Grant Sine.

The Young People accepted the invitation from the St. Andrew's Presbyterian Young People's Society to be their guests on the evening of February 22nd.

The program for the evening included the worship period in charge of Miss K. German. Miss Helen Collins gave a missionary reading "The Vision of the Intercessor"; Mrs. J. B. Scrivs contributed a solo accompanied by Miss Mildred Puffer; Miss Jessie Lamb, a reading on Indian work; and the topic on "Home Missions" was given by Miss Mildred Puffer.

Next Monday's program will be in charge of the Mission Circle Girls.

HIT BY LIGHTNING BARN IS BURNED

Freak Electric Storm Causes Bad Fire North Of Enterprise

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Feb. 11. — As a result of the combined electrical, rain, and hail storm, traffic was practically tied up in this section of the country, as the heavy downpour of rain on top of a heavy sleet and hail storm, froze yesterday. All cars venturing on the roads travelled at a snail's pace, and horse-drawn vehicles were very few, as the animals were unable to stand on the frozen surface.

Out of the electrical storm on Monday night, fire completely destroyed the large frame barn of Louis Whalen, three miles north-east of Enterprise, when the building was struck by lightning. The barn, together with hay, grain, and some farm implements, were completely demolished. A horse and three pure-bred cattle were instantly killed by the lightning. The remainder of the stock was saved by the hired man, Charles Kehoe, with considerable difficulty as the dead horse had fallen across the stable door. The owner was absent at the time.

An emergency call to the Village of Enterprise for help brought the fire equipment, but it arrived too late to be of any assistance. The pouring rain, which was falling at the time, prevented the flames from spreading to nearby buildings.

After the bolt struck the barn, it travelled fifty feet along the ground, overturning large boulders, splintering a large elm tree, and then along a fence for a quarter of a mile, demolishing fence posts where it entered the ground, again tearing stones of large size out of the frozen ground.

Inspector Herb. McCabe, who investigated, entered the charge for trial.

The auditors, Messrs. Puffer and Clysdale, submitted their report, which said they had made a complete audit of the books and of the collector's rolls finding the treasurers' books and vouchers correct; they also had sent out over 80 verification notices of unpaid taxes and voiced it as their opinion that some action should be taken in having the unpaid taxes cleaned up. Discussion that followed showed the council agreed with the auditors in this respect, and arranged to hold a special meeting to arrive at a decision as to what action is to be taken.

Council adjourned, to meet again in regular session on March 4.

Old Apple Adage Found Quite True

Fort Erie, Ont., Feb. 11 (CP)

THE old saying "an apple a day will keep the doctor away," has proven strangely applicable in treatment of small children afflicted with dysentry and kindred diseases, Dr. Douglas Arnold, child specialist of Buffalo told members of medical staff of the Douglas Memorial Hospital here last night.

Dr. Arnold declared a peeled apple, ground into pulp, has worked wonders in many cases on children affected with an accidosis condition, who otherwise had been absolutely unable to hold any other type of food in their stomachs.

The digestive action of meat of the apple in the stomach has worked "miracles in strengthening young children and stopping diarrhoea at the same time," said Dr. Arnold.

LYON FIGURES ONTARIO SAVES OVER $6,000,000

Thinks Power Deal Could Be Enhanced By Taking Up Option To Buy Plant Stock

FOR $5,000,000

Hopes To Show Five Million Profit Above Saving In Next Thirty Years

TORONTO, Feb. 12 — (C.P.). — Cancelled power - purchase contracts, around which revolved litigation and political battles, were replaced to-day with new ones between the Ottawa Valley Power Company and the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission. Announcement of an agreement was made by Chairman T. Stewart Lyon of the Commission.

Mr. Lyon estimated Ontario would make a total saving of more than $6,000,000 during the 34-year life of the new contracts, and a still greater saving if the Commission took advantage of an option to purchase capital stock of the Ottawa Valley Company within the next three years for a fixed sum of $5,000,000.

Original contracts for Commission purchase of Ottawa Valley power were cancelled under the Power Commission Act, 1935, passed by the Ontario Legislature. Contracts between the Commission and three other Quebec companies also were nullified, Premier Hepburn's Government contending the terms were unfair to the province.

Ottawa Valley and Beauharnois Light, Heat and Power sued the Commission successfully in Ontario Courts which ruled part of the Power Commission Act, 1935, invalid and ultra vires the Legislature. As to-day's agreement was announced, the Ottawa Valley suit was on the point of being heard by the Privy Council in London.

Save $150,000 Yearly

Mr. Lyon said under the new agreement, the Commission would make an average saving for the next 34 years of $150,000, compared with the cancelled contracts.

"That, however, does not represent the economic gain the ultimate consumers—the light and power users of the Niagara system—will have each year during the 34 years by the use of the $150,000 in reducing the cost of living or in supplying the capital of other revenue-producing enterprises," he said.

"Should half the $150,000 yearly saving under the new contract be devoted to the launching of new enterprises, or to the investment of the capital in industries already in existence, there must be added the accumulation of compounded interest, on that yearly increasing sum for 34 years, to the saving in payments to the Ottawa Valley Power Company, and one would find that this would represent easily another $1,000,000 in economic gain.

"The most important feature to me, however, of the new agreement is that which enables the Commis-

AMELIA EARHART TO FLY WESTWARD AROUND WORLD

Plans To Play "Guinea Pig" To Discover Reactions Of Human Beings To Flight

STICK CLOSE TO EQUATOR

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.— (AP) — Amelia Earhart will assume the role of "guinea pig" next month in a globe girdling air trip in which she hopes to "find out more about the reactions of human beings to flight."

Dressed in brown slacks, her blue eyes shining with anticipation, the only woman to fly solo over both the Atlantic and Pacific announced her plans to start in March on a 27,000-mile westward flight around the world.

Amelia Earhart

"It's something I want to do more than anything else in the world," she said.

As casually as a housewife outlining a shopping tour she described the route to be taken, "as close to the equator as I can go."

Captain Harry Manning, a sea captain frequently decorated for heroism in ocean rescues, will accompany Mrs. Putnam as navigator, at least across the Pacific.

"From Oakland we will fly to Honolulu," she said, "then we plan to hop across the Pacific on the longest water flight, 2,550 miles to Howland Island, just a speck in the ocean."

Step by step she traced her projected route, Eastward from Howland Island to Lae, New Guinea . . . To Darwin, Australia . . . Northwestward over the regular England-Australia air route . . . Across Africa over a path not yet determined . . . From Dakar, Africa, to Natal, Brazil, across the South Atlantic . . . And finally back to Oakland, by way of either Miami or Mexico.

"I am going to be the guinea pig this time," she laughed. "I want to know what food is best for long flights, to find out what happens to us humans after hours and hours of flying and why."

Her plane, she said, will carry a maximum of 1,150 gallons of fuel, enough for a 4,000 mile flight "if I stretch it far enough."

BINGO GAMBLING UNPARALLELED ACROSS CANADA

Craze, Held Illegal By Criminal Code, Shades Days Of Mah-Jongg, Euchre

CHURCHES SMILE ON IT

Hamilton Officials Dub It Racket, Take Problem To Governments

By Ted Farah
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

TORONTO, Feb. 12—From coast to coast, Canada has gone Bingo!

In hundreds of church or club halls tonight thousands of Canadians will assemble to wager nickels and dimes in the hope of winning to-morrow's groceries or anything up to $20 cash.

A nation-wide survey by The Canadian Press strongly indicates that the Bingo popularity has swelled into a tide of community gambling unparalleled in Dominion history.

The Mah-Jongg mania of 1924 and the Euchre craze of several years ago appear easily shaded by the newer indoor pastime, which is variously called Bingo, Keno, Lotto and even Housie-Housie.

The game is played by placing counters on a numbered board. Numbers are drawn and called by a "president" and the player first placing five counters in a row on the board wins the prize.

Although held illegal by the Criminal Code of Canada, the game is generally permitted if sponsored by a church or other charitable organization under the law which permits such groups to operate lotteries freely if the prize value is under $50.

Has Hamilton Worried

But the proportions to which the game is spreading and some of its evils were suggested by the requests laid before the Ontario Government by a delegation from Hamilton, Ont., headed by Mayor William Morrison.

"We'll have a Housie or Bingo game on every corner soon," declared the distraught mayor. He said the Hamilton Council has before it 150 applications for permits to hold Bingo evenings. One of the worst features of the situation is that in many instances charities or churches lend their names to promoters who operate the parties and turn over only a small percentage of the receipts to the sponsors. The result is another form of charity racketeering. The Government is considering the question.

Thinks Keno Parties Taboo.

At Stratford, Ont., Chief of Police R. J. Beatty has given notice that he believes keno parties are illegal and must be discontinued. After those currently advertised have been held no further ones will be permitted, he said. Four organizations have been conducting keno parties in Stratford during the last 12 months.

In other centres from Halifax to Vancouver the game is played open-

The three plant workers were heating water in the boiler when the explosion occurred. Force of the blast moved one of the walls in the west-end of the plant six inches.

Magier, a Pole, was working only a few feet away from the boiler at the time. He died in less than an hour of severe bodily injuries.

GUELPH, Ont., Feb. 12—(C.P.)—A slight boy of 16, who appeared three or four years younger and who has not yet passed his entrance, to-day told the inquiry into the Reformatory riot, that he had gone to look after his brother during the disturbance. His brother is six years older, but is "kind of foolish," he said.

The lad, a store delivery boy prior to his year's sentence three months ago, has not yet passed his entrance. At the Reformatory he was told he "had gone too far" to attend school classes there. He has been working in the Reformatory greenhouses looking after flowers.

The boy was the first prisoner to tell the inquiry he had seen damage being done. He said he had seen a fire being started among papers with a cigarette lighter and knew the inmate lighting it.

A prisoner of 17, entered the Reformatory with a "light duty order" from a physician, but was shortly placed on the "bull gang," where the heaviest work is required of prisoners, much of it being done with pick and shovel, he said.

"One day I was too weak to continue and I asked the Superintendent (Dr. J. D. Heaslip) to give me lighter work," said the prisoner. "He told me to go to Sergeant Maguire, and the seargeant said for me to see the superintendent. I then asked the guard on the bull gang to give me lighter work, but he refused. I then refused to do any work and was taken before the superintendent. I was punished by losing 10 days of my good time."

The prisoner declared the food was not good, that it was "thrown" at prisoners as though they were "a bunch of dogs."

No Fresh Blankets

A youth of 19, in for his second term, said he was refused a change of blankets in January, although they were soiled from continuous use since he re-entered in July of last year.

Judge James Madden suggested the inquiry would continue all day Saturday and reconvene on Monday.

Another slight prisoner aged 16, who looked younger than his years, said he worked on the "bull gang" with a pick and shovel to help prepare site for a new reformatory building.

He was "kicked out of school" in Toronto for fighting with other boys. He had reached senior third class. He became a delivery boy.

"Have you any idea what trade or work you want to follow when you leave here?" asked Gordon Gillanders, commission counsel.

"No," said the boy.

The boy had complained a few weeks ago to the guard of immorality on the part of another prisoner. "It is a common practice, but it has never affected me before," he said. "The big fellows threaten the young kids."

Although prisoners have been locked in cells to prevent communication between them regarding their evidence, the boy said the prisoners were discussing their com-

British Town Plays War For Night Bombing Test

Significance Seen in Fact Plant Making Balloon Barrage Units Is Nearby

ALL LIGHTS HOODED

BEDFORD, England, Feb. 12 (A. P.). — Bombers roared through the night while special traffic picked its way along darkened streets in the hours before dawn to-day in a secret test of British air raid precautions.

Street lights were hooded and traffic signals covered so only a slit of light showed the way to motorists.

The bombers were sent up to endeavor to spot specific, vital landmarks in the darkened landscape.

The closest concealment surrounded the demonstration, supervised by the Home and Air Ministries in co-operation with the Bedford Police, Fire Department, hospitals and squads of workmen.

Significance was seen in the fact that only a few miles distant from Bedford are the Cardington aviation factories where the dirigible R-101 was built and which now construct Britain's balloon barrage units.

All officials maintained silence on the results of the test, declining to admit even such a demonstration had been made.

MOTHER, CHILDREN SAVED FROM FIRE

Brantford Father Is Partially Overcome By Smoke Attempting Rescue

BRANTFORD, Ont., Feb. 12—(C P)—Mrs. John G. Sheere and two children, Beverley, age three and Garry, six, were carried down two flights of stairs from a burning building here today by firemen. John G. Sheere, who attempted the rescue of his family, was partially overcome by smoke and also was assisted down by firemen. The rescue of the four came as flames licked the bottom of a staircase and burned away basement rafters of the three storey building, formerly the I.O.O.F. temple on Queen street in Brantford business section. The fire was confined to the basement.

Coughing and sick from his attempt to save the children, Mr. Sheere sat in a cafe nearby and told of the rescue. He had heard someone yelling upstairs that the place was on fire. He started to investigate and when he returned his wife and children were at a window trying to get air. He picked up Beverley and started down. He got down one flight and met Captain George Bremner of the fire department who took the girl from him and carried her outside.

Mr. Sheere went back and got Garry but he was only halfway down the stairs again when the smoke got him and Capt. Bremner took the child in his arms out to the street. Mr. Sheere was assisted down.

Mrs. Sheere ill in bed with influenza, was rescued by Fireman Alf Sawkins.

Dime Flips Tails Saves Two Heads

Pittsburg, Cal., Feb. 12 (AP)

TWO men put a 10-cent piece in a frame today and hung it in their store here.

Michael Gatto and Dave Irvin said it was the dime they flipped in Los Angeles Tuesday to decide whether to return to San Francisco by train or by the airliner that later crashed in San Francisco Bay, causing eleven deaths. The dime came up tails and the men took the train.

"Tails won, so did our heads," reads a sign on the frame.

According to evidence, Clendenning was walking along the road with three companions, when Brown's machine turned out from behind a truck and struck him. Brown said the truck he was following showed no lights and his own vehicle skidded on the icy pavement. He admitted he had been drinking beer.

Payrolls Of Two Railways To Jump $80,000 This Month

First To Get Heavier Envelopes Will Be C. N. R. Office Employees

RESULT OF INQUIRY

MONTREAL, Feb. 12 (CP)—Payrolls now being prepared by Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways will be increased approximately $80,000 this month. The March payrolls, when the full one per cent increase will be paid will be about $160,000 heavier than last year.

Increases followed the railways' decision last week to accept the majority report of the MacLean conciliation board which recommended reduction of the 10 per cent wage cut by one per cent Feb. 1 and subsequent one per cent reductions Aug. 1 and Nov. 1.

First to get the heavier envelopes will be office employees of the C. N.R. who are paid directly every two weeks. All other workers on both railways are paid two weeks after the termination of the period which the wages cover.

Turner Valley Gas Wastage To Start Government Probe

Enough Escaping Daily To Supply Dozen Cities Like Calgary With Fuel

QUOTA SYSTEM MOOTED

By J. F. Sanderson
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

EDMONTON, Feb. 12—(C.P.). — The Alberta Government will investigate wastage of gas in the Turner Valley oil field to determine the necessity of conservation regulations, it was announced yesterday by Hon. N. E. Tanner, Minister of Mines. A system of gas quotas based on production figures may be the result.

At the same time, it was learned the Mines Department has been flooded in recent weeks with applications for oil leases. Department officials said the average daily number of applications for prospecting licenses was 40, with the aggregate acreage running into the hundreds of thousands. One application alone was for 140,000 acres.

In recent months, the Turner Valley field has become one of Canada's biggest oil producers. There are 76 producing wells, including one of 2,000 barrels daily.

Every hour of every day, 10,000,000 cubic feet of ignited gas escapes into the air above the valley, the night panorama resembling a series of huge blow-torches visible for miles. It is estimated daily wastage would be sufficient to supply 12 cities the size of Calgary with fuel.

If the Government decides to pass conservation regulations, gas quotas may be used. The object would be to maintain gas pressure in the field as high as possible without retarding production. The gas has only a limited market and has practically no value in itself.

Fear Winter Coming As Seals Head South

New York, Feb. 12. (AP)

TWENTY frolicking seals served notice today that winter is coming at last—groundhog or no groundhog evidence to the contrary.

The playful sea denizens, who had disappeared from New York's balmy, springlike clime weeks ago and gone north in search of real winter, are back in force.

Coast Guardsmen reported spotting a score or more seals on a shoal off Fire Island. They said there is no surer indication of winter ahead.

YOUNG GUNWOMAN ROBS THIRD CAFE, AGAIN VANISHES

Works So Smoothly Policeman Standing Nearby Gets No Hint

LOOT ONLY $20

NEW YORK, Feb. 12 (AP) — A veiled soft-voiced young gunwoman, whose nonchalant restaurant holdups numbered three, was sought today with the scantiest of clues.

Police knew only that she wears a coal black coat and hat to match the shade of her eyes, had "fine features" and a thin patrician face. She looks about 26 and not big enough to do much harm—5½ feet tall and weighing about 115 pounds.

This description came yesterday from the flustered young manager of all-night restaurant victim No. three—a Broadway chain cafe.

The manager, Albert Swank, 22, said she bought cigarettes, opened her purse to drop them in — and then let him see what else lay there in the purse. It was a small, shiny pistol, and she fingered the trigger.

"Give me what you have," she said, in what Swank described as a "nice quiet voice." (She got $20, to add to a total of $57 in two other similar robberies, all performed within eight days.)

All this subdued little by-play—including the delicate placing of a handkerchief to her nose by the robber—went on in the presence of a uniformed policeman who had no apparent reason to think anything was amiss.

Joseph Sahloff said he had applied the principle of the motor car water-heater to the bathroom in the invention of a preheated bathtub. The tub not only protects the bather against shock, he said, but warms the bathroom as well.

Take 96,000 H.P. Yearly Pay $12.50 Instead $15 From Feb. 4-Oct. 1, 1971

Deal Includes Option To Purchase Company's Interest In Chats Falls Plant

FOR $15,000,000

Saving Partially Offset By Hydro Agreeing To Pay Cost Of Operating Transformer Station

TORONTO, Feb. 12.—(CP)—A court battle between the Ottawa Valley Power Company and the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission has ended with agreement on a new contract between the parties, Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn announced today.

Ontario's appeal to the Privy council against judgments totalling $1,730,000 and ruling the Power Commission Act, 1935, invalid in part has been abandoned. Costs of litigation started by the Ottawa Valley Company when original power contracts were cancelled under the act will be divided.

Judgments of Ontario courts in favor of the company will be foregone, it was explained in a statement issued by Mr. Hepburn and Attorney-General Arthur W. Roebuck, Hydro Commissioner. Details of a new agreement between the commission and company were given in the statement.

Retroactive to February 4, the new agreement calls for purchase of the entire 96,000-horsepower output of the Ottawa Valley Company by the commission at $12.50 a horsepower. Price called for by the cancelled contracts was $15.

Option On Plant.

The Hydro Commission also obtained an option to purchase the Ottawa Valley Company's interest in the Chats Falls plant on the Ottawa River for approximately $15,000,000. The plant was developed jointly by the Commission and the company.

"The option clause was put in at the company's request," said the statement. "We have no thought of ever acquiring property in the Province of Quebec."

Two clauses in the original contracts to which the government objected have been eliminated. These provided the Hydro Commission would absorb taxes imposed on exported power by the Quebec government and also enabled the Ottawa Valley Company to withdraw power at will.

Reduction in the price from $15 to $12.50 is partially offset by the commission agreeing to bear the entire cost of the transformer station operation.

"The net result of the agreement is that the commission is ahead on the power purchase deal over the former contract from $126,000 to $170,000 a year," the statement said.

Option Good Three Years.

The purchase option, good for three years, provides the commission may purchase the plant by buying $9,000,000 outstanding bonds, $1,500,000 debentures and $5,000,000 par value common stock.

Period of the entire contract is for 34 years to October 1, 1971, the date

Sources close to the Royal Family said King Victor Emmanuel would decree nation-wide amnesty for Italian prisoners in celebration of his grandson's birth.

Hundreds of children born today in Italy will receive insurance policies, savings accounts and a variety of gifts offered by large companies to babies born on the same day as a royal prince.

Army Of Sit-Downers Marches From Plants Parade Through City

Thousands Join Celebrations Which Take On Armistice Day Proportions

WEEKS OF TENSION EASES

Evacuation Of 3,300 Michigan National Guards Is Expected Shortly

FLINT Mich. Feb. 12 (AP)—The "capital" of the recent General Motors strike awaited today a second evacuation—that of 3,300 Michigan National Guardsmen—to hasten a return to normal after six wearying weeks.

Departure of hundreds of "stay-in" strikers from three plants late yesterday, six hours after an agreement ending the strike was signed in Detroit, brought this city to full realization the siege of worry, idleness, restraint and privation was ending.

Conjecture over departure of the Guardsmen, concentrated here a month ago after the first of two violent outbursts at union-seized plants, was often heard. Reliable sources said it was possible some of the troops would be sent home today.

Best information appeared to be that demobilization would be gradual.

Troops Do Not Interfere

The troops stepped aside yesterday as unionists and union sympathizers celebrated termination of the protracted and costly dispute which kept idle 80 per cent of the city's wage earners.

"Sit-downers" in Fisher plant No. 1 where the first strike in Flint began Dec. 30—where first to march out after a unanimous vote on the agreement. Their withdrawal started a parade, accompanied by the din of auto horns, which moved on to Chevrolet plant No. 4, seized by strikers Feb. 1, and to Fisher plant No. 2, across the street, occupied on Dec. 30 along with No. 1.

Thousands joined in the celebration, which approached armistice day proportions. It was a cheering, singing throng, waving flags and banners and tossing confetti in the exuberance of release from weeks of tension.

National Guardsmen were withdrawn immediately from the 80-acre area which had been patrolled for 12 days by 1,200 troopers. The remainder of the guard ordered here was never called into service.

AUTOMOBILE SKIDS INTO DEEP DITCH

Mr. And Mrs. J. R. McGee Have Narrow Escape Returning From Lindsay

(Examiner Correspondence.)

JANETVILLE, Feb. 12.—A serious accident was narrowly averted on Tuesday evening when Mr. and Mrs. J. R. McGee were returning home from Lindsay. While coming through the long swamp the McGee car was followed by a large truck owned by the Lindsay Creamery which in turn was followed by a carload of local pupils from the Lindsay Collegiate.

Without warning, the first car circled on the icy road and nose dived into a three foot ditch which was filled with water from the flood of the previous night, the rear end also slewing in, the car finally came to rest facing town again. The occupants while in a precarious position were unhurt but were almost paralyzed with fear for the truck in an effort to slow down was almost out of control on the ice and while zig-zagging across the road seemed intent on annihilating them. The third car was also having difficulty to avoid becoming involved in the mix-up.

However no further accident occurred and Mr. McGee was given a lift to the nearest telephone where he secured the help of a service truck from Lindsay.

Fortunately no one was hurt and the car was only slightly damaged.

DOG WAITS 44 DAYS

Sits Outside Flint Plant Till Master Ends Sit Down Strike.

FLINT, Mich., Feb. 12.—(CP).—Songs have been sung and many stories told of canine heroes, but a dog who sticks it out with his master during a sit-down strike is something new.

For 44 days this first dog sit-downer—a collie—waited outside a General Motors plant here, sad-eyed and patient, while his master sat within. When the gates opened yesterday with settlement of the dispute, the animal rushed into the plant and greeted his owner with joy.

How to Relieve Head Noises.

If you suffer from head noises, roaring and hissing in the ears, the chances are that they are caused by catarrh. Catarrh is a condition to which people generally give little thought but it can do a lot of damage if treatment is neglected. Loss of taste and smell and a lazy, let-down feeling often result when the seriousness of catarrh is not known. Sometimes the hearing becomes impaired to such an extent there is partial deafness. The ears have a full, stuffy feeling in the morning when you awake. These are symptoms you should watch for and take immediate steps to correct.

For this purpose secure from your druggist a bottle of Parmint Concentrate (double strength) which is an old reliable English formula. One ounce of this concentrate will make 8 ounces of medicine by adding a little sugar and water.

Parmint Concentrate is a convenient home treatment for those symptoms which lead to catarrhal deafness and head noises and should be used by everyone who has this trouble. Any druggist can supply Parmint Concentrate and you can easily add sugar and water to make a big bottle of the medicine. It is a fine preparation and is widely used by our English cousins. If you have any symptoms of catarrh, don't run the risk of letting it become so deep seated that you may become totally or partly deaf.

CHARGE WEGENAST ATTACK ON CHURCH A "SMOKE SCREEN"

Crown Says Miss Palmer's Actions Proven — Must Be Shown In Public Good

CLAIMS ADVERTISING

EASTVIEW, Ont., Feb. 12.—(CP).—Crown Attorney Raoul Mercier today began argument for conviction of Dorothea Palmer on a charge of advertising by means of a pamphlet birth-control information and contraceptives. Mr. Mercier said he hoped to show "my personal feelings don't amount to anything in this case."

He said the prosecution was instituted in this way:

About five or six weeks before proceedings started an unidentified woman called his office and asked him if it were permissible to "peddle" contraceptives in Ottawa. Later the same week he received another call and afterward Constable Emile Martel visited him and told him he had received similar complaints in Eastview. He said he told Martel to investigate and as a result Miss Palmer was arrested.

Mr. Mercier declared at that time he did not know Miss Palmer, that she was a social worker or that she worked for the Parents' Information Bureau of Kitchener, Ont.

He explained that in the first information against Miss Palmer the name of a Mrs. Mousseau appeared. Mrs. Mousseau had said first that Miss Palmer had offered to sell a contraceptive.

Mrs. Mousseau, he said, subsequently changed her story and that information was dropped.

Onslaught A Smoke Screen

Mr. Mercier claimed the defence "onslaught" on the Roman Catholic Church and Rev. Canon A. H. Shalley of the Anglican Church indicated an attempt to place a "smoke screen" across the issue.

Defence counsel F. W. Wegenast protested vigorously the defence had no such intention.

Mr. Mercier said "according to my learned friend if the Pope did not interfere contraceptives could be sold with every bar of soap."

He claimed the Crown had proved the alleged actions of Miss Palmer took place in Eastview, that she was aware what she was doing and that it devolved upon the defence to prove her alleged actions were in the public good.

He read a number of legal citations and definitions to support legal justification of an action lay in proving it was done for good reason.

He then read Webster's definition of the word "advertising" in an attempt to deny the defence contention the word implied a commercial motive.

He contended Miss Palmer did advertise, through the pamphlet, instructions, drugs or articles "intended or represented" as a means of preventing conception.

He agreed the criminal code did not forbid use of contraceptives, but forbade their advertisement in order that there might be no abuse of them.

Mr. Mercier claimed also "this court is not required to decide the public good for the whole world," and further that the law existed to be obeyed until it was repealed or amended.

RESTORES SANITY BY USING INSULIN

Spokane Physician Says However Only Time Will Tell As To Permanency

SPOKANE, Wash., Feb. 12.—(AP).—Dr. John B. Plastino, Spokane physician, announced to-day he had "restored to sanity" two dementia praecox patients by administering insulin.

"Immediate results are astounding, but only time will tell as to the permanency," Dr. Plastino said.

The insulin specialist said he used a treatment discovered by Dr. Manfred Sakel of Austria. One of the patients, Dr. Plastino said, completed the treatment several months ago and is "undoubtedly normal," the other treatment was completed more recently, with the same result, he said.

"The restoration to sanity is produced by a coma through use of insulin," he explained. Within three or four minutes after restoration, he added, the patient regains preconia normality.

Professional Showmen Are Condemned By Hon. Marshall

Purchase of Prize Stock Merely For Exhibition Under Fire Of Minister

DO NOT BORROW

TORONTO, Feb. 12.—Professional exhibitors at Ontario's fall fairs were condemned last night by Hon. Duncan Marshall, Provincial Minister of Agriculture, in an address delivered during the annual dinner of the Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies.

The professional exhibitors referred to were individuals who purchased prize stock, took them from fair to fair by motor vehicle, expecting to pay for their stock with prizes won before the season came to an end. According to a report to be submitted to the association, one man paid for a small herd of purebred cattle in this manner in one year.

Termed Professional.

"There is the so-called professional exhibitor who makes a business of buying a few beasts, here and there, and running all over the country," said the Minister after reference to the real purpose of an agricultural society and country fair.

"I would say that an agricultural society holding an exhibition is not contributing much to agriculture if it encourages this sort of thing."

Mr. Marshall pointed out that long before agriculture was a department of Governments, agricul-

RESTORING BLOOM TO PRAIRIE LANDS TO BE MAJOR TASK

Commons Advances Farm Rehabilitation Through Second Reading

GARDINER OPTIMISTIC

OTTAWA, Feb. 12 — (C.P.). — Restoration of Western Canada's 18,000,000 acres of drought-stricken Prairie lands to the extent that they will comfortably maintain as many as or possibly more than the number of people now existing there is the task the government has set itself, in co-operation with provincial governments and other agencies.

By judicious rehabilitation works, including rearrangement of population, erection of storage dams and establishment of huge community feeding areas, it is hoped to abolish the recurring threat of drought and crop failures, Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture, told the House of Commons yesterday.

Livestock growers as well as wheat farmers are being considered in the Government's Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act, which was given second reading and considerably advanced without any but the most technical opposition. The bill provides for appointment of any number of committees instead of the one committee as under the present legislation, and contemplates a three-year program, of which no details are given.

During discussion of civil government estimates of the Labor Department, Labor Minister Rogers said an Inter-provincial conference may be called to prepare uniform legislation concerning the various social and labor measures passed in 1935 which the Privy Council declared unconstitutional.

CHICAGO, Feb. 12 (AP)—Attorneys for 12 insurance companies filed a stipulation with Federal Judge John Barnes yesterday, agreeing not to appeal from the verdict of the jury which awarded the Hiram Walker and Sons Distillers, Inc., $1,810,070 damages in the fire which destroyed a Peoria warehouse July 22, 1935.

At the same time attorneys for the plaintiff stipulated not to collect interest for 14 months on the amount granted by the jury.

The award is to be made within 30 days.

Today was to have been the final day for filing a motion for a new trial.

TWO RAILROADERS DIE AS SNOWSLIDE PILES INTO PLOUGH

B. C. Avalanche Hurls Engine And Four Cars Into Deep Canyon

ONLY TWO BURROW OUT

REVELSTOKE, B.C., Feb. 12 (C.P.). — Bodies of two railwaymen were sought to-day in the mountain-cradled Illecillewaet Canyon, 25 miles east of here.

Conductor John Martin McDonald and Fireman William C. Christopherson were missing in the debris of a snowslide which yesterday swept five units of a Canadian Pacific Railway snowplough train into the canyon not far from where a runaway locomotive tender last March 2 killed 16 men working in a snowslide cut.

The slide yesterday crashed down a mountainside, hurling an engine, spreader, a wing plough and caboose down 50 feet into a snow dump and toppling a second caboose another 25 feet into the cold, tumbling waters of the Illecillewaet River.

Engineer James L. Carmichael burrowed uninjured from the slide while Snowplough Foreman W. Rande was hurt slightly. Doctors and medical equipment were rushed to the scene by special train.

Less than a year ago 16 men died when trapped by a rampaging tender between the 15-foot banks of snow-cut a mile from Illecillewaet where they were attempting to put a derailed engine back on the tracks.

The tender of the derailed locomotive was being hauled to Illecillewaet by another engine when it broke away and, hurtling down the mile-long grade through early morning darkness, smashed into the work crew without warning.

Two of three men aboard the tender when it broke loose leaped to safety, but another was flung or jumped into the canyon bordering the tracks. His body was found later.

Will Not Place Ban On Games Of Bingo

TORONTO, Feb. 12.—The Ontario Government has not the slightest intention, it was reported last night of interfering in the present Provincial-wide bingo or lotto craze, in spite of the fact that Hon. David A. Croll, Minister of Welfare and Municipal Affairs, has promised Hamilton that he will bring the matter to the attention of Cabinet.

"We'll have a bonnie or bingo game on every corner in Hamilton soon," Mayor William Morrison of that city, and a deputation, advised Mr. Croll yesterday. Council, said ly virtually every night with no interruption by authorities.

Ontario cities which report considerable bingo activity with recent increases in popularity are St. Catharines, Woodstock, Niagara Falls, Windsor, London, Brantford, Peterborough, Belleville, Brockville, Guelph, Chatham, Kitchener. A few of the cities, Belleville, Brockville and Chatham report the game especially popular around Christmastide with turkeys as prize.

St. Thomas and Sault Ste. Marie, where the game has been played widely for the last couple of years, note a slight waning in popularity. At Timmins interest is gauged as holding steady.

In the east, Charlottetown, Quebec City, Montreal, Moncton, N.B., and New aWterford, N.S., are reported as thriving bingo centres. At Halifax and St. John the civic administrations have frowned on the game so that it is permitted only for strictly charitable purposes.

West Strong For It

Winnipeg, Edmonton and points West equal the East in their enthusiasm for the game. In Winnipeg when one newspaper printed criticism of the game, scores of people wrote, telephoned or visited its offices to protest. Said one woman, in defence of Bingo: "It is the cheapest and sanest form of amusement for people with limited means."

"Before Bingo became popular in Winnipeg, she stated, she never knew where her husband was and oftentimes he came home the worse for liquor. Now she takes him and her sons to Bingo parties. It generally costs them 35 cents each and they have a chance of winning $10 or more. One week the woman won $21.50, she said.

Most place in Canada play with household articles for prizes. Some operators offer part cash prizes or the privilege of turning in the groceries for cash. Grocers and theatre men in certain sections tend to dislike the growth of the game. Some women get most of their groceries playing Bingo and neglect the storekeeper. Some theatre owners fear it is taking away customers.

Bingo, at any rate, seems to have its romantic side. Following advertisement appeared in the personal column of a Toronto newspaper: "Mabel—will meet you Wednesday at the Bingo game Veterans' Hall, College street—George."

the Mayor, had 180 applications for permits to hold bingo gatherings. In many cases, he charged, promoters took over operation of such parties under the name of some church or lodge, and gave these organizations only a small portion of their take. Some effort to curb the craze should be made by the Government," he said.

LAST YEAR HARDEST MINISTER RECALLS

1936 Most Difficult In 27 Years In West, Rev. Mr. Bater Says

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 12.—Rev. C. M. Bater of Maryfield, Sask., in the dried out areas of the Canadian West sent the following letter in appreciation of articles sent in a bale which they recently received. The letter was sent to Miss Margaret Sanderson, Lakefield.

The Manse, Maryfield, Sask., Feb. 2, 1937

Miss Margaret Sanderson,
Lakefield, Ont.

In a box of clothing that arrived at our house from Regina last Saturday was a coat, the pocket of which contained your name and note. My son Gordon is now enjoying the warmth and comfort of the coat, thanks to your kindness, and I write to express our appreciation of the same.

I have been a minister of the Presbyterian and later of the United Church for twenty-seven years in the West, but this has been by far the hardest and most difficult year I have ever known. In 1936, our crop was most promising until July; then rust set in and in a few days all the crop was gone. In 1936 it was still worse, for it was so dry, and the hot winds were so blighting that nothing grew, so that crop-yields were the worst ever known in this district.

Our people were sorely tried, and those who attend and support the church found themselves unable to do as they would desire. Last week I received a box of bedding and clothing for our needs, which Mrs. Bater and I appreciate beyond words. With a large family of growing children it is a real problem in these difficult days, and so we are very grateful to our friends for their help.

The church is a great help to many people these days. Its services provide spiritual uplift that is invaluable in the midst of economic distress, and it is a great joy to be of some service to so many heroic souls who are so sorely pressed.

I want, on behalf of Mrs. Bater, myself and family to thank you for your kindly help. The coat will be a constant reminder of your kindly interest in the welfare of needy ones in the West.

With all good wishes,
Very sincerely,
C. M. BATER.

AGREED CHARGES SEEN FOR FREIGHT

Purpose In Transport Bill Is To Meet Road Competition Says Meighen

OTTAWA, Feb. 12 (CP)—Support for the provision in the transport bill by which traders and either of the railways may agree upon special freight charges, subject to approval of the proposed new board of transport commissioners, was voiced before the senate committee today on behalf of the Canadian National Railways.

The railway was represented by Bernard Allen, of its bureau of economics, Montreal.

"The new provision is the same as the one now in operation by legislation in England," Mr. Allen said.

To Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, the C.N.R. official said the purpose of allowing these agreed charges was "to meet highway competition."

This had been the objective in putting this provision in the British railway act in 1933 and the design under the present bill was to serve a similar purpose in Canada.

Where a contract was made between either the C.P.R. or the C.N.R. with any trader for an agreed rate as applied to one or more products, it would of necessity have to be filed with the transport board, Mr. Allen said.

"I am afraid the board is going to be swamped," Senator J. A. Calder (Cons. Saltcoats) remarked.

The practice in England was that these agreed rates were not only filed with a tribunal before its approval but "they were posted at the station of origin of the traffic and the station of destination of the traffic," Mr. Allen stated.

plaints while the guards are at the far end of the corridor.

Claims Headip Unfair

"The superintendent is not fair," said the next witness, a prisoner of 20 serving his third term for minor offences. "I was taken before him on three different occasions and each time he did all the talking and I went in the hole for punishment. I tried to tell my story but he said he was here to tell me."

Some heifers brought to the reformatory from Burwash "a couple of months ago had sores on the joints, were the poorest cattle ever brought here," said another prisoner, aged 20, who worked in the abattoir.

A French-Canadian prisoner aged 20 said prisoners' quarters were changed so as to break up acquaintances and friends.

An Albertan of 21, a prepossessing, tall, dark-haired prisoner, entered the reformatory in March of last year but did not receive a fresh set of clean blankets until Jan. 11 of this year, he told the inquiry. In June he had secured a set of blankets which had been used only a short time by an acquaintance who had finished his term.

His only complaint was that "36 prisoners sleep in one dormitory and the windows are always closed. It is unhealthy. When I was in one dormitory I was close to a window and opened it at night. Someone else would usually close it but I would reopen it after they had gone to sleep. The dormitory would smell in the mornings with so many sleeping there overnight."

at which the original contracts would have expired.

The statement said: "In fairness to the Ottawa Valley it is provided that if, after 1945, the commission purchases hydro-electric power generated in Quebec at higher prices than now paid the Ottawa Valley Company, this contract price is to be increased to a similar rate."

Mr. Hepburn said there would be no speculation in stocks or bonds of the Ottawa Valley Company as these were tied up for the three-year option period.

"The Ottawa Valley Company could have had this contract a year ago," the Premier said. "They would have saved money had they been reasonable."

sion, with the consent and approval of the government, at any time within the next three years, to purchase the capital stock of the Ottawa Valley Power Company for a fixed sum of $5,000,000.

Another $163,000 Saving.

"Calculations have been made by the engineers and actuaries of the Commission, showing that the exercise of this option will save the Commission a further annual sum in capital charges and operating costs of $163,000. The chief element in this annual saving will be the reduction of interest on capital invested in the enterprise.

"At the present time the Ottawa Valley Power Company has an issue of $9,000,000 5½ per cent. bonds in the hands of the public; in the company's treasury, as yet unused, there is debenture capital of $1,500,000 earning interest at 6 per cent.

"The Commission is quite sure, with Government backing, these issues, and especially the $9,000,000 of 5½ per cent. bonds which are callable in the present year at 104, can be replaced by money at 3½ per cent, or less.

"Under public ownership as well as operation of the entire plant, there will be an annual appropriation for sinking fund of $245,282. Including this and interest on the investment, together with sufficient appropriation for depreciation and contingencies, the annual cost of operating the plant would be $1,610,744, or $163,000 less than the cost of operating with the capital supplied in part by the public for the Commission's plant and in part by the owners of the Ottawa Valley Power Company.

Could Make Additions

"Moreover, if the commission were to come into unfettered ownership and control of the entire plant which, it will be remembered, has been and will continue to be operated by the commission on both sides of the interprovincial boundary, additional units could be added to the plant on each side, or on the Quebec side, whichever might be found most convenient.

"The storage of water for this additional generation of power from this enlarged plant would probably cost 40 cents per horsepower. The ultimate cost per horsepower, under these conditions on a total product of 260,000 horsepower, would be less than $7 per horsepower. This would make the Chats Falls plant, under public ownership and operation, one of the cheapest power-producing installations on this continent.

"We hope to be able to convince the power consumers of the Niagara system and the members of the government that public ownership as well as operation of the Chats Falls plant will yield a profit in the next 30 years of probably over $6,000,000 additional to the saving under the new contract to be applied in the reduction of the cost of power in the Niagara system."

FIXED ASSESSMENT ACTION ATTACKED

Stratford Mayor Charges Number Of Industries Given Levies Illegally

STRATFORD, Ont., Feb. 12 (C.P.). — A number of Stratford industries and the Arena Gardens have been given fixed assessments illegally, asserted Mayor T. E. Henry last night. At a City Council Finance Committee meeting the Mayor moved assessment commissioner and the tax collector be instructed to carry out their duties by assessing the properties at their proper values and collecting taxes.

Later, when Ald. D. B. Strudley said he would like to know if it were legal for one Council to observe agreements for fixed assessments for the current year, the Mayor withdrew his motion pending an opinion of the city solicitor.

When the chairman of the Finance Committee, Ald. C. E. Moore, put Mayor Henry's motion to a vote only the Mayor voted for it.

Another flurry was created when an account for $20 for the horse-purchasing sub-committee appeared in the account for the Board of Works.

Ald. R. G. Murdie, chairman of the Board of Works and of the sub-committee, said the item was for loss of time of members of the committee, for their expenses and for the expenses of city engineer's car.

Mayor Henry said there was no provision in the statutes for an alderman to accept money for loss of time.

Ald. Mardie said he was content to submit to a ruling from the city solicitor, but claimed he had stayed off work to take the trips into the country to obtain a good horse for the city.

Striping Coal Seams Buried Under 30 Feet Earth

The UPPER photograph shows Canada's largest electric shovel, weighing approximately 600 tons, used in "strip" coal mining at Estevan, Sask. An idea of its size may be judged by the automobile in the foreground. The LOWER photograph shows a small "brother" of the huge shovel, loading flat cars with coal. Notice the men sweeping the ground near the shovel. Three dumps from this machine fill one four-ton pit car, the entire train of 10 cars being loaded in less than 10 minutes.

COLLIERIES FEEL BIG MINING BOOM IN SASKATCHEWAN

Over One Million Tons Of Lignite Mined In 1936 Near Estevan

HUGE SHOVEL USED

ESTEVAN, Sask., Feb. 12.— When the north wind swept over Western Canada to record the coldest January in 63 years, the output from Saskatchewan's largest colliery at Estevan reached unprecedented heights for that period. As many as 260 cars of coal a day left here as all mines in the district felt a stimulation of business following the lull of the long, mild fall.

While the output in the past six years has been doubled, the marked increase from the 240,197 tons mined in the province in 1915 to the 1936 figure of over a million tons partly indicates the progress which is being made. With the exception of some 120,000 tons, all was mined in the vicinity of Estevan.

Although Souris lignite was not unknown in the 19th century, little real development was made before the Great War. True, early homesteaders utilized the product, and small mines sprang up to supply the community's needs, later followed by the large mines now in operation. But it was the demand for cheaper fuel during the past few years of economic depression which resulted in the opening of markets hitherto unknown and an ever-increasing volume of trade.

Chiefly Used in the West.

One wonders why for so many years Western Canada imported thousands of tons of American anthracite and why Alberta coal found so ready a market in Saskatchewan and Manitoba when Nature's fuel bed lay so conveniently at hand. In many cases first experiments with Western lignite proved disastrous to those accustomed to burning harder coals, so that development was retarded through prejudice. To-day most points in the southern sections of Saskatchewan and Manitoba use Saskatchewan lignite almost exclusively in their principal buildings and for domestic purposes.

It has been proven conclusively that a saving of from 20 to 50 per cent. is realized by the burning of this fuel in properly equipped furnaces, and although freight rates are prohibitive for shipping great distances, lignite travels West into Alberta, north to Big River in Saskatchewan, north to the Flin-Flon in Manitoba, and east as far as Kenora and White River in Ontario.

Few Shaft Mines.

The total known lignite reserves of Saskatchewan are estimated at 2,412,000,000 tons, with a probable estimate of 57,400,000,000 tons. Two billion tons of the known reserve lie in an area of 75 square miles in the Souris Valley around Estevan and Bienfait and almost anywhere in the district coal may be dug from a hillside.

The shaft method of mining coal is well known and there are innumerable mines which have successfully carried on such operations for a considerable time, but the method of strip mining is comparatively new to this country. Although this process of mining lignite is used in North Dakota, the first strip mine to operate in Canada was opened in 1930 at Estevan on a coal seam averaging 12 feet in thickness which is to-day the largest producing mine in the province.

In the 1,600 acres of land comprising this mine the overburden consists chiefly of clay and sand varying from 30 to 60 feet in depth, and it is removed by means of a giant electric shovel similar to those used in dredging the Panama Canal. This shovel, which moves along on its own power, is the largest in the Dominion, and weighs 600 tons. In less than one minute the boom turns and drops the 66-foot dipper stick with its bucket which scoops up 10 tons of earth at a single bite, swings around and drops it on the ever-growing pile of over-burden already removed and returns to its original position. Its best digging record is a little better than 10 cubic yards per minute.

Ground Is Swept.

A fine dull-colored clay which for centuries protected the coal from infiltration of water and air, is found both above and below the coal seam, and is removed by a "bulldozer" after the monster shovel has done its work. Later the entire floor of coal is swept by men with steel brooms and the sweepings disposed of before the coal is mined.

As you walk along the coal bed where a railway track is laid, you see a smaller electric shovel with a capacity of 1¼ cubic yards, mining and loading in the same operation. Three dumps fill one four-ton pit car and the entire train of ten cars is loaded in less than ten minutes and on its way to the tipple for sorting and cleaning.

Impurities Removed.

The coal cleaning plant in operation here marks an important step in the elevation of low rank coals in the industry. This plant is the first in Canada, if not in the world, to be installed for commercial operation on high moisture lignite, which is the lowest in rank and heat value. Impurities are removed by an air-cleaning method. As the mining of coal is generally associated with underground tunnels and men with lamps and picks, this new outdoor method of digging coal in the sunlight presents a new aspect of the industry. The possibilities in the lignite field are slowly being realized and Saskatchewan's future coal mining activities are being followed with interest.

An airplane shop being constructed near London covers 15½ acres.

We Hope He Works Hard

Trouble has developed in a wood camp at Massey in Algoma. Recently 35 men who had been on relief in the Sault went to that camp for the purpose of working, but now some of them are back in the Sault and others have started for another camp.

As usual there are reports of trouble. There were no plans or provisions made for the men when they reached Massey; the owner of the camp would not sign an agreement to pay wages. The operator of the camp on the other hand says there are "Reds" in the organization, and that they had selected a camp committee on the way from the Sault and they intended to run the place.

Hon. David Croll has ordered a relief inspector to go at once to the place and report to him. We hope that inspector stays long enough and works hard enough to get all the facts so the Minister can have an adequate picture of just what did take place. That story is typical of many others, and the public is left wondering where blame should be placed. There is nothing new or mysterious about setting up a camp and taking out pulp or any other kind of wood; the same thing has been going on in many parts of the Dominion for years. But in recent times there has been this infernal commotion always rising to the surface, and for that reason we hope Mr. Croll's native runner comes back bearing with him the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth.

There Is Nothing to Learn

City Council of Kitchener passed a resolution asking that amendmnets be made in existing laws so slot machines can be declared illegal. In seeking general support on the move one of the resolutions was sent to the council of Verdun, Que.

Reports telling of its reception include this phrase used by Mayor Herve Ferland: "Verdun has no lessons to learn from Kitchener or elsewhere."

The Examiner has not much confidence in the custom of council sending some of their resolutions broadcast and asking other municipal bodies to endorse them. It is a habit which has been suffering from over-development within recent times.

Nor is there much to be said for the attitude that "Verdun has no lessons to learn from Kitchener or elsewhere." There is something rather pompous about such an utterance, something which does not exactly indicate whether one should laugh or be inclined toward mild grief.

Whether Verdun has actually reached the point where it can learn nothing whatever from Kitchener is something on which we have no information. Kitchener is a well-regulated place, the home of a great many thrifty and hard-working people, and it is just possible that the rather loquacious first magistrate of Verdun might journey thence and depart bearing with him more wisdom than was his upon arrival.

It Should Be Encouraged

Peterborough Board of Health is starting to increase the home nursing service conducted in this city, and the blunt fact is there is room for improvement. This city is not as far advanced in that line as many other communities.

We know the infant mortality and maternal death rate in this city is too high, and knowing that there is only one step to take—start preparations to reduce it. There is no reason whatever why methods which have proved effective elsewhere should not give similar results here.

It will cost money, but it will save lives, and when that is the issue there is no room for argument regarding what should be done.

The work of the Public Health nurse or the Victorian Order nurse should not be confused with that of the regularly qualified Registered Nurse. The Registered Nurse can qualify for work of that kind but it requires special training. The service goes to the homes of the community where it is impossible to engage a regular nurse. It is not in open competition at all with the work of the regular nurse, but seeks to make possible a very essential service at the minimum of cost and in certain cases at no cost at all. When the Board of Health has gone a sufficient distance into this field the people of Peterborough will find the investment to be fully justified.

The Taking of an Oath

Goderich court had another of those Bible-kissing episodes in the taking of an oath. One witness had been sworn when a lawyer raised objection. She had taken the Book in her right hand, but she had not actually kissed it.

Judge Costello ruled that the witness by raising the Book in her right hand had solemnly pledged to tell the truth.

The lawyer in the case contended he was not satisfied with witnesses merely bringing the Bible near the lips, but not actually kissing it. There was the chance they might feel they had not been sworn when they failed to complete all the movements.

What value there may be in that contention we do not know, but it is an admitted fact that plenty of witnesses go through all the formalities; they touch every base as they complete the circuit—but they do not tell the truth. We do not for a moment belittle the administering of an oath, but it stands to reason that the holding of the Bible in the upraised hand is just as impressive and solemn as kissing the Book, and likewise a great deal more sanitary.

Too Good To Be True

The Globe and Mail of Toronto carried a line saying "Good Crop Year Will Put Prairies Back on Feet," and the story which accompanies it tells of observations made mostly on the way to Regina by a staff writer of that paper. We quote: "Give the West a 400,000,000 bushel crop this next crop year—yes, even a 350,000,000 bushel crop—with a net 75 cents to the producers and the debt-stricken prairie provinces will be back on their feet again."

At first glance that seems to be a large order. It is known that over two-thirds of the field crop acreage of Canada is concentrated in the three prairie provinces and also that wheat is the predominant grain crop. There was production far beyond the 400 million figure, but it was in the record year of 1928, when Canada produced 556,726,000 bushels of wheat. The 400 mark was last attained in 1932, while in 1936 the figure was 296,510,000. There is another stipulation by the Globe and Mail writer, that there shall be a net return of 75 cents per bushel to the grower, and this paper does not believe the Western farmer has 75 cents per bushel left for himself in any crop year.

Between the years 1931 and 1936 the Western provinces have faced the most serious grasshopper attacks yet recorded, and entomologists warn the attack will be severe in 1937. The outbreak has increased in intensity until in 1934 there were 78,000,000 acres under attack, and grasshoppers can readily cut a yield in two.

But if the West did have a 400,000,000-bushel crop we doubt if complete recovery would become effective. That would be too much to expect. There are thousands of farmers on relief in that section, and they are in debt. It would indeed be a remarkable crop which would undo all the mischief since 1928, and there are great areas where nothing but rough passage has been on the chart since that year. There would be widespread cause for thanks if the West got its good crop in 1937, if moisture were sufficient, and if the grasshoppers departed, but one good crop cannot equal seven lean years.

It Is Our Business

It is not proper to make comment on the probe at Guelph Reformatory while the investigation is in progress, but now and then there are certain features of that probe which bring to light facts which do not in any way reflect on the management of the institution, but which rather have a bearing on the times in which we are living.

During one day's hearing there were thirteen inmates questioned, and they were between 17 and 23 years of age. None of them had ever learned a trade; most of them had not passed entrance. Only two of the 13 had ever worked; one had sold ice cream cones in a grocery store and the other had worked for a time in a steel mill. It was also found that most of them were not anxious to attend school at the Reformatory, nor were they keen to take opportunity to learn a trade there.

There was a discussion in the House of Commons recently on a point somewhat similar—the effect of being unemployed on an individual and to what extent it influenced his becoming classed as an unemployable person.

We fear too many persons refuse to get uneasy and bothered about the events of today. They seem to take refuge in the belief that things will right themselves, and when business swings up a little more all will be well. Plain truth is all is not well. Nor anything like it.

This group of young fellows at Guelph had never learned to do anything useful. They had never learned a trade, and the reason for that might well be there was no place where an apprentice was being taken on when these boys were ready to go to work.

On the same day there was a report from Toronto telling of the arrest of several young men who had been stealing on a generous scale and making arrangements to dispose of their loot. One young man of 20 is reported as having taken another name in order to protect his mother and father. Inquiry furnished the information that he came from a good home, and information given by the parents was that "he was out of work."

And that same condition—out of work—is at the bottom of a good deal of the trouble into which youth runs today. These young people did not create that situation; rather are they the victims of something which has been created for them. Their elders in places of authority may have done a good deal of investigating; they have undoubtedly made effort to deal with the results of depression, but when it comes to getting at close grips with the real business of what is wrong, they have done little. We cannot with complacency wash our hands and say we are not responsible for the conditions which these youths face—no work, no trades. The finger of accusation points straight at us.

Eleven areas in the district will be closed to fishing this summer. Anglers however will probably find that there are many other places where they cannot catch fish.

Prisoners at the Guelph reformatory complain of the quality of the food; the guards on the other hand describe the omelets served as "beautiful". The truth is somewhere in between these extremes.

Fair boards have been advised to elect as directors only men as may be expected to give good service. That is counsel that might be applied to the election of men for any organization.

When members of parliament raise such petty issues as the paying by the Dominion of the dog tax of the British High Commissioner the argument that Canada has too many legislators looks still more reasonable.

No action has been taken against P. J. Rowe, social credit member for Athabaska in the Federal House for his criticism of the Aberhart government. And incidentally no one has yet answered Mr. Rowe's challenge to name the steps that have been taken to establish social credit.

PUZZLED

(By A. R. K.)

¶ I read it in a magazine, the slickest thing I'd ever seen, on growing bulbs indoors; and they would bloom and look like spring, and I could easy make the thing, when I had done my chores.

¶ I would not have to wait till June, to see the pretty things in bloom, for bulbs grew fast I read; and I could have them white or blue, 'twas best to work on quite a few, nor rush them much ahead.

¶ I got the bulbs like how I should, was told that every one was good, I stored them in some crocks; and next I started up quite thrilled, I was about to plan and build, a goodly window box.

¶ I got some boards of goodly wood, I sawed them up as best I could, I put in hours at night; I put in nails three inches long, to make the thing stand up quite strong, I wanted it just right.

¶ The neighbors came and watched me toil, and said they'd fetch a cart of soil, my box looked rather big; and some of them inclined to scoff, asked if I meant to build a trough, so I could feed a pig.

¶ But I could close my eyes and see, the blooming bulbs as they would be, nor would I wait for spring; I measure off each place I find, but one thing's heavy on my mind—where will I put the thing?

Our Statesmen At Their Labors

(Official Parliamentary Reports)

Mr. LEADER: I hope I am not presumptuously criticizing the estimates of the Prime Minister when I say that to my mind our expenditures in connection with our offices overseas and in the United States have been growing at an alarming rate. Last year in this house I criticized the increase under the late administration in the cost of upkeep of Canada House. To-day I find myself in a peculiar position, supporting a government for whom I have a great deal of respect, but which is increasing the estimates for this very same institution. With regard to the salary that our high commissioner enjoys in London, it is difficult to know just how much he gets. I think the salary is actually about $14,000 a year, and on top of that he gets an allowance of $28,000, which means that he receives a salary of over $40,000 a year.

Mr. BENNETT. That is right.

Mr. LEADER: and if I understand aright, this estimate provides an additional salary of $1,900.

Mr. BENNETT: That is part of the $14,000.

Mr. LEADER: At any rate he is getting $42,000 a year. I listened to the Prime Minister as he read the different items of expense, but I did not hear him read the item to which I am about to refer, and which to me would be ridiculous if it was not an imposition on the taxpayers of this country. In the auditor general's report you will find that the Canadian taxpayers are asked to pay a dog tax of $2.25 to the high commissioner in London. Looking a little further one finds that we are paying $28 for dog tax to our ambassador at Washington.

Mr. LAWSON: The question is, who is the dog.

Mr. LEADER: To me it seems ridiculous.

Mr. MACKENZIE KING: May I at once correct my hon. friend? The dog tax that is being paid for by the government is not for any official of the Canadian government. In the case he mentioned it was a tax that was paid for the High Commissioner of Great Britain who is resident in Ottawa. I believe there are also dog taxes paid for some of the ministers of other legations. That is done because of a custom that exists as respects the diplomatic service generally whereby local taxation is borne by the government of the country to which a minister may be accredited. That explains the dog tax item.

Mr. LEADER: I thank the Prime Minister for his explanation, but I still think the taxpayers of this country should not be called upon to pay a dog tax for anyone.

TIME TO STOP

Mr. T. L. CHURCH (Broadview, Toronto): I do not believe in the procedure of setting up ambassadors throughout the world, and I have not believed in it since I have been a member. We know they are supposed to look after trade matters. Under the Stature of Westminster we are a separate country and make our separate treaties. Only inviable ties bind us to the motherland. We are as independent under the Statute of Westminster as Spain or Ireland, and I repeat that if the present policy is carried to its logical conclusion it will most certainly lead to the dismemberment of the empire.

In connection with the trouble with Italy Canada announced as an independent nation that she would apply sanctions. In my constituency I have three or four hundred first-class Canadians who wanted to know what it meant. "Does it mean that Canada is opposed to Italy?" The same question was asked candidates throughout the country during the last election campaign. So far as I am concerned if I have the honour to sit in the house any longer—and I do not care whether I do or not—I shall consistently oppose these votes for useless ambassadors who wear three-cornered cocked hats and go among foreign peoples representing Canada, a nation with no army, no navy and no air force to protect its shores but that of the motherland for its defence.

Instead of leaning on the Monroe doctrine let us seek something more substantial. May I tell hon. members to my left that in the late war, without the protection of the British fleet the American government could not have transported a soldier. That is how much independence we may expect in the future, if we depend on that country.

I believe the work in Tokyo could be done just as well by a trade commissioner and that the embassy might as well be closed up. It is fortunate that we did not open an embassy in Spain or Italy, because had we had one in Spain it might have been lost. We might have had to send Canada's ignoble and vainglorious navy over there to protect us. The people of Ontario do not believe in the policy of establishing embassies, and they are definitely opposed to the doctrine of separatism, because, sooner or later, it will mean dismemberment of the empire.

COST OF LIVING.

(Brandon Sun)

AN UPWARD tendency in foods, clothing and rentals caused the Dominion Bureau of Statistics cost of living index to advance from 80.5 to 81.8 during 1936, an increase of 1.6 per cent. This represents a rise of less than seven per cent. since the low point of the preceding recession which ended in June, 1933, and compares with an increase in wholesale prices of over 28 per cent. for approximately the same period. Retail prices, of course, have not had time to become fully adjusted to the recent sharp advance in wholesale prices. The food price index mounted 2.2 per cent. during 1936, with higher quotations for eggs, milk, cheese, bread, flour, rolled oats, tea and potatoes, but the only large increase was for potatoes which had been unusually low in the preceding year.

SUGGESTS A TEST

Editor Examiner:

Sir: There has been a lot of discussion regarding pasteurized milk in recent issues of the Examiner. Having many years of experience in the manufacture of cheese I just want to add my mite to the question. There is a natural bacteria in all milk known as lactic bacteria which is very constructive. The question is, can destructive bacteria be destroyed without injuring the constructive.

I would suggest that the Board of Health this coming summer put three children two years old in a tent on Nicholls Oval for three months and give them all the pure natural milk testing 4% they can take; also three children under the same conditions and give them pasteurized milk and the whole question will be settled.

EINSTEIN

Editor Examiner:

Sir: Einstein, the supreme mathematical physicist of modern times, laughs at the idea of the "modernists" who are attempting to introduce man as the ultimate source of knowledge and inspiration. It is of course no new thing, this appeal to man as the maker of his own destiny, but it is doing more harm than all other sources of harm combined since it invites mankind to reject a supernatural God and to rely upon himself.

It is this "modernism" that we must fight against in the education of the young or else they will have nothing to rely upon but their own ungoverned will. Churches will change to forums.

J. H. BURNHAM

MORE ABOUT THE DEVIL

Editor Examiner:

Sir: In your paper of Jan. 8th there is a headline "Sold Out To The Devil." But the writer does not mention whether it was himself or someone else who had sold or made the bargain. I'm afraid we are all in the balance and found wanting. I am surprised that the writer did not attack this magic and mysterious man, Kirma, while he was in our city. The writer had ample time to do so. The writer says that to hold pages of our daily paper in one evening's issue, and more or less every night, that would have been a Christian spirit and let us give the Devil his due, and meet him face to face. Let us remember when Christ spoke to the scribes and Pharisees He did not speak to them behind their backs, but face to face. For your satisfaction, read Matthew 23rd chapter.

The writer seems to be grieved over that the merchants were advertised and that hundreds of adults and minors went to the show-house to get money supposedly to help the survivors of the great Ohio flood. If this was of the devil I think he did a great deed.

One store gave patrons the store window and a new bed for a female of the human race to lie in full view of men, women and children under hypnotic spell for 24 hours and then brought to the theatre and there, before hundreds and mostly professed Christians, was recovered from this spell. But to my surprise the window and bed remained. The writer wonders if Almighty God does not send, not to say allow, something as bad as the Ohio flood to be meted out in our own city. I would says as Christ said, "What is that to thee, follow thou Me." And the writer complains that there is not a word from the pulpit or the press in protest!

In the morals of our city, not too good as it is, our young men and women are going to hell fast enough without bringing more hell from outside. If this magnetic person, Kirma, brought hell into Peterborough, he must have had a special train when he came. And I am quite sure that when he left Peterborough he took the same hell with him and we still have our young people. The writer says he is not in favor of poolrooms, dance halls or beer parlors or any gambling device or any bingo which is practiced in some of our churches. I am quite sure that if our writer lived of Christ he would draw all men to himself, as it will never be by a dictatorship. You can lead a horse to water but you can never make him drink. The writer says that there is on church at least in Peterborough. I wonder if that is the Pentecostal Church which he referred to. This church is not mentioned in the New Testament, neither are any of the other organizations. What is the church? It consists of believers and we find some believers in every organization. These individual believers form the Church of God, but not as a congregation.

There are instructions. Read 1st chapter, 1st Corinthians, 2nd verse, "Unto the Church of God which is at Corinth." This church came behind no gift. Where can we find a church today where there is no division? Where can we find a church that is perfectly joined together in the same mind and one spirit? Nowhere, not even in the Pentecostal Church, and we should not be conformed to the world but transformed and when God comes, have an opportunity to transform our heart and mind, then He will beautify us with His salvation and then we would see Jesus only.

No Gain For Dairymen.

(From the Woodstock Sentinel-Review.)

HON. J. G. GARDINER, Minister of Agriculture, seems to give less information to the House of Commons in putting through his estimates than any head of this department for many years back. He merely reads the items, with such notations as are appended by officers of the department. When a vote of $290,000 for the dairying branch was going through the other day, R. H. McGregor, South York, asked what the minister proposed to do in connection with the dairy marketing. In reply Mr. Gardiner merely repeated a number of small items such as an increase of $156 for communication services, $500 for thermographs and repairs, and so on. Mr. McGregor then said:

"I asked that question because, although we hear a great deal about improved conditions, we have not improved conditions in the dairy business. As regards our butter and our cheese we are very slightly better off than we were a year ago, and the dairy farmer is not receiving any participation in what is called the return of prosperity."

The minister replied that these statements were "scarcely in accordance with the facts"; that cheese last year averaged 2.6 cents more per pound.

In Western Ontario, cheese prices were in fact about two cents higher last year than in 1935, but for the most of that period and at the present time the cost of production has more than balanced the increase in milk prices. The latter, so far as cheese milk is concerned, was about 20 per cent. Cost of feeds which dairy farmers have to buy, according to details worked out recently by P. M. Dewan, M.L.A. for Oxford, and presented at the convention the Dairymen's Association of Western Ontario, are 30 to 73 per cent. higher.

Is 12½c An Hour Enough?

(From the Bowmanville Statesman.)

TO ANYONE who has to do the buying for a family and who realizes the increased cost of foods in the past few months, it must have been somewhat surprising to read in last week's Statesman that the Township of Darlington was to pay its relief men only a wage of 12½ cents per hour. In the same council minutes it is reported that road foreman and laborers will receive 17½ cents per hour, and one wonders why the man who is unfortunate enough to be a relief recipient should be singled out for a 5 cent per hour smaller wage, than the road worker, whose wage is likewise on the small side.

The payment of such wages is on a par with the moving of families from rural areas into Bowmanville at the same time having to maintain them on the relief rolls, only because the government insists that they do. In one specific incident of recent date, a man and wife and six children were moved into town. True they were moved into Darlington several years ago, but only on the understanding that farmers of the district would supply the father with work. This same family is expected to subsist on an allowance of $3.00 per week, of which 7 per cent. is paid, out for milk. That will permit an expenditure of approximately 38 cents per day to provide adequate food for a family of eight. In other words each individual in that family is expected to get three good meals daily on a per capita allowance of 4 cents per day, milk excepted.

We are sure of one thing, and that is that the right thinking people of Darlington are not favorable to the payment of what is termed in industry "starvation wages" nor are they interested in seeing relief families provided with a food allowance that is inadequate with low food prices, and absolutely without reason in view of increasing prices. It is no wonder that within a short time of their removal into Bowmanville most of the family required medical attendance. Elsewhere wages are going up in keeping with the increased cost of living. We know Darlington is having a tough time collecting its taxes as most other municipalities are experiencing, but we are still living in a Christian country where we are expected to practice the golden rule and be our brother's keeper of the less fortunate.

STRIKING A BALANCE.

(Port Rowan News)

THE towns and cities are all eager for high salaried factory men. These men will spend their money. The limit of their spending is the sum of the wages they receive. The man who spends his money as he receives it is most welcome in the city. The man who saves his money was once the popular man in the town. It was he who was able to build houses, and make the town grow. Now it is the reckless spender who makes his way to popularity. But no citizen of a great city ever stops to think that high wages makes it harder for the man who gives his potatoes, the wheat for his bread, the barley for his beer, and hens for his eggs, the turkeys for his Christmas dinner, the wool for his clothes, etc., to make a decent living. In fact, high wages in the cities makes the farmer poor. It makes the shoemaker's bills, tailor's bill, the common store bill, the carpenter's bill, the foundry bill, and every bill the farmer has to pay a little larger and all these bills put together, although singly they appear small, when put together are large enough to make them feel, that his buden is a heavy one to carry. Some day some man may have an inspiration that will show us a way out. Perhaps some day some genius will find a way by which a balance may be struck by bouncing the farmers' products to reach in value to the average wage of other classes.

ON STAMMERING.

(Manchester Guardian)

THE tendency to stammer, which troubled the new King in his early years, is a disability that has afflicted many distinguished people, including some whose occupation required them to make even more frequent public utterances than have been demanded of him. Among them was Charles Kingsley. His friend, G. W. E. Russell, once wrote of him that, while he loved talking and had an enormous deal to say on every conceivable subject, his stammer was always checking him. He would sometimes break off in a conversation, rush out into the open air, and liberate his suppressed emotions by rapid exercise or physical exertion. Yet, when he had to preach, the stammer subsided, and though there was some facial disturbance, the flow of the discourse was never interrupted.

IF IT ONLY DID.

(Vancouver Province)

THE bill to reduce the capitalization of the Canadian National Railway, long talked of but always deferred, is at last before the House of Commons at Ottawa. The net effect is to remove a sum amounting to $1,800,000,000 from the liabilities side of the company's balance sheet. If this removal of a billion and a half of liabilities really amounted to a wiping out of debt, Canada would be happy indeed. But debts are not wiped out that way. Really they are only wiped out when they are paid. So far as Canada went into debt for the sums she advanced to the national railway, she has still those debts to meet. But now the debt will not appear twice, once in the railway balance sheet and once in the national balance sheet.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 12.—Late price weakness in wheat on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday coincided with pre-holiday evening-up of accounts at Chicago, and eased early advances of as much as two cents a bushel.

The sell-off left values ½ to ⅝ cent lower at the close, at the lowest levels of the day, May at $1.28, July $1.22⅝, and October $1.12⅛. Until the pre-closing rush to sell, prices had held generally firm in a mildly erratic market.

Export sales of 500,000 bushels of wheat failed to stay the late reaction as prices at Chicago tumbled toward the last to close nearly a cent lower. Liverpool was firm, up ¼d, while gains of more than a cent were boarded at Buenos Aires.

Trade reports told of a pick-up in foreign demand for wheat, with Germany continuing to purchase substantial quantities of Argentine varieties.

Cash grains did little, while prices in the coarse grains market fell off with wheat.

RECEPTION HELD FOR APSLEY COUPLE

Successful Event In Honor Of Mr. And Mrs. McCormick

(Examiner Correspondence.)

APSLEY, Feb. 12. — Thunder lightning, and a heavy downpour of rain did not deter a large crowd gathering in the Parish Hall on Monday evening for the wedding reception of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence McCormick (nee Goldy Nesbitt), who were married in Peterborough a week ago. An orchestra from Warsaw played for the dance, and a very enjoyable time was spent until after midnight, when lunch was served. The bridal couple were the recipients of a great many handsome and useful presents.

Host Works Day, Night In Abbey Transforming It To Blue, Gold

Coronation Keeps All The King's Carpenters And Peers At Top Speed

COURT ASSIGNS POSTS

LONDON, Feb. 12—(A.P.).—All the King's carpenters and all the King's Peers have one idea to-day —the Coronation.

Workmen are busy day and night on alterations which will transform the interior of Westminster Abbey into a setting—one of blue and gold —for the crowning of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, May 12.

Commissioners of the Court of Coronation Claims appointed by the King hold their first meeting at the Privy Council offices in Downing Street to-day.

There, in the full dignity of court dress and under the presidency of Lord Chief Justice Hewart, the court receives petitions from those claiming the hereditary right to perform services at the Coronation and allot the fees due for such services.

The fact Queen Elizabeth will now be crowned in May is expected to lead to a fresh crop of claims. But is has already been announced that to secure continuity of the arrangements, claims allowed by King Edward VIII's court will remain effective under King George.

One problem which the new morarch will have to decide is, who is to carry the golden spurs. King Edward did not make up his mind which of the three claimants should be allowed the honor before his abdication, and the court already had shelved the matter, after anxious consideration, by leaving it to "the King's pleasure."

Plans for the interior decoration of the Abbey have been completed. There will be seats for 7,700 guests to view the Coronation proper.

The Material Needed

Materials to decorate and prepare the Abbey include:

1,900 square yards of carpet; more than 11,000 square yards of boarding and felt to cover the floors of the stands and corridors; 6,000 square yards of fabric for the ceilings and timbering; 1,000 square yards of blue and gold brocatelle for the front of the stands and other structures; 2,500 yards of velour; 18,000 yards of braid.

A blue chenille carpet, 173 by 17 feet, will be used to cover the processional way from the west door to the Coronation theatre.

Floors of the Coronation theatre, the Sanctuary, and Edward the Confessor's chapel will be covered with a plain carpet of pale gold.

To provide the required seating two tiers of seats will be erected in the nave on both sides of the processional way, along with three tiers in the north and south transepts.

Peers will be seated in the south transept and Peeresses in the north transept. They will have chairs covered with blue velour with gold braid and with royal cyphers embroidered on the backs.

Other spectators will be seated on stools covered with blue velour and decorated with gold braid. Padded hand-rails will form backs for the stools.

Stuart Chair. Pattern.

Design of the thrones is based, as at the last Coronation, upon the historic early Stuart chair now at Knole Park near Seven Oaks, the property of Lord Sackville. The thrones will be covered with plain crimson fabric, enriched by tassels, fringes and the embroidered Royal coat of arms.

How London herself will appear May 12, in festive attire for Coronation ceremonies, was indicated in the official announcement of preparations for street decorations.

The Coronation procession, when it moves through the streets, will lend its own color to a lavish arrangement of masts, banners, flags and ensigns.

There will be floral crowns, baskets of flowers, laurel garlands, and, in Whitehall, window boxes of flowers.

Householders along the route will cooperate so that their personal decorations will harmonize with the general scheme as evolved by special committees of architects, the British Color Council and the Royal Fine Arts Commission.

Masts 50 feet apart, each carrying two banners emblazoned with the Royal arms, and topped by a gilded and painted Imperial crown and lion, will decorate the famous Mall. Fabric in schemes of blue and red with touches of white and gold will cover spectators' stands in the Mall and in Hyde Park.

Chinese New Year Is Celebrated.

The year 4734 in the Chinese calendar was ushered in with a bang by the Celestial residents of the city. All day Wednesday, they prepared brave feasts for the occasion that included numerous imported delicacies emphasizing various sea foods, of which they are very fond, and the favored fish fins and rice and chicken, to say nothing of the strong Chinese wine that is said to blaze up like gasoline if touched off by a match. "Just about that much", said a local Chinese restaurateur, measuring off about two inches in an imaginary glass, "and you'd be away for hours." He assured us, however, that Chinese people practice self control and rarely ever get drunk. So the celebration was a seemly affair. The majority of the restaurants remained open as usual until two o'clock in the morning of Thursday, before starting in on their carefully-prepared feast, but the Mayfair closed at twelve. An hour or so later, when the delicacies had been consumed, most of the Chinese set out on a round of visits to contemporaries, proving that the custom of exchanging New Year visits is not only of Occidental origin.

One of the honored guests included in the feast at a local cafe was W. F. Green of the Oddfellows' Temple, who counts many firm friends among the Celestials of the city.

W.M.S. Group Holds Hostess Tea.

A delightful Hostess tea was an important event of Thursday afternoon in the Sunday School auditorium of George Street United Church, when the group headed by Mrs. W. J. Copp and Mrs. F. J. Redpath in the Women's Missionary Society were in charge of arrangements, and members of the group acted as hostess at forty individual tables which accommodated during the afternoon over one hundred and fifty ladies.

Decorations were of a seasonal type, with quantities of red candles, red hearts, cupids and Valentine cutouts adorning the little tables and the central table, which was done with a lace cloth, red candles in silver holders and a centerpiece of red tulips in a silver basket.

The ladies were received by the president of the Women's Missionary Society of the church, Mrs. T. Mark, with Mrs. F. J. Redpath. Members of the group who acted as hostesses included Mesdames A. Olin, S. Wildman, F. Smith, L. M. Richardson, W. G. Harris, A. McHoull, J. W. Hales, S. Kernaghan, W. J. Copp, F. W. Burnham, P. W. Hagerman, Sarah Armstrong, F. Barrett, A. Airriess, W. Burns, F. Dobson.

Tea was poured by Mrs. B. Shortley and Mrs. Felix Brownscombe. The treasurer was Mrs. Bert Manning.

A pleasant musical program, arranged by Mrs. Scott Wildman, was comprised of piano music played during the tea hours by Miss Helen Delahaye, whistling selections by Miss Mignon Mayneord, readings by Miss Jessie Tully and Eva Blanche Parr, songs by Jimmy Hawthorne and by Betty Mathers, the latter being accompanied by Adele Fitzgerald. Other accompaniments of the afternoon were played by Mrs. M. C. Parr and Miss Merrill Smith.

This charming dress of sheer crepe with plaits right down the front will give you height and slenderness.

It's truly a figure flatterer, the sort of dress you can wear almost any place.

The lingerie collar, vest and cuffs are soft and feminine. However, white crepe silk with self ruffling is a grand substitute for the crisp lingerie trim.

The stitched front plaits released just above the knees, give a grand swing to the hem. The skirt is slightly circular at the back.

Printed silk crepe is stunning in this model with plain crepe contrast.

You'll love it too made of linen, cotton prints, challis prints, tub silks, etc., for your summer wardrobe.

Style No. 3408 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50 inches bust. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 39-inch material with ⅝ yard of 39-inch contrasting and 1½ yards of plaiting.

SUBJECT to a kind of disease, which at that time they called lack of money—Rabelais.
And this:
'Tis money makes the man; and he who's none
Is counted neither good nor honorable.—Diogenes Laertius.

Dear Friends:

Back again on the subject of money and the lack of it. It is a mighty easy thing to scoff at, but how far can you go without it? Not very far.

Let a person think you have money or place, and how nice they are to you, but see how they alter when they realize that you haven't any, see how the geniality goes out of them, and how cold their voice becomes, while the film of indifference comes over the eyes that were so interested in you such a short while ago.

Rail at it as we will, money gives you power. How many of us would tell so-and-so to go to the dickens if only we had money behind us. It can give you a feeling of inferiority when you lack it, and it can very certainly give you a feeling of confidence when you have it.

And it isn't only the money in your purse that matters so much. It is the knowledge that your clothes are getting shabby, the everlasting scrabbling around to get enough to pay the rent, or the grocer, which is so aggravating.

You feel that you could do so much better work if that was not in the back of your mind all the time, and I really think you could. It ties you down in so many ways, you cannot do this, you must not do that, you wonder if you can afford some little thing you would like.

How many, like me, would love to forget all about it, but cannot because it sticks its head up all the time, it hobbles us so that we crawl instead of running, it makes us buy hamburg when we would like a nice roast, and we climb to the gallery of a theatre when we would much rather sit downstairs.

The youngsters do not hesitate to sing: "Oh baby, what I couldn't do, oo,oo, with plenty of money and you, oo,oo." But we get very noble and say, "oh money isn't everything." But try buying a loaf without it.

Don't misunderstand me. Money will not make a nasty person nice, and it sometimes can make a nice person nasty when they give it too much importance and think they can get away with anything because they have it and you lack it.

But, it is the means by which we trade with one another. We can hardly move a step in any direction without it, and we are fools indeed when we squander it, or do not acquire sufficient for our needs as we go through life.

Candidly, I have never thought enough about money, and it is a thing that makes you think about it, if you are to live at all. "The love of money is the root of all evil." But you can get a great deal of pleasure from it, without loving it, you can love the freedom from worry it brings you, you can dress as you would like to dress, you can go places and do things.

So—this year I am going after money, so that I can forget all about the darned thing. This far I have not been able to do much about it, because the 'flu came and parked beside me, and unwelcome as it is, it still hangs on, and I want to sit down on every chair I come to.

I haven't been noble about Mr. 'Flu either, but how can any one go to bed when there is no one else to do things? (Another way in which money would have been very useful.) But once I show him how very unwelcome he is, just watch me go. But right now I feel as if someone had put me through a wringer and flattened me out good. Oh, well—.

So I'll try singing "Oh baby what I couldn't do,oo,oo, and love you and leave you for now.

Your very limp,
ROBERTA.

Negro Convicted Month After Killing Housewife.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12 (A.P.). — Major Green, confessed negro killer of Mrs. Mary Robinson Case, was on the way to the electric chair to-day convicted exactly one month after the attractive young housewife was slain in her apartment.

A jury took three hours yesterday to find the bathtub killer guilty of murder in the first degree.

Judg Charles S. Colden said he would pronounce the death sentence —mandatory with the first degree verdict—February 19.

Navy, White Print

Merle Oberon, screen star, has chosen this navy and white print crepe dress for afternoon wear. Flowers form appliques over all seams of the dress, and the high neck is finished with a corded bow. The navy wool coat is lined with the dress material, while flowers from the print are cut out and appliqued along the lapel line and cuffs.

Style Whimsies

Double-duty dresses are growing more and more important in fashion circles. They are very good for resort and spring wear. They really are two-piece frocks, but when the jumper is taken off, there is a complete dress underneath. The dress, however, is of very simple type, hardly more, in fact, than a sleeveless tennis frock.

Prints for the southern resorts and for home wear now are fairly barging into the limelight. There are printed silks, printed linens and silky-appearing printed cottons. And if we don't wear them now we will next summer.

Valentines Can Carry Love or Friendship or Stab of Cruelty

Say It With a Play On Words Or With Lace Paper And Crimson Hearts

TOUCHES OF BEAUTY

(By Cathleen McCarthy)

If you saw a tall, dark and very good-looking young man apparently fascinated by the collection of valentines at a down-town counter, what would you think? Certainly! That's what we thought too. So we edged up a trifle and looked around his elbow to see the lace-paper bit of loveliness that he had picked out for the best girl.

And there was his choice, a pile of those ugly comic valentines that people who dislike each other or who have a badly misplaced sense of humor send each year on the birth date of the old saint who smiled on young lovers. This was a particularly nasty one. It was labelled "The Boss' Pet", and it showed a wide-eyed young thing with very short skirts lighting the cigar of a corpulent executive in an office chair, and apparently preparing to sit on his knee.

So if any office lady gets a valentine of this type, she might as well know that a tall, good-looking young man with very dark hair sent it to her. Along with it, he had selected half a dozen others, all of the so-called comic variety: "The Drudge" (a tired dish-wiper); "Muscle Moll" (a hefty female), and "The Social Snob."

The valentines of this year have a wide range and some of them show a rather weird sense of humor. The most atrocious form of humor is said to be the pun. There are plenty of punning valentines floating about.

"Please don't Duck the question," with an inflamed duck as the main adornment, belongs, in the same category with the Cossack youth with the moveable eyes who announces "I'm 'Russian' my heart to you", or the two fat seals, one with walrus tusks, that make eyes on the front of a card topped by the words "Let's 'Seal' it with a Kiss."

"I'm Your Valentine and I'm Good to the Last Drop", is the declaration of the little fat guy who ogles a dame with the inevitable blonde wig, while a disgusted-looking black cat regards her skinny legs with a certain amount of contempt.

Demure But Daring

"To My Love" is the pronouncement of a young lassie with parasol and lacy pantalettes. It sounds demure enough, but the mild sentiment is belied by the evident ardor of a brace of tiny cupids that prance on the little pull-out slip concealed in her heart.

"Just Doing my Share to Help the Unemployed" is the statement of a lady with downcast eyes and voluminous frilled skirts who sits on half a sofa, while the other half is occupied by a sign reading "Man Wanted."

The same brand of somewhat elephantine humor is noticeable in the mawkish sentimentality of the valentine which says: "Even kitties fall in love; so why can't you and I," with two tiny cats on the cover. Puss is attired in wedding dress and veil, with a bouquet, and Tommy wears a cutaway.

Claims Throne

Still regarded by thousands of men and women in France as their rightful queen, Madame la Duchesse de Guise, wife of the pretender to the French throne, is pictured regally accepting the homage of patrons of her annual charity ball in Paris. The lady, with back to camera, is kissing the hand of the duchesse.

There is a foreign touch to the affair which depicts a pretty damsel on a balcony, a mantilla over her black hair, being made love to by a corpulent youth in Spanish attire, who says, "Ah! Ze Love, ze flowers, ze lovely Senorita."

If you were the desired of a lovelorn youth, would you like a modernistic valentine such as the black shiny paper one with a red heart inset, which shows a smiling Chinese, and says: "I may not have a Chinaman's chance, but it's your queue to be my valentine"; or the picture of a curious guy peeking over a fence at a lady who examines her hose, and saying "In the Long Run You'll be my Valentine"; or a phlegmatic Dutchman with wooden sabots who remarks, truthfully: "For vy should I beat mit der Symbals, ven mine heart iss beating for you?"

There are valentines that take a little thought in the unravelling, such as the Mickey Mouse which shows the renowned character saying "I'll be tickled pink if you'll be my valentine." When you wonder about this saying, because he doesn't appear to be very happy, you look again and observe that he is tickling his nose with a long red feather.

"Is it Bearly Possible for you to be my valentine?" is the heavy saying of a big black bear that ambles across the face of another of these humorous ones. A little darky with patched pants gets after the little God of Love. "Hey-yo, Cupid, whah yo' at?" he asks wrathfully on the cover, while the inside page shows him wakening a 'lazy Cupid' and adjuring him to 'scram to the sweetest girl what am."

A tiny dog with haloed head enveloped in celestial-looking clouds announces: "It ain't from no angel that you get this valentine, but from one who'll keep harping 'till you say you will be mine."

The Broken Heart

But there is more than a touch of pathos to the reminder in one example which depicts a whole tragic romance.

On the cover stands a sweet little girl with heavenly blonde curls and a demure expression. Regarding her is a love-befuddled small boy with checked shorts and a tousled head. He says, in the traditionally intelligent language of lovers: "Oh gee, your eyes; Oh gosh, your hair; Oh gee, Oh gosh, my Venus", thereby leaving you in no doubt whatever as to his sentiments.

But alas, only turn the page and the scene is changed. Here the little dame's expression has changed to ecstasy as she regards the large and competent-looking red heart extended to her nonchalantly by a collegiate youth in long cream pants and rah-rah cap. While, in the opposite corner, stands the little boy in the undesirable clothes, who remarks sorrowfully, while regarding the shattered heart in his fist: "'Twill break my heart right smack apart, if someone comes between us."

So much for the humorous side. There are other valentines of differing flavor. Here is an expensive-looking little number, small but neat, with a solid-gilt cover embossed with solid scarlet hearts, that looks like a bit of old illuminated work.

Here is one of those curious affairs that recall old-time, youthful favorites in valentines, a cutout piece of stiff cardboard simulating a blue-wheel coach on which is mounted a huge blue Horn of Plenty, spilling fat pink roses and gay blue forget-me-nots.

Here is a card shaped like a bon-bon box, in silver, topped by violets and tied with blue ribbon.

Here are valentines for "My Wife", "My Friend", "My Sister", "My Mother", one of the latter a quaint thing shaped and colored like an apron, with real bits of blue gingham for strings, and inscribed: "To My Mother's Apron Strings."

And another, "To My Mother", bears on its cover an exquisite spray of white gardenias stretching from corner to corner in placid loveliness.

There are valentines with delicate paper covers and floral bouquets, with girls' heads enshrined in heart-shaped centers, with delicate sentiments concealed in their pages.

And one, the king-pin of them all, is a thing of beauty. It is a large, square valentine of the 'truly, truly' type, in a square of rose-pink paper painted in the center with an old-fashioned nosegay of pink roses and blue forget-me-nots, held in a silver cone and edged by a bit of lace that is real and has been carefully sewn in. Over this is placed a protecting cover of cellophane which is borered at the side with a blue band and tied with white silk cord ending in tassels.

Twin Sweaters and Wool Tweed Skirt

FOR ANY occasion at this season of the year—travelling, going to business, going about the various activities of the matron and club woman, on the campus, lightweight woollen suits and frocks of various types are the answer.

The classic short jacketed suit in a monotone adds a new interest to your wardrobe right now, may be worn under your fur or fur-trimmed coat while the weather continues cold, and, with a corsage of fresh flowers, steps right out for the Easter parade.

And, if you're taking time out for a trip this February, this same suit is the answer to your needs. It packs well if you don't care to wear it, and is "just right" for occasions too numerous to mention.

Sweater Sets Smart

Twin sweater sets of soft knitted wool pullover and cardigan are worn in bright, dark or pastel colors over simply tailored skirts in wool tweed or shetland weaves. A gray wool shetland skirt in herringbone weave, buttoned a short way down the centre front to meet the single inverted pleat, is an ideal complement to a bright rose sweater set in smooth ribbed knit. The one shown is in soft raspberry wool with grosgrain-bound cardigan and worn with a tan herringbone wool tweed skirt and lightweight wool hose to make a grand outfit for either active or spectator sports.

A plaid wool tweed coat and skirt costume is aristocratically at ease at home or abroad. A box coat, seven-eighths length, with notched lapels, mannish sleeves and pockets, in single-breasted style and worn over a perfectly tailored skirt whose inverted pleats in front and back given ample walking freedom, is classic. Long mannishly fitted coats or short jackets, equally simple in line, either fitted or boxed are also excellent choice for casual wear.

Velvet Used for Binding

Another distinctive wool suit is in dark monotone tweed and has a cardigan jacket and straight front-buttoned skirt. Matching velvet binds the edges of the jacket, the front closing of the skirt and the smart square pockets. A trim row of velvet buttons marks the closing of both skirt and jacket. Flattering and sporting is a matching velvet ascot tucked inside the collarless neck.

FIND GIRL BABIES SCARCE IN ENGLAND

Legislator Proposes Tax On Self And Other Bachelors—Nearly 200 In House

LONDON, Feb. 12.—(AP).—Perplexed legislators—bachelors all—besought the government to-day to do something about the strange scarcity of girl babies in England.

Bachelor Ronald Cartland, 30, Conservative, put the question of posterity up to the government yesterday, urging it to "make recommendations thereto."

He was particularly concerned that not enough girl babies were being born to take their places as future British mothers, thus accelerating the declining birth rate.

"Why," asked Bachelor Cartland, "are we having fewer children than in the past?"

Quick to answer was fellow bachelor and Conservative Richard A. Pikington.

"I learn with amazement and horror that even in this House there are nearly 200 bachelors, he declared.

Throughout the exchange, Arthur Hayday, member for West Nottingham, and father of 17 children, sat in silence.

Cartland pointed out the birth rate in Great Britatin had dropped steadily since 1875.

As a solution for the problem, Pikington suggested a tax on himself and his fellow bachelors would solve the problem by making marriage and paternity more attractive.

Tested Favorite Recipe

By MARY MOORE.

By Mary Moore

When you read through the recipe you will see that Queen Cakes are fruit filled little cup cakes that would serve if frosted nicely for a whole dessert—or if preferred serve them with some such bland dessert as cocoanut blanc mange or baked custard.

Queen Cakes

One-half sup sugar, ½ cup butter (or lard and butter mixed), ½ teaspoon salt, 3 eggs, ¼ cup currants, ¼ cup glace cherries chopped, ½ teaspoon freshly grated nutmeg, juice of 1 medium sized lemon, chopped rind ½ lemon, 1 cup flour, 4 tablespoons rice flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder. Put butter and sugar in mixing bowl and cream with wooden spoon until light and airy, the n add the eggs one by one beating well between each addition.

In another dish mix the fruit, 1 lemon rind, flour and baking powder. Stir this into first mixture with the lemon juice, and add the nutmeg. Beat very well for 5 minutes. Have buttered gem tins ready and fill them two-thirds full and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for about 20 to 25 minutes. Turn out on cake cooler and when cool frost with fluffy uncooked butter frosting or with boiled chocolate frosting.

This mixture may be made up into a loaf,—when it is nice covered with uncooked lemon frosting—it will keep well for more than a week.

Question. — I am thinking of painting my sitting room and front bedroom soon. They are papered firmly. Can you paint on top of paper successfully, or is it a better method to have it removed first? My kitchen ceiling is plastered and the kalsomine is on too thick, so I was wondering if you would advise scraping this off to place a ground so the enamel which I intend putting on is not absorbed by the paster. Please tell me the correct way to go about doing this. Thanking you for you kindness.—Mrs. S. L.

Answer.—Thank you for your letter.

Do not paint over paper. The paper should be removed before painting. Then the walls are "sized" with a liquid that the same department or store that sells your paint to you will have. This sizing puts a veneer on the plaster that prevents it from absorbing the paint.

The Kalsomine should be removed from your kitchen, too. It should be scraped or scrubbed off with a stiff brush and water — then "sized", then covered with paint or enamel as you suggest. Paint will size a pastered wall to some extent, but if sizing is used the surface will require one less coat of paint.

RUSSIAN ACTOR IN LINE FOR HONORS

Mischa Auer Nominated To Receive Statuette For Best Supporting Role

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 12 (AP). — Mischa Auer, a cadaverous Russian with one of the most tragic backgrounds of all Hollywood actors, is up for honors—as a comedian.

For his antics as the gloomy, gormandizing, monkey-imitating pianist in the film, "My Man Godfrey," Auer has been nominated to receive the academy statuette for the year's best supporting-role performance. Movie colony sentiment strongly favors him to win. If he does, it will be a curious quirk for his strange life-line.

Auer was one of the "wild boys" of Russia in 1919-20. A victim of the Great War, he was thrown into the vast hobo movement that cross the steppes in the early days of Bolshevism. His father, he said, was killed in the war. His mother, a member of the "Bourgeoisie," was harried and terrorized.

Auer was sent to Siberia. Then he made his way to Italy, Turkey and eventually the United States.

BEAUTIFUL GIRLS FOUND ANYWHERE

Experts Take Up Cry As New York Photographer Credits Middle West Alone

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 12.—(AP).—The big geographical beauty feud is settled—by unanimous disagreement. You can live anywhere in North America and still be beautiful.

Arthur O'Neill, New York photographer, started the inter-sectional feud by asserting the most beautiful girls come from the Middle West.

Three of Hollywood's most astute connoisseurs of feminine loveliness disputed O'Neill—each defending a locality ignored by the others.

"They come from the south," said Earl Carroll.

"They come from the Far West," said Leslie Wells.

"They're more beautiful on Broadway," said Dave Gould.

And the movie record books show all four beauty experts are right—pretty girls come from every part of the country, including Canada.

Carroll, now a director, and Gould served long terms in the New York revue world before they came to Hollywood. Gould, a dance director, estimates that he has hired 10,000 girls.

times, Mr. Rogers said some means may be found to satisfy the demand.

Talks With Experience

Mr. Gardiner drew on his experience as a farmer battling drought in both the Western States and in Saskatchewan, and as a cabinet minister in the Saskatchewan government to show that the open Prairie lands were capable of producing great wealth and should not be abandoned.

Some 900,000 people, he said, inhabited the triangular area of 300 municipalities which had suffered from drought in the past five years. These people could not be settled anywhere else in Canada and given the same opportunities they enjoyed where they were.

The minister spoke as the House gave second reading to his bill to amend the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act, under which drought-combating measures were initiated two years ago.

So far, the Dominion Government had advanced $58,000,000 to maintain the people of the drought area of Saskatchewan and of this sum $27,000,000 had been assumed wholly by the Dominion.

The time had come, Mr. Gardiner said, to do something more than keep the people on the land, to take some constructive steps to improve their conditions. Under the Drought Rehabilitation Scheme water-holes had been dug and dams constructed. Plans were now under way for shifting some of the farmers to better land and putting lands to their best use.

Good Crops Again

"I should like to say to those who are concerned about the future of Saskatchewan," he said, "that we are going to have good crops again in Western Canada. Some day we will have a combination of good crops and fairly good prices. When we do our position will not be impossible. That is the reason I think the government should give some attention to maintaining the people in this area."

As an evidence of the economic importance of the area the minister said the 18,000,000 acres of improved land afflicted with drought this year was one quarter of the entire acreage of improved land in the Dominion. The population in the area was equal to the whole population of Saskatchewan, the third most populous province in Canada.

In settling the western plains a mistake had been made in surveying the country out in squares and planing farmers on quarter sections, said Mr. Gardiner. The system worked out all right in some heavy soil districts but it would have been better to have had more regard for the geography of the country.

The government's plans involved re-settling some farmers around community pastures, along rivers and near waterholes where they would be able to make a living and keep their stock alive even in times of drought.

During the Great War wheat prices were higher and the government urged farmers to grow wheat in order to win the war. As farmers' sons were in the army they were introduced to power machinery and shown how to grow wheat with less labor. They had increased their wheat tremendously.

Such being the case it would not be fair for the Federal government to tell these farmers they were wasting their time growing wheat now and should get out of the country and find another way of making a living.

tural societies held exhibitions and carried on research work in Canada, and believed that these societies could still carry on the work they were primarily organized for as well as the functions of the Farmers' Institutes of the past.

Commenting on the position of the "professor" and the practical farmer, Mr. Marshall claimed that one of the difficulties with scientific agriculture was to square it with practical farming.

Doing Good Job.

"However, we have a large number of college graduates on Ontario farms who are practical farmers and appear to be making a good job of it because of their education," he said.

Warning the gathering that it must be prepared to see hard times again, Mr. Marshall urged the farmers to learn to operate their farms so that they might be able to meet conditions which might arise.

Advising farmers not to borrow nor to buy anything they could not pay for, Mr. Marshall claimed that 8 per cent. interest had driven more farmers off the land than anything else.

Mr. Marshall told the meeting that the farmers of Ontario must produce the finest products if they were to hold a place in the world's markets. People would always pay what food and clothing were worth, and a bit more, he added, if they were satisfied.

MAJOR L. BURWASH ARCTIC EXPLORER TELLS OF ESKIMOS

Interesting Sidelights On Manners And Customs Told Kinsmen

SPENT YEARS IN NORTH

Interesting sidelights on the life, manners and customs of the Eskimos were presented by Major L. T. Burwash of Cobourg in his illustrated address as guest speaker at the Kinsmen Club dinner meeting at Empress Hotel on Thursday evening.

In his long and singular career as Dominion government explorer, Major Burwash has covered over 75,000 miles of frozen trails north of the 60th parallel of longitude, and was in the Yukon during the start of the gold rush in '97.

Introduced by J. K. Sheehy a past president of the club, Major Burwash had the assistance of V. R. Henry of the Collegiate teaching staff in presenting his lecture, the latter operating the projection machine and running off the series of slides which pictured scenes of the bleak northlands into which the frontiers of civilization are being rapidly extended.

A New Member

Another feature of the program was the initiation of William "Bill" Garner into club membership. A newcomer to the city engaged in the advertising field, Mr. Garner was introduced by President Don Loucks, and was accorded a hearty welcome on behalf of the entire membership by Vice-president A. E. Chalmers who presided in the chair. Past President Dr. Bob Nott conducted the brief initiation of the "baby" member.

Fred Fowler gold medallist at Stratford Musical Festival 1935-36 and winner at C.N.E. and London Fair delighted the gathering with his singing of "Love's Old Sweet Song" and "The Lilac Tree" sung as an encore. He was accompanied at the piano by William R. Potter.

Vern Selkirk as convenor of the special committee in connection with the event, gave a brief report on plans that are going forward in connection with the Kinsmen Club Coronation Ball to be held in May. The Ball is to open at ten o'clock p.m. on Coronation Day with a fanfare of trumpets and invitations are going out to 250 couples, he indicated.

A Primitive Race

Major Burwash declared that before the recent coming of the white man the Eskimos were an absolutely primitive race of people living in the stone age far beyond the timber line. Cariboo, seal meat and fish was the very basis of their existence.

Contending that the inroads of civilization had not been wholely beneficial to the Eskimo, Major Burwash remarked, "The white man introduced to them tea and biscuits and all that. But no one would suggest they are better off for it. They are not. The white man did not help the Eskimo in the matter of diet."

Major Burwash described the dress worn by the Eskimos, outlined their mode of building igloos which last only for an average of three days, and provided a detailed description of their primitive but none the less serviceable hunting weapons and mode of transportation.

At the close of his address he was tendered a hearty vote of thanks on motion of Bert Lacey.

Douglas, M.P. for Weyburn, Sask., national president of the Co-operative Commonwealth Youth Movement, will be the speaker at a dinner in the basement of Murray Street Baptist Church on Saturday evening as the guest of the local group in this movement. Poet In Distress

Edwin Markham, 84-year-old poet, whose "Man With a Hoe" earned him fame around the world and who was recently chosen by the Academy of American Poets for a special prefatory prize of $5,000, was declared incompetent to handle his own business affairs by a New York court in a painfully dramatic sitting. This splendid character study of the aged poet was made only a short time ago.

SAW VITAMIN G ISOLATED IN LAB.

Twenty-one Peterborough Men Return From Trip To St. Louis

Vitamin G is no longer merely a name to the twenty-one Peterborough men who returned Thursday night from a four-day trip to St. Louis. Until they saw it isolated in the laboratories of Purina Mills where fourty-four men are engaged in experiments with chicken feeds, cattle fodder and so on, this vitamin was just another of the alphabetical list which they had often read about as mysterious elements of comparatively recent discovery which performed the miracle of popularizing the long neglected spinach, to say nothing of making cod liver oil slightly less palatable.

Vitamin G, so these men from the city and country report, is found in certain vegetables, notably carrots, and one of its virtues is to increase the hatchability of eggs to 70 per cent.

"Farmers along the Tenth Concession used to put a setting of eggs under a clucking hen, and if half of them produced chickens they thought they were doing pretty well," one of the men told the Examiner today, "but science has stepped into that old fashioned operation and those university men say they are not satisfied with guarantees of 70 per cent chick production. They are aiming at 90 per cent."

The itinerary of the motor bus trip from St. Louis to the company's experimental farm skirted the Ozark mountains, and included many interesting features.

TO VISIT PETERBOROUGH.

It was announced at to-day's luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis Club by Fred Johnston, that Mayor Dr. Fred Warriner of Winnipeg is to be the guest speaker on Friday of next week. Mayor George A. Macdonald is also to be a guest of the club, and he will extend to Winnipeg's Chief Magistrate greetings on behalf of this city.

Asia's biggest reservoir will be constructed at Ogochi, 30 miles northwest of Tokyo, Japan, and will be capable of supplying nearly a billion gallons a day to the metropolis.

The Rambling REPORTERS

PUSHED OUT OF WAY.

A little black spaniel on Charlotte street Thursday had the slippery road to blame for a near-fatal accident and, at the same time, owed thanks to the icy condition of the road for saving his life.

Indulging in his favorite pastime, he ran out to bark at a swiftly-moving car which was going by. When he went to pull up just short of the wheels, his feet failed to grip the ice and he sailed right under the vehicle.

The driver of the car jammed on his brakes with such force that all wheels seized. One of the wheels was kind enough to push the dog on a swift ride down the icy surface of the thoroughfare, finally casting him aside.

The pup may have realized that if the wheel had been turning he would have hung up his checks, for he streaked away to safety like a bolt of black lightning once he was clear of the car.—C.P.K.

LENTEN SELF-DENIAL

The Lenten season involves many personal sacrifices on the part of the good Churchman. For instance, one of the coterie of scribes who foregather at a certain downtown coffee club foreswore smoking of cigarettes as his act of Lenten self-denial. He is a heavy smoker, too. On Ash Wednesday unfaltering in his resolve he refused the outstretched packets of cigarettes that were thrust in his direction, but subsequently when he was observed walking along George street dragging heavily on a big fat cigar, he hastened to explain that he had not broken his resolve. "I merely decided to cut out cigarettes for the forty-day period," he said.

KIWANIANS HEAR CHARLES SHAW

"Four Things" Is Subject Of Address At Club's Weekly Luncheon

Speaking before members of the Kiwanis Club at their noon luncheon meeting at Empress Hotel on Friday and intimating that he has hopes of being able to resume his place in the activity of the group, Charles Shaw delivered an interesting address on the subject: "Four Things."

Introduced by Dr. C. M. Scott, the four things referred to by the speaker were the four indispensable qualities of ideal manhood, which he summed up in the following quotation:

"To think without confusion clearly; to love his fellow men sincerely; to act from honest motives purely; to trust in heaven and God securely. These things a man must learn to do if he would make his record true."

Mr. Shaw proceeded with a discussion of the results of right and wrong thinking and agreeing with the Scriptural saying, "As a man thinks so is he," the speaker declared. "The more good thoughts we entertain the greater and more powerful we will become. Goodness is Godness."

He dwelt on some of the various types of confused thinking, and categorized amongst this number drunkards, social climbers, white slave traffickers and disseminators of obscene literature. They were all people he said who had got a wrong slant on things and a distorted outlook.

He pointed out the great amount of work that exists for such organizations as Kiwanis, and urged members of the club to stand firm in upholding the high ideals for which their organization stands and to put self last in everything they might undertake.

President Al. Sharpe who presided in the chair extended to Mr. Shaw a hearty vote of thanks which was ably moved by "Dinny" Fitzgerald. Jack Lewis was accorded an enthusiastic reception when announcement was made that he has resumed his club membership.

Novelist Arrives

E. M. Delafield, the novelist, known in England as the "provincial lady" because many of her books are so titled, is shown as she arrived in New York. She will make a lecture tour of United States.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, February 13

A VERY LIVELY and strenuous day is predicted from the prevailing and mutual configurations of the planets. There will be an element of surprise, with affairs moving under high pressure and all the faculties and energies at high pitch. Nevertheless, there are apt to be obstacles and delays, and probably the menace of duplicity, craft or subtle enmity.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a very lively and enterprising year in which all the constructive forces and faculties will be brought to play, possibly in vanquishing stubborn obstacles or the treachery of opposing interests. If one is resolute and persistent, superiors or wealthy personages should be willing to co-operate.

A child born on this day may be energetic, have excellent initiative be practical and constructive, but may require the support of others to supply lack of confidence in its own abilities.

FRENCH-CANADIAN YOUTH THOUGHT REVOLUTION COME

Inmate Tells Rambling Story Of Reformatory Riots—Made Judge Smile

DID NOT LIKE NAME

GUELPH, Feb. 12.—A perpetual grin on his homely face and a devil-may-care twinkle in his eye, a young French-Canadian prisoner took the witness stand here yesterday and swore that he "thought the revolution had come" when riots broke out in the Guelph Reformatory, January 17.

The youngster took sly delight in making stern-faced Judge James Madden smile at his weird, disjointed account of his part in the rioting. "When things come breakin' dat day, I took out quick. Nex' morning I'm in a farmer's house; I hear de radio say everything quiet in Guelph now, so I phone de cops and tell 'em, 'Come and get me'," he said.

The Judge grinned and the boy chuckled out loud. "I get in trouble here all de time. Doin' dis and dat; nothing much bad, you know, but always in trouble. I don't get along in dis place," he related.

Doesn't Like Name

"Do the guards treat you all right?" asked Assistant Counsel Ralph Bone.

"Well, now, the guards dey call me 'Frog.' I don't like dat. Then dey shout at me. I ain't doin' nothing at all. They beller at me when I ask somethin'. They say 'Boo, go way.' Da's ain't nice."

One time a guard had called him a bad name. "But dat's all right; I call him right back again," he said.

When the riots were started, Superintendent Heaslip hadn't done anything to stop them. "De Super, he just sit dere like a kid. De windows break, he just laugh and say, 'Go ahead, it's nice music'."

Food Good That Day

He thought the food was good on the day of the riot. "We got good dinner. Nice, clean. De cup was shine, and everyt'ing. I t'ought de revoluation had come sure."

He preferred a cell to sleeping in a dormitory. "It's nice, quiet. I kip out trouble. Time, she go better dere."

"Have you any other complaints?" Mr. Bone asked once.

"I git de strap for strictly nothin'. In de call, de guards come along, dey say, 'Get up, line up, stand by de wall.' Dey always shoutin', hollerin', sayin' 'Boo' at me."

GROVE BOYS SCORE DOUBLE VICTORY

Defeated Ashbury College 8-1 And Lower Canada College 7-5

The senior hockey team of the Grove School, Lakefield, is returning home tonight from a trip to Ottawa and Montreal with two victories to their season's credit, hearty welcomes in both cities by Old Boys of the school, and incidentally a special visit to the House of Commons. The ten boys of the team were accompanied by Ken McKenzie. In Ottawa they defeated Ashbury College 8-1, and their victory in Montreal over Lower Canada College was by the score of 7-5. The team left Peterborough Tuesday night in their own sleeping car, and were accompanied to Ottawa by J. J. Duffus, M.P., to whom they alloted a drawing-room. Mr. Duffus assumed part of their entertainment in Ottawa, especially around the Parliament Buildings. In both cities Old Boys turned out to cheer for the young chaps who occupy their old desks at the School, and a warm hospitality was extended to them.

MADOC CARNIVAL COLORFUL EVENT

Floats, Clown Bands, Striking Costumes And Exciting Skating Races

MADOC, Feb. 12.—A most entertaining ice carnival was held on Monday evening under the auspices of the Men's Association of Madoc community, in the Madoc Arena.

The merchants of the community were well represented by tastefully prepared floats, and much fun and hilarity were caused by the clowns and the clown band. Several of the beautiful (and otherwise) costumes deserved special mention.

Mae West (C. R. Johnston), intrigued the crowd by flirting with all the boys and spraying perfume on all the girls.

Leslie Ashley and Jim Irwin as Mr. and Mrs., with their babies and all necessary impediments, to say nothing of a family following of twenty or so, went through all the trials and tribulations of family life to the glee and delight of bystanders. (By the way, one wonders where they got all the thorough coaching)

Jack Fallis as generalissimo, stage manager and general push, filled his many duties manfully and vigorously. Vaughan Jack and George Thompson added much to the general enjoyment.

Music was contributed by the Tweed and Sulphide band, and members of the band were entertained at Trinity United Parlors at the close of the carnival.

Programme:

Public School Races.

Girls, race, 10 years and over—Doreen Bassett, Rietta O'Riordan.

Boys' race 10 years and over—Durwood McCaw, Douglas Carswell, Orley Bennett.

Other floats were: C. R. Johnston, Radio; D. Barry, Orient Stockings; Bene's Grocery, Ship 'Smooth Sailing'; C. I. Ross, Corticelli Hosiery, taking 2nd prize; West's Men's Wear, big values to farmers; T. Dafoe's Hardware, saws, etc.; Whytock's Superior Store, Carnation milk; McCoy's, an excellent meat display.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

(C.P.)

SURE AND 'tis the cage colleens that hold the sporting spotlight this e'en, there being no hockey at all at all at the rink on Brock St Three Ladies' Basketball League tussles are billed for the Y.W. gym, "Y" Quakers meeting St. John's Juniors at 7.45, Westclox Seniors and Marconi Radio at 8.15, and another junior tilt at 9.00 betwixt C.G.E. and Westclox. In the senior secto, Marconi can move into a second-place tie by winning, while the second junior joust gives Westclox a chance to climb into a first-place tie. Which ever squad wins the first junior fray will leave the cellar (and willingly) in the hands of the other team. Should be plenty of action and some keen cage play.

* * * * * *

TOMORROW NIGHT at the Y.M.C.A., three hoop tilts will be run off. St. Andrew's and St. Paul's clash at 7.00 in the final juvenile Church Loop playoff game with St. Andrew's having a 15-point lead. About 7.45, P.C.I. plays C.G.E. and at 9.00 Neill's tackle St. Paul's in Senior City Circuit contests. In between, about 8.30 or so, half a dozen star gymnastic performers from Toronto Central "Y" will entertain the crowd with various acrobatic acts. With a dance following. A tasty dish to set before the King's subjects.

* * * * * *

OFFICIAL SCORING list of our Colts during their eight scheduled games is published tonight. Art Heal is tops with 26 points, while his buddies on the first line, Starr and Wright, are next in that order. Two O.H.A. newcomers this season, Heal and Gee Clark, have done exceptionally well so far. Al Clark has been playing a lot of good defence but has sojourned in the sin-box no less than 10 times. Abd Brady five. The Colts have averaged seven goals a game—a fine showing—but, of course, will be up against tougher opposition from now on. Our second forward line—as an unit—has not been too effective to date, though Kingdon and Clark are pretty well up in the tallying department. The team begins its group playoffs in Belleville on Tuesday, return fray being here next Thursday.

* * * * * *

BILL WALSHE in the Kingston sheet figures the Limestone City juniors will be meeting the Belleville-Colts' winner in first-round playdowns. We doubt it as there are closer teams, like Lindsay and Oshawa, to us than Kingston. The latter gang put the young Petes out last year and went on to the Ontario semi-finals. However, they've lost four good boys from that 1936 team, two of 'em being real stars, Catlin and Goldup. Walshe says they are better balanced this winter, have lots of speed and a scoring punch. So has our gang.

* * * * * *

COMETH THESE words from Belleville: "Those pesky Petes never seem to know enough to lie down even when trimmed. Facing elimination on Tuesday they rose to the occasion and slapped down the Fliers 6 to 5, so we wonder if coming events cast their shadows before. In fact, the Fliers had to stage a last-minute rally to even come close, the Petes turning it on from gong to gong. Some really classy hockey was provided. This win by the Petes not only gives them a fighting chance for group honors, but forces the schedule to at least five games. The Fliers have to win here on Friday or face the tremendous task of beating the Petes right back in Peterborough." That game will be at the Brock on Monday night.

* * * * * *

IT'S DO or die for the Petes tonight as they tackle the Fliers on the big Belleville rink. The boys had a good workout last p.m. and retired early. It should be a grand game when they clash, and we imagine a big crowd will accompany 'em down on the special train this eve. Fare is $1.50 return and it pulls out of the C.N.R. station at 6.15 p.m. We hear some 300 seats will be set aside at the rink for the Peterborough contingent while Belleville and Trenton fans will hog the rest of the place. Period scores will be phoned back to the Brock St. rink—so just call 3505 and say: "Score, please," or call this office.

THREE TIDY Senior City Loop puck squabbles were staged last gloaming at the Brock before a couple of dozen paid customers. Mayfairs and Outboard Marines went to a 4-4 draw; Westclox took a 3-1 nod over Bewdley in an abbreviated game; and Lakefield copped a 7-2 verdict from Millbrook. Plenty of fast action and some good hockey shown in each number. The first fray was the best, keen all through and marked by rugged checking. It ended up in a draw and the Marines wanted to go overtime, claiming there was time for an extra period since Bewdley were late arriving. Mayfairs had started undressing and they declined to come out again.

* * * * * *

AS A matter of fact, we don't blame them. They left the ice under the impression that the game was over. It would have been, too, but Bewdley were late starting the next tussle. But why play on another game's time, or why penalize a team because another one is late? The rule isn't too clear on that, but it strikes us that the idea of the rule was to play overtime, if necessary, provided the game started on time. They never do, so no one figures on overtime. We queried several of the managers and that's how they felt. Anyway, it was just a tossup who would have won had they gone overtime, so a point apiece seems fair enough. Another thing, the O.H.A. won't order a "B" winner here for a couple of weeks yet and, in the meantime, Mayfairs and Outboard Marines are only a point apart and in a fine playoff spot, with a couple of more contests each to play. So why the fuss?

King Edward Team Wins Juvenile Game

King Edward Juveniles copped a 2-1 contest from the Aces in last night's Southend Hockey League at the Sacred Heart rink. It was a tidy tilt all through, with the well-matched squads dishing up speed and action. Both goalies looked good and had plenty of help from their team-mates. Hawkes got the lone marker for Aces, while the first forward line figured in the two counters for the Students. The losers had no alternates. The teams:

Aces.—Goal, McKinnon; defence, Hawkes, Ferguson; centre, Brady; wings, Vivash, Heffernan.

Mark St. Outfit Win Over All Saints'

Mark Street Juveniles made it two wins over All Saints in the Church Hockey League last night, with a 5-1 nod and they climbed into a third-place tie with St. John's. The count was even as the first frame finished, with Roberts and Nicholls scoring. Mark Street pulled away in the second, with Nicholls getting three more, and Graham one. Craig assisted in most of these goals, and was the best player present. The Unitedz' defence of Strickland and Mason was strong. Lacey went good in goal for the Anglicans, with Carpenter and Todd also effective. Mark Street play-off their tie with St. John's Monday. The teams:

Mark Street.—Goal, Agnew; defence, Mason, Strickland; centre, Nicholls; wings, Craig, Graham; alternates, Gamble, Moore, Barringer.

All Saints.—Goal, Lacey; defence, Carpenter, Roberts; centre, Hartwings, Morley, Abraham; alternates, Todd, Lacheur, Ellis.

May Set Record

With a short time Nels Stewart, starry forward of New York Americans, will have a new N.H.L. scoring record all to himself. He has banged the little rubber disc into the twine 270 times. This equals the record held by Howie Morenz who is now bedridden. Although Nels has only one more goal to get to make it a record it is doubtful whether or not he will hold it. Little Aurel Joliat, brilliant Canadien's forward is only eight goals behind and banging them in rather regularly. The two players are now in their twelfth and fifteenth years of service respectively. Stewart is pictured here.

Lakefield High Wins Over Grove Team 5-1

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 12.—The Lakefiel High School hockey team won a decisive 5 to 1 victory over the Lakefield Preparatory School here on Wednesday afternoon, in spite of the fact that a number of High School players were absent from the line-up through illness. Robinson, not on the regular team, scored two of the winning goals, while Hudson, another newcomer, tallied once. The other two goals were made by Stabler and C. Birch.

Gimmel was the only Prep. School player to get past the High School goalie, though the Grove's first forward line all did some outstanding playing. The line-ups were:

Lakefield Preparatory School — Goal, Pease; defence, Roberts, Potts; centre, Morley Major; left wing, Gimmel; right wing, Bayly; alternates: MacKenzie, Crickmore, Winslow, Ledger and Langmuir.

Lakefield High School—Goal, J. Morrison; defence, Stabler, Quigley; centre, F. Lloyst; right wing, D. Hurl; left wing, G. Bunnet; alternates, C. Birch, F. Hudson, E. Robinson and C. Johnston.

St. Peter's Bantams Defeat Canucks 4-1

St. Peter's Bantams took a 4-1 decision over Canucks in a Southend Hockey League game played last night at the Sacred Heart rink. The Saints had a little edge on play in a rugged joust with Hickey scoring two of their goals while Cupoli and Huard got the others. For the losers, LaPlante was the only one to bulge the hemp, though the others all worked hard toward the end. The teams:

Canucks—Goal, Hartwick; defence, Milburn, Willis; centre, Cooper; wings, Moloney, Keating; alternates: Shaughnessy, LaPlante, Ainsley.

St. Peter's—Goal, Post; defence, Gordon, Hickey; centre, Garvey; wings, Huard, Cupoli; alternates: Hynes, Doran.

Referee, J. Collins.

BOYS' TEAMS ARE NAMED AFTER N.H.L.

Most Successful League Is Operated In Georgetown—Invited To New York

TORONTO, Feb. 12 — (C.P.) — Although there has been no indication of challenging the West for Canadian honors, the race still continues hot in Georgetown's "National Hockey League." It is built along the lines of the "major" circuits operated in Winnipeg and Calgary, the kids naming their teams, Maple Leafs, Americans and after the others in the N.H.L.

The youngsters in Georgetown, about 25 miles west of Toronto, got the idea from the lads of the West who started to emulate the Conachers and Shores three years ago.

Playoffs have been reached in the Georgetown League of which Gordon Alcott is the Frank Calder. The boys are all under 14 years of age, and have produced such a brand of hockey that the hometown had developed a strong following.

Montreal Canadiens supplied the equipment through Cecil Hart, Canuck manager, for Georgetown's Canadiens, and Toronto Maple Leafs have sent officials to handle the Midget League games.

Georgetown kids will be honored in Toronto Maple Leaf Gardens, February 20, when their Leafs and Americans will clash before the N.H.L. teams of the same names meet the same night. They might even go to Madison Square Garden.

"Red" Dutton of Americans has invited the Georgetown players to the big town. President Alcott said he has been invited to a United States city which he did not name to organize a similar league.

The 106 boys taking part signed a "contract" which stipulates he must not drink or smoke and he must be home by 10 o'clock every night. Suspension follows breach of the rules.

The meeting closed with hymns and prayer, after which Willie Lackey led the two societies in community singing and in amusement. Miss Grace Johnson presiding at the piano. Dainty refreshments were served.

Mr. O. B. Johnson was in Wallaceburg this week attending the funeral of his mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Isbister, Mrs. Zellers and Mrs. Raymond Rivers spent the week in Toronto.

Playoff Spot Been Clinched By Mark St.

Mark Street had little trouble last night grabbing the third Church Hockey League bantam playoff spot when they took a 9-0 win over All Saints. It was 3-0 in the first and 5-0 as the second ended. D. Eason got four, Moore, two, and Agnew and Scriver one each, with the latter probably the best player of the team. The losers worked hard, but were outlucked. Lacheur kicked out a bunch in goal, while Morley and Abraham did fine work for a lost cause on defence. Mark Street meet Park Street in the semi-finals Monday. The teams:

All Saints.—Goal, Lacheur; defence, Morley, Abraham; centre, Maudsley; wings, Hotrum, Kemp; alternates, Burns, Hart.

Mark Street.—Goal, Ralph; defence, D. Eason, Scriver; centre, Agnew; wings, C. Eason, Curtis; alternates, Moore, Mackey.

All-Stars Defeat Rexalls By 7 To 6

In an exhibition hockey game at the Brock Street Rink late last night, All-Stars took a 7-6 win over the Rexall gang. It was a lively tilt most of the way, with play fairly close till the finish. W. Scott, R. Bennett and D. Earle shone for Rexalls, with H. Maw strong on defence for 60 minutes. Scott, Bennett, O'Heard, Earle and McDonald scored. E. McBain, aged 12, was outstanding for All-Stars, while Foster, Burns, F. Earle did the tallying. The teams:

Rexall—Goal, W. Bennett; defence, H. Maw, N. Elliott; centre, R. Bennett; wings, W. Scott, D. Earle; alternats: B. McDonald, A. O'Hearn, M. Johnson, G. Young.

41—HOW TO CROSS A RIDGE

On approaching an elevation the erect position is taken. As the top is approached the body is lowered to the low crouch which is attained as the highest part is crossed and the erect position is again assumed on the descent. As in the case of a depression, the more abrupt the elevation the later and quicker is the change to the low crouch and vice versa.

Positions Taken When Crossing a Ridge.

The same procedure is followed in running from the level to an up grade.

The purpose of the change in body position is to ensure that the centre of gravity of the body travels in as straight a line as possible instead of following the curve of shorter radius travelled by the feet. If the depression or elevation is not too pronounced it may be sufficient to take the half crouch position only, but the low crouch should be practised diligently. On an icy surface the feet may be held somewhat apart, but keep them together if possible. In loose snow the lunging position may be used instead of the crouch and here again the angle of the knees is dependent on the surface contour and snow condition.

Play was clean and fast.

Madoc Beats Norwood In Trent Valley Tilt

HAVELOCK, Feb. 12.—Madoc Intermediates took the Norwood-Havelock "Combines" into camp, 3 to 1, Tuesday at the Norwood Arena, in a fast Trent Valley League fixture. The locals appeared to be disorganised and missed the services of Hagerman their centre-ice star.

Mikey opened the scoring for the visitors on a pass from West early in the first stanza, and from then on they seemed to have the upper hand although the locals evened it up towards the latter part of the period on a counter by "Chuck" Heffer.

In the second period things began to roughen up a little, four penalties being handed out, two to each team, but both were held scoreless.

Throughout the last period, the locals swarmed around the Madoc net in a ganging attack, but Nickel blocked everything that came his way. Twice the Combines were caught up the ice, with only one man back, Madoc securing two more goals, the first by Smith, and the second by Aikey.

The teams:

Combines—Goal, J. Davidson; defence, R. Webb and L. Rogers; centre, W. Brunton; wings, J. Voyer and E. Godin; alternates, J. Rathwell, G. Puffer, C. Puffer, N. Rogers and N. Godin.

National Adopts 'Pitchers' Ball

At a meeting of the National League baseball "big shots," a ball that is expected to favor the pitcher was made official for use by the league during the coming season. AMATEUR HOCKEY SQUABBLE LOOMS

Discussion Expected During 14-Nation Battle For World Title In London

LONDON, Feb. 12.—(CP).— When teams of 14 nations start battling here next Wednesday for the world's amateur hockey championship, another fight will open in a committee room. The congress of the International Ice Hockey Association is holding its annual meeting during the 10 days the championship games are on.

The principal question to be discused is amateurism or the lack of it. For some time, a newspaper campaign has been waged on the continent for a clearing up of the situation. It is reported Paul Loicq, president of the congress, has investigated and will report at the London gathering.

It is expected, however, that he will content himself with reminding the various National Associations about the rules governing amateurism and issuing a warning. Dissatisfied nations then will have an opportunity of making definite accusations.

Wiring recently in the London News Chronicle, George Graham suggested if the congress is wise it will admit the existence of semi-professional hockey in Europe. He would have it made an open sport in which amateurs and professionals might play together.

Lakefield Wins 7-2 Senior City Game

Lakefield swept through Millbrook 7 to 2 last night at the Brock Street Rink in the third game of the Senior City League triple-header staged there. It was a speecy set-to and clean throughout, with the Northerners showing too much combination and class for the Greensbirts. They had a 4-1 lead in the first frame, and it was 5-2 going into the third. The losers put up a fine battle right to the finish, but were never quite in the hunt.

The Northerners flashed a lot of smart teamplay and stick-handling, and Ferguson kept the score down by robbing them of half a dozen almost-sure ones. Play was more even in the second, and, though outscored 2-0, the Millbrook men had a good part of the play in a fast third frame. The losers had only three alternates, but fought hard, and threw a number of hard shots at Junkin in the Lakefield cage. Both goalies were good.

Blewett Gets Three.

Blewett notched three goals for the winners, while Chittick had two and Jewell and Deeth one each. Skitch and Edmunds tallied for Millbrook. The Chittick-Jewell-Blewett line shone going both ways, with the alternates and the defence also showing up well. For Millbrook, Ferguson, Spencely, Wainman, Skitch, and Edmunds all looked good, and the rest worked hard also. The teams:

Lakefield — Goal, Junkin; defence, Sabatino and Morin; centre, Chittick; wings, Jewell and Blewett; alternates, Lennox, Chappell, Deeth, I. Charlton, and Pearson.

Millbrook— Goal, Ferguson; defence, Spencely and Hunter; centre, Edmunds; wings, Skitch and Cathcart; alternates, Wainman, McCarthy and Sloan.

Referee—Herb. Payne.

Outboard Marines And Mayfairs Tie

Mayfairs and Outboard Marines battled to a 4-4 draw in the first game of the Senior City Hockey League played last night at the Brock St. rink with a small crowd looking on. Two quick goals late in the third frame for the Marines, while Mayfairs had a man in the penalty box, sewed it up. The Outboard outfit had scored two in the first while blanking the other team, but Mayfairs had a 4-0 edge in the middle heat.

Play was fast and close most of the distance with some rough checking and several threatened fights which failed to materialize. The Johnson gang had an edge in the first but the Cafe Kids were much better in the second. They dominated play for a time again in the third but later a ganging Outboard attack swept play around Currie's cage. The late penalty paved the way for the tying goals. Mayfairs are still one point up on the Marines by this tie game.

SAILOR SCORES

Maudsley tallied the first goal for the Marines and LeBarr made it 2-0 in the first inning on Payne's assist. In the second, Gardner took Cournyea's pass to count and then Mayette got one, aided by Driscoll and Vitarelli, while the other crew were a man short. Cournyea counted alone and Hill made it 4-2 on Gardner's assist before the end. In the third, Cripps got a smart one alone and then Dallin tallied on an assist from Archbiald. Vitarelli, Gardner and Hill were best for Mayfairs; while Payne, Archibald and Dallin were most effective for the other gang. The teams:

Mayfairs: Goal, Currie; defence, Vitarelli and Gardner; centre, O'Leary; wings, Hill and Cournyea; alternates, Mayette, Driscoll, Mowry.

Outboard Marines: Goal, Beavis; defence, LeBarr and Cripps; centre, Payne; wings, Archibald and Dallin; alternates, Maudsley, Coursey, Cournyea, Wood and Howe.

BLACK HAWKS TAKE RANGERS BY 5-2

Chicagoans Lash In Three In Second Canto And Two In Final

CHICAGO, Feb. 12.—(CP).—Chicago Black Hawks, divisional tailenders, last night ran up a winning streak of two games with a 5-2 win over the National Hockey League's New York Rangers.

The Hawks scored three quick goals in the second and then added two more in the final stanza to win before a slim crowd of 7,500.

The Hawks swarmed all over the Rangers in their second period scoring burst. After Keeling had put the Rangers in front, Chicago scored three goals within two minutes. Pep Kelly knotted the score and then Bari Seibert and Thompson scored on rebounds.

In the last period, Mush March raced in at right wing to beat Davie Kerr, after which Dillon scored the second Ranger goal with help from Lynn Patrick. Half way through the stanza, Wildor Larochelle rifled home a fast backhand for the final goal of the contest.

The Hawks, by their victory, gained on the idle Boston Bruins, third place club in the American division.

DEAN AND GEHRIG SALARY SQUAWKS TO BE LOUD, LONG

Both Receive Contracts Offering Less Than Their $50,000 Demand

FINE SUPPORTING CHORUS

By Sid Feder
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 12 (AP).—Draw up a chair, folks, and get an earful of the howls. The holdout season gets underway officially today.

Signalling the open season on salary squawks, Dizzy Dean's contract should reach his home in Deanville—Bradenton, Fla., to you—and the resultant roar will be heard at all way points to St. Louis.

In the east, the boys jumped the gun by a day when Lou Gehrig, number one world champion Yankee baiker, and Owner Col. Jake Ruppert exchanged pleasantries on why the iron horse couldn't get $50,000 this year.

But while these two, each of whom wants $50,000, are the number one recalcitrants, the ballyhoo accompanying their tussles with the management isn't overshadowing an epidemic of holdout-itis from end to end of the big time.

An Associated Press survey disclosed that the only clubs not bothered by unsigned contract troubles at the moment are Boston Bees and Philadelphia Phillies—and the only reason they haven't been touched yet, is that their contracts haven't been in the mails long enough.

50 In The Chorus.

Otherwise, the list is as long as a three-bagger, comprising some 50 veterans and youngsters in the annual sport of baiting the front office. The Yankees, with Joe Dimaggio, Lefty Gomez, Charley Ruffing and Jake Powell following Gehrig's lead, are setting the pace for trouble in the American League, while Chicago Cubs appear to have an edge in the National. Outfielders Frank Demaree, Augie Galan and Rookie Joe Marty, Pitchers Tex Carleton and Curt Davis and Infielder Billy Jurges of that club all have sent contracts back unsigned.

For a pennant-winning club, New York Giants are having surprisingly little trouble. With all but a few contracts already stowed away in the front office safe, the only question mark on the roster is Dick Bartell, and he isn't expected to present any difficulty.

Sport Spice

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Feb. 12—(A.P.). — Col. Jake Ruppert foresees an attempt by Lou Gehrig to get into the Babe Ruth salary class, and he'll stop it now, even if he has to trade Gehrig. . . One look at the Colonel while he's discussing the Yankee holdouts and you're convinced. . . Before Gehrig gets $50,000, Ruppert himself will play first base.

"Gunboat Smith (remember how he socked Dempsey in Frisco), is guardian of the gallery at Madison Square Garden. . . . Which is to say, he's the bouncer. . . During the day he's a Wall Street runner. . . Eddie Brietz gets out of the hospital to-morrow, but it'll take him another week to learn to walk again.

Max Schmeling will be a free agent after the Braddock bout. . . . He'll let the boys dicker for his services if he wins. . . . So far, the dickering's not heavy, because of that Braddock-Louis thing and because the rumor persists he'll never defend the title even if he fights and wins. . . Babe Risko's father was almost 50 years old when the Babe was born. . . . Somebody told Joe Gould they'd have to sell around 50,000 low-priced seats if the Louis-Braddock fight was held in Soldier Field, so he has no more objections to Comiskey Park.

Chick Hafey may be coming back, but the wise boys are saying it's a mistake. . . In a business where publicity is plenty valuable, Bing Crosby has successfully crashed in on the sports pages. . . . He owns a part of the middleweight champion Freddie Steel and is running golf tournaments. . . . It doesn't cost him very much and he gets his name in the papers. . . Like this, for instance. . . The A's will train higher above the sea level than any other major league club, and probably will finish farther below it than anyone else.

ENGAGEMENT

Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Madill wish to announce the engagement of their elder daughter, Margaret Patricia, to Mr. Arthur Metcalfe of Hamilton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Metcalfe of this city. The marriage will take place in Hamilton on the 27th of February.

DIED

DEVLIN, Mrs. John E.—In Peterborough, Thursday, February 11, Mary Clancy, beloved wife of John E. Devlin, formerly of Indian River. Funeral from residence, 499 Albert Street, on Monday morning at 8.45 a.m. to Church of Sacred Heart for Requiem Mass at 9 a.m. Interment in St. Joseph's Cemetery, Douro.

IN MEMORIAM

JONES.—In loving memory of our dear Mother, Elsie Agnes Jones, who passed away February 12, 1931.
Just a thought of sweet remembrance,
Just a memory sad and true.
Just the love and sweet devotion
Of the ones who think of you.
—Sadly missed by her loving son, daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Jones; and grandsons.

JONES.—In loving memory of our dear Mother, Elsie Jones, who passed away February 12, 1931.
February brings sad memories
Of a loved one gone to rest,
Who will always be remembered
By those who loved her best.
Days of sadness still come o'er us,
Tears in silence often flow,
Memory keeps you ever near us
Though it is six years ago.
—Always remembered by her son, Richard Jones, and daughter-in-law, Elsie Jones.

JONES.—In loving memory of my dear Wife, Elsie, who passed away February 12, 1931.
These are the things death cannot take away:
Nor age, nor tears, nor pain, nor cruel care
Can harm her now or enter memory's hall.
She that we loved so beautiful and fair,
From all life's dangers now secure is she;
Lovely she was and lovely she shall be.
—Ever remembered by her loving Husband, Wilfred.

JONES.—In loving memory of our Mother, Mrs. Elsie Jones, who passed away, February 12, 1931.
Time and space cannot erase
The memory of your smiling face,
Time may take away the edge of grief
But memory turns back every leaf.
—Ever remembered by Hazel, Elsie, and Wilf.

WRIGHTLY—SPINKS.—In memoriam of our loving Sister, Emma Wrightly, who passed away January 3, 1933; also our loving Mother, Mrs. John Spinks, who passed away February 12, 1934.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
All along life's weary way;
For life to us is not the same,
Since you were called away.
The world may change from year to year
And friends from day to day,
But never will the one's we loved
From memory pass away.
—Sadly missed by their loving Sisters and daughters, Mrs. Frank Elmhirst and Mrs. Allen Hubble.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. Lila McCormack wishes to thank her many kind friends and neighbors for floral tributes and expressions of sympathy extended to her during her recent sad bereavement.

The Day That I Forget
By MARIE BLIZARD

READ THIS FIRST:

Janet Paynter, newly married to a second-rate actor, Joel Paynter, whose show has just closed, obtains a card from an old friend, Harry Devanter, a film scout, requesting a screen test for "the bearer". Because of his pride, Joel first refuses to permit Janet to continue working and then conceals the fact he has been playing the role of gigolo at a cocktail bar because he can find nothing else. Joel is elated when Janet tells him of his chance for a screen test. He does not know that the card was intended for her—not for him. Janet proves to be Joel's inspiration during the screen test.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 9

THE TELEPHONE rang imperatively and Janet Paynter teetered on the table where she had been trying to stand quietly the last fifteen minutes. "Catch it, please, Mrs. Birnley," she said to that lady as she let herself down gingerly. She caught up the velvet folds of her gown as she did so.

"Hello, darling," she said to Joel and rolled her eyes ceilingward. Her voice was gay enough. "Not a thing yet. Don't be impatient. It's only a week...well, have it your way then, it's ten days but you know how these people are." There was a hint of mischief in her voice as she said demurely, "Couldn't I call you at the studio if there were any news? No? All right. Try to be patient."

"My goodness," Mrs. Birney shifted the pins in her mouth and picked up her chalk. She was shortening Janet's black velvet dinner dress to street length and causing Janet no small compunctions. Janet had loved that dress but she had no smart new frock and she needed this one badly for daytime use. "That husband of yours acts more like a bridegroom than any man I know. That's the second time he has called you this afternoon."

Janet stood very still. "Don't make it too short," she said and continued, "Joel isn't calling me just to talk to me. He's going frantic waiting to hear how his screen test came out. He telephoned me three times every afternoon and trails me around as though I had something up my sleeve."

"I can take some of this skirt and put little cap sleeves into this dress and it'll make it look like new," Mrs. Birney answered, the train of her thought obvious. "But now how do you feel about having a handsome feller like that out there in Hollywood with all the beautiful, wicked movie stars?"

"Wicked? I grant that most of them are beautiful but I am not sure that they're wicked and why shouldn't I feel anything but happy about it?" Janet answered reasonably.

Mrs. Birney sat back on her heels. "You can't fool me, Mrs. Paynter. You're a home-body and not one of those fly-by-night brides most of my boys bring home. I've known you now for six months and I've heard you singing around up here and, mark my words, you'll be happier this way than you'll ever be with Rolls Royces and them other things."

"Now, don't you worry about that, Mrs. Birney. I can take my Rolls as well as the next girl if I have to. And think how nice it will be not to make over clothes. And think how wonderful it will be for Mr. Paynter."

Mrs. Birney sighed dolefully. "I hope you'll be saying the same six years from now."

"Oh, I will," Janet said blithely enough.

Six years from then! Those years seemed far away to Janet then. She had been a bride but six months yet she seemed to have been married to Joel all her life. The things that had filled her life—her work, her home, her own circle of friends—all these had been like a dream in these last months. She pondered on it wondering what alchemy love wrought in a woman that all the things that had been, all the influences, the desires, the work of living her daily life, could dissolve into nothingness in the presence of her new love.

Long later Janet was to realize that these things did not dissolve. They receded and remained in the background of her life, but they were to re-enter it again at times diverse, times when she needed them and times when she would have put them out of her thinking.

Had Janet taken out the things that made up her life and laid them out for herself to value she would have found herself poor in the things a bride might have called important. She had no home that was truly hers. She hadn't even had a new frock since she was married. She had an uncertain economic present and a future that might have been filled with riches and glamor or might as well have been poor. And but a continuance of living as she had been from crisis to crisis, as Joel progressed from one short-lived engagement to another.

But she had faith in him, rather than in his ability. She did not believe that Joel was a great actor but she believed that he knew what he was doing, knew his own capabilities and that the desire to act, to portray the drama could not have been so big had it not been justified.

You might have thought, had you known Janet those years after Dr. MacLeod had closed his office for the last time and come to the end of his life five years before, that Janet was to follow in the footsteps of her people. Good, quiet women married to responsible, conventional, prudent men. Women who might have stretched a dollar and darned their husband's socks and done it with dignity. But you would never have thought that Janet was to find her love in a man who would offer her a gypsy existence, who would have leaned on her rather than have been the stronger of the two.

Felicity Burns would have smiled in that quiet beyond had she known. Felicity, who had the look of the wind on the moors in her eyes, had never seen the great granddaughter who was to heed a call she had heard herself some sixty years before. Felicity had followed that call and the laughing eyes of an Irish lad to America.

Felicity's son, Ian, had married a Scotch lass and their daughter, Janet, had married the fiery little physician, Angus MacLeod, but the Irish strain and Felicity's answer had persisted and blossomed the day that Janet MacLeod had seen the rangy length of Joel Paynter making his way to her across a smoke-filled drawing room.

Felicity, with her little leather trunk and her heart filled with love, had not been afraid to face whatever the uncertain future had in store for her and Terry O'Brian. And if her laugh was not so ready on her mobile mouth, her spirit was staunch and her eyes were ever upward with understanding to where her Terry's head was in the clouds. And her manner was quiet, anchored to the ground where her small feet served for two.

Janet was like Felicity. She could encourage, she could share and she could comfort. Her capacity was deep and for all her small stature, she was sound. She could weigh her balances and when the storms in her life were imminent, she held the wheel of her emotions with a steady hand.

She thought of Felicity, whom she had never known, during those days when she and Joel were waiting to hear the outcome of the screen test.

"Joel " she said to him on on of those days, "why do you want it so much?"

"To buy you pretty things with. To put money in the bank. To travel and see the world. Never to have to worry about the next meal. Never to see my Janet cooking another lamb stew." He laughed.

Janet was very grave. "That can't be the real reason, Joel."

"No, it isn't," he said, blowing smoke rings contemplatively, "only I feel like a fool when I try to talk about the things inside me. Those things have a lot to do with it. There are roles I'd like to play. Great, inspirational roles! The pictures are doing great things today, giving great opportunities for interpretation, for the expression of an art. I'd like to do them, Janet. I'd like to play great parts. Don't laugh at this, darling, I'd like to do Hamlet!"

Janet didn't laugh. She was too proud of him. He wanted to express something he felt. He wanted to create a character out of a man the same way a painter created a scene out of canvas and paints. Acting had dignity, she thought, rather incoherently.

"And so you will," she said faithfully.

"And you, my queen, shall have a satin cushion for your feet and a carriage of chromium and steel and never again will your little fingers touch kitchenware. You'll sew a fine seam and eat strawberries and cream."

Janet had a sinking feeling that that was just what she was going to do. And that was the last thing on earth she wanted.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S TOBOGGAN RIDE

"Quick, if you please!" called Uncle Wiggily in his hollow stump bungalow one morning. "My breakfast in a hurry, Nurse Jane. Will you please put out my rubber boots, my dear?" he asked Mrs. Longears. "And kindly hurry!"

"My goodness, what's the matter?" asked the lady rabbit.

"Are you going to rubber boot it over the snow to get away from the Bad Chaps?" asked Nurse Jane.

"Oh, no," laughed the rabbit gentleman. "Perhaps the Bad Chaps may chase me, but that will be only an adventure. The reason I am in such a hurry is that Twisty and I are going toboggan riding."

"I thought you and your pig friend had taken to skiing, Wiggy," said Mrs. Longears.

"That was yesterday," answered the rabbit gentleman as he hurried to finish his breakfast. "We have given up the skis. They are too dangerous. From now on we toboggan."

"That may also be dangerous," said Nurse Jane. "Once up in Canada I saw a toboggan go down the ice hill very fast and a dog gentleman fell off."

Off They Go

"Nothing like that will happen to me," said Uncle Wiggily swallowing the last of his baked bean coffee. "Now here comes Twisty with the toboggan. My, it's a fine one! Oh, what fun we'll have."

"I hope nothing happens," said Nurse Jane sadly as she and Mrs. Longears watched Uncle Wiggily and the pig start for the hill drawing the toboggan behind them. "I hope nothing happens."

"If it does Wiggily will call it an adventure," said his wife.

It did not take Uncle Wiggily and Mr. Twistytail long to reach the hill in the woods. It was a big hill, covered with snow and ice.

"Just right for coasting," said Mr. Longears. "Now, Twisty, I'll sit on the front end of the toboggan and you'll sit in back and steer with your feet."

"Can't you steer with the rope?" asked the pig.

"No, Twisty. This isn't like a sled. A toboggan must be steered from behind with the feet. You sit there."

Uncle Wiggily sat down on the long toboggan which was like an ironing Board with the front end curved up like the permanent wave on a wax doll.

"Get on now, Twisty, and push off," said Uncle Wiggily, not turning around for he was making himself comfortable.

Danger

But just as the pig was about to sit down on the toboggan behind the rabbit out of the woods slithered the Fox and the Wolf. The two Bad Chaps saw Uncle Wiggily and the pig.

"Quick!" whispered the Wolf to the Fox. "You grab Twisty from behind and put your paw over his mouth so he can't squeal. Hold him off the toboggan. Hold him tight. I'll get on in his place and ride to the bottom of the hill with Uncle Wiggily. Then I'll catch him."

No sooner said than done. The Fox snatched the pig off the toboggan so quickly Mr. Twistytail didn't know what was happening. With the paw of the Fox over his mouth, the pig couldn't make a sound to warn Uncle Wiggily. Then, quickly, the Wolf sat on the toboggan behind the rabbit. Uncle Wiggily never turned around.

"Push off now, Twisty!" called Uncle Wiggily. "Away we'll go, over the snow, we'll toboggan fast and slow. Push off, Twisty!"

"All right," growled the Wolf, trying to make his voice sound grunting, like a pig. Uncle Wiggily thought nothing wrong as the toboggan began coasting down the hill.

But don't worry. Everything is going to be fine and dandy. And if the lead pencil will eat some chalk and grow fat like a fountain pen, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's valentine.

WILL WITHSTAND WIND.

QUEENSTON.—C. Howard Fisher, a farmer near here, claims to have developed a peach which he says will revolutionize the peach industry. It is claimed the fruit, when fully ripe, will withstand the heaviest wind. Growers find wind losses the most serious.

HAVELOCK CHURCH REPORTS PROGRESS

Annual Meeting Of United Congregation Elects Elders And Stewards

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Feb. 12.—The annual congregational meeting of the Havelock United church was held in the church basement last week with their pastor, the Rev. S. A. Kemp, presiding.

The meeting commenced, as usual, with a pot-luck supper, which proved to be a regular banquet. After the devotional period, conducted by Rev. S. A. Kemp, the business session was held with Miss Lucy Wing acting as secretary.

Mrs. C. Price reported that the Mission Band had raised the sum of $56.27 during the past year, and that balance of $4.96 had been donated to the W.M.S.

The Young People's League had a very successful year both socially and financially, having raised $120.73, with a balance of $13.73 yet on hand.

The Women's Missionary Society also reported a splendid year, having raised the sum of $251.14 with a balance of $240.39 remaining, an increase of $43 over last year.

Miss Edna Haig, Sunday School treasurer, in her report showed receipts amounting to $105.11 and expenditures $104.68.

The Women's Association raised the sum of $266.73 in the past year, with a balance of $20.35 yet on hand.

Slight Deficit Reported

Church Treasurer C. Roberts gave the church report, showing receipts at $2,111.75 and expenditures a trifle higher, at $2,151.08, leaving a slight deficit of $39.33.

In his report of his yearly activities, Rev. S. A. Kemp gave the following figures: membership, 340; baptisms, 15; marriages, 9; burials, 22. Mr. Kemp thanked all officials for their faithful co-operation during the year 1936, making especial mention of the ushers. He also suggested that the congregation arrange for an "Old Boys' Reunion" next summer. This was much discussed and finally a committee of Rev. S. A. Kemp, H. B. Puffer, and B. Smith were appointed to interview the council regarding the possibility of having one.

The following new officers were elected: three elders, G. W. Chiles, H. Hoard, Miss M. Seeney; eight stewards, Peter Haig, Harrison Wing, Wm. Hill, Jas. Craighead, Everard Chiles, Mrs. Geo. Wiggins, Miss Lucy Wing, and Miss V. Buchanan.

HAVELOCK BOARD TO REQUIRE $4,766

Public School Principal Reports Absentee Pupils Have Legitimate Excuses

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Feb. 12.—The regular meeting of the Public School Board was held on Thursday evening, Trustees Roche, Gardiner, Pirie, and Mrs. M. Brisbin being present, and Chairman C. Taylor presiding.

Principal Yuill, in his report to the board, said that all absentees had been checked and that the majority had legitimate excuses for their absence. His request for paper supplies, a small set of supplementary books and two pencil sharpeners was granted.

Caretaker Buchanan reported that the roof was still leaking, and Chairman Taylor referred the matter to Trustee Gardiner, chairman of the Property committee for immediate attention.

The only correspondence was acknowledged from the Ontario Ratepayers' and Trustees' Association, re subscriptions to their journal, the Public School Board's share of the costs being $5.50.

The question of fuel was brought up, and after some discussion was left in the hands of the Property committee, with power to act as they think most advisable.

The Board estimated their provisional requisition at $4,766 for year 1937.

The meeting was adjourned, to meet again on Thursday, March 18.

A discussion arose following the meeting, when Harrison Wing, newly-appointed member of the High School Board, questioned the Public School Board as to how the High School District had been formed. A detailed explanation by Chairman Taylor, with reference to the minutes on this subject, and the pointing out "that when the High School District had been formed, the Continuation School District had ceased to exist, proved a satisfactory reply to Mr. Wing's question.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Feb. 12—The recent afternoon tea and home baking sale sponsored by the Women's Guild of St. Thomas' Anglican Church at the home of Mrs. R. A. Ford, King Street, was both a social and financial success, the sum of twenty dollars being realized from the event.

The many guests were received by the hostess and the vice-president, Mrs. G. F. Harrington. Mrs. David R. Fowler and Miss R. Macnamara were in charge of the home-baking table, which displayed a tempting array.

The dining-room was beautifully arranged for the tea hour, the table being done with lace cloth, an arrangement of pink tulips and pink candles set in silver holders. Miss Margaret Wood and Mrs. C. M. Westmacott poured tea, and assisting as waitresses were Misses Ada Attwooll and Margaret Simpson and Mrs. T. Campbell. Other helpers included Mrs. H. Russell and Miss Muriel Smith, cashier.

COTTESLOE

AMATEUR STATION IN INDIAN RIVER

Program Broadcast Sunday Night—Much Appreciated By District Listeners

(Examiner Correspondence.)

COTTESLOE, Feb. 12.—Radio reception was good in this vicinity on Sunday night from the amateur broadcasting station on the banks of the Indian river, near Warsaw. The people of the district are proud of these young people in their endeavour to entertain their friends of the air. The manager, H. Hamblin, announced that this would be the last broadcast for some time. Those who took part in the program were deserving much credit.

In 1921 Mr. Hamblin built an amateur set and he and Mr. Hector Munro conversed with each other for a distance of about four miles. This was considered at that time to be quite an accomplishment.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Patterson and family were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Morgan.

Sunday evening visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Webster were Mr. and Mrs. R. McMillan, Mr. and Mrs. C. McMillan and Dorothy, Mr. and Mrs. E. MacDonald and Margaret, also Messrs. David Barr and Everett Gallagher.

Miss Rena Toms spent Monday evening with Miss Wilma Lewis.

A number from here attended the funeral of the late Mr. Ernest Carveth, held at Warsaw on Sunday. Mr. Carveth was once a resident of this community.

Miss Marguerite Webtser, McGills, spent the week-end at her home here.

Miss Ada McArthur, Havelock, spent a couple of days at the home of her sister, Mrs. Johnston Blakely.

In the absence of Rev. A. S. Cleland, the church services here on Sunday were conducted by Mr. Breckon of Norwood.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Hubbel, Harry, Cora and Laura, Brick School, were Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Johnston Blakely.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Toms and Madeline visited on Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. Barr.

Mr. G. Lonsberry, Warsaw, was a recent visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Webster.

Miss Alma McCracken spent the week-end at her home, North Dummer.

Mr. George Barr made a business trip to Bobcaygeon one day last week.

There was an attendance of seventy-two at the Sunday school service on Sunday. This was the top for this year.

Plans were made on Tuesday evening at the Young People's meeting for the basket social on February 17th. In the absence of the convenor in charge of the program there were just the business matters discussed.

Mr. Harry McMillan spent the week-end in Toronto.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Feb. 12.—A good attendance of members was present at the regular monthly meeting of the Marmora Women's Institute, held on Wednesday evening at the home of the president, Mrs. Gordon [illegible]. The president occupied the chair.

Roll call was, "Left-overs, and How to Utilize Them." Following the report of the Relief committee, Mrs. D. L. Curtis gave an excellent paper on "Home Economics." Mrs. W. J. Pack ably handled "Current Events." Two interesting demonstrations followed. Mrs. H. B. Smith demonstrated hooked rugs, and Mesdames G. A. Gordier and A. Neal handled "Smocking." A diversion was provided through the reading of rhymes by Mrs. W. C. Spry, in which all the active members received mention for their characteristics and individual styles.

Marking the fortieth anniversary of the Women's Institute (as now organized), which occurs this month, a special birthday lunch was served by the committee in charge, Mesdames W. C. Spry, W. E. Gould, K. Armstrong, and E. I. Gale.

Miss Stella McGarvey is visiting friends in Campbellford for a few days.

L. Reid spent the week-end in Toronto.

Ice-covered roads prevented Rev. A. W. Harding from motoring to Presbytery meeting on Tuesday. Since the heavy rain on Monday, ice on the roads makes driving very dangerous.

NO GUELPH RIOT IF HEASLIP HAD SHOWN REASON

So Prisoner Charges, Also Claiming Immorality Widespread At Reformatory

MORE FOOD COMPLAINTS

Claim Guards Often Ignored Instructions From The Doctor

GUELPH, Ont., Feb. 13.—(CP)—If Superintendent J. D. Heaslip had shown reason in dealing with prisoners, there would have been no riot at Guelph reformatory, a prisoner of 20 today told the inquiry conducted by Judge James Madden into the January 17 disturbance.

Immorality is widespread in the reformatory and is the chief topic of conversation among prisoners in the dormitories, the witness said.

"It rings in my ears day and night," he said, " and I would like to get away from it. I have asked to be placed in a cell where I could be by myself, but I was not transferred. It is particularly bad at night just before we turn in."

When a tubercular prisoner of 21 entered the reformatory last year, the doctor recommended he be given "light duty outside, but Sergeant Maguire wouldn't let him, the youth testified.

"They put me in the tailor shop, but it made me sick there and I was transferred to the cleaners department. I just have three months to go and they let me outside now cleaning up around the outside of the buildings."

He said he had been given extra milk on a special diet when he first entered the reformatory and had gained weight. "But I have lost weight by being locked up since the riot and given sandwiches", he said.

Worried By the Guards.

Guards have "worried" prisoners by recounting evidence given at the inquiry, the prisoner replied in answering to question by Gordon Gillanders, commission counsel. One guard used the term "court" in referring to the hearing.

"Guard Ralston told quite a few of the boys the evidence he had

1,800 START WORK IN FLINT PLANTS

Another 30,000 Will Begin Monday With More Through Week

DETROIT, Feb. 13 (AP).—Automotive plants reopened today to the vanguard of more than 100,000 General Motors employees summon back to their jobs on settlement of the six weeks' strike.

Factory whistles blew for 1,800 men in Flint, Mich., key city in the deadlock. Thirty thousand more were to resume work there Monday, with thousands more following through the week.

Preparations for a return to capacity production were pushed in the far-flung factories of the corporation which turns out nearly half the automobiles produced in the United States.

In dozens of cities auto workers were going to their jobs at higher pay. General Motors announced a 5-cent an hour increase almost as the agreement which ended its dispute with the United Automobile Workers was signed Thursday.

The Chrysler Corporation announced a pay increase averaging 10 per cent, two days before the strike was settled. The Packard Motor Car Company followed with a 5-cent an hour boost yesterday for 12,500 workers.

Th three raises will put an additional $40,000,000 a year into pay envelopes of approximately 300,000 wage earners.

Flint watched for the departure of Michigan National Guardsmen, quartered there since January 13. Departure orders were out for 750 troopers today, with 2,500 more to be sent home soon.

The prohibition of liquor sales in Flint and Genesee County, induced by the strike, was to be lifted today.

General Motors maintenance men began preparing plants for action by cleaning up accumulated debris, removing strikers' barricades, re-sorting and inventorying scattered materials.

CHURCHES OPENED DEFIANCE OF LAW

Mexican Catholics Rejoice At End Of Twelve Years Secret Worship

ORIZABA, Vera Cruz, Mexico—(A.P.).—After 12 years of secret worship, ever under the shadow of police raids and prison, Orizaba's Catholics offered prayers of thanksgiving to-day in their own churches.

Openly and rejoicing, they knelt in prayer before flower-banked altars they had opened to sunlight again last Tuesday in defiance of the state's rigidly enforced anti-church laws.

Apparently, their "peaceful rebellion" had triumphed, municipal, federal and state authorities "did not see' the devout streaming into the candle-lighted church and "did not hear" the joyous pealing of bells from long-silent belfries.

Police Probe Plot To Snatch Pair Of Quints

Two Men Overheard In Discussing Details Buffalo-Toronto Bus

Passenger Leaves At Long Branch — Phones Warning To Etobicoke Constable's Home

PROVINCIALS ACT

Officers Suspect Hoax--Failure To Designate Bus Proves Handicap

TORONTO, Feb. 13 — (C.P.) — "It's a most absurd thing," said Premier Mitchell Hepburn to-day of reports of a plot to kidnap the quintuplets. "I'm not taking it seriously.

Two Extra Police

Attorney General Arthur Roebuck said to-day he did not attach much importance to reports of a plot to kidnap two of the Dionne quintuplets. Nevertheless two extra Provincial Police have been assigned to Dafoe nursery at Callander, bringing the guards to five.

TORONTO, Feb. 13.—(CP)—Ontario police today marshalled their forces to track down an unverified report of a plot to kidnap two of the Dionne quintuplets.

Unexcited about the rumored plan to snatch a pair of the famous youngsters, police sought an unnamed man who prompted official investigation with his story that two foreign-looking men discussed the plot on a Toronto-Buffalo bus.

Police considered the possibility that the whole affair was a hoax. The story started when the unidentified man late yesterday called the wife of an Etobicoke township constable and told her he overheard the two men discussing the plot. One said: "Arrangements are all made."

The story was transmitted to Ontario police at Toronto. They tried unsuccessfully to locate the man who made the telephone call. Anxious to interview the two men on the bus, they could not reach them. No time regarding the bus schedule was given by the man who supposedly left it at Long branch, a few miles west of Toronto.

Reports circulated in Toronto late last night that extra guards were thrown around the Dafoe nursery where the babies live two and a half miles from Callander.

But the usual two guards were on duty behind the eight-foot steel fence that protects the nursery. A reporter who rushed up to the building to check the kidnap reports found himself suddenly challenged when heads of the two constables on duty popped out of the guardhouse.

The Tip Off.

First inkling of the supposed plot came when the unidentified man phoned Mrs. Charlotte Suggett, wife of Constable James Suggett of the Etobicoke Township police. He said he had been riding on a Buffaloger, Al West, all of Anderson, and

TEN MEN WOUNDED STRIKE DISPUTE IN INDIANA CITY

Tavern Keeper Uses Shotgun When Crowd Demands Non-Union Worker

POLICE ARREST THIRTEEN

ANDERSON, Ind., Feb. 13—(AP)—An early morning clash between union and non-union automobile workers left at least ten men wounded, two severely, and brought a rush of National Guard troops and State Police to this industrial city to restore order.

Governor McClifford Townsend, aroused from his bed at Indianapolis by Mayor Harry R. Baldwin's telephoned report that the situation was "exceedingly grave" and required outside help, immediately ordered the mobilization of 1,000 National Guardsmen for duty in Anderson.

The Governor proclaimed martial law for all of Madison County, of which Anderson is the county seat. The proclamation, effective at once, forbids all assemblages, permits only troops and those deputized to carry arms, prohibits ingress and egress from the county without proper credentials, and orders immediate dispersal of pickets.

Details of police were stationed around the homes of the mayor and police chief.

Emory Shipley, tavern proprietor, told police, "Two car loads of men" came to his establishment and demanded Evon Robertson, said to be a non-union worker at the General Motors' Delco-Remy plant, be sent outside. Shipley police reported, told the men Robertson was not in the place.

Uses Shotgun on Crowd.

Shipley claimed several shots were fired and many rocks thrown. He told officers he had obtained a shotgun and driven the crowd away.

Police arrived several minutes after the disorder and found heavy clubs, pieces of iron pipe, and hatchets on the ground.

Those seriously wounded were Forest Vorst of Flint, who claimed he was a C.I.O. organizer, leg wounds, and an unidentified man who refused to give his name, back wounds.

Others wounded included Harold Reed of Anderson and Christian Fox of Middletown, Ind.

Hospital attaches said they had treated "at least 10 men," but that all except four had fled when they heard police sirens approaching the hospital.

Those under arrest included the wounded men and Cecil Justice, Kenneth Thompson, William Sin-

BRITAIN SWITCHES AIRCRAFT FACTORY TO MERSEY SITE

Fears Original Site On Thames Too Vulnerable In Case Of War

START NEW AIR BASE

LONDON, Feb. 13. — (C.P.). — Britain's determination to proceed with her rearmament plans with the least possible delay was reflected today in the announcement that within three weeks of abandonment of a London site the air ministry had found a new location near Liverpool for its proposed aircraft factory.

The original site at Maiden Head on the Thames was abandoned for a number of reasons, particularly its vulnerability. Last night the air ministry announced the proposed factory would be erected on a 100-acre site at Speke on the River Mersey.

A contract was also let for a new air base at Evanton in Scotland, which will be completed within six months.

Labor and Liberal newspapers continued criticism of the government's £400,000,000 defence loan plans, but on a whole the decision was favorably received. A full dress debate in parliament on the entire defence question has been arranged for Wednesday.

Brands Loan Paltry

The Daily Mail said the loan was a "paltry amount" and should have been at least £1,000,000,000 ($5,000,000,000). The loan proposal would authorize raising up to £400,000,000 ($2,000,000,000) within five years.

The Evening Standard discussing defence problems expresses anxiety in regard to food. "The government has never yet grasped the need for enormously increasing home production of food," the paper said.

KIDNAP PLOT FAILS TO ALARM DIONNES

Need Quite a Crew To Pull It Off Says Oliva After Hearing Story Day Late

CALLANDER, Ont., Feb. 13 (CP).—The Dionne Quintuplets today toddled out on the grounds about Dafoe nursery for their daily frolic in the snow, unaware three extra guards stood by to watch them play.

Although reports at Toronto of a plan to kidnap two of the babies were discredited by government officials, three Provincial police officers were added to the staff of the Quints' residence as a precautionary measure. The additional guards were brought from North Bay.

Oliva and Elzire Dionne, parents of the Quintuplets, only found out about the kidnap scare today and they took the news with mild surprise.

"Who started it?" asked Oliva. "They have to be quite a crew."

The babies' father added he "knew there was something doing yesterday when the police arrived." But he didn't know why they had come.

Oliva said he wouldn't be able to go over to see Annette, Emilie, Yvonne, Cecile and Marie for a few days because he has a slight touch of 'flu.

Constable E. A. Shepard, who acted as Callander's traffic officer last summer, and was brought here with the other police, said he thought kidnapping of the Quintuplets would be a "tough job."

He pointed to a six-foot barbed wire fence around the Dionne babies' residence, and explained the regular guards at the nursery could throw on floodlights on every building and flood up the grounds as bright as day on a moment's notice.

Women Prefer Roof To Risks of Rescue

Wallaceburg, Feb. 13 (CP)

ATTRACTED by screams and cries, Stanley Brown ran to the home of John King on Duke street early today to find smoke pouring from the windows and two women sitting on the roof of the verandah holding a small child.

Brown rescued the baby but the women, Mrs. John King and her daughter, Mrs. Robertson Christian said they preferred to stay where they were.

When firemen arrived and put out a blaze in the interior of the house, the women crawled back through the windows they had come out.

BANK OF ENGLAND'S VAULT TO LAST NEXT 1,000 YEARS

Concrete Top Fifty Feet Thick Believed Able To Stand Any Bombing Attack

VAULTS FULL OF TRAPS

LONDON, Feb. 13.—(AP)—The reconstructed Bank of England—repository of the nation's gold—is being built to last 1,000 years. When completed, experts say it will be virtually impregnable and the strongest building in the Empire.

Work of rebuilding and strengthening the bank was begun in 1925. For years workmen have toiled underground, now the upper part of the building is nearing completion.

A cracksman would find his first obstacle after gaining entry to the building would be penetration of a wall of solid concrete, 50 feet deep and eight feet thick, between him and the treasure in the vaults. He would find each concrete block "keyed" to its neighbor—a defense so strong that experts believe the bank's main vaults could withstand concentrated bomb attacks and an enormous charge of dynamite.

Beyond this wall—at the end of a dark and winding corridor studded with foot-traps which set alarm bells ringing—are double steel grilles with two-inch steel bars, then other doors of steel, each weighing 18 tons.

These, which open at a light touch—if you know the way—give direct access to the treasure house. But one step within the door brings armed detectives running to the scene.

Patrols Always On Guard

Miles of alarm wires thread their way through underground passages of the bank, armed patrols are al-

LINER QUEEN MARY DAMAGED BY FIRE

Will Sail On Schedule — Scarcity Of Steel Felt On New Sister Ship

SOUTHAMPTON, Feb. 13 (CP Cable). — The Cunard-White Star Line announced today the liner Queen Mary would resume service to New York February 17 on schedule despite a small fire aboard the ship last night.

The blaze in the third-class smoking-room, line officials said, was extinguished by the ship's fire department before any damage was done.

Meanwhile Cunard officials denied a rumor work had been suspended for three months on the Queen Mary's sister ship to permit acceleration of Admiralty contracts.

Officials of John Brown and Company at Clydebank said they were "rushing ahead the work for all we are worth," but admitted a scarcity of steel was becoming awkward.

VISIT PEOPLE'S PALACE

LONDON, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Cockney London shouted its loyalty to King George and Queen Elizabeth today when Their Majesties drove through the populous east end.

Through the dreary mile end road—which dropped its dreariness for the day in a flutter of flags and bunting—the royal visitors drove, bowing and waving repeatedly to the thousands who lined the streets.

The King and Queen left their Piccadilly home at 2.24 p.m. (9.25 a.m. E.S.T.) to inspect the People's Palace, a theatre-dance hall-social club for the east end population. Today's visit made up for two previously cancelled royal visits.

On one teeming street, the Queen was presented with a bouquet by a child whose grandmother made a similar offering to Queen Victoria 50 years ago.

Their Majesties made detours into side streets from time to time and were given an especially warm welcome in the Jewish district of Whitechapel. At the Palace they were received by the mayors of the East end boroughs of Stepney, Bethnal Green, Poplar, Shoreditch and Hackney, as well as members of various social organizations.

They chatted with the mayors about slum clearance and heard a music program.

$14,000,000 Collected Already Says Hepburn New Record In Sight

Premier Denies London Singled Out—Many Other Centres To Be checked

UNCERTAIN OF SURPLUS

Taking Over Municipal Income Tax March 31 To Cost $1,000,000

TORONTO, Feb. 13. — More than 200 Ontario estates are under investigation by the Succession Duties Department of the Provincial Treasury, Premier Mitchell Hepburn said to-day.

Succession duties collections have during the present fiscal year reached nearly $14,000,000, and by March 31, end of the fiscal year, are expected to pass the $15,000,000, a new record, said Mr. Hepburn.

"London has not been singled out for investigations," he said. "There are estates many other places to be checked as well as in London."

A London report this week said investigators for the Department were in that city checking into 28 estates.

Uncertain of Surplus.

Premier Mitchell Hepburn said to-day he could make no accurate forecast of the surplus he will report to the Legislature in his Budget speech.

"We took over the municipal share of motners' allowances and old-age pensions, January 1, he explained. "But we are not taking over the municipal income tax until March 31. That will cost us $1,000,000."

The Premier predicted a $500,000 surplus some time ago.

YOUTH PERISHES VICTIM OF COLD ON DRIFTING ICE

Pal Stumbles Ashore Almost Frozen But Aid Arrives Too Late For Chum

IN GULF OF ST. LAWRENCE

PORT HOOD, N.S., Feb. 13—(CP)—Hours spent on drifting ice at the mercy of tide and cutting winds which claimed the life of James Purves, 20, were described to-day by 18-year-old James R. MacDonald still unable to explain how he made his way to land over two miles of broken ice floes.

MacDonald, suffering from frozen fingers and a badly frost-bitten body, was said by doctors to be recovering from the long, cold hours he was trapped with MacDonald on a shattered ice pack, where fishermen discovered Purves' body last night.

Frozen and caked with ice, the body was found where Purves collapsed as he and MacDonald tried to drag themselves over broken ice cakes. Both were wet, cold and exhausted. MacDonald could not say how long they were trapped on the ice.

It was late Thursday the youths, after watching a hockey game at Port Hood Island, one mile off the main land in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, started to walk toward a lighthouse, two miles farther out.

Suddenly the ice cracked. The crevices widened, and the youths found themselves being carried to open sea. Macdonald had no idea how long they drifted, shivering in the wind and icy spray from the sea.

Drift Near Shore.

Then the tide turned, and they found themselves nearing shore. Together they started to crawl from one broken chunk to another. Many times they slipped and were drenched. But they managed to reach heavy, solid ice. It was here Purves collapsed.

"I can't go farther," he gasped as he crumpled.

Macdonald, took a look at his fallen companion, shouted assurance he would push on to shore and return with help. Then went on.

Searchers racing along the beach found Macdonald sprawled there. They had seen "something" coming shoreward and ran to the spot. At that time he could only mutter "he's out there, but I haven't seen him for hours."

Fishermen in boats rowed through the open water and pushed their way over soggy ice to the floe where they found Purves. Doctors said he had died probably only a short while before aid reached him.

STUDENT TAG DAY ONE OF ROMANCE

Hope To Raise $44.50 For Student's Call To Girl Friend In Belgium

HAMILTON, N.Y., Feb. 13—(A.P.)—Colgate University Freshmen sold tags on Hamilton streets to-day to finance the telephone call that gave Don Richon a few moments with the girl-friend in Belgium.

Richon, who hails from Hempstead, L.I., was surprised when he received the bill for $44.50 from the telephone company. He was not so surprised when mild parental disapproval was expressed by the folks down home.

There was no remorse, however. "I'd do it every day," he declared. Then added thoughtfully, "if I had the money."

Phi Delta Gamma Fraternity members, inspired by the romantic spirit of "Brother" Richon, organized to clear the debt. That's why guests attended the Winter carnival house parties at Colgate to-day were met by the tag-bearing Freshmen.

Jones Was No Legendary Hero Says Widow Of Famous "Casey"

Charges People Don't Believe a Word Of It When She Claims Him As Spouse

ENGINE'S NUMBER WRONG

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (AP) — Mrs. Janie Brady Jones, widowed 40 years ago by the railroad accident which inspired that old ballad "Casey Jones," came east today from Jackson, Tenn., to convince a doubting world that her husband was no legendary hero, but a real man of flesh-and-blood.

"People say there just wasn't ever such a man," she complained. "They sing 'Casey Jones' but when I tell them there really was such a man, and that I am his widow, they don't believe a word of it."

The plump widow of the "hot-shot" engineer explained that Jones' real name was John Luther. He became "Casey" of the rails, she said, because he told the railroad foreman who hired him that he came from Cayce, Ky.

The general theme of the railroad ballad was correct, said Mrs. Jones, but there were some inaccuracies, one of which was the engine's number.

The engine on which he was killed was not No. 638 as the song declared, but No. 382.

"No. 638 was an old freight engine that John used to run before he was promoted to the passenger train turn," she said.

She never remarried after Casey's death, which, she recalled, occurred on the morning of April 30, 1900.

Nizam Uses 1911 Car, Old Suit For Celebrating His Jubilee

World's Richest Man Holds Down Costs For Occasion, While Wealth Increases

GET MILLION IN GIFTS

HYDERABAD, India, Feb. 13.—(AP).—The fabulously wealthy Indian potentate, the Nizam of Hyderabad, celebrated the silver jubilee of his reign to-day, riding through the streets in a 26-year old Rolls Royce and smoking cigarettes that cost four cents for a package of 20.

Indian notables and native peasants alike lined the streets for the spectacular Oriental pageantry in honor of the Nizam, reputedly the world's richest man.

But resplendent as the parades were, they were strictly on a "cost" basis, for the Nizam, despite his treasure houses of diamonds and gold, is noted as a thrifty man.

He set a $500 limit on refurnishing the ancient machine in which he rode and dug up two more automobiles, model 1907, to augment the procession. He decided against new clothes for the jubilee to hold down the cost.

Even as he accepted the plaudits of his 14,500,000 subjects, his $2,000,000,000 wealth was increasing. More than $1,000,000 in gifts was expected before the round of parades, sport festivals and garden parties ended.

Despite the Government's rigid control of prices, quotations on commodities in Germany are at record high levels.

SPEEDY AIRMAIL SERVICE PREDICTED NEAR FOR CANADA

Bennett And Gardiner Clash Bitterly Over Naming Vallance As Rehabilitation Chief

BILL IS AMENDED

OTTAWA, Feb. 13.—(CP).—When the Trans-Canada airmail service is inaugurated, mails will likely leave Montreal in the evening after the close of business and be delivered in Vancouver the next morning for afternoon delivery.

This was one bit of information Postmaster-General Elliott was able to give the House of Commons last night when questioned about air mail. He was unable to say, however, whether the service would start this year or upon what terms and conditions the mail would be carried.

Mr. Elliott was questioned by H. C. Green (Cons., Vancouver South) and stated no arrangements had been made as yet about Trans-Atlantic or Trans-Atlantic air mail services.

Post office estimates brought the House an hour or two of quiet after the stormiest debate of the session over a few amendments to the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act.

The amendments were approved and stand for third reading following the dispute between Conservative Leader Bennett and Hon. James Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture.

M. J. Coldwell (CCF-Rosetown-Biggar) urged the importance of continued soil study. He said some people were being settled on land in northern Saskatchewan which was lacking in certain essential qualities. There was still a danger of repeating mistakes made early in the century when farmers were placed on land which should never have been broken up.

Source of the Dispute

Appointment of John Vallance, former Liberal member of parliament for South Battleford, as senior rehabilitation officer was criticized by Conservative leader Bennett who thought the rehabilitation program should be kept clear of all trace of politics. It led to the first bitter debate of this unusually peaceful session with Mr. Bennett and Hon. James Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture, the chief participants.

Other Liberal members were drawn in as they rose to cite many instances of Conservative members of parliament having been appointed to high positions by Mr. Bennett before the last election. O. M. Young (Lib., Saskatoon) said Mr. Bennett's speech reminded him of a story about Satan criticizing sin.

Mr. Vallance had been a strong partisan, said Mr. Bennett, and his appointment could not help giving a political color to the whole undertaking and lessening public confidence.

Steered Clear of Politics

The Conservative leader then said the former government had taken great care to avoid politics in setting up the rehabilitation plan in 1935. It had set out in the act the classes of people who were to be represented on the committee, a clause which would be abolished by Mr. Gardiner's amendments.

The minister came to the defence of Mr. Vallance and sought to give an outline of the steps leading up to passage of the act in 1935. He charged Mr. Bennett with trying to claim all the credit for all drought rehabilitation efforts for the former Conservative government.

Mr. Bennett at one time protested against the minister reading a memorandum relating to the preparation of the act by Hon. Robert Weir, former Minister of Agriculture, and declared it violated every "canon of decency" in public life. He disclaimed any desire to appropriate the entire credit for the effort to rehabilitate the drought stricken areas.

Mr. Bennett said he was more impressed now than ever before with the gravity of the problems facing Canada, but he did not intend to withhold criticism of the government's actions when he felt such criticism was in the public good.

O. M. Young (Lib. Saskatoon) rose to defend the fitness of appointing a former member of the House to such an administrative position. There were innumerable examples of former Conservative members being apointed to responsible posts, he said.

Hon. H. A. Stewart asked Mr. Gardiner to read the names of the committee members which he did. Mr. Stewart contended it was a thoroughly representative committee which could not be improved upon.

Mr. Gardiner stated he had no intention of appointing a different central committee.

"But we may have to appoint some others because of the wishes of the members themselves, because of the work the committee is to do this spring."

It might be desirable to include representatives of the municipalities, since their co-operation would likely be needed, he said.

Fish And Fshermen Puzzled By Winter

Fort Erie, Feb. 13 (CP)

FISH in lower Lake Erie are puzzled over the strange iceless winter as are the fishermen unable to catch them, according to "Hickory Dick" Hardison. He ought to know say fishermen, who call him the "Dean".

In ordinary winters, fishermen go out on the lake ice several miles, erect wind-breaks and fish through holes in the ice.

This winter the lower end of the lake is free of ice and changing winds have driven puzzled fish away from their usual winter haunts, "Hickory Dick" explains.

Fishermen's catches are poor, the fish feeding on plentiful minnows.

RURAL MAIL PLAN COMES UNDER FIRE

Lanark M. P. Would See Carriers Appointed Instead Of Bidding For Job

OTTAWA, Feb. 13 (C.P.).—A better deal for rural mail carriers, for several years the subject of discussion, was urged in the House of Commons last night by T. A Thompson (Cons. Lanark).

He claimed it was unfair rural mail carriers should be treated differently than mail carriers in the city. He suggested a minimum rate of $50.00 a mile per year, as against the present system of putting routes at auction which resulted in prices too low to provide a decent living.

Postmaster-General Elliott said the present legislation required all contracts of more than $100 advertised and let by tender.

"I don't know that any man can complain if he gets a contract at the amount for which he offered to do it," Mr. Elliott said.

Mr. Thompson said contracts should be let by the Civil Service Commission. Now, bidders were at the mercy of the person holding the patronage in the riding.

H. J. Barber (Cons. Fraser Valley) declared whenever a contract was about to expire, notice was sent to all members of the Government and to all defeated Government candidates. The Liberal candidate in his own riding had opened every contract in the riding, he said.

Mr. Thompson recommended that if the competitive system was as desirable as Mr. Elliott suggested, all Civil Service positions could be filled in the same way for half the present cost, but with far less efficiency.

SOCIAL CREDITERS READ ROWE OUT

Action Severs Athabaska Members' Connections--Blackmore Refuses Details

OTTAWA, Feb. 13—(C.P.)—The Social Credit group in the House of Commons yesterday read out of its caucus P. J. Rowe, member for Athabaska, who has been a consistent critic of the policies of Premier Aberhart of Alberta for the past year.

The action climaxed a week of caucus and executive discussion concerning Mr. Rowe's relation to the group and was taken without his presence at either of two sessions to-day. He had, however, taken part in previous meetings of the whole caucus.

In a brief statement handed out by J. H. Blackmore, Social Credit House leader, which was signed by the six executive members, it was announced the executive had recomended Mr. Rowe be read out of the Federal Social Credit group and that the caucus "accepted" the recommendation. Several members did not vote.

"This means that hereafter any statement either written or spoken by Mr. Rowe will be strictly on his own responsibility," the statement concluded. "This action completely severs Mr. Rowe's connection with this group."

No reasons for the expulsion were suggested in the statement, and Mr. Blackmore declined to enlarge on it. The reasons had been thoroughly gone into privately, he said.

The Golden Text

John 10:11—"I am the good shepherd; the good shepherd giveth his life for the sheep."

Jesus the Good Shepherd

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Feb. 14 is John 10:1-42, especially verses 1-16, the Golden Text being verse 11, "I am the good shepherd: the good shepherd giveth his life for the sheep."

THIS discourse of Jesus in which occur two of His seven great "I am's," namely "I am the door" and "I am the good shepherd" must be studied in connection with the entire previous chapter recording His healing of the man born blind, the blind man's testimony for Christ, the Pharisees' effort to turn the people from Christ, and their excommunication of the healed man for his loyalty to Christ.

When the door of fellowship, for which the temple stood, was closed to the former blind man by his religious leaders his supreme need was a new door to spiritual fellowship. This Jesus went out of His way to afford the man: "And they cast him out. Jesus heard that they had cast him out; and finding him He said, Dost thou believe on the Son of God?...Thou hast both seen Him and He it is that speaketh with thee." What a door Jesus here opens to this man upon whom false leaders have just now slammed the door of fellowship! Therefore, Jesus goes on to say, for this man's comfort and for judgment upon the "hirelings" who have cast him out of the temple: "Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that entereth not by the door into the fold of the sheep, but climbeth up some other way the same is a thief and a robber. But he that entereth by the door is the shepherd of the sheep. To him the porter openeth; and the sheep hear his voice; and he calleth his own sheep, by name, and leadeth them out. When he hath put forth all his own, he goeth before them, and the sheep follow him: for they know his voice. And a stranger will they not follow, but will flee from him: for they know not the voice of strangers." (All the while Jesus was saying this the man healed of his blindness was clinging to Jesus and turning from the "hirelings" who had cast him out.) Then Jesus goes on to say, "Verily, verily, I say unto you, I am the door of the sheep. All that came before Me are thieves and robbers: but the sheep did not hear them. I am the door; by Me if any man enter in, he shall be saved, and shall go in and go out, and shall find pasture. The thief cometh not, but that he may steal, and kill, and destroy! I am come that they may have life, and may have it abundantly."

Christ the Good Shepherd

In still further denunciation of the false leadership of the Pharisees, Jesus contrasted His leadership with theirs as He had contrasted His fellowship and theirs: "I am the good shepherd; the good shepherd layeth down his life for the sheep. He that is a hireling, and not a shepherd, whose own the sheep are not, beholdeth the wolf coming, and leaveth the sheep and fleeth, and the wolf snatcheth them, and scattereth them; he fleeth because he is a hireling, and careth not for the sheep. I am the good shepherd, and I know Mine own, and Mine own know me....and I lay down my life for the sheep." And looking out beyond His own race to all the races of the world He predicted how the church He was to establish would become the great unifier of all races, saying, "Other sheep I have, which are not of this fold: them also I must bring, and they shall hear my voice; and they shall become one flock, one shepherd."

Sabbath Message For the Shut-Ins

SABBATH MESSAGE by REV. E. R. JAMES of Toronto

EARS

"The Lord God wakeneth morning by morning; He wakeneth mine ear to hear as they that are taught." Isaiah 50:4, R.V.

Have you ever realized the importance of sound? Sound enters your very being and fills it. When the prophet Elijah heard "the still small voice" he made a great discovery and advanced very far on the way of realizing the Presence of God. In his age the prophet was a man who spake through ecstatic excitement. When the prophets of Baal on Mount Carmel whirled around their sacrifice with shouts and cries they were simply following popular tradition. Men were expected to prophecy only under such emotional excitement. Though Elijah laughed them to scorn yet he desired to follow their example. That same evening when the winds blew, the sky became black, the rains descended and all nature was moving. Elijah yielded to the temptation. He ran before the chariot of Ahab as one possessed. "The hand of the Lord was upon Elijah" is the comment of the Chronicler. Then came the natural reaction. The enthusiasm had passed. The message from Jezebel terrified him and he fled, a discouraged, disappointed prophet.

Now on Mount Horeb he is to learn that God does not speak necessarily in the tumult of wind, earthquake and fire. His great emotional experience on Mount Carmel were not necessarily signs that God was speaking to him. Now he is to learn how the hidden life of the soul is to be developed. He had been rent by the whirlwind of feeling; he had been burnt by his fiery zeal for Jehovah's honour. Now he stands on Mount Horeb and learns that all this inward tumult is translent, passing, temporal and of little spiritual value. "The Lord was not in the wind, neither in the earthquake nor in the fire." Then came "the still, small voice." It sounds clear; it is unemotional; it is quiet. Yet it is steady, reliable, unexciting and, above all, trustworthy. The appeal is not to his emotions but to his will. "GO." When the will responds God can work and teach.

A great prophet of the exile, living several centuries later, has discovered for himself this great truth. "The Lord God wakeneth morning by morning; He wakeneth mine ear as they that are taught." When you hear that still, small voice calling you in the morning watch OBEY. It may be a cold, dark morning. Everything that appeals to the flesh cries against your rising and obeying. It is so warm in bed. The room is so cold. But the voice SOUNDS. You obey. Then you have discovered God in your own experience. The sound has entered into your very soul. It is "the still, small voice." No excitement, no noise, no tempest of movement. This is the call of the Spirit of God to your spirit. It was a new and wonderful revelation which raised prophecy to a higher level. Amos, Isaiah and their successors were men who spake under no conditions of excitement or ecstacy. They were conscious of "the still, small voice."

Have you listened and obeyed? Then you, with the ancient Prophet, may be astohished at what God asks you to do. In utter horror he says: "The Lord God hath opened mine ear and I was not rebellious, neither turned away back. I gave my back to the smiters and my cheeks to them that plucked off the hair. I hid not my face from shame and spitting."

One greater than the prophets read these words and "HE STEADFASTLY SET HIS FACE TO GO TO JERUSALEM."

A National Message

By REV. W. PASCOE GOARD, LL.D., F.R.G.S., F.R.E.S.

It is the duty of Jerusalem, or the Church, to urge the people to go through the gates, and to perform great works for God. "Go through, go through the gates; prepare ye the way of the people; cast up, cast up the highway; gather out the stones; lift up a standard for the people.

"Behold, the Lord hath proclaimed unto the end of the world. Say ye to the daughter of Zion, behold thy salvation cometh; behold his reward is with him, and his work before him. Isa lxii. 10-11. Going through the gates to do the appointed task of the day, savours of the morning when the gates are opened, and the people are bidden to go forth to their daily toil. The watchmen are on guard. They give warning of approaching danger in time to call the people in, both for their own protection, and for the defence of the city. But in the morning when all is clear, the watchmen hurry the people out to the seasonal task; sowing in the time of sowing; reaping in the time of reaping, and so on.

Now, they are to go through the gates; they are to prepare a way for the people. Great roadbuilding feats are to be performed. "And a highway shall be there, and a way, and it shall be called the way of holiness; the unclean shall not pass over it; but it shall be for those; the wayfaring men, though fools shall not err therein". Cast up, cast up the highway; gather up the stones; lift up a standard for the people".

Awake, watchmen of Israel, send out the call, send forth the workers, make the way of salvation plain, lift up a standard for the people, gather them, gather them, to the great task.

"Behold the Lord hath proclaimed unto the end of the world; say to the daughter of Zion, behold thy salvation cometh; behold his reward is with him, and his work before him."

So must Jerusalem repeat the proclamation throughout the ages, to the end of the world. They must show that the salvation of Zion, is Jesus. "His reward is with him, and his work before him". So the personal pronoun attests the coming salvation, which is CHRIST.

Leadership School Opens On Monday

The opening session of the Leadership Training School is Monday from 7.30 to 10 p.m. at the Y.W.C.A. A very profitable evening can be spent in attendance at any of the four courses offered this year. The school will continue Monday and Wednesday evenings for three weeks.

Teachers of children and parents will find the course on the place of the story in "The Religious Education of Children" very helpful. Miss Elizabeth Walker is taking this course.

The course on "Principles of Teaching" led by Mr. Leo Copp and the course on "Psychology" using the text book "Knowing your pupils" taken by Mr. L. J. Petitt, will be especially helpful to teachers of teen age groups.

Rev. Mr. J. H. Sutcliffe will take the course "Christian Faith and Conduct" especially helpful for senior members, officers and teachers.

In planning the courses the executive of the Council of Christian Education had in mind not only those engaged in teaching or leading church groups but the large number of senior and adult members who would appreciate the opportunity of special Bible Study during Lent.

CATHEDRAL MUSINGS

Last week we spoke of the vital necessity of periodically disassociating ourselves from the material things of this world and restoring ourselves by attuned meditation on the things of the Spirit, a meditation that is at once a prayer and a communion. This necessity becomes very apparent when we consider the nature of man in his mind and soul. We are aware that there are many varieties of terms used and much confusion results therefrom, but we will consider the Soul as the Indwelling Word of God, the "True Light", the mind as the psyche in its two-fold aspect, and the personality as the resultant from the interaction of the lower and higher sides of the subjective mind with the outer mind, tinctured more or less with the light emanating from the soul. This is not scientifically exact, but will serve to illustrate the matter.

The chief value of meditation is to gradually make a conscious connection between the mind in its duality and the Soul, so that the Soul can manifest more clearly and so raise the personality to its own level. For it is the Soul alone which is truly Immortal, not us. The personality unfolds, grows, evolves, yet until we have the consciousness of the Christ, the personality is but a changing aspect of the lower self, a thing of time, not of eternity. There are, of course Avenues of approach to the true Self, the Soul, but meditation is one of the most important. It also tends to prevent one from going astray in the illusory complexities of the lower subjective mind, the lower "astral" realm, the world of "mediums," charlatans, and the uncontrolled emotionalism of some beliefs. Such things are of the psychic self, not of the Soul, and while psychic development is of value, yet that value ceases instantly when it become uncontrolled, and there is danger of becoming unbalanced. However, the point is, that the personality must evolve by the action of the Soul, via the higher psychic mind until an actual union takes place, the mystical "marriage" of the parable.

Then, and not until then, do we attain conscious immortality. To put it into the terms of the marriage feast at Cana, the water of the psyche is transmuted into the wine of the Christos. Without doubt, it needs strength to deliberately crucify self, to patiently build up the Way within ourselves, to kill out all the lower instincts of the brute, to fall again and yet again and still arise with determination, but we must remember that if we move but a little way towards God, He will move much more towards us, and that in the last analysis, it is He who fights for us in the battle of self with Self. The Kingdom of Heaven is not a place; it is a condition within us to be attained not by faith only, or by works only, but by "becoming," for he only is a Christian who strives and desires to be Christlike. For such shall arise from their dead selves and be at one with their Father in Heaven.

Jesus the Good Shepherd — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell and Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—John 10:1-42

Because the man born blind, and whom Jesus healed, bravely stood up and testified for Jesus, the Pharisees cast him out of the temple or excommunicated him, closing the door of spiritual fellowship to him.

"Jesus heard that they had cast him out; and finding him, he said, Dost thou believe on the Son of God? . . . I am the door: by me if any man enter in he shall be saved, and shall go in and out and find pasture."

Then in rebuke of the Pharisees as false shepherds and "hirelings", Jesus said, "I am the good shepherd: the good shepherd layeth down his life for the sheep. No man taketh it away from me, but I lay it down of myself."

As the Good Shepherd Jesus planned to gather into his church all races of the world. He said, "Other sheep I have which are not of this fold: them also I must bring, and they shall become one." (GOLDEN TEXT—John 10:11)

Women Are Trapping In The Barren Lands

PRINCE ALBERT, Feb. 12.—(CP)—At least three white women are living and trapping in the Barren Lands of the Northwest Territories, Mrs. Fred Riddle, of Boyd Lake, N.W.T., said while on a visit here.

Mrs. Riddle said the women were Mrs. Howard Price, Mrs. J. McCaskell and herself. "There is no fear of running short of food up there," Mrs. Riddle remarked. Knowledge there were no corner stores to drop into led to stocking up foodstuffs for a year and sometimes two ahead.

The Riddles follow the trap lines in the open country, far north of Goldfields, where only the white fox roam. Colored fox seldom stray from the timber country.

Regulations Are Strange

Reports from many points in the Dominion gathered by the Canadian Press agree that Bingo has become a national craze. Players sit with a numbered card and a little stack of corn, and as the numbers are called they proceed to cover the ones printed on their card. The one who gets a complete row is the winner. There is no skill or science in it and a player can do as well the first time as at the end of a month. Call it what you like, but basically it is a straight game of chance. It has become popular because proceeds are often turned over to charitable purposes, and in few places has there been any interference with it.

Our regulations are strange that way. We recall a jeweler in one of Ontario's cities who used to hold a grab bag sale. He found there were odds and ends in his stock which he could not sell in the ordinary way. These he put in bags for 50 cents and placed them in his window, guaranteeing that there was at least $1 worth of merchandise in each bag according to his regular prices. But he was forced to stop that as he was informed he was breaking the law. And yet the people who bought those bags had the assurance of the merchant they were going to receive more than their money's worth. In playing Bingo it is possible to keep on putting up dimes and receive nothing at all. Regulations are strange things.

One Thing In Common

From Washington comes the report that if all the 129,000,000 people living in United States decided they would pay off their national debt each man, woman and child in the country would have to hand over $267.36. Right now the debt figure stands at $34,500,000,000, being by far the highest point United States has yet attained in national debt.

In Canada we have a population according to the last census taken in 1931 of 10,376,786, and our net debt at the end of the last fiscal year was $3,006,100,517, so if we were moved to some noble action such as wiping off that debt it would mean that every man, woman and child in Canada would have to forward to Ottawa an amount equal to $272.59.

It is somewhat of a coincidence that two nations occupying nearly all of the North American continent should be almost as close in per capita debt as they are in geographical propinquity. Each Canadian owes $272.59, and each American neighbor is down to the extent of $267.36.

He Wanted His Title

At a meeting of the Temiskaming Presbytery of the United Church opposition was expressed to ministers acting as military chaplains, wearing military uniforms, accepting ranks with military titles or taking the pay of such ranks.

That same subject has been a bone of contention at a number of church meetings, and there have been occasions when it has been the means of developing not a little plain-speaking and its share of bitterness.

There was one session in a Western Ontario city where delgates were in the habit of using the title "Captain" when referring to two of the members who had been overseas as chaplains. One of the ministers present who served in a rural community and looked after two charges finally voiced objection. His comment was this: "We should have a thorough understanding on this question and have it now. If we are here as ministers of the Gospel, as hell-deserving sinners saved by grace, then we have no right bringing in distinctions which have no place in our calling. If, on the other hand, we are going to continue the military distinction, then I insist on my title being applied to me, and that will be plain buck private, the man who went over the top at zero hour, slept in the trenches and in the dug-outs in the company of rats and wallowed in the mud and slime. Let us get on one basis or the other."

That speech, as far as we know, was never printed before, although the "buck private" minister who gave it admitted afterward that a "certain coolness equivalent almost to frigidity" seemed to have developed between himself and the captains.

Hardly Worth Considering

Strange cases manage to make their way to courts. There is one being argued in Chicago where a Chicago promoter seeks to collect one million dollars in damages because he was stopped in his scheme to exhibit the Dionne children at the Chicago Exhibition when they were but a few weeks old.

It is charged that Oliva Dionne, father of the children, had signed a contract which was never carried to completion.

If common sense counts for anything in such a case then the promoter himself should be facing suit for attempting to take children of that age to the Chicago Fair, and if the father signed the contract then he gave ample demonstration of how little he knew of such matters.

There has been a good deal said about the manner of taking care of the Dionne children, about the right of the state to step in and regulate the affairs of a family and not be bound by the desires of the father and mother. The answer to it all is in the fitness and health of the Dionne children of today. They do not have to go to Chicago or elsewhere to be placed on exhibition. The whole continent has made it plain it is ready to go far off the beaten path to see them in their own home.

The idea of taking those children as thin and premature babies off to the noise and the confusion and the dirt of a great exhibition is so heartlessly stupid that the wonder is an organized court of sensible people would be called upon to discuss it.

The Potato Goes Stylish

Looking at the pictures of 16 men published in a Western Ontario paper, we found it all had to do with a meeting where they were discussing the growing of potatoes. One man is described as a potato inspector, another as a member of the regional potato board, and then another as a fruit and vegetable inspector. Present also was the chief potato inspector for the Dominion, also a member of the Potato Institute, and included as well was the potato field man for Ontario. Likewise there were chemists and field husbandry men, and all of them gathered together in one place to discuss potatoes.

And that in turn suggests that the humble potato is not what he used to be. On the Tenth Concession it was just that—humble. Generally on the 20th of May it was necessary to have them cut and ready for planting. Planting on that date was supposed to provide escape from the 10th of June frost. Some of the folk plowed them in, but never was that done on Lot 4. There was a long string set for guidance and the holes were gouged out with a hoe. We knew as soon as the tops started to make a decent sort of showing there would be bugs, and we doubt if the chief potato inspector or the field potato man for the province could think of a way to fool potato bugs. They knew where the year's crop had been planted. Always.

Potatoes did not have such a standing then as they have now. The little ones generally got put off by themselves and later on they would be boiled along with mash for the hens or fed to the pigs. When it came the day to drive to the village for the Saturday shopping the coal oil can went in the back of the buggy and we found the grocer used to stick a little potato on the spout of the can to prevent the oil from slopping out. It was always like that for the lesser potatoes; they just got used for anything where some slight service was deemed necessary. They seemed to have no great mission in life, and certainly there were never any conferences of wise men seeking to better their state.

Of course things are a lot different today and a potato cannot with safety be called a spud any longer. It bears the impressive name of Solanum Tuberosum and what we used to regard as a bit of wilt in the tops is now known as phytophthora in the tissues of the leaf. On the Tenth there were years when potatoes looked a trifle scabby in spots, but now the men of learning refer to that as spongospora scabies. The potato business seems to have become professionalized, and with nothing more than the early training of the Ten Concession probably we would feel out of place in the company of experts of today.

Putting It Down in a Book

From Whitby comes word that the strap has been used in some classes of the public schools because mistakes have been made in spelling, and parents brought the matter before the Board of Education. Now all this is to be changed. In future strappings will be administered only after consultation with the principal, and these will be recorded in a book. The record, we learn, will include the name of the student, the extent of the punishment and the name of the principal, and the teacher will act as a witness.

Thus the gathering and recording of statistics is going to break out in another place. If some lad going through school is judged guilty of offence worthy of the strap the matter will not end there. It will be recorded, and in years to come it may be held against him that he received his whacks. The painful memory will not be allowed to pass quietly into oblivion. Perhaps this habit of putting everything down in a book may yet lead to another busy and lucrative field for future occupation. If everything must be put down in books it will mean added employment, more sale for registers and card systems, more pens and more bottles of ink. In this way we may yet lick the depression to a frazzle.

It is a small world. Because the Nazis need wool for uniforms for their soldiers, teddy bears for Canadian children are sharply advancing in price.

It is suggested that all car salesmen should be licensed. Providing them with badges would be helpful too in preventing them from trying to sell to each other.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A contemporary describes a columnist as a man who gives the best shears of his life to his newspaper.

Other things change but a glance over the comic valentines discloses little difference from the vintage of pre-war days.

Union wages for convicts in penitentiaries are suggested and we suppose the proposer would include time and a half for overtime and holidays with pay

---

The head of Alberta's liquor control board has resigned. The whole provincial structure seems to be falling to pieces under social credit administration.

Forest Hill wants to become a city and probably behind the proposal is the feeling that the place is tired of being a milch cow for the county of York.

South Africa is taking a census of its war materials, declaring that the best insurance for peace is preparedness for war. The Woodsworths in South Africa evidently exert very little influence.

Once more the proposal is advanced that the control of fish and game in Ontario should be taken out of politics. They used to say the same thing about Hydro—and look at the setup today.

Hon. Duncan Marshall is not in love with folk who buy expensive livestock merely to show it at exhibitions. The fact that sometimes these animals outscore Government entries of course has nothing to do with this opinion.

Bright colors—red, green and blue—are to be featured in men's clothing this year. However by the time the newspaper fraternity is ready to buy new clothing the trend may have gone back to more sober hues.

Premier Bracken, Minister of Public Works, W. R. Clubb and Dr. Fox, leader of the Manitoba Social Credit group are all curling in the Winnipeg bonspiel. Of course there is nothing particularly new in politicians heaving stones.

Rev. A. E. Smith seems to want the Russian system introduced into Canadian penitentiaries, apparently forgetting that under that system they have a handy way of disposing permanently of political prisoners.

The Ontario government does not promise to make any effort to deal with the provincial-wide bingo craze. Hon. Duncan Marshall has undoubtedly pointed out that the sale of corn has been stimulated by the rage for the old gambling game.

The fact that four salesmen have been arrested on a charge of having operated a mining stock telephone sales racket is surprising. It has been consistently claimed that all such activities have been eliminated under the present Queen's Park administration.

One of the delegates to the fish and game convention in Toronto evidently knows his politicians as well as he knows wild life. He objects to a rod license being imposed on the ground that the government would just vote the revenue back into the treasury instead of using it for game conservation purposes.

The Ontario Hunters' Game Protective Association wants all persons convicted of game law infractions denied a hunting or trapping license for a period of two years. The only thing wrong with that is the offenders would probably take a chance and go on trapping and hunting without a license.

Rev. G. K. Tyler of Park Street Baptist Church has received a call to the First Baptist church of Woodstock, a good church in a fine little city. The Examiner is certain it speaks for the members of his own congregation and a great many others when it expresses the hope that Mr. Tyler's decision will be to remain in Peterborough.

UNCLE EBEN

(By A. R. K.)

¶ My Uncle Eben's gone away, he packed up just the other day, he said he'd go back home; he'd been here nigh two weeks or more, decided not to stay on more, and he lives all alone.

¶ Before my Uncle left he talked, as up and down the room he walked, he lectured me quite stern; for Eben says I am too lax, nor do I get right down to tacks, I have a lot to learn.

¶ For Eben has a flock of cash, and almost breaks out in a rash, when he gets on that trail; he wants to train me deep in thrift, so later I won't sink or drift, or have to sleep in jail.

¶ It's system that I need he said, he'd like to drive that in my head, and I should keep some books; and when the month comes to an end, I should add up how much I spend, see how the balance looks.

¶ I should not dash off here and there, and run and sniff the midnight air, I should stay home and read; I should use discipline myself, or else I'll go and wreck my health, and then I'll go to seed.

¶ And I just sit and nod my head, approve of all the things that's said, it goes in both my ears; my uncle always dusts me down, before he up and leaves the town—he's done that thirty years.

VALENTINES.

(Lindsay Post)

FASHIONS come and go, but one old fashion—that of sending valentines on February 14—never dies out. The eternal mystery and attraction of sex never changes with the fads of the moment.

Back in ancient history, names of young men and women were put in boxes. Anyone desiring the companionship of a member of the other sex could draw out a name and the people thus chosen by chance were supposed to "keep company" for a year.

Countless lovers used to address sugary missives, adorned with pictures of hearts and cupids, to fair maidens, and then tremble with fear to see how the adored one took it. She was not commonly offended. Today valentines are a pretty way of showing sentimental interest without meaning so much by it. They are a source of fun rather than of serious meaning. Boys and girls and men and women do not limit themselves to addressing them to one person, but send them to various relatives and friends.

THE FARMER'S POSITION

Editor Examiner:

Sir: In case the general public who are not familiar with farming conditions as we have them today, may think that we are participants in the general business recovery mentioned by Mr. Matthews and others a few days ago. I think I am voicing the opinion of ninety per cent. of the farmers in this district when I say this is going to be the hardest year that the farmers of this distrtict have ever seen.

With a twenty-five per cent. crop yield, farmers are buying tons of mill feed on a gradually rising market while the price of hogs was not stationary, and one hundred per cent. below profitable prices. When I say a profitable price I mean from a businessman's point of view, that is, giving the farmer and all those connected therewith a decent living wage, also making allowance for overhead, etc. then counting the remainder as profit.

At a gathering of farmers a few weeks ago one in close touch with the business told us that there is not likely to be much advance in prices for five or six months or until the surplus carryover had been reduced.

How many believe in the scripture quotation, "The laborer is worthy of his hire"? I think that applies to those who work for what they get, and should get what they work for.

FAVORS FLAT RATE

Editor Examiner:

Sir: My attention has been called to an editorial in your paper apparently inspired by some remarks I was reported to have made at a Woman's Club in the city of Toronto.

Perhaps because of my limited power of clearly expressing myself I did not succeed in getting my views, re. marker fees for automobiles, across.

My contention was, that a marker fee is a license or registration fee and should not be regarded as a tax. A marker should be sold for a flat rate of say $4 or $5, regardless of the size of the car.

In that case they would be readily purchased by all car owners and then when the car starts operation the gas tax would be collected in proportion to mileage and size of car.

I know of farmers in my district who find it a hardship to purchase a marker at present prices. His car stands in the garage and since it is not in operation no gas tax is being turned in and the department loses proportionately.

Briefly this is my position in the matter. I am

Yours Sincerely
W. D. SMITH M.L.A.

FORTUNATELY—NO ONE HURT

Editor Examiner:

Sir: In order to relate to you a story I take you back to a road 32 miles from Peterborough leading around the head of Stoney Lake and extending to the Blue Mountains and Cosh Lake. As far as the road is concerned I could give you the history of it from the time it was only a trail or path blazed along on trees.

But at the present time I am only taking up the part that leads around the head of the lake which is 2½ miles starting from where the few settlers live, then running almost south to what we call the main road running east and west to Lakefield. The road is very crooked and in its short distance has over one hundred crooks and turns.

I have in mind an accident that happened on a recent morning when a motor car carrying eight schoolchildren and the driver. Mrs. Stewart Murphy, experienced an accident on one of the curves about half way out to the main road. The car was hit by a 5-ton truck owned by the Canadian Nephaline Company. Within five minutes of the accident I appeared on the scene. I saw the bunch of children and the driver of the car with tears running down their cheeks and this enormous truck standing almost crossways on the road in front of the car. The radiator of the car was driven back on the engine, while the headlights and other parts were demolished. It was only by God's blessing that no one was killed.

Like every other accident of this nature there is always a dispute as to who was in the wrong. With this in view measurements taken at the scene of the accident indicate that the car was on the right-hand side of the road with the right wheel in the ditch. It had stopped there while the truck attempted to pass on the wrong side to the left of the car.

We feel hurt and deprived of our safety at the present time. But we know we live in a place where the sun shines the same as it does in other places and that the God of heaven is our God. But in these modern times we are perplexed and bewildered to know when Sunday comes. We sit at our cabin doors and even on the Sabbath the trucks continue to go by.

I noticed it stated in a recent issue of The Examiner that this road is used exclusively by The Canadian Nephaline Company. I beg to correct that statement. This road was made and travelled by cars long before The Canadian Nephaline Company existed. In the making of it I have donated over a hundred dollars in one year, besides what I have done on other occasions and my neighbours likewise.

What is this modern world coming to with all its science, education and invention? Are the drivers of motor vehicles all using good knowledge and education in the driving of their machines? Or as the old saying goes, "The think that is wrong is the nut on the steering wheel."

IMMIGRATION

Editor Examiner:

Sir: This is an open letter particularly to Sir Edward Beatty, G.B.E., K.C: LL.D. President Canadian Pacific Ry.

Sir: On New Year's Day you addressed the people of Canada on the future of the railways. With the greater part of that ariticle I have no wish to deal beyond saying that when the C.P.R. invaded the territory of central and northern Saskatchewan and Alberta (already being occupied by the Canadian Northern and the Grand Trunk Pacific) you asked for most of the troubles which have fallen upon the C.P.R. and upon the country also since that time.

When a national 'pillory' is instituted (on which the names of some politicians and others by whose mistakes, if not worse, this country has been misbandled in the past) will it be possible to leave some C.P.R. names off that 'pillory?' I think not.

In 1885 we tramped along the right of way of the new C.P.R. and were filled with admiring expectation of what that line would do for Canada. But even then, in 1886, you dealt a heavy blow at B.C. when your contractors unloaded the Chinese labourers upon the Province. It is still suffering from it.

But by far the worst blow (from which Canada can never fully recover) was dealt when you began unloading shipload after shipload of undesirable central and southern Europeans upon the Western provinces.

When Sir John Macdonald risked his premiership to help finish your line do you think he ever dreamed that you would fill the new West with so many 'unpreferred' Europeans, Mennonites and others, that it would become almost a non-British area? Not if I knew Sir John. You would not have had one cent.

When Canada gave your railway a colossal grant of land and even allowed the railway to revise the grant in order to select from the choicest parts of the West, she never suspected you would turn those fine lands into a new "Balkans."

When you, Sir Edward, tell the people of Canada that you think all future immigration should be 'controlled' you must have thought the nation had forgotten about the evidence given before the House of Commons committee in 1928 as to the 'Uncontrolled' action of your company under the iniquitous "Railway Agreement."

If that sort of immigration is what you are thinking of now, then the evidence given before the committee in 1928 on the working out of that miserable 'Railway Agreement' ought to be re-published, and the National Association will do its utmost to oppose you. But if, as we sincerely hope, you have no intention of inflicting that injury on this country again, then we will gladly support you in taking up the immigration question at once.

There are three main positions held in Canada today regarding immigration:—(1) There is the extreme view advocated by the Labour and some of the Farmer unions. They say:—No immigration whatever as long as we have the 'out-of-works' and the 'low prices' and so on. But that sort of conservatism is very dangerous just now because it is inviting the covetous eyes of Germany, Italy and Japan to look at our vast areas with a very limited population. If these nations put that demand before the civilized world we shall have great difficulty in defending what they would call our 'dog in the manger' attitude. Merely holding but not using.

(2) The other extreme is the exact opposite, that practised by the C.P.R. under the Railway agreement of 1925-7-8. Open gates wide—bring them all in by the shipload—and as it is easier to get them from the 'unpreferred' countries of central and southern Europe, that is where we will get them—it will help the railway to pay dividends—we cannot be bothered about its effect upon the Nation's blood, character and homogeneity.

We have had very much more than enough of such an unpatriotic policy. (3) The third, and we think the only reasonable policy at the present time, is midway between these two extremes:—

We must have immigration, and at once, or else Germany, Italy and Japan will soon bring a case against us before the civilized world. Some one has said that we have a 7th of the habitable world area, but only a 75th of the population. There is but one answer to be made to this, which most of the nations would accept as valid; viz, that we need all the space we now have vacant for our own flesh and blood and those from the British Isles, together with our near ethnic kin.

Begin moderately, but at once, the increase of our population by bringing in English, Scotch, Irish and Welsh settlers, together with Norwegians, Icelanders, Danes and Swedish (all of our own ethnic stock) and no others except French Canadians from U. S. A.

The railways say it is very hard to get settlers from the British Isles or Scandinavia. Quite so. And this fact will meet the objections raised by the Labour and Farmers unions. This immigration will not come in fast enough to do them any harm. Rather the other way. Yet we shall be filling up our vacant spaces gradually with our own people and our own ethnic kin.

This would be an effective answer to the nations who say that we are holding up the vacant land of the world. And more important still, it will quiet the uneasy feeling that is growing between Canada and the Mother-land, that we are shoving off our independence by keeping the door as nearly closed as may be against Old Country immigration.

If you, Sir Edward, would give a strong lead on this line, I feel sure the sober thought of this country would support you and we shall gradually forget the damage done by the 'Railway Agreement,' and probably forget the "pillory" also.

Faithfully yours,
GEORGE EXTON LLOYD

FROZEN BIRDS.

(Calgary Herald)

FEW birds have suffered more during the recent blizzard than the Hungarian partridges, less on account of deep snow covering their food supply than by the fact that drifts, sealing the entrances to culverts and bridges, have trapped them in icy caverns into which they crept to seek shelter from the storms sweeping across the Prairies.

Farmers, railway maintenance crews and motorists can probably save a great number of these fine game birds if they will open up culverts wherever they find them blocked with snow. In many of them coveys of "huns" are slowly starving to death, unable to penetrate the icy barrier which entombs them. Such humanitarian action does not of necessity entail clearing the whole drift, provided a sufficient passage is opened to allow the birds egress.

VERDICT IN MARCH EASTVIEW CASE

19-Day Trial Believed Longest Hearing Before Magistrate Ever In Canada

By Guy E. Rhoades
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

EASTVIEW, Ont., Feb. 13 (CP).—This town's ramshackle court house was quiet to-day and the yellow-painted hotel across the street looked almost empty in the absence of attendants at Dorothea Palmer's birth-control trial, gone for a month till Magistrate Lester Clayton brings down his judgment.

The trial, 19 days long altogether, brought the court house what was believed the longest magistrate's court trial on record in Canada, and the hotel the best business it had seen in years.

Examination of 40 witnesses poured 750,000 words into the record and counsel argued in more than 500,000 more as they sought to prove Miss Palmer should be convicted or acquitted of advertising birth-control information and contraceptives through a pamphlet in contravention of the criminal code's article 207C.

Magistrate Clayton had in his collection of exhibits 87 books of documents and 23 boxes of contraceptives, most of them containing copies of the pamphet on which the charge was based against the 29-year-old Ottawa social worker.

Miss Palmer was arrested September 15 by Constable Emile Martel of Eastview after the officer had investigated complaints lodged anonymously by women on the telephone.

She came to trial October 21 on three counts laid under Section 207C of the code. Two charges were dismissed early and the trial proceeded on the remaining count.

WOMAN SUFFERED FRACTURE OF ARM

Manilla Woman Knocked Down By Truck As She Walked Along Highway

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, Feb. 13.—Miss Florence Edwards, of Manilla, was rushed to the hospital here Friday night suffering from a fractured arm. Accompanied by another lady, Miss Edwards was walking along the highway, when a truck passed, going westward on Highway No. 7. At the same time a car driven by Mr. J. P. Snodden, 76 William street, north, Lindsay, passed the truck but in the conflicting glare of lights the driver failed to see the two women until it was too late to stop the car.

The unfortunate woman was knocked down and when picked up by Mr. Snowden was apparently suffering from severe arm pains. The driver rushed her to the Lindsay hospital and it was discovered that the bone of the arm was protruding through the flesh.

Traffic Officer Massingham is investigating.

AFTER MORE TAXES

28 Estates Reported Being Checked In London Area.

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 13 (CP).—A number of large estates left by wealthy Londoners are being probed by the succession duty department it was learned today. Accountants from the department are in London at the present time.

The succession duty officials are working with secrecy, checking up to see if the proper declarations regarding assets were made when the estates were filed for probate. They are delving back into old records to see if more succession duties should be collected.

Rumors said that 28 different estates are being inspected.

TIME FOR A CHANGE

Scantygrease Citizens Think Name of Delameter Much Nicer.

KELSO, Wash., Feb. 13—(CP).—The populace of Scantygrease has gone dignified. Citizens are tired of being "scantygreasers" and, furthermore, they believe the name of their community no longer is accurately descriptive.

So they have petitioned county commissioners to rename the town "Delameter."

The region won its name half a century ago because fat was so scarce housewives used turnips to grease the frying pans.

given," said the prisoner. The boys talked among themselves and thought there must be something wrong, thought someone was lying, and they all agreed to tell the truth when their turn came."

"That's a deliberate lie," he said as the charge made by a guard was read from the evidence.

The riot developed when "the boys saw they couldn't do any good by talking to the superintendent," said the prisoner.

If the present conditions continue, witness said, he would rather be in a cell than in a dormitory which is lighted at night, poorly ventilated because windows are kept closed, and the beds are too close.

Doctors Ignored.

Physicians give proper instructions regarding care of sick prisoners, but guards sometimes ignore them, he said. Immediately his milk diet was stopped in September his weight dropped three and one-half pounds, official records show.

A youth of 18 laughingly remarked he got drunk on hair lotion and escaped from the reformatory. He didn't know how he got out of the buildings, but seven hours later when he got sober, he asked a farmer to 'phone police to pick up him and his friends.

Dirt, sand and peelings in the potatoes, stones and dirt in the beans, and greasy teapots were complaints made by a prisoner of 19 regarding lack of cleanliness in the Reformatory kitchen. The prisoner has two more years to serve and was at liberty only one week after a previous 16-month sentence.

Blankets should be changed more often in his opinion. "I've seen men do one year with the same set of blankets," he said.

Intended No Damage.

A prisoner of 19 said plans had been made on Friday for the hunger strike on Sunday, January 17. No damage had been intended, he said. While the disturbance was going on he refused to see his father who had come to visit him. He served a previous term, has been in the Reformatory more than a year this time, and has 26 months yet to serve.

A husky prisoner of 22 has never worked, he said. He could have worked in a fruit store, but stayed at home with his parents. He served two years previously and was free for eight months before being sentenced again.

During his previous term he used the same blankets continuously for the 24 months, he said. They had not been washed or cleaned in that time.

If a man has a long sentence to serve he can do nothing but work in the "bull gang" with pick and shovel, said a prisoner aged 24, who has been married for six years. He has made several attempts to go into the barber shop or machine shop so he could benefit later by his experience there, but he has been refused. He is a former auto mechanic.

"A fellow doesn't come in here for holidays; he comes here for punishment, and I guess the institution is all right," said the prisoner, "but some of the meals were not fit to serve anyone. Several times the stench from the meal has been so terrible I have not been able to touch it, but have eaten just bread and tea."

ways on duty near the bullion rooms, new and secret devices are a constant trap for the unwary.

Invaders of the vaults could be trapped and drowned at the touch of a button, for thousands of gallons of water can be poured into strong-rooms as a two-fold protection against burglar and foe. This water-system is controlled from three points—from a secret point inside the bank, from Scotland Yard, and from the Governor's House 10 miles outside the city.

So strong are the 50 vaults that it has been estimated 100 crackmen would take a full year to penetrate them, even if there were no guards or alarms.

There are long horizontal slits high up in the outer wall of the building, from which machine-guns could dominate the surrounding streets if ever a siege were attempted. A gallery runs around the top of this wall where patrols could keep watch in a time of emergency.

Conservative papers generally approved the loan. The Times said the amount to be borrowed was unlikely to cause any undue strain on the national credit. The Manchester Guardian declared the loan created a "perilous outlook" and believed the cost of defence might better be met from taxation than from a loan.

Leslie Hore-Belisha, Minister of Transport, speaking at Edinburgh, expressed hope the announcement might prove to be powerful and decisive means for bringing the world back to peaceful ways.

Request for the loan "may well be a chastening reminder wherever it may be appropriate that Britain is ready to employ in the area of her responsibilities her manpower, her material and—what is ever been the more powerful and irresistible of her weapons — her financial resources.

"We now reverse the policy so long fruitlessly pursued," he added, "of disarmament by example."

P.C.I. CAGE TEAM DEFEATS OSHAWA

Local Collegians Cop 29-15 Victory In Interscholastic Fixture

(By Eric West)

Last night in the local Collegiate gym, P.C.I. senior boys trimmed the Oshawa interscholastic basketball quintet by a 29-15 score in a fairly exciting contest. After a cautious first half, which ended with a 13-6 margin for the homesters, play evened up for a time. P.C.I. turned in a slow-breaking game and kept possession of the ball most of the time.

The victory resulted from accurate passing and a well-balanced offensive. Captain Gemmell and Turner at centre starred in scoring with seven points each. Galley and Kelly were Work Makes For a Long Life.

Alex Ross of Lindsay will be ninety-seven years old on Sunday, St. Valentine's Day. Mr. Ross was born near Glengarry, of Scottish parentage, and spent some years in Sherbrooke, Quebec, before moving to Lindsay in 1867. He worked first at Fee's shingle mill and Ingle's planing mill and then obtained work with the Government, which employed him for forty years. He did not retire from active employment until he was eighty years of age, something like Port Hope's grand old man, Joseph Richardson, who was ninety-seven years old this week and who worked well on into his eighties.

Societies Hold Day of Prayer

Peterborough Societies Unite For Service In Trinity United Church

The belief that "Prayer changes things" has taken firm root in the hearts of the women of the world, and this fact was exemplified in Peterborough yesterday afternoon and evening when our women and girls formed a link in the chain which encircled the world.

Trinity United Church was the Mecca toward which all turned for this world-wide service, and in which all Protestant churches of the city were well represented.

The theme for prayer, "The Son of the Living God," was the same for every land, and was arranged by Miss Mabel Shaw of North Rhodesia, West Africa. The music, the scripture and the directed prayer, were all based upon this central thought and were carried out in a beautiful and impressive spirit, with Mrs. S. D. Carver, president of Trinity United W.M.S., as leader.

The opening "Call to Worship" included an appeal that we "Let this Day of Prayer be for us a festival of Him who is "Very God of Very God and Son and brother of man," thinking of His body on earth, the Christian Church.

The responsive scripture lesson was selected from various portions of the Old and New Testaments, emphasizing the kingship of Christ, and the prayer subjects were all-embracing. These included the Christian Church and its whole missionary program; dynamic leadership for our own community, and a more widespread interest in the cause of temperance. Prayer was made for youth everywhere that their vision of God be clear and their energies directed into channels of usefulness and service.

The closing individual invocation was on behalf of His Majesty the King, the Empire, the nation and for the world family of nations.

Representatives from the various churches of the city who led the congregation of women in prayer were as follows:

Mrs. W. H. Morton, George Street United; Mrs. F. B. Elliott, St. James' United; Mrs. H. H. Graham, Murray Street Baptist; Staff Captain Scott, of the Salvation Army; Mrs. James Dutton, St. Paul's Presbyterian, and Mrs. J. Edgar, of All Saints Anglican.

A brief address on the purpose of this World's Day of Prayer was presented by Mrs. G. K. Tyler, Park Street Baptist Church, who told something of its observance in other lands.

Miss Mabel Clarry presided at the organ throughout and in the afternoon, Mrs. Ford Turner, representing St. Andrew's Group, sang the beautiful solo, "Come Ye Blessed," by Prindle-Scott.

The offerings received at this annual Day of Prayer are used chiefly for the circulation of the Bible and Christian literature, in many lands.

In the thrilling fellowship of this day, different denominations, races and nations realize their oneness in Christ, as they meet in African hut; under the skies of India; in bare mission halls or in great cathedrals.

AT THE CAPITOL
"ONE IN A MILLION"

Here you have the world's greatest woman skater, young, blonde, pretty, and an absolute whiz on ice. She skates much more easily than most girls walk, this Sonja Henie (pronounced, so we are told, as Sone-yah Hay-knee), who came all the way over the sea with her family to capitalize her genius in the movies and make scads of money, while evidently enjoying herself hugely. She is "one in a million."

It is a blithesome picture, with a glimpse of Switzerland and the German Olympics and the great Madison Square Garden in New York city. It is lightened by the antics of the Ritz Brothers and Borrah Minevitch and his gang (you haven't heard the real 'oompah, oompah' playing on a mouth-organ until you hear these outups), and there is a grand supporting cast. There was a double line-up for both shows last night, and the feature richly deserved all the attention it received.

Here's a gay and refreshing print crepe dress with smart slim coat-like closing.

It will give a touch of "spring-time" to your drab winter wardrobe. Again, it's so exactly right for cruise or the sunny south. It's a life-saver for your budget. You'll wear it all spring.

It's the sort of dress you can slip into in the morning and wear all day for endless occasions. You'll shop in it and then keep your luncheon or bridge "date."

The leg o' mutton sleeves add just enough breadth to the shoulders. The soft gathers 'neath the yoke, hide a too full bust. The moderately flared hem is gracious for the mature figure.

This model is equally charming in plain or printed cottons, linens or challis for summer.

The illustrated dressmaking guide included in the pattern shows you in pictures how each part is joined.

Style No. 2970 is designed for sizes 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48-inches bust. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39-inch material with 1½ yards of 4-inch ribbon for bow.

WE ARE never without help. We have no right to say of any good work, it is too hard for me to do, or of any sorrow, it is too hard for me to bear, or of any sinful habit, it is too hard for me to overcome.—Elizabeth Charles.

Dear Friends:

Do you have a hard job making yourself do the things you ought to do? Do you keep saying to yourself "Oh I cannot do this or that. It is too hard."

In a manner of speaking, you are tempting fate when you say you could never do this or that, or that you could not bear to have so and so happen.

When I was a girl, I used to say I could not bear to be alone in the house at night. But I have been alone for months on end, and had to get used to it. The only way I could solve the problem was to pray that God would give me courage, and help me forget the fright which made me feel like that.

I say now frankly, that many things we think are impossible to do, can be done if we have enough faith. If you have faith in God and none in yourself, how are you ever going to get anywhere, because it is you who must do the necessary thing.

Don't mistake. He still performs miracles, but He still uses human beings to carry them out. If you need a miracle performed in your life, and you will not do your part because you lack belief in your own powers, don't be surprised if it does not happen.

Figure it out this way. Supposing something needs doing in the home or office which will make life easier or happier for you, and you will not let yourself try it, because you are afraid you will fail, it never gets done does it?

But, if you ask for help from the Source of all help, then go ahead and do your best, you will be amazed at how you will succeed. But you must make a start.

If you want to cross the street but are afraid you will be knocked down by a car, and keep putting your foot out and pulling it back, you will never get over to the other side, will you?

But if you make a bridge of your doubts you can safely cross, not blindly but intelligently. It is good to trust in God, but you must trust yourself as God's instrument, else you will be stuck right where you are. We are not puppets and God pulling the strings to make us move. He gave us the power to move at will, and the brains if we will use them.

So many say a habit like drink or drugs or other things cannot be cured. What folly. Any of our habits can be cured if we only co-operate. It did not grow on us in a day or a week so maybe it cannot be cured in a short time either.

Never forget that God's power combined with your power can do the seemingly impossible. But don't leave it all to God. That's the shirker's way, and will never get you anywhere.

I really think that a lot of our ills are with us because we do not do our part. We look for miracles, we pray for them, then fold our hands and wait for them to happen.

What did Jesus tell the parable of the talents for, if He did not mean for us to use what His Father had given us in the way of brains? If you read of His Life, you will see that He was never idle. He prayed, but He also worked. He knew the power of prayer but He also knew that work made the prayer come true.

So many will say in a very unctious manner, "I leave it all to God." What a lazy attitude, and how annoyed I am when I hear it. Bestir yourself. Do all you can to help make your miracle come to pass. Use the power He gave you to better your life, and then maybe it will not be so tangled as it has been. Pray and pray again, but work also. No one who has had a successful life ever just sat back and "left it all to God." He shows us how to do it, but we must get busy else it will not be done. I could go on for hours, but time's up.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

ASK CONFIRMATION OF COUNTY ACTION

Delegation From Smith Council Confers With Department Of Highways

A deputation from the Smith township council consisting of Reeve George E. Mullen, Councillor Roxborough, Road Superintendent T. H. Graham and Clerk Percy Udy, armed with an introductory letter from J. J. Duffus, M.P., approving of their request, conferred Thursday in Toronto with Deputy-Minister of Highways Smith and Mr. Marshall, assistant chief engineer of municipal roads. The object of the visit was to ask the Department of Highways to confirm the action of the Peterborough County Council in assuming as county roads the angle road from the 8th Concession line to Selwyn and also the middle line from the river road to the 8th concession line. Reeve Mullen by his convincing figures showed the request was fully warranted and that nothing was being asked for but what was fair.

While definite promises were not made by the Department yet from the interview the members of the delegation are optimistic as to the prospects of obtaining their object.

While in Toronto the deputation also saw the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission and ascertained that the matter of street lighting for Bridgenorth had been checked and finally passed and instructions had gone forward to Peterborough to commence the construction of the system.

Collegiate Notes

MORNING ENTERTAINMENT

A surprise is in store for P.C.V.S. students when they file into the assembly auditorium Monday morning. An attempt is to be made to cheer the boys and girls for their daily grind by varying the usual morning assembly routine with a bit of entertainment.

The idea is a revival of a scheme tried on several occasions in past years but neglected of late.

Each Monday, Wednesday and Friday morning a reading, a solo or, perhaps, some instrumental offering will be afforded. Talent for the little entertainments will be obtained, of course, within the school. Occupying only a few minutes the diversions will not displace the usual morning hymn and recitation of the Lord's Prayer.

George Hall, president of the students' council, has sponsored the idea. Different students will aid in obtaining the required talent. Edna Boriand will have charge next week.

EDITORS AT WORK

The deadline for copy for the P.C.V.S. Echoes, school annual, February 19, is approaching rapidly and preparations are proceeding apace. Hugh Davidson and his sub-editors report material is being received in all departments in good volume.

Humour editor John Pratten is particularly optimistic. The task of the humour editor has always been a difficult one but lots of likely material is available for use this year—even a few original jokes!

The advertising department in charge of Alfred Dawson reports that prosperity has returned to Peterborough; merchants of the city have responded readily with the advertising contributions which make possible the financial success.

SCHOOL SONG

P.C.V.S. has never had a school song that it could call its own. For many years the student body has borrowed "We'll Never Let the Old Flag Fall" to fill the lack but the Students Council now believes the time has come when, in the interest of school spirit, a distinctive P.C.V.S. refrain should be obtained.

The matter is now being given weighty attention by the council. Likely the budding composers of the school body will be given a chance to shine in a general song contest. Prizes will be offered for the best music and the best lyric, according to present plans.

BASKETBALL

Coach H. L. Bamforth drilled his senior basketball boys hard this week. The loss the team suffered last week in Bowmanville put the squad in a fighting mood. It looks as though the boys had better win all remaining games. They will be rooting for Bowmanville's opponents during the rest of the schedule in order that they may put themselves in play-off position by a defeat of Bowmanville at their own hands in their return game.

The basketball season may be at its height, but Coach Bamforth has not allowed rugby to stay far from his mind. He is already thinking of this year's line-up and counting the players he will have left from the 1936 team. He plans to add enough equipment to outfit twenty players.

PLEASED WITH TALENT

Martin B. Chenhall seems quite pleased with the talent that has been supplied him for the Literary Society production "In Old Vienna" now in rehearsal. He has been coaching the vocal roles each afternoon for the past three weeks and reports excellent progress is being made.

His "discovery" of Orma Lacheur has been one of the features of rehearsals up to the present. Miss Lacheur was singing in the chorus when Maestro Chenhall selected her for a solo try-out. She has been assigned a leading role, as much to her own surprise as that of anyone else.

Miss Marie Hicks, who is co-operating with Mr. Chenhall in direction, has been drilling the members of the cast regularly in their lines. Lots of solid humour is contained in the lines and the caste members themselves are enjoying the occasional laugh.

LENS FANS MEET

R. G. Cornell of the Industrial Arts department provided members of the Camera Club a demonstration of the chemistry of photography in a meeting Wednesday. A large turnout witnessed the demonstration and keen interest was evinced.

ODDS AND ENDS

Clarence Davern, star forward of the boys' Senior basketball team, will be out of action for a couple of weeks due to an injured knee he sustained in Bowmanville last week. .....Linden Reid, girl basketballer, has been sporting a sprained wrist this week as the result of a skiing accident. It is to be hoped it won't keep her out of the game too long. ....Genial Don Ross, master of the ivories, has departed from P.C.V.S. and is now attending business college.....Influenza has made no serious inroads on the P.C.V.S. attendance. The school attendance during January was 96 per cent.

Celebrate 60th Wedding Anniversary

An event of unique interest took place today when the friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Perdue of 695 Stewart street gathered at their home in honor of the sixtieth anniversary of their marriage. The day was fittingly begun by a High Mass at St. Peter's Cathedral. Mr. Perdue and his wife (the former Margaret Brick of Ennismore) were married on February 13, 1877. They resided for a greater part of their active life in Downeyville district where the former was a blacksmith. They have lived in retirement in the city for the past twenty-two years.

Kingston Conservatives Find Hon. Norman Rogers On Executive

KINGSTON, Feb. 13 (C.P.). — Members of the Kingston Conservative Association yesterday found out that under a clause in the body's constitution, Hon. Norman Rogers, Federal Labor Minister, has been on the executive ever since his election as Liberal representative of the city in the House of Commons.

When they heard it some of the Association officials could hardly believe their ears, but officials dragged out the constitution and pointed to a clause which said ".... shall be included as a member of the executive, the sitting member of the Federal House at Ottawa."

The clause had been framed some years ago when Kingston's House of Commons member was a Conservative.

The Conservative Association's executive met hastily and decided to relieve Mr. Rogers of the honor even he didn't know rested on him.

The Labor Minister isn't on the executive any more. The constitution now reads: ".....shall be included as a member, the sitting Conservative member of the Federal House."

OTTAWA, Feb. 13. — Press despatches from Kingston yesterday reported that the name of the Hon. Norman McLeod Rogers, Federal Minister of Labor, appeared in a list of members of the Kingston Conservative Association.

The Liberal member for Kingston has had many notable honors conferred upon him since he worked for $1.00 a day in a steel plant in his native Nova Scotia, but he suspects that the story from Kingston is like the report of Mark Twain's death—greatly exaggerated.

The youthful Minister certainly enjoys the support of and serves many Kingstonians who normally vote Conservative. It is his ambition to represent in the Dominion Parliament all the people of Kingston regardless of their political allegiance, but he cannot credit the report that he is on the Conservative executive.

Deanna Durbin Is Coming To City In Three Smart Girls

Deanna Durbin claims Winnipeg as her birthplace, nevertheless Peterborough is following the career of "Canada's gift to the screen and radio" with more than passing interest.

Known to radio listeners as the "songbird" on Eddie Cantor's weekly program, Deanna stars in Universal's recent film release, "Three Smart Girls" which is coming to the Regent Theatre from Wednesday to Saturday (both days inclusive) next week.

A short time prior to the outbreak of the Great War, James Durbin, her father, was employed as a blacksmith at the Canadian General Electric Company's plant here. His service extended from May 31, 1910, to May 23, 1912.

Eleven years after her parents left Peterborough Deanna was born in Winnipeg. She is now fourteen years of age. Her family moved to Los Angeles when she was a tiny child and Deanna is now beginning what promises to be a successful movie career. She is remarkably pretty, apparently unspoiled, has a natural, un-self-conscious manner before the camera, and owns a voice unusual tin one so young, that is clear, bell-like and true.

Two other Canadian girls appear in the picture, Nan Grey from the Maritimes and Barbara Read from Port Arthur.

FAR-FAMED CHOIR IS COMING TO CITY

Only Three Other Canadian Cities Have Been Visited By Mendelssohn Choir

In view of the approaching visit to Peterborough of Toronto's famed Mendelssohn Choir it is interesting to note that, over a period of forty years of the Choir's history, only three other Canadian cities have been visited. Montreal, Ottawa and Kingston have acclaimed the virtuosity of this remarkable organization which, through the years, has presented its programmes in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit, Cincinnati, and Chicago, in some of these several times. Acclaimed by world famous musicians and orchestra conductors as the Choir supreme on the American continent its fame has travelled all over the world. The choir will be heard in St. Paul's church.

The organization of the Choir dates from 1894 when Dr. A. S. Vogt, then organist and choirmaster of Jarvis Street Baptist Church in Toronto, conceived that the time was ripe to put into effect ideas which he had conceived as a student in Canada and Europe. His belief was that if choral music was to receive its proper public appreciation, it must be by giving the public something better than in the past. His aim was to create a singing society whose tonal quality and expression should approximate to that of a fine orchestra. In a first class orchestra there is no jarring tone; every performer must be a trained musician, and by this means exquisite finish and shading are obtainable.

Housewives who went to the Farmers' Market today hoping for bargains in potatoes were doomed to disappointment. The general price was $2.25 a bag although a few bags were offered at $2.00. However, the large offering scotched reports that the Ontario winter supply was being exhausted.

Eggs sold at 21 to 23 cents a dozen and butter ranged in price from 27 to 29 cents. Chickens brought 16 to 20 cents.

The offering of apples was again large and prices were more closely ranged between 35 and 45 cents a peck for the different varieties. Pork was 12 and 14 cents and beef cuts sold at 8 and 10 cents. White honey was 13 cents a pound.

Cancellation of Agreement, Abrogation of Assessments Is Sought In Private Bill

Terms Of Agreements Made Between City And Companies Are Outlined

GORDON TAKES ACTION

Alderman G. N. Gordon, K.C., published this week a summary of the private bill which as a ratepayer he is submitting to the Legislature for enactment, seeking the cancellation of the city's agreement with the Canadian General Electric Company for the extended lease for a term of twenty years of the water power at the waterworks dam; and also the abrogation of the fixed assessments to the Raybestos Company and the De Laval Company.

Ratepayers may have forgotten the terms of these agreements with three of the manufacturing companies, and also other circumstances connected with them. As a matter of information the action of the city council is reviewed herewith.

Raybestos Bylaw

Prior to 1932 the fixed assessment of the Canadian Raybestos Company was $10,000 except for school taxes and the rate for local improvements. The company paid the total city tax rate on the assessment of $10,000, and the rates for school purposes and local improvements were applied on the complete assessment of the land and buildings.

In June 1932 the company contemplated extending their plant. The question of assessment was discussed with the council early in the summer of that year when the depression had reached an acute stage. Outdoor trades were at a standstill. In the conversations which took place at the city hall at that time the Raybestos Company was encouraged to go ahead with their plans for two new buildings with a total of 11,100 square feet of additional floor space. The council promised to present to the ratepayers at the following January elections a bylaw granting the company fixed assessment of $25,000. This meant that the full tax rate was to be charged on two and one-half times larger assessment than before.

The two new units were built and the council's tentative assurance was referred to the ratepayers for approval at the New Year's Day elections. The Raybestos Company on their part recalled that in 1920 they had bought the Henry Hope Company factory expecting it to be occupied by another new industry. However, as a result of the postwar deflation and collapse of business this company did not come to Peterborough, and the Raybestos Company paid taxes on the empty factory on Monaghan Road for nine years until it was purchased by the Johnson Motor Company.

"What we are now asking," the Rayoestos Company stated in presenting their case to the property owners in December 1932, "is that instead of doubling our taxation at a time when business conditions are at a low ebb, you permit us to carry on with only a 50 per cent increase in our taxes, which we deem reasonable."

At the polls on New Year's Day the city council's course was ratified by the vote on the Raybestos bylaw: For 2228; Against 644.

The term of the fixed assessment of $25,000 was ten years.

De Laval Bylaw

The De Laval Company bylaw which increased the company's fixed assessment from $50,000 to $60,000, an increase of $10,000 on which the entire tax rate was to be levied, was given its first and second readings by the council December 5, 1932, after it had been aproved in committee in November. The bylaw was submitted to the ratepayers and was supported by the vote: For 2204; Against 660.

In presenting the grounds for its request to the council the company recalled that it had originally agreed to employ 75 people, and in 1932 it employed 194. It had agreed to provide 45,000 square feet of factory space and had constructed more than 150,000 square feet. Its payroll up to that time totalled $5,176,462, and purchases from other plants in Peterborough had totalled $1,063,000.

The agreement mentioned certain new features of manufacture which the De Laval Company would put into effect. Another clause stated that by December 31, 1934 the payroll would be at least 50 per cent greater than it had been in November 1932.

Alderman Gordon asserts that this condition has not been fulfilled by the company.

C.G.E. Company's Lease

Another clause in the bill affirms that the city council exceeded its authority in renewing the Canadian General Electric Company's lease of the waterworks power dam in 1931.

A statement by Gordon S. Matthews, chairman of the Peterborough Utilities Commission in the Examiner of December 31, 1934, reviewed the circumstances of that agreement. Mr. Matthews at that time referred back to a news item in the Examiner of February 4, 1930, reporting the agreement for the renewal.

The original lease which was for twenty years expired on April 1, 1930. By the terms of that lease the Canadian General Electric Company was to build a power house at the waterworks dam, and install generators and other equipment for production of power at the company's expense. This power house with all its equipment was to revert to come into the city's possession at the expiry of the lease, April 1, 1931. The company also agreed to pay $2,000 a year, for twenty years, for the use of the surplus water flowing over the dam.

Mr. Matthews declared that the amount of power which the C.G.E. company was able to develop in that power house, according to official records, was 400 horse power.

"As the average life of this generating equipment is approximately 20 years it was evident that if the city took over this power plant the generating equipment would have to be rebuilt at an estimated cost to the city of $50,000. If this had been done the total yearly cost to the city of the power developed, including interest, depreciation, operation and maintenance, and lost rental, would have been at least $26.20 per horse power," Mr. Matthews said at that time. "And the wholesale cost of power from the Hydro at that was $28 per horse power.

When the new agreement for a further period of the lease was drawn up the rental was increased $2,000 to $3,000 a year, and also the C.G.E. Company agreed to commence within three months the construction of a new building, approximately 400 feet by 160 feet at an estimated cost of $400,000. This was one of the provisions of the agreement, and they built the building according to the agreement."

According to the Examiner's report of the council's action in February, 1930, when the terms of the new lease were reported to the Examiner Aldermen Tuggey enquired whether the increased rental of $3,000 a year for the surplus flow of water was the best price that could be obtained.

Mayor Denne replied that the council's deputation at a conference with the Hydro-Electric Commission in Toronto had wanted $4,000 a year, "but finally settled on $3,000 after conferring with Mr. Matthews of the Utilities Commission."

Alderman Gordon's criticism of the council's action in extending the old lease on the new terms was that the council had exceeded its authority, that the lease was a form of bonus and therefore should be declared void. He also asserts that the city should assume possession of the waterworks dam and the power house and equipment which the C.G.E. Company agreed to turn over to the city, and that the power should be used by the municipality.

The Rambling REPORTERS

ALL MIXED UP

Maybe the ghost of the late P. T. Barnum turned over in his grave last night. There isn't any way of finding out. At any rate, we always thought it was the master showman who said those famous words: "You can fool some of the people all of the time and all of the people some of the time, but you can't fool all of the people all of the time." And now we are stricken by doubt. Because the radio announcer (are radio announcers ever wrong?) said it was Abraham Lincoln who uttered that well-known bromide. There ought to be some way of settling so important a question.—C.L.M.

LINDSAY'S WATER BOARD ATTACKED

Health Officials Criticize Commission Plan to Spend $25,000 —Say Tests Fine

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, Feb. 13.— The local Board of Health is critical of the plan of the Board of Water Commissioners to spend the sum of $25,000 on improvements to the plant with a view to improving the water supply. The members point out that no pressure has been brought to bear by the Provincial Board of Health, and that the water supplied for domestic purposes, as shown by tests, is purer than local well water.

The residence of Charles Giles, of Haliburton, was destroyed by fire Thursday night about 9.30 o'clock. The house, one of the landmarks of the village, made a spectacular fire. Mr. and Mrs. Giles and four children were asleep when the fire broke out and made a hurried escape from the house. The contents were not saved.

The deceased was a former resident of Fenelon Falls and was a prominent figure in the business life of the west, being connected in an executive capacity with Patrick Burns & Co., a pioneer Western Canada business firm.

A FEW COMMENTS

Starting at 9 a.m. and on a sheet of fast ice the first games gave several exhibitions of real curling—On towards noon the ice was getting a little sticky—during the afternoon water was commencing to show, and the final games were played on the outside ice—and at that so heavy was the going that some of the skips decided to default their last game.

The weatherman, this season, especially, seems to have a spite against those who enjoy winter sports.

Harry Foote and Geo. Cairns handled the draw and made a good job of it.

The outsiders and the local club played the game 50-50—each winning three prizes and both Lindsay rinks were successful in reaching the pay-off station.

Alex Archibald didn't do bad for a fellow that has quit curling every year for the last fifteen years and just as often starts all over again.

It was the old story all over again, the survival of the strongest.

Remember When—

The Duke of Devonshire, then Governor-General of Canada, seemed broken-hearted when his favorites, Ottawa Senators, bowed 3-1 to Montreal Canadiens 16 years ago to-night. The Duke recovered his spirits when he saw the Senators, chosen by some experts as the greatest hockey team that ever laced on skates, come back and win the Stanley Cup that year.

Keene Beats Clippers As Hiawatha Loses

(Examiner Correspondence)

KEENE, Feb. 13.—Keene fans saw a double-header on Thursday night, when Keene sank the Peterborough "China Clippers" 5-1, and a Peterborough junior squad trimmed Hiawatha Indians, 6-5.

The first game was a lively, clean tussle with Keene having the edge. D. McCarthy led Keene scorers, notching two, while B. Campbell, I. Fletcher and O. McCarthy tallied the others. Heal got the lone one for the "Clippers." Heath, Jobe and Jamieson showed up well for the losers. Line-up:

Peterborough.—Goal, B. Heath; L. Heath and Langton, defence; centre, Conroy; wings, Barnes, Campbell. Subs., Heal, Jobe and Jamieson.

Keene.—Goal, Renwick; defence, Nelson and Joyce; centre, B. Campbell; wings, Shearer and Bowie; subs., O. McCarthy, I. Shearer, D. McCarthy and J. Richardson.

The second game saw plenty of action. K. Fleming shone for the winners, notching five of his term's six counters. Conroy tallied the other. Lipsett also looked good. For Hiawatha, B. Wood led the attack with four goals; J. Godfrey notched the other. Howard, in goal, for Hiawatha kicked out a number of hot ones. Gall, Paudash, Muskrat also looked good.

Lineups:

Peterborough.—Goal, Jamieson; defence, B Heal and Spencely; centre, Lipsett; wings, Conroy and Heal. Subs., Inkpen, Jobe and Fleming.

Hiawatha.—Goal, Howard; defence, Gillespie, Muskrat; centre, Gall; wings, Wood and Anderson; subs., J. Godfrey, G. Paudash, E. Paudash, Cowie.

Fliers And Petes Meet Here Monday

The final O.H.A. Intermediate "A" game of the season to be played in Peterborough, will take place here Monday night at 8.30 o'clock in the Brock Street rink; the Trenton Fliers finishing their schedule with the Petes. The game has no bearing on the standing, since the locals' defeat last night in Belleville gives the grou ptitle to the Airmen. However, it should be another keen, hard-fought and exciting tussle as these teams have been dishing up fine battles all through the schedule.

None of the Petes suffered injury in last night's bruising contest and Coach Buckland will have his squad at full strength. The same is true of the R.C.A.F. outfit. If the ice is fast, it will be a nice puck joust, otherwise rough play is likely to be seen again. There are hard feelings between the clubs, and the Petes promise to even up a lot of old scores in this final fixture. A good crowd of fans is expected to see the Petes in their windup hockey game.

"FIXED" FIGHTING BY N. Y. SYNDICATE STIRS UP INQUIRY

Slugger Admits He Is 5th Sent To Louisiana Under Fake Name To "Dive" For Torrance

MANAGER IS ARRESTED

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 13.—Self-identified Arthur Huttick, boxer, and Herb Brodie, manager of Louisiana's giant athlete, Jack Torrance, were held incommunicado last night for investigation of an amazing story of "fixed" fighting by a New York "build-up" syndicate.

Huttick, billed as "Jack Willis," disappeared before a fight with Torrance at Baton Rouge, and when arrested later "confessed" that he was the fifth man sent into the state under a fake name to "take a dive" for Torrance, who is being trained as a heavyweight contender.

Holding Them in Secret Place

The Louisiana Boxing Commission today had Huttick and Brodie arrested and kept in a secret place pending the commission's special meeting here Saturday. Chairman Irwin Poche said none would be allowed to see the men and refused to say where they were held. Poche said Huttick was about 5 feet 11 inches tall, and weighed 185 pounds.

"I'll have plenty to tell you tomorrow," Poche quoted Huttick as saying.

Huttick's story, if true, promised a national boxing scandal. Torrance was given a clean bill as victim of the affair, but held a doubtful position in boxing, nevertheless. He himself, bitterly disillusioned, considered himself "washed up."

Huttick said he was a former New York University athlete. Boxing records show that his last fight was in 1934. New York advices said he had planned to join the New York police force.

Concience Bothered Him

Huttick, who told his story of syndicate 'build-up' to Deputy Boxing Commissioner Brother Peter, Principal of Catholic High School, said his conscience wouldn't let him appear in faked fight. He exhibited a typewritten, unsigned instruction sheet, showing train connections for the round-trip from New York and with instructions to "take a dive" in the first round.

Huttick said the so-called Johnny Saxon, Owen Flynn, Jerry Miller and Billy Owens, who had preceded him as opponents of young Torrance, all were sent from New York with instructions to take the count. Boxing records show none of them as they were identified here. "Saxon" really was knocked out, accidentally as he fell, Huttick said.

Campbellford Wins Juvenile Contest

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 13.—The Campbellford Juveniles defeated Cobourg Juveniles by a score of 4 to 1, in a lively exhibition game here last night. Although the ice was soft the locals demonstrated a considerable amount of good combination which kept Cobourg on the defensive for the greater part of the game.

For the locals Reddick, whose stick-handling proved too much for the visitors, stood out with two goals to his credit in the first period, which closed leaving the boys from Cobourg with a blank. Kelly netted the other two goals for the winners in the second and third periods, while Cain fooled Seguire with an easy one in the second for the visitors' only tally.

Cobourg.—Goal, Cain; defense, L. Johns, D. Houston; centre, L. Cain; wings, Woods, Dawe; subs, McKend, Randall, P. Johns, Cobourn, Smith.

Campbellford. — Goal, Seguire; defence, Reddick, Atkinson; wings, Kelly, Jarvis; subs., Kennedy, Free, Cochrane, Bell, J. Donald.

Central School Play Boys tried sleigh riding in front of Cridland's Meat but lost out by a narrow margin.

Moose Snipers dodged the Isolation squad in good manner, sending them back on the short end of the count.

Hydro Electrics are short 3 conduits shot down by the Moose Snipers.

C.G.E. Yard Gang derailed the C.N.R. Freighters in good style. Revenge is sweet.

Running Old King Cole for a double-header, the C.P. Cook-House captured 3 out of 4 for the score of 41 to 31 in King Cole's own backyard.

Central School Play Boys built up a strong defence, using Curtis' Bricks to advantage and no returns.

Central School Play Boys short circuited the Hydro squad in good order, completely routing those boys in the last five ends.

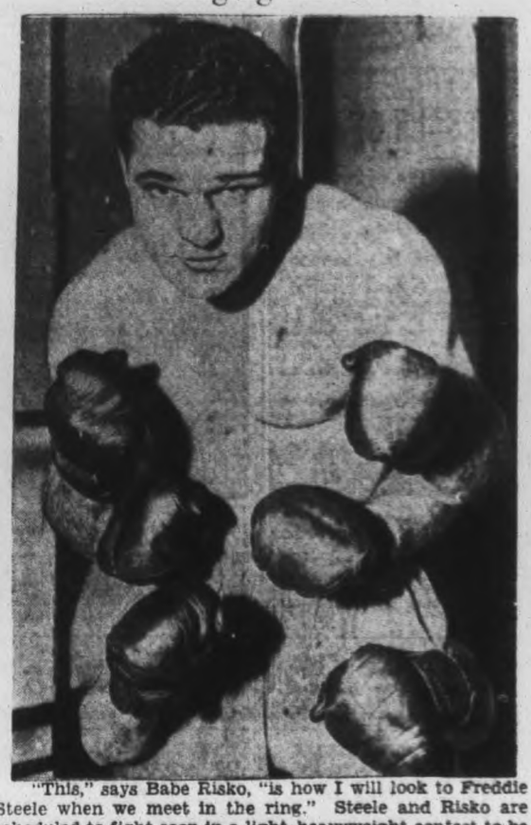
King Cole and His Merry Men squeesed through a very close-fought battle with Rumary's Antiques. Out of 20 ends, only 3 ends went over the one count. King Cole getting those 3 extra balls in 13-10.

T. P. Transport have no need of those slippery roads and beat the C.N.R. Freighters at the crossing in nice style.

The Isolation Hospital squad got a good load when they called on the Hook and Ladder squad, taking two loads into solitary confinement.

Those Smoke Eaters decorated the East City decorators with gas masks and sent them home with empty hands.

Mitt-Slinging Mr. Risko



"This," says Babe Risko, "is how I will look to Freddie Steele when we meet in the ring." Steele and Risko are scheduled to fight soon in a light-heavyweight contest to be staged in New York. Steele won the title from Risko last July. The fight will be a 15-rounder.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

(C.J.P.)

CAGE FANS can see three lively tussles tonight in the Y.M.C.A. gym, starting at seven bells. Church Loop juvenile final between St. Andrew's and St. Paul's opens proceedings, followed by P.C.I. and C.G.E. about 7.45 and by Neill's vs. St. Paul's at 9.00 in Senior City Circuit contests. Interjected about 8.30, a six-man gymnastic team from Toronto Central "Y" will perform for the fans. These Saturday night gatherings are getting larger all the time, the basketball being good and the hop which follows also being something of an attraction.

BELLEVILLE SCRIBE says Kingston junior puck officals scouted the Belleville-Colts' contest on Quinte ice the other eve. But he figures they didn't learn a lot as neither team showed much or took any chances. "As a matter of fact," he adds, "the local kids will have to get a hustle on or it's curtains in the group playoffs. Too many open shots on the nets were wasted and missed, this being especially true in that last game. Art Heal, left winger for the Colts, was in rare form, always working hard and getting results. Eddie Starr, Brady and the Clark twins also gave a good account of themselves." First playoff game is in Belleville on Tuesday.

LEO BEGLEY of the Lindsay Post has dug up an old account of a hockey game which the Petes lost in Lindsay. In ye olden days, the rivalry was intense between these towns. Lindsay gloated over the win and ran a fantastic picture of odd-looking people on their front page, saying: "The Peterborough Rooters Were Here." A few days later the Peterborough Review made the following pithy comments on it: "Lindsay Post has gone to the extreme of giving a large ensemble cut of Peterborough rooters who attended the game. Suffice it to say at the outset that the photograph is apparently an old one of a Lindsay Sunday school picnic.

* * * * * *

"WE HAVE seen crowds in the Bowery, in Chinatown, in Whitechapel, etc., all in the squalor, incongruity and diabolism of alleged humanity, but this coloratura supposed representation of a body of well-behaved people who paid their way into, and like many others, were glad to pay their way out of Lindsay is par-excellence the most vilifying and libelous of modern times. In fact, if it were at all like anybody who ever lived in Peterborough there would be ample grounds for an action for damages even if all Lindsay couldn't be sold for enough to pay the costs." Leo says, after looking at the cut, he hardly blames the Review!

* * * * * *

THE BAY of Quinte backed into the Belleville rink last night and washed up the Petes 3-1. Their hockey hopes were tossed up on shore with other wreckage before a huge crowd of onlookers while the hydroplaning Fliers winged their joyful way back to Trenton Airport. And that's about all there is. It was a case of heavy water-covered ice, a poor game of shinny, with the Fliers nosing out the nod. The game drew the biggest hockey crowd in Belleville this year and it might have been a dandy but for soft, sloppy ice. A gang of 230 Peterborough rooters took the special train (besides several auto loads) and they had a lot of fun. They had so much fun in fact that we wondered what they'd have done if the locals won!

* * * * * *

NO ALIBIS for the Petes—they went down battling gamely before a good team. One Fliers' goal should not have been allowed, since the guy batted in a high one with his stick waving like an off-balanced skier's pole. Another was tallied on a breakaway as the Petes ganged up. Our team held 'em even most of the first two frames and outplayed 'em from here to Hastings in the third. But they had no luck scoring. Play was rough and exciting, with the Petes at least winning the fights. The Fliers finish the schedule here Monday night and it'll be another rousing tilt but with no bearing on the standing.

* * * * * *

AND TODAY, 11 pairs of hockey pants are waving briskly in the breeze, drying out on clothes-lines. The boys had water on the knee, water on the elbow, water on the brain—water, water everywhere and never dropped a drink; no, no, we mean never drank a drop! But a couple of the customers were strongly suspected of playing a nip and tuck game up in the stand—take a nip and then tuck the flask back on the hip! Yeah, we know we're rambling but we feel discouraged. And plenty tired after just 3½ hours sleep this a.m. and having covered no less than 10 games in the last five nights. It's a dog's life and a poor mongrel pooch at that. We wouldn't insult the ability of any of the puckists in last night's fray by naming stars; no one could star on that surface. They all gave their best and that is most decidedly that.

* * * * * *

THREE GALS' basketball games served up quite considerable action and all that last twilight in the Y.W. gym. St. John's Juniors took a 9-7 nudge over "Y" Quakers; Westclox Seniors tuned out Marconi Radio with a 9-3 twist of the dial; and C.G.E. Juniors upped and 11-1'd the young Clockmakers. Standings are in this evening. Games next Friday e'en are: Westclox Seniors vs. C.G.E. at 7.45, St. John's Juniors vs. Westclox at 8.15, and C.G.E. Juniors vs. "Y" Quakers at 9.00—with Marconi Radio lasses getting the bye.

KING OF WINTER SPORTS

Ski-ing

By Charles Schaer

Sponsored By Peterborough Ski Club

42—TRAVERSING DOWNHILL

Traversing means descending or ascending a slope in a direction at an angle to the line of maximum steepness or gradient. A slope which due to gradient, snow conditions, obstructions, etc., the skier feels to be beyond his ability for a safe direct descent should be run in a traverse or a series of traverses connected by turns.

The beginner's tendency when traversing is to lean the body in towards the slope. This must not be done, because the centre of gravity will be uphill from the area of support and the skis will sideslip out from under one. Therefore lean outwards from the slope as seen in diagram.

Take your position at the top of the slope facing the direction in which you intend to run. Advance the uphill ski in the narrow track running position. Thrust the knees well forward and push off. Carry the weight on the downhill ski. The knee of the uphill leg will be bent somewhat more than that of the lower leg due to the foot being higher. Thrust the knees toward the slope, as well as forward, and this will increase the edging of the skis providing greater resistance to side-slipping. Do not bend the ankles to increase the edging. From the hips up bend the body away from the slope to keep the centre of gravity traversely over the area of support.

By carrying the weight equally on the toes and heels the line of descent is kept at a constant angle to the line of maximum gradient, on an unvarying slope. By transferring the weight forward to the toes the line of descent will swing more downhill and the speed will increase. Conversely, transferring weight to the heels will swing the line uphill resulting in decreased speed. This transference of weight is accomplished by leaning the body forward and back but not sufficiently to unduly disturb the fore and after stability.

Petes Are Eliminated By Trenton Fliers 3-1 On Water-Covered Ice

Inch Of Water On Ice At Start And Game Soon Developed Into a Straight Shinny

SCORE TIED 1-1 AT END OF THE FIRST PERIOD

AND FLIERS WERE LEADING 2-1 GOING INTO THIRD

On a flooded Belleville arena last night, the Petes went down for the fourth time before Trenton Fliers, 3 to 1, their hockey hopes for the season being submerged. Close to 2,000 fans—over 200 from Peterborough—saw the locals eliminated in a shinny game. The score was 1-1 at the end of the first frame and 2-1 going into the third.

There was an inch of water on the ice at the start and the game soon developed into straight shinny. The two teams found carrying or passing the puck with any success out of the question, and they just banged the disc around and trusted to luck for a break. The Fliers had better luck to cop the decision. It was an exciting tussle, despite the lack of good hockey, and quite close throughout with plenty of rough stuff.

TWO EASY ONES.

The Fliers got two soft goals. One should not have been allowed, as the player hit a flying puck over his head into the cage. The other occurred on a clean breakaway with all the Petes ganging up. The biggest crowd to pack the Belleville rink this year made plenty of noise at the rugged, thrilling play, nearly half the gathering yelling for the Petes.

There were no stars in this contest. It was impossible to star in the mucky going. All the Petes went down battling, the whole squad from the goalie out giving all they had. They kept play fairly even for two frames and had practically all the play in ganging up through the third. The Trenton team turned in a fine effort in the heavy traffic, too, with none showing up over the rest. Both goalies were good and the rival defences checked hard and effectively. The forwards all worked their heads off but could not combine on heavy ice.

The game, starting 20 minutes late, opened up fast and even. Later ice Fliers pressed for a time and Clarke kicked out several hot thrusts. Williamson was robbed on a neat effort and, when Coughlin went off for tripping, four Fliers pressed hard. The frame was half shot when Williamson rapped home Creighton's rebound at close range, a fight threatening when the goalie went after the local player. Burton nearly notched one as play speeded up. Then Lowery took Lalonde's pass when the defence was caught flatfooted and ankled in to even the count. It slowed up from then on with both Lalonde and McDougall almost tallying before the gong sounded.

Just Plain Shinny.

It was nothing but slow shinny through the middle heat with the players golfing the puck into enemy territory and tearing in after it. A Creighton-Coughlin-Gardner combination brought the crowd up but it failed to click as they splashed through the water from end to end. Lalonde was gated for charging and five Petes buzzed around Gibson but failed to dent the hemp. And then Gardner got the air for slashing. Clarke had to be good for a time, after Gardner got back. Trenton went ahead when Eric McNeeley batted one in over his head at close range on assists from LeCompte and Ernie McNeeley. Later, Weir and Ernie McNeeley went off for roughing it and just before the finish Cowley got the finger for chopping.

The Petes ganged up during the third and had most of the play but no luck in beating the goalie. It was still shinny and Trenton kept shooting the rubber down the ice and making the visitors do all the work. Partridge and Gardner tangled hard and drew major penalties as play roughened up. Gibson was good in goal as he repeatedly robbed the Petes. LeCompte finally broke away to tally easily. Lowery went off for charging and the Petes tore in hotter than ever but without counting a goal. Gardner drew another penalty for tripping and the Petes kept battling away till the final bell.

TWEEDITES TAKE 12 TO 4 DRUBBING FROM BELLEVILLE

Victors Lick In Six Goals In Opener For Safe Margin

FEELING RUNS HIGH

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Feb. 13.—The Tweedites were soundly trounced by the Belleville Sailors on Friday night to the tune of 12 to 4. The Sailors went into a six goal lead in the first period, with Howey tallying twice, Semark with two, and Ethier and Hammett a single apiece. The local boys were unable to cope with the passing plays of the Sailors and at times the game took on the appearance of a glorified shinny match.

In the second period the lead was increased to seven goals when S. Ethier tallied early in the period. W. Leal tallied the first goal for the locals on a shot from centre ice which dribbled into the nets. Howey for Belleville and J. Tummon for the locals went off at this stage. Courneyea tallied the second Tweed goal on a scramble in front of the Sailors' nets. Courneyea, barging through the Belleville team, crashed into Ted Henn, who received a broken nose and was carried off for the rest of the game. Henn also received a penalty for tripping.

The third goal for Tweed was also tallied by W. Leal, who took an angle shot which glanced off into the net. Howey put Belleville up 8 to 3 when he sizzled a close-in shot which beat Reeves to the draw. In a scramble near the Belleville nets, Elsbury went into Ethier with a vengeance, and landed several punches before being sent to the cooler for five minutes, while Ethier drew the usual two minutes. The fourth and last goal for the home forces went to Tip Tummon, who worked his way through the Belleville lineup to drive a backhand into the net. Arber, for doing the tripping act, went to the cooler.

In the last period, the game became a long-range bombardment from the Belleville end, while the locals forced the play. It was hard luck for the locals in this period, when time after time they would get the puck to the goalie only to have him drop and save the game. Sticks and elbows went high and the knees came into action in this canto, with Barrett refereeing the game, apparently slack in his duties.

Goyer, S. Ethier and Howey were the marksmen in the last canto.

Reeves, in goal for the locals, and W. Leal with his two goals, were the standouts for the home forces, while Semark with three goals, Howey with three, and Hinton in goal, were the Sailors' best men. The teams:

Inside Sportin' Dope

BY A. WISE-CRACKER.

Mister Sporting Editor:

I am writing this here epistle just before the battle with the Flyers at Belleville and of course by the time the customers take a gander at it the question will be settled whether the Petes is still in the running or out for the season. Anyway we gotta thank the lads for 1 gorgeous evening's excitement here last Tues. nite when the home talent spilled the Air Force gang for the 1st time this season and done a neat job of it.

The final figgers was us 6 and them 5 but on the run of the play the Buckland brigade might just as well of been ½ a doz. markers in front. They was in the clear in front of the Flyer nets with the rubber at least 15 times during the battle and how they missed some of them raids I aint able even to guess. The best thing about the set-too was the way the lads fought. Every manjack gave everything he had and the climax come when they had to fight the invaders 2 men short and they battled so successful that the group leaders hardly got a shot during the 2 mins.

The boys played grand hockey going and coming, their backchecking, sewing up the Flyers' attack while offensively the boys was tossing the biscuit around right smart and showing speed and stickhandling that made the Flyers' defence pop-eyed. It was a great night and if the boys don't get no further they made a lot of friends for theirselfs by that exhibition.

Jrs. Finish Nice

The jrs. finished up their regular schedule by going down to Belleville and trimming their chief rivals for the group honors by 7 goals to 3, the worst trimming they have handed the young redmen this season. The Peterborough kids was full value for their win, as our soccer friends say, and the manner in which they polished off Belleville on the latter's home ice makes it look promising for the group title in the playoffs next week although the lads better not start taking a census of their poultry too early. They's some smart lads on that Belleville line and the young Petes will have to have their best brand on tap to put them out for the season.

Some Screwy Scoring

By the way, old-timer, this here scoring racket in the pro. loop has got me all tied up like a pretzel. It looks to me as if the Toronto scorer is bound to have a couple of Leaves up near the top of the heap for after handing out publicly all the points the law allows apparently a few more slip in to the official report of the League. Anyway the Canadian Press keeps a summary all week based on the scoring as give out and then when the League figures is issued each Monday night it is found the press summary is cock-eyed. Up to last Monday, according to C.P. reports, Mister Jack-son was in 2nd place with 33 points and Mister Apps had 26. Next day the League tabies was out giving the Busher 34 and putting his centre ice pal up tied with Mister Schriner with 30. Where did them extra points come from? Your guess is as good as mine but after the way Mister Smythe talked the Toronto scorer into giving Mister Apps and Mister Horner an assist the other night, in direct violation of the scoring rules, anything is liable to happen.

Well that seems to be about the issue for the week so it's time to say toodle-oo.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

ROUGH BATTLE

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MADOC, Feb. 13.—In a hectic game played before a fair crowd on soft ice, Madoc placed themselves at the top of the Trent Valley League by defeating Marmora, 4-0. Akey opened the scoring in the first period when he took a neat pass from Hallstone to beat Callery in the nets for Marmora. Referees Watson of Madoc and Cousins from Marmora handed out a long penalty to Smith of Marmora. Following up the first tally Embury soloed through the entire Marmora team to put Madoc two goals up.

The second period showed well-organized work by both teams, neither gaining any tallies. The teams roughed it up in this period with penalties going to Akey and Smith of Madoc and Smith of Marmora.

In the final canto play continued to be rough in spots till Shannon and Akey finally came to blows, but were soon despatched to the penalty box. Madoc came back in the limelight again when Alexander whipped the rubber to bend the nets behind Callery with the assist going to Akey.

KEY TO FUTURE FOUND ON FARM

Scientist Views Farmer Primary Producer Holding Solution

VANCOUVER, Feb. 13—(CP)—Motor fuel will provide the solution to Canada's problem of surplus agricultural products, Dr. J. Allan Harris, research chemist at the University of British Columbia believes.

Motor fuel made from grain, potatoes, pears, cherries and strawberries he placed in the key position. Next he predicted building materials, rayon and lacquer made from hay and straw. Artichokes and dahlias would produce sugar.

A blend of only 10 per cent. would account for 50,000,000 gallons of alcohol and remove 28,500,000 bushels of grain each year from the annual surplus, the professor said In addition to the above mentioned, alcohol can be distilled from any surplus agricultural product.

With a reference to dwindling exports the young scientist observed that "even if everybody stuffed themselves the collective stomachs of the world are not large enough to absorb all the farm products of today."

Scientists look upon the farmer as a primary producer, not only in the first commodity of life, food, but in the first phase of industry, raw materials, he said. With decreasing natural resources they expect agriculture to produce the bases of practically everything.

INDIANS OBSERVED STRICT MORAL CODE

Adultery Punished By Death In Early Days On The Plains

CALGARY, Feb. 13—(CP)—Adultery was a crime severely dealt with by the Blackfeet Indians of the western plains who enforced a strict code of commandments long before the coming of the missionaries.

The tribe had five major commandments, Canon S. H. Middleton of Cardston related in an address here. They provided punishment for murder, which was death; theft, adultery, cowardice and treachery.

Adultery, for the first offence, was punished by the loss of an ear or a nose. For the second offence the guilty brave faced loss of both ears and death, if ruled.

Treachery was punished by death; cowardice by dressing the offender in women's clothing. He was then forced to do menial tasks around the camp.

The Blackfeet had secret societies, the highest of which was known as the Horn society. Included in the group of 12 such societies was a police society appointed to guard the camp and keep order in tepees during sun dances. These codes were evolved centuries before the coming of the white man, Canon Middleton said.

USE TWO CROWNS FOR CEREMONIES

Crown Actually Used Resembles One Worn By Edward The Confessor

LONDON, Feb. 13.—(CP)—The crown actually used in the coming Coronation is the Imperial or St. Edward's Crown, which is supposed to resemble the one worn by Edward the Confessor, and, before him, by Alfred the Great. It is of gold and was made for the coronation of Charles II.

A much more splendid crown is the one the King assumes at the end of the coronation ceremony and wears during his return from the Abbey to Buckingham Palace. This is his Crown of State. It is ablaze with jewels, the most notable of which are a ruby that was worn by Henry V at the Battle of Agincourt and the "Star of Africa" cut from the Cullinan diamond.

The Day That I Forget

By MARIE BLIZARD

READ THIS FIRST:

Janet Paynter, newly married to a second-rate actor, Joel Paynter, whose show has just closed, obtains a card from an old friend, Harry Devanter, a film scout, requesting a screen test for "the bearer". Because of his pride, Joel first refuses to permit Janet to continue working and then conceals the fact he has been playing the role of gigolo at a cocktail bar because he can find nothing else. Joel is elated when Janet tells him of his chance for a screen test. He does not know that the card was intended for her—not for him. Janet proves to be Joel's inspiration during the screen test. Anxiously they await word from the studio.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 10

THE WORD that Joel and Janet Paynter awaited so anxiously came by telegram and told them nothing except that Joel was summoned to the New York offices of the Federal Picture Corporation immediately.

And there Joel was given the contract that, for six months at least, was to assure them security, to lift the cloud of worry from Joel's brow and to sky-rocket him to heights of jubilance. It was to do other things that neither of them could have foreseen.

Let them be happy, then, in the contemplation of their adventure, exultant as children facing a bright new world. They had wealth beyond the dreams of avarice. They had three hundred dollars a week—a sum that was later to be pin money but today it was a fortune—every week for the next six months starting from the day that Joel signed his contract. The day was October 1st and Janet was never to forget it.

They had four days in which to dispose of their pitifully few possessions in New York. And they had a drawing room on the extra-fare California-bound Super-Chief.

They were like two children during those last, mad, exciting days.

"We're not coming back until we are famous," Joel said to her while they lunched at the Ritz, "so we've got to cram everything we can into these last days. We will never see New York through such enchanted eyes again."

Those were prophetic words. When next they returned, the gloss was off the gold, dimmed by time and circumstances, and money, the power that makes dreams come true, was an accustomed thing to them. But now it was something that gave you everything you wanted. It didn't hurt you to glance at a dinner check that would have bought a week's meals in those difficult days so short a time before. You could go where you pleased. When it rained, you took a taxi. When you were so tired your back ached, you no longer had to hang onto a subway strap. You rode in a cab.

You shopped. You bought a smart little beige twill suit, beautifully tailored to the slight, svelte lines of your figure. You bought hand-knit sweaters and lingerie blouses as dainty as a baby's dress. You bought an aquamarine blue shirtwaist frock of real silk and an evening gown with a jacket banded in dark fur which cost more than your Scotch heart thought best because Joel said you looked lovely in it. You bought beautiful shoes and gay little hats and you discovered for the first time that you had great chic. New clothes gave you distinction.

Or you bought a rough tweed suit and a new dinner jacket and a polo coat and a top hat. Oh, you had as much fun as children in a toyshop. And you salved your conscience by saying: you have to have things like this because they are the props in your profession.

You gave a party, too. You wanted to show off your success. So you borrowed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor where first you—if you were Janet or Joel—had met. You invited all the people you had ever known. There were the boys and girls from the theater, the boys and girls who had made up Janet's world before Joel had erased it and made a new on for you. You invited the Reverend Fisher, who had married you in his home in Chester where you had grown up in a little house like his across the road, and Mrs. Fisher who seemed suddenly to feel a stranger to you just because you were married to "a famous star" as she had already dubbed Joel.

And you invited Martha Colby who had wheeled you in a baby carriage when she was herself but a little girl. Martha, who was the person you loved best next to Joel. Martha whose big eyes followed you about the room with the loving tenderness Janet would have found in her mother's eyes had she remembered them.

"Of course, I'm tickled to death," Martha said when Janet had told her about Joel's contract. "But you cant expect me to be glad you're going so far away with a stranger."

Janet had laughed at her then, laughed gently. "A stranger, darling? Joel a stranger to me?"

"That's what I said, Janet McLeod. He may be your husband but every man is a stranger to the woman who loves him until the honeymoon has worn off and the good quiet years come to you. Love will blind you and so will the legalities of marriage ties, but new love is not understanding love and, until you have that, you are strangers."

"Tell me more of that, Martha," Janet said somberly.

"You'll know what I mean some day when you know everything about Joel Paynter without his telling you, when you've both earned the trust you'll have in each other. Today, you both reach out one toward the other, anxious to please, motivated not by under standing, but by love. Oh my, how this old maid does go on!" She stopped.

"I like the way you go on," Janet responded simply.

"Some folk think a honeymoon ought to last a lifetime and some folk are wrong, I think. Would you want yours to go on for a lifetime?"

Janet shook her head. "No, Martha, I wouldn't. I always want to feel that Joel is the center of my world but I don't want always to feel that I must play up. I'd like to know, without waiting for a sign, that Joel is interested in me."

"That's it! It's knowin. It may be because I am older than you, child, but know in my heart that the years ahead are as good as this when two people survive the difficult years. Some day you'll find that it's just as exciting to talk over the things you are going to put into your garden and whether Johnnie is to go to Yale or Princeton as it is to stand at the gates of the future hand in hand and talk about a career. Some people are meant for marriage and they reach that time earlier than..."

"Joel told me that he hated the idea of marriage," Janet said in a small voice.

"What man doesn't?" Martha retorted. "And why shouldn't they when they're young? Men were born with a sense of aloneness and a handy ability never to think of the later years. When they are young, they never think of the lonely years, they think of the expense of the young ones when they have two to support."

"Joel doesn't mind that He is more than generous. He shares everything with me. And he has nothing to fear. I am never going to be an expensive wife. I'll save his money for him, I ask little."

"And right there you are wrong!" Martha pronounced.

"Janet, you'll be rated at your own value, even by your husband. If you are going to be a personality to him, make him measure up to you. Don't ever follow him. Oh, child, you will hurt yourself if you ever make him feel that he is carrying you. Use your head and help him, but strike that perfect balance where he doesn't knew it and yet feels that he himself has discovered that you are someone to live up to. Use your power to its fullest extent but keep it to yourself."

"When I'm far away, I'll remember everything you say," Janet promised.

"You'll not only do that," Martha retorted briskly for all that there was a tear in her steady eyes. "You'll write me often and you'll always remember that whatever trouble may come your way—and I hope there will be none—but if there should be, I have a tidy sum in the bank and I have a broad shoulder. Both are always there for you. Don't ever be frightened by people or circumstances, Janet, because nothing can hurt you. But don't run for help unless you need it. In that deep well of womanliness in you, there are answers that are right for every situation. Seek them there."

Later, Janet was to ponder on the wisdom of Martha Colby's words and to feel that they had given her a rock on which to build the castle of her life.

5 FASCIST PLANES DOWNED IN SCRAP

Insurgent Counter-Attack Recaptures Madrid Park Section

MADRID, Feb. 13 (A.P.). — Five Fascist planes, engaged in sky battles with Socialist pilots, were shot down to-day on the outskirts of Madrid.

Government defence officials said "some" of the insurgent fliers baled out of their planes, landing in fighting zones below with parachutes.

An insurgent counter-attack forced militiamen back from their advanced positions in the north-west district of Madrid, reached during the past few days of almost incessant fighting.

Simultaneously, strong Fascist forces opened attacks on the Usera district and on Vacimadrid, south of the capital, in a renewed drive to gain control of the highway to Valencia.

Both southern attacks were unsuccessful, officials said.

The War Office reported government artillery, supporting Socialist troops on the vital communications line, prevented the insurgents from advancing.

(Facist commanders declared their cavalry crossed the Jarama River last night. Overwhelmed the defenders and reached a point where side roads east of Madrid join the Valencia highway.)

The insurgent troops approached Arganda, 12 miles south-east of Madrid, they said, after a devastating attack which drove the Socialists from their trenches.

Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S VALENTINE

All of a sudden Uncle Wiggily thought of something.

The rabbit gentleman was sliding down hill on a toboggan with, as he thought, his fat gentleman pig friend, Mr. Twistytail, behind him. But we know it wasn't the pig who was on the toboggan with the rabbit. It was the Wolf.

"Twisty," said Mr. Longears when he had his sudden thought, "do you know what tomorrow is?"

"Oh, bless my tail!" whispered the Wolf. "If this rabbit starts asking me questions I'll have to answer Then he'll find out, before we get to the bottom of the hill, I'm not Twisty and he may escape."

So the Wolf didn't say a ward. On went the toboggan faster and faster. Uncle Wiggily asked again:

"Do you know what tomorrow is, Twisty?"

"Um-ah-gurr-gurp-woppup," mumbled the Wolf trying to grunt as he knew the pig would in talking.

Two Roads

"No, it isn't any such thing!" laughed Mr. Longears, not turning around so that he could see it was the Wolf and not the pig behind

The fast toboggan ran into a tree.

him. "Tomorrow is Valentine Day, Twisty, and I just thought I haven't bought one for my wife. I must. Now near the bottom of this hill are two roads. One, the left paw side, goes past a Valentine store. Steer to the left and I'll buy a Valentine for my wife and you can buy one for Mrs. Twistytail."

"Ugh! Ugt!" gurgled the Wolf who was pretending to be the pig.

"Twisty, how very strange your voice sounds," said Mr. Longears. "But I suppose the toboggan makes it that way. Now here we come to the two roads. Steer to the left, Twisty."

Now the Wolf was a stupid creature. He always played truant when he was sent to school as a boy Wolf, and so he never learned his left paw from his right. Soon he reached the bottom of the hill, on the toboggan which he was steering and pretending to be the pig. But instead of steering to the left to go to the Valentine store, the Wolf steered to the right.

"You're wrong, Twisty! You're wrong!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "What is the matter with you? Don't you know your left foot from the right?"

Uncle Wiggily was so surprised and disappointed at not tobogganing to the Valentine store he turned around and looked over his shoulder. Then instead of the jolly face of his fat pig friend he saw the ugly face of the Wolf glaring at him.

"Oh! Oh! Oh!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "This is terrible! Where is poor Twisty? You must have eaten him! But you aren't going to eat me!"

Bump for Bad Chap

With that Uncle Wiggily suddenly flung himself off the toboggan to one side, rolling in the soft snow and not getting hurt at all. And before the Wolf could roll off the fast toboggan ran into a tree, because the Wolf steered it wrong, and it was smashed and the Wolf was so bumped he couldn't tell Valentine Day from Christmas.

As soon as Uncle Wiggily could stand he started running to the top of the hill. Mr. Twistytail had been left there with the Fox holding him. But when the Fox saw what happened to the Wolf the Fox let the pig gentleman go and ran off in the snow.

"Well, that was an adventure!" laughed Mr. Longears.

"It's the end of our toboggan, anyhow," said the pig.

"Never mind," spoke Mr. Longears. "We'll go get some Valentines. That will be fun." So the rabbit and the pig did, buying pretty ones for their wives and funny ones for each other which they sent secretly next day and had many a good laugh.

So if your bed doesn't turn upside down like a mud turtle and wave its legs at the ceiling, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's snow storm.

MILLBROOK

VETERAN DIRECTOR RECEIVES PIPES FROM FAIR BOARD

Fifty-Year Service Of W. T. Donaldson Recognized By Presentation

HOLD SURPRISE PARTY

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Feb. 13.—Self-invited guests made up of directors of the local Agricultural Society invaded the spacious farm home of W. T. Donaldson Wednesday evening to do honor to one whose services and gracious co-operation in the organization is deeply appreciated.

The event, planned as a token of esteem to the host, was arranged to take place last fall fair day, but for the first time in fifty years the guest of honor was absent from the occasion, having been called to Strathroy owing to the death of a brother.

Reeve Percy Stinson, newly-elected president of the Society and chairman of the evening, extended greetings to Mr. Donaldson in which was expressed the deep appreciation of the Society for his long years of service and leadership as well as gratitude for support given all municipal and agricultural activities.

50 Years a Member

Mr. Donaldson who has been a loyal member during the past fifty years and a director as well can recall when "the fair" was held in "Hutchinson Field," a portion of which is now the site of the beautifully kept lawns of P. Stinson and R. A. Wainman, Centre street. This smart old gentleman, who is in his eighty-fifth year, is remarkably bright and keen and remains well posted in civic affairs. He talks enthusiastically of his favorite radio programs, concerts, etc., and in company with G. A. Fair, another of the elder directors, was successful in outscoring opponents in two of the younger directors, whose names are withheld, when games of euchre constituted a part of the evening's program.

The spacious and fine old homestead, with its electric conveniences and other modern equipment, was characteristic of vivid contrast in keeping with some of the pioneer experiences Mr. Donaldson sometimes relates.

J. M. McGill, secretary-treasurer, and occupant of this position for more than twenty years, also addressed the gathering and spoke of the long acquaintance and pleasant associations he had held with the pioneer director, dealing him an especial tribute in regard to his never-failing dependability.

Among the other speakers were G. A. Fair, honored by the fact that he was acclaimed the oldest ex-president present, and ex-President H. Tate, L. Smith, G. L. McCamus.

Presentation Made

During the evening Mr. Donaldson was made the proud recipient of a handsome case of pipes for which he expressed sincere appreciation. Later the host spoke feelingly of the many pioneer directors who have passed away. He also reviewed the early history of the Society which narrative was of especial interest to many, and to prove his continued interest he related suggestions and ideas which he had formed in his mind as steps toward the betterment of the Society. He considers the problem of attendance rests with the people of the community and outlined suggestions for the improvement of the financial department, urging that donations of prizes be used in place of prize money and avoid listing them as extras.

In closing the speaker suggested that the organization of officers and directors accompanied by their wives might make the visit to his home an annual occasion. Unanimous approval greeted the invitation and a hearty vote of thanks for the kind hospitality was accorded the host and hostess, Miss Donaldson on the motion of Norman Earle and T. W. McCamus. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess.

WOULD END TALK EDWARD'S SUPPORT

Daily Mail Brands Debate 'Disgusting'—Let Government Make Own Decision

LONDON, Feb. 13 (CP-Havas)—Lord Rothermere's Daily Mail today called for an immediate halt in the public controversy over the Duke of Windsor's support.

The Daily Mail termed the debate "disgusting" and urged it be forgotten as soon as possible.

"The Socialists are manufacturing a controversy out of the civil list before the list has even been considered," the newspaper said editorially. "They are gracefully arguing what provision the state should make for a man who until recently was head of the state and who all his life has served it heart and soul. The discussion is disgusting and should cease.

"The last desire of the nation, as certain ecclesiastics were persuaded a short while ago, is that the unhappy events of last December should remain current talk. The Government, everybody trusts, can be replied on—if only for the prestige of a great nation—to conclude the affair becomingly and with as little discussion as possible."

John S. Clarke, member of the British Parliament, who was once a lion tamer, has written a book of reminiscences, entitled "Circus Parade."

Mrs. Johnston's home was very attractive in a color scheme of red, in honor of St. Valentine. All the members were present and found great delight in the exchange of valentines and also enjoyed social chat as they were busily engaged in quilting a quilt which they hope to sell.

Following the quilting, dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. A. Ford and Mrs. H. Johnston. The March meeting will be in the form of a birthday party.

Gordon Sharpe Painfully Injured At White Lake—John Brethour Cuts Fingers

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARSAW, Feb. 13.—While Gordon Sharpe and his brother Don were skidding logs near White Lake on Wednesday, the logging chain broke and a log rolled on the ice and struck Gordon knocking him down and breaking his right fibula just above the ankle. The injured man, dragging his broken leg, had to crawl some distance to the sleigh and then drive over a rough road to his car. Dr. Munro set the fracture and Sharpe is at present at his father's home.

Cuts Fingers Badly

On the same day as John Brethour was carrying two circular saws weighing altogether about fifty pounds he slipped on the ice and both saws cut into three fingers on his left hand, inflicting painful injuries which were dressed by Dr. Munro.

Another recent accident victim is Stuart Clysdale who, while cutting wood, had the misfortune to split his big toe with the axe. He is reported as doing nicely.

Rev. J. L. Wilkinson took the chair and read "I want to go to Morrow". This was followed by community singing, including songs and rounds led by Mr. Wilkinson and Mrs. George Taylor. Mrs. John Brethour gave selections on her guitar and mouth-organ, at the end discarding the mouth-organ and singing. Harold Darling recited "Down on the Old Farm," and as an encore, "Teaching the Missus to Drive." Mrs. Brethour gave another selection.

The main part of the program was a playlet entitled "Suspended Animation," with the following cast: "Dr. Blake," Irwin Hawthorne; "Mrs. Blake," Mrs. Charlotte Cooper; "Jack Marshall, a friend of Dr. Blake's," Creswell Tighe; "George N. Sharpe," Allan Moore; "Miss Susan Irene Viola Winter," Miss May Payne; "Detective Kern," Percy Cooper; "Mrs. Sharp," Mrs. J. Morgan.

Here's Simple Way to Curb a Cold

Two Quick-Acting, Quick-Dissolving "ASPIRIN" Tablets with a Glass of Water

The modern way to curb a cold is this: Two "Aspirin" tablets the moment you feel a cold coming on. Then repeat, if necessary, according to instructions in the box.

At the same time, if you have a sore throat, crush and dissolve three "Aspirin" tablets in one-third glass of water. And gargle with this mixture twice.

The "Aspirin" you take internally will act to combat fever, cold pains and the cold itself. The gargle will act as a medicinal gargle to provide almost instant relief from rawness and pain. It is really marvelous; for it acts like a local anesthetic on the irritated membrane of your throat.

Try this way. Your doctor, we know, will endorse it. For it is quick, effective and ends the taking of strong medicines for a cold.

● "Aspirin" tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trade-mark of the Bayer Company, Limited, of Windsor, Ontario. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every tablet.
